NATURAL GAS DISCOVERED.

Coal Drillers Find This Most Encouraging Indication of Coal.

Mr. Denny O'Brien, the energetic manager of the Port Angeles Coal & Coke Company's drill now operating west of town was in the city Wednesday on business and to a representative of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER stated that the indications for finding coal were constantly improving as the drill goes down. Tuesday natural gas was discovered in quantities sufficient to light. In fact it was while working around the shaft and by striking a match that the gas was discovered. It ignited immediately and Mr. O'Brien was burned about the face and hands.

Mr. O'Brien says the presence of natural gas in the shaft is next to proof positive of the existence there of coal, and there is increased confidence of the ultimate success of their enterprise.

The Perfect Liver Medicine.

Mrs. M. A. Jolly, Noble, O T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgement in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at C. E. Nailor & Co.'s.

R. D. Willson Hardware Co's. horse ran away with their new delivery wagon Tuesday and came tearing down Front street hill. In endeavoring to head him off Collector Aldwell shooed the horse onto the walk and there was a grand skirmish to get out of the way. Harvey's new peanut roaster was hit and the small boys feasted for some time afterward. Mr. Muskett saw visions of a quick sail of clothing on exhibition and steered the animal to the street again. It then turned down Morse's wharf and plunged into Thompson's barn carrying away two uprights supporting the veranda. The horse and wagon were uninjured though they had narrow escapes

TERRORS OF A CANYON.

Terrible Experience Among Cliffs and Boulders at Night.

Mayor F. S. Lewis and a school friend Mr. M. V. Kellogg, now a prominent contractor of Seattle, had an experience Monday night that they will not soon forget.

Mr. Kellogg came down for an outing with his honor and the first day out he was thrown out of the buggy and one of the shafts were broken. Then they planned a fishing expedition down Morse creek and the result almost proved a tragedy.

They drove up to Holland's place about four miles up the creek and sent their buggy back to Harlow's some three miles below, intending to fish down to that point and drive home. It was afternoon but things went well until they found it was getting late and hurried on. They soon reached the falls, a drop of some 30 feet and found they would have to climb the bluff to get past The ascent was made alright but in coming back to the creek they got in unknown paths that led them onto a ledge that it was impossible to get down from and after sliding down precipitous cliffs by means of trees they were compelled to retrace their steps, much easier planned than done. It was now dusk and the outlook was not promising. By boosting and poking and pulling each other by means of a long pole they managed to ascend the face of the canyon about one third of the distance in the course of a couple of hours of terrific exertion only to find themselves again entrapped further progress being blocked by a cliff face seemingly insurmountable. Mr. Kellogg wedged himself between the cliff and a small tree and sank exhausted. Here he remained until rescued many hours later.

After a rest Mayor Lewis determined to make another effort to get out of the perilous position and summons help. At the risk of losing his grip and falling to his death he scaled the cliff and in some manner reached the top. After lighting a fire to mark the location, using his last match, he started through the underbrush in the dense darkness for the Harlow ranch which proved still two miles distant. Bruised, scratced and bleeding from the terrible trip he was finally compelled to lie down from sheer exhaustion and be slept the short remaining space to daylight

It was not long then until Mr. Harlow and young Church with ropes were en route to rescue Mr. Kellogg, and that gentleman was later brought in uninjured though very weary, and never was a breakfast more thoroughly enjoyed

S. J. Lutz & Co's. removal sale is the talk of the town. People are getting values that they little dreamed of and are therefore greatly pleased and tell their neighbors.

MANDAMUS PROCEEDINGS.

Action Commenced to Compell City to Repair and Re-open Extension

The Mayor and members of the City Council were this week served with papers in an action brought by ex-City Attorney James Stewart to compell them to order the repair of Front street extension and open same to public traffic forthwith. The city dads are cited to appear at the October term of the Superior court in the event of failure to carry out the order.

Some months ago Mr. Stewart made the customary formal demand of council in this matter threatening to bring suit if his request was ignored.

At the last session of the council the case was turned over to City Attorney Murphy for report.

CITY PROPERTY VALUATIONS.

Real and Personal Property Assessed at $558,960 Over Exemptions

The valuations of real and person property in the city over and above exemptions of $300 allowed heads of families aggregate $558,960.00, as follows:

Dist. No. 1—	Real property.....	$257,600
	Personal property..	58,740
Dist. No. 2—	Real property.....	240,960
	Personal property..	1,660
Total city.....		$558,960

It will be noted by the above figures that the exemptions cut the assessable personal property in the residence district—No. 2—to a mere nothing. The business district piles up a personal property assessment of nearly $60,000.

County Realizes Good Returns

Saturday's Sale of Tax Property Finds Ready Bidders at Half Value

The county sale of tax property which took place Saturday was attended by a goodly number of citizens looking for snaps. Some got good values but most of the bidders were compelled to pay about one-half the present cash value of the property purchased. One lot on the flat west of Oak street was sold to Mr. Tillman for $362 a figure pretty close to its full value.

There was a scarcity of original owners present and bidders were not embarrassed by them. Everybody seemingly had their minds fixed on the price they would pay and the sale was quickly over.

About 120 pieces of property were disposed of in the space of 2½ hours. $3,146.00 was taken in.

NEW ELECTRIC MACHINERY

Council Orders New System Except Boiler and Engine

Mayor Lewis and all councilmen were present at council meeting Wednesday. The session proved an important one in that the water works and light plant improvements were reported back to council and early action may now be expected.

The street committee reported recommending that ditch on second street be extended over Lincoln street at a cost not to exceed $50. It was so ordered.

A report was read from the electric light committee recommending that the the bid of Kilbourne-Clark Co., be accepted and that city enter into a contract with said company to furnish one 60-kilowatt dynamo, with exciter and switch-board, and wire and insulators sufficient to rewire and extend system. The report was adopted by unanimous vote, and mayor and clerk were directed to order new material.

The Civic Club asked that city furnish teams and wagons on Thursday for work on Vine street in connection with school work. The club was granted one team and two wagons.

The auditor submitted the assessed valuation of city property as required by law, showing a valuation of $558,960.

The city attorney reported that county had allowed claim of C. C. Lollick for care of C. J. Reynolds for June and July, thus finally disposing of the vexed poor question.

The special water-works committee reported as follows: We have investigated the practicability of the construction of a water works system by the city and while we find that such a system could be constructed without great cost, there is not sufficient public interest to make such a plan feasible.

We would therefore recommend that this portion of the matter be abandoned and that this committee be given another week in which to formulate conditions under which a franchise could be granted to private individuals.

Report was accepted and committee was given one week to report further.

John and Henry Machenheimer submitted a bid to repair boiler and power house for $150. Council not having asked for bids no action was taken.

LABOR DAY OBSERVED.

Local Workmen and Woodmen Hold Monster Picnics.

Labor Day was generously observed here Monday. The day being a legal holiday all public institutions and a large per cent. of the business houses were closed and the birds thus released together with a large number of out-door workmen proceeded to make the most of a day off.

Early in the morning a large number of teams gathered at the halls of the local Workmen and Woodmen to convey the members of these organizations and their friends to their respective picnic grounds where big times in out-of-door sports and sumptuous dinners were to be enjoyed by all, the former at the excellent grounds at the Church farm at the head of the bay and the latter at the enclosed grounds of the ball park. Many of the teams were compelled to make two trips to transport the crowds and Mr. Roy McClinton's handsome and commodious yacht Esmeraldo and a large yawl from the Jabez Howes took good loads to and from the former grounds.

A large number of Woodmen and their families from Dungeness were here upon invitation of the locals and to make the day to them one to be remembered was the main object of the home members and they succeeded. The good things on hand space will not allow mention of and the quantity was more than abundant. Then there was an excellent ball game, races and many other interesting recreative sports.

The Workmen and the ladies of the Degree of Honor, too, did themselves proud in the entertainment of their guests. In additions to 'barrels" of dainties there was substantial eatables in quantities all of which were hugely relished by those privileged to attend. The sports were numerous and there was fun for all and to spare.

RADICAL CHANGES.

Plan for Abolishment of Naval Equipment Bureau.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The abolishment of the bureau of equipment of the navy department, and consolidation of its work under the bureaus of navigation and construction and repair, is the radical change proposed in a plan which has been submitted to Secretary Moody for approval and which it is believed will meet the ideas of the secretary.

According to the plan, the electrical work now in charge of the bureau of equipment, including wireless telegraphy, will be transferred to the bureau of construction and repair, which in reality has under its control a large part of the electrical work on ships under the present arrangement.

To the bureau of navigation will be transferred all matters relating to the purchase and storing of coal and the location of coaling stations. The other duties ow the chief of the bureau of equipment will be divided between these two bureaus.

The hydrographic office and the naval observatory, now under the bureau of equipment, it is proposed, shall be placed under the direction of the navy department, and not under any bureau; also that they shall be in charge of expert civilians, thus taking all the hydrographic officers over the country out of the hands of the naval officers and turning their administration over to civil experts.

BALKAN DANGER

CORRESPONDENTS SAY IT MAY SHOCK EUROPE.

Deeds Threatened Which It Is Said Will Surpass Any in the Blood-Stained East--May Develop Into a War of Extermination, They Say.

London, Sept. 8.—Special dispatches from the near East published here this morning add little fresh news regarding the situation in the Balkans. All the correspondents at Constantinople emphasize the apparent danger of war with Bulgania, while the Sofia correspondents are equally insistent as to the prudent and correct diea of Prince Ferdinand and his government.

Accounts from both Turkish and insurgent forces of the operations in Macedonia show that the work of extermination is proceeding unchecked, and although apparently emphasizing the danger of a conflagration the powers are making some effort to interfere. It is believed that nothing of a serious nature will be done until after the meeting of the czar and Emperor Francis Joseph, at Vienna, when it may be too late.

The insurgents are now said to number 2,500 well-armed and efficiently commanded men. Their leaders will stop at nothing to secure resources for their equipment.

May Startle Europe.

The Sofia correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

"I am in close touch with the insurgents, and am enabled to affirm emphatically that unless acceptable proposals shall be made within two or three weeks Europe will be startled by a record of deeds unequaled in the blood-stained history of the East."

The Morning Leader's correspondent at Sofia says the Turkish policy is to draw the insurgents into action at all points. The bands, however, are avoiding conflicts until their preparations shall be completed. They are gathering in masses at various strategic points with a view to a comprehensive movement inside of ten days.

An unconfirmed report from Vienna states that the Bulgarian exarch has been shut up in his place because of his refusal to issue a further pastoral letter asking the Bulgarians to lay down their arms.

Think War Imminent.

A dispatch to the Times, from Monastir, dated September 5, says:

"In Turkish circles the war with Bulgaria is considered to be imminent. Hilmi Pasha, inspector general of Macedonia, says he sees no other solution. The final reserves are being warned to hold themselves in readiness, and orders have been issued to the principal towns to supply horses and money and to otherwise aid the military preparations.

"In the feverish attempt to stamp out the insurrection in this quarter, so as to release the troops for operations elsewhere, there is, unfortunately, every reason to suspect that an attempt is being made to produce the indiscriminate slaughter of the Bulgarian element, in which Christians of all denominations are in danger of being treated alike. Should this prove true there can be no hope of saving the greater part of the Christian population in the remote districts of Western Macedonia.

Not a Friend in Europe.

A dispatch to the Times from Varna, Bulgaria, dated September 7, says:

"The ministers are returning to Sofia tonight. No aggressive action will be taken on this side. It is perfectly understood that Bulgaria has not a single friends in Europe and a policy of adventure could only result in ruining the country. Prince Ferdinand's decision can hardly provoke adverse comment, even in Germany, where there is an obvious eagerness to precipitate a Turko-Bulgarian war.

"The prospect that some benefit might accure to Bulgaria by the Balkan question, leading to a conflict between the great powers, has not entered into the calculations of the Bulgarian government. No vain hopes of territorial aggrandizement are entertained; it is only asked that the powers insure a tolerable government for Macedonia."

Teamsters' Strike Off.

Seattue, Sept. 8.—The teamsters' strike was declared off by a majority of the strike committee yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All men will go back at the wages demanded by the union and employment will be limited to the hours which have been named as satisfactory. The Draymen's Association has granted all demands of the teamsters except the one point on which it has held firm throughout—recognition of the union.

RUSSIA'S PLANS.

Conditions Under Which She Will Evacuate Manchuria.

London, Sept. 9.—The Peking correspondent of the Times telegraphs that M. Lessar, the Russian minister, in his note to the Wai-Wu-Pu, engaging that Newchwang and Moukden provinces should be evacuated by the Russians on October 8, undertook that China shall be permitted to resume administrative rights in three provinces of Manchuria, provided that on her part China undertakes that no portion of the territory shall be conferred to any other power; that no concession shall be granted to Great Britain unless granted equally to Russia (that is obscure and requires confirmation); that there shall be no increase in the present tariff on goods entering Manchuria by the railway. In the event of epidemic at Newchwang, a Russian health officer shall be appointed to deal with it; Russia shall retain her own military telegraph along the railway, and the agencies of the Russo-Chinese bank at Manchuria shall be guarded by Chinese soldiers. If the above conditions are agreed to, Newchwang and Moukden shall be evacuated October 8 and the remaining provinces in due course.

The correspondent, commenting on the foregoings, says:

"It will thus be seen that, in deference to the objections of the other powers, the more objectionable features of the demands made by M. Planchon (who was recently Russian charge d'affairs in Peking) have been omitted, and while Russia surrenders no material advantages, she has gained time, and can rest content that China will never act in any way counter to M. Planchon's demands. She also saves the face of China, who will accept the altered conditions with alacrity. Russia further hopes thereby to pacify Japan's resentment by apparently acceding to her wishes while retaining absolute military control of the country, and hoping now to be able to push to completion, undisturbed, her military preparations."

HEMATITE ORE.

Rich Vein Located on Vancouver Island.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 9.—(Special.)—A rich discovery of hematite has been made on the west coast of Vancouver island. For over a year rumors that a body of bog iron existed there have been circulated. Two prospectors, T. J. Hick and C. W. Frank, had knowledge of it, but kept the exact location a strict secret up to the present.

In the meantime local capitalists were interested under the name of the Iron Mountain syndicate and twenty claims of about 1,000 acres were located. Seven or these were retained by Hick and Frank, while the remainder are in the hands of the syndicate. The deposit, which is the only one so far located of commercial value in British Columbia, is on the west arm of Quatsino sound, a tract which has been but little explored.

The prospectors have now brought samples to the city and have announced the character of the find. A government assay gives 53.8 per cent. metal. A vein eleven feet thick has been uncovered for a considerable distance and 1,000 feet distant it has proved to be eight feet thick. But little earth covers it, and it is only half a mile from salt water. In the low ground adjoining bog iron has been located in considerable quantities.

Already offers have been made to the locators for the property. Among those wishing it are mentioned the Seattle Steel Company, with Homer Swaney at its head, which controls other magnetite mines also on the west coast of the island. There is talk of organizing a company to work the mines in the province, and of putting up a smelter to utilize the product in connection with the rich magnetite deposits of Vancouver island.

Arraigns City Officials.

Denver, Sept. 7.—The special grand jury made its final report to the court this afternoon. In addition to indicting Thomas J. Maloney on the charge of bribery in connection with a contract for transcribing county records, the grand jury indicted City and County Clerk Julius Aichele on the charge of receiving a bribe. Eighteen members of the Smeltermen's Union were indicted on a charge of riot in connection with inauguration of the strike at the Globe and Grain smelters, but only two of them have been found.

New Department at Pullman.

Pullman, Sept. 7.—The Washington Agricultural college has a professor of mining, the first in the history of the school. Royal P. Jarvis, a graduate of the Colorado School of Mining, has been appointed to fill the position, and has accepted the appointment. He will come to Pullman in time to begin work with the opening of the semester, September 24. At present Mr. Jarvis is at Silver City, N. M., where he is superintendent of the Shamrock Gold & Silver Mining Company's smelter.

CHANGE OF POLICY

CONSULAR AGENTS TO BE PROMOTED.

Hereafter Important Places Will Be Filled by Men Who Have Had Training in Subordinate Positions in the Consular Service.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 5.—An important change of policy with respect to the making of appointments in the consular service has been decided upon by President Roosevelt. He discussed the change today with Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis.

For many years it has been practically the uniform practice of the presidents to appoint men to positions in the consular service substantially without reference to whatever previous experience they may have had. Quite naturally, the president endeavored always to select for appointment men of integrity and ability, but experience was not a determining factor in the equation.

President Roosevelt, after consultation with Secretary Hay, Assistant Secretary Loomis and members of his cabinet immediately identified with the state department, has determined to appoint hereafter to important places in the consular service men who had experience and training in minor positions which will render them the more capable of filling places of higher grade and greater importance.

..The change in policy does not extend, necessarily, to a consul's tenure of office at any particular place, but is pointed out that it does give reasonable assurance to the manufacturing and commercial interests of the United States, which particularly are interested in the extension of the country's trade, that in a comparatively britf time all important consular situations will be filled with men, not only of character and ability, but with men who, by training and experience, are especially qualified to advance the trade interests of the United States.

George B. Cortelyou, secretary of the department of labor, was the first caller on the president today. The secretary came to Oyster Bay to talk with the president about an official matter that had been pending for some time.

BIG GOLD NUGGET FOUND.

Chunk of Quartz Carries $500 in Yellow Metal.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 8.—Remarkable finds of gold are being made in the new Poplar creek district of the Lardeau country. On Saturday a find was made which struck the oldest mining man of the section dumb with amazement. The find was in the shape ofa piece of quartz as large as a man's head, with a piece of pure gold larger than a man's fist hanging to the rock by means of stringers of gold that ran through and around the ore.

The value of this single negget is estimated at nearly $500. John Harris, owner of the Reco mine, at Sandon, says there is that much value in actual gold in the nugget. So beautiful is its shape, however, that the owners have refused $1,000 for it. It was found on the same claim as the original deposit which caused the excitement in aKslo a couple of weeks ago, but was in a parallel lead, 200 feet away.

ANOTHER SCANDAL.

Federal Officers Interested in Indian Business Concerns.

South McAllister, I. T., Sept. 5.—Something of a sensation was created here today by the publication of a list of office-holders interested in the registered companies doing business with the Indians. Following is a list: Eufaula Trust Co., C. R. Breckenridge, T. B. Needles, members of the Dawes commission, Pleasant Porter, chief of the Creek nation, Canadian Valley Trust Company, Tames Bixby, chairman of the Dawes commission; Tishomingo Loan and Trust Company, W. C. Preparing Circular to Powers.

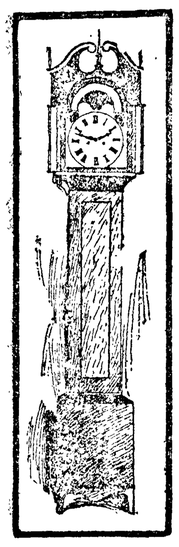
London, Sept. 9.—A dispatch to the News Agency from Constantinople says the Turkish government is preparing a circular to the powers calling attention to the attitude of Bulgaria, and declaring the intention of the government to pursue armed Bulgarian bands in Macedonia and even into Bulga ian territory.

Romance of a Kentucky Clock.

A DOZEN miles, perhaps, east of Bardstown, Ky., in a sequestered neighborhood, reside Nathan Colerain, a childless widower of advanced age, and his maiden sister, who is now past middle life. The Colerain residence is an old-fashioned, unpretentious farmhouse situated in the midst of a verdant lawn, shadowed by heavy foliaged forest trees. Miss Patsy Colerain, or "Aunt Patsy," as she is familiarly known to her neighbors and friends, is a lady of great refinement, bearing traces of a remarkable youthful beauty. She is a very quiet and unobtrusive, and has not gone beyond the precincts of her own yard for nearly forty years. There is tragic history connected with her estrangement from the world that would afford rich material for a thrilling romance.

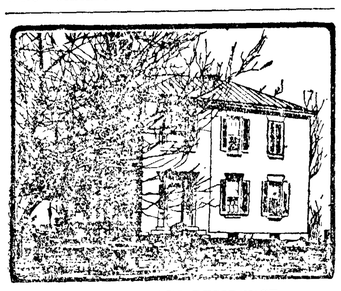


THE OLD CLOCK.

In the spacious hall of the Colerain homestead stands a clock, an old-fashioned affair of the "grandfather" species. This old timepiece is over a century old, and is indeed a quaint-looking object, with the smiling face of a full moon and a ship riding at anchor on a placid sea painted above its dial. The pendulum of the old clock has been motionless, and its elaborately carved brass hands have never moved a jot since the fateful night in the year of 1864, when it played an important part in a bloody tragedy that broke Miss Patsy Colerain's heart and enveloped her life in a pall of gloom that will never be lifted this side of the grave.

A Belle of '64.

In 1864 Miss Patsy Colerain was considered one of the handsomest young women in Nelson County. Of an old-line family, wealthy in her own name, she was naturally much sought after and had suitors by the score. Of course, she had but one choice, and that was Reuben Morehead, a descendant of one of Kentucky's Governors, who claimed Nelson County as his birthplace. Young Morehead was an orphan, who had been reared by a neighboring farmer. Patsy had known him all her life, and had loved him as far back as she could remember.



THE COLERAIN RESIDENCE.

The war broke out and Reuben took up arms for the North. Then followed sad days for the young girl. Her father sickened and died, and her only brother was in the far South, battling for the Confederacy. Thus she was left with only the faithful negro slaves and a nephew barely in his teens.

At this time the neighborhood was full of guerrillas. "Sue" Mundy and his gang were terrorizing that entire section, and soldiers and civilians alike were falling at their hands. The outlaws were frequently at the Colerain house, and, while Patsy never suffered any indignities from them, she was in constant terror lest she might.

One rainy night in April, 1864, Miss Colerain was sitting before a cheerful fire, her mind busy with thoughts of her absent lover, when suddenly the door opened and young Morehead, attired in a handsome uniform, stood before her. Before she could speak the young soldier caught her in his arms and showered kisses upon her blushing face.

A second later she broke from his embrace, and, trembling with fright, she remonstrated with him for daring to leave his command and coming here alone. The country, she said, was swarming with guerrillas and other enemies to his cause, and that if he was caught there his life would pay the penalty. He soon reassured her, however, and convinced her that he could reach his lines, which were not far away, without the least danger to himself.

Happy to have him with her, together they talked of love and the happy times when the cruel war would be over and they would be united, never to part.

While thus engaged there came above the patter of the rain the tramping of many horses. The lovers' faces blanched with terror, for they knew that enemies were upon them. Going to the window, Patsy saw by the faint light of the moon breaking through the clouds that which caused her heart to cease to beat and paralyzed her every thought and motion. The yard was filled with half-drunken guerrillas.

When her speech at last came to her she turned to her lover, who was now at her side, and said, in scarcely audible tones:

"My God, Reuben, it's 'Sue' Mundy and his gang! If they catch you here it is certain death! Oh, what shall we do?"

MISS COLERAIN FORTY YEARS AGO.

Hid in the Clock.

By this time the guerrillas were at the door, clamoring for admittance. Then it was that an idea came to the distressed girl.

"The old clock, Reuben; get into that," she said; "it is plenty large, and they will never discover you there."

The young man lost no time in clambering into the barrel of the clock, and his sweetheart fastened the door. Then, with a lighter heart, she admitted the guerrillas, who were growling and cursing at the delay.

Filing through the long hall into the cozy sitting room, they took seats and demanded refreshments. Patsy left to comply with their demands, but she had hardly left the dining room when she heard the guerrillas raving and cursing and the report of firearms.

Realizing the worst, she hurried back and reached the hall just in time to witness the murderous outlaws dragging the dead body of her lover from the old clock. At this juncture again came the tramp of horses, followed by more firing and commotion, and then to Patsy came a blank.

For weeks the girl hovered between life and death, a victim to brain fever. When the disease left her she was but a wreck of her former self. When she grew stronger they told her that she had neglected to conceal her lover's overcoat and gloves. That the guerrillas discovered them and instituted a search for the young soldier. That the latter threw open the door of the clock, presumably with the hope of making his escape, when he was shot and instantly killed. About this time a detachment of young Morehead's command swooped down upon the guerrillas and put them to flight.

This story reads like fiction, but, nevertheless, every word of it is true. As before stated, one of the actors still lives, and the old clock, with defaced woodwork and motionless machinery, stands in the self-same spot it did on that dreadful night, its brazen hands still marking the hour that the brave young soldier met his ignominious death.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Completely Stamped Out.

There is no hydrophobia in England or Australia. This happy state of affairs has been brought about by medical science and legislation combined. One of the fundamental principles of rabies is that no animal can contract the disease unless it comes in contact with another animal afflicted with it. It does not develop in an animal from any circumstances of nature, but is transmitted from one to another by contact. In England and Australia the disease was first completely stamped out by drastic measures and then legislation was called into service to regulate the importation of canines. If a tourist desires to take a pet dog into England the animal is quarantined for several days, during which it is examined by experts. This is to ascertain if the animal has rabies, and accounts for the fact that rabies are so rare.

As it was apparently suffering from indigestion a bullock was slaughtered near Spalding, England, when its illness was found to have been caused by a tennis ball it had swallowed.

My lodging is on the cold ground,
And hard, very hard, is my fare;
But that which grieves me more, love,
Is the coldness of my dear.
Yet still he cried, "Turn, love, to me—
I pray thee, love, turn to me,
For thou art the only girl, love,
That is adored by me."

II.

With a garland of straw I will crown thee, love;
I'll marry thee with a rush ring;
Thy frozen heart shall melt with love,
So merrily I will sing.
Yet still he cried, "Turn, love, to me—
I pray thee, love, turn to me,
For thou art the only girl, love,
That is adored by me."

III.

But if thou wilt harden thy heart, love,
And be deaf to my pitiful moan,
O, I must endure the smart, love,
And tumble in straw all alone.
Yet still he cried, "Turn, love, to me—
I pray thee, love, turn to me,
For thou art the only girl, love,

The Graves of a Household.

They grew in beauty, side by side,
They filled one home with glee;
Their graves are severed, far and wide,
By mount, and stream, and sea.

The same fond mother bent at night
O'er each fair sleeping brow;
She had each folded flower in sight
Where are those dreamers now!

One 'midst the forest of the West,
By a dark stream is laid—
The Indian knows his place of rest
Far in the cedar shade.

The sea, the blue lone sea, hath one—
He lies where pearls lie deep.
He was the loved of all, yet none
O'er his low bed may weep.

One sleeps where southern vines are dressed
He wrapt his colors round his breast,
On a blood-red field of Spain.

And one—o'er her the myrtle showers
It leaves by soft winds fanned;
She faded 'midst Italian flowers—
The last of that bright band.

And parted thus they rest, who played
Beneath the same green tree;
Whose voices mingled as they prayed
Around one parent knee!

They that with smiles lit up the hall,
And cheered with song and hearth—
Alas! for love, if thou were all,
And naught beyond, oh, Earth!

SURGERY IN GERMANY.

American Practitioner Would Be Out of Place Over There.

A young surgeon who went to Germany four years ago to complete his studies in pathology, recently returned to this country. He makes this interesting comment on national differences in the profession, says the World's Work:

"It's science over there; here's it's the business of healing. Here one gets the elementary things in college, learns more in hospital and in general practice, and turns the knowledge into money. The average American practitioner would be out of place over there. With them it's study, study, study from the time they receive their degree until they die. At the hospitals or meeting places, they talk nothing but shop. I have known a group of German doctors to leave their dinner half eaten to visit a case under discussion. They are the worst possible practitioners, for they are interested only in technique. I knew a man who went to a German physician with a pain in his leg. That doctor spent an hour each day for five days studying it, and after that time he knew all there was to know about that pain, but he didn't stop it. In this country we would have treated it and thought no more about it except to congratulate the patient in a few days on getting well. They don't care for the patient. He is only a specimen. I heard a doctor say perfectly mechanically that he hoped a certain patient would die so that he might learn some fact from the autopsy.

They call American surgeons copyists. Wherever the charge is true, it is merely that Americans turn to practical service the theories they study. But undoubtedly the Germans are doing a great work. One man, it is reckoned, has added thirty thousand years to human life by his discoveries. There is no commercial end for them to gain, so that their work, for their science, must be their only aim."

The difference aptly illustrates the general difference between our "practical" ways and the ways of German learning.

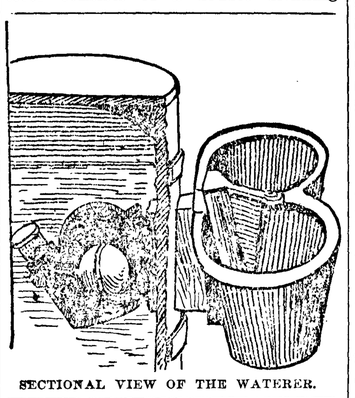
For Watering Stock.

No matter how pure a source of supply may be at hand for watering stock, if it is pumped into an open trough and left exposed for any length of time it soon becomes polluted and unfit for the animals to drink. This will not be the case, according to the inventor, if the stock watering apparatus here shown is put into use. If pure water is furnished to the tank or barrel to which this fountain is attached it is claimed that there is no way by which the animal that is drinking can make it foul. The waterer consists of a double drinking bowl, made of cast iron, which is attached to the outside of a tank or barrel. On the inside is another chamber, inclosed in which is a brass float and lever controlling the flow of the water to the outside bowl. The fountain is automatic in its action, as the float rises with the water in the bowl and cuts off the supply when the proper height has been reached. As the valve is always closed except when water is flowing from the tank to the drinking bowl, there is no opportunity for foreign matter to find its way to the interior of the storage reservoir.—Denver Field and Farm.



SECTIONAL VIEW OF THE WATERER.

Root Crops for Stock.

There is not a farmer in business but who can readily spare an acre or two of ground on which to grow root crops. If he has any number of heads of stock he will find that he can not grow anything on the farm to greater profit than the small area named put into root crops. Mangel wurzels are among the easiest of the root crops to grow and they will grow on any soil if the soil is properly prepared. The seed bed should be deep and harrowed several times after thorough plowing. Seeds should be drilled in and from two to four pounds of seed an acre will be required. The space between rows should be kept free from weeds and when the plants are three or four inches high they should be thinned out so that they will stand fifteen inches apart.

It will be necessary to keep the field hoed or cultivated until the plants get strong enough to overcome any weed growth. After this no care is necessary until fall harvest. Under this sort of cultivation it is possible to grow from 600 to 1,000 bushels on an acre, according to the condition of the soil. Carrots and turnips can be easily raised on the same plan, although for general feeding the mangels are, perhaps, more desirable.

Farm Notes.

A farmer should know enough about law to keep out of it.

No one can be found now who objects to dehorning cattle.

In butter making, next to controlling the temperature is to churn often while the cream is in good condition.

lows are given access to their mother, but as they soon find but little to supply their needs they become disgusted and readily adopt the idea of paddling their own canoe.

Many a runaway has resulted just because too much confidence has been placed in a team. There is always a feeling that "they'll stand." It pays to make teams secure before leaving them.

Of Uncle Sam's domain of over two billion acres only 500,000,000 are left for settlement. Under the present system of land laws it will only last five years. During the first ninety days of this fiscal year 6,000,000 acres were filed upon. Uncle Sam intends that everybody shall have a farm as long as they last. His farms are going fast.

A stall for a horse should be five feet wide. If wider the horse will turn over and get east, if narrower he can't rest. The floor should be even and level if the horse gets the rest he should have.

The first rainy day that comes, pass a copy of this paper to your neighbor and ask him to look it over and tell you how he likes it. There is no better way one can befriend a neighbor than to hand him a good paper. He will appreciate the paper and your kindness.

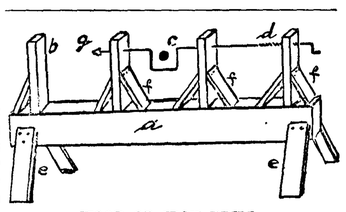
Some men folks on farms never think of helping make or cultivate the garden. This is considered too small a job for them, and yet they never object to partaking of what comes from it. It is "my wife's garden" when the garden is put in and when the crops are reaped it is 'our garden."

Whenever one reads of a combine where farmers are going to control prices of farm products, one should rest assured that somebody else is going to be enriched by the scheme. It is not among the possibilities to control the prices of staple farm products. All attempts to do so will prove failures. When approached to lend aid to any scheme of this character it will be well to look for the African in the fuel; he's there.

An agricultural college professor who has had a great deal of actual experience in growing corn has reported the result of a corn experiment to show the yield after certain kinds of cultivation. In a plat where the weeds were permitted to grow the yield was 58 bushels; weeds cut out with a hoe and loose mulch made and frequent workings with the hoe 96 bushels; cultivation two inches deep with small cultivator shovels, 90; four inches deep, 91; six inches deep, 84; six inches deep, large shovels, 87; blade cultivation, 88; deep early and shallow late, 85; shallow early and deep late, 89; mulch with grass, 82.

Handy Workshop Tool.

I have a cheap force feed drill press that is very useful on my farm. A timber a, 4x6x6 feet, is supported by legs e, like a trestle. The uprights b and d should be longer than shown, that they may be tied together at the top, as the outward strain is considerable; both center uprights are 2x4x 12 inches. All uprights are braced as shown at f f f. The bit stock c is made by bending a ½ or 1 in round rod into shape as shown, or may be purchased at a hardware store. A feed screw is shown at d, which may screw into the wood, or a nut may be attached to the front side of rear upright. A tool chuck g is screwed to the end of the bit stock. Loose blocks of wood are placed between the bit and the front post b as needed. By using twist drills, either wood or iron may be bored.—George T. Price, in Farm and Home.



WOOD OR IRON DRILL.

Thumps in Pigs.

More cases of thumps among pigs are reported this year than in some time before, owing, doubtless, to the rainy weather, which prevented the pigs from getting the sunshine they so much needed. If there is anything farmers need to learn about the handling of young pigs it is that they need sun and exercise, both in considerable quantities. An ideal pasture for young pigs is a place that may be fenced off from the main pasture where there is one or more trees which will provide shade, but where there will also be a large space of comparatively dry ground, in grass, on which the pigs may run. If there is white clover in the grass, so much the better for the pigs, and they will need less corn. Sun and exercise will prevent thumps, which disease usually means death.

Malt Sprouts as Cattle Feed.

Malt sprouts are a residue of the brewing industry. Barley grains are sprouted in the process of malting and in due course are rubbed off and sold, either wet or dry, as a cattle food. They enter the general market solely in the kiln-dried form. They are small, comma-shaped, light yellow brown particles of an agreeable nutty odor and crisp texture. When fed dry they are frequently refused by cows. If soaked some hours before feeding they are often better relished.

A woman worn-out, who never has to lift a hand for herself, who does not know the meaning of the word "worry"! How can it be possible? That it is possible is proved by the experience of many a woman who, because of sleeplessness, nervousness, backache and other womanly ills, becomes an utter physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for five years with inflammation which caused violent pain and often torture so bad at times that I could not be about to attend to my daily duties," writes Mrs. Julius C. Bell, of Bathroad, Kingston, Ont. "Life was simply misery to me and I did not know which way to turn for relief. Had tried doctors but found they did not help me. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—eulogizing it in glowing terms. I decided to give it a trial and brought a bottle home. I am happy to say that after the use of the first bottle I felt so much improved I decided to take another and after that a third bottle. I have good reasons to be pleased, for I am to-day a well woman, work is easy and the world looks bright. I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

THE action of the city council Wednesday night in directing the mayor and clerk to order the new electric light machinery of modern design with new wire for rewireing the entire system and for extensions is a move in the right direction and undoubtedly will go far in solving the much vexed question of putting the light plant on a paying and profitable basis. There are any number of residents on the various hills that would be glad of the opportunity to install electric lights in their residences could the extensions be made and the lights furnished. This would largely increase the income of the plant and with the new machinery will not increase the cost of operating.

Besides better service might be expected and possibly later all night lights can be had at present cost.

It is expected the new machinery will be in place and in running order before the present council's term expires and if this alone is accomplished by this council it will have justly earned the plaudits of the electors of the city and guarantee the city a return in addition to interest on the investment.

It is expected to pay for the new machinery from the increased earnings of the plant.

THE city's special water works committee have reported its inability to arouse the citizens of the city to take hold of the opportunity to secure to the city a municipal water works system and have recommended the abandonment of this phase of the question and asked to formulate plans and conditions upon which city would be willing to grant a franchise to individuals.

While we believe that in live cities there are no securities more gilt edged than gravity system water works with the source near in and while we think no such city would have any considerable difficulty in getting money necessary to build a system of this kind, were the proper parties to take hold of it and the citizens give their co-operation, we are pleased that the matter has again come under discussion for the city is surely in dire need of an improved water system, be it the city or individual ownership.

Now that the council again has the matter under discussion we trust they will push the matter until the present water company is spurred to action or a new company is given rights under conditions which fully protect the city's interests.

School Grounds In Excellent Shape.

Civic Club Workers Do More Good Work.

Thursday's Civic Club outing brought out two dozen laborers and three teams, and much good work was accomplished. Not only were the uncompleted ditches put in good shape but the east end of the school grounds were graded and Vine street between the school and the Congregational church received much attention.

As a result the grounds are now in most excellent shape and a credit to the district and the ladies and their helpers.

BASE BALL

The ball game Sunday was a fair one the pitchers doing good work throughout Angeles rolled up a score of 4 and shut out the Flagler boys completely. Not Over-Wise.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at grass-hopper, but in the the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of moneybuilding a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by all druggists.

KILLED TO SAVE HER SOUL.

Strange Case of Frederick C. Fischer, the California Wife-Murderer.

Frederick C. Fischer, barber, preacher, political organizer, grand larceny thief, burglar, highwayman, bigamist, wife murderer—who was hanged at San Quentin prison for chloroforming, choking and burning his wife to death, at Riverside, Cal.—has been labeled "The Human Mystery."

The puzzling psychological features in his case consist of his undoubted sincerity as a church member and religious worker while he was also a thief, both in the East and West—for he has preached in every prison he has ever been in—and of his desertion of the wives he did not love and killing of the only one he cared for.

His story, verified in part, was that he told his wife he was a bigamist and feared arrest, asking her to go away and remain in seclusion while he gave himself up and served his time, then he would rejoin her and they could live happily without a recurrence of the fear that was then overshadowing him. She refused and, it was stated, told him she would commit suicide if he was arrested.

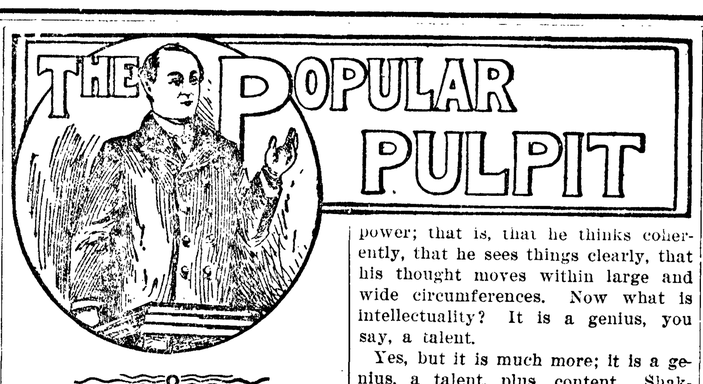
Fischer said he had figured from the Bible that not only is the soul of every suicide lost, but eternal damnation awaits those who cause others to kill themselves, hence, to save both their souls, he killed her and asked for and received forgiveness for himself. Experts found he was entirely sane—even exceedingly bright, and that he was mainly a man of humane tendencies—the kind of thief who returns plunder when he finds he has stolen from the poor.

Fischer was 31 years old. In the investigation of his case it was found that his parents, while also church people, encouraged him to steal as a child, and that his grandfather was a thief.

A sharp pain in the lungs or side can be driven away by applying vaseline and mustard in the proportion of two parts of vaseline and one of mustard. Rub it together, and spread on a piece of muslin as you would an ordinary poultice. This is also excellent for a severe pain in the back of the neck, and has been used with good results for breaking up influenza.

A Simple Water Test.—All mothers of families are aware of the need for purity in the water supply. A simple test, easily tried by any one, is given in a scientific paper as safe and efficient. Draw a tumblerful of water from the uncertain well or tap, put in it a piece of lump sugar, and let it stand over night in a room where the temperature will not be under 60 degrees Fahrenheit. In the morning the water, if pure, will be perfectly clear; if contaminated by sewage or other impurities the water will be milky.

Schule, an eminent German physician, has recently made a series of interesting observations upon the condition of the stomach during sleep, and has ascertained that the movements of that organ are greatly lessened, while the acidity is greatly increased. He concludes from this that it is of especial importance that persons suffering from weakened digestion, particularly those in whose cases there is excessive formation of hydrochloric acid—a condition known as hyperpepsia—should avoid sleeping after meals, but should remain for some time after eating in a state of wakeful repose.



EXTERNALIZATION OF SPIRIT.

By Rev. Joseph A. Milburn.

It may seem strange to say, and hardly consent with the surface of facts of life, that the spirit of our modern civilization is largely interior and subjective. And yet this is the exact truth. The philosophies that dominate the modern mind are the idealistic philosophies, the spiritual interpretations of life that come to us through such philosophers as Kant and Hegel and Green and Royce. This, too, is the tendency of theology. Nearly all our theologies err by being too exclusively interior and logical. This the error of Calvinism.

As a system of belief it is strong and virile and continuous. Its weakness is that as a system it lacks objectivity. Calvin never stopped to ask himself if his system co-ordinated with the facts of life. If he had done so Calvinism would not have been so preponderatingly forensic. This is also the weakness of modern latitudinarian theology that has its source very largely in the dogmatic system of Schleiermacher. This system of belief is broad and tolerant and tender, but it also errs in the fact that it starts with a postulate and derives itself proposition after proposition and dogma after dogma without ever looking out to confirm these dogmas with the actual facts as we find them in nature and the history of humanity.

This excessive subjectivity is also clearly seen in our modern life in its lack of poise, serenity and calm. Our age, however, capable and interesting it may be, is certainly lamentably self-conscious touching its body. The air is full of maladies, full of ailments, full of imaginary distresses; our nerves are in a state of deplorable incoherence. I judge this from the many new systems of therapeutics that are springing up on every side, such as Christian Science, Mental Science, New Thought, and I believe the last is named Mental Poise.

Now, of course, a man must live the interior life. It is his business to find himself, to know himself. But if he is going to live the whole of life, a life large, salubrious and beautiful, he must learn to externalize.

It is the external life that makes for magnitude and wealth of personality. And this is man's chief end, the enlargement and enrichment of his own soul. For just in the measure that his personality becomes full and opulent, just in that measure does the world become interesting to him. A man may have great wealth, and with this great wealth he may surround himself with many things; he may buy, for if we have money enough we can buy almost anything, the greatest works of the immortal artists of the world. And he may hang these works of art upon the walls of his home.

But what are they to him apart from the sensitiveness and artistic responsiveness of his own personality? They are mere symbols of his wealth, not at all vehicles of culture and of beauty. So, too, he may surround himself with the great literatures of the world. He may build up a vast library and place upon the shelves of his bookcases the philosophers, the poets, the historians, the scientists, the essayists of every nation and of all the ages; but apart from intellectual passion these books have no message, no illumination, no refinement. Personality is the measure of our living power, the measure of our enjoyment of life.

It is also the measure of our efficiency; for after all, the greatest thing that a man can give to the world is his own spirit. The world needs many things in the way of physical amelioration; but its great need is the need of inspiration; its great need is more of the thought-life, more of the love-life and more of the soul-life. And earth's greatest benefactors have been earth's deepest thinkers, earth's kindliest and sweetest spirits.

Now, magnitude and wealth of personality is not a thing we inherit. It is not a thing that our fathers and our mothers can bestow upon us. Neither is it a thing that is adventitious, the product of circumstance. It is each man's own creation. The potency of personality is a gift to us, but its magnitude and its fullness are determined by the measure and the degree with which we objectivize the forces of our spirit, by the measure in which we live in the external world.

Take, for instance, the intellectual element of personality. We speak of a man as being marked by intellectual power; that is, that he thinks coherently, that he sees things clearly, that his thought moves within large and wide circumferences. Now what is intellectuality? It is a genius, you say, a talent.

Yes, but it is much more; it is a genius, a talent, plus content. Shakspeare is a genius, Byron a genius; but Shakspeare and Byron would not be read, they would never have given to the world the great dramas and odes and sonnets they have given to the world if genius had been their sole possession. Intellectuality is the power of seeing things steadily and of seeing them whole."

If we want to live the intellectual life we shall find it not in dreams and in fancies but by externalizing our vision; and the more we externalize our vision, the more we see, the more thoroughly we see, the larger and the richer the intellectual element of our personality will become. And what is true of the intellectual is also true of the emotional element of personality. The emotion that does nothing else but sway and serge within the narrow boundaries of our own heart, no matter how ardent and hysterical it may be, is of all forces the most worthless and useless.

There are those who feel much, who suffer much, who weep much over the idealistic sorrows and tragedies of life. The world of pathos in which they live is the world of poetry and fiction, and the only philanthropy that they know anything about is a poetic philanthropy, a philanthropy whose good deeds are done, and whose tears are wept all within the subtle boundaries of the imagination.

There is much of this subjective emotion in the world. And it is a poor thing. The only emotion that has any validity, any sublimity, any potency of redemption in it is that which is so eager and so selfless that it breaks through the barriers of the ego in order that it may assuage with a real human touch a real human sorrow, in order that it may wipe away with a real human hand, a real human tear.

Ah, if we only would learn the art of externalizing our emotive vision, our better feelings, our kindlier sensibilities, the world would be measurably nearer the social millenium of which we dream.

GROWING EVIL OF DIVORCE.

By Rev. G. A. Hoffman.

Marriage is the oldest institution in the world. God himself united our first parents. The Christ gives dignity and sacredness to the marriage tie by his presence at the wedding feast at Cana. Thus, instituted of God and approved by our Lord, it becomes the most sacred and binding of all obligations assumed by man. Nature likewise approves the same happy thought of the marriage of the one man to the one woman. The divine wisdom, as revealed in the Holy Scriptures in relation to matrimony, is most heartily indorsed by our experience and knowledge, as well as by nature. God says it is not good for man to be alone, and the experience of nineteen centuries verifies this Scripture. Man is only a half man until he courts, loves and marries. The age at which the young may marry depends upon three things: Mental, physical and moral developments. The ages for young women we should place at from 16 to 24, and for men from 20 to 26.

After marriage an adjustment should at once begin—a study of each other's habits and lives. Where the wife is weak the husband should be strong, and where the husband has weakness the wife must be strong. Thus they will supplement each other's character, and each should live for the other, and both for God.

Solomon disgraced his old age with his many wives. It filled the land with idolatry and destruction followed. The Mohammedans have their harems, enslave their women and are a curse and disgrace to European civilization. We have our own Mormon iniquity in the fairest of our younger States and under the brightest of skies. But let me say that the growing curse of the divorce courts has become a greater evil against the sanctity of the home than Mormonism in our own land or Mohammedanism across the sea.

Every law made should be a help for men to live better lives and not license them to do the things which will corrupt our Christian civilization. You cannot legislate morality into men, but every law made by man should make it easy for men to do right and difficult for men to do wrong. Pass strict laws against divorce and there will be far less hasty, inconsiderate and unsuited marriages.

Yes, marry, my young friends, and be sure that you marry to stay married.

Hard earned, seldom spurned.

Many women and doctors do not recognize the real symptoms of derangement of the female organs until too late.

"I had terrible pains along my spinal cord for two years and suffered dreadfully. I was given different medicines, wore plasters; none of these things helped me. Reading of the cures that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought about, I somehow felt that it was what I needed and bought a bottle to take. How glad I am that I did so; two bottles brought me immense relief, and after using three bottles more I felt new life and blood surging through my veins. It seemed as though there had been a regular house cleaning through my system, that all the sickness and poison had been taken out and new life given me instead. I have advised dozens of my friends to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Good health is indispensable to complete happiness, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has secured this to me." —MRS. LAURA L. BREMER, Crown Point, Indiana, Secretary Ladies Relief Corps. — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Every sick woman who does not understand her ailment should write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

Biodorous Undertakes to Undo the Undertakers

Why be feeble? Why be ill? The old get young and the young stay young. Biodoros (The Life Giver) is the scientific discovery of the age. The nearest to the hidden elixir which enables man to thrust back the grim messenger of death and live. The Hon. Orange Jacobs, ex-Member of Congress, ex-Member of the Supreme Court, says: "I have taken Biodoros for several months; it has done me a great deal of good. I regard it as a very powerful and beneficial tonic." Many people of many ills, well known in Seattle, have given their written testimony proving positively the wonderful curing powers of this life-giving liquid. If your druggist cannot supply you, send one dollar to the Biodoros Co., Times Building, Seattle, Wash., for one month's treatment.

No disease germs can live in the system with Biodoros.

Dyspepsia

Don't think you can cure your dyspepsia in any other way than by strengthening and toning your stomach.

That is weak and incapable of performing its functions, probably because you have imposed upon it in one way or another over and over again.

You should take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It strengthens and tones the stomach, and permanently cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Accept no substitutes.

The Earth's Crust.

The greater part of the earth's crust, the water and the air, consists of but few elements. Oxygen forms one-half by weight, silicon a quarter, aluminum, iron, calcium, magnesium, sodium and potassium combined form twenty-three per cent, leaving about two per cent for all the other elements. Chemical compounds rarely contain many elements. Various groupings of the same elements produce new substances. Carbon signalizes itself by a peculiar adaptability of plasticity. It forms nuclèli for aggregation, and these nucleii are bonded together to form complicated molecules.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. GOOD BLOOD
SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

You know when rich, red blood is coursing through the veins, for it shows in the brightness of the eye, the beauty and clearness of the complexion, the smooth, fair skin, and robust, healthy constitution. It is good blood that imparts strength and energy to the body and keeps it in a state of healthfulness and vigor. Good blood is the foundation of good health, and to be physically and mentally sound it must be kept pure and untainted. People with good blood possess strong, steady nerves and are blest with good appetites and digestion, and enjoy sound, refreshing sleep. If we could always maintain the purity of the blood then we might enjoy perpetual health, but it becomes infected and poisoned and most of the ills that afflict humanity and undermine the constitution are caused by an impoverished or polluted condition of this vital fluid.

I was in wretched health; my blood was in bad order, my gums being very much ulcerated. I began the use of S. S. S., and in a remarkably short time was sound and well. My appetite increased wonderfully and my food agreed with me. I think it is a fine family medicine.

MRS. M. R. DAVIDSON.

Rockmart, Ga.

When the blood is diseased the skin loses its healthy appearance, and the complexion, its freshness and beauty and becomes red and rough and full of pimples and splotches. Itching, scaly eruptions, blackheads, boils and rashes break out upon the body when the blood is too poor or too thin and acid, and is not supplying proper nourishment to the system. Debility, poor appetite, bad digestion, restless sleep and nervousness more often come from sluggish, impure blood than any other cause.

For three years I had Tetter on my hands. Part of the time the disease was in the form of running sores, very painful and causing me much discomfort. Four doctors said the Tetter had progressed too far to be cured, and they could do nothing for me. I took only three bottles of S.S.S. and was completely cured. This was fifteen years ago, and I have never since seen any sign of my old trouble.

MRS. L. B. JACKSON.

837 St. Paul St., Kansas City, Kas.

To build up the blood, restore its lost properties and make it rich and nutritious again is the only rational treatment, and the proper way to get rid of skin troubles. There is no remedy like S. S. S. to accomplish this and it does it promptly and thoroughly. S. S. S. antidotes and removes from the blood all poisons and humors, and restores it to a normal, healthy condition, and invigorates and tones up the general health. When rich, red blood is again flowing through your veins all skin eruptions disappear, the appetite improves, the complexion clears and you get rid of those miserable depressing feelings and nervousness, and enjoy once more the blessings of good health. S. S. S. is nature's remedy for all blood and skin diseases. It contains no minerals whatever, but is guaranteed purely vegetable.

THE ONLY SALT THAT DOES NOT CLOG THE SHAKER

FLASHES OF FUN

"I should think it didn't give you a fit!"

She (gushingly)—Song flows as naturally from her as from a little birdie. He (gruffly)—A parrot, perhaps!

"Bridget, what did you say to Miss Smith when she called?" "I told her you were out this tolme for sure, ma'am."

"There's one good thing about a motor car." "What's that?" "It doesn't try to run up to every water trough it comes to."

She—I understand that Mrs. Emerson is a strict vegetarian. He—Yes, very! Why, she goes so far as to exclude Bacon from her literary diet!

"What's the matter?" asked the rooster; "more absent-mindedness?" "Yes," replied the hen; "I can never find things where I lay them."

"I see the new magazine is out?" "Yes; and thank Heaven, they've got my poem right next to advertising matter!"—Atlanta Constitution.

George—I proposed to that girl and would have married her if it hadn't been for something she said. Fred—What did she say? George—No.

Adsum—What class of literature are you reading, my son? His Son—'Bout a man and woman that got married and were happy ever after. Adsum—Ah, fiction!

"Did you see any sharks when you crossed the ocean, Mr. Spifkins?" asked Miss Purling. "Yes," replied Spifkins, sadly; "I played cards with a couple."

"Now, Willy, you may give me a sentence that will be easy to parse." "Yes'm. How's this one: 'Said the sparse, parsimonious parson: Parse the parsnips!' "

"Who is the hero of this piece?" asked the man who was coming out of the theater. And the manager thoughtfully replied: "The man who is financing it."

"So you are going to get an automobile?" "Yes," answered the man who is always thinking of his health, "the doctor says I must walk more."—Washington Star.

"Is Miss Tinkler a good pianist?" "She is simply fine. You ought to hear some of her classical pieces. You would never know they were music."—Indianapolis News.

Her Mamma—You certainly were flirting outrageously with that young man on the bench. Don't you know you're a married woman, and—— Mrs. Gay—Yes, but he didn't.

Wife—You don't seem to enjoy the dinner, dear. What's the matter? Husband—I was wondering if there weren't some typographical errors in that cook book of yours.

"He thinks of having his poems published in book form." "Well, that's the best way of putting them where they won't bother anybody."—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

"Martha, where is the leter that was on my writing desk?" "I posted it, ma'am." "But it had no address on it. "No, ma'am, but I thought it might be one of them agnonimus letters."

Mrs. Jones—And have you any references? Applicant—No, mum; Oi tored 'em up. Mrs. Jones (in surprise)—Tore them up? How foolish! Applicant—Yez wudn't think so, mum, if yez had seen 'em.

"Going away on vacation, old man? You need it, for you look all fagged out." "Great Scott, isn't that proof enough that I've already been on my vacation and just got back!"—Baltimore Herald.

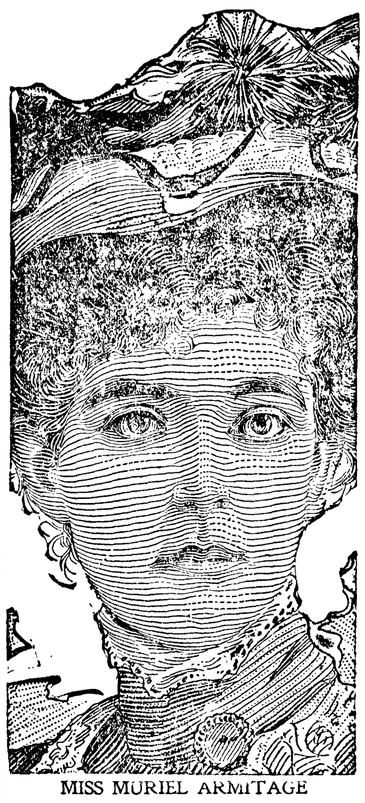
Envious Young man (speaking of favored rival)—Yes, George is clever and handsome, but he is so abominally conceited. Sharp Young Lady—But, Mr. Dumley, if you were handsome and clever, would not you be conceited?

"I wonder why donkeys eat thistles?" said the man who is always finding something peculiar in life. "Oh!" answered the person who likes plain food. There is no accounting for taste. If a donkey were to give the matter a thought I suppose he would wonder why human beings eat olives."

"Yes, said Cholly Lonson, proudly, as the group of listeners clustered around him, "yes, I saved the lady's life. She had fallen from the pier, and the watah was dashing awound her. Powerless to help herself, she was sinking for the third time when I ran to the spot." "Yes, yes," said the breathless listeners. "What did you do?" "I shwieked for help, and it came."

Young Clafleigh is always putting his foot in it. He danced three times the other evening with the girl by whom he is particularly smitten, and then positively asked her for the next. "No, really, I can't; but I'll introduce you to the prettiest girl in the room," said his partner. "But I don't want to dance with the prettiest girl in the room," said Calfleigh pettishly. "I want to dance with you!" And now they don't speak.

GRATEFUL, HAPPY WOMEN



MISS MURIEL ARMITAGE

Thank Pe-ru-na for Their Recovery After Years of Suffering.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, in a recent letter, says:

"I think that a woman naturally shrinks from making her troubles public, but restored health has meant so much to me that I feel for the sake of other suffering women it is my duty to tell what Peruna has done for me.

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I thought this was the least I could do and procured a bottle. I knew as soon as I began taking it that it was affecting me differently from anything I had used before, and so I kept on taking it. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman today."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Peruna cures catarrh of the pelvic organs with the same surety as it cures catarrh of the head. Peruna has become renowned as a positive cure for female ailments simply because the ailments are mostly due to catarrh. Catarrh is the cause of the trouble. Peruna cures the catarrh. The symptoms disappear.

Female Weakness Is Pelvic Catarrh.

Always Half Sick are the Women Who Have Pelvic Catarrh.

Catarrh of any organ, if allowed to progress, will affect the whole body. Catarrh without nervousness is very rare, but pelvic catarrh and nervousness go hand in hand.

What is so distressing a sight as a poor half-sick, nervous woman, suffering from the many almost unbearable symptoms of pelvic catarrh? She does not consider herself ill enough to go to bed, but she is far from being able to do her work without the greatest exhaustion. This is a very common sight and is almost always due to pelvic catarrh.

It is worse than foolish for so many women to suffer year after year with a disease that can be permanently cured.

Peruna cures catarrh premanently. It cures old chronic cases as well as a slight attack, the only difference being in the length of time that it should should be taken to effect a cure.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

The day before his marriage the aspiring Alfred Jensen was weighed and touched the mark at 189¾ pounds. To-day, two months after his marriage, we find he touches the mark at 194 pounds. We contribute this remarkable gain entirely to his wife who, we understand, he has taken in his confidence and who has fed him on a diet of milk and honey too sweet for anything. We submit gracefully to our defeat and will meet our fate and give the boys of the brewery a stag at the residence of Mr. Chas. Hirsch, Saturday evening, September 12th. Mr. Oettinger will have the honor and glory of buying a necktie for each member present, and the invited guests will have to submit to the horrors of wearing same. There will be present:

NOTICE AND SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION.

In the Superior court of the state of Washington, for Clallam county.

J. P. Christensen, plaintiff, vs. James Manion and Kaharyn Manion, his wife, and all persons unknown, if any, having or claiming an interest or estate in and to the hereinafter described real property, defendants.

State of Washington to James Manion and Kaharyn Manion, his wife, are the owners, or reputed owners, of, and all persons unknown, claiming or having an interest or estate in the hereinafter described real property.

You and each of you are hereby notified that the above named plaintiff, J. P. Christensen is the holder of a delinquent tax certificate No. 320, issued by the treasurer of Clallam county, Washington, embracing the following real property situated in Clallam county, Washington, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lots seventeen (17) and eighteen (18) in block two hundred ninety-three (293), in the townsite of Port Angeles.

That said certificate was issued on the 30th day of January, 1901 for the sum of $41.92 for the delinquent taxes for the years 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, that the taxes for the following years have been paid by the plaintiff, to-wit: the year 1898 the sum of $5.47, the year 1899 the sum of $5 37; the year 1900 the sum of $5.50; the year 1901 the sum of $5.32; the year 1902 the sum of $5.40; which several sums bear interest at the rate of fifteen per cent. per annum from said date of payment.

You and each of you are hereby summoned to appear within sixty days after the date of the first publication of this notice and summons, to-wit, within sixty days after the 4th day of September, 1903, and defend the above entitled action or pay the amount of the taxes due, together with the costs, penalties and interest, and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered foreclosing said tax lien for such taxes, penalties, costs and interest against said lands and premises hereinbefore mentioned.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Thedford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Thedford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Thedford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.
