TO SETTLE TEN-ACRE BLOCKS

Congressman Cushman to Aid Us In Getting Reservation Settled.

During the visit this week of Congressman Francis W. Cushman seeking out the wants and desires of his constituents the subject of having the ten-acre blocks in the government reserve lying West of city opened was broached, and the Honorable gentleman, with Mayor Lewis and Deputy Collector Aldwell, visited the section, noted its abandoned condition and conferred as to the best possible plan of proceedure in order to get the question and the wishes of the citizens of this city before congress. A meeting of the Commercial Club to discuss this question with the congressman was also to have been called, but for some unknown reason it was not.

Mr. Cushman was advised that a large majority of the citizens of Port Angeles desired to get this property on the tax rolls. In order to do this the appraised valuations must be reduced. There is no desire, however, to have the valuations reduced for the sole benefit of speculators who would purchase and hold the property unimproved, and it was therefore suggested that the property be sub-divided into five-acre tracts—after the necessary grounds for parks, city and county buildings, etc., are set aside—and reappraised at a low figure. It is proposed that these tracts be then opened to settlement by home-seekers, each settler to be allowed to take up one five-acre tract and make proof and secure title thereto upon making certain residence and about $500 improvements ther on.

It is thought that not only should this land be opened and put upon the tax rolls but all the grounds needed by the city, county, or state for parks or buildings should be readily given to these corporations, and in addition that at least one-half of the proceeds of the sale be returned by the government to the city for the purpose of assisting in opening streets through the settled property.

Giving each settler five acres would be about equivalent to two whole blocks and it is proposed to open every other street as found possible and needed.

In this manner it is hoped that the people of Port Angeles will not only benefit by the sale but a great drawback to the city's advancement will be removed and an industrial epoch begun that would mean much for the city and county. Not the least important will be the fact that the property will be placed on the tax rolls; then it will be greatly improved, and a considerable number of industrious citizens will be added to our population, each having enough ground to make a comfortable living therefrom.

Mr. Cushman recommended that if this was the wish of the citizens that a petition signed and sent in with a prepared bill setting forth what is desired in the premises and at the approaching session of congress he will introduce same and endeavor to secure its passage.

The question is now up to the citizens as to whether this plan is favored by them, and if followed up should be thoroughly discussed to the end of the greatest good to the greatest number.

The establishment of a game preserve in this district, South of Lake Crescent, also received some attention from Mr. Cushman, and some phases of the custom house reservation were discussed by him.

The Perfect Liver Medicine.

Mrs. M. A Jolly, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine, and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgement in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at C. E. Nailor & Co.'s.

Seguin.

Special to THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

J. M. Grant has gone to Tacoma to commence gathering tree seed.

Miss Ella, daughter of Jack Knappman, is a visitor here this week from Seattle.

Born, August 26, to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cook, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grant will soon start East on a visit.

Most of Seguin people were at the Elks carnival at Dungeness on Saturday. High time.

Paul Cook, son of Willis Cook, has bought the Law place.

Last Tuesday evening a basket social was held at Mr. Long's fine new residence to raise money to pay remainder of church debt. It was a success.

Mrs. Maud Ross and children, daughter of J. W. Grant, are visiting here while Mr. Ross is in Alaska seeing to the erection of wireless telegraph stations.

John Brown is busy improving his ranch near Mr. Hart's, the telegraph operator. He is building a solid fence all around it and intends putting up a barn and perhaps a house.

Wm. Hubbel, the manager of the Seguin Mill Co's. shingle mill, badly cut the middle finger of his left hand, sawing off about one half of finger lengthwise

Mr. Tiller has sold his blacksmith shop at Seguin Corner, to Mr. Bracket, a newcomer from Minnesota.

Mr. Bracket and Mr. Long are building themselves homes on the prairie near Mr. Balch's

What's the matter with our careful county commissions? Careful not to allow contractors to take work too cheap! or corporations to pay too much taxes!!

Joseph McKesick, the photographer who has been located at Seguin for four or five weeks intends to move his tent to Chimacum soon. He does good work. The people there will do well to get him to do their work in his line.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Van Antwerp are visiting friends in Seattle this week, and expect while gone to attend the wedding of his sister.

Everybody on Seguin seems to be busy. Haying, building, dairying, hauling lumber, shingles, wood and doing well generally.

Dr. McGeorge, of Seguin, says he can find lots of 5, 10, 20 and 40 acre tracts for a number more of families, especially if 5 and 10 acres are wanted, and they will form clubs of four or five in a club.

THEY HAD A BIG TIME.

Dungeness Elks Send Their Visitors Home Rejoicing.

The trim little steamer Dauntless which pulled out from here at 9:30 Saturday morning for the Elks' Carnival at Dungeness, carried a large herd of the antlered fraternity and their ladies from this city. Arriving at Dungeness they were met at the end of the long wharf by the Elks of that place and their ladies, attired in white suits white caps and sashs of purple, and marched to martial music up the main street and back to the reception rooms. The big excurs- from Townsend was treated in like manner. From then on the visitors who assembled from all parts of the counties between here and Townsend were introduced to hospitality of a rare nature, each expressing in enthusiastic praise the fact that everything was just lovely

At noon a spread fit for the gods was served, and all afternoon some sport was indulged in to allow no thought of fatigue. In the evening another big feed and two grand balls with music by Blake's and the Gate City orchestras ended a series of festivities thoroughly enjoyed by all. The Angeles visitors got home at the very respectable hour, considering the distance, of midnight.

DO WE WANT THE WIRELESS?

Can Get It By Guarantying Operator's Salary.

Capt. Tozier with his Revenue Cutter Grant was a visitor here this week and to a representative of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER said he did not see why Port Angeles has not spoken for a station of the system of wireless telegraphy now being established on the sound by the Pacific Wireless company.

Gen. New, in charge of the work now in progress at various points, was a guest of the captain's recently from Friday Harbor to Townsend and from him the captain learned that the company is desirous of establishing a station wherever the business warrants. Gen. New told the people of Friday Harbor that all his company wanted was a guarantee of $75 per month business and this was promised in short order.

It is now assured that stations will be established at the varions forts, on Board the Grant, at Townsend, Tacoma, Seattle, Victoria, Whatcom, Friday Harbor, and at Tatoosh and Dutch Harbor, with possibly a station on Vancouver Island and another midway from Flattery to Dutch Harbor. Port Angeles, of course, has been mentioned for a station but the company must be guaranteed the cost of an operator and probably will be allowed to provide an operator and take the tolls until the business exceeds $75 per month.

Of course, said the captain, it is nothing to me whether a station is put in here or not, only its seems to me it would be a poor advertisement to have stations all around and none here.

Captain Tozier is a great admirer of Port Angeles bay and townsite. He thinks them matchless anywhere in the world, and only at one other place on the sound or straits, says he, is there to be had such delicious water to drink or so free a fluid for steam purposes.

COUNCIL ROUTINE.

Except passing the Francis street grade ordinance (which will be published next week) the council did no business of importance Wednesday.

Bond os H. L. Mitchell on wood contract was approved.

The city attorney submitted amended ordinance establishing grade of Francis street between Fourth and Eighth and same was passed by unanimous vote.

Clerk was directed to notify Water Co. to attend to leakage of hydrant at Oak street.

Mr. Grubb thought city should dedicate and deed a plot in cemetery to the county for interment of county poor. The matter was referred to the committee to confer with commissioners.

Marshal was ordered to notify owners of City Hotel property to have walk repaired or removed.

The council failed to meet Friday in committee of the whole to consider water works matter, therefore no report was submitted.

WORK IS IN PROGRESS.

For the Erection of the Saw Mill in Connection With the Gose-Giest Mill.

Work was begun this week putting in the foundation for a fair-sized saw-mill plant to be run in connection with the "Peterson" mill recently purchased by Messrs. Gose and Giest, the Ohio lumbermen. It is understood the mill will be of a capacity of 40,000 feet per day and when complete it is reported one of its first contracts will be for timbers for the erection of the big export mill at the head of the bay.

Recently the company secured the railroad company's portable mill and this will be used to cut the timbers for the new permanent mill.

The company is also making some needed repairs on its wharf at the foot of A street.

Yacht Races Over.

Reliance Wins Third Pace By Good Margin.

The third race in the International contest was successfully completed Thursday, the Reliance again winning by nearly a three mile lead, thus again proving her exceptional and superior sailing qualities.

This being the necessary three out of five there is no necessity of another race and the Britisher will have to return home satisfied with the advertisement of Lipton's teas and the lavish hospitality of American sportsmen.

Game Season Opens.

It is now unlawful to shoot certain kinds of game birds. The protecting arm of the law in this part of the state is removed from grouse, partridge, prairie chicken, sage hen and native pheasant, and from all kinds of water fowl. Of grouse, etc., only ten birds may be killed by one hunter in one day, and the limit on ducks, snipe, etc., is twenty-five. The open season for quail does not begin until October, and it will be unlawful to kill Mongolian pheasants at any time this year.

To help introduce Carroll's Chocolate Chips we will give you four 10c packages for 25c.; 25c packages for 20c. until this shipment is sold.

IRRIGATION FUND

WASHINGTON HAS MORE THAN MOST STATES.

Chief Engineer Newell, of the Geological Survey, Writes of the Projectod Work---His Report Now in Course of Preparation---Yakima Valley Projects.

Washington, Sept. 1.—For irrigation the state of Washington now has to its credit on the books of the federal government fully 2 million and a half of dollars. Yet the federal reclamation act was passed by congress only a little more than a year ago. There is hardly a state in the union—the exceptions may be two or three—which has a larger available fund for the purpose of reclaiming arid and semi-arid lands under the great policy so persistently championed by President Roosevelt last year.

The first annual report of Chief Engineer Newell, of the geological survey, is now in preparation. This report will discuss in a volume of more than 300 pages the progress of the last year in irrigation projects under the reclamation act of 1902. Washington makes a fine showing. Other states, included wholly or in part in the arid belt, have large funds to their credit already, but the superior advantage of Washington is directly due to the rapid settlement of government lands within her borders. The proceeds of the sale of public lands are devoted almost entirely to the irrigation fund.

Under this system Washington has a credit of $257,180 for the fiscal year 1901; $541,500 for the fiscal year 1902, and an estimated credit of something like $900,000 for the fiscal period recently closed—1903. Montana, North Dakota and Oklahoma alone, probably, have accumulated a larger fund for the irrigation of arid and semi-arid lands.

Yakima Valley Projects.

As to irrigation in Washington, Chief Engineer Newell will say in his annual report that the most feasible opportunities for reclamation are those offered by the Yakima river and its tributaries, the principal obstacle being that much of the land to be benefited is in private ownership.

"Already steps have bee ntaken," says Mr. Newell in this connection, "to utilize some of the storage reservoirs in the Cascade mountains, and it is not desirable for the government to forestall work which can be carried on by private parties. The river measurements carried on through several years throw light upon the possibilities of storage, but a thorough investigation of the entire river is necessary before it can be determined what projects will be of greatest public importance. Such an examination is greatly facilitated by the existence of good topographic maps covering much of the drainage area, so that in this respect Yakima river is more favorably situated than some of the other streams.

Need Artesian Wells.

There is some difficulty in reclaiming the great arid plains of the Columbia basin for the reason that the stream, although carrying a large amount of water, is far below the general level of the country. The Northern Pacific railroad owns the alternate sections of land, the government lands form a checkered pattern. Reclamation on a large scale is thus complicated by the existence of alternate sections in private ownership.

Nevertheless, Mr. Newell says: "The matter of chief interest in the center of the state is the possibility of obtaining deep or artesian waters over the dry Columbia plains. Before determining this a very thorough study of the geologic structure must be made. Preliminary work in this direction has been done by Prof. Israel C. Russell, of Ann Arbor; also by George Otis Smith, and, in 1902, by Frank C. Calkins, assistant geologist."

—3 typefdry scg, 9-1

Even the people of Washington, outside of the irrigated regions, probably do not realize the extent and value of the reclamation work that has already been done. This work has been accomplished largely through private enterprise, however, for absolutely nothing except preliminary work has yet been done in the state under the reclamation act of last year. The total irrigated area of the state was given in these dispatches several days ago. In 1889 the irrigated area was only 48,799 acres. Now it is four or five times as great.

Toole Refuses Reprieve.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 2.—Gov. Toole today announced that he would not grant a reprieve to Martin Zidmair, sentenced to hang at Livingston September 4 for the murder of George Reid. A petition signed by hundreds of citizens of Park and Yellowstone counties was submitted to the governor last week. It is on this that he is acting.

TALKS WITH HAY.

Russian. Representative Sees Secretary of State.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, had a long interview today with Secretary Hay. The minister refused to discuss the interview, stating that he has nothing to communicate regarding the matter. After the interview Secretary Hay visited the navy department.

If the Turkish minister requested that the European squadron be kept away from Turkish waters, his request cannot be granted in all likelihood, even should this government desire to accede to it, as the navy department says that it will be impossible to communicate with the Brooklyn or San Francisco until they arrive at Beirut.

Chekib Bey assured Secretary Hay that the Turkish government had done nothing wrong and will use every endeavor to protect American citizens residing in Turkey. He also discussed the conditions of the insurrection in Tukey, and said that the Turkish government was not responsible for any of the disasters that had occurred.

Secretary Hay's call upon Acting Secretary Darling was for the purpose of ascertaining the whereabouts of the European squadron and also what their orders are. There is no intention of changing any orders at present, especially as the ships cannot be reached until they arrive at Beirut.

Late dispatches from Minister Leishman give in detail the conditions in Turkey and do not differ materially in tone from those previously sent. Minister Leishman does not, as reported in some quarters, request the withdrawal of the American ships from Turkish waters.

While reports by way of London state that no attempt was made upon the life of Vice-Consul Magelssen, official advices so far received show that such an attempt was made. The present status was known before the ships left Genoa and this government decided not to change the orders.

It is now stated, however, that should there be a calm and peaceful condition at Beirut when the ships arrive there, the matter of sending them to another port will be considered and possibly adopted.

The Turkish minister made no request upon Hay at the interview today regarding the movement of the United States war vessels, and nothing in this matter was promised by the state department.

POWERS GUILTY.

Jury Declares Him in Plot to Kill Goebel—Death Sentence.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 31.—The jury in the case of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with complicity in a conspiracy to murder Governor William Goebel, in January, 1900, today found the defendant guilty and imposed the death sentence.

Special Judge Robbins this afternoon formally overruled a motion for the granting of a new trial, and sentenced Powers to be hanged. After a declaration of the prisoner, "I am not guilty, judge," the court fixed November 25 next as the day for the execution. The attorneys for the defendant secured the granting of an appeal of the case to the Kentucky court of appeals and, if unsuccessful, they may try to get the United States supreme court to take it under consideration.

Powers was the coolest man in the court room when the verdict was read and the sentence pronounced against him. He was immediately removed to the Scott county jail, to be held there pending the appeal of his case to the higher courts. Powers refused to say anything after the rendition of sentence except that he said all that he cared to say in his speech to the jury.

FLUKE AGAIN.

For Third Time America's Cup Race Is Prevented.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Today's contest between the Reliance and Shamrock III ended in another fluke. Lack of wind prevented the defender from finishing within the time limit.

The American boat, however, led her rival over the course, and when the race was declared off, the Iselin yacht was a good distance ahead of the challenger and only half a mile from the finishing line.

SAILS FOR PHILIPPINES.

Transport Thomas Goes to Manila With Marines and $7,000,000.

San Francisco, Sept. 2.—The army transport Thomas sailed for Manila by way of Guam today. She carried 307 marines for the Philippines and Guam, twenty-five members of the Fourteenth cavalry and a few casuals.

In addition to a large quantity of freight, the Thomas takes to the islands $7,000,000 in treasure, of which $2,000,000 is in the new silver pesos, and the balance in Philippine silver certificates. It is guarded by Maj. F. H. Hardie, of the Fourteenth cavalry, and his detachment of twenty-five men.

TO FIGHT TRUST

STOCKMEN ORGANIZE AN INDEPENDENT COMPANY.

Capital Stock of Five Million Dollars, Majority to Be Placed in Escrow to Prevent Combine from Getting Hold of It--Several Plants Projected.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 2.—Twenty-five stockmen from different parts of the Western grass country met in the Midland hotel in this city yesterday and arranged to perfect the organization of a packing company to compete with the alleged packers' trust. The new company was named the Independent Packing Company.

Articles of incorporation will be drawn up during the day and signed at a meeting to be held this afternoon. The company will have a capital stock of $5,000,000 and will be incorporated under the laws of Arizona. Of the total capitalization, 51 per cent. will be so disposed of as to be held in escrow by the board of directors of the company.

This will assure stockmen who interest themselves in the plan that the company will always be controlled by stock interests. The rest of the stock will be sold to stockmen if possible, although no purchaser will be barred. The division of the stock as decided upon today was made to prevent any possibility of the alleged packers' trust gaining control of the new independent company. Two millions of the stock will be issued at first. The rest will be put out later.

Formerly it was part of the plan to include the United States Packing Company, of Pueblo, Colo., in the scheme. Now it is predicted on good authority that the Pueblo plant will never be built, but that its capitalization of more than $1,500,000 will either be transferred to the Independent Packing Company or be allowed to revert back to the stockmen who subscribed it. Charles F. Martin, secretary of the National Livestock Association, who was one of the promoters of the United States Packing Company, and a stockholder, is in Kansas City promoting the organization of the Independent Packing Company.

The Independent Packing Company will build one plant in the Missouri valley, but the exact location has not yet been decided upon. It is to be in operation in the fall of next year. Another plant will be built later, probably in Texas.

ARCTIC COAL FIND.

Rich Discovery Reported From Cape Lisburne.

Seattle, Aug. 31.—Vast coal discoveries have been made at Cape Lisburne, on the Arctic, according to Nome mail advices received yesterday. The story of the find and the experiences of the six discoverers are akin to romantic.

James Lacme was the head of the expedition. The six men, including William McGregor and William Starr, both well known in Nome, were left at Cape Lisburne and established camp there last fall. Cape Lisburne is about 300 miles from Nome across Kotzebue sound. They were left with plenty of provisions in a fine log cabin, with plenty of coal at their doors, with the promise that the officers would return on the first boat in the spring.

Through all the long winter months they worked, drilling, picking, digging their way through the tundra into the side of the cliffs. One vein of coal was uncovered—a seven-foot seam over 335 feet in length. Another tunnel through from the surface extends into the side of the cliff over 100 feet. The men are unable to say anything about the depth, but are sure that there is coal enough to supply all Alaska for the next ten centuries. For eleven months they worked and tunneled, looking for the promised relief in the spring.

For some reason the officers did not show up and the supply of provisions ran short. After trying to flag many different boats the men succeeded in getting the whaler Morning Star to stop and exchange provisions for coal. When the Thetis went by on her way to Point Barrow they tried to flag her, but the officers mistook them for natives and proceeded on their way north. The men knew that she must return some time, so they loaded their dory with water and provisions and worked their way to Point Hope. The men saw their plans carried out, for two days later the Thetis returned and they were able to get aboard and to Nome.

The men were comfortably housed and provisioned all winter. The weather was often severe and the snow very deep, but they had a fine log cabin, with plenty of coal and provisions and so did not suffer. It was only when their provisions ran short and they feared a famine that they became alarmed.

TO AN OLD PLAYMATE.

Your lips, dear girl, were roses,
Your hair was ripened wheat,
The brook forgot his song to hear
The music of your feet.

Your hands were swift white butterflies,
Your eyes were wells of blue,
Oh, what a riot in my heart
Was wrought by June and you!

And now for years beneath the grass
Your heedless hands have lain,
And recollection wakes in me
A hurt that scarce is pain.

Asleep with Nature, breast to breast,
How peacefully you lie!
Above your heart the care-free flowers,
And over them—the sky.

Naomi's Legacy.

HUSH, children! There's your father coming!"

Mr. Jobson fell, metaphorically speaking, like a wet blanket on the bosom of his family. They all trembled as he came in. Charley dropped the "Robinson Crusoe" that he was reading, and deftly substituted an arithmetic in its place. Juliet sewed harder than ever at her patchwork. Mrs. Jobson made haste to fling another log upon the fire, and the old grandmother in the corner drew her knit woolen shawl closer around her shoulders with a little shudder.

"Dear me!" said Mr. Jobson; "dear me! It's just as I said. There's another cold wave coming from the northwest, and coal is two shillings a ton higher. Goodnes knows what's to become of us all."

Presently he looked around inquiringly.

"Eh? How? What's that I smell? Chickens? Actually chickens roasting! Where's the cold pork that was left from yesterday's dinner?"

"I thought," said Mrs, Jobson apologetically, "that as we had so many young chickens coming on——"

"Every one of those chickens," said Mr. Jobson, speaking slowly and counting off the syllables on his fingers, "will be as good as a crown piece when the holidays come on. Poultry is going up—up—up, as steadily as a rocket, and here you are roasting it for an everyday dinner. I never saw such an extravagant manager as you are, Jane. Hereafter I shall count the fowls, and if one is taken away, I shall take means to know the reason why. And those in this house who are too dainty to eat cold pork may live on bread and cheese."

Mrs. Jobson murmured something about "trying to do what seemed right always," and a gloomy silence fell over the whole group.

"There's the wing of the old kitchen," said he. "I've put Naomi Brush out of it this morning."

Mrs. Jobson looked up in surprise.

"Put Naomi Brush out?" she repeated; "and what is the poor soul going to do?"

"That's her lookout," said Mr. Jobson; "she has preyed long enough on me and mine. I've got an offer of a crown a month from Tom Diggs for the old room. And I may as well say, now, that I don't at all approve of the way you women have been going on about old Naomi. I never could teach you the necessity for being economical. How am I ever to pay Jones the two hundred pounds that I owe him, if this is the way we are to go on? How——"

But here the old grandmother spoke out in a mild tone.

"Not by being economical at the expense of other people, Calvin," said she gently.

"God has said, 'Give, and it shall be given unto you.' He has not said, 'Scrape and pinch, and grind the faces of the poor, and you wil get rich.' Naomi Brush is solitary and friendless, and when you turned her from the sole shelter she has, you did a cruel and ungenerous thing."

And, taking up her knitting, the good old woman went quietly out of the room.

The children all stared.

Mrs. Jobson looked apprehensively at her husband, and Mr. Jobson himself turned all manner of colors.

"That settles the matter," said Mr. Jobson hoarsely to himself, as he walked out of the house with his hands in his pockets. "It isn't every son-in-law who would have borne the burden of a helpless old woman as cheerfully as I have done. But when Mrs. Price undertakes to dictate to me, she assumes a little too much. I'll tell Jane, this afternoon, that she must find some other home for her mother. I suppose she'll cry and make a great fuss over it, but I can't help that. Grandmother must go. I don't at all doubt that it's she who has been putting Jane up to all this senseless extravagance in the matter of charity.

In his intent self-absorption he almost stumbled over a portly little man in a fur-trimmed overcoat, who had ben coming in his direction with a resolute step.

"Oh, it's you, is it, Squire Jones?" said he obsequiously.

"Yes, it's me," said the squire, recovering his equilibrium with some difficulty. "I was just coming to see you, Jobson, about that little note of yours. I think I told you last week that I wanted the money. And I wish you to understand that I must have it, or I shall find myself compelled to foreclose on the mortgage."

Mr. Jobson grew pale.

"Isn't this rather sudden?" said he faintly.

The squire shrugged his shoulders.

"What would you have?" said he. "The money is overdue, and there's a considerable amount of interest still unpaid. To tell you the truth, Jobson, I don't like this way of doing business, and I want my money one week from to-day."

Mr. Jobson tore his hair.

"Two hundred pounds," he cried. "And in a week. Why, who ever heard of anything so cruel?"

"Cruel!" echoed the squire. Is it cruel of a business man to want his own back again? You should have thought of that before you borrowed it."

And the squire walked on.

Mr. Jobson kept his weary way, racking his brains to conjure up some escape out of the dilemma. Two hundred pounds! And in a week! How was the thing to be done?

* * * * * * *

By the side of a miserable old shanty by the road there was assembled a little knot of women. They whispered and glanced at him as he passed.

He stopped mechanically.

"What's the matter?" said he.

"It's old Naomi Brush," said they. "She's dead.

"Dead, is she?" said Mr. Jobson curtly. "She ought to have died half a dozen years ago."

When he came some in the clear winter twilight, he had fully resolved to cut down all unnecessary expenses. Grandmother must go.

"If there's no other place for her," he reasoned, "there are plenty of 'Homes for Aged and Indigent Women,' where I dare say we could get her in. Her influence over Jane isn't good. She teaches her to give to every tramp and beggar that comes along. Grandmother must go!"

But, as he came in, Mrs. Jobson met him at the door.

"Oh, Calvin," she cried breathlessly, "what do you think has happened? Old Naomi Brush, poor soul, is dead. She died suddenly of that heart difficulty which has been hanging over her so long!"

"Humph!" said Mr. Jobson. "And what is all that to me, I'd like to know?"

"More than you think," said Mrs. Jobson eagerly. "They found two hundred pounds, Calvin—yes, two hundred pounds—hidden away in a bag of rags which had formed her pillow for more years than anybody could remember. And there was a scrap of a will in her dress pocket, which Lawyer Hyde says is perfectly legal and correct—and every penny of it is left to—whom do you suppose? Why, to grandmother. To grandmother, who was so good to her for so many years."

"Yes," said the old lady mildly. "And I am going to give it to you, Calvin, to help you out with that debt to Squire Jones. Money is of no use to me, except as it may be of aid to my daughter and her husband—and in the country which I am nearing so fast, one of old Naomi Brush's prayers will be of more value to me than all the gold which was ever minted."

"Grandmother," said Calvin Jobson, with a suffocating lump in his throat, "I don't deserve this. No, I don't! I'm a mean, grasping, avaricious——"

"Hush, my son," said the old lady, "hush! We all have our failings. But we are none of us too old to learn better.

So the nightmare of a debt was paid—and grandmother still sits by the Jobson fireside. And Calvin is a wiser and a better man for the lesson he has had.—Hearthstone.

Masking Negatives.—Very effective results can be obtained by masking negatives so that a narrow white line appears around the border. To do this it is necessary to have some masks cut to definite sizes, but as very many are often required to suit the necessary size of picture required it is a somewhat troublesome business to cut out so many of them. A very simple plan is to make two right angles of some opaque material, such as the backing of roll film. If these two right angles are made sufficiently long and wide, they can be utilized for very many various sizes, say, from half-plate downward. The method is to place them over the film side of the negative, so as to inclose the requisite amount of view, and then to temporarily tack the two pieces together with stamp edging. The sensitive paper is then carefully adjusted over all, and the printing proceeded with.—Ex.

PROFIT FROM NICKELS.

It Has Made This Man Several Times a Millionaire.

The goddess Success does not confine her habitation to Wall street, to the giant trusts, to gold mining, to the cattle ranches of the west, or to the newly discovered oil fields of Texas. She may be found and wooed and won in every walk of life, and always stands ready to reward industry, integrity and ability. To win her golden favors it is not necessary to deal in railroads or to erect and combine giant manufacturing plants. She has smiled as encouragingly on the man dealing in five and ten cent articles as on the men who build locomotives for the trans-Siberian railroad.

F. W. WOOLWORTH.

Fifty-one years ago there was born on a farm at Rodman, Jefferson County, a boy baby. The baby grew to manhood with no better prospects than has each of a thousand and one farmer's boys. At 21 he went to Watertown, the nearest town of importance, and secured a clerkship in a store. For a month he worked for nothing. For the next three months he received $3.50 per week. Then for six months he worked for $4 a week. At the end of six years he was receiving $10 a week and had married. He seemed to be at the top of the only ladder in sight.

But he made up his mind there were other and higher ladders in the great outside world. From his employer he secured on credit a stock of goods to the amount of $350 and came to Utica, N. Y. Here he opened the first strictly five-cent store. Only a partial success followed. He removed to Lancaster, Pa., secured a store 14x35 feet and did his best. Success followed in a modest way. He opened a branch store in Harrisburg, Pa., 12 feet by 20 in dimensions; then another at York. He made a point of paying back his first loan as quickly as possible, saving every cent possible and buying and selling for cash. From this insignificant beginning the business has branched out until to-day the farmer's boy, Frank W. Woolworth, conducts 74 five and ten-cent stores in various parts of the country, sells goods to the amount of $10,000,000 a year, is worth several millions in the clear, and has just been elected President of the Guardian Trust Company, of New York. His advice to young men is:

"Live well within your means; save at least one-fourth your income, no matter how small; never run in debt; select that business which will be a pleasure to you."—Utica (N. Y.) Globe.

MARRIED A FAMOUS LAWYER.

MRS. CLARENCE S. DARROW.

She was Ruby Hamerstrom, of St. Louis, and a writer of some note. Mr. Darrow, a lawyer, of Chicago, represented the United Mineworkers in the arbitration proceedings which settled the great coal strike. The couple will spend a year in Europe.

Science and Invention

The house fly, with a total life of about ten days, develops in these periods: Egg from laying to hatching, one-third of a day; hatching of larva to first molt, one day; second molt to pupation, three days; pupation to issuing of the adult, five days.

The new boat of M. Turc, of the French navy, designed to pass through the waves without roll or pitch is described as a combination of submarine and high platform. The submarine is three hundred feet long, seventy-five feet wide and twelve feet deep, and is to contain boilers, engines and steering gear, which will be submerged to a depth of twelve feet. From the submarine will rise vertically two floaters, sixty-five feet apart, each two hundred feet long and ten feet wide.

In addition to an eight-inch disappearing gun, firing a light projectile by compressed air, there is, in an armory of the National Guard in Brooklyn, a model of a ship's cutter, carrying a crew of ten men and a one-pounder gun, and running on concealed wheels, which are driven by means of a rope attached to the oars. A rudder-post is geared to a guiding wheel in the stern, so that, with oars swinging and men bending to their work, the boat glides about the armory floor, and looks, in partial darkness, as if it were genuinely afloat. The boat and the disappearing gun, together with the model of a fort, enable the regiment to practise many of the manoeuvers of coast attack and defense as they are carried on in actual warfare.

A scientific investigation of muscular fatigue has been begun by M. A. M. Bloch. From questions sent to persons of many occupations he finds that it is not the most used muscles that are most subject to fatigue, but those that are kept under tension, although doing no work. The back, loins and neck need more exercise to strengthen them, the arms and legs less. The baker becomes first tired in the legs, the wood-sawyer in the calves of the legs or the loins, the road-digger in the legs, the blacksmith in the back and loins, the young soldier in the back of the neck, the horseman in the thigh, the artilleryman in the neck and loins, the immature violinist in the neck, the practiced violinist in the left hand, the expert fencer in the right shoulder, the oarsman in the calves and insteps.

The department of agriculture has undertaken a series of experiments intended to answer, if possible, the old question, "How long can seeds remain buried in the soil and still retain their power of germination?" Many extraordinary stories have been told of the prolongation of the vitality of seeds during many years, and even centuries, but very few actual experiments have hitherto been made. In 1901 Doctor Beal reported that he had found seeds which responded to germination tests after having been buried twenty years. The seeds buried by the agricultural department at the Arlington farm last December were packed with dry clay in porous clay pots, covered with saucers, and placed at various depths, from six inches to three and a half feet. There are 32 complete sets, in 3,584 pots, representing 109 species, 84 genera and 34 families. Tests are to be made at the end of 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, and 50 years.

The President's Trip.

The President's trip is likely to induce more of his countrymen to see the magnificent scenery of the West. He was happy in his choice among his companions, of two such lovers and interpreters of nature as John Burroughs and John Muir, writers whose preaching of the gospel of outdoor life is one of the sanest influences of our berated times. Mr. Roosevelt's debt of health to the West and his appreciation of its great natural features lend practical force to his wish that his countrymen shall know it better. His regretful statement that the larger proportion of visitors to the Yellowstone are foreigners would probably apply to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado as well, if not to the Yosemite. All three of these marvelous regions should be as familiar to our people as Niagara or the White Mountains. "The spoiled child," say the Japanese, "should be made to travel," a prescription which may well be made for the child in danger of being spoiled. It would be fortunate if well-to-do parents in the Eastern States could see the advantage of sending their sons out from the fret and luxury of our complex life into the wholesome calm, simplicity, and unforgetable majesty of these Western wonderlands.—Century.

Ice-Cream Sandwich.

For any social entertainment the following will be a novelty: Prepare a white ice cream for foundation, color one-half pink, violet or green, and flavor with strawberry, violet or pistachio. Flavor the white with vanilla, as this will bring out the other flavors and not interfere with them. Pack into pound baking powder cans and set in ice and salt for two hours. When ready to serve, wipe outsides of cans with a hot cloth and creams will slip out. Have at hand sponge cake cut with cover of baking powder can. With a warm knife slice the moulded cream; put two colors on each side of a cake dish; garnish some with blanched almonds, others with English walnut meats and fruit.—What to Eat.

French Omelet.

Break three eggs into a bowl, add three tablespoonfuls of water or milk, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and a few grains of pepper, then beat with a fork until well blended, no longer. Put a tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan and when hot turn in the egg mixture. As it cooks lift up the cooked egg with a fork, letting the uncooked run under next to the pan until all is of a creamy consistency. Then let it rest on the stove for a few seconds to brown slightly underneath, lift to one side, slip a knife underneath and carefully roll the omelet to the center or fold one-half over the other. Place a hot dish over the pan, invert them together, garnish the omelet with parsley and serve at once.

Raspberry Vinegar.

Put two quarts of fresh, ripe raspberries in a stone or china vessel, and pour on them a quart of vinegar. Let stand 24 hours, then strain through a sieve. Pour the liquid over two quarts of fresh raspberries and let stand again 24 hours. Then strain a second time. Allow one pound of loaf sugar to every pint of juice. Break up the sugar and let it melt in the liquor. Put the whole into a stone jar, cover closely and set it in a kettle of boiling water, which must be kept at a quick boil for one hour. Skim, and when cold, bottle the vinegar for use. Poured over cracked ice with a little water added, it makes a most refreshing summer beverage.—Good Housekeeping.

Roast Quails.

Draw and truss these the same as pheasants; cut some thin, square layers of fat bacon, just large enough to cover a quail, spread a vine-leaf over each of these, cut it to their size, and then tie them neatly on the breasts of the quails. Run an iron skewer through the quails, fasten this on to a spit, and roast them before a brisk fire for about a quarter of an hour, then dish them up with the watercresses around them, glaze the layers of bacon, pour some of the gravy under the quails, and serve.

Fish Chowder.

For fish chowder fry some slices of salt pork in an iron pot. Put in a layer of fish, cut in slices on the pork, then a layer of thinly sliced onions and one of sliced potatoes. Repeat until the quantity desired is obtained. Season each lawer of onions with salt and pepper. Split hard biscuits and place them on the sides and top. Add water enough to come into sight. When the potatoes are tender the dish is ready. Add half a pint of milk or a cup of cream and serve.

Devilled Pigeons.

Cut into small pieces three onions, three green peppers, and pound in a mortar. Add to them a teaspoonful each of chutney and mixed mustard, with a little salt. Put into a saucepan and put in half a pint of claret. Cook the pigeons in water till tender, arrange in a dish and pour this sauce over them.—The Epicure.

Venison Mutton.

One cup cooking wine, one cup vinegar, one grated nutmeg; pour over a leg of mutton of six or eight pounds; let stay a couple of days, turning two or three times. Roast from one and one-quarter to one and one-half hours. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour; add a little hot water, baste every fifteen minutes; currant jelly sauce.

Canned Corn.

Put ripe corn over the fire in boiling salted water and cook for twenty minutes. Take from the fire and cut from the cob. Put into jars on the stove in a broad pan of water. Bring this water to a boil and seal the jars immediately. Keep in a dark, cool place.

Frosted Cherries.

Dip the cherries—with the stems on and, if possible, the green leaves—in the white of an egg first and then in white sugar. Keep on ice, and serve for lunch in a glass bowl garnished with green leaves.

RED

Red is the color of danger, whether on the semaphore or on the skin. When the face is reddened by eruptions, when boils break out on the body, or the angry red of sores and ulcers is displayed in the flesh, it is nature's danger signal. The blood is obstructed and tainted by impurities, and there can be no safety until the blood is made pure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the effete matter which clogs and corrupts it. It cures pimples, boils, eczema, scrofula, sores, ulcers and other consequences of impure blood.

"I feel greatly thankful for what your medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Chas. Hood, of Kalkaska, Mich. "I suffered with scrofula of the head for twelve years. Tried every kind of medicine that I heard of but found no cure. Every one that looked at my head said they never saw anything like it. The last doctor I doctored with before applying to you I got worse every day. Was so miserable that I was unable to do any work at all. After taking two or three bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and using the local treatment you prescribed for me, I was cured and my head was entirely free from scrofula."

Accept no substitute for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is no other medicine which is "just as good" for diseases of the blood and the eruptions which are caused by the blood's impurity.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send twenty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or thirty-one stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

PORT ANGELES can have a wireless telegraph station if she wants it. The question is up to the people of this city.

GEN. LEONARD WOOD has just returned, so the dispatches say, from India where he has been studying the English method of "pacification" of the natives. He thinks he has a store of knowledge that will greatly assist him in the Philippines.

RUMORS current at Esquimalt, Victoria harbor, reach here to the effect that "a new fort will probably be added to the E-quimalt defense." It is to be situated at Albert Head, ten miles from Victoria. This should be good ammunition for Port Angeles to fire at Washington for expected defenses on this side. A short distance below this city we have the narrowest portion of the straits, and if Esquimalt guns can throw shells into this city why cannot an invading fleet be stopped where the straits is but nine miles wide?

COLONIST rates have again been scheduled for immigration purposes from September 15th to November 30th by all railroads. Last fall and spring thousands upon thousands of easterners were brought out here by these cheap rates, most of whom remain and locate in some of the counties of this state. This fall will be no exception and if Clallam wishes to be in the swim it must be alert.

Now that the postoffice investigations are drawing to a close many petitions are hastening to Oyster Bay to exert what influence they possess to have Bristow's report kept from the public. They argue that as the statute of limitation has run in some cases and as the slick grafters in other instances have so nicely covered their steps, that prosecution is impossible and to make the report public would not only do no good, but would do the party harm.

ORDINANCE NO. 316.

An ordinance to tax and regulate temporary stores and the temporary sales of goods, wares and merchandise in the city of Port Angeles, and providing a penalty.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PORT ANGELES DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1.—Before any transient person, firm, company or corporation shall expose for sale or sell within any building or enclosed or partially enclosed place within the city of Port Angeles, any goods, wares, or merchandise, other than that specified in Section 2 hereof, such person, firm, company or corporation shall pay to the city treasurer the sum of $10.00 per day for each day engaged in such sales for twenty days; after which time if the business continues, no license shall be charged.

SEC. 2.—Before any transient person, firm, company or corporation shall expose for sale or sell within any building or enclosed or unenclosed place within the city of Port Angeles, any cigars, fruit or confectionerys, such person, firm, company or corporation shall pay to the said city treasurer the sum of $5.00 per day for the first twenty days engaged in such sales, after which time if the business continues, no license shall be charged.

SEC. 3.—Any transient person, firm, company or corporation within the meaning of Sections 1 and 2 of this Ordinance shall be construed to be such person or their agents, who shall not have resided within this city continuously for two months next preceeding the time of commencing the business named in said Sections; Provided that when any such business, so stated, shall have been conducted in the city continuously for the period of six months, then the same shall be deemed to be a permanent business and the amount paid for the license shall be refunded; Provided further, that this Ordinance shall not be construed to apply to any purchaser of an established business, such business having been established for at least six months, and Provided further; That this Ordinance shall not apply to the sale of goods, wares and merchandise upon which the owner or owners shall have paid a tax upon such goods etc., taxed for the current year within the state of Washington, and of which payment they shall furnish satisfactory evidence to the officer demanding such license.

SEC. 4.—The city treasurer of the city of Port Angeles shall account for all monies received for licenses under this Ordinance in the same manner as monies derived from other licenses, except that the said monies so received shall not become the property of the city until thirty days after the said temporary business shall have ceased from which any such license shall have been received

SEC. 5.—Any person violating any provision of Section 1, hereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, each day business is done or attempted shall constitute a separate and distinct offense, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $100.00 or by imprisonment in the city jail not exceeding 30 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 6.—Any person violating any provision of Section 2, hereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, each day business is done or attempted, shall constitute a separate and distinct offense, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10.00 nor more than $50 00, or by imprisonment in the city jail not exceeding 20 days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 7.—All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SEC. 8.—This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage, approval, and from and after five days after its publication.

Passed, Aug. 19th, 1903.
Approved, Aug. 21th, 1903.

MUCH GOOD ACCOMPLISHED.

"SCHOOL DAY" Proves An Unqualified Success—Another Meet Next Thursday.

The work at the Central school grounds Thursday, in charge of the ladies of the Civic Club, was undoubtedly a success in every way. There was in the neighborhood of fifty men and boys out and each did good work with the result the ditch at first proposed was completed and considerable other work done which adds greatly to the looks of the grounds and guarantees comparatively dry grounds this winter—a thing much desired. Those present at the close of the day's work viewed it with pride and unanimously voted to have another trial next Thursday to complete some very needed work. As on this occasion, the ladies will again serve luncheon and a turnout of like size is again desired.

Thursday the patriotic workmen completed a very creditable ditch about 400 feet in length down the alley, back of the school building, to Peabody street, connecting with the city ditch to the gulch. Another ditch was run from the southeast corner of the building down Vine street to the First street ditch and a culbert was put in to allow teams to pass over. Considerable of the school grounds in this vicinity was also filled in, but this latter still remains very much uncompleted.

In the evening the high school scholars and their friends celebrated with a spud-bake and bon fire.

A good turnout next Thursday will put the grounds in most excellent condition, a much desired end, through little effort to the individual.

Eagles in Angeles.

Organize With a Membership Of Over Seventy.

Organizer J. E Lawrence, of Tacoma, who had been here for the previous two weeks succeeded by Saturday night with the assistance of local gentlemen interested in securing a big roll of charter members for the institution of an Aerie of the order of Eagles in this city and on Sunday a number of the Townsend birds came down to assist in organizing the order here. About seventy were initiated into the mysteries that day at the opera house and a grand celebration followed.

The following officers were chosen: Ralph Miller, past worthy president; Peter Grubb, worthy president; E. C. Fisher, vice president; C. H. Hirsch, conductor; T. J. Murphy, secretary; F. F. Miller, treasurer; Alex. McLeod, inside guard; John Spinks, outside guard; Tom. Oleson, J. M. Tuttle and A. Goldwater, trustees.

THE scandal affecting the administration of Indian affairs, and involving both the department of the Interior and that of Justice, is growing daily and already the revelations have caused the gravest concern to the administration which appreciates that the discovery of corruption in two important departments of the government, following so closely on the heels of the Postoffice scandals cannot but have a serious effect on the fortunes of the Republican party at the polls.

Last Saturday night about 9 o'clock as Mr. George Wiggins was passing up Lincoln street enroute to Norden hall to furnish music for a ball, he was stricken to the ground by an attack of sciatica rheumatism, and was unable to get the attention of passers-by for two hours. He was finally gotten to his home by one a. m. The cords of Mr. Wiggins left leg tightened up like a drum cord and brought him to the ground like a shot. By the time he reached home both hilower limbs were absolutely feelingless. Happily he is now again about, but loco motion as yet is slow.

Married—At the residence of the Baptist pastor on Pine Hill, Wednesday evening, Mr. Ole Engvolsen and Mrs. Lena Barger Miller were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock. The wedding was a private affair. Miss Mellie Linn and Miss Ipatia Dermul acted as witnesses. A light luncheon was served after the ceremony. The contracting parties are well and favorably known in town, Mr. Engvolsen being the proprietor of the Homestead Fruit Company, and a prosperous man. The bride, since coming here from Denver, has been in the employ of the Cushings and has rendered great aid throughout Mr. Cushings sad affliction and was graciously appreciated. Her many friends in Denver, Pittsburg, California, and Honolulu will be surprised to learn of her marriage. The young people will make their home on Ninth street where Mr. Engvolsen has a neat residence and the South half of the block facing the mountains between Chase and Peabody streets, in a high state of cultivation. Smallest Copy of Lord's Prayer.

Prof. Webb, of the Royal Microscopical Society, of Great Britain, possesses the smallest copy of the Lord's Prayer in the world. It is written with a diamond upon a piece of glass, and only the finest microscopes manufactured can distinguish the characters of the letters. The naked eye, even when aided by an ordinary magnifying glass, would not be able to read it.

The Lord's Prayer covers a space measured by one five-hundredth of an inch one way, and one six-hundred-and-third part of an inch in another direction. In other words, it means that with writing of that size, 74,115,500 letters can be placed in a single square inch. The force of this is easier comprehended when we remember that the Bible contains 33,566,480 letters, which means that the entire Christian Scriptures can be written legibly, twenty times repeated, within the single space of a square inch, and have vacant space left.

In an age of superlatives, "labor-saving devices" tell only half the story. "Life-saving" is often the more accurate term. A decade ago Congress decreed that all cars used in interstate business should be provided with automatic couplers. That year over four hundred men were killed, and more than eleven thousand injured in coupling cars by hand. Last year, despite vastly increased numbers of employes, only one hundred and sixty were killed and less than three thousand wounded. Automatic couplers have passed the experimental stage of "dollars on one hand and human lives on the other." Dollars as well as human lives are saved by the change.

An old-time political economist has been figuring up to find out who it is that the public pay best, and the following is the sum total: First—We pay best those who destroy us: Generals. Second—Those who cheat us: Politicians and quacks. Third—Those who merely amuse us: Singers, actors and musicians. Last, and least of all—Those who instruct us: Authors, schoolmasters and editors.

A man with a black eye would better tell the truth about it at once for every one believes the worst concerning it anyhow.

THE POPULAR PULPIT

THE FEVER OF LIFE.

By Rev. Percy Olton, D. D.

"And He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up and immediately the fever left her and she ministered unto them."—St. Mark i., 31.

There are few who will deny the fact that life in the great centers of industry is for the majority ten times more of a burden than anything else, and this not from lack of the necessaries of life, but from the strain and tension which must be undergone to secure the means of subsistence. It is not that the number of hours of the day's labor has increased, but that the amount of work per hour is greater. The facilities for lessening the drudgery of work have made a greater demand upon the attention and skill in producing the work.

Every faculty must be trained and alert if the intricate and delicately adjusted machine is to be kept running smoothly; every nerve must be on tension lest there be failure to supply the never-ceasing demands of the rapacious monster that throbs and pants and flies around in one ceaseless whirl. Work is done at high pressure. It is compressed. It is intense. It has been relieved of wearisome detail, and only the essence of labor is left.

Thus it happens that, while labor is not so exacting as regards time, it demands far more concentration. The bulk has been reduced, but the contents have been increased. This is true also of other departments of our modern life. Education has become a test of the ability to store up the most information in the least possible time.

And so it is with the social life of the present age. The question of pleasure has become absorbing. The thing is no longer a means to an end; it has become the end itself. People live for pleasure. They exhaust every energy in the pursuit of pleasure. Society has become more and more artificial. Simplicity and informality are two words not to be found in the dictionary of modern society. The life of the present generation is more complex, more exacting, more intense than of any former age. Our civilization has developed a malady hitherto unknown, and no better term can be found to describe it than to call it the fever of life.

Now, where shall we find the remedy? Certainly not out of the conditions that have produced the disease. There is no indication from the state of things that the remedy for the sickness will be found in the life of which it has become a part, and it is useless to expect that the trouble will disappear of itself. On the contrary, it seems to be taking firmer hold.

"The strenuous life" is a phrase with which we are all now familiar, and which we all admit is a true description of the present way of existing.

The question of the hour is, "What can be done to cure this disease—this fever of life—which threatens to consume the vitality of the present generation? Christianity points to the only One who has the power to perform the miracle of healing, and that One is the Great Physician, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. The Master of Life is here to tell us the secret of living. He has come to show men how to live.

Oh, that those who call themselves His witnesses and messengers would lay stress on this truth—that Jesus Christ has come to teach men how to live. He has come to restore the world to health, to free it of the bondage of death, to cure it of all its sins, its spiritual sickness.

The world to-day lies sick of a fever. It will never enter into full perfection of its life until it looks to Jesus, who has come to give it life. He is waiting to put His cooling, life-giving touch on the fever-tossed sufferer and to give it strength to rise up and perform its task. Both by teaching and example He has given mankind the example of the perfect life. Just in proportion as the world accepts this standard will it receive the more abundant life which is its inheritance.

Jesus is the interpreter of life. He holds the secret of the life which is, as well as the life which is to come. We don't know how to live, and we will go on blundering and wearing ourselves out until we take Him as our exemplar. The fever of life is the result of our experiment with the things that ought to make for our happiness. Somehow we cannot get the right proportion, and instead of receiving joy and peace and a larger life from our use of the mixture, we find ourselves weak and feverish and sick at heart.

Let us go to Him and take His life for our example. Let us note what things He counted precious and what things He rejected as harmful to the soul. Let us accept Him as the way and the truth and the life, and He will enter the room in which we are now lying sick of the fever of life—and He will take us by the hand and lift us up and fill us with new life for service to His glory and salvation of our fellow men.

PROBLEM OF PROPORTIONS.

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

Civilization has use for the money-maker. The shop and the ship and the railroad train are all permanent and lasting features in the elevation and development of man, but they are only instruments and not the end. The eye cleared of the fogs of selfishness that penetrates through the mists of passing and transient forces has a right to ask of us, What do you do it for and how do you do it? In the perspectives of life the words "prosperity" and "success" are words of no significance. They condemn perhaps more often than they commend. A. C. Harnsworth, the proprietor of the London Daily Mail and thirty other papers and magazines, is reported to have said: "As to the word 'success,' I detest it. The more I see of success the better I like failure. How many earnest, brave men one meets, men of splendid head and heart, who lack the small combination of fortune or wits that brings money and reputation. What people call success is a poor standard by which to judge a man. Taken as a whole, successful men are persons to keep clear of. Opportunity largely makes the man, and the poor creature should remember that."

It might be added that the opportunity which brings the so-called successes of life oftentimes contains as one factor a dull conscience, that is saved from nice discriminations of duty; a cold heart, not susceptible to the holy agonies and divine sympathies that most humanize the human soul. The true perspective of the business man puts the final test beyond the banker's footing, beyond his bonds and his real estate. Sooner or later, in health or in sickness, in joy or in sorrow, in triumph or defeat, in time or eternity, the business man's money will be put into this longer perspective of God, and will be judged not only by the motive and the method by which it was acquired, but by the end to which it was devoted and the condition in which the fortune leaves the fortune-maker.

The same delusion goes with the word "prosperity" as with the word "success." Is he prosperous who starves his heart in order to feed his stomach? Is he prosperous who loses his sleep in order to find his business? Is he prosperous who is impaled upon the financial spit, suffering daily a martyrdom like St. Lawrence on his gridiron? Is he prosperous who, growing weary of the ever-changing miracle of dawn and darkness, of summer and winter in his own land, tries to hide himself from his weariness in foreign lands, and there finds that what was not beautiful at home cannot be beautiful long abroad? He is prosperous whose soul is forehanded. He is prosperous whose life is linked to lasting interests, whose heart is anchored in permanent joys and growing inspirations. He alone is prosperous whose healthy body is a cradle to a healthy mind, whose diligent hand is open to the best causes, who never hesitates between the lower and the higher issues, who first pays for these things that have first claim upon his life, who lives here as in the constant atmosphere of heaven.

IT MEANS A DEAD CHURCH.

By Dr. W. B. Leach.

The conception of Christ held by church or individual determines the power and influence of that individual in Christian work. Dead churches have not a living Christ. Dead men, in spiritual things, have not the life in them. It is safe to say that 70 per cent of church members are to all appearances Christians. It does not take long to drive the Son of God out of a church. The fads and notions and show have no real place for worship these days.

Christ in the church is a conservative force, holding, controlling the energies in proper channels, until the highest and best results. It is an attractive force, gathering all the trends of human actions around the one centre and launching them against evil or lifting toward God. The powerlessness of God's church to-day is the misapplication of applied practical Christianity. Theoretical religion is doomed. Dogmatics are of the past.

A "FAKIR'S" CONFESSIONS.

Chicago, He Says, Is the Only "Square" City.

In the current Independent are published the confessions of a street "fakir" who for obvious reasons remains anonymous, from which account it appears that the business is profitable.

The fakir's real beginning as an independent operator was in Chicago, of which he says: "Chicago is the only 'square' town in this country—that is, 'square' from a fakir's or grafter's point of view. You pay for protection and you get it."

He paid the captain $5 for a week for permission to sell knife sharpeners, and gave the man on post about a dollar a day. He was warned not to try any "jamming" or "slum" at this low rate. These privileges cost $10 and $5 a day, respectively.

"Jamming" is getting possession of the money of a crowd on the understanding that it is to be given back, and then whipping up a fast team of horses and driving away. "Slum" is selling packages of jewelry, handkerchiefs, etc.

There are towns that are not "square." In Cleveland the confessing fakir paid for "protection" and was afterward arrested and fined. Then he went to New York, concerning which it is his testimony that it is a town of "easy marks." New York is "closed," except just before Christmas, but there is something doing in "sneak pitches"—that is, in "squaring" the man on post and selling for a few minutes between the visits of the "rounds." However, when the artist tried it he was arrested by the very man he had bribed, and thence went to Philadelphia, of which he says:

"Philadelphia is the cheapest city in the United States. The policemen are paid at the rate of $1.75 per day, and a fakir who gives one of them a quarter for protection is hailed as a Carnegie. For a dollar a day the guardian of the beat you are working on will keep your territory clear of other fakirs and vote you prince of good fellows.

"There is not much money to be made in Philadelphia by a fakir, for various reasons. First, the people have an inherited trait of thriftiness; second, they live their lives less feverishly than in any other large city of the United States; and there are 'home guards' in the town, who take care of all the surplus cash floating around."

New York and Chicago are the headquarters for new novelties, and fakirs of the first class secure the new things. The fakirs keep in touch with the novelty supply complaints for new things, and scan the papers constantly for announcements which indicate some unusual event that will draw a crowd.

"I think that for straight faking aluminium gas tips were the most profitable things I ever handled," says the account of the fakir in the Independent. "They cost me, with the brass pillar attached, $1.35 per gross. I laid out $500 in tips and printed matter, planned my campaign, and began an itinerary which occupied four months of my time. My bank account showed a balance to my favor just $4,527 in excess when I had completed my tour."

The Biggest Man.

Edward Beaupre, the biggest man in the world, was one of the sights on Broadway in New York the other day. Beaupre does not enjoy his unique distinction. Being independently wealthy and intelligent and refined as well he is not a sideshow sight. He stands 8 feet 3 inches in height and weighs 368 pounds. He wears a No. 8 hat and a 22 shoe. Beaupre weighed 9 pounds when he was born. He was just like other babies until, at the age of 3, he began to grow with remarkable speed. His parents are of normal size. He was 6 feet 4 when 9 years old. Now it takes 13 yards of cloth to make him a suit of clothes. He has two brothers and four sisters, none of whom is remarkable for size except one of the boys, aged 9, who is 5 feet 8 inches and growing at a rate at which he will soon catch up to his big brother.

TO WORKING GIRLS

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE

Every working girl who is not well is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice; it is freely given, and has restored thousands to health.

Miss Paine's Experience.

"I want to thank you for what you have done for me, and recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all girls whose work keeps them standing on their feet in the store. The doctor said I must stop work; he did not seem to realize that a girl cannot afford to stop working. My back ached, my appetite was poor, I could not sleep, and menstruation was scanty and very painful. One day when suffering I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found that it helped me. I continued its use, and soon found that my menstrual periods were free from pain and natural; everyone is surprised at the change in me, and I am well, and cannot be too grateful for what you have done for me."—MISS JANET PAINE, 530 West 125th St., New York City.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Take no substitute, for it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that cures.

Attorney General B. R. Wise, of New South Wales, has become the author of a new law similar to the compulsory arbitration act of New Zealand, and the people there are confident that the long struggle between labor and capital is at an end, and that there will be no more expensive strikes and lockouts to call for the sacrifice of thousands of dollars and scores of lives. The act provides that if a dispute arises it must be referred to the State court of arbitration for settlement, and that anyone who strikes, locks out, or has anything to do with inciting trouble shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine and imprisonment. The general result, Mr. Wise says, will be that a greater stability will be given to industry. Employers need no longer be afraid that their calculations will be upset by a sudden cessation of work because, even though disputes should arise, the act provides that work must go on while the difficulty is being referred to and settled by the court of arbitration. On the other hand the workman is in a position of greater security than he has ever before enjoyed, both because he can not be locked out and because the court can take notice of any abuse or injustice, or wrong in the condition of his employment, and, by the exercise of its power to declare a common rule, level up the conditions in the best conducted and regulated establishments. In other words, sweat shops will be driven out of business at once, and all men must receive living wages. Trades union will also be relieved of the danger of having their funds eaten up by sympathy strikes, and all that sort of thing, and in no more instances will the wealthy unions have to support the weaker ones. New South Wales has had wisdom enough to see the light and follow the good example set by New Zealand, and it is strange that Americans do not take a similar step. Strikes and lockouts are behind the times.

Half-Sick

"I first used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the fall of 1848. Since then I have taken it every spring as a blood-purifying and nerve-strengthening medicine."
S. T. Jones, Wichita, Kans.

If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It's a regular nerve lifter, a perfect blood builder. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

Ask your doctor what he thinks of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He knows all about this grand old family medicine. Follow his advice and we will be satisfied.

General Debility

Day in and out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself.

Food does not strengthen.

Sleep does not refresh.

It is hard to do, hard to bear, what should be easy,—vitality is on the ebb, and the whole system suffers.

For this condition take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It vitalizes the blood, gives vigor and tone to all the organs and functions, and is positively unequalled for all run-down or debilitated conditions.

Even Winners Can Be Sad.

"No," said the fat barber in the Broadway hotel, "I ain't playing the races nowadays. Fact is, I haven't got over being sore over the last one I made, and at that I won it.

"It was this way. I was working at the chair about 1 o'clock one day when in rushes a guy I knew, but not very well.

"'Got any money?' he says to me.

"'Touch,' says I to myself, so I told him I didn't have much, only what I'd made in tips that day, and I'd had to buy my lunch out of that. But he wouldn't give up.

"'Haven't you got even 50 cents?' he says.

"Well, I made up my mind I'd have to give up, and, anyhow, I didn't know but what he was good for it, so I hands over the half, and with that he rushes out.

"Wasn't more'n an hour later when he rushes back and shoves me three dollar bills.

"'What's this?' I says.

"'What is it?' he yells. 'It's money. The Mutt wins at 5 to 1. It's a shame you only had a half, but I put it in with mine.' And with that he hauls out a handful of ones and twos.

"Was I sore? I was."—New York Sun.

Few men went to college a generation or two ago unless they intended to enter one of the learned professions, and the proportion of intending lawyers, teachers, physicians and ministers was pretty uniform in each class. But this is all changed. In the graduating class of Harvard this year about a hundred and ninety of the total of more than six hundred intend to go into business. Law and teaching, together, attract about the same number, and only forty-six intend to be physicians, and six will preach. The significant fact to be noted in these figures is that, in spite of the lure of the almighty dollar, so many young men who intend to engage in commercial pursuits have thought it worth while to seek the higher education.

NOTED WHITE HOUSE MISTRESS

Harriet Lane Johnston, Favorite Niece of James Buchanan.

Mistress of the White House at 24, hostess at 27 to Edward, Prince of Wales, Harriet Lane Johnston, who was buried the other day at Baltimore, was a famous woman in the administration which preceded the Civil War. She was then unmarried and as the favorite niece of President Buchanan presided over the executive mansion during her uncle's term.

HARRIET JOHNSTON

She was a tall, well-formed girl with golden hair, violet eyes and a general attractiveness which was quite unusual. She fulfilled her duties as chief lady of the nation with much graceful taste and dignity. Under her regime the social life of the city was particularly brilliant. Her tact was frequently put to the test in managing the discordant elements created by the impending Civil War, but she met all demands with such success that she was able to preserve social unity up to the very eve of secession. That his hostess made a favorable and lasting impression upon King Edward seems to be shown by the fact that Mrs. Johnston received a personal invitation to attend his coronation, and did so as his personal guest. Luxurious quarters in the steamers were provided for her, and the King was most gracious to her while she was in London.

Prior to the period which she spent in the White House Miss Lane had been abroad, while her uncle was in the diplomatic corps, and became a great favorite of Queen Victoria. In 1866 she married Henry Elliott Johnston, and spent the years of her married life in Baltimore. Her husband and two sons died some years ago, and since then she had lived much of the time at Lancaster, Pa.

IN HAMLET'S TOWN.

Danish People Will Erect a Monument to Shakespeare.

Three hundred years have passed since Shakespeare gave the world the first copy of his wonderful Hamlet, and now the people of Denmark, to whom the unfortunate Prince is far more of a reality than any other country in the world, are about to celebrate the event, which brought world-wide fame to their town of Elsinore and the great Castle of Kronborg, the scene of the entire tragedy.

THE SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL.

A short time ago a few of the citizens of Elsinore, who are intensely patriotic, agitated the idea of commemorating the event which had immortalized both the seaside town and the magnificent old castle.

The most prominent men in Denmark at once interested themselves in the celebration. The committee was composed of the ex-Prime Minister, Hannibal Sehested, and of poets, scholars and actors whose names are familiar beyond the borders of their own country.

At their commission Louis Hasselriis, the well-known Danish sculptor, undertook the work of a monument to the Bard of Avon. Hasselriis has shown Shakspeare in a sitting posture. On the front of the plinth on which the statue is mounted are the coats of arms of England and Denmark, and between them a great wreath of flowers from each country's national tree.

Why He Asked.

An Englishman was traveling not long ago in the compartment of a London train. At one of the stations a German entered the carriage and took the seat opposite the Englishman.

When the train had started the German, seeing the other's cigar, boldly asked for one.

Although astonished at the request, the Englishman nevertheless pulled out his case and handed it to the stranger. The German lighted the cigar, took a few puffs, and, beaming affably through his spectacles, said:

"I vould not haf drubled you, but I had a match in mine boggit, and I did not know vat to do mit him."

The unexpected never happens. There is always some wise guy standing around who says, "I told you so."

CATARRH DESTROYS THE KIDNEYS

Was Miserable--Could Not Stand Up or Walk--Peruna Cured.

Many Persons Have Catarrh and Don't Know It.

Mr. James M. Powell, 633 Troost street, Kansas City, Mo., vice grand of I. O. O. F., of Cherryville, Kan., writes:

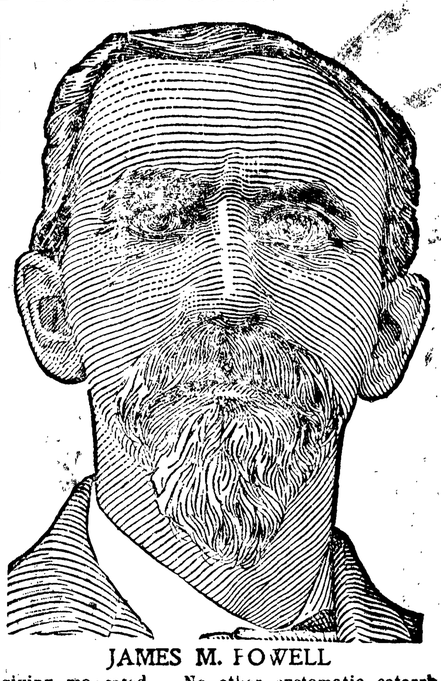
"About four years ago I suffered with a severe catarrh of the bladder, which caused continued irritation and pain. I was miserable and could not stand up or walk for any length of time without extreme weariness and pain. I began taking Peruna and it greatly relieved me, and in eleven weeks I was completely cured and felt like a new man."—James M. Powell.

Hundreds of Dollars Spent in Vain.

Mr. Cyrus Hershman, Sheridan, Ind., writes:

"Two years ago I was a sick man. Catarrh had settled in the pelvic organs, making life a burden and giving me little hope of recovery. I spent hundreds of dollars in medicine which did me no good. I was persuaded by a friend to try Peruna. I took it two weeks without much improvement, but I kept on with it and soon began to get well and strong very fast. Within two months I was cured, and have been well ever since. I am a strong advocate of Peruna."—C. Hershman.

Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys, liver and other pelvic organs, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. No other systematic catarrh remedy has as yet been devised. Insist upon having Peruna. There are no medicines that can be substituted.



JAMES M. POWELL

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Doctor Podgy looked at his fever-and-ague patient with scientific interest. Then, after taking his pulse and temperature, he proceeded to ask the usual questions.

"Um-m!" he said, thoughtfully. "The attacks of fever and the chills still appear on alternate days. Do you think—is it your opinion that they have decreased in—er—violence, if I may use the word?"

"Doctor," said the patient, feebly, "on fever days my head's so hot I can't think, and on ague days I shake so I can't hold an opinion."

Chronic Sores
Eating Ulcers, A Constant Drain Upon the System.

Nothing is a source of so much trouble as an old sore or ulcer, particularly when located upon the lower extremities where the circulation is weak and sluggish. A gangrenous eating ulcer upon the leg is a frightful sight, and as the poison burrows deeper and deeper into the tissue beneath and the sore continues to spread, one can almost see the flesh melting away and feel the strength going out with the sickening discharges. Great running sores and deep offensive ulcers often develop from a simple boil, swollen gland, bruise or pimple, and are a threatening danger always, because, while all such sores are not cancerous, a great many are, and this should make you suspicious of all chronic, slow-healing ulcers and sores, particularly if cancer runs in your family. Face sores are common and cause the greatest annoyance because they are so persistent and unsightly and detract so much from one's personal appearance.

Middle aged and old people and those whose blood is contaminated and tainted with the germs and poison of malaria or some previous sickness, are the chief sufferers from chronic sores and ulcers. While the blood remains in an unhealthy, polluted condition healing is impossible, and the sore will continue to grow and spread in spite of washes and salves or any superficial or surface treatment, for the sore is but the outward sign of some constitutional disorder, a bad condition of the blood and system which local remedies cannot cure. A blood purifier and tonic is what you need. Something to cleanse the blood, restore its lost properties, quicken the circulation and invigorate the constitution, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy.

SORES ON BOTH ANKLES.

Gentlemen: About ten years ago a small sore came on each of my ankles. Dew got into the places and they became large, eating ulcers, and I suffered intensely for nearly ten years. I had spent more than $500.00 trying to get well when I chanced to see S. S. S. advertised in a Memphis paper. I began to take it and was cured. My limbs have never been sore or given me any pain at all since. I have recommended S. S. S. to a great many people, and am now giving it to my nine-year-old son for Eczema. During my long sickness I was living near Memphis, Tenn., but have since removed to Kansas City, and am now residing at No. 614 East Sixteenth Street.

Mrs. B. A. HARRIS.
Kansas City, Mo.

S. S. S. reaches these old chronic sores through the blood. It goes to the very root of the trouble and counteracts and removes from the blood all the impurities and poisons, and gradually builds up the entire system and strengthens the sluggish circulation, and when the blood has been purified and the system purged of all morbid, unhealthy matter the healing process begins, and the ulcer or sore is soon entirely gone.

SSS

S. S. S. contains no mineral or poisonous drugs of any description, but is guaranteed a purely vegetable remedy, a blood purifier and tonic combined and a safe and permanent cure for chronic sores and ulcers. If you have a slow-healing sore of any kind, external or internal, write us about it, and our physicians will advise you without charge. Book on "The Blood and Its Diseases" free.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

NOW IN EFFECT.

Compulsory School Law Makes It The Duty of Teacher and Clerk to Report All Cases of Neglect.

The essential provisions of the law are as follows:

Attendance of all childeen between 8 and 15 years of age is compulsory for at least four months of each school year, and for five months in graded school districts in incorporated cities or towns.

Attendance for three months must be consecutive.

The county shperintendent is authorized to excuse any child for the following reasons: (1) Physical or mental condition. (2) Efficient instruction at home, (3) Attainment of reasonable proficiency in the common school course. (4) In case of child under 10 years of age, distance of two miles from the school house.

At the end of the first month of school after the beginning of the school year, it is the duty of the teacher to report in writing to the clerk the names and ages of all school children enrolled in and attending school during the first month together with the number of days that each child has attended.

Within ten days after the close of the first month of school, or at any time upon request of county superintendent, it is the duty of the clerk to report in writing to the county superintendent the names of children between 8 and 15 years of age not enrolled or not in attendance.

The county superintendent must notify parents of the provisions of this act, immediately upon receipt of the clerk's report.

After notifications of the provisions of the compulsory law, any parent further neglecting or refusing to send a child to school shall, upon complaint of county superintendent, be summoned before the superior court.

The law provides penalties for parents or guardians for non-compliance with the law; also, for teachers, clerks and county superintendents who wilfully neglect their duties.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux" (dysentery) says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb,

Vice-President Woman's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
