VOL. 4. NO. 13. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, AUGUST 25, 1893. PRICE FIVE CENTS

FINAL SALE PUT OFF.

The United States Land Commissioner

POSTPONES THE FINAL SALE OF THE

Unoccupied Portion of the Angeles Townsite Reservation Unil January, 1894—Settlers Will Doubtless Be Permitted to Continue Filing and Proving Up Until That Day—Probable Cause of the Postponement.

United States Land Commissioner Lamoreux has officially notified the register and receiver of the land office at Seattle of the postponement of the final day of sale of the unoccupied portion of the Port Angeles government townsite reservation.

While the general public and those directly interested commend the wisdom of the commissioner's action, the opinion is generally held that the settlers should be permitted, as they doubtless will be, to continue uninterrupted, filing and proving up until the final day of sale.

In a second telegram received at the land office, in reply to an inquiry from the register for an explanation, Commissioner Lamoreux says:

"Discontinue notice of publication of sale of townsite as a whole in the Port Angeles and Seattle papers as ordered in instructions of July 17, and also final proof notice."

There have been so many vexatious delays in the settlement of the reservation that Register Reed long since had become thoroughly convinced of the fact that it would be a physical impossibility to pass upon all of the notices within the time specified by the general land commissioner, and had, consequently, urged that the department postpone the final day of sale until January 1st, 1894.

The action of the department, therefor, in ordering the postponement, doubtless, was prompted by the urgent request of the register. The register did not, however, intend that the department should suspend continuous filing and publication of final proof notices, and the action of the department as regards these instructions, doubtless, arises from a misunderstanding which can easily be satisfactorily adjusted. To say the least, a strenuous effort is being made to that end.

Commenting upon the postponement Register Reed said to a representative of the Post-Intelligencer:

"The postponement of the sale was all right, but I do not understand the reasons for dircontinuing the publication of the notices. What the people of Port Angeles wanted and what we wanted here in this office was a longer time between the beginning of taking proof of settlement and the time of sale. The people wanted the time because many of them have their money tied up in the suspended First National bank there and cannot get it out. What they wanted was to prove up on their claims and then have time to leave the town and earn enough money to pay the assessed valuation for their lots before the sale would occur. We, in the office here, wanted a longer time to examine the proofs submitted. The instructions sent stated that the lots must be sold in October, so we put the date off as long as possible and set it for the 31st, and this only gives us thirty days to examine these proofs.

"There are some 2,000 claims to be examined and it will take at least ten or fifteen minutes to examine each claim, so that to have all that work crowded into thirty days will swamp the office. Now that notice has been given of the sale, many people have gone to the expense of buying blanks, paid the printer's fee for publishing them and are now daily expecting to see them in print, and are looking to see when they must appear here and submit their proof, but now they must stay there and the work will have to be done all over again."

A PLAIN STATEMENT OF FACTS.

Mr. Malony Not Responsible for the Delay im Filing.

In the Seattle Post-Intelligencer of last Wednesday was published a severe and an unjustifiable criticism of Mr. Thomas Malony, accusing that gentleman of having used his influence in causing the postponement of the final sale of the reservation for purely personal reasons.

The slanderous insinuations were most emphatically denied by the editor of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER in the following statements which appeared in yesterday's Telegraph:

The article in Wednesday's Post-Intelligencer accusing by insinuation the local democracy and especially Thomas Malony with the responsibility of laying the wires which resulted in the order from the department delaying the Port Angeles reservation matter is untrue and unjust.

John W. Troy, editor of the Democrat-Leader and business associate of Thomas Malony, to-day said that it is not only unjust, but it is the rankest of falsehoods.

When shown the Post-Intelligencer article he said: "The proprietors of the Democrat-Leader did more than all else combined to have the Port Angeles reservation appraisement accepted by the secretary of the interior, acting as they did not only as individuals, but through those in the state who have influence at Washington City, who, be it said to their credit, have always done their best. It is true, we did what we could to get a democrat appointed register of the land office at Seattle, but we never asked to have matters delayed until the change took place. We have also urged that the day of the final sale be postponed for the very same reasons stated by Mr. Reed in the Post-Intelligencer yesterday.

"The occasion for the visit of the proprietors of the Democrat-Leader to the Seattle land office was not for the reason that the populist organ was getting most of the notices of final proofs, but because the land officials had positively refused to permit the Democrat-Leader to have a single notice, while all the other organs were treated fairly. The chief clerk, Mr. Reed being absent, admitted that this was the only instance of a like descrimination in the district.

"This interview was held in the presence of a prominent Seattle democrat, who described the descrimination as infamous and asserted that it made his democratic blood boil.

"Telegrams were at once sent to Washington City urging the commissioner to raise the boycott. These, together with those asking for the appointment of a democrat and urging that the date of sale be postponed, are the only telegrams or letters Mr. Malony, myself or any other democaat have sent to Waahington City having anything to do with the Port Angeles reservation. Mr. Reed promised us our share of the printing, so we let the matter drop, and Mr. Malony was as much surprised as any man in Port Angeles when the news of the delay was received here and went to Seattle at once to ascertain, it possible, the cause of it. We stand ready to hasten the thing as much as possible in all except the date of final sale, which should be postponed."

There is scarcely any doubt but the matter will be properly and satisfactorily adjusted, so as settlers may file and prove up without cessation until January 1st, '94. And the commendable action of the commissioner in postponing the final day of sale meets with universal approval.

A printer walked into a certain business house in his rounds to know who desired anything in the way of advertisements and noticed that a drummer stood by the counter with his sample valise ready to open. "Anything you want to say in the paper this week?" said the printer to the business man behind the counter. "No', said the business man, "I don't believe in advertising." The drummer waited until he was half way to the door, then slowly taking up his sample valise, remarked: "Well, that lets me out. I do not care to sell on time to any man who, at this age, does not believe in advertising. I prefer to deal with live men When I want to strike up a trade with a dead man I'll go to the graveyard. Good Day.—Ex.

HARRIS-DOWD NUPTIALS

Celebrated Wednesday at Lake Southerland. A Pleasant Affair.

The first wedding for Angeles' beautiful resort at the lakes was celebrated Wednesday, August 23, at the hotel Fisher on lake Southerland.

The contracting parties were Mr. Edward F. Harris and Miss Mabel Dowd, both well known and popular young people of the county. Judge C. W. Brewster, officiating.

Those of the invited guests who were fortunate to respond, assembled at the popular hotel Fisher, and were fittingly entertained by mine host, Mr. Herman Fisher and his estimable wife, until the hour which was to make the happy young couple one arrived.

The bride mas becomingly attired, The groom wore the conventional black.

The ceremony passed off pleasantly, after which an elaborate wedding breakfast, consisting of all the delicacies of the season, and served in eight courses, was served in the dining room of the Hotel Fisher and was much enjoyed, especially by those whose appetite had been whetted by the pleasant drive from Port Angeles.

Those present besides the contracting parties were:

Judge C. W. Brewster, Mayor N. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McDonnell, Mr. and Mrs. James Frank, Mrs. Dingle, Mrs. A. Goldwater and two sons, Miss Jennie Crockett, Miss Maggie Fend, Miss Zoa Shields, Messrs. H. J. Fieldsen, E. E. Fisher, H. M. Fisher. Chas. Cook, J. A. Wilson, Ed Bell, Geo. White, J. H. Young, W. W. Dedman, W. P. Smith, Portland; Paul Barnes and A. A. Smith.

Mayor Smith and Judge Brewster returned home in the afternoon, making the 15 miles in 2½ hours. which speaks more plainly than words for the good condition the roads to the lakes, for which the enterprising citizens of the neighborhood are deserving of great credit, and which add much to the attractions of this deservedly popular resort.

Mr. Harris, the groom is recently from Leadville, Colorado; having been here but a short time, during which he has made many friends. The bride, Miss Dowd, is an attractive and accomplished young lady, who recently came here from Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will reside at Lake Crescent.

The newly wedded couple were greeted by the steam launches as they approached Lake Crescent, with a whistle serenade.

Social Dance at Lake View House.

Another of the semi-monthly social dances was given at the Lake View House, Lake Southerland, last Saturday evening. The entire company who were privileged to attend, unite in declaring the party one of the most pleasurable of the season.

The following were among the guests of the evening:—Captain and Mrs. Horn, Capt. and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Alice Sweet, Mrs. Steve Hall, Mrs. David Govan, Mrs. Holden, Mr, and Mrs. R. McDonnell, the Misses Minnie Chase, Maud Van Wormer, Lillie Horn, Alice Nailor, Messrs. R. T. Smith, Geo. Davis, H. J. Lipsett, J. C. Haswell, Wm. Chillman, James Gould, Wm. W. Gould, Frank Ackles, Joe Ducat, R. N. Getty, A. A. Bohad, Mr. and Mrs. Ahola and daughter, Mr. John Harding, W. D. Dawson, C. A. Cherry, Frank Austin, Otto B. Hart and Paul Barnes.

An Enterprising Firm.

Harry Greenberg, of the U. S. Clothing House, who is in New York, telegraphed his brother, Charles, of the Whatcom house, that he has an opportunity to purchase an elegant stock, cheap, and for him to come to Angeles and find out what is needed. He will arrive Sunday.

THE STREET COMMISSIONER WILL Begin Work on Tumwater Street—Bowman Must Replace Piles on Front Street Extension—Bridge Will Be Built Across Frazier Creek—Ordinances Referred Back to the City Attorney.

At the regular meeting of the common council last Wednesday evening the mayor being absent, Councilman Rose was called to the chair. Councilmen Reed, Carver and Ristine being present.

Ordinances No. 181 and 182 were referred back to the city attorney. The clerk was authorized to write to Seattle for plows, wheelbarrows and scrapers to be used in street grading work.

The street commissioner was authorized to build a bridge across Frazier creek at A and Third streets, instead of completing former work on Third street.

The council ordered that the district between Vine and Peabody streets be made regulation sidewalk district on south side, and such improvements charged against abutting property.

The matter of Bowman adjusting piles removed in making improvement on Front street extension was referred to the city attorney for action.

The commissioner was authorized to do work on Tumwater street before other streets. The council adjourned.

THE NEW CITY HALL.

The Arrangement of the Various City Office—The Fire Department.

Tho two-story frame structure on the corner of Oak and First street, which will be used for city purposes is rapidly nearing completion. In the basement have been arranged apartments for the manager of the electric lighting plant and the street commissioner.

The first floor has been divided into a large room for the hose cart and other fire apparatus, and neat, attractive offices for the clerk, treasurer and police justice.

The second floor has been divided equally into two rooms, one of which will be used for a hall by the fire department, the other for the council chamber. The most serious objection to be urged against the plan of the building is that the council room is altogether too small, and the fact of it being located on the second floor will doubtless prove very inconvenient.

A bell tower reaching heavenward has been erected, which gives the architectural appearance of the edifice a strikingly peculiar effect.

The structure, while not as imposing or of the solid, substantial character a city of the importance and flattering prospects of Angeles demands, reflects credit upon the foresight of the municipal government in securing at this time while property is low, a permanent home for the city.

Marriage and Hard Times.

The records in the office of that most obliging gentleman, known to the masses as Auditor Troy, but to the few who are seeking marriage licenses as Cupid Troy show that hard times have little effect on the matrimonial market. The past few months have been of a depressing character in the world of money vet Mary and Jim have found it necessary to marry just as they did when there were more jobs than men, says the Tacoma News. The banks may fail, railroads may go into the hands of receivers, money may be hidden away in stockings and coffee pots, the employed may be hungry and the employed may go thirsty, but Cupid blinds his stricken game te all these material elements in the situation and sends them scurrying over the country for marriage licenses and preachers, as if there was no time to be lost.

Beecher once said that the people who wanted to marry were like limited trains—only death or disaster could delay them. There is nothing in this to make the cynical smile. Nature insists that she shall not be hampered by the demands of conventional society. A Queen Anne cottage was not necessary for Adam and Eve, and Nature sees no reason why she should be thwarted today because Queen Anne cottages are the fashion. Love laughs at locksmiths, likewise at stringency in the money market, and who dares say that Love is not a very cunning and wise youth.

LAST HOURS OF THE SESSION.

The Teachres' Institute Adopts a Series of Resolutions.

Last Friday being the closing day of the teachers' institute, the morning session opened with a class recitation by Miss Guptill. The recitation illustrated how pupils may be interested and instructed by a story lesson. The subject taken from the recitation was the "Wreck of the Hesperus." The lesson illustrated the points made by Prof. Tiffany in the morning's session,

In a short address Prof. Bean thanked the teachers for courtesies extended, and briefly treated of the subject, "The Teacher as a factor in Society." He said that it was a well known fact that the teacher was not as great a factor as he should be. The speaker requested teachers to reach for the cause and then endeavor to remedy it. The time is coming, continued the speaker, when teachers will be admitted into every home where he teaches, but before this they must be broad enough not to be so narrow minded that they can talk of nothing outside of their profession. The teacher must be broad enough to talk about topics of natural interest outside his profession.

The last subject on the pragram, "Character;" was interestingly treated of by Prof. White. The points standing out in bold relief were: Ambition, love for humanity, intellect and will.

The following resolutions were read and adopted:

Whereas, the teachers' institute of 1893 has come to a close, we, the teachers of Clallam county, feeling that we have had an exceedingly pleasant and profitable institute, do resolve,

1st. That we extend our sincere thanks to Prof. F. A. White for the deep interest he has manifested in the teachers, and for the successful way in which he has conducted the institute; and to Prof. O. A. Tiffany and Miss Ella Guptill for the valuable instructions that they have given in methods of teaching.

2nd. That in Supt. Bean we recognize an able and efficient factor in educational affairs of this state, and are grateful to him for the many excellent thoughts which he has given us, and feel that we have been honored by his presence.

3rd. That we compliment Supt. A. B. Dorsey, having secured such valuable assistance, and for the judgment and discretion he has displayed in the capacity of superintendent of the schools of this county, and that we are especially grateful to the committee on music and entertainment for making this institute a source of social enjoyment. To the secretary our thanks are due for the very able manner in which the minutes have been kept. We are also grateful to the school board for the use of the school house and to the people of Port Angeles for the many courtesies shown us.

A. M. JOHNSTON,
T. WAGNER,
D. A. CHRISTOPHER, } Committee.

Supt. Dorsey thanked Prof. White, Supt. Bean, Miss Guptill and Prof. O. A. Tiffany for their valuable assistance in making the institute a success, also thanking the committee for their earnest endeavor in aiding him in the work of the institute. The institute then adjourned.

Language of the Forehead.

Descending to the analysis of single features it will be instructive to look critically at the writing of the forehead, writes John Lambert Payne in an exhaustive article describing "What is Written in a Woman's Face" in the September Ladies' Home Journal. It is not always an easy thing to measure by the eye the actual width or heighth of this portion of the head, because of the volume of hair which often encroaches toward the eyes; but it is fairly safe to conclude that the size of a forehead has a direct relation to brain capacity. This is subject only to qualifications as to intensity and activity which need not now be considered. For all purposes within the range of this sketch it may be said that a high and broad forehead denotes intellectuality, with an acute nervous temperment, though only too often lack of balance. A slightly-sloping forehead indicates availability of talent, and when the slope is caused by high perceptives lying over the eyes it may also be taken as showing powers of keen observation If the slope is found without this fullness over the eyes it may be accepted as the evidence of weak reasoning powers, for the forehead for the forehead is undoubtedly the seat of the mental faculties. Mirthful women, with a fine sense of the ridiculous, are usually marked by a distinct prominence at what may be called the upper corners of the forehead. Fullness in the centre, partly covered by the hair, suggests good nature and friendliness, while roundness between the hair line and the center of the head plainly indicates abundant generosity and sympathy. Most women have an active appreciation of the artistic and decorative, and hence it is that in most faces is seen a plumpness over the eyebrows. A noticable development about half an inch above the outer end of the eye brows is a characteristic of pronounced musical persons.

Four Romantic Maids Disappointed.

Last July a party of young ladies were spending the day at Plum island on the coast of rock ribbed Essex. While idling on the beach, watching the rippling waters gently kiss the pebbly shore, influenced by the surroundings, the conversation assumed a romantic turn. It was proposed to write a letter, inclose it in a bottle and cast it to the waves, where after many days it might again return.

For days afterward the young maidens indulged themselves in the fancy that mayhap some Romeo, with eyes that smacked of sunny Spain, would find their billet and return an appropriate answer.

The days, however, quickly flew, and still no tidings, until one day the welcome double knock of the postman was heard at the door of one of the signers of the letter, and the letter so eagerly looked for came. The glad intelligence was quickly conveyed to the other fair maidens, and a cluster of heads was eagerly bent over the missive.

Such formalities as "Savannah, Ga., Nov. 15, 1892," were quickly passed by, and the words "Dear Lady or Ladies" evoked a chorus of "Ohs!" "Ahs!" and "How lovely!" The writer went on to state that he had picked their messenger up Nov. 10, 400 miles from the mouth of the Savannah river. As their names had been signed to their little message a tinge of rosy red crept slowly o'er their faces when they read, "I, too, have been at the Bluffs, and have walked around Plum island and picked up shells on the rocks, and have looked over to Squam and Lanesville." "Who is he? Oh, who is he?" quickly came the interrogation from one of the fair crowd.

But they were obliged to guess, for their Romeo had signed, "Truly yours, S. C. S."—Boston Journal.

Jury Trial Abolished in Bengal.

The abolition of trial by jury in Bengal—carried out as it has been by a stroke of the pen of the lieutenant governor, Sir Charles Elliott—has created the greatest excitement and indignation throughout India, except of course in the most reactionary strata of Anglo-Indian officialism.

Trial by jury was instituted in 1862. It was one of the first and most precious steps toward the redemption of the promises made to the people of India on the resettlement of the government in 1858. That it has been an unqualified success I should be the last to affirm, but to sweep it away at a moment's notice, without reserve or qualification, without public debate or deliberation, in one presidency only, and that the most wealthy and influential, is at once an insult and an injury to the whole people of India.

That it is so felt I have abundant evidence, for I have been literally overwhelmed with communications from India on the subject, and among my correspondents are all sorts and conditions of the queen's Indian subjects. The matter will call for the attention of a Liberal house of commons at an early date, and a ministry which numbers Lord Ripon among its members will not find the proceeding easy to defend.—London Truth.

Allee Samee Chinese.

The patent office recently granted a patent on a device worthy of the ancient Greeks. It is a system of finger tapering and joint reducing bands. The idea is to make thimble shaped hands of thin and pliant aluminium in sets of various sizes to fit the fingers and thumbs, and by wearing them at night gradually produce the slender and tapering fingers so much admired by the fashionable half of the world.

The aluminium bands are provided with rings, which are crowded down on the outside so as to compress the fingers. It is said that these bands have been thoroughly tested by several of the best known ladies of fashion in Washington and New York, and they speak of them in the highest terms of praise.—Washington Letter.

A World's Fair Scheme.

A new scheme, said to be officially connected with the music bureau of the Columbian exposition, is announced. A corporation has been formed, capitalized for $2,000,000, to advance the scheme of furnishing descriptive music founded on incidents in the life of Columbus for the World's fair. A building costing $750,000, with a seating capacity of 10,000, will be erected just outside the fair grounds at the main entrance, and it is anticipated three entertainments will be given each day. Xavier Scharwenka has been selected to compose the music and has accepted the position. The chorus will consist of 500 mixed voices, assisted by an orchestra of 120 and a stage band of forty pieces. Steele Mackaye is the managing director.—St. Louis Republic.

The Horse Not Immortal.

A horse case in the municipal court recently turned on the phrase "warranted said horse to be free from decease." The defendant's lawyer filed a demurrer saying that he never guaranteed the horse would live forever. The plaintiff's attorney tried to say that he meant to write "disease," but his brother lawyer urged that as the man who drew the plaintiff's declaration was a Harvard graduate, he knew what he wanted to write when he drew the pleading. Judge Forsaith decided that as the bill stood the demurrer would hold, but that an amendment might cure any defect if it existed. This arrangement was finally made.—Boston Herald.

A Fighting Squirrel.

Out of the half dozen squirrels turned loose in Blenville park during the last few months all are still there with one exception. This exception was there until yesterday, when Police Officer Cloud dispatched him with his club. The reason therefor is that the little animal had grown to be vicious and in the past two weeks had bitten eight different persons. He would jump on any one passing through the square. He bit a little girl in the face, several gentlemen on the hand and another one on the neck. This sort of thing kept up with such alarming regularity that the police thought it best to put a stop to it.—Mobile Register.

Welcome Rain.

The author of "Round the Compass in Australia" had put up for the night with the manager of a stock farm. It was a time of drought, and the evening passed amid stories of frightful suffering and losses. The manager thought it would be hardly possible to hold out a week longer. "Shady Jack's well is done," he said, "and the Frenchman's tank is empty." His wife tried to encourage him.

"Hope for the best," she said.

"My oath!" answered the manager, "but the best things never come off."

"Yes, Dick," responded his wife, "but the worst things never come off."

Night after night this man had walked the room, alternating between prayers and curses, as each day's record was another thousand sheep dead, another empty well, until at last he had come to this grim courage of despair.

"I shouldn't care so much," he said to the traveler, "but then my wife, my girls in there!"

He drew his sleeves across his eyes and bowed his head on the table. For ten minutes he sat there so. Then the visitor saw him raise his head, start, spring to his feet and listen with strained attention. What was that? Something pinged on the corrugated roof overhead.

"Rain, rain, rain!" he shouted as he rushed outside and fell on his knees with his hands stretched out toward the clouded sky.

"Thank God! Thank God! Wife! Girls! Mary! Rain!"

Even so. The flood gates of the sky were opened, and before morning the visitor was helping to put up a dyke on one side of the house. The march of destruction was staid.

Hunting Zebras.

After crossing the usual heated yellow plains, looking for all the world like an expanse of overparched hayfields and dotted here and there with droves of springbok, we outspanned two and so rode back again across the hot, weary plain for camp. We had not long quitted the forest before we sighted a good troop of Burchell's zebra, feeding quietly. We spread out in line and rode up to them.

The troop, which consisted mostly of mares with a yearling foal or two, was guarded by an old stallion, who stood sentinel nearest to us with his head up. Presently, turning half round, he gave some sort of signal and the rest of the band galloped briskly off, curveting and capering as they ran. After moving a few hundred yards the troop suddenly wheeled round in line to have a good look at us again.

These tactics of the zebras were displayed in a retreat of some miles, the old stallion always covering the rear, until the troop, outflanked by Dove, shot off to the right and my chance came. I galloped hard to intercept them, and as they stood for a minute on seeing me in the line of flight, got a steady shot at 200 yards. The bullet clapped as if on a barn door, and as the troop continued their flight I saw one zebra turn away alone. Presently she stood again. I was soon within sixty yards, and with another bullet finished her. She proved to be a fine mare in beautiful coat, and her head and skin now decorate a room at home.—Longman's Magazine.

A Story of Millionaire Lick.

James Lick, of San Francisco, was an unlovable millionaire, of whom a curious story is told. When a poor youth in Pennsylvania he was rejected by the daughter of a wealthy miller on account of his poverty. He vowed at that time that he would some day build a mill that would far surpass that of his sweetheart's father. Many years later he kept his vow and constructed at San Jose a mill of highly polished California wood valued at $200,000. During his lifetime Mr. Lick had few friends and apparently cared for none. He lived plainly and was seen very little in public. The larger part of his fortune was left to charities and public institutions, one notable bequest being the sum of $60,000 for the erection of a statue to Key, the author of the "Star Spangled Banner."

While many institutions profited by Mr. Lick's posthumous gifts, his most famous achievement was the establishment of the Lick observatory on Mount Hamilton, under the management of the University of California. Mr. Lick's body was placed in 1887 under the base of the pier sustaining the great telescope.—New York World.

The Value of Thought.

It is hardly necessary to say that all men need to "swing" the moral compass from time to time and to take their bearings in the sea of life. The advice is as true as it is conventional. Upon the use of thinking for such purposes we shall not, then, dwell. We may, however, point out, as a means of strengthening and invigorating the mind in a secular and worldly sense, the habit of thinking is of the greatest possible value.

The minds of those who dread thinking, as if it were a penance, become like the bodies of those fed solely on spoon meat—soft and unable to stand the slightest strain. Reading, as one ordinarily reads, is like swallowing pap; thinking, like eating solid food. The man who trains his mental powers by meditation and by following outlines of thought obtains an intellectual instrument a hundred times more powerful than he who is content never to think seriously and consecutively.—London Spectator.

THINK ABOUT THIS.

The Tribute We Pay England Is Enough to Impoverish Any People.

It does seem strange to me that the American people should be in debt to English money lenders to the amount of $500,000,000 government bonds, $5,100,000,000 railroad bonds and $3,000,000,000 municipal bonds, making a grand total of $8,600,000,000. The interest at as low a rate as 4 per cent. amounts to $344,000,000 annually. This means an average interest drain of over five dollars for each man, woman and child. The strangest part of it all is that a little over 100 years ago the people of the thirteen American colonies fought and bled and some of them died to establish the right to make money for America without any dictation from the English government. They fought to sever the connection between England and America so far as government is concerned.

Again we have the humiliating spectacle of the president of the United States appointing five persons to go over across the "pond" and ascertain if England and other nations will allow us to take our silver products from our mines and coin it into American money to enable the American people to pay their debts. If England and other nations say we cannot, then the American people must (?) be content to pay the debt and interest owing to English money lenders in gold only. How long, think you, will it take for those fellows to get possession of all the gold in the whole world?

Having got possession of it all, and then having all other nations to declare for a single gold standard, among them our boasted free (?) America, the owners of the gold will then fix the price of all products and all labor by fixing the price of their gold. The higher the price they place on their gold, the less will you get for your labor and your products. What are the voters of America thinking of? Are they thinking at all? Think of it. For eighty-one years we had the "free and unlimited coinage of silver," and no one of all the great statesmen during that time ever discovered that our silver dollar was a "seventy cent dollar."

Strange, isn't it? Strange that this "seventy cent dollar" was discovered (?) by an English banker named Seyed, and that he took particular pains to come all the way across the "pond" to point out this discovery to our (?) congressmen, and in order to enable them to see more clearly he brought along with him $500,000 of English money. Strange, isn't it? Strange that ever since then we hear of the "seventy cent dollar" from all our great (?) and learned (?) statesmen, such as are sent to Washington to act as "an agency to execute the will of the people."

This "seventy cent dollar" cry is not confined to either the Democrat or Republican party; even some of the Prohibition orators feel proud to exclaim to their audience, "Here is a seventy cent dollar." It may not be generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless, that away back in 1849 there was the same cry raised against gold as there is against silver now, and why? Simply because the money lenders feared there was going to be an "overproduction" of gold, and that it would be so plenty that it would be very cheap. They used the same argument against gold then that they do against silver now. This proves conclusively that money is made and unmade by law, regardless of the material on which the stamp is placed.

The main object of money lenders is to confine the stamp to the material most easily controlled by the few. The fight against silver is simply because it is easier to control the volume of gold than it is to control both gold and silver. How long will the American voters submit to this damnable system? It cannot go on forever. You had best put a stop to it before it is everlastingly too late by voting for the People's party. The system must be changed.—J. C. Vallette in Cotton Plant.

How It Was Done in Georgia.

I wish to state how the boodle of the state of Georgia swindled us out of our votes in the last election. They had all the game to themselves. The People's party was only represented by one commissioner in my district out of five. I sent fifty-six men's names to register, and there was only about one-fourth of them upon the registered roll that we had to vote by, and in some of the names the initials were changed, and one of the registers told the commissioners that he did not register the names thus. And so it is plain that the old boodlers marked the cards and played the game to suit themselves.—W. G. Sickles.

One Sure Thing.

The very bigness of Cleveland's vote and majority will be the cause of his own undoing. A year from now there will be a million or two of disappointed office seekers howling up and down the land. His congress will be sure to break with him on the free silver question and raise a row of national proportions. All other predictions may fail of verification except this one: Any large body of Democrats meeting for legislation are sure to make asses of themselves before adjourning.—Nonconformist.

It Went Our Way.

As between the two old parties the defeat of Harrison will probably be more for the future advantage of the People's party than would the overthrow of the Democracy. The Republican party will be more likely to disintegrate under the influence of defeat than the Democracy. Its capitalist element will now seek protection by going over to the Democratic party, and the rank and file will drift to the party of the people and reform.—New Nation.

A million ballots on Nov. 8 bombarded and broke the conspiracy of silence which had bound the plutocratic press of the east. No newspaper can hereafter afford to ignore the People's party.

Colorado did nobly. The People's party ticket, from top to bottom, won. Hurrah for Weaver, free silver and The Rocky Mountain News!

A Libel on the Sex.

When the question of women sticking to their husbands through thick and thin is discussed there are always men handy who tell the time worn tale of running amuck a family fight, of abetting the wife who was being kicked by the husband, of attacking said husband for his beastliness and of being abused by the wife for the same. As one woman, I am sick of this lie. There may have been some such case once upon a time, as, for instance, the other day, when a brute was arrested for cracking his wife's skull, and in court next day his fine was paid by his wife, who swore he had always been kind to her. But these cases are rare—so rare that perhaps it is just as well to cook, eat and digest one thoroughly when you come across it, but in doing so, for the love of womankind don't get indigestion and continually refer to what you have eaten as a natural consequence. It is not so.

A woman hates a brute (this rule does not apply to little dogs). If she marries a brute she pays her penalty through pride—perhaps by sticking to him and not letting the world know of her bad taste. A startling instance of this beastly brutality is the case of Wilhemia Knapte, who is pleading with judge and jury to give her a separation from Mr. Knapte, who kicks, slaps and punches her, and by way of variety cuts her hair off, blacks her eyes and sets his dog on her. The jury will no doubt decide in favor of the woman, and Mr. Knapte will have to find other entertainment than that which his wife affords him.—Cor. New York Commercial Advertiser.

Five Tons of Hay at a Load.

Aaron Kratz, of Plumsteadville, Bucks county, hauls considerable hay to Philadelphia, and he has for years felt a just pride in the size and structure of the loads, which as they passed down the Doylestown and Willow Grove turnpike excited the admiration and envy of farmers. The loads have been growing more leviathan in size and more leaden in weight until they passed the four ton mark, and Sunday night one of Mr. Kratz's teams started out from Plumsteadville with the largest load of hay that ever crossed the city line. When they saw the mountain of hay moving into the market Mr. Kratz's city customers acknowledged they knew nothing about hay hauling, and their eyes bulged when the load was driven upon the scales. The gross weight of the load was 12,440 pounds; tare, 2,825 pounds; net weight of hay, 9,615 pounds—almost five tons. For every hundred over 9,000 pounds Mr. Kratz received $1.50, and for the balance five cents above the market price. The load was drawn by his famous team of four mules and one draft horse.—Doylestown Democrat.

Mr. A. A. Low's Gift to Salem.

The Hon. Abiel A. Low, of Brooklyn, has presented to the public library of Salem, Mass., $500 to be invested in books. Two years ago Mr. Low presented the library with $500.

Mr. Low is a native of Salem and has always taken a deep interest in his birthplace. He was educated in the public schools, and in 1828 removed with his father's family to New York and subsequently to Brooklyn.

In 1878 he gave the city of Salem $5,000, the income to be utilized in assisting young men of good moral character who are without means to pursue a collegiate course. In 1883 he added $2,500 to the fund and a like sum in 1885, and in 1892 he added $10,000 more, making $20,000 in all.—Boston Globe.

The Lawyer's Fatal Eloquence.

A peculiar case of a client deserting an attorney at the last moment occurred in Judge Cornish's court, and the case had to be dismissed after the jury was impaneled. Otto L. Haese was the attorney for the plaintiff, and after a jury had been selected he began his opening address. Bertha Holaj was the complainant, and while her attorney was making his opening speech he painted the character of the defendant in such vivid colors and set forth the wrongs of his client so strikingly that the girl left the court room in tears and could not be induced to return and give her testimony. The girl was a domestic in the home of Theodore H. Durgin and demanded $10,000 damages from him.—St. Paul Globe.

The Law in re Apron Strings.

"Apron strings must be left alone," said Judge Ermentrout to a jury at Reading, Pa. "People have no business with other men's wives, whether in a playful way or any other way."

This bit of wisdom was spoken at the close of the trial of Isaac Gross for assault and battery. A month ago Augustus Potteiger met Mrs. Gross on the street and playfully untied her apron strings. Gross saw the proceeding from across the street, walked over promptly and knocked Potteiger down. The arrest of Gross followed, but the judge told the jury to acquit him, which it did, and the costs were put upon the man who untied the apron strings.—Philadelphia Record.

Ouida Turns on the Australians.

Ouida says some very unjust and objectionable things about the Australians in her article on "The Sins of Society." Where did she get her information? It is not on record that she ever visited the antipodes. Had she studied the "local color," as even the most imaginative of novelists are supposed to do, she would not have given herself away by gravely asserting that Australians in the back blocks dwell in "shanties built of empty meat and biscuit tins." Most of her strictures on the moral "degradation" of the colonies are equally unfounded.—Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

A Veteran Soldier.

One who has seen fifty years' service in the navy or army ought to be permitted to retire. Boatswain John C. Thompson, United States navy, who has been attached to the Brooklyn navy yard for the past fifteen years, has been placed on the retired list. Boatswain Thompson is a veteran of the Mexican war and has seen fifty-two years of active service.—Toledo Commercial.

TABULES

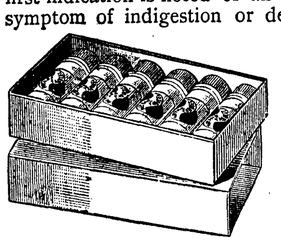
act gently but promptly upon the kidneys, liver, stomach and intestines; cleanse the system effectually; dispel colds, headaches and fevers; cure habitual constipation, making enemas unnecessary. Are acceptable to the stomach and truly beneficial in effects. A single TABULE taken after the evening meal, or just before retiring, or, better still, at the moment when the first indication is noted of an approaching cold, headache, any symptom of indigestion or depression of spirits, will remove the whole difficulty in an hour without the patient being conscious of any other than a slightly warming effect, and that the expected illness failed to materialize or has disappeared.



Disease commonly comes on with slight symptoms, which when neglected increase in extent and gradually grow dangerous.

If you suffer from Headache, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, ... TAKE RIPANS TABULES

If you are Bilious, Constipated, or have a Disordered Liver, ... TAKE RIPANS TABULES

If your Complexion is Sallow, or you suffer Distress after Eating, . . . TAKE RIPANS TABULES

James Samuels' Strange Story.

James Samuels, of Dubuque, a sergeant in the Twenty-first Iowa, was one of the seventy-five Americans who went to Cuba twenty years ago on the steamer Virginius and were shot by the Spaniards at Santiago. His name appeared in the list of the dead, and his family mourned him as such. They have just received a letter from him written at the Soldiers' home, Covington, Ind. He states that he was shot through the head and left for dead. Chance friends nursed him back to health, but the shot destroyed his memory, and the past was a blank. By some means unknown to him, he recently reached Chicago, where he was recognized by an army comrade, who brought him to Covington, where his memory was restored.—Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Skating Challenge.

W. J. Weeks, a spry young man of seventy-two summers, of Yaphank, Long Island, challenges any person in the world, "regardless of age," to a match at skate writing. He has had a challenge for long distance speed skating, open to "any lad of seventy," for $1,000 a side, standing for two years, with no takers. He proposes that the match shall consist of writing words and sentences comprising not less than a hundred letters, to be given out by the judges at the time of the contest, and to be judged by three experts in penmanship. English writers, Mr. Weeks says, assert that the feat of writing letters on the ice by skating is impossible, but he is ready to demonstrate their error.

Overwhelmed by an Avalanche.

The recent snowslide on the Pacific extension of the Great Northern occurred between Java and Essex, switching points about half way down the west side of the mountains. Trees, rocks and snow swept down the mountain like an Alpine avalanche, striking a snow plow train and hurling it from the track. The engine and tender were carried fifty feet down the embankment and the rest of the train buried out of sight. A. L. Marden, a brakeman; Young, a line repairer, and two others, names unknown, were killed. Several more were injured. Debris was piled on the track to a height of fifty feet in some places.—Cor. Helena Independent.

Punishment to Fit.

Frenchmen must regard their celebrated liquors as something almost sacred. Two men, named Duchesnin and Dumont, were convicted the other day of having fired the factory of the Benedictine liquor at Fecamp, which was destroyed a year ago, and the sentence on each of them was penal servitude for life. I doubt if it would have run to that for an abbey without a liquor factory attached. They want a "legal pillory" in France.—London Truth.

The Wild Career of a Bogus Chicago Ham.

Some small boys fastened a wire to one of those wooden hams which are used for advertising purposes, and to the other end of the wire attached a lot of fish hooks, then dropped the fish hooks into the Madison street cable slot at Madison street, near Halsted. The hooks quickly took hold of the running cable, and away sped the ham toward the setting sun.

At Green street it struck and tossed into the mud handsomely dressed Jim De Meyer, the wine connoisseur. At Loomis street it struck an Italian's hand cart laden with fresh roasted peanuts and popcorn and scattered the load over the road. The ham journeyed right on, leaving the son of Italy and the street newsboys to fight over the peanuts and popcorn. A bicycle rider was upset at Lincoln street and slightly injured by colliding with the flying imitation pork. As the frayed edged ham danced along near Western avenue it caught the eye of a nearsighted saloon keeper.

"What a nice addition," muttered he, "to my free lunch counter." He grabbed a board, threw himself into position like a grand stand ball player as he comes to bat, and as the ham approached him he swiped it about amidship, broke the wire and acquired the ham. The loafers who, clad in their best clothes, stood lazily smoking cigars on the sidewalk, gently led the ham grabbing saloon keeper into his saloon near by.—Chicago Tribune

A Georgia Theory as to the Weather.

"Do you know where the comet has gone?" asked one of our citizens. "Well," he continued, "I'll tell you that, in my opinion, it hasn't gone anywhere. I think it is here—all about us. We are daily breathing comet, sneezing comet and feeling comet. We can't see it and probably don't smell it, but when the astonomers lost it I think it was because we ran into it or it over us before we knew it. This cold and unsettled weather throughout the world must be due to the presence in our path of a vapor that absorbs or intercepts the heat of the sun. You know some of the savants of the skies said the comet was only a vapor spread throughout a mighty area of space, luminous by absorption or reflection at a great distance from us, but invisible if about us, and contained not enough solid matter to make a handful. I believe we are taking a prolonged comet bath—and I don't like it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Novel Suit for Damages.

A case that has been attracting considerable attention has been on trial during this week in the civil court here. It is a suit of Adam Robb, a farmer, against Carnegie Bros. & Co. Robb owns several hundred acres of land in the vicinity of Larimer. The Carnegies purchased adjacent land two years ago and on it erected a plant of coke ovens. The smoke from these ovens, Mr. Robb alleges, injured his crops and trees, and he asks for heavy damages.

The case was tried here two years ago, and a verdict for about $4,000 was given the plaintiff. It was taken to the supreme court, and the decision of Judge Doty, of this court, was reversed. Now Judge Longnecker, of Cambria, is conducting the case. Dozens of witnesses have been heard.—Greensburg Record.

How His Excellency Puts on His Skates.

I saw Governor Russell at Fresh Pond Saturday, and he was one of the most graceful of the big crowd of skaters present. The governor drove up to the pond from his Cambridge home with Dr. Swan, and went upon the ice at Black Nook, a part of the pond where there were comparatively few skaters. Notwithstanding the governor's graceful movements in skimming over the ice he has a rather awkward way of putting on his skates. He put the skate on his right foot standing squarely on both feet and bending forward. When it came to the left foot he stooped down, put his left foot out behind him and then reached around and fastened it with a combined stoop and twist that would have done credit to a contortionist.—Boston Record.

Married While in Prison.

A convict named Guthknecht, undergoing twenty years' penal servitude for theft, was married not long since at the mayoralty of Dijon. His bride was a washerwoman. The bridegroom was allowed, under proper escort, to drive with his bride from the prison to the town hall. The witnesses who signed the register were a police inspector, a prison warden and two detectives. The happy couple afterward adjourned to the prison, where lunch was served, and in the evening the bride left her husband to meet him again in a couple of years in New Caledonia, where they will be allowed to live together.—London Tit-Bits.

Indians Tired of Army Life.

Commissioner Morgan, of the Indian bureau, has received a letter from Lewis Miller and fifteen other Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians, members of Troop L, Fifth United States cavalry, asking him to intercede in their behalf to secure their discharge from the army. The Indians say that they are tired of army life, and can do much better working on their farms.—Washington Star.

SUMMONS.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, } ss
COUNTY OF CLALLAM. }

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for the County of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles.

Benjamin R. Brierly, Plaintiff, vs.
Jane Conklin, Emma Jane Bailey, Belle Miller, Louisa Conklin, Thomas Conklin and William G. Conklin, Defendants.
No. 712.

Action brought in the Superior Court for the County of Clallam holding terms at Port Angeles, and complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court on the 24th day of May, 1893.

To the Above Named Defendant:

You are hereby notified that Benjamin R. Brierly, Plantiff, has filed acomplaint against you in the Superior Court of the State of Washington, for the County of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this summons, to-wit: Sixty days after the 2d day of June, 1893, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 15th day of August, 1893, the same will be taken as confessed and the prayer of said complaint granted.

This action is brought by the plaintiff as owner in fee of lot one [1], in block fourteen [14], of the original townsite of Port Angeles in Clallam county, State of Washington to quiet the title thereto. Plaintiff claims that Wm. G. Conklin died intestate and without leaving any debts, and that at the time of his death Wm. G. Conklin was the owner of said lot one [1], and left as his only heirs at law the defendants and one Clara Conklin, now deceased. That after the death of said Wm. G. Conklin, to-wit: on the 15th day of January, 1890, the defendants and Clara Conklin, by deed of that date, conveyed said lot to one Silas Goodwin, and that said Silas Goodwin conveyed said lot to plaintiff, and that plaintiff conveyed the same to one M. A. Longfellow, and that said Longfellow has reconveyed the same to plaintiff. That no administration was ever had upon the estate of said Wm. G. Conklin, and that administration thereon was wholly unnecessay. That defendants and each of them claim an interest in said property adverse to plaintiff. That defendants setforth their interest or claim to said lot in this action or be forever barred from asserting any claim thereto, and plaintiff prays judgment for such relief as he may be entitled to in the premises.

{SEAL} Witness my hand and seal of said Superior Court, affixed this second day of June A. D., 1893.

A. A. RICHARDSON,
County Clerk and Clerk of the Superior Court.

THE COMMITTEES.

If Speaker Crisp's committee assignments mean anything, they mean that the 53rd congress is not to be a do nothing body. The Speaker has taken especial pains to bring the most active men to the front and in such a way that it will not take long to settle on a definite line of action, and the line settled the action will follow quick and sure.

The coinage committee will have the leaders of both sides on it. Chairman Bland is followed by General Tracy of New York, and Kilgore, of Texas, and Epes, of Virginia, are followed by Rayner, of Maryland, and Harter, of Ohio. So it appears that the silver quest will be a fight to a finish, whether on the floor or in the committee.

But most encouragement is to be taken from the personel of the ways and means committee. Its make up shows that there will be no compromise with the tariff baroms. The committee is a tariff for revenue only committee, with the hard, energetic workers and tariff reform leaders in the saddle. The oppointment of Wm. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, as chairman of this committee, is an ideal one. Tariff reformers could not ask more. Mr. Wilson is young, vigorous and able. He is thoughtfull, learned and eloquent, and probably the best qualified man in the house to handle the new tariff bill. His appointment guarantees that the next campaign will be fought out on the Willson tariff bill and not on the Wilson silver purchase repeal bill, as with such lieutenants as Mr. Wilson has with him on the ways and means committee—McMillin, Bynum, Breckinridge, Bryan and Cockran—the tariff war will be on in six months, as congress has not witnessed in many a long day. Mr. Crisp has made the issue as the people meant it should be made when they elected Mr. Cleveland and a Democratic congress. That campaign was fought and won on the tariff, and Mr. Crisp has done well in putting the brains of a brainy congress on the tariff committee. Well done, Speaker Crisp.

UNJUST INSINUATIONS.

The charge made by two Seattle papers that THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER is responsible for the delay in the Angeles reservation matter is ungenerous and unjust. The proprietors of this paper did more effective work than all local efforts combined to get favorable action from the department on the appraisement of the lots. The Democratic state committee and others, who have a standing at Washington, have labored earnestly for the citizens of this city, and it was at the solicitation of this paper that they did so. They are now working to have the order delaying matters amended, so that it will not effect those who desire to prove up at once.

This will be done without doubt, and THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER will be responsible for it.

THE POSTPONEMENT.

The date of final sale of the unsold portion of the Port Angeles reservation has been postponed until January 1st, 1894. This will be approved by the majority of the citizens of Port Angeles, as it will undoubtedly, permit many to prove up who would not be able to raise the money in time to prove up by October 31st, on account of hard times and the suspension of the First National Bank of this city. Everybody knows that money is easier between November and May of each year, than during the summer and fall months preceding November. Now, if the efforts of the citizens to have the order amended, so that those who have already filed can prove up without delay, and those who desire can file whenever they are prepared. all will be well.

THE Democrats of Iowa have again nominated Horace Boies for governor. Governor Boies has been twice elected to that high office, and desired to retire but felt it his duty to obey the unanimous demand of his party. The voters of Iowa will doubtless again endorse the valient governor.

WILSON for General in Chief and Cockran, McMillin, Bynum, Bryan and Breckenridge as chief's lieutenants in charge of the tariff—won't there be a smashing of the tariff, though!

THE Wilson tariff bill will take the place of the McKinley tariff law before this stage of another year is upon us. Let us congratulate ourselves, all around.

THE appointment of William D. O'Toole for Register of the Seattle land district, announced yesterday, will give pretty general satisfaction.

THE French elections are over, and it is presumed that the king of Siam now has no fears of further molestation.

THE REAVER ROAD.

Work Will Again be Resumed on this Thoroughfare.

One of the most serious results of the tying up of the county funds by reason of the suspension of the First National Bank of Port Angeles has been the delay in completing the wagon road between East Clallam and the Solduck river at Beaver, says the Port Crescent Leader. There remains about five miles to build at the end of the Burlingame road in order to open the wagon road from East Clallam to Beaver; from which poin most places in the Quillayute valley can readily be made accessible by wagon. Preparations for the completion of this five mile stretch had been made in June when work was stopped by the bank failure and the settlers of the Quillayute valley have been fearful that another winter would come on them with no wagon communication with the outer world.

It is impossible for those who have not seen the vast extent of the Quillayute valley and the number of settlers it contains to realize what a hardship it is to live in such a remote locality without a wagon road to the straits. It must be a matter of the greatest surprise to the newcomer to see how great improvements have accomplished, and how many of the comforts of life have been brought to a region that is so difficult of access. One is forced to express his sincere admiration for the enterprise and industry with which the pioneers of the Quillayute have overcome all difficulties and withstood every discouragement. They are in a position to appreciate the trials of the early settlers who first pushed westward beyond the Alleghany mountains.

It is gratifying therefore to learn that the county commissioners will probably be able to effect necessary arrangements to at once resume the work on the Beaver wagon road with every prospect of having it opened to traffic yet this fall so that winter supplies can be taken into the valley by wagon.

Clallam county is not progressing as rapidly as mony people expected three years ago, but the work of settlement and improvement continues at a steady pace and the forest is everywhere traversed by new roads and thickly dotted with the clearings of the innumerable settlers.

IN MEMORY OF M. P. OIEN.

Tribute of His Countrymen Paid An Ex-Citizen of Clallam County.

The Post-Intelligencer of last Sunday contained the following:

The Norwegian Lutheran, the Norwegian Baptist and the Norwegian M. E. churches united last evening in holding memorial services in the Norwegian Lutheran church, at the corner of Fourth and Pine streets, to the memory of the late Mathias P. Oien, who died on July 5th on the Atlantic ocean, on board the steamer America, while on a journey to Norway, where he expected to regain his lost health. Mr. Oien was far years one of the pillars of the Norwegian Lutheran church and his sudden demise was a heavy blow to the congregation.

The church had been appropriately draped with black and white crape, and decorated with cedar festoons, garlands and flower crosses. Across the nave was suspended a beautiful floral device, with an evergreen crown in the background bearing the following inscription: "Struggle That Ye May Conquer."

The church was filled to overflowing After the rendering of a hymn by the church choir, Rev. Tollefson, of Port Townsend, opened the services with prayer. at the conclusion of which the Methodist Episcopal church choir sang a hymn. Mr. H. Hansen then delivered the memorial speech. After a few short introductory remark the speaker gave a biography of the deceased, who had been an unusually active member of the United Norwegian Lutheran church of Seattle. The deceased had himself written his biography in his life work. His character was his biography. The man was dead but his character lives and exerts an influence on those surviving, leaving imprints on the sands of time. The deceased was born in Volden parish, Norway, January 21, 1867. He had been gifted with rare natural endowments, and had possessed a clear judgment, while his heart had been filled with love for his fellow men. He had been an obedient son, loved by parents, brothers, relatives and neighbors. At school he had always excelled. Five years ago he arrived in Seattle from Minneapolis and had at once joined the Norwegian Lutheran church, of this city. Ae had been a christian from conviction and had joined the Lutheran church, not because his parents had been associated with that church, but because its doctrins and ritual agreed with his conception of the Biblical truth. He had been a liberal Christian, not a secretarian, tolerant toward those who entertained different religous beliefs, agreeing with Daniel Webster that "tolerance, in which the world is progressing so slowly, is at one and the same time the most wise and the most just of all principles."

As superintendent of the Sunday schools he has shown himself a faithful workers, and had he been able to speak to his pupuls before he departed this life he would have said to them as Socrates once said: "The greatest recompense I can reap for my work it to see that my pupils grow up to become good a virtuous men."

Mr. Oien has been one of the founders of the Chinese mission of this church and an active member of the literary society Freman. The cause of temperance had in him found one of its strongest and most conscientious supporters. He had not been a politician. He had not any political ax to grind, and his character had been too noble and pure to allow him to become contaminated with the corruption of the present machine politics. Still he was fully cognizant of his duties as a citizen and a voter. He was a good Christian and a good citizen.

These services, Mr. Hansen said, should remind us of our duties to our fellow-men. We often place garlands and flowers on the coffins of the departed for whom we in life had not even had a passing thought. We forget too often to strew flowers in the path of the quick, but strewn on the coffins of the dead our offerings come too late.

[Mr. Oien was well-known in this county. He was a nephew of Mr. Hans Hansen of Quillayute, and at one time took up a homestead at Quillayute which is now owned by his brother. Mr. Oien was interested in Port Angeles having property in this city.]

Reserve Lots.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will receive filings and take proofs in all matters of claims to Port Angeles Townsite Reservation Lots, as well as Homestead and Pre-emption Claims. As the county receives a great and much needed benefit from the fees paid the clerk in such cases, and the cost to the claimant is never any greater at the court house than if paid to private parties, and as all lots and parcels of land become taxable as soon as title passes to individuals, it is deemed of interest to all having such claims to make their filings and proofs before the Clerk of the Superior Court.

A. A. RICHARDSON, Clerk.

STOCK COMPANY ORGANIZED.

To Build a Street Railroad in the City of Port Angeles.

A company was organized last evening at the school house on Lincoln Heights, to be known as the Associated Improvement Company of Port Angeles. The object of the company is to apply for a tram line from the city to build a street railroad, grade streets, and embark in any enterprise that will advance the city. Any person can take stock in the company, and pay to it money, work, land or any other way. Forty-one members signed the roll at the meeting last evening. The following officers were elected:

D. O'Brien, President; B. D. Johnson, Vice President; C. C Fox, Secretary; B. Bowman, Treasurer.

Trustees: Messrs. P. Grubb, H. Wallaby, M. Lyms, N. Devendoft, L. Russell.

The office of the company is on Laurel street wharf adjoining Morse's warehouse.

QUIET WEDDING

Of a Well Known Physcian and Popular Society Woman.

The nuptials of Dr. I. R. Herrick and Mrs. Marion L. Blackwood, of this city, were quietly celebrated at the residence of the bride, last evening, in the presence of a few of the intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The well-lighted parlor of the residence in which the ceremony was performed was artistically decorated with evergreens and cut flowers, and looked very attractive. The invited guests assembled at 8:30 pursuant to invitation and the ceremony which united the happy young people for life was conducted by Rev. M. U. Squire, shortly after nine o'clock.

The bride was attired in a rich gown of light blue silk and dark green brocade velvet and diamonds. The groom wore the conventional black.

The bride was attended by Miss Nellie Esworthy, and was given away by her brother, Thos. T. Aldwell. After the ceremony, congratulations were extended by those present, which was followed by a delicious luncheon.

The invited guests and those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Meagher, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Lamoreux, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Troy, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Edna A. Lewis, Miss Kent, Miss Nellie Esworthy, Miss Luella Hall, Rev. M. U. Squire, Messrs. Thos. T. Aldwell, Chas. A. Dyer, of Townsend, Dr. J. P. Frizell, Dr. E. George, Louis R. Cole, C. K. Humphries, H. M. Fisher, S. A. Hall, Jas. Stewart and Louis R. Flowers.

The contracting parties are both well and favorably known in this county. Dr. I. R. Herrick is a native of Kentucky and a graduated physician from the Vanderbilt University, of Nashville, Tenn. He located in this city about three years ago, and enjoys a large professional practice.

Mrs. Herrick is an accomplished lady who has been in the city about three years, and has made many friends by her charming ways and many graces. She came here from Toronto, Canada, where she is well connected.

THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER joins their many friends in well-wishes.

Chinamen Have an Altercation.

Last Monday Ah Wah and Ah Fung in an effort to adjust their financial differences, precipitated the matter into an altercation, the former hitting the latter across the face with a large club, inflicting an ugly wound.

Ah Fung summarily had Ah Wah, who is by the way of uncommonly large and powerful stature, arrested and brought before Judge Carusi for trial, charged with assault and battery. As neither of these Chinamen could speak English the court was compelled to postpone the trial until Tuesday to secure an interpreter, which proved to be anything but an easy task. Finally after undue persuasion and severe threats Lee Hoi was induced to act in that capacity.

Thursday the trial came on to be heard, and from the evidence adduced it appears that Ah Wah owed Ah Fung a whisky bill while Ah Fung had not settled with Ah Wah for his washing. And it was over the satisfactory adjustment of these accounts that Ah Wah attempted to impress upon Ah Fung the righteousness of his cause in rather a more forceful than peaceful manner, consequently Ah Fung retired from the melee somewhat disfigured. After patiently gathering from the broken threads of the interpreter's translation of the testimony of the witnesses, sufficient evidence to convict the defendant was raveled out, and the turbulent Ah Wah was fined $42, including costs, in default of the payment of which he was committed to jail.

Free to Housekeepers.

To introduce Rudge's Royal Mead, the latest summer drink, into American homes this season, one trial package will be sent to any address in the United States free. If you can make thirty words from letters contained in R-o-y-a-l M-e-a-d you are almost certain to secure one of the valuable articles which are to be given to each of the first ninety persons in the United States able to send a list of thirty words or more. Besides this, to the person sending the largest received, will be given one of Steinway's Upright Grand pianos; a trip to the World's Fair and return for the second largest list; an imported Shetland Pony for the third; a pneumatic Bicyle for the fourth; fine gold watch for fifth; pair of diamond earrings for sixth; a parlor organ for seventh; imported music box for eighth; black silk dress pattern for ninth; snd a guitar for tenth largest list received. Rudge's Royal Mead is the popular temperance drink of the best classes in England to-day, and is sure to be used continually by every American family who receives one of our free packages for trial. Our word building contest is given to advertise Royal Mead, and is conducted fairly and conscientiously. It closes September 1, 1893. Send seven U. COMMISSIONER LAMOREUX

Urged to Instruct Local Land Office to Continue Publication of Notices.

The following telegram was sent to Commissioner Lamoreux, yesterday:

PORT ANGELES, Aug. 24, 1893.

To S. W. Lamoreux, Commissioner U. S. Land Office, Washington, D. C.:

We endorse your action adjourning public sale, but urge individual proofs continue and notices proceed at once begging immediate instructions to register at Seattle to that effect.

[Signed.]

THOS. MALONY, State Committeeman.
A. A. RICHARDSON, County Clerk,
H. E. LUTZ, U. S. Commissioner,
W. R. GAY, U. S. Commissioner, and others.

The following satisfactory reply was received to-day:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25, '93.

Thos. Malony:

Local officers will be advised in a short time as to publications.

S. W. LAMOREUX.

The department will doubtless have the notices of final sale, which fixes the day of sale on January 1st, 1894, forwarded to the register at Seattle within a few days, which will be sent to the newspapers for publication at once, after which the publication of proof notices will follow uninterruptedly to the end. While the slight delay inconveniences a few, a far greater number are benefitted from the postponement, in consequence of which Land Commissioner Lamoreux deserves credit for his consideration and prompt action.

Reservation Plats.

I am now prepared to furnish all information regarding the Port Angeles reserve, with plats of blocks, showing all streets, with lots correctly numbered and the appraised price of the same, for 50 cents per block.

Remember fifty cents invested now will insure you against any mistake in proving up, and may save you a great many dollars, besides loss of time if not loss of home. Send money either in postage stamps or in postal notes.

Address, J. L. GREEN,
Rooms 511 and 512 New York Blk.
Seattle, Wash.

ATTENTION.—Any person desiring a carriage to any part of the city, will find the undersigned on Lincoln street wharf, nearly opposite the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Passengers taken to and from all boats; also baggage promptly delivered. Terms reasonable. Orders left at the Y. M. C. A. or at Maggart's second hane store on Front corner Oak streets. Prompt attention given to all orders. Patronage respectfully solicited.

Notice of Sale of Real Estate.

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with an order of the Superior Court of the state of Washington for the county of Clallam, made on the 5th day of August, 1893. The undersigned administrators of the estate of Marquis D. Pullen, deceased, will offer for sale at private sale, real estate belonging to said estate, and particularly described as follows, to-wit: The East half of the East half of Section seven [7], in Township twenty eight [28], north of range fourteen [14] West, in Clallam county, state of Washington, containing 160 acres, more or less.

Said sale will be made on or after the 16th day of September, 1893.

Bids or offers for said lands must be in writing and will be received at the office of R. C. Wilson, attorney at law, at Port Angeles, in said county, or may be delivered to either of the undersigned administrators, or may be filed at the office of the clerk of the court aforesaid at any time after the date hereof and before the making of the sale.

Terms of sale are as follows: one third cash in hand, one-third in one year after and one-third in two years after confirmation of sale. all payments to be made in gold coin of the United States, and deferred payments to bear interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum and to be secured by first mortgage on the lands sold.

Bids or offers are invited for the whole of the lands above described or for any part thereof.

Dated August 24th, 1893.

Ephraim D. Pullen and Jessie S. Maxfield, administrators of the estate of Marquis D. Pullen, deceased.

R. C. Wilson, attorney for administrators.

ASTHMA CURED BY ASTHMALENE
DR. TAFT'S
Instead of flying to the door gasping for breath, seeming as if each one would be your last, you have only to take a few doses Asthmalene when the spasm is broken, the breathing becomes easy and you feel as if an angel of mercy had unloosed the iron grasp of the fingers of death. The happiest moment of your life will be when you have used a few bottles of Dr. Taft's ASTHMALENE and it has cured you of Asthma. We mail to any Asthma sufferer a trial bottle FREE and prove that it does Cure Asthma
Sold by druggists. Dr. Taft Bros. M. Co., Rochester, N.Y

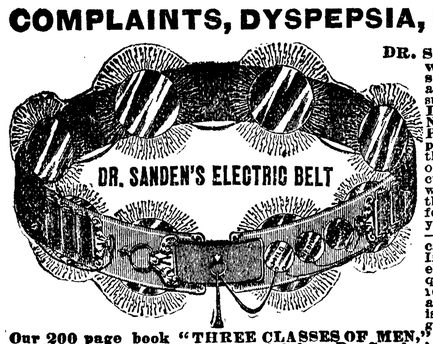
HAVE YOU TRIED DRUGS AND FAILED TO FIND A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, SCIATICA, KIDNEY, LIVER and BLADDER COMPLAINTS, DYSPEPSIA, LAME-BACK, &c.



DR. SANDEN'S ELECTRIC BELT with Electro Magnetic Suspensory will cure without medicine all of the above troubles. Those who suffer from Nervous Debility, Losses, Drains, Lost Manhood, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Poor Memory, all Female Complaints, and general Ill health, the effects of abuses, excesses, worry or exposure, will find relief and prompt cure in our marvelous invention, which requires but a trial to convince the most skeptical. In ignorance of effects you may have unduly drained your system of nerve force and vitality—which is electricity—and thus caused your weakness or lack of force. If you replace into your system the elements thus drained, which are required for vigorous strength, you will remove the cause and health, strength and vigor will follow at once. This is our plan and treatment, and we guarantee a cure or refund money. Our 200 page book "THREE CLASSES OF MEN," should be read by every young, middle-aged and old man, sent sealed, free. Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt is no experiment as we have restored thousands to robust health and vigor, after all other treatments failed, as can be shown by hundreds of cases throughout this and other States, who would gladly testify, and from many of whom we have strong letters bearing testimony to their recovery after using our Belt.

WE HAVE CURED THESE—WE CAN CURE YOU!

GENERAL DEBILITY CURED.
San Francisco, Cal., August 14, 1892.
Dr. A. T. Sanden, Dear Sir:—Before I used your belt I was troubled with lost vigor, vital weakness, and almost a complete loss of power. I would get up with a very tired feeling, bones aching, etc.; since using your belt I have had a new lease of life. I now enjoy life better than I have for ten years past. I have the utmost confidence in your treatment. You can publish this statement, also have others write or call on me. Truly yours, H. A. BOWEN, 26 and 28 Turk St.

RHEUMATISM AND LAMENESS CURED.
Portland, Oregon, April 15 1892.
Dr. A. T. Sanden, Dear Sir:—I got one of your belts two weeks ago for rheumatism, from which I suffered for several years. For the past six months I had not been able to work. Your belt has placed me in almost perfect health in the two weeks I have used it. I can walk comfortably, and feel like a new man generally.
M. E. HUGHES, Proprietor International Hotel.

NERVOUS DEBILITY—LOSS OF VIGOR.
Tacoma, Wash., October 24, 1892.
Dr. A. T. Sanden, Dear Sir:—I have been using your Electric belt for general nervous debility, and to-day feel better than I have for five years. I have gained in vigor daily, and am strong in every part.
Yours gratefully, CHAS. LUETKA.

LAME BACK AND RHEUMATISM.
Portland Oregon, September 26, 1892.
Dr. A. T. Sanden, Dear Sir:—Years of exposure and hard work, combined with the strain coming from the jar of an engine, gave me a severe case of lame back, from which I suffered for seven years. I was so bad that I could not bend my back. Was all doubled up with it. I bought one of your belts. It helped me inside of two days, and I continued to wear it for four months, being perfectly cured. That was two years ago, and I am as well to-day as I ever was in my life. I know your belt well, and I know lots of people who have been cured by it. Many others need it, and if they would try it they would find it the same as I did—the best remedy in the world. I am located here permanently, and will be glad to talk with anyone who wants to inquire about it.
ROBERT BUREEL, Engineer Hotel Portland.

LOST VITALITY AND STRENGTH.
Everett, Wash, June 18, 1892.
Dr. A. T. Sanden, Dear Sir:—Since wearing your belt I have been greatly benefited. I feel my old energy fast returning; and after a month's use of the belt I find myself twice as vigorous as before. My memory is now nearly perfect, and each day shows for the better. I feel much stronger than before using the belt. Yours truly, HENRY SCHULTZ.

THE DR. SANDEN ELECTRIC BELT is a complete galvanic battery, made into a belt so as to be easily worn during work or street, and it gives soothing, prolonged currents which are instantly felt throughout all weak parts, or we forfeit $5,000. It has an Improved Electric Suspensory, the greatest boon ever given weak men, and we warrant it to cure any of the above weaknesses, and to enlarge shrunken limbs, or parts, or Money Refunded. They are graded in strength to meet all stages of weakness in young, middle-aged or old men, and will cure the worst cases in two or three months. Address for full information.

Stirring Up the Texas Snakes.

General Dyrenforth's big wooden hydrogen gas tank sprung a leak last night, and the circumambient air was loaded with something which affected all animal nature in San Antonio. The small lizard on Alamo heights climbed into the mesquite brush to get a breath of fresh air, and the jack rabbit ran for the tall timber. The rattlesnakes relaxed their grip about the tree trunks, and were observed today in a state of coma. Humanity could do little more than hold its nose and hold on tight. General Dyrenforth is above all such trifles, and with a clothespin on his nose he rode about just as he did years ago in the Chickahominy swamps.

The general wanted to honor a lady who was present, and brought forth a 10-pound bag of roselite. It was hung to the limb of a tree about 1,000 yards from camp. It was discharged with an electric battery. A few moments later the men in charge of the explosion brought in a dead rattlesnake four feet long, two jack rabbits, and a wild turkey from General Breckinridge's preserve. The rattlesnake looked like a pin cushion. He was killed by the shock, but his hide was punctured millions of times by splinters from the shattered tree. The snake was as thick as a gas main. His head was donated to the University of Dallas. The incident has made the Dyrenforth party wary of snakes.—Texas Cor. Chicago Herald.

Never Too Late for Romance.

A marriage was celebrated near Jefferson, in Jackson county, Sunday, in which hope deferred made an old heart glad. Saturday an old man registered at the Howard House in Jefferson. He wrote his name, "John McCabe, Ohio," in a trembling hand, and began inquiring about some of the older families of that section. Among the persons for whom he had asked were the Niblocks and Daniels.

He had left Jackson county in 1835, being then eighteen years of age, and was never heard of after. The cause of his departure was the preference shown by his fiancee, Miss Jessie Carmichael, for a young neighbor, Edward Toomer. He went into the then new country of Ohio, married, reared a large family and became one of the patriarchs of his section. Later his wife died, and a great desire came over him to see the people whom he had known in his youth.

The old man's glee was great when he discovered that the girl whom he had loved, now the widow of Toomer, was still alive. He went to see her, and the result was a wedding.—Cor. New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Scientific Study of Religion.

Science exercises and develops functions which are not essentially antagonistic to religion, but they are not the functions of religion, and if they be given first place in our interest, religious growth must deteriorate in proportion to its neglect. The functions of religion must be exercised or they will become incapable of action; they must be educated or they will become weak and useless. Scientific study, though extremely fascinating, though it fills us with exalted notions of the complexity of the universe, and of the wonderful harmony of its correlations, leads us to no hope. We find in it only stern, relentless law; it has no feeling and its end is certain death.

And what does it profit unless we keep alive those religious functions which conduct us to the other world of religious belief?—Professor H. S. Williams in Century.

He Annoyed the Police.

Herr Grasser is the name of a Vienna crank who has given the police of that city a great deal of annoyance and will shortly have to answer for it in court. He has repeatedly pretended to commit suicide by drowning himself. He is a good swimmer, and he always swam to the shore after amusing himself for awhile at the consternation of the spectators. A few days ago he quarreled with his wife and jumped into the river to alarm her. A brave policeman jumped in after him and pulled him ashore. The man heaped the policeman with insults, ran to the bridge and jumped into the river again. The frightened wife prayed the policeman to save him again. He did so, but only to be again cursed. —Vienna Tageblatt.

From the Sandwich Islands.

A lizard hatchery started in Dr. Miller's drug store last Friday. About two weeks ago a fruit man gave Frank Eldredge a small egg found in a bunch of bananas from the Sandwich Islands. Frank put the egg in a show case as a curiosity, and nothing more was thought of it until Friday, when Charley Miller opened the case to get something. Imagine his surprise when he found the egg had hatched and a beautiful little blue lizard was enjoying himself among the soap boxes and perfumery bottles. His lizardship is quite an acquisition to Eldredge's amphibia menagerie, museum of natural curiosities, etc.—Shasta County Republican.

Buying a Coffin in Time.

It is a melancholy fact that some selfish, inconsiderate and brutal natures not only are in a hurry to get the old folks "out of the way" and divide the spoils, but take no pains to conceal it. An illustration was noticed one day last week in Somerset county, where an old man's coffin was carried into his house while he stood outside smoking his pipe and dully looking on. And then a girl had the effrontery to "ask grandpa to get into it, just to see how he would look."—Pittsfield (Me.) Advertiser.

The new iron monuments being placed on the boundary line between Arizona and New Mexico are seven feet in height and weigh about 800 pounds. They are laid five miles apart.

A bricklayer at Hereford, England, on receiving an intimation that he had been left $50,000, immediately put down his trowel and refused to work another minute.

Vulgarity Among Gotham Women.

If you have any yearning to see vulgarity you need only be one in a so called fashionable New York crush. It may be a private house or it may be at some public place—as, for instance, the late horse show—but it will always be of intense vulgarity. The New York crush is a pushing, driving, vulgar, ill bred one. The women of the so called Four Hundred put themselves on exhibition in public places, are overconscious, and while it must be said that they are stylish it must also be added that they are a little too fine. Laces and diamonds were rampant at the horse show, and gowns of silk and chiffon were common.

In England the most elegant of women would have been satisfied to have appeared in perfectly fitting cloth gowns, and, if they were needed, some magnificent furs, but they would have known that fine laces and jewels do not harmonize with the smell of the stable. French ladies do not wear on the street elaborate dresses that American women select to walk in and to wear at public places. They keep their elegant costumes for the benefit of their own family and their friends, but the New York woman rushes into a big dressmaker's, buys a frock that would be sold to Mlle. Ninette or Mlle. Blanche, but certainly not to Mme. la Duchesse de Haut Ton.—New York Cor. Buffalo News.

A Fashionable Ailment.

Where are the wonders of electricity going to cease? Have you noticed how many ladies are having erysipelas just now? It is the fashionable disease. It is different from the ordinary one inasmuch that in about six weeks you are "sweet sixteen" in appearance, to the astonishment of all of your friends. Your complexion is fair and your face round, without a blemish and without a wrinkle. It is somewhat of a mystery to your friends that you could have that terribly swollen face, that peeling of the skin and the extreme redness of the new skin without any attending illness; but it is true, and no one can doubt from the appearance that it was anything but a severe attack of that sometimes fatal disease—erysipelas.

It is rather mean to betray it, but it is a fact that it is the effect of electricity and nothing else, and that the vanity of the human family is responsible for all that disfiguration, inconvenience and six weeks' seclusion.—Chicago Tribune.

Wealth Worshipers in New York.

Yesterday as I was sitting in the parlors of one of the swell places for gowns, being a few minutes early for my fitting, I saw one of the rich and fashionable grandes dames of New York enter the door. She rustled in with an air of command and in two minutes had swept every saleswoman, model and even Mme. La Proprietaire herself in her train. The half dozen other poor mortals of the feminine persuasion who had been receiving the attention of the salespeople were nowhere. They might fold their hands or twiddle their thumbs—no one cared. In fact I did notice two of them, after waiting some fifteen minutes quite left in the lurch, get up unobserved and leave the room while the grande dame sailed about issuing her orders, and everybody flying right and left, hither and yon, in answer to her beck and call. She wanted to be shown some evening gowns and did not wish to see anything but "very smart models."—New York Cor. Chicago Herald.

Woman's Power.

With the strides, as one may say, that women are making in athletic sports, as well as in affairs, all predictions concerning her loss of influence over men seem to have missed fire. The Liverpool Daily Post has been considering this subject exhaustively, and comes to the conclusion that no matter what women choose to do they have come to stay. According to this journal woman, by virtue of her external qualifications, nose, ears, eyes, mouth, complexion, none of which is altered by her views, opinions, intellect or diversions, serious or amusing, will always exercise that sway over man and his destinies which she has done since human society existed. This every student of human nature must see, and woman, so far from relinquishing any hold on her peculiar empire, is gaining new territory, still seizes upon this susceptibility of men and makes use of it.

A Bazaar of Universities.

An English "bazaar of the universities" lately held holds a suggestion for imitators this side the sea. The stall attendants wore mortarboards and gowns, which is a most attractive toilet for a pretty girl. Each stall was under the patronage of a college, dressed in its colors and decorated with its distinctive insignia. The wares were not specially academic—that is, from an educational point of view—though Trinity college, Cambridge, undoubtedly made an exhibit dear to the "undergrad's" soul in its plum puddings, pots of jam, tins of cocoa and sweetmeats. The idea, however, of a varsity bazaar is clever and may be copied in New York, where alumni of all colleges are to be found. And what charming possibilities for frocks in the blue of Yale, the crimson of Harvard and the orange and black of Princeton!—New York Letter.

The Empress Frederick and Her Dog.

As the Empress Frederick and Princess Margaret were walking to St. Mark's, in Venice, the other day, followed by a lapdog without muzzle or chain, the little animal was caught by a man whose business it is to take up stray dogs. The two ladies especially begged a policeman to order the man to give up the dog, but having no idea of the rank of the petitioners the policeman said that to regain the dog they must follow him to the police office. This they did, and with many excuses the captain of the guard ordered the restitution of the animal.—London Tit-Bits.

For very cold weather lined gloves edged with fur are the correct thing. They are now lined so skillfully as to fit as well as any glove. There is a great deal of warmth in these gloves, and women who go out in cold weather will find them a great comfort.

Whist Played with Living Cards.

Nothing more graceful and unique than living whist was ever produced on a dancing floor, and its presentation at Strasburg's dancing academy was a success in every detail. It was given for the benefit of the Benton Street Free kindergarten. Fifty-three young men and women well known in social circles represented a full deck of cards and a joker. Twenty-three card parts were taken by women and thirty by men. The costumes were handsome and showy, and the effect was brilliant as the cards and players danced, led in by the joker, who was soon discarded. The players were Robert Gillman, Henry Nesson, Frank Carter and Edward Bears. The cards were shuffled and cut by intricate dance movements, and the game was on, the cards being played in fours as tricks.

The seventh and eighth tricks combined and danced "La Neopolitaine," while the tenth and eleventh cards gave the "Polka Comique," and the giddy "jack of spades" gained fame in a burlesque skirt dance. The "jacks" did most of the solo dancing, while the "kings" and "queens" gave the stately minuet, the "aces" "La Caprice." The "jacks" were then held out while they executed a comic hornpipe. After the thirteenth trick had been played, tricks ten, eleven, twelve and thirteen demonstrated their grace and skill by executing a most intricate movement devised by Mr. Strasburg. The game closed by a march and a waltz by all the cards.—Detroit Cor. Chicago Tribune.

The State of Feeling in Paris.

As an instance of the alarm which prevails in Paris I may mention the excitement which was produced in the neighborhood of the Louvre through the discovery of a mysterious object which was thought to be a bomb. A policeman on duty in the Place du Palais Royal was told that an "infernal machine" had been found in a house in the vicinity of the Hotel du Louvre, and on proceeding to the spot he saw a large parcel, carefully tied with cord, from which issued a kind of fuse.

He was about to open the packet for the purpose of ascertaining the nature of its contents when the bystanders intervened, and at last he carried it off to the office of the commissary of police. Here, however, the agent of the law was confronted by the concierge of the house, who barred the way and refused to allow him to pass in until the presumed engine of destruction had been subjected to the chemical process which is supposed to deprive bombs of their many dangerous properties. Finally this was done, and when the packet which had created so much alarm was opened it was found to consist of a wooden box filled with sand.

There was not an atom of powder or of any other explosive material in the parcel, which had evidently been laid on the spot where it was noticed by some practical joker.—Cor. London Telegraph.

The Wheat Crop of Kansas.

Of the wheat produced in Kansas last year it is probable that 60,000,000 bushels will be marketed, of which 25 per cent. or 15,000,000 bushels, will be ground into flour by Kansas mills. Taking the large and small mills together, they will on the average make a barrel of flour out of 4½ bushels of wheat, so that out of the 15,000,000 bushels of wheat ground 3,333,333 barrels of flour will be produced. The average price of flour in Kansas at the mills is four dollars per barrel, or nearly $14,000,000. About seventeen pounds of feed and offal are produced from every bushel of wheat ground into flour, which has a market value of ½ per cent. per pound at the mills. On 15,000,000 bushels of wheat this would be worth $1,275,000, which brings a total value of a year's milling output to over $15,000,000.—Kansas City Times.

Two Young Wanderers.

Two small Brooklyn girls, longing for a sight of the gay, Christmas decked shops of Fulton street, concluded one afternoon to take the matter into their own hands. They had no money and dared not apply for any, as they well knew their scheme was a revolutionary one. "But," said Flossie, the elder, "we will walk and follow the car track right down to the stores."

"Yes," replied the small Janet, "and I will put my trust in you, Flossie." Whereupon Flossie echoed solemnly, "And I will put my trust in God."

Providence evidently saw through this specious faith, for it permitted them to be overhauled and brought home in disgrace when within a few blocks of the promised land.—New York Times.

No Division of Texas.

The Times-Democrat has never placed much faith in the story recently current that Texas was to be divided up into four or five states in order to give the Democrats full control of the United States senate.

The story has been told very generally in the north since the election. The people of Texas have finally heard of it and express surprise and disgust. The proposition is absurd, the Lone Star press declares, and "finds no favor among Texans. They intend to hold Texas together until its population is so large that New York will not begin to compare with it in congress." We have not heard of a single paper or person in Texas that was in favor of the proposed division. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Old Pavements Furnish Paperweights.

As is known, the old cathedral in Berlin is being pulled down and a new one erected on the site. The emperor has allowed paperweights to be made of the marble pavement and the steps of the altar where the late Emperor William's coffin stood. Each weight bears stamped upon it the words in which the emperor gave his permission as a guarantee of its genuineness. They are to be sold for charitable purposes.—London News.

The nebula in Orion is a fine telescopic object now. The great black space in the nebula is known among unpoetic star gazers as the coal hole. No star has ever been seen in this hole in the universe.

Renan's Poverty.

Contrary to what is supposed by many, M. Ernest Renan left little private fortune to his family. So much so is this the case that Mme. Renan intends to sell the library of her deceased husband while awaiting the national pension which parliament will make no difficulty in granting her. M. Berthelot, the life-long friend of Renan, says that the latter left the world almost as poor as he was on the day when he quitted Saint-Sulpice in order to face the struggle for existence. Renan had the same disdain for money, per se, towards the end of his career that he had when he said to the imperial minister who offered him a lucrative post, "Sit tecum tua pecunia!" All he wanted was sufficient to enable him to pursue his studies in ease and comfort.

As a professor of the College of France Renan had 10,000 francs, or £400 a year, from which 5 per cent. was deducted in order to form a pension. As director of the establishment he had £80 yearly and rooms, £80 also as fees for attending committees and £60 for attendances at the Institute of France. On the whole, M. Berthelot estimates that Renan's official emoluments amounted to 15,000 francs a year, or £600. He had sold all rights in his literary works to his publishers, and had to live for many years on what he earned by writing. These "revelations" about M. Renan's private means are made by M. Berthelot in order to do away with the notion that as a writer and a functionary his friend had made a large fortune.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

The Governor of Tennessee.

Judge Turney, governor of Tennessee, though he has been on the supreme bench for twenty-two years, is a farmer. He has a magnificent old typical southern home in Franklin county known as Wolf's Crag. He is sixty-five years old, 6 feet 4 inches tall, has broad shoulders and weighs 260 pounds. He wears a full, short gray beard. With the exception of a slight rheumatic affection he is hale and hearty. His rheumatism has caused him to abandon deer and fox hunting, of which he has been a great lover. At Wolf's Crag he has his pack of dogs and the horses which have carried him on many a fox hunt.

For years he has been noted as the best deer shot in the state. Men who have been with him on the hunt say he can bring down a deer running at full speed 100 yards distant. He is one of the people. All over the state he is known as "Old Pete Turney." It was his county under his leadership which first seceded from the Union. Before the state of Tennessee had seceded he had organized the first Tennessee regiment and gone to the front. Though many times offered promotion, he declined to leave his regiment and went through the war as colonel of the First Tennessee. At the battle of Seven Pines he was shot through the face.—New York World.

Thinning Them Out.

A new device for plucking strangers has been invented by the keeper of a big Clark street restaurant. He didn't want to frighten regular customers away by raising prices on the bill of fare, and yet felt that it was a shame to be behind boarding house keepers, saloons and hotels in overcharging. Yesterday a bright idea struck him and he promptly put it in operation. A waiter gave the snap away. "I've eaten there for six months," said a well known merchant, "and seldom had cause for complaint. Last night I ordered a sirloin steak, as I had often done before. It was much thinner than usual, but I was not particularly hungry and did not complain. This morning I was served with a still thinner one and kicked. Then the waiter told me the steaks were all being cut thinner this week because so many strangers were in town, and the boss wanted to get more for meals without driving away the regulars. It's the same way everywhere else. The pies are smaller; so are the pats of butter, and the proprietor has actually run in a lot of new coffee cups that hold considerably less than the old ones." —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cost of the World's Fair.

More money has already been paid out in creating the World's fair than the directors thought would be necessary to complete it when congress voted to send the exposition to Chicago. Ten million dollars was thought to be the limit then. Auditor Ackerman's report shows that the expenditures to Dec. 1 have been $12,460,236.61. The receipts have been $13,229,451.98. The available balance on hand Dec. 1 was $636,068.33, about enough to last two weeks at the present rate of expenditures, but the souvenir coins are coming, and the directors have nearly $2,000,000 yet in exposition bonds from which no capital has been received. —Chicago Letter.

Trips to the Chicago Exhibition.

Members of the Regent Street Polytechnic, London, are going to show Americans what such an institution can do in the way of pleasure trips to the Chicago exhibition next year. Nearly 3,0 berths have already been secured for the daring Polytechnicians and for friends in various parts of the kingdom, who intend to celebrate the discovery of America by visiting the World's fair in fortnightly parties during the year.—London Tit-Bits.

Caused by a Comet.

Some learned scientific guessers have contended that the deluge of Noah's time was caused by a comet disturbing the earth's atmosphere. Ever since the time set for Biela's comet to strike the earth we have had rain. Has the comet which did not strike us caused the rain? If so will the rain continue till we have another deluge? Are we out of danger yet? —Buffalo Express.

Picking Out Thieves by Their Eyes.

The eye always indicates the character of the man. This is particularly true of thieves, for the expert detective can tell in almost every case whether or not a man is a thief by simply looking him squarely in the eye. A well known detective in speaking of this matter, said:

"Yes, I can pick out a thief every time. I can't tell you what it is that gives the man away except that it is the expression of the eye. In the first place, there are few thieves that will look you squarely in the eye unless they are obliged to do so. They will avoid your glance as long as they can, and even when they do face you and gaze steadily at you it is always with the same expression. Although their eyes may be wide open and the gaze apparently steady you will see, if you look closely, that there is something away back through the corner trying to avoid you. I have picked out numbers of thieves by this little dodging movement. I never saw a thief who was free from it.

"Everybody has met that man who resolutely refuses to meet a steady gaze for more than three or four seconds at a time. It is not fair to say that all such persons are dishonest. In many cases this peculiarity is a direct result of bashfulness. A little close observation will enable the observer to put persons in the class to which they belong. The man whose eye is almond shaped is almost always dishonest at heart, if not in overt act. The eyes of some of the most notorious thieves in the country are of this pattern, and the expression given the face by this sort of eye is very striking."—Pittsburg Press.

Eugene Sue's Vanity.

Notwithstanding the extraordinary literary success which he enjoyed when his works were the vogue, Eugene Sue posed much more as a man of fashion than a man of letters. After his dinner at the Cafe de Paris he would gravely stand on the steps smoking his cigar and listening to the conversation with an air of superiority without attempting to take part in it. His mind was supposed to be far away, devising schemes for the social and moral improvement of his fellow creatures. These philanthropic musings did not prevent him from paying a great deal of attention—too much perhaps—to his personal appearance, for even in those days of beaus, bucks and dandies, of Counts d'Orsay and others, men could hot help thinking Eugene Sue overdressed.

He rarely appeared without spurs to his boots, and he would no more have done without a new pair of white kid gloves every evening than without his dinner. Other men, like Nestor de Roqueplan, Alfred de Musset and Major Fraser, did not mind having their gloves cleaned, though the process was not so perfect asit is now. Eugene Sue averred that the smell of cleaned gloves made him ill. The unhappy man finally fell into poverty, was quietly cashiered from his fashionable clubs and died in obscurity.—Chicago Post.

Black Costumes in Paris.

There's a black rage in Paris; it's the style to look as if you were in light mourning there, whether it's so or not. All the toilets one sees are black of some description or black and white—that is, all but the hats. A woman may go out deeply and solemnly robed in a garment that one would surely suppose to be worn as a token of grief until one's eyes reached the headgear, when its light and brilliant coloring would immediately dispel the effect. They're not a bit consistent in gay Paris, else one might think they had at last reached a period of sobriety and common sense; that they had concluded to be more like their English sisters and settle down in quieter and more subdued colors. But when a woman wears a black gown and a hat containing several colors of the rainbow in bright display there is little foundation for the belief, after all.—Paris Letter.

How to Get a Postoffice.

There are a great many interesting facts and figures connected with postoffices and their masters. For instance, when a countryman is tired of walking or driving several miles for his mail and concludes that the government should bring it nearer, he should state that fact to the first assistant postmaster general, whose clerks will furnish him with instructions and a blank petition for the neighbors to sign. If he wants the new office bad enough to make the government think it a necessity, he will doubtless get it.

At the same time he will be told that in naming it prefixes such as "east," "center" and the like, the suffixes "boro," "burgh," "city," etc., are equally objectionable. Short, characteristic names are preferred.—Kate Field's Washington.

Meters for Measuring Electricity.

In a discussion in London on meters for measuring electrical energy it was shown that in the Frager meter the energy could be made from 300 to 400 times greater than that indicated by the meter by simply closing and opening the circuit at proper intervals. With a Thomson meter it was said to be very easy to force the readings with the aid of a strong magnet applied outside the meter boxes. Fraud is therefore very easily practiced upon such meters, provided one understands them. — New York Telegram.
