RECOVER BODY OF H. H. SWANEY

Tug Bahada Makes Important Find Off Dungeness Spit.

The body of Homer H. Swaney was picked up afloat about a mile off Dungeness spit at 2 o'clock Tuesday and brought to this city. Though the eyes of the dead man were missing and the features badly distorted personal friends readily recognized their dear friend, and proofs positive were later found in his pockets which contained papers, letters, his steamboat pass, and other things. In his watch were pictures of his wife and eldest daughter. Other than the deficiencies named the body was well preserved. It was found in a standing posture attesting that it had been supported throughout by the life preserver which encircled it. Because of the absence of any considerable amount of water Coroner Willson is of the opinion that the man died of exposure and was not drowned,

The remains were carefully attended to here, cleaned and dressed and on Wednesday morning were sent to Port Townsend where the funeral was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. Swaney had a large circle of friends here who mourn his awful and tragic end.

GRUESOME FIND OFF THE SPIT

Mr. Earl Thomas Discovers a Clallam Victim Floating in the Straits.

About 1:30 Sunday afternoon Earl Thomas, son of assistant light keeper J. E. Thomas, discovered the body of one of the Clallam's victims floating in the straits just off the outer point of the spit. With the help of his father the body was pulled up on the beach and later brought to this city where a curious crowd surveyed it. The body was in a well preserved condition, easily recognizable by one who might know the victim. He had evidently lost nothing except his hat and possibly some papers, suggesting there was no struggle. His watch, chain, pocketbook, keys, collar and tie, were in place. He was a heavy set man, about 5 feet 10.

The only clew found as to his identity was return tickets to Seattle and Tacoma, a painter's card and address of Star Paint Co., Tacoma and a Los Angeles paper.

From this it was surmised that the victim answered the description of W. F. Rooklidge, a woodpolisher and contractor of Tacoma, recently from Los Angeles, who was on his way to Victoria to bring home his wife and four year old babe.

Monday undertaker Willson was advised that it was Rooklidge and directed to ship the body to Victoria where the wife is still with her mother.

Keeper Rustad and his assistant have kept a constant patrol of the spit on both sides and have picked up a large quantity of wreckage, including a cot, camp stool, berth board, a fine 12 foot ash oar and numerous other minor things, having inscriptions or marks stamping all as Clallam wreckage.

Sheriff Hopkins and inspector Fisher on Monday and Tuesday inspected the beach as far as Seibert's creek and A. L. Johnson went round the spit and to the Elwha. Considerable wreckage was found, but no bodies.

Monday was the ninth day upon which those bodies which went to the bottom were expected to rise. In all, to date, some 30 odd of the 54 bodies have been recovered.

NEW VICTORIA STEAMER

C. P. R. Will Compete with Alaska S.S. co.—P.S.N. co. Crowded off

Because of regulations imposed by Victoria, the Puget Sound Navigation Co. has practically been crowded off the Seattle-Victoria run and the Dolphin, of the Alaska Steamship Co., is now making daily trip, touching here Saturday nights in place of the Clallam. As soon as the Majestic comes off the ways it is said she will be put on the Victoria run, but it is thought with little profit in view of the following from the Victoria Times:

"* We are convinced that the Board of Trade will oppose the substitution of the reconstructed Majestic, and that such action will be endorsed by the citizens, such being the case, the company must understand that it will be a false move. * "

It is evident that the Victoria papers will do much to divert travel to the C. P. R. steamer Princes Beatrice, which will be placed on the Seattle-Victoria run direct, as soon as U. S. papers can be signed.

NO ACTION IN GRADE SUITS

The City Attorney Reports Strong Feeling in Tax Matter

All members except councilman Gutenberg were present at Wednesday's council meeting. Among the important routine work transacted was the payment of $1,111.75 for new electrical machinery.

Light committee reported cost of repair of old plant: Boilers, $450; engine, $200; building, $125; miscellaneous, $150; total, $925.00.

Clerk's annual report was read and referred to finance committee; the report will be given in full later.

Bills were allowed as follows:

Pt. A. H. & T. Co., supplies	$ 16 95
McIvor & Swanson, blacksmith.	17 39
City engineer	5 00
Kilbourne & Clark Co., first payment	1,111 75

Bonds of city clerk, city attorney and city marshal were read and approved.

Clerk was directed to advertise for bids for refluing boilers at power house.

Mayor Lewis submitted a blank contract for extension of light system, subscribers to pay at rate of 10c per kilowatt hour — twenty 16c.p. lights one hour.

In the matter of the grade assessments suits the city attorney reported he had the cases continued for another 20 days, making the day of hearing February 5. Strong feeling in matter is abroad and some time for consideration would not be amiss.

An Explanation.

Mr. EDITOR:—In view of the fact that reports reflecting upon my efficiency as an undertaker are being circulated, I wish in justice to myself to make the following statement:

My life from 14 years to 32 was spent in the bustness continuously. After Mr. Mock left the city without an undertaker, I saw an opportunity to resume the business. Mr. McKee and myself put in a fine stock of goods and a modern hearse. I have perfected myself in the present methods of preparing bodies; passed the examination before the state board of health, and hold an embalmer's certificate, and am fully qualified for the business of an undertaker, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary. We are here to stay. H. H. LA FLOWERS.

Narrow Chests.

The old theory that consumption was inherited is utterly discredited by modern medical science. The germs of consumption must be received from without. These germs are every where. They are constantly being received and cast out by the healthy system. It is the narrow chested whose inheritance is weakness who fall a prey to consumption because they are too weak of lung to resist and throw off disease.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes weak lungs strong. It cures obstinate deep-seated coughs, bleeding lungs, weakness, emaciation and other conditions which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"In the spring of 1900 I was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs, and became very weak and short of breath, lost flesh and had no appetite," writes Mr. E. L. Robinett, of Xerxes, Tenn. "I was persuaded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first few bottles seemed to do me but little good. Thought I would soon be a victim of that dreaded disease, consumption. Had almost given up in despair when my friends persuaded me to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' a fair trial. I commenced its use. I weigh 160 pounds now, and when I commenced I only weighed 140 pounds. If any one doubts this statement I will be pleased to answer any inquiry."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing is "just as good."

The board instructed the auditor to draw warrants on road districts No. 13, 26, 30, 31, 33, upon the approval of commissioner Christopher of the road supervisors' reports.

The board instructed Commissioner Morse to make the necessary arrangements to rent a house to take care of the county poor in. The Board adjourned to meet at 9 a m, Friday. the 15th day of January, 1904, Commissioner Morse making the motion to adjourn and Commissioners Thompson and Morse voting for the motion, and Commissioner Christopher voting against the motion for the reason that the board had been in session long enough.

DEWEY

in command of the Asiatic squadron, consisting of the Olympia (flagship), first-class cruiser; Baltimore, Raleigh, Boston, second-class cruisers; Concord, third-class cruiser; Petrel, fourth-class cruiser; McCulloch, revenue cutter, used as a dispatch boat; Nanshan, collier; and Zafiro, supply vessel; with a total personnel of 1,694 officers and men.

On the breaking out of the war with Spain, April 22, 1898, Commodore Dewey was at Hong Kong with his squadron; and he received prompt instructions from Washington to find and destroy the Spanish fleet stationed somewhere in the Philippines. Accordingly, on Wednesday, April 27, he sailed with his squadron from Hong Kong in search of the enemy. The result may be given in his own first brief dispatch: "Manila, May 1.—Squadron arrived at Manila at daybreak this morning. Immediately engaged the enemy, and destroyed the following Spanish vessels: Reina Cristina, Castilla, Don Antonio de Ulloa, Isla de Luzon, Isla de Cuba, General Lezo, Marques del Duero, Cano, Velasco, Isla de Mindanao, a transport and water battery at Cavité. The squadron is uninjured, and only a few men are slightly wounded." Owing to the feeble defense of the Spaniards, Commodore Dewey's victory was an unexpectedly easy one; but that circumstance does not in the slightest degree detract from its workmanlike completeness, which, when contrasted with the trifling cost to the victor, made it one of the most remarkable victories in naval annals. Commodore Dewey's dispatch was received by President McKinley on May 7, and he at once telegraphed his thanks to Commodore Dewey, and notified him that, in recognition of his "splendid achievement," he had been appointed acting rear-admiral. Two days later the President sent a message to Congress recommending that the thanks of that body be given to "Acting Rear-Admiral George Dewey for highly distinguished conduct in conflict with the enemy, and to the officers and men under his command." On the same day (May 9) Congress passed a joint resolution of thanks, to the effect indicated, and voted to Admiral Dewey a sword of honor, and to his comrades medals commemorative of the victory. It also passed a bill increasing the number of rear-admirals from six to seven, to provide for Dewey's promotion. After the destruction of the Spanish fleet, Dewey subjected Manila to a strict blockade, and with his squadron took part in the capture of the city by General Merritt on Aug. 13, 1898. On March 2, 1899, he was created full admiral. (See also MANILA, in these Supplements.)

Admiral Dewey is a strict disciplinarian, and his action with the Spanish squadron showed that he is an admirable tactician, and a cool, clear-headed, skilful, and brave commander. He is an all-round athlete, a daring horseman and huntsman, and socially a good club man and a general favorite. At Portsmouth, N. H., in 1867, he married Miss Susy Goodwin, a daughter of Ichabod Goodwin, the "fighting governor" of New Hampshire. She died in 1872, leaving a son, George Goodwin Dewey, who, after graduating at Princeton, went into business in New York city.

The New Werner Encyclopedia Britannica

Has Thousands of Special Articles of Great Interest to Americans, among which are the defensive and aggressive resources of the U. It does not leave KITCHENER OF KHARTHUM holding the rank of adjutant-general in the Khedival Army but tells how he was awarded a peerage, and how Lord Kitchener was instrumental in raising a fund of half a million dollars to found and endow a Gordon Memorial College at Khartum; also mentions his appointment in January, 1899, as GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF THE SUDAN.

A COMPLETE SUMMARY

of Human Knowledge and Progress, wherein information is more easily found and acquired than in any other book or encyclopædia In The World.

You Need It In Your Home.

From Brute To Man

[Original.]

The mutineers had killed the captain, two mates and won the Alida. The third mate, Edward Webster, had given them so much trouble, killing two of their number, that he was reserved for a death by some prolonged torture. They were trying to devise something unique. When passing an island one of them said:

"I tell you, mates, what we'll do. Let's take him ashore and when the tide's out bury him up to his neck in the sand. Then when it turns he'll get the slowest drowning man ever had."

There was a shout of approval to this, and several of the men went forward to drop the anchor while others lowered a boat from the davits. When all was ready Webster was put into the boat and rowed ashore. The tide had just passed the flood, and it would be eleven hours before another high water. The mutineers dug a hole at the highest line of foam and put their captive in it, leaving his head free, his arms pinned close to his sides. Filling in the sand, they stamped it down about him so that it was impossible for him to move. Then they took to their boat, guying him as they pulled away.

So long as Webster had them and the ship to look at his mind did not wholly rest upon his condition. He watched them till they went aboard, saw them raise the anchor and sail away, keeping his mind upon them till the last ray of sunlight faded from the ship's sails.

Above the horizon where the bark had disappeared hung a dark cloud like a sea gull with outstretched wings. Then there was a faint flash of lightning. "There'll be a storm," thought the captive, "and it will shorten this agony, driving the tide in earlier and higher. May it come quickly."

It was 6 o'clock in the evening when Webster was buried, and till midnight a three-quarter moon sailed between black, ragged clouds, while occasionally a flash of lightning added to the terrible splendor of the scene. It was the ocean—the black, heaving, tumbling ocean—its merciless waves falling heavily on the beach with monotonous regularity, that was the chief horror. The captive watched the receding tide, saw it turn and then crawl slowly upon him. No stealthy jungle beast could be half so terrible.

And what was his chief thought for the world which he was about to leave? Alas for humanity, the instinct of the brute creation predominated. With his sufferings was mingled a hatred for the men who had caused it. At such intervals as his mind reverted to aught but his situation it fell upon methods of revenge he would delight to inflict on his murderers.

Slowly the relentless ocean advanced. Had it life it would not have been so awful. Its unreasoning, inevitable purpose was its greatest horror. He knew that he was helpless, but could not refrain from an effort to free himself. Had he been able to move even infinitesimally he might in time loosen the sand about him. It was his inability to stir at all that pinioned him.

Soon after midnight the storm burst. As the tide rolled in the breakers increased in size and strength. Then came the dawn of day. By this time the extreme line of foam encircled the captive's neck.

And now came a ray of hope. Webster noticed that when the first wave to reach him receded it took with it sand from under his chin and left sand at the back of his neck. Another wave came and took more from in front, leaving more behind. Then as the seething foam passed over him he held his breath, regaining it when the water had withdrawn. Each receding wave piled sand behind and scooped sand in front. He bent forward; his arms were loosened; he dragged himself from his hole.

He went to the crest of a dune and, throwing himself down, slept. When he awoke the tempest had lulled, but the ocean was chafing more fiercely than before. From his elevated position he saw a mile to his left a stranded ship and knew from her rigging that she was the Alida. He ran down to a point opposite her and saw men putting off on a raft. It tumbled for a moment on the curl of a comber, then capsized, leaving its crew in the water.

Webster saw a man being driven toward a protruding rock. Rushing to its outermost edge, he caught the helpless creature, saved him from being dashed to death and drew him away from the turmoil of brine. Another was thrown senseless on the beach and was about to be carried back when Webster dashed in and saved him. A third was swimming on the breakers. At the risk of his life Webster went out beyond a foothold and dragged him in. There were ten men on the raft, and these three were all that came ashore alive.

Then the three men who were saved stood before their rescuer, whom they had intended to barbarously murder.

"Men," Webster said, "last night when I saw the black fiend coming to drown me I longed to torture you to death. That, I suppose, is the brute in me. Then when I saw you struggling for life I felt something move me to pull you out. That, I suppose, is the man in me. At all events we're all living who should have been dead."

There is a sequel to this story, a volume of incidents, but it may be stated in a few words. Three brutes became men. For many a year they sailed with their captain, Edward Webster, and many a time their watchfulness saved him from some impending calamity. One of them died under a blow that was intended for him

FEEDING SUGAR BEETS.

They Put Gloss on the Coat and Relieve Thick Wind In Horses.

When beets are ready for feeding I run a puller through the field, then put the beets into wagons and haul them to the feed lot, tops and all. It may be necessary to cut them, and a corn knife can be used for the purpose. After the cattle get a little used to the beets they will eat them quite readily without cutting. I have been feeding beets to cattle, hogs and horses for ten years. They seem to be very fond of them, and the horses are just as anxious to get their feed of beets as of grain. I do not think that any farmer can afford to get along without a root crop of this kind, says a writer in Denver Field and Farm.

Animals seem to do especially well, and in a short time a very glossy appearance will be noted. I have found beets a most excellent feed for thick winded horses, and much easier breathing results. I raise about forty-five or fifty tons of beets at little expense and find them the most profitable crop on the farm. In addition to using beets during the fall, I plan to have a supply for brood sows during the latter part of March and early April. They are invaluable at that time when it becomes necessary to increase the flow of milk. This feed keeps both the sows and pigs in fine condition.

We feed 3,000 to 3,500 head of cattle four to six weeks on beet tops and corn fodder. The fodder is first run through a cutter and then given to cattle with beet tops. The animals do much better than when kept on a full grain ration. We are now starting to feed beet pulp and expect good results, especially as corn is so high.

We are also feeding 3,000 sheep on beet pulp, with satisfactory results. Stock takes readily to beets without any preparation. I believe feeding whole is better than slicing, for sliced beets lose more or less of the juice. In addition, the animals seem to enjoy chewing the whole beet. I have always contended that sugar beets will pay better if fed to animals than if sent to the factory.

KEEPING CELERY.

Storing In Trenches—Their Location. How to Make and Fill Them.

Many growers prefer to store their celery intended for midseason in trenches. These are conveniently made as follows: Select a place well drained and plow open a furrow to the depth of ten inches. By going over the furrow with a plow several times it will greatly reduce the hand labor. The bottom of the furrow should then be opened up to about six inches wide. Next take a common board one inch thick and twelve inches wide and place the same on the edge in the bottom of the furrow. The plants are next placed in a straight row as close as possible to each other without coming in actual contact. Then fill in with soil between the board and the plants, taking the soil first on the other side of the board for the filling. In this way the excavated soil is used for filling and a new trench is made at the same time. After the last row has been made the trench by the side should be filled in to prevent water from standing in it. The length of these trenches depends upon convenience. They should be just long enough to permit the removal of one or more boards at each time. The tops are covered with straw, leaves or corn fodder, and a few boards are thrown on top to prevent the covering from blowing off. The depth of covering depends on how late the celery is to remain in the trenches.—E. P. Sandsten, Maryland.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY

The Manhatten whist club held an enjoyable session Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Smith, after which the customary and, on this occasion, most appetizing luncheon was served.

At the Merchants' hotel on Monday night gathered a number of the personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mathewson at an informal reception and dinner given in honor of Mrs. Mathewson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seekins, of St. Paul, who were visiting in the city. The affair proved very enjoyable. Among those present:

Also on Monday a large number of the schoolmates of Miss Jessie Burdick called unexpectedly to give her a rousing send-off on the eve of her departure for North Dakota. A jolly time was had with cards, closing with a few dances in the commodious diningroom of the Burdick home.

There were present: Misses Jessie Burdick, Josie Phelps, Hypatia Dermul, Franc Nace, Turzah McKechie, Luella McKechie, Grace McKechnie, Beatrice Brady, Iva Baxter, Flora McGill, Irene McDonald, Annie Smith ; Messrs. David Weigel, Reuben Weigel, Lyman McDonald, Floyd McKechnie, Leroy Burdick, Clarence Gberke, Antone Smith, Fred Grubb, Ray Wolverton and Donald Lutz.

Tuesday Mrs. Robert Treby entertained a number of neighbor ladies with various interesting games. Delicious refreshments were served later. A most pleasant time is reported.

Wednesday night the Diamond whist club met with Dr. and Mrs. Appleton . and each member was accorded a royal welcome as is the custom of this hospitable family. A most appetizing luncheon was served in the spacious dining room after which experiences were related which brought out the fact—if the men are to be believed—that each gentleman present had the pleasure of preparing breakfast each morning, a very pleasing experience—for the ladies.

To-night (Friday) the Ladies Book club give their annual reception to the gentlemen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Clark. A big time is promised.

Invitations are out for a big private masque ball to be given at the opera house on Wednesday night, February 3d. under the direction of Mrs. J. A. Cameron. Invitations have been confined to the members of the various clubs of the city and one of the most enjoyable events of the season is anticipated. No effort, at any rate, will be spared to make it so, and the name of the lady in charge is a guarantee sufficient. A small admission fee of 25c. will be charged to pay expenses.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

[By a disillusioned bachelor.]

When I was young—as every one agreed—
And when my gladsome heart no burden carried,
I had a very near escape indeed
Of getting married.

My income was diminutive, it's true,
Yet that was but a small consideration.
I met my love and fell a victim to
Her fascination.

The day arrived when I resolved to try
If my persuasive eloquence could win her,
For to her father's house one evening I
Was asked to dinner.

Although I took some other female down,
I did not mind at all, for I was able
To watch my fair adored one smile or frown
Across the table.

Now half way through the dinner we had got,
And pitapat my frenzied heart was beating
When suddenly I chanced to notice what
My love was eating.

Asparagus, that coy, elusive thing,
She swallowed with an energy most frantic.
(Although it may be very nourishing,
It's not romantic.)

The nodding heads when lifted from her plate
Toward her ruby lips she started thrusting.
The scene that followed I don't hesitate
To call disgusting.

I felt that I must gaze at her, perforce;
Ah, how the recollection of it lingers!
The melted butter ran its wayward course
Along her fingers.

She even smacked her lips, devoid of shame;
But as the pile of heads before her dwindled
Within my heart there flickered out the flame
That love had kindled.

The mad, delicious moments of the past
For once and all were absolutely ended.
I left the house much sooner, at the last,
Than I intended.

Young men, if any maidens you adore,
Be guided by a sensible suggestion
And watch them eat asparagus before
You put the question!

In Memoriam.

In the providence of God there has been removed from us the kind and gentle face and form of our friend and brother Thomas J. Murphy, late worthy secretary of Port Angeles Aerie, No. 483, F. O. E.

In the death of Thomas J. Murphy, Port Angeles has lost one of its most respected citizens citizens citizens; the cause of rigut and truth one of its efficient advocates, and Port Angeles Aerie one of its most devoted members and strongest upbuilders. His interest in our Aerie from its institution, was of the highest order; and, as its worthy secretary, he filled that office with an efficiency second to none.

Always cheerful, always optimistic, never for a moment doubting that "truth is mighty and will prevail," he was like a light shining through the darkness to those inclined to take a less hopeful view of the things of life.

Port Angeles Aerie in expressing its sorrow at parting from their beloved friend and brother, offers to his sorrowing family its sincerest sympathies and commends them to Him who tells us that:

There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown
They shine for ever more.

And ever near us, though unseen,
Their dear, immortal spirits tread—
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there are no dead.

We know the light of the world has faded from his eyes, but he is sheltered in the Everlasting Arms where light perpetual shines upon him. Requiescat in pace," and farewell.

Resolved, That this minute be spread on our record, and that a copy thereof be forwarded to the mother of our deceased brother.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WATROS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

A WONDERFUL WORK.

To be a man who can excel one hundred thousand men in any one line is good; to be one in a million is better; but to be the only living man, (and the second one in the history of the world), who has drawn a perfect single line picture, is wonderful! This Mr. Fleming, author and illustrator of "Around the 'Pan," and "Around the Capital" ($2.00 books) has done in his drawing of McKinley. Price on best Japanese paper, $1 00. His "Around the Capital," containing one hundred and fifty full-page Washington life pen and ink sketches and five hundred picture of prominent Americans, including the statesmen, ambassadors and commanders participating in the Spanish-American War—comprising by far the greatest collection of facts and faces ever produced in one volume in condensed form, will interest the entire civilized world. The drawings equal, if they do not surpass, those of John Tenniel's, for which work he was knighted by Queen Victoria. The humorist is contagious.

Drillers in Quillayute Valley Find 10 inch Vein and Good Oil Prospects

Advices from Steamboat Creek are that the drillers operating there have struck a 10 inch vein of good coal and are sanguine over oil prospects. The Clallam Record correspondent says:

E. G. Rognon and Kay McKay passed through here the first of the week. Mr. Rognon reports that he has two drills at work drilling for oil near the Hoh river and has reached a depth of nearly 200 feet in one well and is going down at a good rate in the other. He says the indications are excellent and that they intend to stay with it until their property is thorougly prospected. After having a great deal of difficulty on account of the loss of a portion of their outfit, which put them to considerable inconvenience, he says that now everything is getting along splendid.

176 Warren Avenue,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902.

For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weaknes and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.

ANOTHER BODY FOUND ON SPIT.

Married Woman of 35 Years —Easily Recognizable.

The body of a woman, evidently married, about 35 years of age was found on the spit at noon Friday about half a mile from the lighthouse on the straits' side. The discovery was made by Walter Patterson and Edwin Noah who were cruising the beach. The body had evidently washed up at high tide at 3 o'clock this morning. It was in good condition other than the face had evidently received severe blows. The forehead was bruised, the bridge of the nose broken, and two front teeth broken off. No life preserver was found, but the deceased is undoubtedly a Clallam victim.

Description — Height, five feet eight; dark brown hair; six shoe; wore blue and white waist; gray tailored skirt; blue silk underskirt; wedding and diamond ring on left hand; pearl set crescent pin at throat.

Nothing was found on person to identify remains, though they will be readily recognized when seen by any of her people.

If we havn't got it today we may have it tomorrow at the Second Hand Store.

Saved His Life.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1002: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump in my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two moths longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." 25c, 50c. $1.00. C. E. Nailor & Co.
