VOL 14, NO 50 PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASH., FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1903. PRICE FIVE CENTS

HUMPBACKS NUMEROUS.

Half Circle of the Cycle This Year—Good For Canners.

Preparations are already being made in some localities for the summer pack of salmon which this year will be good though not one of the big runs.

The local people of course are not yet planning to open though they are arranging contracts for the coming season. Last season the company got started a little late; this year, however, the fish will be more plentiful, and the local cannerymen expect a very profitable season.

The market is picking up some and prices are advancing. All the last year's pack will be disposed of before the new crop comes in. No new salmon may be looked for before August. Last years's pack in British Columbia was but 50 per cent. of the regular run and the packers are entirely out.

Says a prominent packer:

"The run of salmon year after year moves in cycles as definite as the coming and going of the seasons. It never misses, and never jumps a year, but cycle and cycle repeats itself until fishermen and packers can calculate definitely what salmon may be looked for, where, and when For instance it is perfectly well known to us that are in the business that Puget Sound and Columbia river will have an excellent pack this year, while Alaska will not.

"We also are fully aware that this year Puget Sound will experience a great run of humpbacks, while last year there were none at all. The salmon cycle on this coast is four years There is a shorter cycle within this of two years. The year ore last was the fourth year, and an enormous pack resulted when humpbacks to throw away. The year 1903 is the second year of the cycle, with considerable of a revival, but not equal to two years ago As a pendulum swings a far one side the center as it does the other, to balance the absence of humpbacks a year ago we are anticipating an enormous pack of them this year, and you will see that I am not mistaken.

"Salmon is the cheapest food in America today. There has been no trouble in disposing of all the higher priced and reddest salmon that could be packed Only the cheaper brands—the dog salmon—hangs fire and refuses to sell well, and this is purely prejudice and nothing more. Experts when blindfolded prefer this dog salmon which sells so poorly because of its name and color. The test has often been performed in my presence of setting the four grades of salmon out on four plates, blindfolding someone and having them choose the best to the taste. Invariably they choose this dog salmon. The truth is that it is not the color of the fish which decides its virtues as its condition when caught, and a poor red salmon is unfit for food, while a pink or white one, in good condition, is unexcelled. Nevertheless, the white and pink salmon goes begging so cheap there is no excuse for starvation in the land, for these are the most thrifty of the finny tribes of the sea, and are found on our coast in inexhaustible shoals."

The ladies of the first M. E. church will give an ice cream social in the church parlor next Friday afternoon and evening, March 13, beginning at 4 p m. Everybody welcome.

On March 16, 17 and 18, Miss Draper will display a large and exquisite line of French Patterns, Novelty Trimmings, etc., etc. Call and examine her line before purchasing elsewhere.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

ANOTHER TAX DECISION.

Reassessments are Legal Where Original Are Irregular.

The supreme court has passed upon another street improvement tax case from Pierce county wherein the original assessment was thrown out for irregularities and the re-assessment was declared void by the superior court. The city of Tacoma then appealed to the supreme court which reversed the lower court.

The case is remanded with instructions to enter judgment modifying the assessment, deducting 10 per cent. of the original cost of improvement from the total reassessment and apportioning the remainder upon all the property described, with interest. The ruling is on the ground that the original assessment is void, which the respondents in the case denied. The assessments, as so modified, now stand as good and sufficient liens upon the property, and foreclosure proceedings may be instituted unless the payments are forth-coming.

CLALLAM GIRL WEDS.

Married Wednesday at the Home of Her Mother in Olympia.

The Olympian of last Thursday gives the following account of the wedding of Miss Sara Troy, one of Clallam's native daughters and a lady of many graces and accomplishments:

"At 5 o'clock yesterday evening Arthur Lewis Callow and Miss Sara Troy were united in marriage by the Rev. E. R. Loomis, of the Congregational church. The wedding, which was a pretty home affair, was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. B. Troy, 317 Union street. Only the immediate members of the family and a few friends from the city and out of town were present. The house was very prettily decorated with evergreens, teavine and asparagus fern. The happy couple stood during the ceremony under a canopy of fish net intertwined with teavine. The bride was charmingly gowned in green mulle and carried white carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Laura Troy, the groom being unattended.

"After the ceremony and congratulations a sumptuous wedding supper was served. Those assisting in serving in the dining room were Miss Tarbell, Mrs. Bruner, Miss Whittier, Miss Fisher; in addition to these, others present at the wedding were: Mrs. L. B Troy, mother of the bride; Mrs. Ed. allow, of Shelton, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Troy, Miss Laura Troy, John W. Troy, of Skagway, Alaska; Mrs. Rucker and son of Port Blakely.

"Mr. and Mrs. Callow left on the 6:30 Harbor train for Elma, which place is to be their home, the ex-county auditor now being chief accountant with E. L. Minard of that place."

COMMONER SAYINGS.

If trusts were bronchos they might be broken with less delay.

The "executive sessions" of the senate have always been subject to "publicity."

Victory may be won by compromising wrong, but success is won only by fighting for principles.

It may be that Mr. J. P. Morgan based his objection on the ground that it was unconstitutional to assess water.

The fact that over 400 passengers were killed last year in accidents on American railroads, while not one passenger was killed during that time on British railroads, demands that American railroad managers adopt safer methods.

It should be borne in mind that trust magnates do not use wires to send messages to the senate. They merely pull them.

"And if 'manywhere,' why not 'anywhich?'" queries the Chicago Tribune. To be sure. And why not "everyhow" and "aftersoon?"

His negro pension bill was a good bid, but Mr Hanna stands ready to raise it if the five work of Mr. J. S. Clarkson makes it necessary.

The telegraph reports a few days ago contained the pleasing information that Senator Morgan had sat upon Senator Beveridge. There are several ways of earning a senatorial salary.

Senator-elect Ankeny declares that he did not make a pledge or a promise to secure election. Somehow or other this reminds us of Bessie Brander's explanation of the election of her father, Maverick Brander, to congress: "We have the satisfaction of knowing that pa was honestly elected; he paid $2 cash for every vote he got and made no promises."

The horrors of famine are on the increase in Sweden and thousands of honest and hard-working people are on the verge of starvation. The response to their call for aid should be prompt and liberal.

Judge Grosscup's injunction against the beef trust was too late for a comic valentine and too early for an April fool joke. This being the case the beef trust will probably pay no attention to it.

The Milwaukee News is authority for the statement that New Jersey has a "publicity" law after which the new "publicity" law passed by congress is fashioned. Think of it—a New Jersey model for curbing the trusts!

The battle for the preservation of the party's integrity cannot be won in a week before the national convention of 1904. It must be won by long and arduous labor. The thing for loyal Democrats to do is to organize now and perform systematic work until the victory is won.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these Tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by all druggists.

WASHINGTON MATCH CO.

Where Has The Money Paid In Gone To?

As there are many parties in this city who have purchased stock in the Washington Match Company, the following special to the P.-I., from Tacoma, will be of local interest. It has been rumored for some time past that everything was not just as it should be in the affairs of this company and now Manager Holes virtually charges Treasurer Jackson with getting away with $29,000 of the company's funds. While the plant erected at Tacoma is wholly out of debt, everything necessary for operation is not at hand and the plant promises to remain idle for some time. There is a decided mystery about the whole affair, there being no mention of Jackson's whereabouts or any action on the part of the management to punish the offender or recover from his bondsmen. The special reads:

Considerable feeling is manifested here by the stockholders of the Washington Match Company, on account of revelations made at the stockholders' meeting ten days ago, when Lucius T. Holes, secretary and manager, in accounting for the money that had been paid into the company for stock, is said to have made a statement virtually charging Charles H. Jackson, former secretary of the company, with being short in the sum of $29,000 The company, he is reported to have said, had made a demand upon Jackson's bondsmen for the amount, but the bondsmen had investigated the matter and decided that Jackson was not a defaulter. It developed at the meeting that while $100,000 worth of stock had been bought in Tacoma, Seattle and several Eastern cities, there was but $20 in the treasury. The match factory, on the tide flats, with all it contains in the way of machinery, is estimated to have cost from $25,000 to $30,000 and stock-holders here are wondering what has become of the rest of the money taken in. The managers of the company say they can not employ men and begin the manufacture of matches until they are provided with funds, and the factory is standing idle with no knowing when it will begin operations.

As a consequence of this depressing state of affairs the price of the stock of the company has fallen from 70 and 75 cents a share, two weeks ago, to 40 cents a share now. In fact, it cannot be sold at that, stockholders say, although the owners of stock still hold out for that price. Immediately after the stockholders' meeting many of those who knew of the condition of affairs threw all of their stock on the market, and there were many sellers and no buyers. Ex-Secretary Jackson is a Seattle man, and the failure of the managers of the company to promptly begin suit on his bond for the recovery of the money unaccounted for is one of the freaks of alleged mismanagement which the stockholders desire explained.

A GLANCE at the appropriations of the late legislature is sufficient proof of its Republicanism.

IF the tariff does not foster monopolies, why was the duty on coal removed when the coal barons got so obnoxious and arrogant.

DURING the whole of the session of the legislature just ended there were each day so many absentees that many bills that received a majority vote of those present, failed because there were so many absent that the bills did not receive the constitutional majority required to pass.

THE legislature seem determined that the gambler's bill shall be enforced. They have also passed a law making it a felony for any officer of the law to knowingly permit gambling to exist. The gamblers, as a last resort, tried to steal the bill before its final filing with the secretary of state, but their plans were discovered and frustrated.

EDITOR BLETHEN's appointment as regent of the University of Washington is refused confirmation by the senate. This is another sample of the small calibre of the members of the late senate of the State of Washington. They confess that Mr. Blethen has made a most excellent officer and that their only reason for refusing confirmation is that his paper printed something they did not like.

THE senate at Olympia didn't have anything to do Saturday, so the members spent the afternoon in trying to frighten some of its members by passing a fake bill with many amendments. We were of the opinion, prior to this, that the senate was far behind in its business, but we must have been mistaken, or the members have concluded if they do nothing they can hurt nobody.

INCOME TAX DECISION.

An important decision was rendered recently by United States Circuit Judge Gilbert at the circuit court of appeals, San Francisco.

A bill was passed by the legislature of Hawaii in 1901, fixing a tax of 2 per cent on incomes above $1,000.

A complaint was filed in the circuit court of Hawaii, setting forth that the act was invalid by reason of being in conflict with the organic act of the territory, and also with the federal constitution. Complainants maintained that the exception of incomes below the amount of $1,000 was illegal, and that the salary of judges should have been excepted.

A demurrer was filed by the government, and sustained by the judge, and the bill dismissed outright. The appeal was then made. Judge Gilbert decides that a territory has a right to legislate in the matter of taxation, and, in affirming the opinion of the lower court says:

"The power of state legislatures to grant reasonable exemptions is undisputed. It has been upheld on the grounds of public policy, a public policy which seeks to exclude from taxation the living expenses of the average family and thus enable the poor man to escape from being a public burden. It rests upon the theory that the exemption results in ultimate benefit to the taxpayer. It does not apply to corporations, for they have not the same expenses as the individual. We are unable to discover any ground for holding that an exemption of income to the extent of $1,000 from an income tax law is unreasonable, or that its allowance is an abuse of legislative discretion.

"Upon a careful consideration of the act and of the averments of the bill, we discover no ground for enjoining the collection of the tax, and find therefore no equity in the bill. The act was undoubtedly intended to remedy the depletion of the revenues of the territory. It contains no evidence of an intention to unjustly or unfairly discriminate. It places the burden of taxation upon the points of strongest resistance, where it is easiest borne."

The objections that were raised against the Hawaii income tax are similar to those that are raised against a proposed income tax within our own country.

And now the question suggests itself, if the income tax in Hawaii "contains no evidence of an intention to unjustly or unfairly discriminate" and if the Hawaii income tax "places the burden of taxation upon the points of strongest resistance where it is easiest borne," why not an income tax within the United States of America?

If it's a bilious attack, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and a quick recovery is certain. For sale by all druggists.

A True Story.

Mr. G. W. Morley, of Seattle, was troubled for ten years with catarrh of the head and bronchial tubes. The discharge of mucus was so profuse as to necessitate his sitting up in bed at night to prevent strangulation.

As is always the case where there is a dropping down of the mucus behind the palate, a catarrhal condition of the stomach prevailed and in consequence the whole system was run down.

On the advice of a friend he undertook the complete MacKenzie treatment for catarrh. He says now (more than a year since commencing) that he is entirely free from colds, that the nasal passage and throat are entirely free from catarrhal discharges, that his stomach and digestion are in better condition than for years. In fact, he says that he is a well man and attributes his good fortune to the MacKenzie "Method." What is this "Method?" It is simply the double treatment for catarrh, locally and internally. While the system is renovated and toned and the poison in the blood eliminated; the original point of infection, namely, the nasal passage and throat, is cured and the source of the blood contamination removed.

Jack Knapman, our geniel mail carrier, met with an accident on Saturday's trip to Rena. He in some manner got his lines crossed and reined his horse so as to run one wheel of his cart over a stump throwing him out. The horse started to run but another stump upset the cart and threw itself on its back where it had to remain until Jack released it. The cart was broken some and Mr. Knapman dislocated his thumb which he replaced and is now tenderly caring for.

La Belle Marie.

Mr. C. S. Stakemiler takes great pleasure in announcing the appearance of Miss Clara Hanmer and her big company, at the Port Angeles opera house for one week starting next Monday, March 16th. An exchange says of this company:

"LA BELLE MARIE" was produced by the Clara Hanmer Co., last evening at the opera house and to say that it was well received would be putting it mildly, as the audience applauded each and every performer and they all deserved all the praise they received. It is seldom you see a repertoire show that ther performances are so well balanced. The company has made many friends here and if they ever return may be assured of crowded houses. — Wenatchee Advance.

Colds Are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. For Stealing Timber.

County Attorney Clementson, by order of the commissioners has begun an action against the Union Shingle Mill Co. for taking timber from lands belonging to the county. One of the board visited the lands in question last week and reported six men at work on county lands cutting and removing timber to the mill.

List Your Property.

The county commissioners meet tomorrow to make an order for the sale at public auction of such lands recently deeded to the county as have been listed by the original owners with the board in compliance with its order of a few months ago. Only property that is requested to be put up at this sale will be advertised for sale, and the commissioners are inclined to give the original owners the benefit in the bidding, knocking the property off to them if any reasonable bid is made.

If this is done the owners will probably be enabled to recover their property at a reasonable figure. They at least will have a good title to the lands whereas any speculator who might bid against them will never be able to give a warranty deed for the property as his title will be very much in doubt until a test case is made as to the legality of the virtual confiscation.

Seguin Couple Wed.

A quiet wedding took place here Tuesday at the parlors of the Globe hotel, the contracting parties being two of Seguin's bright young people, Miss Hildora Nelson and Mr. Carl Hamilton. Justice Brumfield tied the knot and guarantees its binding effects.

The happy couple came down on the noon boat, and the groom's father having preceded them the previous day to arrange for the marriage, the ceremony took place that afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton took Wednesday's Rosalie for Seattle and other up sound points where they will spend a short honeymoon. They will make their home at Port Williams where the young man's business interests are.

The young people start life with the best wishes of a large circle of friends who ask nothing more than that they live in the future as in the past, lives that have won them a host of friends Mr. Hamilton was for many years a resident of this city during his school days. Miss Nelson came to Washington from Iowa about a year ago, and is a lady of many graces.

Voting Contest.

There is not such a heated contest as was anticipated and unless the city folks wake up, a bright young lady from Neah Bay will be chosen. She is Miss Hazel Beahan, daughter of Observer Beahan, and now leads with a total vote of 265,145 of these having been received yesterday from the men of the ing Sea Lion. The city girls, Miss Montez Appleton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Appleton, and Miss Anna Grubb, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Peter Grubb are tied, with 50 votes each to their credit.

The contest closes tomorrow week.

AN EARNEST APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC.

And Your Sympathy Required for a Large Family Just Arrived.

You see by the family of seven that has just arrived that I have bound myself to them, and that we have come to stay. In order to do so we must sell goods. I do not ask for all your business, but I do ask for a portion. As I am here to live with you, I look to you for support. I am very thankful for the kind support I have already received and the friends I have made, and intend to become one with you with my son-in-law, Mr. Hoare. Therefore I ask your kind patronage to help us out. Don't be guided by my opponents for they have no kick coming; they should now step down a little and give me a chance to throw some new blood into our little growing town.

Yours truly,

Work Stops.

The almost unprecedented snow storm of Monday stopped work on the railroad all along the lines this week and although an effort was made to put some finishing touches on the wharf, the work was abandoned as of two slow progress and altogether unsatisfactory to both laborers and bosses.

Today if the weather permits a switch and sidetrack to the warehouse on the waterfront will be put in and as soon as possible the other work will be resumed. About Monday it is expected all the snow will be gone.

Practically all the shingle mills in this vicinity are shut down, but only for a short time. The railroad saw mill started up again yesterday and will continue operations from now on.

This is the first snow this time of year for a score of seasons and it is especially regretted because of the delay it makes in important work.

While there is only about six inches of snow on the ground it is unprofitable where the men are in no manner used to snow. It is melting fast and walking is disagreeable as a result.

Notice to Teachers.

There will be no teachers' examination for February. An eight grade examination will be held April 19th and 20th and May 21st and 22nd. Teachers having pupils who wish to take this examination will please notify county superintendent prior to these dates so that an examination may be arranged for.

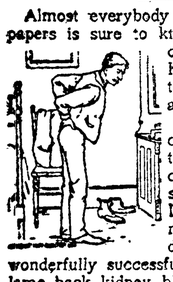
Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.



It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Dairy Cattle

A writer in the Jersey Bulletin advises breeders to raise only bull calves enough so as to keep prices up above the "moderate prices" the farmers are willing to pay, and on the same page another writer, who hides some good ideas in a volume of words, says no breeder can sell bull calves short of $100. This may be correct where a fancy name, family or strain is at stake, says L. W. Lighty in Stockman and Farmer, but the fact is that the breeders of practical dairy stock have found it unprofitable to follow such advice. Many breeders have learned that there is a big demand for utility stock, and while the fancy aristocracy go begging for a buyer the breeder who advertises in the farmers' paper and offers pure blood made calves with a line of progenitors which put in their work at the pail and churn finds a ready sale at reasonable prices. There are dozens—yes, hundreds—of farmers and dairymen who will pay $25 to $50 for a bull calf to grade up where there is one who will buy a $100 or $200 calf. Where the breeder has ready sale for all his calves at the prices that the farmer is willing to pay—"moderate prices"—it would seem to be more profitable than where an occasional one is sold at a fancy price. It is difficult for the layman to see why it is not more profitable to sell a calf for $35 at eight or ten weeks than to veal it a few weeks sooner at $2.50.

The Old Cow.

Many dairymen and others who milk cows for profit believe that when a cow reaches the age of seven or eight her useful years are over and she should be replaced by one younger. Other things being equal, this is a mistake, according to Dairy and Creamery. A cow that has been well cared for, with generous rations and proper attention, is better and will make a more profitable return at eight years than at any earlier age. She is then in her prime and will not be considered an old cow until fourteen or fifteen years have passed. Cows with first calves—at two or three years—are generally unprofitable in their milk yield, and one really good cow between seven and eight years old will pay a better revenue than two that are performing their first year's duties in the dairy herd. Moreover, she will probably consume but little more food than one of the younger ones. The fact is worthy the consideration of those who are dairying for profit.

Growing Demand For Good Cows.

Four carloads of cows were shipped from Elgin, Ill., recently en route to Mexico, where the owner proposes to establish a large dairy farm.

Every indication points to a constantly increasing demand for good cows in the future, says Hoard's Dairyman. A great many dairy farmers are giving but a superficial study to this feature of their business. Their eyes are too much centered on the raising of a steer. There is much less expense in the raising of a good heifer to two years of age, and the price to be obtained for her will nearly, if not quite, equal that of an average steer of the same age. The fact is, this dairy business is not yet organized for the making of good money on a quarter of the dairy farms in the country.

Good and Poor Cows.

Not only cows of different breeds, but individuals of the same breed, differ widely in the production of milk and butter fat. Likewise some animals are good feeders while others are light eaters. It is not the amount of food consumed, but the marketable product given in return, that determines the value of a cow. The animal yielding an income of $50 with an outlay of $40 for feed is a money saver, while one whose cost is $35, but whose products bring only $30, is a money loser. Until the products of a cow equal in value the cost of her feed she is kept at a direct loss to the owner.

The Dairy Steer.

Every now and then somebody bobs up with a dairy steer that does something wonderful, according to his account, and then some editor who never fed a steer in his life jumps to the conclusion that dairy cattle are all right as beef producers. If you ever see anything of this kind, label it nonsense and let it go at that. Or if you want to learn a valuable lesson get some of these steers, put some high priced corn into them and learn it. There should be no dairy bred steer. He should go on to the veal market at an early age.—Stockman and Farmer.

Test at St. Louis Fair.

A dairy breed test will be held at the St. Louis fair in 1904. It is already exciting a little interest among the breeders of dairy cattle, and they appear to be preparing for the fray. At the Buffalo Pan-American it was claimed for some of the breeds that they did not have time, they did not have the cattle, they did not have this, that or the other. This time there may be excuses, but they will count for nothing. The records of the breeds will stand. Those which do not appear will be left out in more ways than one. It is better to be third or fourth in a contest than not to be in the business at all.—Exchange.

Raising Heifer Calves.

Raise only such heifer calves as will increase the production of the herd. Feed only such foods as will grow bone and muscle and not fat. Keep in mind that you are after a herd of dairy cows, and just as soon as fattening foods are fed the tendency to lay on flesh is encouraged. Don't starve her, however, but give her plenty of skimmilk, bran, oats and alfalfa hay. Just at first a little oilmeal or flaxseed jelly will help to keep the calf thrifty. A little of the leafy ensilage without the grain will be good for her.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.
J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

Special to THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

There is an inch of snow here. Mr. Main reported there were about 6 inches at Dungeness.

James Smith has sold his land, fifty-nine acres extending west, back of Seguin school house to Mr Virtrees, who talks of enclosing it. There is a question between him and the residents who use the public roads that cross the tract of land as to where he will give a public road if he closes those now in use. The commissioners will do well to investigate thoroughly before agreeing with him where the road shall be located.

Speaking of roads, the roads on the prairie are in bad shape. There has not been any work done on them for years, if ever. They are full of rocks, stones, etc. Where there might be the best roads in the county there are nearly the worst.

There is a good singing school twice a week, Tuesdays and Fridays, on the prairie. The members meet at the church and enjoy themselves, with the exception that some, who ought to know better, are disorderly at times. Their names should be published.
