FROM DEAR OLD CHILE

A Former Resident ot Port Angeles Sends Condolences and Writes of Old Times.

VALDIVIA, 26 de Julio de 1904

My dear Mr. Lauridsen: The enclosed clipping from the weekly P.-I., has brought back the old days at Port Angeles and Dungeness very forcibly and painfully to me. I knew Mr. Church very well, having met him at Dungeness on my first trip to Puget Sound, many years ago. I wish you would bear to Mrs. Church and her children my most sincere sympathy.

With the pain of hearing of the death of an old friend came the pleasure of knowing that you were still on earth, and presumably prosperous and happy as in the old days. Give to "muchos recuerdos" as we Chilenos say and tell her, that with her husband, she does and always will occupy a bright little corner in my memory.

I often recur with pleasure to my visits to Port Angeles and still being a property owner there, I never lose my interest. You remember what Lowell says in his poem, "Longing."

"That which we long for, that we are, for one transcendent moment,
"Before the present, bleak and cold, can make its sneering comment."

Hence, in my mind I often eat clams with my friends on the "spit" and cast the "brown hackle" for the wary trout in Lake Crescent.

This is a queer country—everything in its favor; beautiful, glorious, grand forests covering the hills and little navigable rivers, from Valdivia branching everywhere into the hills. There are no wild animals in the forests, no fish to speak of in the rivers. Once in a while one of my workmen will bring me a few trouches (trout), but they are only like our trout as their deer are like our deer — their trees like our trees. I once killed a deer here, but it was not larger than a jack rabbit. True it was a young one, but the largest are not larger than a Scotch terrior.

There are no reptiles, nothing venomous. 'Tis truly a land "where only man is vile."

Politics here is like cricket in England or baseball with you—a game to be played, and played it is in every sense of the word.

You will remember Mr. Wilson who appraised our lots on the spit, as we thought at the time so unjustly. He is our Minister and the most popular one we have ever had—both with Chileans and Americans.

I often wonder "will the good Lord" ever be really good and permit me to dwell again in my own land? I hope so.

Remember me to my friends. They are many in Port Angeles and if our paths ever cross again the first to extend the glad hand will be, Yours truly

ROBERT N. WILLIAMS.

NELSON LOADS HERE.

The steamer Charles Nelson put in port here last Wednesday night and late Thursday night sailed for San Francisco with 650,000 feet of lumber, 1,000,000 shingles and 4,000 to 5,000 grape poles. The poles and shingles were taken on here.

RECEIVER DENIED

Judge Morris Ater Two Months' Wait Decides As Surmised.

After long wait of two months from day of hearing of application of the Seattle Hardware Co., for appointment of a receiver for the Port Angeles Pacific Railroad Company, Judge Geo. E. Morris, of King county, on Saturday last made an order sustaining the demurrer of defendants. This is in accordance with expectations of those who attended the hearing, based on the rulings of the judge when here. Plaintiff excepts to the order and the exception is allowed. It is understood plaintiff will appeall

At the hearing defendants, through their general counsel, James Stewart, demurred to the complaint citing that the railroad company had no debts and therefore there was no need or justice in the appointment of a receiver.

The court will now be required to state what is due the construction company in bonds.

The officers of the railroad give it out that they will go ahead at once with the original plan of construction.

IN INTEREST OF P.A.P.R.R.

General J. B. Metcalf, a prominent Seattle attorney, and representative of the Port Angeles Eastern interests in Seattle, said now to be personally representing Mr. Belvin, arrived in the city yesterday noon, and has been in close conference since with officials of the road. Of course Mr. Metcalf will not give out for publication the purpose of his visit, but there are stories afloat, some of which may be groundless, to the effect that Mr. Metcalf's visit is only preliminary to more important arrivals. No date is fixed for Mr. Belvin's arrival, but he is undoubtedly expected soon.

A RANCH FOURTH

THERE was a merry party at Vista ranch. The Blanding family of New York, owners, had come out to spend July and August. There were Mr. and Mrs. Blanding, Mary Blanding, the oldest daughter, a Wellesley graduate who knew everything, and Rebecca Blanding, who didn't know anything and couldn't learn anything except mischief, and their brother Dick, whose aspirations were to be a cowboy. Besides these there were a number of guests, including young Lord Lawton, an English nobleman just come of age and into his estates, traveling for observation. He had been senior wrangler at Oxford, besides taking innumerable prizes. This commended him to Mary Blanding, who had swept all the prizes in her time at Wellesley, leaving the college as clear of them as if they had been taken up in a dustpan.

Now, Becky Blanding had heard so much of "intellectuality" that she considered it a bore. Her sister could talk of nothing but the ancient Greeks and Romans, and Lord Lawton was, as she expressed it, "dead stuck" on philosophy.

"Where have you come out in your philosophical investigations, Lord Lawton?" she said to him one day, drawling her words as if she were more profound even than he.

"I? Come out? Bless my soul, what do you mean?"

"Why, I've heard that the philosopher is like a rat, who goes into his hole, looks about him and comes out of the same hole he went in at."

"Don't say 'went in at' Becky," said her sister. "It's not grammatically correct."

"I was speaking to Lord Lawton, if you please." And, making a face at Mary, she abruptly dropped the argument and whisked away.

One afternoon Becky said to his lordship, "Tomorrow will be the Fourth."

"The 4th? True enough. This is the 3d."

"I don't believe you know what the Fourth is," looking up at him with a surprised contempt.

"Isn't it the 4th day of the month you mean?"

"Certainly. It's more than that."

"What more?"

"Why—why, the day the Indians have a grand powwow, and all get full

THE INVITATION WAS ACCEPTED, AND OFF THEY RODE.

of fire water, and if there are any whites near they usually get scalped."

"Bless my soul, you don't mean it!"

"Mean it! Last Fourth of July they attacked a ranch twenty miles from here and massacred every man, woman and child on it."

"That's very extr'or'nary."

"Just so. There's a reservation near here, you know"—

"What's a reservation?"

"A place where they corral all the worst, most murderous Indians they can find."

"Singular country, America."

"We haven't much to fear here. You see, there's a fort a couple of miles down the river, and unless the Indians should come on us too quick the soldiers would protect us."

"But if they do come too quick?"

"Oh, Lordy, then it would be all up with us!"

Becky saw her sister approaching and knew that if she interrupted this instructive dialogue she would make sad havoc with the story. Becky therefore invited his lordship to go horseback riding with her, and the invitation was accepted, and off they rode. On the ride Becky stopped at the fort and, leaving the lord on the 'parade,' had a private conversation with the colonel commanding. She made a request of him which the colonel was slow in granting since it was something unusual. Indeed, he would not have granted it to any one but Becky, who was a favorite with him. Perhaps this was because Becky was a chum of his daughter, perhaps it was because Becky was a "free lance," or it may have been because the colonel was as little fond of learning as she. At any rate, the last thing he said to her was:

"Very well, it shall be as you wish."

Then Becky returned to his lordship and informed him that the colonel had given them two orderlies armed with carbines for their protection, and they were to ride to a cavalry post half a dozen miles farther, and on their return stop at the fort for dinner. In a few minutes the troopers were in their saddles, and the party departed. Two hours later Becky and Lord Lawton dined with the colonel and reached the ranch at 10 o'clock.

"Where's Mary?" asked Becky of Dick, before dismounting.

"Gone to bed."

That satisfied her, and she permitted his lordship to hand her down from her horse. Prompted by a whisper from Becky, Dick took the Britisher in charge and did not leave him till he had landed him in his room for the night. Becky meanwhile went to the outhouses, where she corrupted servants, cowboys, men, women and children to aid her in carrying out a nefarious plan.

It was just before sunrise on the morning of July 4. Slumber reigned at the ranch. The dawn, of which Mary Blanding would have spoken as "the rosy fingered Aurora," and Becky would have called "sunup" was breaking in the east. Suddenly there was an explosion, followed by a chorus of blood curdling yells. In a moment came a loud rap on his lordship's door, and the words in Becky Blanding's voice:

"Get up, Lord Lawton! They're on us! We'll all be scalped!"

The nobleman, in pink pajamas, rushed into the hall, where he found the rest of the family, also in night attire, Becky alone having on a very becoming morning gown. The yells and explosions outside continued, and several ladies fainted. The Britisher, true to the instincts of the Anglo-Saxon race, seizing an unloaded rifle that hung against the wall, rushed down the stairs with it, to take a hand in the fray. There he saw a number of fantastically dressed people, with feathers on their heads, brandishing knives and tomahawks, while a couple of cannon under the command of a lieutenant were firing gun after gun at regular intervals. Savages and soldiers were blended in smoke. Inspirited by the scene, his lordship, forgetting his unbecoming uniform, taking his rifle by the muzzle, rushed into the melee and was about to brain one of the savages when the weapon was caught from behind in the nick of time by Dick Blanding. Then, as suddenly as the battle had commenced, the guns were "limbered up," and the savages peacefully scattered and disappeared.

When the explanation came that Becky had, as she confessed, "put up the whole job," had got the cowboys and others to attack the ranch, had persuaded the colonel to fire a Fourth of July salute before the house—had, in short, made a fool of them all, especially their honored guest—there were no bounds to the family indignation. His lordship took it all in good part, declaring that if Becky received any kind of punishment he would take it as a personal affront to himself. Mr. and Mrs. Blanding apologized profusely, and Mary intimated to his lordship that most families had a "black sheep," and she was sorry to admit that it was so with the Blandings. It was determined at a family conclave that Becky, as soon as autumn came, was to be confined in the most prison-like school in America.

However, the whole matter came to a very abrupt and startling termination by Lord Lawton on the day of his departure going to Mr. Blanding and asking for the hand of Miss Rebecca Blanding, the arch offender. Becky herself only consented to marry him on condition that he would spend the honeymoon with her lion shooting in India, a condition he was obliged to fulfill.

"Singular creatures, American girls," said his lordship to his friends when he reached England. "If you're going in for that sort of thing it's well to take a pronounced type. Our girls are too slow."

All of which goes to show that the devil doesn't always get his due.

How to Help Your Girls.

The anxious mother of the family oftentimes carries the whole burden of responsibility so far as the home medication of common ailments of the girls or boys are concerned. The cost of the doctor's visits are very often too great for consideration. At such times the mother is invited to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for medical advise, which is given free. Correspondence is held strictly confidential.

Chief Ingredients of Fireworks.

In fireworks the chief fuel ingredients must be rich in oxygen. They are sulphur, charcoal, shellac, rosin, pitch and other materials. The chief supporters of combustion employed are saltpeter and chlorate of potash. These materials are mixed in certain proportions to produce different colors of fire. Iron or steel filings are used to make brilliant scintillation. Sometimes camphor, gum benzoin or storax is employed to muzzle offensive odors. To influence the character of the fire as to long or short explosions sand, sulphate of potash and calomel are used.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Influence of Paine.

The publication of Tom Paine's "Common Sense" in January, 1776, gave a tremendous impetus to independence. At that time not a single American statesman desired permanent separation from England. Six months later the Declaration of Independence was passed and proclaimed over the world. —New York Press.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to excel it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

COUNTY DECLARATIONS

1st—We hereby indorse and ratify the nominations for President and Vice President of Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis, and the platform of the National Democracy as announced by the St. Louis Convention, and pledge them our support.

2nd—We hereby arraign the Republican party of this state for its servility to the railroad and corporation influence, especially in its legislation and in its shameful surrender to that influence in its last state convention.

3rd—We condemn the present road law as iniquitous legislation and as the cover for jobbery and demand its repeal and the enactment of legislation which will insure the establishment and maintenance of thoroughfares for the people.

4th. We believe in the Democratic doctrine of rotation in office and we demand that it shall be so applied as to secure rotation outside of one ring of political schemers and professional office holders. We therefore condemn the Republican practice that has prevailed in this county, of a county officer using his position as a stepping stone to some other position of public trust and emolument, thereby converting the public service into a political and personal monopoly, self perpetuating and self protective, under which every office in the county is made a campaign bureau, every officer a perennial candidate, and the courthouse an organized Republican headquarters for political brokerage and exchange.

5th.—That we favor a compulsory Primary Election Law, and recommend legislation looking to the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people, to the end that the people will be actually represented by their representative in convention, and in the Senate of the United States.

6th—We also reaffirm that portion of the State Platform adopted at Olympia favoring the Initiative and Referendum, the people and for the people.

7th—That the delegates to the State Convention to be held at Bellingham on the 2nd day of August, 1904, be instructed to vote on all questions coming before said convention as a unit, and that in case of the absence of any delegates, that those present shall cast the vote of the entire delegation. That this last resolution be embodied in the credentials.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

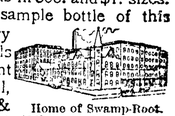
How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BRYAN ENDORSES TURNER.

It is not strange that he should do so, but such a strong pull is being made to act on the prejudices of Bryan Democrats, that a few words from that statesman regarding the Democratic candidate for governor will be of interest, Replying to an invitation of the state committee to visit this state Mr. Bryan says:

Lincoln, Neb, Sept.6, 1904
Hon.J.W.Godwin, Seattle, Wash

"My Dear Sir:—I am very sorry that I cannot come to the State of Washington during the campaign. It would give me great pleasure to render whatever assistance I could to a ticket headed by so worthy a man as eq-Senator Turner. He made a splendid record in the Senate, and I have no doubt that his record as governor, if he is elected, will be as creditable. I very much hope tqat he and those on the ticket may be successful. He and they could render great service to us in the fight we have before us. Very truly yours,

"W. J. BRYAN,"

ON a recent trip to Bellingham an excursion party of Seattle business men visited and were much impressed with the new plant erected in that city to manufacture tar, wood alcohol, turpentine and products of resinous woods. They were told by the proprietor that he could remove stumps from slashings FREE and make money from the products he extracted from his plant.

What a boon an industry of this kind would be to Port Angeles and Clallam county. It looks like a good thing for those having land to clear to embark in. They would not only get their land cleared free but would make a profit on the waste consumed.

WHILE the Seattle Times may not feel that Mr. Cotterill is justified in bolting the Democratic national ticket, it will do well for that publication not to abuse him. Mr. Cotterill is widely known as one of the cleanest men in state politics and any abuse of him or reflections on the motive of his bolt will do more harm than good to the ticket.

GOVERNOR McBRIDE'S MESSAGE.

Republicans who admire Gov. McBride for his gallant fight to rid his party of the insolent railroad lobby will be interested in the words used in the message of the governor to the last legislature relative to the railroad commission promised in the last Republican platform, He said:

"But the time for discussing the question seems to me to be past. There is before you, properly speaking, no issue of commission or anti-commission. With the depositing of the last ballot on the 4th of November the discussion was closed. The question has become one of political honesty. Do platform pledges mean anything? A political party that refuses to live up to its pledges deserves defeat at the hands of the people. An individual who betrays his party is deserving of political oblivion. On the one hand we have the solemn pledges of the two great political parties; on the other an unscrupulous and corrupt lobby, —a lobby that has become a stench in the nostrils of the people of the state. Which will have the greater weight? The lobby insolently boasts that a majority of the members of this legislature are its creatures, ready to do its bidding. I repel this infamous charge. I do not believe it to be true, nor will I believe it unless forced to do so by the record of the vote taken upon the final passage of the measures to which both the political parties of this state are committed. Stripped of all its disguises the question simply resolves itself into a choice between political honesty and political perfidy. The choice rests with you."

A RANCH FOURTH

THERE was a merry party at Vista ranch. The Blanding family of New York, owners, had come out to spend July and August. There were Mr. and Mrs. Blanding, Mary Blanding, the oldest daughter, a Wellesley graduate who knew everything, and Rebecca Blanding, who didn't know anything and couldn't learn anything except mischief, and their brother Dick, whose aspirations were to be a cowboy. Besides these there were a number of guests, including young Lord Lawton, an English nobleman just come of age and into his estates, traveling for observation. He had been senior wrangler at Oxford, besides taking innumerable prizes. This commended him to Mary Blanding, who had swept all the prizes in her time at Wellesley, leaving the college as clear of them as if they had been taken up in a dustpan.

Now, Becky Blanding had heard so much of "intellectuality" that she considered it a bore. Her sister could talk of nothing but the ancient Greeks and Romans, and Lord Lawton was, as she expressed it, "dead stuck" on philosophy.

"Where have you come out in your philosophical investigations, Lord Lawton?" she said to him one day, drawling her words as if she were more profound even than he.

"I? Come out? Bless my soul, what do you mean?"

"Why, I've heard that the philosopher is like a rat, who goes into his hole, looks about him and comes out of the same hole he went in at."

"Don't say 'went in at' Becky," said her sister. "It's not grammatically correct."

"I was speaking to Lord Lawton, if you please." And, making a face at Mary, she abruptly dropped the argument and whisked away.

One afternoon Becky said to his lordship, "Tomorrow will be the Fourth."

"The 4th? True enough. This is the 3d."

"I don't believe you know what the Fourth is," looking up at him with a surprised contempt.

"Isn't it the 4th day of the month you mean?"

"Certainly. It's more than that."

"What more?"

"Why—why, the day the Indians have a grand powwow, and all get full

THE INVITATION WAS ACCEPTED, AND OFF THEY RODE.

of fire water, and if there are any whites near they usually get scalped."

"Bless my soul, you don't mean it!"

"Mean it! Last Fourth of July they attacked a ranch twenty miles from here and massacred every man, woman and child on it."

"That's very extr'or'nary."

"Just so. There's a reservation near here, you know"—

"What's a reservation?"

"A place where they corral all the worst, most murderous Indians they can find."

"Singular country, America."

"We haven't much to fear here. You see, there's a fort a couple of miles down the river, and unless the Indians should come on us too quick the soldiers would protect us."

"But if they do come too quick?"

"Oh, Lordy, then it would be all up with us!"

Becky saw her sister approaching and knew that if she interrupted this instructive dialogue she would make sad havoc with the story. Becky therefore invited his lordship to go horseback riding with her, and the invitation was accepted, and off they rode. On the ride Becky stopped at the fort and, leaving the lord on the 'parade,' had a private conversation with the colonel commanding. She made a request of him which the colonel was slow in granting since it was something unusual. Indeed, he would not have granted it to any one but Becky, who was a favorite with him. Perhaps this was because Becky was a chum of his daughter, perhaps it was because Becky was a "free lance," or it may have been because the colonel was as little fond of learning as she. At any rate, the last thing he said to her was:

"Very well, it shall be as you wish."

Then Becky returned to his lordship and informed him that the colonel had given them two orderlies armed with carbines for their protection, and they were to ride to a cavalry post half a dozen miles farther, and on their return stop at the fort for dinner. In a few minutes the troopers were in their saddles, and the party departed. Two hours later Becky and Lord Lawton dined with the colonel and reached the ranch at 10 o'clock.

"Where's Mary?" asked Becky of Dick, before dismounting.

"Gone to bed."

That satisfied her, and she permitted his lordship to hand her down from her horse. Prompted by a whisper from Becky, Dick took the Britisher in charge and did not leave him till he had landed him in his room for the night. Becky meanwhile went to the outhouses, where she corrupted servants, cowboys, men, women and children to aid her in carrying out a nefarious plan.

It was just before sunrise on the morning of July 4. Slumber reigned at the ranch. The dawn, of which Mary Blanding would have spoken as "the rosy fingered Aurora," and Becky would have called "sunup" was breaking in the east. Suddenly there was an explosion, followed by a chorus of blood curdling yells. In a moment came a loud rap on his lordship's door, and the words in Becky Blanding's voice:

"Get up, Lord Lawton! They're on us! We'll all be scalped!"

The nobleman, in pink pajamas, rushed into the hall, where he found the rest of the family, also in night attire, Becky alone having on a very becoming morning gown. The yells and explosions outside continued, and several ladies fainted. The Britisher, true to the instincts of the Anglo-Saxon race, seizing an unloaded rifle that hung against the wall, rushed down the stairs with it, to take a hand in the fray. There he saw a number of fantastically dressed people, with feathers on their heads, brandishing knives and tomahawks, while a couple of cannon under the command of a lieutenant were firing gun after gun at regular intervals. Savages and soldiers were blended in smoke. Inspirited by the scene, his lordship, forgetting his unbecoming uniform, taking his rifle by the muzzle, rushed into the melee and was about to brain one of the savages when the weapon was caught from behind in the nick of time by Dick Blanding. Then, as suddenly as the battle had commenced, the guns were "limbered up," and the savages peacefully scattered and disappeared.

When the explanation came that Becky had, as she confessed, "put up the whole job," had got the cowboys and others to attack the ranch, had persuaded the colonel to fire a Fourth of July salute before the house—had, in short, made a fool of them all, especially their honored guest—there were no bounds to the family indignation. His lordship took it all in good part, declaring that if Becky received any kind of punishment he would take it as a personal affront to himself. Mr. and Mrs. Blanding apologized profusely, and Mary intimated to his lordship that most families had a "black sheep," and she was sorry to admit that it was so with the Blandings. It was determined at a family conclave that Becky, as soon as autumn came, was to be confined in the most prison-like school in America.

However, the whole matter came to a very abrupt and startling termination by Lord Lawton on the day of his departure going to Mr. Blanding and asking for the hand of Miss Rebecca Blanding, the arch offender. Becky herself only consented to marry him on condition that he would spend the honeymoon with her lion shooting in India, a condition he was obliged to fulfill.

"Singular creatures, American girls," said his lordship to his friends when he reached England. "If you're going in for that sort of thing it's well to take a pronounced type. Our girls are too slow."

All of which goes to show that the devil doesn't always get his due.

How to Help Your Girls.

The anxious mother of the family oftentimes carries the whole burden of responsibility so far as the home medication of common ailments of the girls or boys are concerned. The cost of the doctor's visits are very often too great for consideration. At such times the mother is invited to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for medical advise, which is given free. Correspondence is held strictly confidential.

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknessess peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Chief Ingredients of Fireworks.

In fireworks the chief fuel ingredients must be rich in oxygen. They are sulphur, charcoal, shellac, rosin, pitch and other materials. The chief supporters of combustion employed are saltpeter and chlorate of potash. These materials are mixed in certain proportions to produce different colors of fire. Iron or steel filings are used to make brilliant scintillation. Sometimes camphor, gum benzoin or storax is employed to muzzle offensive odors. To influence the character of the fire as to long or short explosions sand, sulphate of potash and calomel are used.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Influence of Paine.

The publication of Tom Paine's "Common Sense" in January, 1776, gave a tremendous impetus to independence. At that time not a single American statesman desired permanent separation from England. Six months later the Declaration of Independence was passed and proclaimed over the world. —New York Press.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to excel it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

COUNTY DECLARATIONS

1st—We hereby indorse and ratify the nominations for President and Vice President of Alton B. Parker and Henry G. Davis, and the platform of the National Democracy as announced by the St. Louis Convention, and pledge them our support.

2nd—We hereby arraign the Republican party of this state for its servility to the railroad and corporation influence, especially in its legislation and in its shameful surrender to that influence in its last state convention.

3rd—We condemn the present road law as iniquitous legislation and as the cover for jobbery and demand its repeal and the enactment of legislation which will insure the establishment and maintenance of thoroughfares for the people.

4th. We believe in the Democratic doctrine of rotation in office and we demand that it shall be so applied as to secure rotation outside of one ring of political schemers and professional office holders. We therefore condemn the Republican practice that has prevailed in this county, of a county officer using his position as a stepping stone to some other position of public trust and emolument, thereby converting the public service into a political and personal monopoly, self perpetuating and self protective, under which every office in the county is made a campaign bureau, every officer a perennial candidate, and the courthouse an organized Republican headquarters for political brokerage and exchange.

5th.—That we favor a compulsory Primary Election Law, and recommend legislation looking to the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people, to the end that the people will be actually represented by their representative in convention, and in the Senate of the United States.

6th—We also reaffirm that portion of the State Platform adopted at Olympia favoring the Initiative and Referendum, the people and for the people.

7th—That the delegates to the State Convention to be held at Bellingham on the 2nd day of August, 1904, be instructed to vote on all questions coming before said convention as a unit, and that in case of the absence of any delegates, that those present shall cast the vote of the entire delegation. That this last resolution be embodied in the credentials.

DUNGENESS.

Special to THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

Dungeness farmers are basking in the sunshine, as the grain crops are being rapidly threshed.

Richard Blake with his family are camping on the river; he is hunting and fishing and is most comfortably fixed for an outing.

Mrs. Wm. Ward is at the hospital in Angeles being treated for bronchial trouble.

A. U. Davis, who now resides in Victoria, has sent for his daughter, Mrs. Wooten and family, to make him a long visit.

Noble Turk is selling for cash and is selling everything in the grocery line very reasonable.

The Glendale creamery is doing an immense business here, and is beyond doubt doing more for the community than any person ever realized; yet a few, very few, farmers are selling their cream elsewhere. While "competition is the life of trade," it seems strange that a man would go against an industry that is building up a town and increasing trade as in this case.

Prof. A. N. Taylor has again opened up school in Dungeness.

A "shower" is being given Mrs. Walter Govan, who recently lost nearly all her household effects by fire.

MAN OVERBOARD.

A passenger from Victoria on the Whatcom Saturday night fell into the bay. He stepped off the boat here thinking onto the wharf, with the remark that he was dry as a fish. In the darkness he missed the wharf and went down between that structure and the boat. He was bruised some in the fall but was fished out without serious injury

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

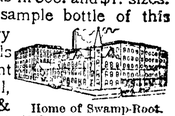
How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BRYAN ENDORSES TURNER.

It is not strange that he should do so, but such a strong pull is being made to act on the prejudices of Bryan Democrats, that a few words from that statesman regarding the Democratic candidate for governor will be of interest, Replying to an invitation of the state committee to visit this state Mr. Bryan says:

Lincoln, Neb, Sept.6, 1904
Hon.J.W.Godwin, Seattle, Wash

"My Dear Sir:—I am very sorry that I cannot come to the State of Washington during the campaign. It would give me great pleasure to render whatever assistance I could to a ticket headed by so worthy a man as eq-Senator Turner. He made a splendid record in the Senate, and I have no doubt that his record as governor, if he is elected, will be as creditable. I very much hope tqat he and those on the ticket may be successful. He and they could render great service to us in the fight we have before us. Very truly yours,

"W. J. BRYAN,"

ON a recent trip to Bellingham an excursion party of Seattle business men visited and were much impressed with the new plant erected in that city to manufacture tar, wood alcohol, turpentine and products of resinous woods. They were told by the proprietor that he could remove stumps from slashings FREE and make money from the products he extracted from his plant.

What a boon an industry of this kind would be to Port Angeles and Clallam county. It looks like a good thing for those having land to clear to embark in. They would not only get their land cleared free but would make a profit on the waste consumed.

WHILE the Seattle Times may not feel that Mr. Cotterill is justified in bolting the Democratic national ticket, it will do well for that publication not to abuse him. Mr. Cotterill is widely known as one of the cleanest men in state politics and any abuse of him or reflections on the motive of his bolt will do more harm than good to the ticket.

GOVERNOR McBRIDE'S MESSAGE.

Republicans who admire Gov. McBride for his gallant fight to rid his party of the insolent railroad lobby will be interested in the words used in the message of the governor to the last legislature relative to the railroad commission promised in the last Republican platform, He said:

"But the time for discussing the question seems to me to be past. There is before you, properly speaking, no issue of commission or anti-commission. With the depositing of the last ballot on the 4th of November the discussion was closed. The question has become one of political honesty. Do platform pledges mean anything? A political party that refuses to live up to its pledges deserves defeat at the hands of the people. An individual who betrays his party is deserving of political oblivion. On the one hand we have the solemn pledges of the two great political parties; on the other an unscrupulous and corrupt lobby, —a lobby that has become a stench in the nostrils of the people of the state. Which will have the greater weight? The lobby insolently boasts that a majority of the members of this legislature are its creatures, ready to do its bidding. I repel this infamous charge. I do not believe it to be true, nor will I believe it unless forced to do so by the record of the vote taken upon the final passage of the measures to which both the political parties of this state are committed. Stripped of all its disguises the question simply resolves itself into a choice between political honesty and political perfidy. The choice rests with you."
