Olympic Elk National Park

It is Well That These Measures Be Looked Into Before We Get Bottled

Some weeks ago when the Elk National Park Bill was first introduced THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER asked that the measure be looked into that we might escape any serious injury that its provisions might bring upon us. The warning was not heeded. In fact few knew or took any steps to find out its provisions, or its effect.

The publication, however, of the bill, and the subsequent introduction this week, by Seattle's congressman, of a like bill with enlarged scope, set some folks to considering, with the result that the Humphrey's bill is universally condemned in this section as dangerous and possibly a menace to our growth and prosperity, because of the fact that it includes the forest reserve and lake Crescent within its boundaries.

If the Humphrey's bill is dangerous, may it not be that the Cushman bill is also? Is there any relief from a national park should one be established to include lands which might later be needed in our development? The new lines of the forest reserve will have to be amended in this vicinity for our best interests. Do we want to put another reserve within that that practically has the same boundaries back of township 30, in ranges 5 to 9 inclusive?

We are in favor of an elk national park in the Olympics which does not in any manner interfere with our advancement or the advancement of the peninsula, but we are naturally "scarey" of reserves in view of our experience with the timber reserve which set back western Clallam twenty years and ultimately put practically all the lands of that section in the hands of a few monopolists who are now in a position to say what this peninsula shall or shall not have.

The Cushman bill, which seems liable to pass without a protest, starts at a corner near Wineton or about three miles West of the West End of Lake Crescent running thence South 20 miles, East 28, North 6, East 3, North 9, West 9½, North 3, West 2½, North 6, and West to place of beginning. Thus between townships 6 and 9, the only lands left out of the reserve is a strip along the straits about 6 miles in width, all the Elwha river above just back of Dry creek is included, and a vast area of territory that may become absolutely necessary to our proper development.

The Cushman bill does not follow the lines recommended by the local committee and we are considerably suspicious that the "Seattle spirit" instigated the Humphrey's bill, as when advised that the people of this section did not approve of the bill, secretary H. Rief, of the state game protection committee, wrote game commissioner H. Daniels in a letter received Thursday that it "cut no ice whether we favored the bill or not, it would pass as the people of the 'state' were favorable to it." As Seattle is the state in most matters she has any hand in, would it not be wise that we awake to the gravity of the situation and not let Seattle AGAIN bottle us in a reserve we possibly do not want?

Port Angeles Pacific

Things are Looking Well and Unless Hoodoo Appears Things Will Move

The affairs of the Port Angeles Pacific railroad seem to be getting into very good shape. Mr. John H Miller, the new president, it is said, has the money secured for the completion of the road to transcontinental connection just as soon as he resumes work and gets the present road extended ten miles westward which includes the building of the bridge across the Elwha at an estimated cost of $60,000. When this is done it is said the money to continue the road is absolutely pledged.

Mr. Miller, according to reports, has made about all arrangements for the building of this portion of the road and has been working for some days past in Seattle and Portland and expects to be able to announce the resumption of work in a very short time.

Engineers Norman R. Smith and H. Fitch went out on Tuesday to connect the present survey and get things in shape. Later they will take a crew of men and continue the survey from its present western terminus.

Taxes.

BY HON. HORATIO ALLING.

Death and taxes—both dreaded, both inevitable—may they both be easy to meet.

Equalization of the tax burden is all well enough, but what if the general burden is unwarrantably large?

As long as there are taxpayers there will be taxeaters, but we should mark well the gluttons for decapitation.

Government to benefit the people must be more than a mere tax gathering and plum distributing machine.

If there is a good reason why work done for the public should cost more than similar work done for an individual, let some one give it.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

A Resourceful Waiter.

A little story illustrative of the ingenuity of some colored waiters when they are really "up against it" is told by Moncure Burke, secretary to Engineer Commissioner Biddle at the District building.

"I went into a nearby pie garden the other day," says Mr. Burke, "and ordered a sandwich and a cup of coffee. It is one of the rules of this food emporium that the waiter shall write the order on a little slip of paper and put the price opposite. The check is then paid to the cashier at the desk.

"When I had finished my light repast I picked up the slip placed on the table by the waiter and, glancing at it, saw written thereon:

"'Pie, 5c.'

"'Coffee, 5c.'

"I called to the waiter in curiosity: 'Hey, John, I didn't have any pie. I ate a sandwich!'

"'That's all right, boss,' he replied. 'pie and san'wich is both the same price, and I ain't so good on spelling that san'wich.'"—Washington Star.

As He Heard It.

When the Sunday school superintendent read the closing words of the book of Job, "And Job died, being old and full of days," he said to the children:

"Now, can anybody tell me the cause of Job's death?"

And a timid little boy on a back seat piped out:

"He was fully dazed, sir!"—New York Times.

The Brute.

Bridge—I thought you would never allow a lady to stand in a street car so long as you had a seat to give her. I noticed you sat all the way down last evening notwithstanding there was a lady hanging on to a strap.

The Real Thing.

"Are you sure he really loves you?"

"Why, of course. His proposal wasn't the least bit romantic. He stammered so I could scarcely understand him."

An Unfortunate Break.

"I don't see why she should have flared up so merely because I asked her if she and her husband had ever held hands before they were married."

She walks unnoticed in the street;
The casual eye
Sees nothing in her, fair or sweet;
The world goes by,
Unconscious that an angel's feet
Are passing nigh.

She does a thousand kindly things
That no one knows;
A loving woman's heart she brings
To human woes,
And to her face the sunlight clings
Where'er she goes.

And so she walks her quiet ways
With that content
That only comes to sinless days
And innocent,
A life devoid of fame or praise,
Yet nobly spent.

Continuities.

Nothing is ever really lost or can be lost,
No birth, identity, form, no object of the world,
Nor life or force nor any visible thing.
Appearance must not foil nor shifted space confuse thy brain;
Ample are time and space, ample the fields of nature,
Thy body, sluggish, aged, cold, the embers left from earlier fires,
The light in the eye, grown dim, shall duly flame again;
The sun, now low in the west, rises for mornings and for noons continual,
To frozen clods ever the spring's invisible law returns
With grass and flowers and summer fruits and corn.

If I have faltered more or less
In my great task of happiness;
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face;
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not; if morning skies,
Books and my food and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain—
Lord, thy most pointed pleasure take
And stab my spirit broad awake.

A WONDERFUL WORK.

To be a man who can excel one hundred thousand men in any one line is good; to be one in a million is better; but to be the only living man, (and the second one in the history of the world), who has drawn a perfect single line picture, is wonderful! This Mr. Fleming, author and illustrator of "Around the Pan," and "Around the Capital," ($2 00 books) has done in his drawing of McKinley. Price on best Japanese paper, $1 00.

His "Around the Capital," containing one hundred and fifty full-page Washington life pen and ink sketches and five hundred pictures of prominent Americans, including the statesmen, ambassadors and commanders participating in the Spanish-American War—comprising by far the greatest collection of facts and faces ever produced in one volume in condensed form, will interest the entire civilized world. The drawings equal, if they do not surpass, those of John Tenniel's, for which work he was knighted by Queen Victoria. The humorist is contagious.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Brown, the administrator, de bonus non of the estate of Charles Jones Fitzpatrick, deceased, having filed his petition in this court duly verified praying for an order of this court for the sale of all the real estate of which the said deceased died seized, for the purposes therein set forth; and it appearing to the court from said petition, that the personal estate of the said deceased in the hands of said administrator de bonus non is not sufficient to pay the claims against the said estate and the expenses of the administration thereof, and that it is necessary to sell all or a portion of the real estate of the said deceased to pay the said claims and the expenses of the administration. It is further ordered that a copy of this order to show cause be published at least four successive weeks before the said 29th day of February, 1904, in THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Clallam and of general circulation therein.

Dated this 29th day of January, 1904.

GEO. C. HATCH,
Judge of said Superior Court

State of Washington,
County of Clallam, ss.

I, W. L. Church, county clerk and ex-officio clerk of the superior court of said Clallam county, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy of an original order to show cause, made by said court on the 28th day of January, 1904, in the matter of the estate of Charles Jones Fitzpatrick deceased.

Witness my hand and Seal of said [SEAL] court this 28th day of January, 1904.

W. L. CHURCH, Clerk.

Cling to the Old.

Goose quill pens and drying powders are still used in English law courts and the house of lords and in the French chamber of deputies.

A City of Clubs.

Havana might without exaggeration be called a city of clubs. These organizations are by far the most important social institutions of the town. There is scarcely an ablebodied citizen to be found who does not enjoy a membership in some sort of club.

Alaska.

The name Alaska, given by Mr. Stewart to the country for which he negotiated, means in the Indian language "The Great Land."

The Camel.

The camel, the most patient and tractable of animals, when pressed beyond its endurance and utterly exhausted drops on its knees, and nothing in the world will make it budge again. It remains where it kneels until it falls on its side and dies.

Lithium.

The metal lithium is little more than half the weight of water. A cubic foot of it weighs 590 ounces. Mercury is twenty-three times heavier.

The Biggest Monkey.

The biggest monkey ever exhibited is a gorilla six feet ten inches high, with an arm spread of nine feet three inches, from the Kameruns, west Africa. He stands with his skeleton beside him in the museum of Hamburg.

Bamboo.

For centuries the Japanese and Chinese have raised the bamboo as a practical crop. The natives would be as much at a loss without it as the American farmer without his white pine, for they depend upon it not only for their chief building material, but for ropes, mats, kitchen utensils, etc.

The World's Gold.

The world's gold would form a pile forty-five feet high and twenty-five feet square.

The Magic of Great Cold.

Among the innumerable experiments with liquid air two are particularly curious. A ball of india rubber immersed in it becomes as brittle as glass, but a ball of lead in the same circumstances acquires elasticity and will rebound like rubber.

British Tariff and Our Trade.

Things have been happening in English politics which are of great interest to all American agriculturists. The great storm of tariff discussion has come on with a roar, and within a comparatively short time, probably within a year, it is to be determined whether Great Britain will remain a free trade country or join the ranks of protectionist ones. Boiled down, the Chamberlain proposals are that Canadian grain and Australian meat shall be admitted to the British market free, while a duty is imposed against American grain and meat. Great Britain is our best customer, taking more than one-half of our agricultural surplus. It means many dollars out of our farmers' pockets if we are compelled to pay a duty to get into the British market while competitors get in free. It is our interest to pray for the undoing of Joseph Chamberlain and the defeat of his projects. He has now retired to Elba. When he emerges may he meet a Waterloo.—Iowa Homestead.

ONE CONVENTION.

The Republican State Committee have decided on one convention to be held in May for the purpose of naming delegates to the National Convention and placing in nomination candidates for the various state offices.

The purpose of the one convention idea is said to be the defeat of McBride.

Upon the heels of this announcement comes that of the county committee to effect that Clallam will have but one convention, which of necessity must be held late in April or early in May, and those aspirants who have figured on an August convention will have to get a move on, for the fellows on the inside have the drop on them.

THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER has one criticism of the one convention idea that seems to condemn it this year. That is that it started from the wrong source and therefore shows the machinations of those in control.

One convention probably means one good convention rather than two poorer ones, but it should be understood more than a month ahead and the national and state conventions should be set at a later date so that the county convention could be held some time in July.

The state convention should start the ball and not a handful of the state committee.

THE WEEK IN SOCIETY

Mrs. J. E. Thomas entertained Saturday evening in honor of the Misses Reid, of Seattle, who visited Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Thomas and Miss Anna Fields. Games and music made the evening pass quickly and pleasantly.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. R. R. Harding entertained on Wednesday evening as a surprise to her neice Miss Agnes Hanneman, of Chicago, a number of young society ladies of the city at a 6 o'clock tea. Vocal and instrumental music followed; the affair was very enjoyable. Besides the host and lady of honor there were present Misses Ritchie, Trumbull, Reid, Jensen, Bayton, McIvor, Cook and Wilcox.

◆ ◆ ◆

Monday evening, February 29, Mrs. D. J. Kelly was most agreeably surprised by a host of neighbors and friends. She was getting supper when some ladies prevailed upon her to give it up and eat at a neighbors. Upon discovering the deception she returned home to find a large assemblage and a big table spread in the dining room, and the feast which followed was relished you may be sure. After supper a most interesting evening was spent in commemoration of the event which proved to be the lady's 7th birthday and the first she has had for eight long years.

✦ ✦ ✦

A jolly party of merry-makers surprised Mr. Axel Forsberg at his home at Dry Creek last Saturday night. It being his fortieth birthday. The weather was so beastly that it speaks volumes for the popularity of Mr. Forsberg that such a large party was willing to face the storm and rain, not to speak of the miserable roads that most attendants had to go over. Once there, however, the party soon forgot what they had gone through with. Music furnished by the Eacrett brothers enticed the younger ones to dance, while the rest played flinch until daylight did appear.

◆ ◆ ◆

The Ivy book club met in social session Friday night last at the home of Miss Franc Nace. A sewing contest was the feature of the evening at which Charles Filion received first prize and Reuben Weigel the booby. Refreshments followed. Members present were: Misses Franc Nace, Hypatia Durmul, Irene McDonald, Cecil Griswold, Josie Phelps, Maude Hooker, Franklyn Baxter, Zula Burdick. The guests were Messrs. Charles Filion, R. Weigel, Donald Lutz, Jay Gould, Ray Wolverton, Warren Evans, Lyman McDonald, Fred Grubb.

◆ ◆ ◆

Thos. Trumbull on Monday with the aid of a number of friends celebrated his 9th. birthday anniversary in a befitting manner. Tom says he hasn't had a birthday for eight years and could not let this this one go by without due notice.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace White entertained the Diamond whist club on Tuesday evening and a very enjoyable session was held. At this meeting it was definitely decided that the whist contest would close for the season in eight weeks, the six lowest in score at that time to entertain the other members at a grand finale.

Mrs. Cameron and Miss Cook will give a calico dress ball in the opera house on Wednesday, the 9th inst. Invitations are now out. Each lady is requested to wear a calico dress and to bring a tie of the same material, gents will select ties and partners for luncheon. Warnock brothers will serve ice cream on stage.

The ladies of the Congregational church gave an enjoyable missionary tea at the church parlors on Wednesday afternoon from two to six. An excellent musical and literary program was given after which refreshments were served.

◆ ◆ ◆

The local lodge of Knights of Pythias gave a grand banquet and ball in the opera house on Wednesday night in commemoration of the 40th. anniversary of the existence of the order. The hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion. Speech making occupied the first two hours of the evening, after which the Knights and their ladies were seated at the long banquet tables at the Commercial Hotel where Mine Host Grubb had distinguished himself in his efforts to give a spread that would be remembered. Dancing was then taken up at the opera house and thoroughly enjoyed for a couple of hours. Only Knights, former Knights and their ladies were present, and the event will be remembered in the history of the local organization.

◆ ◆ ◆

Miss Ethel Hooker, eldest daughter of former deputy post master Ed. Hooker, of this city, now of Rena, was united in marriage Tuesday, at Seattle, to Mr. Norman Govan, one of Dungeness' prominent young men. The happy couple will reside at Dungeness, where Mr. Govan has considerable interests.

Last Thursday evening Frank Lyster was surprised at his home on Front street by a number of friends. Dancing was the order. Those present were Misses Flora McGill, Leah Myers, Edith Trickle, Vina McMullen, Zula Burdick, Lottie Clegg, Francis Chambers, Sarah Moore, Ella Meagher, Franc Nace, Maude Hooker, Josie Phelps, Ruth Lyster.

A most interesting time was had at the spelling school at Lincoln Heights, Thursday evening. Nearly the whole population of the ward turned out. Mrs. L. Fleming and Fred Bown were the champions, both at last retiring on the same word. Parents' and Patrons' club, an auxiliary to our teachers, served refreshments, clearing over $20.00 towards the project they have undertaken, viz., the improvement of the school grounds.

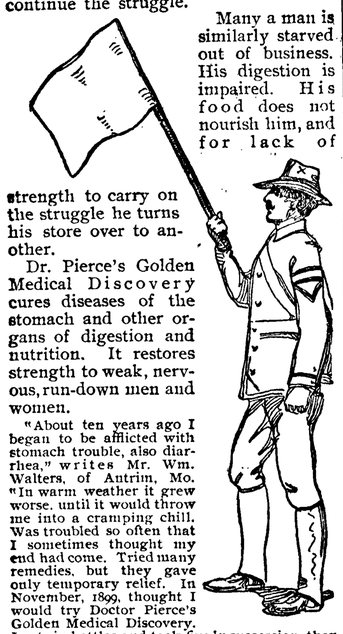
STARVED OUT.

Many a garrison has been forced to give up the fight and hang out the white-flag of surrender, when lack of food has weakened the men past all power to continue the struggle.



Many a man is similarly starved out of business. His digestion is impaired. His food does not nourish him, and for lack of strength to carry on the struggle he turns his store over to another.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength to weak, nervous, run-down men and women.

"About ten years ago I began to be afflicted with stomach trouble, also diarrhea," writes Mr. Wm. Walters, of Antrim, Mo. "In warm weather it grew worse, until it would throw me into a cramping chill. Was troubled so often that I sometimes thought my end had come. Tried many remedies, but they gave only temporary relief. In November, 1899, thought I would try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I got six bottles and took five in succession, then thought I would wait for a time and take the one left. Soon found I had symptoms of the trouble coming back, so took the sixth bottle and it cured me. I have enjoyed the best of health this summer, and the credit all belongs to your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can't express my many thanks to Dr. Pierce for his remedy, for it did so much for me. Words cannot express how severely I suffered,

"If any doubt the above statement let them address me, and I will take great pleasure in answering."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Small Things.

The smallest thing may often cost thee dearest;
The smallest thing may often most entice.
Think on the pearl, which thou so gladly wearest,
How small it is and yet how great the price.

Think on the olive, tiny in thine eyes,
Yet men esteem it as a worthy prize.
Think on the rose; it hath a scent so rare
The smallest blossom doth enrich the air.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

There are to be no more "sweet sixteen" girl schoolteachers in Kansas. The minimum age of teachers has been raised from sixteen to eighteen years.

Here are the figures of the enrollment of students at the leading universities of the country: Harvard, 6,013; Columbia, 4,551; University of Chicago, 4,146; Cornell, 3,438; Yale, 2,990, and Princeton 1,434.

Frank G. Wren has been elected Walker professor of mathematics in Tufts college. He is the youngest member of the faculty at the college, although he has been an instructor there for the past ten years, having received his first appointment at the age of twenty.

GOWN GOSSIP.

It is almost certain that the long, tight fitting coat will be entirely passe in another six months.

A pretty fashion this winter is that of wearing ivory white and pastel shades of panne and chiffon velvet blouses with cloth skirts of the same shade.

Very dressy lace and crape waists are trimmed with the narrowest bands of fine fur, such as sable, ermine and chinchilla. They are worn with cloth skirts of a matching shade.

Some women now vary the buttons of their coats as often as they change their hats. By a simple arrangement the buttons can be taken off and refixed in a moment, and it is no longer the fashion to sew the buttons on.

Silks of soft construction, such as peau de soie, peau de cygne, shantungs, natural and dyed, and soft finish taffetas will be made up into shirt waist suits for spring wear, to the exclusion, it is prophesied, of figured foulards.

Things Political.

GEORGE F. COTTERILL.

Some strong names are being brought forward by the Democrats. Chief among them perhaps is that of George F. Cotterill. He is a man of high ideals combined with great level headedness. Along with clear cut convictions and lion hearted courage he has breadth of view, kindness of heart and great good sense. He is square as a die and true as steel. His grasp upon all municipal problems is firm and comprehensive. As a private citizen he has been public spirited enough to thoroughly master those large propositions of municipal policy that form the foundation of a great city. In doing this he has brought to the task a high order of general ability and technical equipment. Already the city of Seattle is in no small sense the debtor of George F. Cotterill. He is held in great respect and high esteem. The one fault charged against him is that he is too strong to be bent, too brave to be intimidated, too true to temporize, too honest to compromise. In a word—it is feared that if he should be elected mayor of Seattle he would take his oath of office seriously.

Large Mileage.

Distance lends enchantment to service in congress. The delegate from Hawaii will receive nearly $15,000 during his term of two years in addition to his salary of $10,000, besides drawing an allowance for clerk hire and stationery. The $15,000 is the bonus, or rather the mileage, which he receives because he lives in the Sandwich Islands. A delegate to congress from the Philippines would be able to collect about $35,000 mileage if there should happen to be an extra session during his term. Otherwise he would get about $24,000.

Sad News For Gum Chewers.

The saddest news that has come out of Maine in a long time is that the spruce gum crop is short. This means that chewing gum will cost more this year or gum chewers will get less for their money. Most of the gum put up by the great chewing gum concerns comes from the spruce trees of Maine, and the shortness of the crop, therefore, is of direct interest to every messenger boy, typewriting girl, saleswoman and cash girl who has the gum chewing habit.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

Express trains now run from Berlin to Naples in thirty-seven and one-half hours.

The United States has now 210,000 miles of railway, and yet there are some parts of the country that are hundreds of miles from a railway.

The burning out of a fuse on an electric car does not mean that there is any danger to the passengers. It means, on the contrary, that an accident has been prevented. A fuse is a safety device, not a source of danger.

The average capacity of freight cars, which was 24,000 pounds thirty years ago, was increased to 30,000 pounds in the seventies and to 60,000 in the eighties. The capacity of the cars in use at the present time has been raised to 80,000, 100,000 and 110,000 pounds.

FARM FACTS.

There are nearly 6,000,000 farms in the United States, the average size being 140 acres.

The United States produced 9,000 pounds of tea the past year, the farms being in North Carolina and Texas.

Fully 50 per cent of the total income from New Hampshire farms is now derived from the sale of dairy products.

More than 6,000,000 bushels of peanuts were grown in the United States last year, for which the buyers and consumers shelled out nearly $14,000,000.

Quillayute News.

Some of the boys down Quillayute way who had their bills for road work knifed by the commissioners are busy now-a-days trying to find out "how the play came up."

J. E. Lemieux and party of cruisers who have been been cruising the Stone lands for J. D. Lacy & Co., have completed the work and returned to Seattle. There is about 15,000 acres in the body of timber which is about to be sold.

The ball at the Odd Fellows hall, last Monday evening, was well attended by the young folks of this and Quillayute neighborhoods. It was practically the opening of the new edifice to the public, although it is not yet entirely completed.

A fire occurred last Tuesday on the Lesure farm in which the detached kitchen and contents including most of the family wearing apparel were destroyed. The fire started in the roof about noon and while Harve was down town after the mail; there was no one in the place but Mrs. Lesure who did not discover it until the roof was about ready to cave in and it was too late to save anything.

What Is Left to Be Done.

Nothing worth while that is left for you?
Everything great has been done, you say?
There will still be wonderful things to do
When the trumpet is blown on judgment day.

Men thought, when Cæsar had played his part,
That nothing worth while remained to be done;
The Roman concluded with sadness of heart
That there wasn't the ghost of a chance for his son.

Nothing worth while to do, you say—
Nothing that might bring honor to you?
Why, the poorest may travel a decent way,
Which the greatest of men should be proud to do.
—S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.

The Colorado Pioneers.

In the heat and the dust of the alkali plains,
Over desolate stretches of sand,
They trudged by the side of the slow moving trains,
The bull whip and rifle in hand.
Their eyes they had fixed on the wonderful west;
Its stories delighted their ears,
And hope had a nest in each resolute breast
Of those heroes, our brave pioneers.

They knew of the dangers that clung to the trail
That led o'er the desert's bleak waste,
And, armed with a courage that never could fail,
Those dangers they fearlessly faced.
They slept 'neath the stars, by the fire's fitful light,
Or watched o'er the grass feeding steers
When red peril lurked in the shadows of night
In wait for those brave pioneers.

The great land of promise they fought for was won,
And victory flushed their brown cheeks
When they saw the red rays of the evening sun
Light up the proud heads of the peaks.
Their glad lips were reeking with song at the dawn,
The echoes were dancing with cheers,
As the mountains in view seemed to beckon them on
To the home of the brave pioneers.

* * * * * * *

Long years have rolled by since they halted for rest
At the end of their wearisome tramp;
A city of grandeur, the pride of the west,
Now stands on the site of their camp,
And dimmed is the light of once keen flashing eyes
As, ripe with the fullness of years,
They wait for the call to the trail to the skies
That is blazed for our brave pioneers.
—James Barton Adams in Denver Post.

A LESSON IN SELFISHNESS

[Original.]

"May I have a part of your seat?"

The words were spoken in a soft voice and a gentleman to whom they were addressed, looking up from his paper, saw the oval face of a girl, topped with shining yellow hair, looking at him through a pair of blue eyes. He moved aside, the girl sat down and the train started on. The man renewed his reading, but soon yawned, dropped the paper on his knees and cast a side glance at his neighbor.

"Can you tell me," she asked, "how I can get to the N—— theater when we reach the city?"

"Would you know if I should tell you?"

"I fear not. I've never been to the city."

"Then I shall be pleased to put you on the right car and tell the conductor where to transfer you."

"Thank you."

"Have you an engagement at the N—— theater?"

"Oh, no! I'm not an actress. But my brother is an actor. He's understudy to Remington Field, the star."

"Indeed?" The gentleman cast a quick glance at the girl. "You refer to Cecil Armstrong. I know him personally."

"You do? How odd that I should have met you."

"Yes, your brother has rare dramatic talent. He'll make a success surely."

"I'm delighted to hear you say so," said the girl, evidently well pleased. "The only discouraging feature is that it all takes so much time. We're wretchedly poor, mother and Cecil and I. We have nothing but his salary, and that's very small. Cecil has been struggling for nearly ten years. When he got his present position he thought he'd surely get a chance to show what he could do, but Mr. Field is distressingly healthy and is always able to take his part. Cecil has been with him for more than a year, and he has never been ill once."

"It's too bad, isn't it?" remarked the gentleman sympathetically. "Some one ought to give him a dose to keep him in bed for at least one night and let your brother have a chance."

"Oh, no! I wouldn't have that. It wouldn't be right."

"Field would deserve it. A man has no business to be so selfish. He's been keeping the young man who has a mother and sister dependent upon him from his only chance of success when he might have given it to him by simply laying off one performance."

The stranger spoke with an honest indignation which he took no pains to conceal.

"You wrong him. Cecil says he's very kind and thoughtful."

"Thoughtful! Do you call it thoughtful to be so absorbed in himself as not to think of any one else? I tell you he has been neither kind nor thoughtful. I know him, and I have a mind to teach him a lesson. He frequently comes to my rooms. The next time he's there I'm going to settle him for one night at least."

"Indeed you shall do no such thing!"

"Who's to prevent me?"

"I'll tell my brother to warn him."

The stranger laughed sardonically. "Warn him against me? He thinks more of me than any one living."

"Then it would be the more shame for you to injure him."

When they reached the city the stranger insisted on putting the now unwilling girl on a car, and they separated. Miss Armstrong, as soon as she found her brother, hastened to repeat her conversation with the stranger. She was met with laughter.

"He was chaffing you, sis," said her brother. "He doesn't know either of us and was amusing himself at the expense of an innocent country girl. Don't ever talk with a strange man again."

The next afternoon Cecil Armstrong received a note from his principal saying that he had been drinking wine with a friend and it had made him ill. The understudy was to take his place that night.

Armstrong was astonished. The stranger had evidently been in earnest. If not it was a singular coincidence. However, there was no time for speculation, and he got ready to play the part.

That was the last of Cecil Armstrong's understudying. He won a start that gained him success. His sister was at the theater and enjoyed his triumph, brimming over with pleasure at every storm of applause. After the play she went to his dressing room to find him reading a note.

"Field has invited me," he said, "to his rooms to celebrate my success. I want you to go with me. We'll set out as soon as I get into my other clothes."

Half an hour later the brother and sister entered the building where Field stopped and were met at the door by Mrs. Field. She took Miss Armstrong into her own room to lay aside her wraps, while Armstrong went directly to the dining room to join the husband. Then the wife ushered the girl into the dining room.

Miss Armstrong paused on the threshold in astonishment. Before her stood the stranger she had met on the train. He advanced, smiling.

"I have kept my word," he said. "I gave myself a dose that has laid me up for one evening and permitted your brother to achieve the success in store for him. I have to thank you for calling my attention to my selfishness. Absorbed in my work, it never occurred to me that it was in my power to make him and those dependent on him happy. And now let us sit down and drink to his splendid reception and the girl who made it possible."

And see the glint of angel wings
Shining across familiar names,
And understand that it is given in command of the Asiatic squadron, consisting of the Olympia (flagship), first-class cruiser; Baltimore, Raleigh, Boston, second-class cruisers; Concord, third-class cruiser; Petrel, fourth-class cruiser; McCulloch, revenue cutter, used as a dispatch boat; Nanshan, collier; and Zafiro, supply vessel; with a total personnel of 1,694 officers and men.

DEWEY

On the breaking out of the war with Spain, April 22, 1898, Commodore Dewey was at Hong Kong with his squadron; and he received prompt instructions from Washington to find and destroy the Spanish fleet stationed somewhere in the Philippines. Accordingly, on Wednesday, April 27, he sailed with his squadron from Hong Kong in search of the enemy. The result may be given in his own first brief dispatch: "Manila, May 1.—Squadron arrived at Manila at daybreak this morning. Immediately engaged the enemy, and destroyed the following Spanish vessels: Reina Cristina, Castilla, Don Antonio de Ulloa, Isla de Luzon, Isla de Cuba, General Lezo, Marques del Duero, Cano, Velasco, Isla de Mindanao, a transport and water battery at Cavité. The squadron is uninjured, and only a few men are slightly wounded." Owing to the feeble defense of the Spaniards, Commodore Dewey's victory was an unexpectedly easy one; but that circumstance does not in the slightest degree detract from its workmanlike completeness, which, when contrasted with the trifling cost to the victor, made it one of the most remarkable victories in naval annals. Commodore Dewey's dispatch was received by President McKinley on May 7, and he at once telegraphed his thanks to Commodore Dewey, and notified him that, in recognition of his "splendid achievement," he had been appointed acting rear-admiral. Two days later the President sent a message to Congress recommending that the thanks of that body be given to "Acting Rear-Admiral George Dewey for highly distinguished conduct in conflict with the enemy, and to the officers and men under his command." On the same day (May 9) Congress passed a joint resolution of thanks, to the effect indicated, and voted to Admiral Dewey a sword of honor, and to his comrades medals commemorative of the victory. It also passed a bill increasing the number of rear-admirals from six to seven, to provide for Dewey's promotion. After the destruction of the Spanish fleet, Dewey subjected Manila to a strict blockade, and with his squadron took part in the capture of the city by General Merritt on Aug. 13, 1898. On March 2, 1899, he was created full admiral. (See also MANILA, in these Supplements.)

Admiral Dewey is a strict disciplinarian, and his action with the Spanish squadron showed that he is an admirable tactician, and a cool, clear-headed, skilful, and brave commander. He is an all-round athlete, a daring horseman and huntsman, and socially a good club man and a general favorite. At Portsmouth, N. H., in 1867, he married Miss Susy Goodwin, a daughter of Ichabod Goodwin, the "fighting governor" of New Hampshire. She died in 1872, leaving a son, George Goodwin Dewey, who, after graduating at Princeton, went into business in New York city.

Didn't Even See a Bear

Baron von Schlosser is Very Much "Annoyed"

Martin von Schlosser returned to the city Saturday night last and is now looking for a confession from the author of the sensational letter which pronounced him dead. He exhonorates C. Bowine, whose named was signed and writes THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER as follows.

Editor THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER: DEAR SIR—In reference to a report which was circulated here last week about my sudden death and "terrible struggle" with a "bear" at the Solduck hot springs, I would, through the medium of your esteemed paper, very much like to discover the author of this huge joke.

There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that this letter, sent to Mr. Grubb, was concocted in Port Angeles, enclosed in an envelope, forwarded to Piedmont and then remailed from there, here. The writer knew and was to some extent familiar with some of my private affairs.

What reason, motives, etc., this party had, in sending out such a hoax is mysterious to me, unless, knowing my extreme antipathy against newspaper notoriety, he arranged matters so nicely that no one really had a chance to find out if this "bear story" was true or not, until it had been sent broadcast to this country and Europe.

The only part in this letter, which I deeply regret is not true, is the statement that I am the worldly possessor of $100,000. I never owned such a sum in my life. And I consider it most "inhuman" and cruel to make me "think" that I have so much money, and when I "wake up" to only find myself a "pauper."

But I know where all these 'false" reports come from. Some 18 months ago I happened to come from Seattle to Angeles on the same boat and in the same state room with a well known business and professional man of this town. I drew out of my bank in Seattle the sum of $3,000.00 and I had at the same time in my belt, together with this money, a draft on Europe for $61,000.00; the latter being moneys entrusted to me by my family to invest in Alaska gold claims. As I did not go to Alaska I was compelled to return same to my family whence it came.

I noticed that a few days afterwards I got all kinds of "business propositions" and "sure-thing" schemes, from various people of this town. I told these parties plainly that I had no large sum of money at my disposal. All I had was a small annual income—just enough to keep the wolf from the door.

However, they did not, and even now do not believe me.

Being a man of careful ways I always carry a belt around my waist letters identifications, passports, instructions, etc. In this belt there was a letter written some 18 months ago, mentioning Judge Hatch. There was no special reason for that—a simple request of him.

This cruel joke, besides the worry and anxiety to myself and family, has cost me $25.00 for cablegrams. Then the newspaper notoriety has upset me to such an extent, that I have decided to sell out all I have and return to Germany next month. However, I shall always look back to my three years visit to Port Angeles with the greatest of satisfaction.

I remain yours truly,
MARTIN VON SCHLOSSER.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,
