Big Tree in Clallam

Lewis & Clark Exposition Commissioners Have Their Eyes on One.

One of the largest spruce trees know is said to be in existence along the straits in this county, not far from Port Angeles. Just where this tree stands its discoverer will not at this time tell everybody, but he has directed the attention of the commissioners of the Lewis & Clark exposition at Portland to it, and in all probability the monster will be taken from this county to the exposition. Timber cruisers who have tramped the woods of Washington for years pronounce this giant spruce the daddy of all the trees in this section.

N. C. Christensen has seen this big spruce tree. He says he and others stepped around the base of it, and estimated that it is about 30 feet in diameter. It is 100 feet to the first limb on this big tree, and the plan is to send a log 100 feet long to Portland to show visitors from the east what this country can produce in the way of big trees. As such a log could not be handled by railroad, it is planned to cut the big tree, saw off a log 100 feet long, dump it in the water and tow it around to Portland.

Washington sent a stick 110 feet long to the Chicago fair, but in diameter it was a mere toothpick compared to this big spruce tree. A log 100 feet long and 30 feet across at the butt would certainly attract attention.

Mr. Christensen also knows of a big fir tree near Green River Hot Springs that would make a good showing in any timber exhibit. This fir measures about 20 feet across at the butt and runs up hundreds of feet into the air. It would be a harder matter to get this log out than it would to ship the Clallam county spruce to Portland.

Startling But True.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theatre in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who have every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter Laura of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. Wilcox, Logan, New York. Sold by W. J. Mathewson.

The Best Physic.

When you want a physic that is mild and gentle, easy to take and certain to act, always use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by W. J Mathewson.

The fiscal year of the Baptist Ladies Aid Society ended on Wednesday last, when it was found the ladies had contributed a large share to the local expenses of the church. Miss Lizzie Mitchell, who keeps accounts for them, was given a rising vote of thanks at the last meeting. The outlook is encouraging for the new year.

Firemen's Ball.

The firemen at a meeting held Tuesday night decided on giving a grand ball in the opera house on the evening of St. Patrick's Day, Friday, March 17th.

The High School Cadets

Organization Gets Its New Uniforms and the Boys Are Now "It."

The boys of the High School Cadets are now resplendent in new uniforms and are seemingly very proud of them. They are the usual brown Kanacka fatigue style and present a striking appearance.

The cadets were organized a year or so ago by George H. Turkington, who has since had them in charge and has brought the raw recruits to a fair degree of efficiency in drills and military bearing. Drills are given two evenings a week in the N. R. Smith building on First and Vine streets, which the boys have fitted up for an armory. The officers and members are:

Sergeant, Lloyd McKechnie; corporals, Donald Lutz, Antone Smith, Herber Woods, John Wilson; privates, Frank Lyster, Clarence Gherke, Eben Morse, Chas. Filion, Lyman McDonald, Jay Gould, Wesley Bown, Fred Bown, Fred Farmer, Willie Van Brunt, Oscar Graham, Martin Wagner, Earl Thomas, Clifford Clementson and Grady Mahaffy.

Death At Last Relieves Suffering.

Owen Howard Malone, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Malone, of Lincoln Heights, passed away February 17th of meningitis after three weeks of suffering. All possible medical aid was given, even to securing such from Townsend and Seattle but without avail; the child gradually grew worse until death relieved his sufferings. The funeral was held Monday from the family home and was largely attended. The casket was smothered in floral tributes, many beautiful pieces coming from Seattle friends.

Owen Howard Malone was born in Wardner, Idaho, in July, 1893, and was a very bright child of promising future. In school he was far advanced for his age, and was very popular with his class and playmates. His demise is a severe shock to his parents.

Card of Thanks.

To all those friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted and supported us during the illness and death of our beloved son, we wish to extend our most heartfelt thanks.

Bonds Are Withdrawn

Council Decides Sale is Not Necessary—Call for Bids for Operating Light Plant.

The city council met Tuesday night with all members present. Among the features of the evening's work were the consideration of reducing operating expenses of the light plant and practically the withdrawal of the electric light bonds from sale.

The street committee reported need of six shovels, four picks, three mattocks, two pevyhandles, one plow. Committee also recommended pile be placed under extension at Valley street, and that mud be cleaned off Oak street extension. The recommendations were ordered carried out.

Communication was read from Rep. Jones stating he had taken steps to secure patent to city for park lands, and had assurances that matter would be given immediate attention.

Claims of R. D. Willson, mdse, 75c; D. O'Brien, wood, $61.85; fire dept., answer to alarm, $9, were allowed.

New claims read:

D O'Brien, wood	$106 30
C Wise and men, street work	48 00
Dell Church, salary and line work	34 00

Bond of C. E. Nailor, city treasurer, was read and approved.

Matter of sale of electric light bonds came up upon motion of Mr. Polhamus, who moved that bonds be withdrawn from sale, as citys financial condition did not require such issue. After some discussion Mr. Brumfield moved to amend to effect that all parties now negotiating for purchase of said bonds be notified that unless sale was effected by March 10th, that offer of sale would be withdrawn. Amendment was accepted and carried.

The electric light committee reported in detail on recommendations of mayor at previous meeting looking to reducing expenses of operation of light plant. The suggestions of his honor were that the office of lineman be abolished, advertise for sealed bids for operation of plant; water heater in boiler; free wiring. The committee recommended that bids be received for operation of plant for all night and 1 o'clock service, and this recommendation was adopted. Lineman was rehired by the hour at the rate of $3 per day for eight hours. Committee was given further time to report on fire installation, etc.

Police Justice Penniman again asked that city jail be put in sanitary condition. Referred.

Miss LaFollette appeared before council and asked that stray heifer without feed or care, wandering about neighborhood of Eighth and Vine streets, be taken care of. Referred to city marshal, as was also petition of Mr. McCollum for opening of alley south of 4th street, east of Albert.

Epidemic Continues.

It is reported that one physician of the city alone one day this week had 34 calls for minor ailments associated with the grippe and cold epidemic which has prevailed throughout the sound country for the past two weeks. Convalescents again about are J. C. Hansen, Judge Penniman, Councilman Hallahan, County Clerk Fitz Henry, City Attorney Smith, Deputy Auditor Hawkins, Constable Wm. Smith. Nearly everybody more or less, is afflicted and the doctors are reaping a harvest. Several cases of gatheriugs in the head are reported.

Broke Bone.

CURES STOMACH TROUBLES

THE body gets its life from food properly digested. Healthy digestion means pure blood for the body, but stomach troubles arise from carelessness in eating and stomach disorders upset the entire system. Improperly masticated food sours on the stomach, causing distressing pains, belching and nausea. When over-eating is persisted in the stomach becomes weakened and worn out and dyspepsia claims the victim.

Thedford's Black-Draught cures dyspepsia. It frees the stomach and bowels of congested matter and gives the stomach new life. The stomach is quickly invigorated and the natural stimulation results in a good appetite, with the power to thoroughly digest food.

You can build up your stomach with this mild and natural remedy. Try Thedford's Black-Draught today. You can buy a package from your dealer for 25c. If he does not keep it, send the money to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed you.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Ducks Plentiful.

Messrs. E. J. Nailor and C. S. Stakemiller returned Saturday from a most enjoyable duck hunt in the swamp beyond Dungeness. They secured 50 ducks of various kinds and report them very plentiful in that locality.

Railroad Building

Fifty Men at Work on a Link Between Port Angeles and Olympia.

An Olympia special says: Millard Lemon returned last night from Mason county, where he has been engaged for some time in locating the line for the railroad which is to connect the Blakely road with the Peninsula road, and thereby give Shelton its first rail connections with the outside world. The extension is being pushed with vigor and right behind the surveying party comes the right-of-way clearing crew, and behind them the graders. By this time the laying of rails on one end of the line is under way.

"About fifty men are now at work on the extension," said Mr. Lemon, "and the entire grade will be ready for the ties within a short while. The crossing of the Satsop river presents the only engineering difficulty and there a bridge about 800 feet long must be built. Most of the country is comparatively level, and at one place there is a mile and a half of road, as straight as a string, cut down through the virgin forest, making as pretty a scene as one could wish. The line will be completed, and I believe it will be possible to ship out logs and lumber from Shelton over these roads and the Northern Pacific spur from Elma by the middle of next summer."

Sick Headache.

This distressing ailment results from a isordered condition of the stomach. All that is needed to effect a cure is a dose or two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. In fact the attack may be warded off, or greatly lessened in severity, by taking a dose of these Tablets as soon as the first symptom of an attack appears. Sold by W. J. Mathewson.

The fiscal year of the Baptist Ladies Aid Society ended on Wednesday last, when it was found the ladies had contributed a large share to the local expenses of the church. Miss Lizzie Mitchell, who keeps accounts for them, was given a rising vote of thanks at the last meeting. The outlook is encouraging for the new year.

PUPPY LOVE

[Original.]

"Roberta, if you continue to see so much of George Urner as you have seen of him lately I fear we shall have a case of puppy love to cure."

George Urner was but nineteen and Roberta Sharpe sixteen. George was a clerk in the bank of Roberta's father on a meager salary.

"I hope," continued Mr. Sharpe, "that I shall not have to speak of this subject again."

"Yes, papa."

George Urner was not at fault in the matter. Roberta had fallen in love with him, and, though George reciprocated, he was too honorable to attempt to win her with nothing to support her and frankly told her that they should not be "playing with fire." What Roberta dreaded was that her father should discharge George from the bank, which would be a great misfortune to him and for which she should consider herself largely responsible. She was about to send for her lover to talk it over when he came to see her in great trepidation.

"I am ruined!" he said, white as a sheet.

"Great heavens! What is it?"

"I have given a stranger who came to the bank credit for $3,000 more than he is entitled to. He came to the bank yesterday and deposited $350. There were many depositors at the window, and I was hurried. The depositor asked for a certificate, and instead of making it for $350 I made it for $3,500, entering $3,500 on the stub of the certificate book. After banking hours, when I came to make up my cash account, I found a deficit of $3,150. I remembered the depositor, a German of the lower class, and hunted all over the city for him without success."

"But surely," said Roberta, "when he discovers the mistake he will bring back the certificate for correction."

"That depends upon how honest he is."

Poor little Roberta felt the truth of the saying, "Misfortunes never come singly." Her father's warning was scarcely delivered before her lover was placed in a critical position. He was accountable for the deficit, but even if he was not held for the loss he might expect to be discharged for the grossest carelessness.

"Well," said Roberta, "what will you do?"

"Say nothing about it at present, trusting that the man may come back to have the certificate righted."

"Don't you think it would be better to report it at once?"

"No. You shall be my confidant. When the trouble comes you shall be my witness that I told you about it. When all hope is gone that the depositor will come back to me with it I shall report the matter. Meanwhile I'll carry the deficiency in the account."

Whether or no this was a wise method of handling the mistake, George Urner decided upon it. After Roberta's warning from her father George and Roberta did not dare meet except on occasions when they could do so with but little risk. George carried a heavy load, and Roberta cheered and comforted him. Day after day passed, and no tidings of the depositor or the certificate. Roberta's father, though pleased with her acquiescence to his commands, was much pained to see her grow pale and thin with a troubled look always on her face. He did not know that the girl he had accused of puppy love was the mainstay of her unfortunate lover, not perhaps the wise adviser an older woman might have been, but a tower of strength to enable him to bear a strain that was killing him. George when he saw that she was suffering with him regretted that he had told her, but the deed had been done, and there was no help for it.

Two years passed, years of inexpressible torture to the young man wrapped in but one idea, the concealment of the deficiency in his cash. One day he was standing before his window at the bank when a German Jew appeared and thrust a dirty little paper before him. George looked at the paper—a certificate for $3,500—then at the man. Slowly it came to him that here was the cause of his trouble. Clutching to the counter—for he was near fainting—with one hand, with the other he clutched the certificate.

"How much of it do you want?" he faltered.

"I vants it all."

"All?"

"Yes, three hundred und feefty tollar."

George counted out the money—he was so bewildered that he counted it differently every time—and finally shoved the bills through the window.

That night George, who had not been with Roberta for months at her house, went to see her, folded her in his arms, and told her that his burden had fallen off.

Then Roberta called her father in, George confessed, and Roberta told her father how she had stood by the unfortunate young man for two years, and that she would stand by him while he lived.

"I know it is puppy love, papa," she said, "but I can't help it."

"Puppy love!" exclaimed her father, taking her in his arms. "Yes, puppy love. You should both be in the nursery for a pair of fools. George should have come to me and reported the matter at once. Nevertheless I like your endurance and you shall have your way."

George Urner subsequently became cashier of the bank, and, though he held his clerks strictly accountable for their errors, he charged them to report every item of carelessness at once. His wife Roberta considers him very harsh that he is so severe with them in this respect. HELEN V. TURNER.

JUST why the legislature should adjourn Saturday forenoon until Monday afternoon is not apparent to those who are paying the bills.

THERE is a very apparent disposition on the part of the members of the present legislature to fritter away time with minor bills and questions at the expense of needed legislation and important laws. In fact, it seems to be a pre-arranged plan to the end that laws demanded will be crowded out at the last moment. A large grist of bills of very minor importance have been considered by both houses, and some have been passed, but relief demanded by the people in matters of railroad commission, anti-pass, road questions, direct primary, division of state into congressional districts, improvement of revenue and road laws, etc., have been ignored so far, and the session is gradually drawing to a close. So near in fact is the end that it is doubtful if the bulk of the members will get over the idea that they were elected for any other purpose than to appropriate money, create jobs for their friends, play politics and have a good time.

A NEW ROAD LAW.

There is before the legislature, with probably poor chances of passage, a new road bill, which seeks to do away with some of the objectionable features of the present law and which therefore should receive prompt and careful consideration. The bill divides all roads into two classes, trunk line and by-roads, the former to be under the control of the county commissioners and the latter managed by boards of supervisors to serve without pay. Counties are divided into road districts, each of which elects boards, who manage affairs of districts in same manner as school districts are now managed. Taxes are voted in amount desired up to ten mills and each district issues its own warrants, giving complete local control.

People's Voice

(Under this heading our patrons may express themselves on any subject of general interest on which they may desire; subjects discussions must be brief and to the point.—Ed.]

MORE ABOUT GOOD ROADS.

Good roads in our county will be equally if not more beneficial than even a railroad. Good highways are the forerunners of civilization and until we get them we will be just where we are now. Everybody knows what a hardship it is to clear up a piece of land, and if a farmer will have to build roads to his land besides it makes it well nigh impossible for anybody to attempt to make a home among us.

The old countries, and England in particular, know the value of good roads. Even poor, barren, famine stricken India can put us to shame with our roads. I have traveled over the roads of nearly every country in the world, but nowhere have I seen such poor roads as in America—the wealthiest of them all. The eastern states are awakening to the fact that we ought to have good roads, and in the last ten years have done more towards making good roads than any previous 50 years.

Our present road law is a great improvement over the old one, but I think it could still be improved by adopting the road laws of England, Denmark and other European countries. There the state maintains a general highway. It is kept as smooth as a floor. It is a straight, turnpiked road. Every few hundred yards along the highway will be seen heaps of coarse sifted gravel, and a roadmaster, generally an old man, has got the supervision of about 10 miles which he keeps in first-class order alone with a shovel and a cart on which to haul the gravel. Such roads once built requires very little work to keep in shape; water don't stand on it anywhere. Those highways generally lead from city to city. In this country it would lead from east to west. If such a main road was maintained by the state it would be an easy matter for the county to keep all other side roads in passable condition. Over such a highway as above mentioned a farmer could haul nearly twice the load as to what he can haul over our existing roads. It is cruelty to animals to haul even a small load over such roads as we have now.

Even the sleepy south has lately commenced to see the value of good roads. Last winter I had occasion while there to inquire into it. I happened to make the acquaintance of a county commissioner, and noticing extensive road building nearly everywhere I made some inquiries about it. He told me that in his home county they had thousands of acres of land covered with timber and which had reverted to the county years ago, as nobody would pay taxes on it. About five years ago the county elected a progressive board of commissioners who commenced to build good roads, 18 feet wide, through this considered worthless land—as near as possible the roads follow section lines. The result is that today hundreds of small homes are built along these new roads with cleared land ranging from 5 to 50 acres. The county's population has increased by several thousands. Revenues are increasing, more road building is being done, and where everything was dead and dormant a few years back it is now lively and thriving. It has been very pleasing to notice the extensive and good road work performed last year and it is hoped that it will continue so as in time we mayhave some decent roads.

Now, as to way of making roads, opinions differ. Mr. Sands suggested using cedar slabs in swampy places. This I am opposed to for this reason: that it is a poor makeshift, While it may cost more, it is far better to do it right in the first place. Dig deep ditches on both sides of the road, with culverts wherever necessary; heap the dirt from the trenches on the road, and even if it be black soil it will pack, and when solid haul six or eight inches of gravel in the center of the road. Over such a road you can run the modern grader three or four times during the year and keep the road in good shape and with very little cost. Don't make your roads over 16 to 18 feet wide, as they will be so much easier to maintain, and in certain places even less width will do.

My idea in road making is to do it so that a road grader drawn by four or six horses can in the future take care of the roads. No gravel should be put on any new road until the next year, or until it be thoroughly settled. Take every root and stump out so that the grader meets with no obstructions, and above all don't put puncheon on the road, which in after years will make it impossible for the grader to do effectual and good work.

It has been rather amusing to watch the active interest taken by the people of the west end in selecting a new road supervisor. This is proper. Everybody should take an interest. When the county pays a man $4 per day you ought to have a good man that will and can work and above all a man possessed of good judgment. A. G. ROAD.

SCHOOL ELECTION NEXT SATURDAY. TURN OUT IN APPRECIATION OF FAITHFUL SERVICE.

RANK EXTRAVAGANCE.

The extravagance and folly of the present assembly is plain to everybody but the membership, who seem to wrap up in an impregnable armor of assurance and self-esteem. It has been discovered by actual count, that the senate has 56 employes on the pay-roll, while there are but 42 members of that body, or one and one-third helpers to each member. The house is nearly as profligate in spending the people's money, and the pay of this horde of dependents is in every instance at the top notch. It seems as if no thought had been given to the needs of the service required, or the consequences that will result, with the same thoughtlessness displayed in every branch of the public service. Appropriation bills have been introduced for every imaginable object, and if half of them pass the state will be hopelessly swamped in finances and ruined in credit. There never has been a legislature that has had more personal friends or political factions to reward, or less regard for economy so essential, and hitherto so carefully guarded, to relieve the state from debt. A carnival of extravagance began with the opening of the session, which is notably in marked contrast with the personal expenditures of many of its members. It is no wonder that a majority in the senate voted overwhelmingly to saddle another unnecessary expenditure of a couple of million dollars upon the state for removal of the capital. The feeling of such men, felt if not expressed, is, "The people will pay the cost; d— the people."—Olympia Standard.

A SENIOR IN THE SEATTLE HIGH SCHOOL SALUTES HIS FORMER TUTOR COMMISSIONER CHISTOPHER.

Mr. Christopher, Esq.,

Sir:—Through the courtesy of the postmaster at Shuwah I have been enabled to read the correspondence between you and my father, N. H. Tanggard, and as yours of December 15th concerns my name, I beg to reply.

You say that I was worthless on the road. Well, if the worth of a road worker lies in the amount of liquor he can devour, possibly so, for I made no attempt to empty any of the whiskey bottles that the crew were supplied with; but I beg to inform you in that I was brought up so as to refrain from the use of liquor. As for being a good worker can say that I shall hold my own against you and good many of the men you ally, Jim Smith, kept on the road; yes, even if you or they were to be blessed with the able help of the worthy Mr. Smith himself.

Was it the good work Smith wanted? No. It was the man who was convivial enough to order a bottle of whiskey brought in by the stage each trip, and the man who was generous enough to give Smith the most to drink was considered the best one regardless of the amount of work he did. Of course we all know that since it met your approval, Mr. Christopher, it must have been "fair play."

You said I was an expense to the county at any price. I am glad to know that you are economizing so faithfully in behalf of the county. You certainly revealed that spirit to a marvelous extent when, by Mr. Smith's own statement, you kept men on the road for political purposes.

The boys nevertheless proved themselves to be the kind Clallam county should be proud of, for when the election came on last November they voted to the opposite of what you and Mr. Smith wished them to do.

Did you approve of Mr. Smith's action on the 9th of July last, when he went home in the middle of the afternoon, leaving a part of the crew, who had no watches, to work 1½ hours overtime while expecting him to come and dismiss them? That was nothing more than neglect of duty on the part of the road supervisor and should be approved by no man. Would you consider that "fair play?"

My dear sir, you are entirely misinformed when you speak of my being discharged, for if you will consult the county auditor you shall see that warrants were drawn in payment for work that I did in the latter part of August. I worked until I should return here. However, I shall admit that it was Mr. Smith's intention to discharge me. His reason was spite work of so low a nature that it is unfit to print. He didn't come directly to me and announce his intentions, but sneaked around to other parties to find out if it would be safe, and after giving the matter due consideration he concluded to leave well enough alone.

I am not attempting to discuss politics, but feel safe in saying that the road work performed by Mr. Smith as supervisor on district No. 4 is a steal from beginning to end, as you are very well aware, Mr. Christopher.

You can approve of his doing, but remember as you do, so do you render yourself liable.

LUDWIG TANGGARD.

Dyke Wotes Aye.

Representative Dyke of Clallam county seems to have gotten off on the wrong foot in his legislative efforts. Dyke made the mistake of supporting Wilson for senrtor when his constituents wanted Foster, and now he has voted "aye" on the capitol removal bill, in direct opposition to the interests of Clallam county and the entire west side of the sound. Jefferson's representatives, knowing that the building up of Olympia cannot fail to help Port Townsend, Port Angeles and the entire west side in its development, promptly voted to have the capital remain where the people of the state have twice by their ballots decided it should be.—Port Townsend Call.

High School Notes.

The High School Cadets have now got their new suits, and they look very nice as they parade the school yard and the adjoining walks with martial tread. The young ladies of the high school are lamenting that they do not all wear them all the time.

Miss Inez McLaughlin was absent several days last week on account of sickness.

The girls of the high school met last Tuesday evening and organized their gymnasium club. They expect to meet one evening of every week under the training of Mrs. Turkington. We wish the girls success,

Miss Cecil Griswold was among those absent last week on account of sickness.

A tour of the sound cities convinces on that Port Angeles would soon double her population by the return of former residents should things take a turn here. In every city from Seattle to the boundary line one meets from five to twenty former residents.

Chinaman Arrested.

Immigration Inspector J. W. Nicholson on Saturday brought before Commissioner Lutz, Jew Cue, a Chinaman of Dungeness, whom he discovered had no papers. Cue claims he has not seen his papers for four years; that he kept them under a cloth on his desk, and he knows not where they are. He was bound over under $200 bonds, Fisher & Hickok furnishing same.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease,

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DRAKE, Middletown, O.

If the first bottle does not help you, the druggist will refund your money.
