The Government Surveyor Preparing the Way

FOR THOUSANDS OF SETTLERS

In a Country Marvelously Rich in Natural Resources —The Country Surrounding Ozette Lake. Suez Valley. The soil of that Valley Peculiarly Adapted to Hop Raising. The Neah Bay-Ozette Lake Road.

A surveying party has just returned from the west end of the county, having completed the survey of about 30,000 acres of government land, which is as rich and as full of promise as any of the prospering farm sections of even this marvelously rich state. Your correspondent was one of the party and believes that if Horace Greely had been acquainted with this section of the country, that his famous advice to "Go west young man and grow up with the country" would have been changed to, "Go to Clallam and grow up with the county."

There are thousands of acres of untaken land, which can be made self-supporting in two years, by judicious work. The survey referred to includes fractional townships, 31 N of range 14 west, township 31 N range 15 west, township 32 N range 15 west. Township 31 N range 14 west begins near the Hoko river bridge near Brown's ranch and follows along the Hoko river bottom. Messrs. Andrews, Brown, Johnson, Sodenburg, Tompkins, Haguely and others have ranches near by, self-supporting now. A pony pack trail from Clallam to the Ozette Lake passes through this township. This trail is along the line of the surveyed county road and is being improved every year. Ozette Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, about 12 miles long and 3 miles wide, surrounded by level land, good soil, covered with small hemlock timber and some large cedar. Most of the claims on the lake are taken. Among the distinguished settlers on the lake are Messrs. Tug Wilson, Will Berry and Palmquist, the Ozette postmaster.

Township 31 range 15, takes in the north end of the lake, extends west and closes at the northwest corner on the ocean. Northeast boundary takes in the Pilichuck river and Elk lake, along the Pilichuck are a few good alder bottom claims untaken. Elk lake, of which very little has been known heretofore, is three-fourths of a mile long and about one quarter of a mile wide, a grass prairie and cranberry marsh about 400 feet wide lies between the waters edge and the timber. Umbrella creek which empties into Ozette lake is the outlet. The land on the south and east side of the lake is first class agricultural land.

While the surveyors were camping on the lake, two elk walked boldly out of the timber and to the prairie tossed their "beamed frontlets to the sky," and stared at the crew's cook as if he was a curiosity not to be feared, then walked to the water, drank their fill and slowly wended their way into the woods without showing any evidence of fright. All about the lake game signs were plentiful several places resembling a cattle yard. The lake is about 15 miles from Neah Bay, and a horse trail 12 miles of the distance.

Township 32 N range 15 west comprises what is known as the Suez valley, and is one of the richest valleys in the county. Much of this land is adopted to raising hops and nearly all of the settlers contemplate putting in a crop as soon as they can get the land in shape. Mr. Joe White, postmaster at Suez planted enough to make a test, and is satisfied that they can be profitably grown.

All the claims that have so far been settled upon, are occupied by bona-fide settlers, sturdy honest pioneers who are determined to make their land self-supporting. A county road has been ordered surveyed from Neah Bay to the Ozette lake, a distance of about 18 miles. The settlers have been anxiously waiting and expecting the surveyor intwo weeks.

This road will go through for the valley between the mountains which form the divide between the Big river and Suez river country. There will be scarcely any grade. The development of all this country will be rapid, now that trails and roads are being put through it.

ABOUT PORT ANGELES.

Its Railroad Prospects Very Bright, Indeed.

Colonel J. S. Coolican, president of the board of trade at Port Angeles, and one of the most progressive and active citizens of the city on the straits, is a guest at the Grand. He has been in this neighborhood for a few days past and is now awaiting the arrival of several New York capitalists whom he expects to meet at Tacoma on Tuesday. The Colonel is largely interested in the construction of the contemplated Port Angeles, Everett & Pacific railroad, to run from Port Angeles a distance of about 34 miles and then ferry across the Sound 20 miles into Everett. In conversation with a Telegraph representative Monday Colonel Coolican said: "We had about completed all our arrangements for this road when the financial crisis came on and put an end to all our calculations. But the plan is so feasible and likely to be productive of such beneficial results and large returns that Eastern capitalists are easily persuaded as to its great advantage for profitable investment. I have had very satisfactory letters from New York within the past two weeks and feel satisfied that a decision will soon be reached to start the work this winter or in the early spring. We also expect to build a line from Port Angeles through the Quillayute valley down to the Gray's harbor country.

Money is getting easy in the east again and it will soon look for profitable investment. The South has had its run and where is there a state with greater resources, grander opportunities and brighter prospects than Washington? It does not exist and capital will naturally turn to the Puget Sound country. I do not apprehend such a hard winter in this state as many expect, for the silver lining to the dark cloud is already visible.

During the past 12 months Port Angeles has had a marked growth and its actual population is well nigh onto 6000. And the people are all comparatively prosperous, for in throwing open the government reserve every man in the city has been enabled to secure a piece of ground 100x140 feet at a trifling cost. Small homes have been constructed and vegetables sufficient for family use are raised, with plenty of fish to be had for the dipping of the line. I have a strong admiration for the people of Seattle. They have weathered the storm in a way that commands admiration and will redound not only to their glory by also future profit. Property here is worth more than ever and is sure to advance. Had I the ey I would not hesitate a minite about investing $200,000 in Seattle real estate.

By the way, you may expect to see the port of entry established at Port Angeles one of these days. I have information that the government has set apart two blocks in Port Angeles for a custom house, and, of course, that is where it should be. We have the only harbor from Cape Flattery into the Sound."

The Bank.

During the past week Receiver Chas. A. Dyer has been busily engaged in adjusting the affairs of the suspended First National Bank, so as to proceed systematically with the final settlement of its accounts. In the process of liquidation the interest of the depositor and of the debtor will be protected in as far as possible and consistent with sound business principles.

The stockholders are still making a desperate effort to resume. And their efforts are likely to be crowned with success, as they have two definite propositions, either one of which would enable the bank to resume on a solid financial basis.

It is greatly to be hoped that the bank will be rescued from its entangled condition ere it is too late, as the best interests of the community demand as much!

Port Angeles Bond Decision.

OLYMPIA, Oct. 14—The following decision was filed in the supreme court today: F. S. Lewis, appellant, vs. City of Port Angeles, respondent. The only objection made to the issuance of proposed bonds was that the ordinance adopting a system of electric lighting for the city recites that it was passed in pursuance of the act of March 26, 1890, as amended by the act of March 26, 1891, when, in fact, if passed at all it must have been in pursuance of the act of March 10, 1893, and judgment is affirmed. The recital in the ordinance was surplusage, and the act of 1893 was, under the decision in Seymour vs. Tacoma, a mere re-enactment of former acts with an immaterial amendment covering the purchase of existing light and water plants.

Inexcusable Negligence.

The fact that the city has not provided a vault for the safe-keeping of its records and valuable documents, is simply evidence of gross negligence that is inexcusable viewed from any standpoint.

The outlay for so necessary an improvement is infinitismal when compared with the loss which doubtless would result should the city hall be destroyed with fire—it being a frame structure, the chances of saving its contents would be very slim, indeed.

Steps should be taken at once to provide a vault for the safe-keeping of the city's records.

Notice of the Public Sale

Of the lots in the unsold portion in the town of Port Angeles, washington.

Notice is hereby given that at ten o'clock on the 1st day of January, 1894, the public sale of lots in the unsold portion of the townsite of Port Angeles, washington, will be begun at the court house therein and continued from day to day until all the lots and parcels in said townsite that are subject to sale at public outcry shall have been sold or offered for sale. Port Angeles is situated upon the straits of San Juan De Fuca, Clallam county, in the north-western portion of the state of washington, and was reserved as a government townsite in 1863 by order of President Lincoln. The sale of the unsold portion of said townsite was provided for by act of Congress of March 3d, 1891, 26 stat, 879, and August 5, 1893, 27 stat. 360, and said portion comprises thirty-one hundred and forty seven and 31-100 acres surveyed into 7008 urban and suburban lots and parcels. The majority of the urban lots are fifty by one hundred-forty feet in size, while the suburban lots contain an average of eight and one half acres. The sale will be conducted by the Register and Receiver of the Seattle land office, and all lots and parcels will be offered singly to the highest bidder for cash, except those lots which may be purchased at private sale prior to the date of public sale by the parties entitled thereto, but no bid will be received for less than the appraised value for any lot or parcel. Notice is hereby given to each and every person claiming by the terms of the acts of Congress of August 5, 1892, a preference right to purchase lots at private entry at their appraised value prior to the day of public sale, that he must publish notice once a week for six consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in Port Angeles of his intention to avail himself of such rights and that he will make proof at a specified time touching such residence and improvements before the Register and Receiver at the Seattle land office or other officer authorized to take proof in homestead cases. Said proof must consist of the testimony of the claimant corroborsted by the testimony of two witnesses, stating that the claimant had individually established residence upon one lot and had made valuable improvements upon one such additional lot prior to July 5, 1893, and that he had maintained such residence and improvements up to the date of his application to purchase, and that title to said improvements still remain vested in him. The foregoing to be accompanied by proof of the publication required. Notice is futher given that the aforesaid proof must be made in time to be forwarded to, and passed upon by the local officers at Seattle prior to the day of public sale. Full explanation will be made by the Register prior to the offering of the several lots and parcels for sale as to the exact location of each and shape and size and area of the same in order that parties may bid intelligently upon them.

In Childhood's Happy Days.

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administers it to her own offspring and always with the best results. PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and greatly lessen it's severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by J. C. Hansen, The Fisher Pharmacy.

DEMOCRATIC ACTIVITY.

Whether the senate of the United States is a failure or not might be be a question as yet undetermined, but that those dignified senators could go to school to the house of representatives and profit by the time spent is proven. While the senate has been fooling away time that should have been given to earning their salaries, the house has been busy at work. The house of representatives has passed during the present short session the Wilson repeal bill, the Tucker repeal bill, the McCreary anti-Chinese bill and the Cox national bank bill. The first bill repeals the Sherman bullion purchase act, the Tucker bill repeals the Federal elections law and provides for state control of elections, the McCreary bill extends the Geary Chinese exclusion act six months and the Cox national bank bill provides that no officer of a national bank can owe the bank anything on a note, overdraft or otherwise.

Thus it will be seen that the real Democratic house of congress has got a real Democratic activity about it that would indicate that it understood what it is doing.

THE PEOPLES' WILL OBEYED.

Citizens of Port Angeles can at last congratulate themselves that the electric light matter has been settled.

There is no doubt but that the people of this city meant that the council should purchase the electric light plant when they voted bonds. In fact, the only argument used against voting bonds was that the price asked for the electric light plant was too high, thus showing that the people felt that they were voting to purchase the plant of the Washington Electric Light & Motor company. The expressed will of the people has undoubtedly been carried out in this purchase.

THE GEARY LAW NOT REPEALED.

The McCreary bill extending the Geary act six months passed the house of representatives Tuesday, with all of the amendments offered by Mr. Geary and Mr. Caminetti of California. These gentlemen, with the balance of the Pacific coast delegation voted for the bill. Thus it will be seen that the Democratic party has not changed its anti-chinese record. Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, avers that the bill is satisfactory to the administration.

The McCreary bill really extends, without material change, the Geary act for six months.

NOT A POPULIST.

Congressman Bryan, of Nebraska, positively denies that he left or intended leaving the Democratic party,

"He proposes," he says, "staying with the Democratic party and sharing its fortunes, even if it does 'turn him down' until the party becomes definitely committed to a single gold standard."

Mr. Bryan does not agree with the strong centralization of power advocated by the People's party. In other words, he is a Democrat.

JUST mark the prediction! There is a war brewing in Tammany hall that will make New York politics interesting within the next year or so. Dave Hill and Ed. Murphy have sat down on Bourke Cochran, but they will find that Tammany's greatest statesman is too big a man for politicians of New York's senators' stamp to hold down long.

THE bimetalist Democrats made a great mistake when they accepted the leadership of Stewart, Teller, Wolcott, Dubois and Peffer—all old line Republicans who are not advocates of free coinage because of their opposition to class legislation, but because of their devotion to the old special privileges policy of the Republican party.

MRS. LEASE, of Kansas, recently referred to Secretary of State Walter Q. Gresham as a plutocratic Republican. She seems to forget how anxious the Populists were to nominate the great liberal for the presidency.

IF a little of the Democratic activity of the House could be infused into the senate there would be great rejoicing in the land.

IN LOVE AND PERIL.

Oh, I say, Wyndham," Paul Toy said, suddenly letting his heels down to their natural level, and getting up to light his cigar at a swinging lamp of Berlin bronze. "I've been going to ask you several times what became of the little girl who posed as your Psyche. Some of the fellows fancied you were quite serious about her. As this is Thanksgiving morning and the future seems bright enough to us both, suppose you unbosom yourself to an old friend. I certainly sympathize with you if your heart was touched and sincerely desire your happiness. Our associates are really interested. Old Mangam was awfully cut up about it. He fancied you were growing to throw away your whole career" (puff, puff) "by marrying."

Lester Wyndham smiled, but the look on his face did not express much gaiety.

"Uncle Mangam was always imagining something," he said briefly.

"Well," said Toy, resuming his seat, "I confess I was a little curious myself. What became of her anyhow?"

"Why, my dear fellow," Wyndham replied, testily, "how should I know? One isn't bound to keep track of all the pretty models one flirts with. I shouldn't attempt it. But see here—it is half past seven. If we are ging to here 'Mignon' tonight we'd better be off."

"Caserelli in the role, you say?" querried Toy. "I've heard her sing it twice. She is getting too old and fat for that sort of a thing. See here—how would it do for me to join you after the second act? I ought to show up after the Snowden reception, you know."

"As you please," Wyndham replied, buttoning his light overcoat over his dress-suit and tucking an opera-hat under his arm, while he worked on his gloves.

"I'll stop here awhile then," Toy said, dropping back into the Oriental chair which had such charms for him.

Wyndham's rooms were everybody's admiration. Fortune had smiled on the young artist. He had sold several pictures to the Academy, and just as Fame placed the laurel on his brow, his rich old uncle died, leaving him all of his money.

The studio of an artist who has plenty of money ought to be the ideal of elegance, and Wyndham's was all that; yet he was not a happy man.

As he stepped into the coupe summoned to convey him to the opera, the name of his pretty model was ringing sadly in his ears.

Where was Marguerite? Ah, if he only knew what had become of her!

He was alone in the box when the curtain rose.

The opening chorus seemed to come to him from afar off. He saw nothing of the painted singers that moved to and fro on the boards as the argument unfolded itself, and the audience began its fitful applause.

Wyndham saw nothing of the daubed scenery or the stage trappings; he saw his own room, and a little slender figure, modestly draped in soft white—Marguerite, with eyes like dark pansies, and a mass of shining hair rippling out of a high Greek knot.

The opera ran on, but Wyndham sat there, one gloved hand holding the libretto unopened, the other resting very passively on the box cushions.

He seemed insensible to everything; but there came at last a full, splendid chorus that might have roused anyone.

Wyndham looked up.

The stage was full of men and girls. He glanced over them and then—he started. Leaning forward he caught his breath.

Could that be—who was that girl in white, with golden hair, singing with downcast eyes, her cheeks glowing with a carmine which art could not imitate?

"Marguerite!" he breathed "it is my little Marguerite!"

Like one spellbound, he sat there leaning breathlessly forward till the last note of the chorus had died away.

If she would only look at him! But no! What was that rosy glow above? Why did the prima donna glance up in a startled way, and then dash off the stage?

A sudden burst of smoke and a wild cry of "Fire!" revealed the danger.

Almost instantly the audience was on its feet. The stag-manager rushed out amidst the flight of the troupe through the flies, which were wrapped in flames in an instant.

"Sit still!" he cried wildly. "You will be crushed to death if you all go at once. There is time for all to escape!"

But the mad rush for the doors could not be stopped, and almost before the stag-manager finished speaking, the fire-wall on the stage was let down with a crash.

It was then that Wyndham darted out of his box, through the flies to the green-room.

There was a wild crush and scramble there, too. Ballet-girls and figurantes flew in their scanty attire towards the narrow stage exit.

Men and women screamed and shouted, but above the din rose Wyndham's voice, crying frantically:

"Marguerite! Marguerite!"

Up and down the narrow corridors, where the smoke was gathering so thick and black that death by suffocation was the first peril, Wyndham dashed like a madman.

"Where is Marguerite Valleau?" he cried frantically.

"Never heard of her," replied one of the machinists. "Save yourself, monsieur. There is no time to hunt for missing ones."

One of the chorus girls dashed by wrapped in a great cloak.

"Marguerite Valleau is in the property-room," she said.

And Wyndham dashed forward.

He did not know where the property room was; there was no one to tell him. The corridors were almost deserted by the flying troupe; but above the flames swelled and leaped belching forth sparks and smoke that threatened to choke him. From behind the fire-wall door he heard the roar of the terrified audience, like so many wild beasts trying to burst their cage.

"Marguerite! Marguerite!" he cried.

But there came no reply.

To the right and left he ran, in one door and out another, till at last he came upon a limp, white figure lying on the floor of the deserted room.

"Marguerite—thank God!" he cried fervently.

And catching her in his arms he turned to retrace his steps.

His voice and touch seemed to arouse her. She opened her eyes smiled—smiled with death staring her in the face, for Wyndham's passage was barred by flame. He knew not which way to turn.

"It is thou," she said softly, in French. "I saw thee from the very first."

"Marguerite!" he whispered, holding her close in his arms. "There is no place for us to go. We cannot escape. Are you afraid to die with me dearest?"

"No," she answered, with a fearless smile; but her eyes met his hopeless look with a fresh inspiration. "Let me go, monsieur," she said quickly. "Come with me. I know a way. Take my hand—so!"

He obeyed her, and hand-in-hand they fled together down through a trap under the stage, and into a long narrow passage, which terminated in an exit into the Rue Marivaux.

"This is for the administration," she explained. "I was on my way here from the property-room when I fainted. If you had not come, monsieur, I should have been left behind."

He pressed her hand warmly as they hurried on.

"Open the door!" she said.

And Wyndham sprang forward to obey her, but fell back with a groan.

"It is locked!" he cried, wrenching the knob futilely. "There is no key!"

Marguerite's little hands were quickly dashed against the panels of the door. Wyndham vainly strove to hammer them in with his boots or attract attention from witheut. But the awful din around the burning building prevented them from being heard.

The firemen had arrived, and their shouts mingled with the shrieks of the crowd assembled. The struggling mass of people swarming out of the opera-house drowned all minor noises.

"We are trapped," Wyndham said in agony. "We cannot get back now, my poor little Marguerite!"

With a low sob, her head sank on his shoulder.

"As God wills it!" she whispered. "I am not afraid here."

Wyndham's arms were around her; his face close to hers.

"Do you love me?" he asked solemnly.

"Truly, monsieur," she replied, her arms clinging close about his neck.

"Then why did you go away," he asked. "Why did you not let me know where to find you?"

"I was poor," she said. "I had to earn my living. And how could a young girl have staid on there without—without——You know I could not."

"But I meant to ask you to marry me," he said quickly.

"Yes," she answered; "but Monsieur Mangam, your uncle, said that could not be—that it was not right for you to marry me, because you would lose everything by that."

Wyndham shut his teeth hard

"Tell me. Marguerite," he said, "Would you marry me now? I am a rich man. My uncle is dead. Would you be my wife now?"

"If I only could!" she sighed. "I have always loved you."

A new light broke over his face.

"Oh," he cried, "to think that we must die now! Just when I have found you, my darling! Oh it is hard to die!"

"Hark!" she cried. "There is someone!" There were hurried steps on the pavement. Someone shouted without, and the two voices within sent forth an answering shout.

Then came some swift, thundering blows against the lock. It burst open, the door was flung back, andthey were free!

Wyndham staggered out with Margurite in his arms.

"Look up, my pearl," he whispered.

But the head had sunk insensibly on his breast, and she knew nothing.

Someone caught Wyndham's arm.

"Lester!" cried Paul Toy. "Good heavens! is it you?"

"It is I!" he answered fervently. "And this is the girl you asked me about this evening. Get a carriage, Paul."

"The young lady——"

"Goes with us. Do not be surprised. She will be my wife tomorrow."

Paul Toy asked no more questions. His thoughts were taken up with the blessedness of having saved his friend from a horrible death.

He had come to the theatre as by his appointment, and found it in flames. He knew it was useless to search for Wyndham in the awful confusion of that scene, but by chance he saw the door into the Rue Marivaux was not open. He had often gone into the theatre by that door with members of the administration. Perhaps it might serve as an exit to some who were imprisoned in that burning building.

Half-a-dozen men rushed to open it at his suggestion, and then—Lester Wyndham had staggered out.

The full extent of that awful horror was not known to these three till the next day, when the work of bringing the dead from the ruins was sadly begun.

Over that let us draw a veil. The story has been told, with all its horrible details, by journals in all countries.

But with all the terrible misery that night entailed, it is pleasant to think that the disaster brought with it happiness for at least two loving souls.

Proof is taken of notices which are carefully read, then revised. But even with that pre-caution errors frequently occur, the fault sometimes lying with and frequently outside of the publication office. So read your notice and avoid possibility of future trouble or delay.

A copy of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER will be mailed to each claimant THE FIRST WEEK his notice appears for publication. In this issue only such notices as have been set by either the county clerk or United States commissioners for their first week's work appear. THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Will Meet Again November 8th—Concert by the Colored people of Port Angeles—Angeles and its Railroad Prospects—Supreme Court Confirms Validity of the Electric Lighting Bonds.

The board of county commissioners met pursuant to call of chairman, Tuesday, the 17th inst. All were present.

On motion of Commissioner Knapman the following order was adopted:

It is hereby ordered by the board that M. J. Clump, county treasurer, and Lewis Levy, Frank Chambers, Chas. E. Mallette, C. W. Thompson, Donald McInnes, Jr. and D. W. Morse, bondsmen of the said M. J. Clump, are ordered to be and appear before the board of county commissioners at the court house in the city of Port Angeles, Clallam county, Wash., on the 18th day of October, 1893 at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day.

The board then adjourned to meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock p. m.

The board met pursuant to adjournment Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The certified copy of the order of the board requesting the presence of M. J. Clump, county treasurer, and his bondsmen, was returned by the sheriff, showing that the same had been served on the treasurer and aforesaid bondsmen, excepting Lewis Levy, who was not to be found within the borders of Clallam county, and the treasurer and each of the bondsmen excepting the said Lewis Levy, appeared in obedience to the said order, to-wit: M. J. Clump, county treasurer, Frank Chambers, Chas. E. Mallette, Donald McInnes, D. W. Morse, and C. W. Thompson, by W. C. Garfield his attorney, whereupon, on the proposition of the board, each of said bondsmen agreed in the presence of the board that they would not transfer or encumber in any way their property, except for the purpose of opening the First National Bank, for the benefit of the said county, for the period of three weeks, to-wit, not before the 8th day of November, A. D. 1893.

The board then adjourned to meet November 8th, 1893.

Fashion Notes.

If you will face your gowns with denim it will outlast six silesia facings and will not rub your shoes white as canvass does.

Sandalwood trays for ribbons and laces are again used. There is a delightful fragrance imparted to any article that comes in contact with these scented r e ceptacles.

White skirts have come again. There is nothing so charming as a laced underskirt. It is the real ideal for a wo man. A white-skirted woman will marry sooner than a woman with a dark-colored skirt.

A beautiful neck is often more lovely if fitted over with a seamless yoke of transparent or semi-transparent material. A tiny edge or ruffle may finish the yoke at the neck, or it may be drawn full with a dainty, narrow ribbon, or, again, it may simply disappear under a necklace.

Silk stockings and silk underwear generally should not be worn two days in succession. When taken off they should be shaken free of dust, turned inside out and hung in a current of air. This will reduce the number of washings necessary to them. They should be washed in warm, but not hot, suds, made with white Castile soap, and rinsed in warm water. They should be wrung out gently, stretched and dried, but they should not be ironed.

Hay for Horses.

In the feeding of horses hay is indispensable. Other materials can, and should, be used in connection with it, but there is nothing that can satisfactorily be used as a substitute. Yet, valuable as hay is, there are a great many horses injured by eating it. This, because the hay is improperly fed or a poor quality is supplied.

It is a very common error to feed farm horses too much hay. The digestive organs of a horse are very different from those of a cow. The cow may not only safely, but profitably, be given all the good hay she can eat. She has abundant room in which to store it and plenty of time in which the digestive process can be performed. But the horse is "not built that way" as far as storage capacity is concerned, and his work upon the road or in the field, especially if the driving is rapid or the loads are heavy greatly interferes with and retards digestion. Thousands of farm horses are unsound because they have been driven or worked when they were so full of hay that their lungs could not act freely and the whole system has suffered from the mass of undigested food which was not in condition to be either appropriated or expelled. The stuffy process answers very well when it is being fattened for the market, but is ruinous to horses which are to be used either for driving or for draft. The horse should be well fed, but excessive feeding, either of hay or of anything else, will always prove an injury.

Irregular feeding of hay is another evil from which many farm horses suffer. When not being worked these horses are fed whenever the owner finds it convenient to attend to them. There are farmers who give hay to their horses about every time they go into the barn and find the mangers empty. So it comes to pass that on many of the days in which they are in the stables they are kept eating a good share of the time. When they are at work more regular feeding is necessary, and this is one of the reasons why many farm horses look better and feel better in the busy season of the year than they do when they are worked but little. Irregular feeding causes trouble with the digestive organs and this frequently leads to serious results. The horse should have his meals with as much regularity as the owner has his own food. Giving a horse hay "between meals" is done with the best of intentions, but it is a mistaken kindness which will prove injurious to the horse and expensive to the owner.

Though the time of feeding should be regular, the quantity of hay that is given should be varied with the amount of work which is to be performed. A horse that is standing in the barn most of the time and is carefully used when taken out, can have more hay and less grain than he would need if constantly at work, or if occasionally put to hard service. When more than the usual amount of nourishment is required it should be supplied in form of grain rather than in that of hay, as hay alone will be altogether too bulky to properly serve the purpose. If the work is to be severe, or long continued, the usual quantity of hay may be somewhat diminished and a mixture of oats and corn, with, possibly the addition of a little bran, should be supplied. At morning and noon the quantity of hay that is given should be less than it is at night, as during the night there will be time to digest a larger quantity of coarse food than there will be during the day, and the process of digestion will not be interfered with by exertion as it is when the animal is at work.

The quality of hay that is supplied to horses is also a very important item. Hay for horses should be made from well ripened grass. Whatever may be the case with cows and sheep, it is not well to feed horses on hay made from grass that was cut before it had reached the flowering stage. Neither is it wise to give them new hay, even though it was made from the beast of grass and cut at the most favorable time. Such hay will have a laxative and weakening effect, will cause too profuse prespiration, and will tend to lower the general tone of the system. If old hay can be had it is best not to commence using the new crop before the first of October. It is also essential that hay should be well cured and be preserved without injury. Musty hay is injurious to horses and mouldy hay is a positively dangerous kind of fooder.—This article is taken from the American Farmer, one of the best farm journals printed, and will be furnished one year free to all subscribers to the DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

"In 1868, my affianced was nearly bald, and the hair kept falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarrun, Bastrop, Tex.

CLALLAM'S MINERALS.

Twenty-four Foot Vein of Bituminous Coal—A Gold Mine.

Representative W. R. Hoole, of Port Angeles, who is a guest at the Grand, tells a Post-Intelligencer representative of two mineral discoveries in Clallam county which are attracting a good deal of attention on the Straits. "A twenty-four foot vein of bituminous coal has been discovered near the head of Sequim bay by a Frenchman whose name I cannot recall," said he yesterday, "and a company been formed at Port Townsend to develop the property. He found the out-cropping about a mile and a half from the head of Sequim bay and blasted out a quantity of it. He then got some Port Townsend people interested and they have organized a company, which has taken up about 1,000 acres and is preparing to thoroughly prospect it. The discoverer says that the indications are that there is a solid bed running along the hog-back for four miles, generally parallel with the shore.

"The other find is a gold-bearing vein near Port Angeles. Charles F. Dyer and Dr. John P. Frizell brought a specimen weighing four or five pounds, to town the other day and it has a streak of gold running through it about an eigth of an inch thick, which you can pick out with a knife. They say there is a large outcrop, but will not tell where it is or anything more about it, though they say that when they do talk about it they will astonish everybody."

Dairying in Washington.

Over $1,000,000 is sent out of the state of Washington every year for dairy products. This in the face of the fact that we have in all parts of the state unexcelled ranges, pasture lands and all kinds of grasses for feed. Butter always brings from 20 to 30 cents a pound, while in the east 10 to 20 cents will buy the best. Which brings the most profit, wheat at 40 cents a bushel or butter at 25 cents a pound? Will some rancher please answer?—Tekoa Globe.

Womankind.

Has won its fame because it deals with what really interests the women of America.

It leaves the discussion of the great questions of religion and politics to other papers, and fills its pages with practical articles regarding home life, how to live delightfully yet economically.

Its Fashion Department is complete—the work of experienced editors—and profusely illustrated, but it deals with fashions suitable to the homes of women of artistic tastes and modest incomes. Its stories are bright and inspiring. It is full of hints for the self-supporting woman, and aids those who seek to add to their incomes by brain or hand.

Elizabeth Cherry Haire is the editor, and the contributors number many of best writers known to the American press.

This paper will be sent free of charge to all paid-up subscribers for one year to the DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

"For Years,"

SAYS CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chesterfield, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of my chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, le
