Timber Lands.

It has come to be generally believed now that the timber claims are more difficult to secure, from the government than they used to be, in former years, says the East Clallam Record, from the fact that a homestead could be filed upon the land which would have the preference right over a timber claimant. Recent decisions of the Supreme court and of the land department show, however, that this is not always the case. For example a settler named White made proof upon a timber claim in this district in November 1890. He was contested by another who filed a homestead upon the same land claiming that "if the timber was cleared away" every acre of the land could be successfully cultivated and crops raised thereon. The case was decided in favor of the timber claimant because the land was more valuable as timber land than anything else at the time the claimant made application. The question in such cases is "what is the land most valuable for now?" not in five or ten years from now when the timber is cut off and labor and money expended upon it.

East Clallam Prospects.

The prospects for the coming year on the bay are very good, says the East Clallam Record. The sawmill will resume operations next month with its capacity doubled and the company have already orders for three million feet of lumber to be shipped to San Francisco. The county road to Quillayute is nearly completed and increased traffic may be looked for next year. There is a good prospect of the Clallam Bay extract factory starting up in the spring and with the opening of new townships shortly increased business will certainly follow.

Out in a Blizzard.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of phenmonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return ha was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses.. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day he was able to came to Des Moines. THE GOLDEN CITY.

Ornamentation of the Grand Central Court.

OVER SEVENTY STRUCTURES

Cover the Fair Ground—Fully $1,000,000 Already Expended for Building—The Opening Day Will Be An Event in San Francisco's History—The City Will Be Profusely Decorated.

The work of preparation for the Exposition has now reached a point where the æsthetic ideas of the management are beginning to bear fruit. All the main buildings are practically finished, so far as the detail of constructions are concerned, and now comes the matter of decoration.

Charles Graham, the well-known artist—better known, perhaps, in the East than in California on account of his extensive experience with the Harpers, and more recently with the Columbian Exposition—has been appointed director of color for the Midwinter Exposition, and to him falls the duty of superintending the decoration of the Exposition buildings. There has been made no effort in this connection to pattern after the Columbian Exposition. The term "White City" will never be appropriately applied to this Exposition. Mr. Graham's idea has been to let delicate tint predominate, and to so distribute and arrange these that the peculiar atmospheric effects of the California climate shall be utilized to enhance their harmony and increase their beauty. Warm tones are not particularly necessary in the decoration of any group of buildings in this glorious climate of California, and the darkness of background afforded by the almost black foliage is a magnificent setting for the delicate tints which are to pervail.

Some excellent effects have already been partially produced on the main buildings, although none of them are yet to be seen in the fullness of perfection. There will be a great deal of gold in the scheme of color, although not enough of it to give the architectural group the name of the "Golden City." The domes of the Administration building will be heavily gilded, and the western sun, striking full upon them, will undoubtedly play a very important par tin the picturesqueness of the panorama.

The ornamentation of the grand central court is also receiving a great deal of attention just now. The electrical fountain is being installed in one end, the basin for the allegoical fountain is in place at the other, and the sculpture will soon be ready to be put in position. The electric tower has reached a third of its height, and two more weeks will see it completed. Eight or ten inches of rich loam has been spread over the entire surface of the grand plaza, and on it will be sown the seed of the flowers and foliage which are to make this the most beautiful spot in all the beautiful Golden Gate Park. There has already been transplanted to this grand parallelogram a large number of bamboo plants and date palms that have been artistically distributed, and have made a favorable impression on the public, which warrants the assertion that the picture to be presented within the lines of the court, around which the main buildings are situated, will be one of surpassing loveliness. The Venetian masts, several hundred in number, which are to stand like a line of soldiery around this court, are already in position. These are to bear the flags of all nations by day, and electric arc lights at night; and between them the sun will shine upon long lines of particolored streamers, while the darkness of each succeeding night will be relieved by long lines of incandecent lights and fancy lanterns in the development of the carnival effects which have been contemplated in this connection.

The management of the exposition are to be particularly congratulated on the fact that in the erection of the seventy odd structures within the Exposition grounds, on which there has been an aggregate expenditure of nearly $1,000,000, there has, thus far, occurred no labor trouble, no accidents, and not even an alarm of fire.

The programme for opening day has not yet been completed, but the ceremonies will be of a character to warrant the unbottling of all the enthusiasm which San Francisco and the adjoining cities and towns have been getting up for this occasion. It took the business men of San Francisco a long while to wake up to the importance of this Exposition, but there is no longer any room for criticisms on this score, and it is safe to say that when opening day shall arrive the city will be more gaily decorated and its inhabitants will turn out more universally than on any other occasion that has marked the history of California.

Mayor Smith's Return.

Mayor Norman R. Smith returned from Washington last Monday, after an absence at the Capitol city of several months. The readers of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER are, doubtless, familiar with the mission which took Mr. Smith to Washington, i. e., to introduce a bill in congress providing for an appropriation of 50 per cent. of the proceeds from the sale of the government townsite to be expended in public buildings in this city.

He succeeded, with the assistance of Representative Wilson in having a bill introduced provisioned as outlined in the foregoing, and feels confident, if intelligently directed and persistently urged, will become a law before the adjournment of congress next spring.

Mayor Smith will endeavor to return to Washington during February next, to continue his labor in behalf of his pet measure. Fort Angeles is justly entitled to and will be granted the appropriation if its interests are properly subserved.

THE RESOLUTIONS

Adopted at the Road Convention Held in Olympia Last Week.

The road convention at its session in Olympia adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, that this convention recommend to the legislature the passage of a road law containing the following general features:

"That there should be a general law providing for the establishment and maintenance of state and county roads.

"That such roads should be established so as to secure the shortest possible distance between the termini, and on the most level routes and as far as practicable on a uniform grade.

"That we respectfully request the legislature to memorialize congress to enact a law giving to the state of Washington 25 per cent. of all moneys realized from the sale of public lands in the state to be used for the purpose of building and maintaining roads in this state.

"That we recommend to the legislature that a law be past that all moneys realized from the sale of tide lands, which are not otherwise now appropriated, be appropriated and used for the purpose of building and maintaining state and county roads.

"That we recommend to the legislature a law regulating the width of wagon tires and encouraging the width of wide tires by a rebate of taxes.

"That this convention petition the regents of the agricultural college to establish a chair of road engineering.

"That this convention memorialize the legislature to enact a law requiring that after January 1st, 1900, all county surveyors or roadmasters or candidates for county surveyor or roadmaster to pass before the state professor of road engineering a satisfactory examination as to their knowledge of road engineering.

"That we recommend to the legislature the passage of laws making it compulsory for all prison officials to work the state and county roads by all persons convicted of felonies or misdemeanors and confined in prison, wherever practicable said work to be done under the supervision of the proper authorities; provided, that the employment of such convicted persons on the roads shall not interfere with nor effect the employment of convicts in sack, brick or other profitable employment for the benefit of the state.

"Resolved, that this convention is in favor of the repeal or modification of the present road law and the passage of a law placing the construction and maintenance of all roads under the direction, control and management of competent and skillful persons in road matters, and that the present system of road supervisors should be abolished.

"Resolved, that this convention request our representatives in congress to join with the other representatives from the recently admitted states and the states soon to be admitted, in an effort to secure to each of these new states a grant of 500,000 acres of government land for each state, said land to be used for road purposes.

"Be it Resolved, by this convention that good roads are needed; further that it takes money to build them, that the people are already overburdened by useless taxation. that economy in every form of government is imperative.

"Resolved, that this state road convention does hereby memorialize the legislature of the state of Washington to enact a law creating an inheritance or succession tax on the estates of all persons who shall die possessed of estates of the value of $1000 and upwards. The money raised by this tax shall be placed in a fund to be known as the state road fund, and said fund shall be expended in building wagon roads in the state of Washington and for no other purpose.

"That after county roads have been established and opened for public travel, they shall not be changed or vacated except upon request of four-fifths of all qualified voters residing and owning property in the immediate vicinity thereof.

"Resolved, that in the appropriation of private property for road purposes, the same procedure be adopted, as far as practicable, as is used in the condemnation of private property by railroad corporations."

A LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE.

M. M. Godman presented the following resolution which was adopted, viz:

"Resolved, that this convention select a committee of five members hereof to draft and submit to the next legislature bills embodying the work of this convention. And said committee to gather and submit to the legislature all information pertaining to roads which such committee may be able to obtain from any source."

The president and secretary of the convention, J. Hannum Jones and F. S. Mussiter were added to this committee, on motion. The convention elected as the five members, M. M. Godman, of Columbia county; S. Hallett, of Spokane county; M. D. Egbert, of Pacific county; L. G. Shelton, of Mason county, and J. G. Megler, of Wahkiakum county.

This committee of seven met at the Hotel Olympia and organized by electing J. Hannum Jones chairman and F. S. Mussiter secretary. The work of the convention was tabulated and the committee will prepare six bills to present to the legislature, on the following subjects:

State and county roads.
Inheritance tax.
State and county road funds.
Tire bill.
Convict labor on roads.
Road engineers.

Messrs. Godman and Egbert were instructed to prepare the six bills and submit them to the full committee at the date when the memorial is drawn, which will be on the date prior to the meeting of the next legislature.

TAYLOR-WARE.

Marriage of a Prominent Young Couple In This City.

At the residence of the groom, on Wednesday evening last the marriage of Mr. Archie N. Taylor and Miss Grace M. Ware was solemnized, the Rev. Jonas Bushell, officiating.

The wedding was a very quiet affair, only a few friends of the contracting parties being invited. There were two groomsmen and two bridesmaids, Mr. Wm. J. Ware and Miss Ruth Taylor standing on the right, and Mr. Jesse Taylor and Miss Alice Ware on the left of the bride and groom.

The bride is a preposessing young woman, amiable, acco ed and held in high esteem by a large circle of young friends.

The groom has been connected with the public schools of the city for several years past and has proved himself a teacher of merit and ability, and a young man of exceptional character, whose worth is recognized and appreciated by all with whom he comes in contact.

THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER joins the friends of the young couple in well-wishes.

"Sinfire," a very interesting story by Julian Hawthorne, will be commenced in THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER January 5th.

Clallam and the Road Convention.

Clallam county took part in the state road convention at Olympia this week, says the Beaver Leader, being represented by some of the county officers. Some of the citizens of Clallam county are not fully alive to the needs of the county in the matter of road building But this is not the case with the Quillayute people, who next to their ranch improvements pay more attention to the opening and improvement of our county roads than to any other subject. Clallam county has large gravel banks in different parts of the county and these will some day be utilized to make solid, permanent roadways. Besides we have unlimited quantities of timber everywhere conveniently located to be used for puncheon or plank for roads and for the construction of the necessary bridges. The residents of the Quillayute will second all efforts to promote road building in Clallam county.

THE CITY GIVES AWAY

All of Its Valuable Wharf Privileges.

A SALARY ORDINANCE PASSED.

The Mayoralty Contest Case Will Be Heard Saturday Afternoon Next—Wharf Franchises Granted at Foot of Lincoln and Oak Streets—Franchise Asked for Wharf at Foot Tumwater Hill.

The city council held an unusually long session last Wednesday evening not adjourning until three o'clock Thursday morning. The meeting was by no means unproductive of results. No little surprise was created over the granting of wharf franchises, caused, doubtless, for the reason that it had been generally understood that the council was thoroughly imbued with the principle of the city owning, maintaining and operating a public wharf, and had declared it to be one of the aims of their official career to accomplished as much with the establishment of a public dock. Reasoning from the standpoint that it is human to err, generosity prompts the the conclusion that the council had been convinced its latter position was not inimical of public welfare.

Mayor Smith was in the chair for the first time in several months, having been absent in Washington. Councilman Krueger, Reid, Rose, Beam n Ristine were present.

Benton Embree was present in the interest of W. C. Garfield vs. McGill, mayoralty contest, to urge that the council set a day for hearing the case. The council set the time for hearing the contest on Saturday next at 2 p. m.

The following schedule of salaries for city officials was adopted: City treasurer, $1,000 per annum; attorney, $75 per month; engineer, $1,000 per annum; clerk, $1,900 per annum, the clerk to pay all extra clerical hire; health officer, $15 per month; tax collector, $50 per month; marshal, $75 per month; ex-officio tax collector, $900 per annum..

The ordinance was passed, provisioned as outlined in the foregoing.

Ordinance No. 199, granting to Lewis Levy or his assigns the right to construct and maintain a wharf at foot of Tumwater street, was read the first time.

The following resolution was adopted:

That all franchises granted from and after this date shall be published upon the condition that the franchisers consent to the payment of such publication to be filed with the city clerk.

ANGELES' RAILROAD.

Some Spicy Gossip About Local Railway Matters.

Mayor Norman R. Smith and M. J. Carrigan, two of the promotors of the projected railroad from Everett to Port Angeles, were in Seattle, Sunday evening and yesterday morning Mayor Smith took a steamer for his home at Angeles.

They were on their return from a trip to New York, and as a result report that in the spring something is going to drop in the way of a much desired railroad. They were in St. Paul on Thursday last, and their presence gave rise to the following article, which appeared in the News:

"The latest railroad scheme is the extension of the through line of the Great Northern from Everett to Port Angeles. Everett is the present terminus of that road, but the desire is to make an extension because of the tide-water advantages of Port Angeles, which is the first harbor on the Straits of Fuca, which form the entrance to Puget Sound. Both Everett and Port Angeles are in the deal, which is to build an independe line, consisting of eighteen miles of and forty-three miles of rail, to be as the Everett, Port Angeles Norman R. Smith, the mar Angeles, is in the city, an hand in the scheme, bu spirit seems to be M. J. Carrig same place, who arrived yesterday, and is stopping at the Merchants.

"'Port Angeles,' said Mr. Carrigan this morning, 'has the first and only available harbor this side of the ocean, e the entranne of Puget Sound. Shi from all countries stop there where have an anchorsge of 10 square mi and wait for steam to take them Sound to Tacoma, Seattle, Everett other points. As we now stand, we do nothing, but with a railroad we be strictly in it. It costs from $200 $400 to get a ship from Port Angeles Tacoma or any of the rest of those citi and if we had the cargo right the ready for the ships, they would not g any further.'"

A Serious Cut.

Rev. F. Hansen of the Lutheran church had his right thumb cut with an axe to such an extent that it was hanging by the skin on the palmar side (the bone being entirely severed). Dr. Strother was called, who nicely adjusted the severed end of the bone and otherwise attending to the dressing of the wound. The bone has united and th finger saved, thus giving to Mr. Hans almost as good a finger as it ever w with exception of being a little stiff.

INFLUENZA,

Or La Grippe, though occasionally epidemic, is always more or less prevalent. The best remedy for this complaint is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Last Spring, I was taken down with La Grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete. It is truly a wonderful medicine."—W. H. WILLIAMS, Crook City, S. D.

TRIAL BY ORDEAL.

Remarkable Story From India About Catching a Postal Thief.

The narrator of the following story some years ago had charge of a postal division on the western coast, parts of which had seldom been visited by a European officer. The people were for the most part simple country folk and very superstitious. One morning the narrator received information that a considerable sum of money, forming part of the contents of the mail from a head to a suboffice, had been stolen on the road. The whole affair was wrapped in mystery.

The only clew the police had been able to obtain was that one runner, whom we shall call Rama, had since the theft paid off certain debts in the village which had long pressed upon him, but there were no other suspicious circumstances, and the man had 10 years' good service. As a last resource it was determined to resort to trial by ordeal and for this purpose an aged Brahman, who was supposed to possess occult powers and to be in daily communion with the gods, was consulted and readily undertook to discover the thief. All the runners—a goodly array of sturdy Mahratta peasants—were summoned to the office, and under the guidance of a cheyla, or disciple, of the old Brahman we all proceeded to a small deserted temple of Mahadeo, situated at some distance from the village.

It was a desolate spot and bore an evil reputation. The temple, owing to some act of desecration in the past, had been abandoned and was almost buried among weeds and tangled brushwood.

The hour selected was about 6 p. m., and the long twilight shadows gave the place a weird, uncanny look. The old Brahman was awaiting us, and as we approached appeared to be busy muttering incantations. The runners all seemed to be more or less under the spell of the hour, but the look of real fright in Rama's face was quite distinct. The Brahman, having finished his incantations, rose and addressing the men said:

"You are about to face the gods. To the innocent the trial will be nothing, but to the guilty much. In the temple a magic wand has been placed on the altar. Each of you must go in by turns, take up the wand and turn round three times, repeating the name of Mahadeo. The wand will stick to the hand of the guilty one." By this time it was nearly dark. I glanced in through the door of the temple. A solitary oil buttee threw a fitful light on the altar, on which an ordinary bamboo stick about two feet long reposed among grains of uncooked rice and nut limes, the whole sprinkled with red powder.

A curtain was drawn across the door, and the men entered one at a time. As each one appeared the Brahman seized his hands and raised them to his forehead, and then allowed them to pass on and join his fellows. Coming to Rama, he went through the same pantomime, but instead of allowing him to pass on bade him stand aside. When the last man had gone through the ordeal the Brahman turned to Rama and said quietly:

"Tell the sahib how you stole the money."

"To my utter amazement," continues the writer, "Rama fell on his knees, confessed that he was the thief, and offered to show where he had hidden the balance of the money. He had succeeded in opening the mail bag without seriously disturbing the seals. The postmaster had not really examined them and so their having been manipulated had escaped notice. Needless to say, the Brahman was rewarded and poor Rama was sent to repent at leisure in the district jail."

Now the natural question is: "How was it done?" Very simply. The temple, the lonely glen, the uncanny hour, the incantations, all were merely accessories to appeal to the superstitions of the ignorant peasants. The "magic wand" was thickly smeared with strongly scented sandalwood oil. Rama's guilty conscience prevented him from touhcing it, as he firmly believed the wand would stick to his hands, and his of course was the only hand that did not smell of oil.—Times of India.

Overdressed For His Part.

A justice of the peace, who exercised the functions of that office in a portion of the state where such officials are permitted great latitude, had before him a suspicious character arraigned upon a charge of vagrancy.

The prisoner, who was quite well dressed, secured the services of a lawyer in court to defend him. The man pleaded not guilty, and the lawyer in concluding his remarks said:

"What, your honor, that man a vagrant? Oh, no! I insist upon his discharge. Why, see the good clothes he is wearing!"

"Yes, I see them," replied the justice, "and in consequence of their excellent condition I shall discharge him on the charge of vagrancy and bind him over for simple larceny."—New York Herald.

Uses For Rats.

Of all living things rats seem to be among the most repulsive, and when dead what can be their use? But even they are the subjects of production in the industrial arts. The fur is valuable and finds a ready sale. The skins make a superior glove—the gant de rat—and are specially used for the thumbs of kid gloves, because the skin of the rat is strong and elastic. The thigh bones were formerly valued as toothpicks for clubs, but are now out of fashion, while the tendons and bones are boiled up to make the gelatin wrappers for bonbons.—North American Review.

A Battered Legend.

A hotel in Switzerland bore on one of its walls the time honored inscription, "Hospes, salve!" ("Welcome, stranger!") After rebuilding the legend had to be restored, but the painter, who must have had some experience as a traveler, made a very slight alteration in one of the words, and caused it to read, "Hospes, solve!" ("Pay, stranger!") — San Francisco Argonaut.

THE ROAD CONVENTION.

In another column will be found the resolutions which were the result of the work of the state road convention of last week.

In all the proceedings leading up to these resolutions and in their consideration the Clallam county delegation took an active part.

Many schemes were presented, and many discussed very thoroughly only to be defeated. Amongst the latter number, the most important was the plan offered by J. Hannum Jones, the president of the convention, to bond the state for $5,000,000, the proceeds of which should be loaned to the counties for road and irrigation purposes. The eastern Washington delegates were mainly opposed to this, as the most of the money would be spent in western Washington. And then a deep feeling against the further issuance of bonds was found to exist.

A unique scheme was presented by Anthony O'Brien, of Clallam county. It was:

"The government to issue treasury notes or greenbacks to states, the states to pay one per cent. per annum interest thereon.

"The amount of this issue to be determined by the relative population of the states, the basis to be about $50 per cap[illegible].

"The states to lend this to the counties in proportion to the population, the counties to pay 2 per cent. interest on the same.

"The money so received to be deposited in the various county treasuries and expended under the direction of county commissioners.

"T[illegible] this convention adopt a memor[illegible] to [illegible]ess praying for legislation prov[illegible] the carrying into effect of the foreg[illegible] propositions and that we pray the legislature to adopt a similar memorial."

The resolutions found their way "on the table."

Other propositions also submitted [illegible]y Mr. O'Brien, on behalf of the [illegible]lallam county delegation provided [illegible]r the abolition of contract labor [illegible] county roads; and for the build[illegible]g of plank and gravel roads in [illegible]estern Washington gravel to be [illegible]sed where handy and where it was not available to use plank. The plan also authorized the counties to purchase portable sawmills to cut plank. These propositions were [illegible]aid on the table, as the resolution, [illegible]ommittee regarded them out of t[illegible] regular line of the convention's wo[illegible]. Mr. Knapman submitted dur[illegible] the closing hours of the convent[illegible], a proposition providing for the o[illegible]nization of clubs to agitate ad[illegible]ding—and authorizing the [illegible]r[illegible] delegations to take up the [illegible]ork. This met the fate of all other schemes submitted at a time when all were thinking more about the fleeting of time than of county roads.

Take it all in all the convention was an able body. There were many of the prominent men of the state present and participating.

While their work was a failure [illegible] many respects the campaign of [illegible]ducation has commenced, and only one road convention has been held.

THE way some of those Republican papers, that had mouthed so loudly about the impeachment of President Cleveland for making war without the authority of Congress, are taking water, is a caution.

To them the President's message and Minister Willis' instructions were a sad disappointment. But in this Grandma Hoar is with them. It is said she resembled a cur caught in a neighbor's sheep yard when the message was being read.

NEW SHIPPING COMMISSIONER.

Senator Jacob T. Eshelman was on Saturday, last, appointed United States Shipping Commissioner for the district of Puget Sound.

While Clallam county had an applicant for this position in the person of Joseph Ballinger, whose aspirations all hereabouts would liked to have seen gratified, it is no reflection on any one to state that a better man upon whom to bestow honor than Senator Eshelman does not live anywhere.

That clever journalist and author, Will L. Vischer, writing for his beautiful little souvenir of the third legislature of Washington has to say of this brilliant senator the following:

"A man in the prime of mental and physical vigor and a splendid specimen of American citizenship; a man whom to know is to admire, and whose logic is of the kind which carries conviction; of pure aud spotless reputation, learned and eloquent, a typical senator, such an individual is Jacob T. Eshelman, of North Yakima, one of the leading Democrats in the upper house of Washington's legislature. Mr. Eshelman has lived more than two score years, having been born near Memphis, Missouri, May 8, 1852. Leaving the land of his birth at the age of twenty-four he came west to the Pacific coast, locating in the Golden State, where as a schoolmaster, he taught the young idea various things.

"He came north to Washington in 1878 and located in Klickitat county, where he resided until November, 1887. He then moved to North Yakima to take charge of the Christian church. He has been chief clerk of the Yakima land office, was a distinguished member of the state constitutional convention, and is a hold over from the second senate. No man in the state stands higher in the estimation of his constituents than does Senator Eshelman, and no district in the state has an abler or more conscientious representative."

Senator Eshelman was temporary chairman of the last Democratic state convention, where, it will be remembered, his eloquent tongue spoke for peace.

INHERITANCE TAX.

To the Hon. T. C. Van Epps, of Olympia, credit is due for the inheritance tax scheme, recommended for adoption by the recent state road convention at Olympia. This is the best and most far-reaching in its results of all the propositions accepted by the convention. That great good will come of it can not be questioned.

New York state adopted the inheritance tax about seven years ago, and its operation has more than pleased its most sanguine friends, while now it has no enemies. Through this tax alone there was paid in the New York exchequer at Albany for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, more than $3,000,000, and but once since the year of its adoption has the annual revenue derived been less than $1,000,000.

There is no reason in the world why a revenue of from a quarter to half a million dollars annually should not find its way into a state road fund, through the foresight of Mr. Van Epps.

A DEAD JOURNALIST.

Many friends of Major Barton will read the chronicling of his death at an age when life's best work is looked for, with feelings of great sadness. Especially will this be the case with those of his profession, who had learned to admire his journalistic genius and his uncompromising fearlessness. Although a strong Republican in faith, Major Barton was controlled by no click or caucus. He acknowledged the supreme authority of no leader. His antipathy for machines has led many a party associate to grief.

It were well had we more like Major Barton. May his ashes rest in peace, and his soul attain the reward earned but not received on earth, is the prayer of his craft.

Brooklyn Republicans are by the ear. Their newly elected mayor has tendered the best office within his gift to a supporter of President Cleveland. Probably this light sheds intelligence on the cause of the defeat of "Billy" McLaughlin.

LET action on the Wilson bill be speedy. These are the times when the burden of taxation should be made as light as possible, republican sophistry to the contrary, notwithstanding.

MAJOR BARTON DEAD.

The Brilliant Journalist Succumbs to the Inevitable—His Career.

Major C. M. Barton, one of the best known newspaper men in the Northwest died Saturday last at Oswego, a suburb of Portland, Ore. He had been ill for about two years, and recently went to the home of his son-in-law, H. L. Gill, at Oswego, where he died. He was prominent in the G. A. R. and Knights of Phythias. The remains were taken to Tacoma for interment.

Major Barton became famous when editor of the National Republican by a fight for life had with two brothers from Venezuela whom his paper criticized very severely and which the doughty journalist refused to retract. The eldest of the two brothers was killed in the encounter, but it subsequently developed that the fatal bullet was fired by his brother, who meant it for Barton. Major Barton was shot through and through twice, but was at work again in three weeks.

Barton was well liked and much admired by all who knew him.

[Clarence M. Barton was 54 years old, was one of the best-known newspaper men in the United States. For many years he was connected with newspapers in Washington City and Philadelphia, being at one time managing editor of the Daily National Republican, in the former city. He came to this state ten years ago, and was for several years city editor of the Tacoma Ledger. Afterward he was traveling correspondent of the Portland Oregonian for a year. During the Ferry campaign of 1889, he took the stump for the Republican ticket, and later founded the Olympia Tribune, an evening paper, which he afterward sold, to be consolidated with the Olympian. At one time he was Olympia correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer. He was chief clerk of the first and second state senates, and published three volumes of the "Manuel of Washington," better known as "Barton's Handbook."]

Christmas Morning.

At the Catholic church Father Fay celebrated mass at midnight, and gave instructions regarding the festival.

The interior of the church was decorated with fresh evergreens intertwined with crosses, wreaths and flowers and lighted with scores of candles about the altar, was crowded to its utmost capacity with worshippers and spectators and presented a brilliant spectacle with happiness beaming on many faces.

Christmas hymns were rendered by youthful voices under the supervision of Mr. Sidney Bradley at the organ loaned for the occasion by the mayor elect of the city.

Returns from the East.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Carrigan and child returned from an extended eastern trip last Wednesday.

During Mr. Carrigan's absence much of his time has been spent in New York and Washington, laboring for local enterprises and in the interest of the First National Bank.

Mr. Carrigan feels confident and hopeful over the prospects for the building of the Everett and Port Angeles railway next year, believing that capital can easily be satisfied that the venture will prove profitable.

MINORS MAY PROVE UP.

Commissioner Lamoreux Decides In Favor of Minors.

Register W. D. O'Toole, who made a fight for the minors in connection with Port Angeles townsite lots, has won the battle, as is shown by the following telegram received last night from General Land Commissioner Lamoreux, reading:

"Minors not disqualified from making proof upon Port Angeles town lots.",

For nearly ten weeks the matter has been undecided. Meanwhile Register O'Toole has maintained that the young people who filed on the lots in good faith would not be decided against. Information was received by the register in the latter part of October that 300 minors had been induced to build houses and make improvements upon lots in the reservation, with the assurance that they would be allowed under the statute to prove up and obtain title. In all these cases these minors acted in good faith and were in all instances, so far as known, old enough to earn their living, and by proof offer to show that they were actually living on the lots and supporting themselves.

After investigating the matter thoroughly and consulting witn the district attorney the register delivered his opinion to the effect that minors could prove up and gain title, but in order to settle the matter conclusively he ordered that final proof be suspended until Commissioner Lamoreux could pass upon the question. In a letter dated December 7, to Mr. Lamoreux, Register O'Toole said:

"Being in doubt as to the right of these parties and to the proper construction of the statute, which uses the term 'any person,' I have suspended proof until further instructions. I take the liberty of stating that their cases are deserving of great sympathy, and recommend them to your favorable consideration."

The telegram received last night confirms the register's position, and the final proofs will be passed as soon as possible.

The sale of lots begins January 1, and Register O'Toole, Receiver Lyon and Clerk F. H. Shoals will go to Port Angeles next Sunday to superintend the transactions.

A very interesting and romatic story written by that popular author Julian Hawthorne, is in our hands and will be commenced January 5th.

It is understood that Dr. J. B. Cleary of East Clallam, will soon put a freighting outfit on the road between that place and the Quillayute. Such an enterprise ought to be profitable and would be a great improvement over the old-time packing arrangement.

Two four-ox freight teams will soon be put on the road by the Forks parties.

The Quillayute is, so we have frequently been led to remark, all right, and it is only a question of a months when we will be riding in a comfortable stage coach or the blind baggage of a passenger can.

Lesure & Stubbs are arranging to build a hotel on M. Whittier's place. They will also start a freighting outfit, and propose to deliver goods from Clallam to Forks for 1¼ cents per pound. They will use eight head of cattle in two teams. Mr. Lesure is an expert with cattle and knows what he can do.

THE MINE SORCERER.

MALAY FAKIRS WHO WORK THE IGNORANT AND SUPERSTITIOUS.

They Are Not So Potent as They Were Some Years Ago—Ceremonies Observed by the Pawang In Invoking the Hantu, or Tutelary Spirit, of the Mine.

Miners in all countries have been noted for their superstitious beliefs as to various matters affecting their good or ill luck. Soothsayers, sorcerers, or at least lode finders, were in past ages trusted to secure the satisfactory results which are now nowadays more reasonably hoped for on the report of the mining expert and engineer. The latest survival of belief in the occult powers of the "medicine man" or sorcerer is probably to be found in the Malay peninsula, which contains the most important tin workings yet known to exist. The individual who thus guides his employers to fortune, or the reverse, is known as a pawang.

Until the practical termination of independent Malay rule throughout the major portion of the peninsula, about 19 years ago, the pawang was a recognized member of every mining staff, and recognized not only by the mine owners but by the petty chiefs, who alternately encouraged or obstructed mining enterprise.

So potent was he that he could foretell the prospects of a mine, levy fines (which went into his own pocket), direct the offering up of animal sacrifices and enforce rules respecting the workings of a mine which but for him would have been simply ridiculed by the miners. Although in many districts his pretensions are now discredited, he still lingers on, superstition with the existing generation of miners having yet a firm hold in the more remote districts.

The pawang may or may not be the hereditary successor of a predecessor. In some cases he is self made, and attains his position by a few lucky forecasts as to the value of a projected mine. In a territory where, as is sometimes said, "If you dig up the highway, you are sure to find tin," the supernaturally gifted prospector has a tolerably easy task. Not that tin is always found when a hole is sunk. But a moderate acquaintance with the usual indications is quite sufficient. Chinese of limited means do not often trouble a pawang in the initiatory stages. But when the mine—"stream tin," or tin sand, with an overburden of 10 or 20 feet earth and gravel—is fairly started, the pawang suggests that he alone knows how to keep good luck in sight. Sometimes he is politely informed that his services are not wanted, and he leaves in wrath, predicting all sorts of disaster to the unbelieving towkay or manager. Upon the hole, however, he manages to get his y.

fine physical appearance is indisable. When engaged in any duty, as invoking spirits or offering sacri- is allowed to assume only one itions—with his hands resting or with them clasped behind one is allowed to wear a e mine. As in the case of phor rs in Formosa and gutta rcha hunters in Malaya, he uses a peculiar vocabulary. Thus cats, elephants, tigers, buffaloes, etc., must not be mentioned by their usual designation, or are such animals (tigers unfortutely sometimes prove unpleasant extions) ever allowed upon a mine. haps the oddest article in the pag's "index expurgatorius" is the fruit or lemon, which under no circstances may be brought to a mine, ould the juice be thrown into the ater dire results are dreaded. ton, glass and earthenware or thed spear or kris are equally hema, all the articles mentioned beoffensive to the hantu or spirits ch haunt the mine.

Assuming that the pawang is engaged a mine owner at a fee varying from 5 to £30, his first business is to erect a latform or altar, constructed of a speial kind of wood. The four branches, which serve as supports, have the bark peeled off for about 4½ feet from the ground to where the twigs begin. The leaves on the latter are not removed. A square platform, measuring 15 inches each way, of peeled sticks is fixed to these supports at about three feet from he ground. A foot above this comes a iling round three sides of the platrm, while a railed ladder with four igs reaches from the open side of the tform to the ground. Fringes of comut ornament the railing, and the ole construction is bound together th creepers, rattan, however, being bidden. Upon it offerings are laid, he pawang invokes the hantu or elary spirit of the mine to bless it with good fortune. A bag of tin sand from the first washing is the fee paid for this service.

Sometimes a cheaper kind of altar is made by placing in the ground a single peeled stick with its upper end split in four, upon which is placed the little platform above described. The next process is to hang an ancha, or square frame, about 18 inches each way in the smelting house just under the eaves of the roof. This serves as an interior altar, upon which the miners place their offerings to the hantu. The accurate hanging up of the ancha is a matter of special care.

Notice is hereby given that at ten o'clock on the 1st day of January, 1894, the public sale of lots in the unsold portion of the townsite of Port Angeles, washington, will be begun at the court house therein and continued from day to day until all the lots and parcels in said townsite that are subject to sale at public outcry shall have been sold or offered for sale. Port Angeles is situated upon the straits of San Juan De Fuca, Clallam county, in the north-western portion of the state of washington, and was reserved as a government townsite in 1863 by order of President Lincoln. The sale of the unsold portion of said townsite was provided for by act of Congress of March 3d, 1891, 26 stat, 879, and August 5, 1893, 27 stat. 360, and said portion comprises thirty-one hundred and forty seven and 31-100 acres surveyed into 7008 urban and suburban lots and parcels. The majority of the urban lots are fifty by one hundred-forty feet in size, while the suburban lots contain an average of eight and one half acres. The sale will be conducted by the Register and Receiver of the Seattle land office, and all lots and parcels will be offered singly to the highest bidder for cash, except those lots which may be purchased at private sale prior to the date of public sale by the parties entitled thereto, but no bid will be received for less than the appraised value for any lot or parcel. Notice is hereby given to each and every person claiming by the terms of the acts of Congress of August 5, 1892, a preference right to purchase lots at private entry at their appraised value prior to the day of public sale, that he must publish notice once a week for six consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in Port Angeles of his intention to avail himself of such rights and that he will make proof at a specified time touching such residence and improvements before the Register and Receiver at the Seattle land office or other officer authorized to take proof in homestead cases. Said proof must consist of the testimony of the claimant corroborsted by the testimony of two witnesses, stating that the claimant had individually established residence upon one lot and had made valuable improvements upon one such additional lot prior to July 5, 1893, and that he had maintained such residence and improvements up to the date of his application to purchase, and that title to said improvements still remain vested in him. The foregoing to be accompanied by proof of the publication required. Notice is futher given that the aforesaid proof must be made in time to be forwarded to, and passed upon by the local officers at Seattle prior to the day of public sale. FARM FIELD AND GARDEN

DOMESTIC FERTILIZERS BEST.

A Virginia Farmer Claims That These Are Cheapest and Most Durable.

Good chemical authority tells us that an acre of wheat yielding 18 bushels of grain abstracts from the soil for the grain alone, to say nothing of the straw, the following amounts of important mineral elements: Phosphoric acid, 17 pounds; potash, 18; soda, 6; lime, 16; magnesia, 13; chlorine, 1; sulphuric acid, 2. Fractions are omitted for the sake of simplicity. A Virginia correspondent of The Country Gentleman writes:

Assuming these data to be approximately correct, how shall the farmer fertilize the soil in order to secure this amount of grain, prevent depletion and at the same time do it in the most economical way? This is an important, practical question, and the practical farmer desires a practical rather than a scientific answer. Are there domestic sources of these elements, and are they cheap or best?

Animal manures, wood ashes, common salt, bones and land plaster will furnish all these elements (and more) in quantities ample for all the requirements of any crop. Of these, all but the salt and plaster are to be had from the farm. We contend, too, that they can be had in quantity great enough for the demand at less cost than the equivalents can be bought for in the market.

Wood ashes give us potash, soda, lime and magnesia; salt yields chlorine and soda; plaster supplies sulphuric acid and lime, and bones contain a high per cent of phosphoric acid, to say nothing of other useful parts. To narrow it down still more, wood ashes and salt alone will insure a good yield of wheat on almost any medium farm land.

Farms containing rough forest land have the source of ashes in ample quantity. There is no better or more durable fertilizer than wood ashes. Salt is cheap, and almost all the Atlantic coast lands need it. A very small application is enough.

Animal manures, mixed with litter, refuse hay, sweepings and other waste material about a place, ought to accumulate in great quantity. Careful husbanding of the domestic resources of manure will in most cases render the farmer independent of the factories.

The Texas Cattle Fever.

The so called Texas cattle fever is one that is not confined to the borders of that state, but extends to many other parts of the country. The United States bureau of animal industry has been examining the matter, and in the report for 1892 it is claimed that the disease is one that is limited by latitude and is a disease of the blood which destroys the red corpuscles. The disease is caused largely by the peculiar condition of the blood of the animal, and when the blood filled with bad matter that has been from the food and surroundings mal is just in the stage to con- fever. A small disease para- l, and the whole mischief comes from . s.

If the disease is inoculated into the blood of strong, healthy cattle, they will have the fever also, but it is carried from cattle to cattle by means of the small ticks and flies that suck the blood from the animals. The infection is caused in this way and not from breathing infected air. Consequently animals that are in the neighborhood of affected ttle are pretty apt to get the disease having the ticks light on them. etimes the ticks lodge on the cattle breed young ones, which communi- he disease as they grow up. The way to stamp out the disease is to er e systems of the animals in ex- ondition and then to isolate ed by the fever.

Bacon In a Warm Climate.

To prepare bacon for long keeping in the south very much more care is required from the time of the killing up to the time of storing away than is necessary in states farther north. Thoroughly expelling the animal heat before salting is indispensable, and hogs should not be butchered except on cold days.

The salting must be heavy to preserve the meat, but no previous precaution will be of any avail unless the dry meats, such as hams, shoulders and middles, are canvased early in such a manner as to make them perfectly fly proof. Each piece should be well wrapped in coarse paper and be tightly sewed up in heavy cotton cloth, cut to fit it, and then dipped in a thick colored lime wash and hung in as dry and cool a place as possible. Smoking and sprinkling with pepper are both good for a finish in uring, but are no protection against ce from flies.

A DIPLOMATIC BOY.

His Reformation Was Sudden and Many Sided and Served His Purpose.

I have a little son 8 years old. He is smart and bright, and for mischievousness I think can't be beaten. I was sitting in a room one day reading and smoking, when he came sauntering up to me with the forefinger of his left hand in his mouth. I thought at the time that there was something wrong, but said nothing with regard to the same.

"Pa," he said after awhile, "I didn't get one demerit in school today."

"You didn't, Willie?" I interrogated, throwing a rather fierce look upon him. "Well, I'm sure that's a good showing."

"Yes, and I carried a bucket of coal up for Kate after school," he went on, still keeping that finger in his mouth.

"Why, you are getting very considerate," I returned.

"Yes, and I brushed your coat all off nice and clean."

"No, Willie; you didn't do that?" I asked, looking frowningly at him, for I knew he had been up to something.

"Yes, I did, pa, and I lit the gas in ma's room for her."

"Well, now."

"And I shined your best shoes until they glitter like Sister Ella's looking glass."

"Is that so? What else have you done?"

"Well, I studied all my lessons in school, got out at the regular time, said 'yes, sir,' to Uncle John and helped the hostler around the stable."

"Why, what is the matter with you? Are you going to get sick!"

"No, sir," he replied, twisting around a trifle, "but I'm going to be a better boy—at least for a while."

"You are? Well, I'm glad to hear that."

There was a short pause, and then he said: "Here, pa, are two cigars for you. I bought them with my own spending money. I'll buy you a boxful when I get money enough."

At this juncture he placed both little arms around my neck and sobbed aloud.

"Oh, pa," he asked, "do you like your little boy?"

"Why, of course I do," I replied, getting alarmed. "Are you ill?"

"No, but I've got something to tell you. Would you keep your little Willie from pain?"

"Certainly I would. Tell me what is the matter, my son?"

"All right, pa, I will—dear, good, old pa. This morning Billy Button, Tommy Todd and myself were playing ball, and I couldn't catch very well, so I went and got your brand new stovepipe hat and caught with that. Pa, that hat must be made of awful poor stuff, for the first fly ball went clear through it, knocking the roof out. But never mind, I'll buy you another one," clasping me tighter as I essayed to rise, "and one gooder'n that too!"

What could I do?—Boston Courier.

Paderewski as a Hard Worker.

To be a pet of the public sometimes has its disadvantages. M. Paderewski, for instance, keeps up his reputation only at the cost of tremendous efforts. To an interviewer for Black and White he has confided the fact that he practices at the piano often for 15 or 16 hours a day. Once, in New York, he had to work up eight entirely distinct programmes in little over as many days, and then it was a case of 17 hours' practice daily. One must always be at it, he explains, to keep the fingers right and the memory active. The work is certainly tiring, and M. Paderewski considers that playing billiards—a game he is very fond of—has saved his life by affording him the necessary relief from his arduous work.

Those crashing blows of his on the piano are not, as some might imagine, made with the closed fist. Sometimes they are done with the third finger stiffened out, sometimes with the thumb sideways. He seems to see nothing wonderful in the effect produced, although his hands are so delicate that an ordinarily firm shake makes him wince. It is true that he has a forearm such as a professional strong man might envy, so perfect is it in its muscular development.—London Daily News.

Thought He Could Jump.

A young man the other day got an umbrella where the bottle got the cork—in the nock. This young man is one of those fellows who can readily explain to you that nothing that any one else can do is really as difficult as it appears. He joined a local gymnasium not long ago, and after watching the members once or twice going through their exercises came away with the feeling that he was a full fledged athlete. Walking on East Court street alongside of the jail, he espied two women ahead of him walking abreast and carrying a basket of freshly washed clothes between them. The street being narrow at this point, they took up the full width. The young man, being in a hurry, thought he could save time by jumping over the basket, but his calculation was not acute enough, and he kicked some of the wash off. After walking a few steps he turned around to ascertain the result of his maneuver and was just in time to see an umbrella hurled at him by the unerring aim of an enraged woman. He tried to dodge, but was too slow.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Ancient Stationers.

In mediæval times the stationarius, or stationer, held official connection with a university and sold at his stall, or station, the books written or copied by the librarius, or book writer. Such is the origin of the modern term stationer, one who now keeps for sale implements of such service, and not usually the productions of literary persons.—Harper's Bazar.

A Lost Bride.

An absentminded groom in Rome, Ga., forgot that he was to be married the other day, and when the time for the ceremony arrived he was not present. An examination showed that he had overslept himself. He apologized, but the father of the bride refused to accept him as a son-in-law, and the engagement was broken.—Detroit Free Press.

FLOWER SUPERSTITIONS.

Maidens' Barometers For Divining the Depths of Their Sweethearts' Love.

It is singular to see how many meaningless ceremonies are now practiced by young women—ceremonies which were formerly used in earnest as love charms or incantations. Most of these have an amatory origin, and in connection with not a few certain flowers are used, presumably as a means of foretelling the future. In several parts of New England when a young lady expects a visit from her lover she will pluck a marigold, take it in her hand when he arrives and carry it until the end of his visit, when from its fresh or faded condition she will judge of the strength of his affection.

A German girl, after having been called on by her lover, will put a star flower or dandelion in water and leave it there until his next visit, drawing an omen from its condition, while a Spanish maiden will take a moss rosebud, wear it on her breast, and if it expands to become a perfect flower the omen is considered exceedingly fortunate. A superstition of the same kind is shown by the East Indian maiden who places a poppy in her hair. In England the primrose is used for the same purpose, and in country districts of New England the spikes of the rib wort plantain are taken, wrapped in dock leaves, placed beneath a stone, and if the next day signs of new buds appear the omen is considered happy.

In France young ladies desirous of ascertaining the extent of a lover's affection take the common daisy and pull off its leaves one by one, with the question, "Does he love me? Does he love me little? Does he love me much? Does he love me with all his soul?" Marguerite in "Faust" uses the common blue bottle with similar questions. In England the ash leaf is sometimes employed to ascertain the faithfulness of an absent lover, and the Irish maiden learns of her future by putting a shamrock in her shoe, after which she walks abroad, and the first man she meets or one of his name will be her husband.—New York Advertiser.

Some New York Breakfasts.

Nearly every German bakery on Third avenue serves breakfast and luncheon to the furnished room population of the east side. Some serve eggs and cold meats, coffee, tea and chocolate. The majority, however, provide only coffee, tea, rolls and cakes. Nine out of ten of the customers take coffee and cake. The latter is not the French or American kind. It consists of four varieties dear to the German palate—apple, peach, prune and sugar. The last named is also called cinnamon. It is made of bread dough on the upper surface of which is spread some butter, sugar and cinnamon. Then it is baked hard.

The peach and apple cakes are made of thinly rolled bread dough, surmounted by slices of apples or peaches, as the case may be. When a little butter and sugar have been placed between the slices, the baker has approached as near perfection as possible. The dough of the prune cake is made like the other and covered thickly with mashed stewed prunes.

In the best bakeries a slice of any of these cakes from four to five inches square is sold for 5 cents. A good cup of coffee or tea with milk and sugar costs the same. Those who like light and sweet breakfasts can thus be satisfied for 10 cents. Probably 5,000 east siders eat such breakfasts in the bakeries every morning.—New York Sun.

The Origin of Starching.

The course of history carries us back no further than the year 1564 for the origin of starching in London. It was in that year that Mistress Van der Plasse came with her husband from Flanders to the English metropolis "for their greater safety," and there professed herself a starcher. The best housewives of the time were not long in discovering the excellent whiteness of the "Dutch linen," as it was called, and Mistress Plasse soon had plenty of good paying clients. Some of these began to send her ruffs of lawn to starch, which she did so excellently well that it became a saying that if any one sent her a ruff made of a spider's web she would be able to starch it. So greatly did her reputation grow that fashionable dames went to her to learn the art and mystery of starching, for which they gladly paid a premium of £4 or £5, and for the secret of seething starch they paid gladly a farther sum of 20 shillings.—New York World.

A Hair Splitting Bishop.

It is recorded of a certain hair splitting English bishop, who was accustomed to compose his "charges" in the train, and whose desk was always placed opposite to him, that he invariably treated it as though it were a living vis-a-vis. The train being very full on one occasion, a would be passenger inquired if this place was taken, and the bishop, with his sunniest smile, expressed regret that there was no room. "I don't think that was quite right, my lord," said one of his fellow passengers. "What was not right?" inquired his lordship urbanely. "To say that the place was taken." "Pardon me, I did not say that it was taken; I was particularly careful to use the word 'occupied.'"—San Francisco Argonaut.

He Was a Senator.

Senator Allen of Nebraska is a big, burly man who looks like a prosperous dealer in live stock. Shortly after his arrival in Washington he was stopped at the door of the senate chamber by a new doorkeeper, who informed him that no one save senators was allowed on the floor. Mr. Allen smiled sadly, waved his hand and said: "Very well, sonny, I'm a senator. I don't look it, I know, but I am, just the same," and passed into the sacred precincts.—Chicago Herald.

Her Preference.

"How is it your little baby sister goes to sleep as soon as your father takes her?"

Little Four-year old—I 'spec' it's 'cause she'd rather do that than stay awake and hear him sing.—Bean Monde.

A Practical Throw Out.

In a first class carriage in Germany an Englishman was observed to be constantly putting his head out of the window. The train was going fast, and a sudden gust of wind blew off his hat. He at once took down his hat box and hurled it after his hat. Then he sat down and smiled on his fellow passengers, but, of course, did not speak. The Germans roared with laughter, and one of them exclaimed:

"You do not expect your hat box to bring back your hat, do you?"

"I do," said the Englishman. "No name on the hat—full name and hotel address on the box. They'll be found together, and I shall get both. Do you see now?"

Then those Germans subsided and said they always had considered the English a great and practical nation.—London Tit-Bits.

Helen Virginia.

A good story is told upon a Washington woman who now makes her home in Colorado. With evidently no thought as to the curious sound of the combination if spoken quickly, she has called her oldest child Helen Virginia. Not long ago upon a visit to this city she proudly brought her young daughter in to see an old friend. "What have you called your daughter?" queried the visitor. "Helen Virginia," was the complacent reply. "Ah, and what do you call her in Colorado?" was the unexpected but very natural response.—Kate Field's Washington.

Women at the Polls.

"Do unmarried women possess the ballot in this country?" asked the English tourist.

"Not to any great extent," replied the native. "In Wyoming women are allowed to vote, and in a few other states they vote on school questions."

"Don't they vote in Pennsylvania at all?"

"No."

"That's odd. I certainly heard some one speak of the maiden vote the other day."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Velvet Shoes.

While enjoying the comfortable prettiness of a tea gown the social dame or demoiselle now incases her feet in velvet shoes. They are to be had in all art shades, and fancy may choose from rare olives, rich sapphires, bronzes, old blues, porcelain pinks, sunbeam tints and leaf tones.—New York Press.

A woman wearing stays as loosely as is possible for such articles to be worn exerts a pressure of 40 pounds on the organs which they compress. Such figures in cold print are startling.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from forty minutes to half a day, leaving me exhausted; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."
