THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

VOL. 6. NO. 5. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, MAY 31, 1895. PRICE FIVE CENTS

THE SALMON CANNERY

Has Been Sold to Astoria Who Will

PLACE IT IN OPERATION AT ONCE.

The New Owners Propose to Thoroughly Investigate as to the Commercial Value of the Various Food Fish Abounding in These Waters—If Satisfactory An Important Industry Will Be Established Here.

The salmon cannery situated at the head of the bay has been sold by Mrs Mary Easter to Mr. J. W. Hume, of Astoria, Ore., who represents a number of Astorians who will associate themselves together for the purpose of operating the cannery.

The transaction was effected last Wednesday, the consideration being $6000. Mr. J. W. Hume, the representative of these gentlemen, who personally superintended the purchase, was seen by a representative of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER and very cheerfully unfolded the future plans of himself and associates.

"Yes, I have purchased the salmon cannery," said Mr. Hume. Continuing he said:

"I represent a number of Astorians who will associate themselves together and incorporate a company for the purpose of operating the cannery, among whom are Messrs. J. O. Hawthorn, and Jno. Fox, president of the Astoria Iron Works. The venture is purely experimental. The purpose is to make a thorough investigation as to the food fish abounding in these waters, so as to definitely ascertain the commercial quality and quantity of the various schools. By some who presume themselves experienced fishermen, we are told that salmon do not school in sufficient quantities to justify the operation of a cannery at this point; while others, presuming equal information on the subject, stoutly maintain diametrically an opposite opinion. And as I am not, neither are my associates, convinced that the latter are right, we propose to make a practical demonstration of the matter as outlined in the foregoing as that alone can satisfy us. While salmon is the principal food fish sought by us, we certainly will not confine our operations solely to that variety of fish. We will examine the halibut and cod banks, and I feel assured, from what I know of the excellent quality of that delicious food fish that an industry of considerable magnitude can be developed in the preparation and the preservation of these fish for shipment to the Eastern markets where they will be a rare delicacy. I am told there are inexhaustible quantities of herring and sardines in these waters. If this is true, and it undoubtedly is, an important industry can be developed, as these varieties of fish have a recognized commercial value the world over."

"And the canning of clams," continued Mr. Hume, "will receive our attention. I am satisfied, if clams abound in sufficient quantities here, that a large and profitable business can be developed in preserving and canning these bivalves for the market.

"I will return to Astoria to-morrow (Thursday), and upon my return the company will at once be incorporated, and I confidently expect to be able to return to Port Angeles within ten days, prepared to begin active operations."

Another New Township.

To whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that township 31 north, range 12 west has been surveyed, and that the plat of said survey will be filed in this office, at Seattle Wash., on Friday, June 28th, 1895, at the hour of 9 o'clock, a. m., and that on and after said date this office will be prepared to receive applications for entry to said lands.

GRESHAM IS DEAD.

A Brilliant Public Career Is Terminated.

THE SOLDIER, JURIST, STATESMAN.

Beloved By a Nation That Mourns the Death of One of Her Most Patriotic Sons—Brief Sketch of His Varied and Brilliant Public Career—The Exclusion from the Use of the Mails of the Lottery Co.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 28.—Secretary of State Gresham died at 1:15 o'clock this morning, at his rooms at the Arlington house. His condition was thought to be somewhat improved yesterday morning, and no great alarm was felt, but towards noon very unfavorable symptoms exhibited themselves.

About 5:30 p. m., he sank rapidly, and death was momentarily expected. Restoratives were applied, and hypodermic injections of nitro-glycerine—the most powerful of all heart stimulants—and strychnine were made. His blood vessels were in a state of collapse, and his condition was so extremely critical that the physicians decided that transfusion was immediately necessary to stimulate the heart. Dr. Ranssalaer, an expert surgeon, and son-in-law of Dr. Johnson, was hastily sent for. He open a vein in the left arm and infused a pint and a half of normal saline solution. The operation was successful, and about 9 o'clock the stricken statesman had survived somewhat. He recovered slightly, but owing to severe rigors shortly before 11 o'clock, he began to fail rapidly and his vitality began to ebb. The three physicians saw that the end was near and at 12 o'clock withdrew to the anteroom, leaving in the sick-room only the members of his family and the nurses. Up to time he had been conscious and talked at intervals.

His words were fully of bravery. He fully appreciated his condition, and spoke words of hope and cheer to his stricken wife, and daughter.

At 1:15 his breathing ceased, a peaceful shadow passed over his pale countenance his pulse flickered, and the sorrowing family were in the presence of death. One of the nurses conveyed the news that the end had come to the physicians in the next room, and they in turn brought it to the watchers in the reception room. In the hotel lobby outside were half a hundred of the secretary's friends.

Mr. Gresham's illness began May 1st, when he was attacked with acute pleurisy. The physicians diagnosed his case as gallstone in the bladder at first, his pleurisy symptoms being overlooked for almost thirty-six hours. As soon as Dr. Johnson, who was the attending physician at the end, was called, he discovered that the secretary wae suffering from an acute case of pleurisy, probably caused by exposure while riding out to Woodley the president's country home, at night. In the meantime the gallstone had passed. The secretary's right lung was effected, the cavity already being filled with pleuritic fluid. His respiration rose to 43. The physicians decided not to tap the cavity, but to rely upon absorption to rid it of the exuded fluid. Gradually Secretary Gresham grew better. The respiration was reduced to almost normal. Last Saturday when Dr. Johnson thought all danger past, the left lung became affected and filled rapidly. The end was no doubt hastened by the fact that his general health had not been good for some time.

[Walter Quinton Gresham was born March 17th, 1832, in an old-fashioned farm house, near Lanesville, Harrison county, Indiana.

In his boyhood he followed the plow by day and studied his books at night His education was gained by the hardest kind of work and self-denial. His mother was poor but plucky, and she managed the farm and kept the family together. Walter went to the district school, and when he was 16 years old an opportunity came to attend Corydon seminary. He got a clerkship in the county auditor's office, and this paid his board and school expenses. He spent two years at Corydon, then a year at Bloomington university, and on his re- to Corydon he got a place in the county clerk's office. Here he studied law. He was admitted to the bar when 22 years old, and began to practice.

There was a military company in Corydon called the Spencer Rifles. Young Gresham was its captain. When the war broke out his constituents wanted to re-elect him to the legislature but the young military captain was too ardent a patriot. He enlisted as a private in the Thirty-eighth regiment.

In 1869 President Grant appointed him United States district judge for Indiana. This appointment he accepted and here began his judicial career. In the twelve years he had that district judgship not one of his decisions was reversed.

He took the portfolio left vacant by the death of Postmaster Generel Howe. One of the most notable incidents of his career as postmaster-general was his exclusion of the Louisiana Lottery Company from the use of the mails, and this he accomplished in spite of powerful pressure.

President Arthur appointed him U. S. circuit judge for the Seventh judicial district, a position which he held until he entered President Cleveland's cabinet in 1893.]

Under a New Management.

The New Albany Hotel has changed management, Mr. H. B. Crockett retiring, and Mr. L. M. Crooks, recently of Clarinda, Iowa, succeeding to the management of that hostelry.

While citizens of Port Angeles will regret exceedingly the departure of Mr. Crockett with his estimable family from the city, they will welcome his successor to the city, as he is most favorably spoken of at his old home in Iowa, as a thorough business man, a courteous, affable gentleman, an enterprising and public-spirited citizen, whose loss will be deeply deplored.

Mr. Crooks assumed management of the New Albany, last Wednesday.

A Caterpillar Plague.

The ravages of the caterpillar in the orchards in various parts of the country is assuming alarming proportions. In the vicinity of Ferndale, Lummi and Fort Bellingham whole orchards are stripped of their foliage and the trees are dying. The Allen orchard at Marrietta has been, it is said, entirely ruined. The Purdy, Bennett, Eldridge and Tuck orchards have been burned out by the use of torches, made of flannel soaked in kerosene, which destroys the worm without injuring the trees. With such an effective remedy at the disposal of all who are not shiftless to use it, the caterpillar should be speedily destroyed.

In addition to this nuisance many of the old orchards, even in the city, are covered with a destructive scale and fungus, which spreads among fruit trees like the cholera among human beings. These orchards are not only worthless, but are the propagators of spores which destroy the well cared for trees of the neighborhood.

To say that such neglect is careless does not express the situation—it is criminal, the forest inspector for this section should look after the culprits Anybody can discover what kind of a wash to use to destroy these parasites by consulting the Experiment station at Pullman, Wash., or to Mr. Tonneson, secretary of the State Horticultural society at Tacoma, Wash. Orchard men deserve the execration of the public if they neglect the matter.—Whatcom Reveille.

Having used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and found it to be a first-class article, I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends. J. V. FOSTER, Westport, Cal. For sale by J. C. Hansen, Druggist.

GIVES HIMSELF UP.

Henry Anderson, the Man Who Killed

AN OZETTE INDIAN WITH A RIFLE

In Self-Defense, Gives Himself Up—The Tragedy Was the Result of a Quarrel Over the Division of Some Seal Skins the Indian and Anderson Had Caught on Shares.

Last Friday an altercation arose between Henry Anderson, a white man, and Phillip Brown, an Indian, at Ozette, over the division of some seal skins which had been caught by these men, and which, according to an understanding between them, were to have been equally divided, which resulted in Anderson, in self-defense, fatally shooting Brown with a rifle, the bullet passing through the body of the latter in the region of the heart.

Anderson gave himself up last Monday at Ozette and was brought to East Clallam by August Palmquist, who is constable of Ozette precinct.

At Clallam Anderson was placed in the hands of Sheriff Dyke, and was brought to this city on the Garland yesterday morning, and is now incarcerated in the city jail, awaiting trial.

The prisoner was seen yesterday by a representative of THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER and very willingly gave his version of the serious trouble between the Indian and himself which resulted in his taking the life of the former in self-defense.

It appears that Brown and Anderson had been seal hunting and had succeeded in catching four seals. The agreement between them was to the effect that they were to share equally in the fruits of their labor.

Brown, however, persisted in violating the agreement. He claimed three seals as his share of the skins captured.

Anderson refused to accede to the demands of Brown, and gave the latter to understand that he proposed to have his full share of the skins which had been captured.

The quarrel soon assumed a serious phase, and Brown, assisted by a squaw and a young Indian, attempted to overpower Anderson.

Anderson was armed with a rifle, and told them to leave him alone at least six or seven different times, or he would resort to desperate ends to protect himself from their unjustifiable assaults. They appeared indifferent to his threats, and the squaw and the young Indian approached him from behind when he was keeping Brown at bay, and caught him by the arms and around the neck, nearly overpowering him. The squaw, who was in a furious rage, attempted to stab him. Finally Brown grabbled him, and with almost a superhuman effort he extricated himself from the infuriated Indian and sprang back and leveled the rifle at the Indian and warned him to keep away. The warning was unheeded, and while Brown was rapidly closing in on him, Anderson pulled the trigger, and the Indian dropped never to rise, having been mortally wounded, the bullet passing through the vital part of his body.

The squaw and the young Indian again attacked and attempted to overpower Anderson, the former wildly flourishing a dagger over her head. Anderson then struck the squaw over the head with his rifle, which subdued the angry woman, as she and the young Indian left him alone thereafter.

Last Monday Anderson gave himself up, and appears anxious to undergo trial for the offense, if any he has committed, against the laws of the land.

He appears to sincerely regret the unfortunate occurrence, but maintains that he was forced to resort to the severe measures, that he did, to protect his life, which was threatened by the infuriated and unreasoning Indians, who had unjustly claimed property that rightfully belonged to him.

Anderson is of Swedish birth, a young man about 28 years of age, is compactly and solidly built, about 5 feet 8 inches in height, of light complexion, has a frank, open countenance which does not display viciousness, yet suggests courage and determination.

He is a settler of Western Clallam, having taken up a claim in the vicinity of Ozette.

A Remarkable Cure for Rheumatism.

Westminster, Cal., March 21, 1894.—Some time ago, on awakening one morning, I found that I had rheumatism in my knee so badly that, as I remarked to my wife, it would be impossible for me to attend to business that day. Remembering that I had some of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in my store, I sent for a bottle, and rubbed the afflicted parts thoroughly with it, according to directions, and within an hour I was completely relieved. One application had done the business. It is the best liniment on the market, and I sell it under a positive guarantee. R. T. HARRIS. For sale by J. C. Hansen, Druggist.

WALTER Q. GRESHAM.

Walter Quinton Gresham, Secretary of State, of the United States, is dead.

A pure, noble, lofty personality passes from all earthly moorings into the great eternal beyond.

Eminent, indeed, were the public services of Mr. Gresham. Now that death has silenced envy's imbittered and poisoned tongue, all true Americans unite in according the brave soldier, eminent jurist and the able, patriotic and conscientious statesman the commanding position in the public service which a life-long career of self-sacrificing devotion will have entitled him.

Ever brave and courageous, as a soldier, a positive and decided individuality developed into the patriotic and high-minded statesman, whose long public service in that sphere is spotless and unsullied, as the jurist, ever-fearless, just and impartial; even partisan ferociousness is subdued in reviewing the life's services of the eminent dead, and partial reparation is made for grieviously and unjustly having assailed the public character of the dead statesman, in placing a just and an accurate estimate on his invaluable public services.

When the rancor and bitterness intensified through partisan strife will have passed into oblivion, and the impartial historian of the future will have written of the public career of Walter Quinton Gresham, he will tell of patriotic devotion to country, enduring loyalty to constitution and unvarying duty in the enforcement of the law.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Memorial Day has come and gone and a grateful nation has offered homage to the memory of the brave heroes who sacrificed their lives in defense of their country.

Each succeeding year brings us nearer and nearer the great eternal end when all that is mortal of these brave heroes of a glorious cause will have succumbed to the inevitable, and only memory—a memory that ever will be sacred and dear to every true American heart in which beats the genuine sentiment of patriotism, love of country—will remain as the inspiration to guide and to teach each succeeding generation that lesson, the grandeur of which gathers additional lustre as the ages creap on, of unselfish devotion to country, of steadfast loyalty to its constitution and of abiding faith in its institutions.

Only when national patriotism wanes and gratitude to its soldier dead ceases, will the disintegration of the nation begin.

MORAL OBLIQUITY.

The alarming degree of moral obliquity evidenced by Representative Seevers, who is now justly entitled to the distinguishing appellation of "Free Pass" Seevers, in the following lines is, indeed, a serious reflection on the hitherto high public character borne by that gentleman. Here are the lines:

"In closing we wish to ask the D.-L. candidly wherein lies the wrong of using something that is voluntarily, and without solicitation upon your part, given you (as for instance a railroad pass,) when you do not agree by word or action, o give them anything in return?"

Can it be possible, Mr. Seevers, that your conception of public morals is so vague and indefinite and obscure, that you did not realize that you seriously compromised your honor, prostituted public decency, violated the state constitution and a sacred moral obligation, if not a statutory provision, aroused distrust, created suspicion, and disturbed public confidence in your integrity when you accepted and used a free railway pass?

Is it possible your conception of the crime is in "seeking" and not in using a pass?

You say you did not solicit the pass, but when it was voluntarily tendered you, of course, you accused it. And therein, you frankly confess, you did no wrong.

Yet you admit in your article that you flagrantly violated that high and most sacred document, the constitution, the organic law of this commonwealth. This no wrong!

You say there is no statutory provision for the punishment of the unprincipled and conscienceless violator of the fundamental law of the state, therefore, no wrong was committed by the legislator, who so grossly violated the state constitution, because the legislature had failed to provide the punishment for such transgressions. Has not the state constitution, framed by a constitutional convention, elected by the people to prepare an organic law for their government, which, when submitted to them for approval or rejection, was universally approved, positively declared it to be a grave crime to accept and use a railway pass? If the law-makers of the state have been derelict in their duty, does that make it any less a crime for a legislator to violate the constitution, the fundamental, the supreme law of the commonwealth?

Do you believe a man worthy of public service who has not the honor, the moral acumen to sacredly protect, cherish and preserve the organic law of the state?

Mr. Seevers you certainly cannot believe what you say. If you do, you exhibit a shocking degree of moral obliquity, a viscious disobedience of the law, which utterly unfits you for public service.

THE Tacoma Ledger commits a mistake, unintentional, no doubt, when it says that "all legislators excepting Albertson, rep., and Gerry, dem., used free passes. The name of Hon. R. C. Wilson, of Clallam, should be included. All honor to these men, who value character, righteousness and good citizenship too highly to compromise themselves by drawing mileage from the state and at the same time accept and use a free railway pass. This is a species of dishonesty that the honorable, upright, straightforward man would indignantly spurn as utterly unworthy.

THEY ALL RODE ON FREE PASSES.

A local issuance with Populistic inclinations, but unfortunately pronounced sham reform tendencies, intimates that but few "members of the legislature used passes."

Of Republicans and Democrats this may be true; but according to the Tacoma Ledger, which has thoroughly investigated the matter, it certainly does not apply to the Populists. The Ledger says that EVERY Populist member of the legislature rode on passes, and drew more mileage from the state proportionately than either the Republicans or Democrats. Here is the list as published by the Ledger: Allen, Baker, Collin, Chitham, Cline, Collins, Crow, Field, Gibson, Glenn, Kegley, Laing, McArdle, McAuley, Philps, Rader, Range, Rogers, Runner, Scott, Seevers, Smith, Spencer, Witt.

THE Populistic wail against the use of free railway passes will no more be heard abroad in the land. The truly conscientious Populist legislator did not seek the pass, but the conscienceless pass sought the Populist. And like the prodigal son, it was received amidst much quiet but unobtrusive rejoicing with open arms, and all was forgiven. And right here let it be said, these Populist legislators have given the world a lesson in moral uprightness and conscientious precision, that rises to the heights of supreme grandeur.

FREE PASS SEEVERS exhibits a degree of moral delinquency in his brazen but futile attempt to justify the acceptance and use of a free railway pass on the part of a legislator, that is truly appalling.

The Tacoma Ledger says: "Representative Rader, (Populist) editor of the Sun, is eloquently silent on the subject of mileage drawn and passes held by Populist members of the legislature."

A Chapter on Sham Reform.

There seems to be no necessity for the Populist press to get mad, call names and indulge in its usual stock argument (abusive tirades against any one showing up the truth) just for printing a few truths about a number of the spotless white, truly good, infallible, only honest haters of corporations, true reformers, and friends of the people, of the late legislature.

The whole matter is the most amusing thing we have heard in a long time. No one who has never heard a regulation populist orator can fully appreciate it. With long-drawn face and crocodile tears he tells the people of their woes and hardships, until those who were well content with their condition when they started from their homes, return with a feeling that the whole country is going to the eternal bow-wows.

The railroad companies, those grinding monopolies, oppressors of the people, robbers of the poor, are responsible for much of the poverty of the people. And to think that Republican and Democratic officials would accept passes from such a set of legalized theives! Why, the state constitution makes it a CRIME for an official to accept a pass!

Would a Populist legislator accept a pass? Never! Honest and upright are they, every one. It is their truckling, dishonest, boodling, corporation opponents who ride on passes. Reformers accept passes? Smite the man guilty of suggesting such a thing.

The Tacoma Ledger has investigated and found that every Populist member of the legislature rode on passes, and drew more mileage from the state proportionately, than either the Republicans or Democrats! Whew, isn't this reform?

Here is the list published by the Ledger: Allen, Baker, Catlin, Chitham, Cline, Collin, Crow, Field, Gibson, Glenn, Kegley, Laing, McArdle, McAuley, Phelps, Rader, Range, Rogers, Runner, Scott, Seevers, Smith, Spencer, Witt.

Hereafter, when Republicans are accused of riding on passes (and according to the Ledger all legislators but Albertson, rep., and Gerry, dem., did use them), the Populist "reformers" (?) should not be forgotten.—Montesano Vidette.

The Memorial address, which was delivered in the opera house yesterday afternoon by Geo. T. Ulmer, was able and patriotic.

Memorial services were held in the opera house last Sunday. The sermon, which was able, fervent, patriotic and abounding in lofty sentiment, was delivered by Rev. Fred O. Lamoreux.

The match game of base ball which was played in this city yesterday afternoon between the Dungeness nine and the local club, resulted in an easy victory for the visitors—the score being 18 to 2.

The play produced at the opera house last evening, "The Soldiers' Orphans," under the management of Mr. Geo. T. Ulmer, proved exceedingly meritorious, both as to the merit of the actors as well as the excellence of the play. Limited time forbids extended mention this week.

One of the delightful features of the entertainment at the opera house last evening was the drill exercises. This part of the program was under the personal management of Mrs. Wm. Bell, while the young women and the children who participated in the exercises, received special instruction from Miss Jessie Elliott, a young woman who undoubtedly possesses excellent talent in that direction, as was evidenced by the skillful and precise maneuvres of the performers. The exercises comprised the "flag drill," "sash drill," and the "good night drill."

The utterly unreliable Tribune-Times swells its innumerable misstatements in its issuance of yesterday, with the glaringly inaccurate statement that the Port Angeles canning and packing plant, "which has not been in operation since it was built, was sold to Astoria parties yesterday for $1200." This is a sample of dense stupidity, for you. The cannery was operated at least one whole season, when several thousand cases of clams were canned, packed and shipped. Also, the consideration for the plant and site was not $1200 but $6000, as the deeds will verify. Constitutional laziness is undoubtedly responsible for these errors.

Robert Grant's paper in the "Art of Living" series this month discusses the problem that, while the pressure of modern life has become very intense, how shall a man or woman select and reject what is most important, in order that life may cease to be a succession of small incidents and unsatisfactory in its details? This is one of Mr. Grant's most pertinent discussions.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY.

Gleanings From the Press of Western Clallam.

East Clallam Record.]

E. D. Westbrook lost a valuable cow by death Thursday night.

There is now talk that the Myers' cannery will be started at Pysht this year and arrangements are now being made to open up the business there, so it is said.

The way things look there will be some mining excitement down this way this year. Every traveler has a tale, not of woe, but of coal, iron and gold indications found in western Clallam.

It is reported here that William E. Stevens who was injured, last year, near town, by being thrown from a horse, will have to have one of his limbs amputated. He was going out to his claim at the time the accident happened.

County Surveyor FitzHenry came down from Port Angeles Wednesday, on a tour of inspection of the bridges along the county roads between here and La-Push. He expects soon to start surveying two townships in Jefferson county, which he has a contract.

Nothing shows the return of good times more than the increase of wages made by the big iron and steel works of Pennsylvania, and this without any demand or strike. It indicates that these great concerns have been taught by experience that if they wish to enjoy uninterrupted prosperity they must deal fairly and justly with their workmen.

A Seattle tannery is purchasing 100 cords of hemlock bark every week which is shipped by rail from Silverton, Snohomish county. We are glad to notice this demand springing up for hemlock bark as there is an abundance of it around Clallam Bay for which there is no sale at present. We have here the greatest hemlock forest in the state.

Beaver Leader.]

There will be a school election in each school district on June 10th.

School will soon commence at Shuwah with Mr. Payne of East Clallam as teacher.

Freighter Collins brought in a load of lumber Tuesday to be used in Lamoreux's building in Sappho. This is the first lumber ever brought into the valley over the county road.

The people of Forks have determined to have a grand celebration and general blow-out on the national holiday. Various forms of amusement will be in order and the day will expire with a big ball at the Odd Fellows' hall.

A VAST EMPIRE.

The Olympic Peninsula Infinitely Rich in Agriculture and Timber.

Seattle Times.

One of the least known sections of the state, seldom visited and seldom heard from, is that portion lying west of the Olympic mountains and known generally as the Quillayute country, and which comprises a large extent of country admirably adapted to lumbering and agriculture. T. W. Lowe, of Seattle, has a ranch in the Hoh river district, from which he returned Saturday, with rather a glowing account of the progress being made towards development. In a most enthusiastic way Mr. Lowe told of the growth and development of the country to a Times reporter.

"I was agreeably surprised at the work of development which has been going on in that section during the most distressing and trying ordeal our country has ever experienced. On every hand I saw at least some improvement. Clearings have been increasod, flocks have been added to, better houses have been constructed, orchards have been planted, new logging camps established, school houses and churches, roads and bridges have been constructed, new trails have been opened, new settlers with their wives and children are coming in, and a general advance has been going on. Do not infer by all this that the country has been experiencing a boom, Far from it. Times have been hard, but the people have been patient and persevering, and their united efforts—in many cases without money and few tools and poor clothing—have accomplished much. They have cheerfully toiled through the greatest of adversity and are willing to toil on until the happy time when toil once more will find its true reward.

"Along the Straits the logging industry is quite active, principally in spruce, with a limited amount of cedar. Some six or eight new camps have been established. Loggers as yet pay small wages to their men, and but 50 to 75 cents for stumpage.

"A new horse trail is being put through from the Hoh river south to the Bogachiel, a distance of seven miles. Jefferson county officials paid $100 a mile to favorites during a political campaign to have this road surveyed, and now refuse to pay more than $35 for its construction, while they insist on a 10-foot puncheon.

"Almost the entire population of western Clallam and western Jefferson will hail with joy the day when man in his political wisdom shall recognize that geographical barrier the Creator erected in a strong chain of mountains and which protect the people over there from the greed and avarice of Port Townsend politicians. The people are practically unanimous for division and formation of a new county, with the county seat at Forks Prairie, but many think it is early to undertake it.

"Some of the people are anxious to undertake the cultivation of flax for its fibre, and it is believed the rich, sandy soil would produce an abundant and fine article. It would also settle the question of freights.

"The lake Crescent route is becoming quite popular for travel.

"There is yet plenty of fine land for homesteading behind these mountains. Come with a little money, a whole lot of muscle, courage and patience and you will no doubt be satisfied. It is hard to be a pioneer, but is more respectable than being a metropolitan vagrant.

"A mechanic can find but little to do in there. Agriculture is the chief and almost the only industry.

"There is the home of the elk, and and other game abounds in quite moderate supply. Your sports may be glad to learn that game wardens have been appointed all over this country and large game is well protected from reckless slaughter.

"There, behind the Olympic mountains is this great unknown peninsula, is an unlimited supply of fine timber, an abundance of excellent coal, 1,200,000 acres of the finest land in the state, broad valleys, with fine rivers teeming with myriads of beautiful fish, a goodly supply of game and wild fruit, a climate unsurpassed, a water power twice as great as Snoqualmie falls and all the elements that go to make a great and prosperous country. Add to this the most grand and beatiful scenery on the globe, a population of a few thousand industrious pioneers, over 5000 acres of fine prairie land under a high state of cultivation, and we are led to wonder why some great transcontinental railway has not long since sent a branch line through that country and claimed it for its own. From the straits to Gray's harbor it is 100 miles, from the surf of the ocean to the Olympics is an average of eighteen miles. This country is comparatively level and will soon add millions of wealth to the tax rolls of the state. A glance at the map will convince every student of physical geography of the possibilitses of this great country."

PATENTS
FOR INVENTIONS.
Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.
With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.
If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the matter.

THE NEW WOMAN.

O, the twentieth Century Gill!
What a wonderful thing she will be!
She'll evolve from a mystical whirl
A woman unfettered and free:
No corset to crampen her waist,
No crimps to encumber her brain;
Unafraid, bifurcate, unlaced,
Like a goddess of old she will reign!

She'll wear bloomers, a matter of course;
She will vote, not a question of doubt;
She will ride like a man on a horse;
At the club late at night she'll stay out;
If she chauses to love, she'll propose;
To blush will be quite out of date;
She,ll discuss politics with her beaux
And outtalk her masculine mate!

She'll be up in the science of things;
She will smoke cigarettes; she will swear,
If the servant a dunning note brings,
Or the steak is't served up with care.
No longer she'll powder her nose
Or cultivate even a curl,
Nor bother either with fashion or clothes,
This Twentieth Century Girl.

Her voice will be heard in the land;
She'll dabble in matters of State;
In council her words will command,
And her whisper the laws regulate.
She will stand 'neath her banner unfurled,
Inscribed with her principles new;
But the question is what in the world
The New Century Baby will do?
