HOW OUR FRIENDS

"The Enemy" Take Their Defeat.

COUNTRY TO "GO DEAD,"

But the Republicans will "Placedly Wait" says the Spokane Review.—The Port Townsend Leader's "Potent Cause."

It now seems to be the order of Republican papers to tell how it all happened and what the consequences will be. For the amusement of its readers THE DEMOCRAT here publishes some afterthoughts on the election taken from some of the prominent Republican papers of this state.

Contrast the ideas expressed with those of the more independent press of their party further east, where they submit to the fact that the Republican policy has been set aside for that of the Democracy and they are now willing that the Democrats should be tested.

Those state papers say:

Spokane Review.

A story is told of a ten-year-old boy who expressed a wish that he was dead. When asked to explain so strange a desire he said; "Oh I'd just like to have a change." Some such morbid desire was at work through the United States yesterday, the country was never more prosperous, better wages were never paid in any land in any age. There never has been so much employment for American industry as at the present time. In addition to this the Republicans have given this country an administration that for wisdom, firmness, business ability and sound patriotism will rank high in history. But the majority of the American people seemed to have been imbued with a desire for a change—They wanted to "go dead" for four years—and so they have surrendered the country to the Democrats and populists. This is the fruit of constant and widespread iteration of wild, startling and fanatical theories of popular government. Every man with a hobby, every man who has made a failure in life, every man who desired a change on general principles, has gone against the Republican party and since the elements always preponderate, occasions come when they have only to be incited and organized to bring about the defeat of any party that stands for sound and safe ideas of government. Mr. Cleveland's administration will be disappointing to a large number of the people, who are howling now over his victory. Somebody is going to be deceived and disappointed. He can't at the same time, meet the expectations of the moneyed interests of New York city and the fiatists of the western prairies. In the face of such a general passion for novelty in government, it is useless to speculate on what might have been if the campaign had been in better hands than those of Mr. Carter of Montana. If the illness and death of Mrs. Harrison had not absorbed the entire attention of the president during the critical hours of the battle the contest might have been closer but the result would hardly have been different. While the Republicans have the consolation that goes with a conviction of the right, their party is the embodiment of American principles, the guarantee of safe and conservative government wherever it is in power. With the profound assurance of ultimate vindiction they can placidly wait the coming of the time when the sound judgment of the country shall revolt against the false gods set up for exultion at yesterday's election.

Port Townsend Leader.

The most potent cause of Mr. Harrison's defeat was the People's party agitation, which has been a sort of Farmers' Alliance movement under a more inviting name. For the past ten years the nation has been undergoing a great change in its geography and commercial relations. This change has been due entirely to the rapid increase in population, the changing of the centers of population and the tide of foreign immigration that is tending from all nations of the world towards the land that flows with milk and honey. The opening up of the Western states has afforded the opportunity for the sudden acquisition of wealth, which has been an alluring picture emblazoned upon the canvass before the gaze of the entire nation. A speculation fever has sprung up, in the wake of which always follows disappointment and social disaffection. This has been increased by the general business depression that has existed throughout the world. A year of depression is never a good year for Republican success.

Restlessness, feverishness and the sudden disintrigation of the Farmers' Alliance gave to the new People's party, with its captivating name, a ready following. Restless, dissatisfied men, imagining that their woes were the result of bad legislation, seized upon the People's party as their possible savior.

This is the most potent cause of the defeat of the Republican party. Although a new party draws from all of the older ones, nevertheless experience has shown that the Republican party always furnishes the largest per cent.

There are many other local causes which have combined to work Mr. Harrison's defeat, but there is no use looking about for these. There are enough general causes to answer for one of the most striking defeats which the Republican party has ever sustained.

Seattle Press-Times.

It is the theory, though not always the condition, of this government, that the people know what they want; that in choosing their servants and law-makers they conform to principles agreeable to the greatest number, thus insuring the achievement of the greatest good.

The Democracy is manifestly in earnest. It has proclaimed in two successive federal elections, one congressional and the other presidential, the determination to establish the solid south in its new born slavery.

It has proclaimed war anew against the union; reaffirmed the ancient dogma of nullification and given itself over body and breeches to the bulldozers and ballot-box stuffers of the south.

It has adopted one of the first principles of the confederate constitution as the doctrine of its national legislative policy; and in doing so it has denied the wisdom and rebuked the patriotism of a long line of American statesmen extending from Washington, Hamilton and Jefferson to the President who now soon retires from the White House.

It has decided by an overwhelming majority that the economic and industrial policy of England is good enough for the United States; that it is better than good enough—absolutely necessary for the redemption of the American people from the squalor, poverty and misery in which they are supposed to be wallowing.

Well, let the Democrats go it for a while. A fair and speedy test of these two propositions should demonstrate within a few years whether this country desires the industrial and social degradations of Europe and a federal government which is to be distroyed by the shot-gun ballot-box stuffers of the south.

* * *

Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

For many years will the North endure the spectacle of the South, through nullifications of the constitution and the laws, making laws for the whole country and placing their obsequious tool in the executive chair? The North loves peace and pelf, and is likely to endure this spectacle for a good many years if the succession of fraudulent presidents is broken because of the machinery of outrage and fraud, then there would be danger of trouble. The time may come when we shall have a government holding power through machine methods for the wholesale stealing or suppressing of the sufferage, and bitterly opposed by the great majority of the North. When the time comes it may be too late to save our country from another civil war. The South rebelled, not because she was not given her full constitutional rights, but because a president she did not like had been constitutionally elected. The North might some day feel that she would do well to be angry at the election of a president through persistent nullification of the constitution and the law. The danger is not near, but its distance would raptdly disappear if the North thought that the unconstitutional dominion of the solid South and Tammany Hall was likely to give us a succession of unlawfully elected federal legislatures and executives.

OUR SCHOOLS.

The following is the report of our schools for the past month:

Whole number enrolled	382
Average number belonging	365
Average daily attendance	350
Per cent of attendance	97
Cases of truancy	0
Cases of tardiness	106
Number of visitors	11

The schools seem to be doing fairly well except in regard to tardiness. The great number of cases of tardiness, however, speaks poorly for teachers, pupils and parents. The habit of promptitude is essential to success in life, and to be trained to that habit should be a part of every childs education.

The superintendent notes with pleasure that the wasteful and slovenly habit of strewing the school rooms and ground with bits of paper is being corrected in nearly all the departments, and that an orderly manner of entering and leaving has some attention. Let it continue.

O. A. TIFFANY,
Superintendent.

TIRED OF HIS LIFE

J. T. Smith Shoots Himself with Suicidal Intent.

WILD ACT OF A MANIAC.

The Superior Court Declares Him Insane—Sheriff Gould Takes the Deserter to Steillacoom for Treatment—Desperate Struggle.

The residents of Tumwater hill were startled Wednesday morning about 9 o'clock by the sharp crack of a revolver at the residence of Mr. J. C. Davis, and by the immediate appearance of Mrs. Davis calling for assistance.

Carpenters who were at work across the street rushed into the house and found the reeling and bleeding form of J. T. Smith, a neighbor, who had shot himself and had just recovered enough to make a second attempt, which was only prevented by Harry Yarnell, who after a severe struggle, wrenched the smoking weapon from the would be suicide.

An officer was called who took charge of the maniac.

J. T. Smith has lived in Port Angeles sometime having come here from San Francisco, where he deserted a wife and child.

The absent child seemed to bear heavily upon the parent's mind. This, taken with a sudden stopping of the use of the cigarette ha bit, to which he had been a slave produced sleeplessness.

Dr. Lull prescribed for this latter ill, but the patient seemed not benefited, and, without consulting the physician he doubled and threbled the dose, which was kept up for some time, and produced softening of the brain,

These many causes bearing together appear to have produced mania, as the patient immagined that his neighbors were constantly plotting to do him some great bodily injury.

These raveings finally led up to Wednesday's tragedy. Mr. Smith had called on Mrs. Davis without any seeming purpose, Wednesday morning, when he suddenly drew from his pocket an English bull-dog revolver, and placing it to his right temple fired before he could be prevented. The revolver was of 44 caliber and the escape was a miracle, the bullet was flattened out until it would not be recognized as a bullet at all.

The ball glanced and only grazed the side of his head. A second attempt was prevented. Smith was arrested for insanity Wednesday evening by Sheriff Gould, and committed to the asylum after an examination by Judge McClinton.

IN CUPID'S NET.

Mr. David S. Troy and Miss Annie M. Lindsay Married at Port Townsend.

David Smith Troy, of Port Townsend, formerly of this city, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony Monday last to Miss Annie M. Lindsay, of Port Townsend.

The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. S S. Sulliger, of that church, officiated.

The church was beautifully and artistically decorated with evergreen and snow white flowers. The ceremony was the solemn and impressive one of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Miss Ella Lindsay, of Port Townsend, sister of the bride and John W. Troy, of this city, the groom's brother, were best lady and gentleman respectively.

Dr. E. E. Gleason and Mr. L. M. Horper were ushers. Music was furnished by the Methodist choir.

The bride was dressed with india cream silk, train and veil, with diamonds and orange blossoms. The bride's maid was dressed in white silk. The gentlemen wore the customery black.

The church was filled with about 200 of the first society folk of Port Townend, when the beautiful wedding march artistically rendered by Miss Maude Stetson was commenced and to which the party, headed by the pastor, followed closely by the ushers, who were in turn followed by the groom supported by the groomsman and the bride supported by the bridesmaid, entered.

After the ceremony the bridal party were driven to the handsome and spacious residence of the bride's parents, at 326 Maple avenue, where a reception was tendered to the invited guests until 11 o'clock. The large folding doors were thrown open connecting the parlors of the hansomely decorated residence, giving all those present ample opportunity to enjoy themselves, after extending congratulations to the bride and groom and compliments to the attendants.

Charming music was furnished the delightfully entertained guests by Miss Maloney, who is their agent for Clallam county Wakeman and others. Refreshments were served in the large dining room. The guests departed at 11 o'clock, wishing the newly made family all happiness and joy in their newer and wider sphere.

Many and costly presents were received by the captives of cupid from loving and admiring relations and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy will be at home to friends at 222 Jefferson street after December 1st, '92, to which place they were driven immediately after the reception.

The wedding was attended by Hon. Smith Troy and wife, Miss Laura Troy and John W. Troy, of Port Angeles, all relatives of the groom.

David S. Troy is well known in Port Angeles having served as deputy auditor and deputy clerk of Clallam county. He now has a good and lucrative position with Merchant's Bank of Port Townsend.

THE DEMOCRAT joins a host of Clallam county friends in wishing the happy family God-speed.

SOME MORE SOLDIERS.

Twenty-Three More Michigan Soldiers Arrive in Port Angeles.

Mr. D. C. Ashmun arrived Wednesday from Michigan with twenty-three additional members of the Michigan Soldier Colony. They were received at the dock by many of those who had preceded them to their new home at this city.

All express themselves as well pleased with the outlook in Port Angeles.

Mr. Ashmun will remain in Port Angeles for several weeks, at least, now, when he will again return to Michigan.

Prehistoric Giants.

Near the Mediterranean coast, not far from Nice, are some grottoes which are remarkable for the prehistoric remains found in them. The value of these grottoes as a field of prehistoric research was recognized twenty years ago. They were at that time purchased by Mr. Emile Riviere, who, however, neglected to work them, and sold them again to a quarry master, who, on removing some of the rock, unearthed some of the remains. Since then the grottoes have been in litigation much of the time and no one has been able properly to investigate them.

At present three skeletons found there are figuring in the law courts. One is of a man whose estimated height is 7 feet 9 inches. The head of the skeleton is missing. Another is the skeleton of a woman 6 feet 8 inches tall, and the third is the remains of a youth. These added to previous discoveries make seven skeletons of prehistoric men unearthed up to the present time in these caves. The Italian government has not attempted to exercise any rights in the matter

Up to 1875 Mr. Riviere had discovered the skeletons of one man and two children, which were some twenty-nine feet below the level of the caves and were surrounded by undoubted paleolithic implements. The bed is a compact one of limestone.—Chicago News.

Wedded Over Her Mother's Grave.

The most unique marriage ever performed in Baltimore took place Monday within the boundaries of Green Mount cemetery over the graves of the parents of the bride. The groom was Colonel Hendrick von Stamp, ex-minister of Denmark to the United States, a knight of the Order of Dannebrog, and the bride was Miss Mildred Hammond, daughter of the late General Hammond. Six carriages were occupied by the wedding party, but the vehicles were supposed to be a funeral cortege as they slowly moved through the cemetery. When the Hammond lot was reached the graves were strewn with flowers and the wedding was quickly performed, the bride standing upon the grave of her mother and the groom upon the grave of the bride's father. The bride is of one of Maryland's oldest families, being a remote descendant of President George Washington. She is forty and the groom forty-four years old.—Baltimore Letter.

The Human Journey of a Lathing Nail.

About fifty-four years ago Washington Megahan, contractor and builder of this place, was working at his trade, that of a plasterer, in Blair county, when he accidentally swallowed a lathing nail. He was very much alarmed about the accident at the time, but as he felt no evil results from the extraordinary diet, in the course of two or three weeks he had forgotten all about it. Recently, however, Mr. Megahan has felt a peculiar sensation in the palm of his left hand, and one day last week he was able to feel the outline of a small nail, and then it was that he remembered having swallowed the lathing nail fifty-four years before. The nail is rapidly working its way through the flesh of his hand, and when it has worked up under the skin Mr. Megahan will have a physician remove it.—Somerset Herald.

One Year's Work.

At the twentieth anniversary festival of the Provident Surgical Appliance society in London, Dr. Bond in the course of his speech said that he knew of only one case dealt with by the society in which any dissatisfaction was given. A young woman was fitted with a Roman nose, but the boys of the college, noticing the change, made her life unbearable. She besought the society to help her, and was supplied with a pretty little retrousse nose so attractive that all her companions were made envious, and several offers of marriage were insured. Dr. Bond's society last year distributed no fewer than 6,223 artificial arms, legs, teeth and noses.—London Letter.

SPEAK FOR YUUR MINORITY.

Some Republican comments on the recent election are published on another page of this paper. There, it will be noticed that the Seattle hide-bound, hyphenated organs both protest, in the name of the North(?), against "Southern dictation."

THE DEMOCRAT would like to know, Mr P.-I. and Mr. P.-T., by what right or authority you speak for the North?

Has the great North not spoken for herself? We would most respectfully call the attention of the "bloody shirt" organs to the fact that Mr. Cleveland has received more electoral votes in the Northern states than have Mr. Harrison and Mr. Weaver combined. There are more Northern Democratic congressmen than Northern Republican congressmen.

It seems that the time will never be when some papers, such as these Seattle organs, will cease abusing one of the fairest and most loyal sections of this nation, we are all so proud to call our own.

Besides being wrong and treasonable such harangue's as these referred to are rank stupidity. No one, in his right mind, credits these rantings. They simply excite disgust in members of all parties, for the depraved mind that so belittles his own country. The citizens of the North have every confidence in their brothers of the "New South," and, while many of them differ with the controlling sentiment of the South, they all believe that today South Carolina and Georgia are as loyal to this great union as are Vermont and Massachusetts. Is there any one who doubts but that the South would furnish her full quota of soldiers should this nation go to war? No, the P.-I. itself fully realizes this. It keeps up this old claptrap for the simple purpose of making votes. It would discredit its country to gain control.

Again we protest against the P.-I., or any other paper of its ilk, speaking for a people who have spoken so plainly for themselves—and that to the contrary.

HONORS THRUST UPON HIM.

The latest, in a political way, is on Judge W. J. Rohde, one of Port Townsend's ablest lawyers, who in time now gone, was a professor, on the strength of which, the learned judge was nominated for superintendent of public schools, by the Democratic party of his county. A few days before the election this unwilling candidate announced his withdrawal from the race, and, in fact, signed a letter to the voters of the county, stating that he did not want the office, was not a candidate therefore, would not qualify if elected, and advising them to all vote for the People's party candidate. This letter was printed in circular form, and sent to every voter in Jefferson county.

The reader has now probably said, there is nothing strange in this. True. The strangest part is what followed on election day, when the citizens went to the polls, and, by a handsome majority, elected the judge in spite of himself.

Judge Rohde will submit to the inevitable. He will qualify and become an unwilling but faithful servant of his fellow man. The wise politicians of the opposite faith sagely shake their aged heads, and whisper to each other, "verily, politics, have become a strange proceeding."

CLEVELAND IS ALL RIGHT.

A few of the Republican organs and statesmen are now claiming that Cleveland is "hedging" on the tariff question because he suggests that congress should move carefully in tariff legislation.

Nothing could be more erroneous that this. Mr. Cleveland is as staunch a reformer to-day as he ever was.

Like all, he recognizes that to suddenly change this country's policy from Protection to Free Trade would cause financial disaster, so he favors a plan that will permit commerce to justify itself.

The difference between a Democratic tariff and a Republican tariff is, the Democrats, like Garfield, favor a tariff that will lead to ultimate free trade, while the Republican policy is a tariff that will lead to ultimate prohibition.

A comparison of the Mills bill with the McKinley bill will show this

Mr. Cleveland has not changed his position since he pened that famous message in 1887.

CLALLAM county now fairly leads all the counties west of Paget Sound in importance, political as well as commercial. She has passed Jefferson, long the king of this side, in the number of votes cast.

At the last election Jefferson county polled just 1410 votes, according to the official returns, while Clallam county's vote was 1,432, just 22 more than were cast by her sister further up the Sound.

Surely, but not slowly, Clallam county is passing the counties of the state. The day is not far distant when Clallam will rank with the first of them in population and in commercial and political importance.

JERRY SIMPSON has been returned to congress by 1400 majority. The Democrats and Populists combined to elect him. Mr. Simpson says he is not a candidate for United States Senator. He favors the election of a Democrat to the senate, because he says "they played fair with us this time and we will need them in the future."

Mrs. Lease accuses the sockless congressman with being a Democrat—not a very serious crime, however. As the St. Louis Republic said, "Jerry Simpson is a good enough Democrat for any Democrat to vote for."

THE Republican board of county commissioners carefully refrained from making their tax levy until after the election, but they now propose to make the people of the county pay for Republican extravagance in the past, by levying 21½ mills on the dollar. This is 5½ mills higher than the heavy tax of last year.

The citizens of Clallam county, who have not already learned, will soon learn from sad experience that THE DEMOCRAT spoke the truth during the recent campaign and that Clallam county is really in the condition claimed by it.

DR. FREEBORN S. LEWIS, the Democratic nominee for state land commissioner, was defeated with the remainder of the Democratic state ticket, but he can congratulate himself on the fact that he made a good run.

At every place Dr. Lewis appeared in the campaign, he ran ahead of his ticket. The state press everywhere complimented him on his tariff speeches and on his courteous bearing.

THE official vote of Clallam county is published to-day. It does not alter the result as published last week.

THE report of the Puget Sound customs district shows that Port Angeles did more business than any other sub-port, it ranking next to Port Townsend. The report appears in another column.

HON. WILLIAM C. WHITNEY, Senator John G. Carlisle and Benjamin T. Cable are mentioned as cabinet possibilities. All these gentlemen would make excellent advisers for the President.

CITY HEALTH OFFICER I. R. Herrick deserves great credit for his vigorous and effective enforcement of sanitary regulations preventing small pox which is prevalent in Seattle.

GRAY GABLES is now the political mecca.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.

A Number of Handsome Prizes will be Given Away.

There will be given a masquerade ball at the opera house on Thanksgiving eve under the auspices of the Ladies' World's Fair Club. A number of prominent business men have offered valuable prizes to the best customed characters both ladies and gentlemen. The affair promises to be novel, interesting and enjoyable to the spectators and to those who participate in the enening's festivities. The following is a list of prizes and by whom offered:—

LADIES PRIZES.

GENTLEMEN'S PRIZES.

Second—Richest costume, smoking set by money contributors.

Third—Most original costume, silk umbrella, present by Geo. W. Meagher.

A prize will also be given for the best group of four or more. Prize ten dollars. Prizes will be on exhibition in the window of Geo. W. Meagher's store.

A committee will be selected from the spectators and prizes will be presented before unmasking. Tickets 50 cents each person. Spectators, 25 cents.

A Groom's Error.

A bashful and youthful bridal couple from the rural districts had a painful experience at Danbury circus day. The young husband wrote his own name and his wife's on separate lines of the hotel register and the purblind clerk assigned them to separate rooms. Each waited for the other to set the matter straight, but it was only after a terribly lonesome hour that the bride plucked up her courage and her marriage certificate and descended to interview the clerk. She held out the document mutely and the situation at last dawned upon him. The banished benedict was summoned from his seclusion and the curtain fell amid profuse apologies.—New Haven Register.

Flies So Thick They Put Out the Lights.

About 9 o'clock Tuesday night Battle mountain was infested with a cloud of tiny flies that drifted into the saloons on Front street in myriads, in many instances darkening the rooms and putting out the lights. When the pests had passed away it was found that the tops of the lamps were covered an inch and a half deep and the lamp chimneys choked. It would appear that these minute flies were attracted by the lights in the saloons, and in countless millions perished.—Central Nevadan.

Enough to Replenish the Burning Lake.

The steamer that has been expected for several days with a cargo of sulphur has arrived. There are 4,500,000 pounds of brimstone in all, half of it being destined for Wayne, where it is to be made into sulphuric acid, and half for points on the Grand Trunk. The sulphur is valued at $50,000. The vessel and cargo come from Palermo, Italy.—Eastern Argus.

University Statistics.

The new catalogue of the University of Pennsylvania shows 1,764 students, or twenty less than Yale, while the University of Michigan has 2,638, or just twenty less than Harvard. In the number of teachers Harvard now comes first, with 258; the University of Pennsylvania second, with 237; Columbia third, with 220; Yale fourth, with 153, and Michigan fifth, with 145.

People's Champion Kept in Quad.

May I call attention to the case of a worthy man who is in prison for resisting the attempts of landowners to seize and inclose the land of the people? The case I refer to is that of the Rev. F. Haydn Williams, who is incarcerated in Holloway jail, and has now been imprisoned for a whole month because he knocked down a wall which had been built to inclose what had been from time immemorial an open space, called the Abbey plain, where the people used to play football and other games.

The injustice of Mr. Williams' imprisonment is, that instead of being properly tried and if it is found that he has done wrong made to pay for the damage he has done to the wall of the lord of the manor, he has been sent to prison without trial on a charge of contempt of court, and there he may remain month after month, according to the caprice of the court of queen's bench. This power of committal to prison for an indefinite period on such a fanciful charge as contempt of court seems to me to be a thing savoring of the proceedings of the court of the star chamber, which was abolished for its arbitrary acts by the breath of popular indignation. In my ignorance I thought there was passed by the representatives of the people, for their protection from arbitrary imprisonment, an act called the habeas corpus act, which prevented a man from being capriciously imprisoned for an indefinite time without fair trial if he has been guilty of any crime. But here is a man—a gentleman and a minister—being treated as if he had been guilty of robbery.—Cor. London Chronicle.

Somewhat Eccentric.

A strange case of insanity has recently come to light at Ballston. The unfortunate person is Charles H. Morris, thirty-two years of age and an expert accountant. He has for a long time been known as a man of many eccentricities, and has frequently been made the object of practical jokes by sporting men. It is thought that constant joking and teasing have been a potent factor in impairing his mental faculties.

He has several times lately left town for a few days, sometimes on business, sometimes on pleasure, and before leaving caused to be published in the local papers paragraphs to the effect that he "had gone to New York to attend a convention of the ragpickers at the Fifth Avenue hotel." About two months ago invitations were sent out announcing that he was about to marry a well known young woman from another town. The invitations were bona fide, but on the day of the wedding Morris remained in town, denying that he had any thought of marrying. He is considered a first class accountant, and appears to be as sane as any one except for these actions. —Albany Journal.

Thousands of Tons of Oil.

Oil is to be used as fuel instead of coal in all the big furnaces at the World's fair grounds. The exposition company will pay the Standard Oil company seventy cents a barrel until 1893, and then have the privilege of getting the oil at the lowest market price, not to exceed 72½ cents a barrel. The contract will be for perhaps the largest quantity ever sold to one consumer. The lowest estimate that has ever been made of the amount of coal that would be burned at Jackson park during the exposition was 75,000 tons. On this basis 225,000 barrels of oil would be used, but it is probable that the amount will be largely in excess of that estimate.—Cleveland Herald.

Divorced for Telling Lies.

In the circuit court at Beatrice, Neb., Saturday, William Truesdale was granted an absolute divorce from his wife, Amelia. The petition reciting the charges on which divorce was sued for is the most curious one ever filed in court. It recites the fact that the wife is an incorrigible gossip, whose tale telling propensities and penchant for gossiping render life with her unbearable.

Truesdale avers that in the three years he has lived with his wife she has told 10,000 lies. "She cannot tell the truth," he declares in his petition, "and while it is in the nature of a disease, I believe it incurable. Hence I ask relief in a divorce."—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

His Bottle Proved to Be Loaded.

A young boy named Gilson, in company with one or two other boys, was on the sewer dock and discovered several bottles in an old iron tank. In one of the bottles was a white substance. Young Gilson's curiosity was aroused. He produced a match and, lighting it, dropped it into the bottle. He held the bottle in his right hand, and no sooner had the match struck the bottom of the bottle than an explosion followed, blowing the bottle to atoms, filling Gilson's hand with the fragments of the glass and also nearly blowing the thumb off his hand.—New Haven Register.

Taken In.

A woman with a baby in her arms approached an innocent looking young man who was sitting in Central park yesterday. She asked him to hold the baby while she went to look at the menagerie. As she did not return the young man thinks she must have been taken in by the boa constrictor or the rhinoceros, but the sparrow cop to whom he confided his suspicions is of the opinion that it was the young man who was taken in.—New York Evening Sun.

A Rapid Water Wheel.

In one of the Comstock mines a new water wheel is to be placed, which is to run 1,150 revolutions a minute and have a speed at its periphery of 10,805 feet per minute. A greater head of water than has ever before been applied to a wheel will be used.—Exchange.

A Suicide's Gloomy View of Marriage.

"I am as happy as though I was going to be married," was one of the queer sentences of a note left by Vito Miraglio, who committed suicide by shooting himself on Tuesday.—Philadelphia Record.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1892.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS.

One of the most enterprising merchants of Port Angeles is the genial P. J. Williams, who has just received the handsomest stock of watches and jewelery that has ever been displayed in this city. Mr. Williams has a full line of all kinds of jewelry, both gentlemen and ladies' wear of such high quality that can only be equaled by the jewelers of the large cities. Particular attention is called to his assortment of fine watches and link cuff buttons, to see which is to be filled with the desire to purchase.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

All that was mortal of Charles R. Brewster was interred Sunday under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias of this city. The remains arrived on the Monticello Saturday, and were immediately taken charge of by the Knights.

Sunday at two o'clock the Knights, in regalia and white gloves, marched in line to the Olympian hotel, and from there they accompanied the body of their deceased brother to the church where a short sermon was preached by Rev. W. W. Ferrier, and appropriate hyms were sung by a choir consisting of R. C. Wilson, F. O. Lamoreux, H. M. Fisher and H. K. Bickford

At the cemetery the burial services of the K. of P. order were read by Horace White, prelate of the order.

Charles Richard Brewster was born in Placerville, Cal., in the year 1860. His father, who survives him, crossed the plains in 1852, arriving in Placerville in August of that year. Shortly afterward he engaged in mercantile business. This effort proved a success and in 1863 he contributed largely of his means and influence to build a Presbyterian house of worship. In 1867 he assisted in establishing an academy where his son and eldest daughter, Mrs. W. R. Vance, graduated.

The deceased located in business in Seattle in April 1883. During his residence there he made many warm friends and assisted in establishing Queen City lodge K. of P. In the year 1890 he left a lucrative position with the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., to locate in this city being greatly impressed with its future growth and prosperity. Here he had planned to build him a home and call around him all that makes life desirable and to that end he was striving when the affliction came upon him which has snapped the thread of life. He loved the people of Port Angeles and his great desire was to live and enjoy life with them. A few hours previous to his death he said to his father, "I wish to be buried by my brother Knights in Angeles, and when they secure a burial plat I wish my remains to be deposited within their enclosure." He was conscious to the last and only a moment before the vital spark took its flight, he said, "Father I can't struggle any longer. This is death."

His parents wish all who knew him to know that he had resolved if his life was spared, to go with those he loved to the house of the Lord.

Let us hope and trust to-day that this resolve came because his spirit, in those last hours, was touched so lovingly and tenderly by the divine spirit that it recognized in Christ his personal Saviour.

THE LARGEST WHOLESALE

Cigar Business in the State will be Conducted by L. Rockman, at Seattle.

Mr. Louis Rockman has opened a wholesale cigar store on Cherry street, between Front and First streets, Seattle.

Mr. Rockman will carry the largest stock of cigars of any house in the state. He will have men on the road to catch the trade of the state in his line.

Mr. Rockman is a first class business man and will undoubtedly make his new business a success as he has with every undertaking in the past.

Mr. Rockman will retain an one half interest in his Port Angeles business.

SUMMONS.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, } ss. Cause, No. 261.
CLALLAM COUNTY.

Anna D. Drannan, Plaintiff, vs.
William F. M. Drannan, Defendant

The State of Washington to the above named Defendant.

You are hereby notified that Anna D. Drannan, plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior court of the State of Washington for the county of Clallam, holding terms at Port Angeles, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this summons, to wit; sixty days after the 18th day of Novembe, A. D. 1892, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 19th day of January, A. D., 1893, the same will be taken as confessed and the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint herein.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and defendant upon the ground of desertion and abandonment by the defendant of the plaintiff without cause more than one year last past before the commencement of this action; and upon the further ground of willful neglect for more than one year last past before the commencement of this action, whereby you have failed to provide this plaintiff with the common necessities of life, you having the ability so to do; and for more than one year last past, before the commencement of this action you have willfully neglected to provide plaintiff the common necessaries of life and you have failed to do so by reason of your idleness, habitual laziness and improvidence, all of which is specified in the complaint filed herein, to which reference is expressly made.

Plaintiff prays for judgment and decree forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant together with general relief.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Superior court, affixed this 15th day of November, A. D. 1892.

COLUMBUS DISCOVERED

America in 1492. Everybody knows that; but who Discovered Columbus?

We will not try to answer this question, but judging from the number of BOOTS and SHOES we are selling we know that the people of Port Angeles and Clallam County,

HAVE DISCOVERED

That the NEW YORK BOOT AND SHOE HOUSE is the best and cheapest place in town to buy their footwear.

WHY?

BECAUSE—Bright folks take heed of other people's experience. Few things cost more in this world than experience. Now our experience in the shoe trade has been quite extensive. All our customers get the benefit of our experience, for by it we are able to sell the best goods for the least money.

Cool Work by a Burglar.

Talk about cool headed burglars. One of the gentry who visited the residence of Mr. William Hannin outrivals the daring audacity of Jim Barlow or Claude Duval.

He entered the house while the inmates were sound asleep, and with the aid of a match proceeded to investigate. It appears that he would hold a lighted match until it burned his fingers, and then throwing the still burning remains on the floor light another.

On returning to a room he had quitted a few moments before he saw that the place was on fire. He ran from the house, and meeting a police officer coolly informed him that "a house back there" was on fire. He hurried to the place with the officer. The fire was now burning brightly. In his haste the officer failed to notice that though the rear door was open none of the family was to be seen. They secured pails, the burglar doing the pumping act, but the apparatus failed to respond. A large boiler of water, intended for the next day's washing, stood convenient, and between them they carried the boiler of water into the house, where the flames were soon extinguished. It was when the officer looked around for his gentlemanly associate that he discovered that he was alone. The family was aroused, and then it was found that the house had been ransacked, but little of any value taken.—Toledo Bee.

Ancient Babylonian Records.

Probably the oldest known specimens of recorded language in the world today are the inscriptions on the door sockets and brick stamps found at Niffer by the Babylonian Exploration expedition of the University of Pennsylvania, which has recently returned. The brick stamps, which are of yellow clay, about four by five inches, and an inch in thickness, bear the name and titles of King Sargon and his son Narim Sin, who lived about 3800 B. C., and they were taken from the mound which covers the sight of ancient Nippuru, with its famous temple of Baal. The expedition also found many other objects of interest, such as clay tablets containing contracts, lists of goods, temple incomes, art fragments and images sold by the temple fakirs. These throw much light on the history of the people, as opposed to that of the kings, and the work of the expedition carries Babylonian records back a thousand years to a time of which practically nothing has hitherto been known. The antiquities found are now in the university museum.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Metric System in Pharmacy.

In the new pharmacopœia now in course of preparation the metric weights and measures will be adopted throughout, to the entire exclusion of the English weights and measures hitherto used. It is considered by many that this is but the thin edge of the wedge, and that sooner or later the metric weights and measures will be adopted for all purposes in the United States.

In all the states of South America this system and none other is in use, and there is a growing feeling that an international system of weights and measures will do much to simplify and develop the commercial intercourse of the nations in question as well as those who have adopted the metric system in Europe.—Cor. London News.

Insane from Drinking Coffee.

Peter McKeever, a restaurant keeper, is in the detention hospital on complaint of his wife and a friend, George W. Couch. At the hospital a straight jacket is necessary to prevent McKeever from tearing off his clothes and doing injury to himself. McKeever is an American, forty-five years old. "For the last two or three years," his wife said, "he has taken scarcely any solid food, but has subsisted almost entirely upon coffee. Although we tried to persuade him to change his method of living and abstain from coffee, for we saw that it was impairing his mind, we were unsuccessful."—Chicago Times.

The Queen Gives Away a Goat.

The queen has presented the Second V. B. Royal Welsh fusiliers with a white goat. Colonel Danscook, in communicating the information to the battalion in an order, says he feels assured that "this most gracious act on the part of her majesty will tend to strengthen the feeling of loyalty and attachment to the throne which exists among all classes of Welshmen." Can any one explain why in so many instances a goat is chosen to be the "pet of the regiment?" —Pall Mall Gazette.

Exhaust Pipes for Oil Tanks.

Judging from the reports from the oil regions, few of the tanks have pipes at the bottom of the great receptacles so arranged that the oil can be drained out of a burning tank from below, thus reducing the loss from fire to a minimum. The great fires at the Point Breeze refineries brought about that reform in our local oil works, and it has proved of great service ever since it was put in operation.—Philadelphia Press.

A Mighty Feast.

At Fischhausen, in Germany, a wedding feast of Homeric proportions recently took place. The 168 guests got through one ox, three pigs, four calves, eighteen chickens, ten geese, and ducks and pigeons in proportion. Four hogsheads of beer, forty quarts of rum and fifty of other liquids served to wash down the solids. The shade of Gargantus should rejoice at this noble feat.—London Globe.

An improved traction engine has lately appeared in Missouri. It is run with a relatively small amount of fuel, carries a heavy load and is provided with means for changing its speed without altering the stroke of the engine.

Immense damage has been done in the County of Essex, England, by the pea weevil. In many cases whole fields of peas have been destroyed and have had to be plowed in and oats sown in their place.

An Uncanny Monster.

The people residing along Palmetto creek, South Carolina, as well as those for miles back in the "slashes," are highly excited over the appearance of a strange and uncouth creature in that vicinity. The beast is described as being a creature that far outdoes the nightmare ideas of the mythologists. It is equally at home in the water, on the land or among the tall trees of the neighborhood, where it has been most frequently seen. The general contour of the head reminds one of some gigantic serpent with this exception: The "snout" terminates in a bulbus, monkey faced knot, which much resembles the physiognomy of some gigantic ape. From the neck down, with the exception of some fin shaped flippers, which extend from the arms to the waist, the creature resembles a man, only that the toes and fingers are armed with claws from two to six inches long.

Tracks made by the beast in the soft mud around Hennis lake have been taken to Donner's Grove, where they are kept on exhibition in a druggist's showcase. Those who have seen the horrid thing face to face say that it is a full nine feet in height, which could hardly be believed only for the fact that the tracks mentioned above are within a small fraction of fifteen inches in length. Fishermen who surprised the monster sitting silently on a mass of driftwood declared that its back looked like an alligator's, and that it had a caudal termination a yard long, which forked like the tail of a fish.—St. Louis Republic.

Little Short of Murder.

The neighbors around a certain corner of Ash street were alarmed on Monday night by low moans issuing from a closely curtained carriage that stood on the corner. A driver sat upon the seat. One of the neighbors came out and approached the team to ask what was the matter. Before he reached the corner the driver caught sight of him, and whipping up the horses drove rapidly off. The folks were doubly alarmed, and after a good deal of exciting talk asked a policeman to call at the house on the corner and ascertain who was hurt, or if any mystery was in the moans. He talked with an excited woman who came to the door, and also with a man who wiped his eyes with a handkerchief, while the neighbors stood across the street in suspicious silence. The officer came over the street and told them that the old family dog, the hero of dozens and dozens of fights and of 28 years, had been carried off to die by a bullet. The dog evidently understood his fate, for he began to moan and moan as soon as they took him from the house.—Lewiston Journal.

Eskimos for the World's Fair.

Two well known Swedish scientists MM. Bjorling and Kallstenuis, arrived at St. John's, Newfoundland, yesterday. They are commissioned by the geographical and geological societies of Stockholm to explore the shores of Smith's sound, in the Arctic regions, to collect specimens of the flora and fauna of the district and to take astronomical observations. They will hire a schooner in St. John's for their voyage, from which they expect to return in September. Information has been received that a party of Americans is coming to explore Labrador and visit the Great falls, which were discovered last year. Another American party leaves here soon in order to transport for the World's fair at Chicago three villages of different tribes of Eskimos, with all their belongings, and also a village of Indians inhabiting the mountainous districts in the interior of Labrador.—Newfoundland Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

A Ball of Fire on a Housetop.

During a severe electrical storm this evening the Crescent oil refinery was struck by lightning and caught fire, but the blaze was extinguished without much damage. The house of Ferdinand Kreiner was struck by a ball of electric fire, which exploded with tremendous force. A fire alarm was turned in, but the electrical display burned itself out without even setting fire to the house Eyewitnesses say it was the most remarkable sight they ever witnessed. An enormous electric globe of fire lodged against the peak of the house, where it hung, burning and spitting flashes of fire until exhausted. Every inmate of the place was more or less severely shocked, the air being heavily charged. All watches and clocks on the premises were stopped and other electrical phenomena occurred.—Bradford Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

Bed Demolished, Occupants Unharmed.

A strange freak of a bolt of lightning occurred at Jeannette during the heavy storm last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Krisman reside in a small tenement house close to the Catholic church. They were in bed and asleep when the storm began to rage. Suddenly their bed was torn from beneath them and reduced to splinters. A bolt of lightning had struck the house and passed through the wall into the room occupied by them. The couple were not hurt.—Pittsburg Post.

Again the Willipus-Wallapus!

A couple of darkies raised considerable excitement Saturday night by declaring that they had seen the gyascutus, willipus-wallapus, or whatever it is that has been prowling around here for two or three weeks past. A big crowd turned out armed with guns, sticks, axes, etc., but after a thorough search failed to locate the varmint.—Turin Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

A wire netting fence 500 miles long is one of the late Australian wonders. The fence separates the colonies of New South Wales and Queensland, and its object is to keep the rabbits out of the latter country.

A recent order for books sent by Mr. Gladstone to a London dealer embraced works ranging in character from a volume of Eton verse to treatises on solar physics and myths.

A Luckless Youth.

A Calcutta clerygyman vouches for the fact that a young government clerk in that city has tried three times to marry the girl of his choice, but has every time been hypnotized at the altar. The last time he tried when he got to his turn to say "I will" he fell down in a stupor, which lasted several hours; then he made another attempt, and had another fit. Probably the would be bride was a snake charmer of India. When at the altar she thinks of how she will manage the young man in the years to come; the magnetism of the thought is communicated through the hand that holds hers, and the young man gets a preliminary idea of how things are going to be with him.

Possibly some spiritualist might explain that some one of the other side, out of compassion for him, is striking the cup from his lips every time he essays to taste it. There is a whole lot in that spiritualism and hypnotizing business which men do not know very much about, but surely that young man, if he is the least bit superstitious, will give up that particular girl and decide in his own mind that some good spirit is trying with all its might to draw him away from what would be liable to make his life a lively one.—Salt Lake Tribune.

A Lens That Has Been Begun.

The greatest refracting telescopes yet known are made by Alvan G. Clark, of Cambridgeport, Mass. So fine is the work required on the lenses of these instruments that the glassmakers commenced work on two disks from which a 40-inch lens is to be made four years ago, and only one has as yet been sent to Mr. Clark. If there is the most minute speck of any kind in the glass it is rejected. A disk forty inches in diameter and ten inches thick costs $8,000. After Mr. Clark has determined what curve to give the glass, an iron casting is made of the size and shape required. The disk is revolved upon this and ground with steel crushings.

Next, eight courses of emery and an adjustable tool are used, and at this stage measurements are made with an instrument that measures one thirty-thousandth of an inch. The final shaping is made with beeswax and rouge, and even the bare thumb does it part in the polishing. The lens must be so exact in its curve that every ray striking it shall center at a predetermined mathematical point.—Public Opinion.

Latest Elevator Safety Device.

An invention consisting of a quadrant, with projections placed on the wheel of the starting machinery, together with an electrical arrangement by which the door of the elevator shaft on each floor is connected with a pair of magnets controlling a lever, which prevents the starting wheel from moving unless every door of the shaft is closed and locked, is the latest elevator safety device. On opening the door the current is broken and the armature lever is released.

The machinery cannot be started until the door is closed again and the armature lever withdrawn. This invention can be supplied at a nominal cost to elevators in any building, and there is neither reason nor excuse why every elevator should not be equipped with it, thus placing one more safeguard around human life.—New York Telegram

An Astute Land Grabber.

One of the most lofty and ambitious grabbers in the state of Montana was not long ago observed to be engaged in a most mysterious business. He was taking women out into the wilderness, a stage load or two at a time. They were very reputable women—school teachers, typewriters, married women, and their friends. They were taken to a large and pleasantly situated house, upon the pretext that they were to attend a ball and a dinner and get $100 as a present. It all proved true. Excursion party after excursion party went out in this way, and when the ladies returned to the town that had thus been pillaged of its beauty they reported that they had fared upon venison and wild fowl, with the very vest of "fixings," and that at the ball a number of stalwart and dashing cowboys had become their partners, tripping their light fantastic measures with an enthusiasm which made up for any lack of grace that may have been noticed.

The reader may fancy what a lark it was to the women, and how very much enjoyment the more mischievous wedded ones among them got by pretending that they were maidens, heart whole and free of fancy! But while those women were in the thick of this pleasure they each signed a formal claim to a homesteader's rights in the lands thereabout. And as they "prove up" those claims in the fullness of time each will get her $100. The titles to the land will then be made over to the ingenious inventors and backers of the scheme, and the land will be theirs. "Thus," in the language of a picturesque son of Montana, "a fellow can get a dukedom if he wants it." This is an absolutely true account of the conquest of a valley in Montana, and the future historian of our country will find much else that is akin to it, and that will make an interesting chapter in his records.—Julian Ralph in Harper's.

Carrying the Mail in Wyoming.

A thrilling story of adventure and peril comes from Johnson county, Wy., the seat of the late cattle war. During the entire winter Contractor Stringer has been unable to carry the mail across the Big Horn mountains from Buffalo to Ten Sleep. In the belief that the summer season was sufficiently advanced to allow the trip to be made, he started from Buffalo on a strong saddle horse and with four mules packed with mail pouches. Twenty-five miles of hard traveling landed Stringer at an emergency cabin with his stock completely played out. Here he placed some mail on a toboggan, and strapping on a pair of snowshoes made another start for Ten Sleep.

In about fifteen miles one of the snowshoes was broken. The nearest haven was Stringer's own ranch, twelve miles distant. He was five days getting to it. Most of the way he crawled on his hands and knees. With hunger and exposure he was all but dead. Resting three days at his ranch, and making a new shoe, Springer returned to the station for the abandoned stock and mail, and in a week went through to Ten Sleep. He returned to Buffalo, Wy., May 1.—Omaha Bee.

Teething at Ninety-five.

Michael Fritz, of Friedensburg, the oldest man in Schuylkill county, has had three sets of teeth and is likely to get a fourth.

On his eighty-first birthday he was tendered a big surprise party by members of his family and friends, and in turn surprised his visitors by showing them three perfectly formed pearly white teeth in his upper jaw, where for years there had been none. These three disappeared several years afterward and Mr. Fritz resumed the use of his false teeth until a short time ago, when another set of natural teeth began to make their appearance. Four teeth have already grown, and there is reason to believe a full set will make its appearance. Mr. Fritz is ninety-five years of age.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

The Time to Counterfeit.

The best time to successfully counterfeit a coin is just after it is first issued. The new halves and quarter dollars are being successfully counterfeited just at present. The people have seen so few of the genuine new coins, owing to the fact that they have not worked their way westward, that they scarcely know what to expect. About half of the new half dollars in circulation in Kansas City are composed for a great part of lead, but well made. They won't ring at all when dropped on a hard surface.—Kansas City Times.

A Dog Steals Newspapers.

Newspapers have been mysteriously stolen from doorsteps in Chicago, watch was set and a little black and tan dog was discovered to be the culprit. Though chased, the dog escaped, and was detected twenty minutes later stealing another paper. The brute takes any kind of newspaper regardless of politics or quality of news matter. The police have a description and are looking for the animal.—Chicago Letter.

The Tallest Man.

Not content with having in Miss Ella Ewing the tallest woman in the United States, Scotland county, Mo., now comes forward and claims the tallest man in the world. His name is Jode Webb, height 6 feet 7½ inches, weight 155 pounds. He is to be made drum major of the Memphis band.—Farmers' Union.

To Chicago from the Seaboard.

A number of owners of steam yachts in New York intend to utilize them to transport themselves and their friends to the Chicago exposition by way of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal. They believe it will be of great advantage to live aboard their yachts and thus be independent of crowded hotels.

Lucky Hash.

James Hash, of Richland township, Owen county, Ind., while digging on his farm, unearthed an old wooden box several feet below the surface, in which were twenty-three pieces of Spanish silver money. The oldest coin dated back to 1810.

Enterprise Among English Papers.

The boat race between the representative crews of Oxford and Cambridge is rowed annually on the river Thames. This year's race was noteworthy, not only on account of the breaking of the record in point of speed of the contestants, but as enabling the London press to carry out sucessfully a remarkable piece of enterprise.

The London papers containing the result and full details of the race were on sale within four minutes after the Oxford crew had passed the winning post. The press boat as it steamed up the Thames paid out a cable consisting of a seven strand conductor, insulated with vulcanized rubber, with warps and braids of flax, which had been specially manufactured for the purpose. Over this cable the progress of the boats at intervals of a few minutes along the entire course was transmitted to the papers and published all over London almost as the crews were passing the points indicated.

Immediately following the result there was dispatched a complete description of the race from start to finish, which was in the hands of the newspapers and others provided with instruments long before a single pressman was able to land his "copy" from the press boat at Mortlake, and also long before the pigeons dispatched from the scene were able to settle down in a homeward direction. The instruments used were Morse sounders. The short description of the race which was finally sent contained over 150 words.—London News.

Paper Makers to Stop for Awhile.

Representatives of nearly all the Holyoke paper mills that make fine writing papers and one of the mills in Mittineague and one in Westfield met in this city Tuesday morning to consider the matter of the annual shutdown. These manufacturers belong to the fine writing paper section of the American Paper Makers' association, and a shutdown means a reduction of from seventy-five to 100 tons a day in the output. It was understood that the mills would shut down from July 1 to midnight of July 11, although no formal vote was taken on the subject. The Holyoke mills will be forced to shutdown from July 1 until midnight of July 4, as the water is to be drawn from the canals during these days. The shutdown is to enable the manufacturers to work off the surplus stock, and is a little longer than the usual summer vacation.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

A Long Ride on a Snowbank.

Friday morning as ten miners were going from the Eureka Mills boarding house to what is called Rough and Ready, with dinner pails in hand, to begin their day's work, the soft new snow above the trail on the mountain side began to slide. In a moment the men were being carried down the slope with great speed. The snowslide separated, one part carrying five of the men down a slope about 700 feet, the other part continuing down about 1700 feet, leaping over a precipice probably thirty feet high and carrying the five men with it. At different times all the men but one were under the snow and, strange to say, but one man was injured. It was first thought his leg was broken, but we learn it was only sprained and bruised. Another man was almost smothered.—Pulmas County Bulletin.

The legislative assembly of Styria, in Austria, has passed a law forbidding poor people to marry without a special license from the authorities.

A calf with a single eye, no ears and five legs is the joy of Wayne county, Ia. It is now over a month old and bids fair to grow into full cowhood.
