MEMORIAL SERVICES

Love and Tears for the Blue; Tears and Love for the Gray.

DECORATION DAY.

We give this peaceful day to hope,
O country of our love and prayer;
Thy way is down no fatal slope,
But up to freer sun and air!

Tried as by furnace fires, and yet
By God's grace only stronger made,
To meet new tasks before thee set
Thou shalt not lack the old-time aid.

The fathers sleep; but men remain
As wise, as true, as brave as they.
Why count the loss and not the gain?
The best is that we have today.

O land of lands! to thee we give
Our prayers, our hopes, our service free;
For thee thy sons shall nobly live,
And at thy need shall die for thee.

Memorial Day was fittingly observed in Port Angeles this year; while probably not on as elaborate a scale as that of some previous years, yet in a way that plainly told that the loyal, patriotic people of the State of Washington have not forgotten and never will forget the brave boys who carried to victory that dear old flag which is honored today wherever liberty is prized.

Services were held on Memorial Sunday at the opera house, which was well filled with an appreciative audience. Rev. Geo. F. Graham of the First M. E. Church delivered the address, taking as his text I Cor. 13: 13: "And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity" or love; Mr. Graham, in his kindly way, dwelling on the beauties of love, self-sacrifice, making the text peculiarly appropriate to the occasion.

The weather Wednesday was propitious and all nature seemed arrayed in loveliness for the day. Early in the morning everybody was astir. Flags were floating to the breeze, our business men displaying "old glory" in honor of the men who defended the flag and business was suspended during the afternoon, when the streets were thronged with people of town and country who had gathered to witness the beautiful ceremony.

At eight o'clock in the morning the Grand Army boys and the women of the Relief Corps met at Post hall, where teams were in waiting to convey them to Ocean View cemetery where the Grand Army ritual was carried out and the graves of dead soldiers were tenderly decorated with flags and the choicest of flowers. Forty veterans of the Union army and one of the Confederate, as well as one of the Mexican and two of the Spanish wars, are buried there.

At 2:30 p. m. the band headed the veterans and relief corps and the march was made to the central school building, where the scholars were drawn up in rank and file and joined the column in the march to Morse wharf, where the beautiful and ever impressive ceremony of casting lovely flowers upon the waters of the bay in honor of the dead heroes of our Nation's navy was observed.

In the evening at 8:00 services were held at the opera house, under direction of Junior Vice-Commander J. A. Smith, Commander Orin Mason and Senior V.-C. D. B. Merrill being ill, tho the latter was able to be present. Adjutant H. W. Doty read the General Order. Rev. Geo. F. Graham invoked the divine blessing. Mrs. Nellie Dustman, President of the Corps, extended the Decoration Day greeting. Miss Jennie Finch gave a touchiug recitation, "Unknown Graves." The Flag Salute, "I pledge allegiance to my Flag and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all," was given by all present, while the color bearers, Mesdames Daisy Finch, Lillie Church, Bessie Fowler and Carrie Berry, crossed the flags above the altar, which, in common with the stage was decorated with ferns, vines and flowers. The address was made by Rev. C. E. Fulmer, who spoke on the three things or elements necessary in maintenance of a government of, by, and for the people: Fraternity, Charity, and Loyalty. His address was replete with patriotic thought and held the close attention of all till the close. The hymns were sung by the audience, "Decoration Day," "America," and "Lest We Forget." Rev. Fulmer's orchestra furnished the music.

OPERATES 6,000 MILES OF ROAD

Townsend Council Safeguards City's Interests Before Accepting Franchise.

The council met as a committee last night to consider the application of Attorneys Coleman & Ballinger for a railroad franchise over certain streets, says the Call of Wednesday. While nothing was given out by the council after the meeting which was held behind closed doors, it is understood that the joint user clause was demanded by the the council and accepted by the applicants. The council also demanded a number of modifications which were not objectionable to the applicants. Like all other companies asking for franchises, the application evidently contained more than was really expected and it was thought that the applicants will be satisfied with an absolute franchise with the common user clause inserted for two streets, Front and San Juan. The others, it is said, they are willing to wait for until the company has laid the tracks and shown the people beyond question that they mean business.

Mr. Coleman was present with the committee and he facilitated matters greatly. He stated that the people behind him represented 6,000 miles of road now in operation and that their experiences elsewhere had been such that secrecy as to their identity was essential. The franchise will be taken up at the next meeting on June 5th.

New Investors in the Angeles Stone Company Strengthen Concern in Every Way

Wm. Barnett severed his connection with the Angeles Stone Company last week and returned to Angeles Saturday. For some months past, or since he became convinced of the value of the coal deposits at Clallam, Mr. Barnett has endeavored to have the company elect a new manager; this was finally arranged by the arrival of Mr. Glass to look after the office work and by placing Dennis O'Brien in charge of operations.

The quarry, which not so long ago was a more or less visionary quantity, has become a steady producer, employing a small force of men at good wages and making shipments on the Transport with great regularity. While there is an unlimited quantity of the finest stone in the West most favorably situated for shipment, yet owing to a limited working capial and the slow demand during the past winter it has been impossible to run at full capacity, and a stock of sawed stone could not be accumulated. Consequently the company has had to throw away a number of valuable orders this spring which could not be filled on time.

Sales of capital stock have recently been made, and always at an increasing price. The new people coming into the company realize the bright future before the business and propose to double the capacity of the plant in a short time, employing a much larger force and shipping to other points. E. A. Girwin of Berkeley, Cal., is one of the recent investors, having bought the interest held by Thos. Heath, also a large amount of stock from other holders.

Since first learning of the stone deposit and organizing a company for its development, Mr. Barnett has met and overcome difficulty after difficulty, not the least of which has been the opposition of certain local parties who should have boosted the project along instead of acting as obstructionists. That he has at last gotten the quarry on a paying basis, clearing on the transaction a nice block of stock, which he intends to hold as an investment, is a matter of congratulation.

That Mr. Barnett's work in this line has been appreciated is evidenced by the fact that stockholders in the stone company are going into the new coal mining company, he having made arrangements while in Seattle for the necessary money to develop the properties owned by Mr. O'Brien and himself. But that is another story.

NO CONFIDENCE

RUSSIAN PARLIAMENT EXPRESSES OPINION OF MINISTRY.

Demand Made that Present Cabinet Resign---Apparently Refusal of the Demand Will Result in Armed Conflict---Crisis Fully Appreciated.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—At the end of a memorable seven-hour session the lower house of parliament yesterday indignantly rejected the government's policy as presented by Premier Goremkyn and, with only seven dissenting votes, declared lack of confidence in the ministry. This practically throws down the gauntlet to the bureaucracy with a demand for the retirement of the present cabinet and its supercession by a ministry approved by a majority of the house.

The spirit of revolution is in the air and a conifict between the crown and the nation appears inevitable. While the house avoided the appearance of presenting an ultimatum, the government seems to have no alternative between surrender and war. The gloomiest forebodings are heard everywhere, and it is generally believed the country is on the verge of a gigantic struggle, which may be delayed, but not averted.

Crisis May Come Monday.

Dispatches from the interior indicate that the struggle may be inaugurated tomorrow with a general strike, when the people learn that all amnesty has been refused. While the premier's statementp romised co-operation with the lower house, "insofar as the latter does not transgress the limits of the fundamental laws," it recognizes the agrarian question as paramount, proposing to remedy the deficiency in land through the opperation of the agrarian emigration to Siberia. It proposed the introduction of universal and compulsory education, the reform of the administration and realization of liberties.

Premier Goremkyn's statement, however, returned a non possumus on the chief question raised by the house. It declared that the fiat iand exceptional laws cannot be withdrawn until murder and terrorism cease. The expropriation of crown and church and private lands was declared inadmissable. The right of investigating administrative acts, the statement declared, belongs to the crown, the house having only the power of interpellation.. Amnesty, Premier Goremkyn said, is solely the prerogative of the emperor.

Resentment Aroused.

Such, briefly, was the government's reply to the address of the house, and the premier's words seemed to arouse all the latent resentment in the hearts of the members of the house The constitutional democratic leaders from the first gave free reign to passion, and orator after orator denounced the government's program and said that the ministry must give way to a cabinet in which the people must have confidence.

Premier Goremkyn announced that there was no hope for harmony Count Heydon, the leader of the right, deserted the government, saying inasmuch as it had refused to reddeem its promise to repeal the exceptional law, his vote also was for censure.

The resolution of censure, as adopted, provides that the house shall proceed with the order of the day Monday, thus adroitly placing upon the government the responsibility for the next move .

Lack of Confidence Declared.

The resolution of lack of confidence was drafted by the labor group. It is as follows:

"The declaration of the premier heard by parliament today contains the decisive declaration that the government in nowise wishes to meet the demands of the people By its refusal to satisfy the popular demands, the government clearly shows its disregard for the real interests of the people and in its present unwillingness to relieve from the shadow of new disasters a country which is harassed by poverty, lawlessness and the continued unpunished arbitrariness of the authorities, the lower house of parliament considers that it is its plain duty to proclaim its complete distrust of an irresponsible ministry. It regards as a most necessary condition to the pacification of the country and fruitful work by parliament the immediate resignation of the present cabinet by a ministry possessing its confidence. Parliament thereupon votes to proceed with the regular order of the day."

GOVERNMENT RESPONSE ANXIOUSLY AWAITED

St. Petersburg, May 28.—With breathless anxiety society awaits the government's response to the bold action of the lower house of Parliament Saturday, which, in censuring the ministry and demanding its retirement, was like a deliberate slap in the face and a direct challenge, which the government, though inclined to follow its usual policy of temporizing and compromise, can hardly avoid meeting. Parliament has burned the bridges and virtually has taken the step which the French states- general did when it transformed itself into a national assembly. By flaunting the fundamental laws and declaring that it proposes to exercise full parliamentary rights, with a responsible ministry, it has become , in the eyes of the law, revolutionary, and from that position there seems to be no retreat. News of the action of the house came like an electric shock. Both sides recognize the acuteness and seriousness of the moment, but panic is in the government and not in the popular camp.

Premier Goremkyn went to Peterhof immediately after the adjournment of Saturday's session, to confer with the emperor, and Sunday was devoted to agitated conferences between the administration and the premier. The constitutional democrats are displaying coolness in the face of the crisis.

They declare it is their purpose to go calmly ahead with the work before them, forcing the government to take the initiative. The strength of their position lies in the conviction that the Russian nation, and especially the peasantry, who are sure to be discontented with the fiat concerning the expropriation of lands, is behind parliament in its rejection of the government's policy as utterly inadaptable.

Constitution or Revolution.

"The government, if it dares to fight," said M. Kokoshine, one of the constitutional democrats, "can disperse the parliament, but the victory of the bureaucracy would only be temporary. It would inevitably be followed shortly by a bloody revolution, which would not leave a stick of the present government standing. The emperor must choose between a real constitutional government and the loss not only of his crown, but probably his head."

The social democrats and social revolutionists are delighted with the turn of events, believing they furnish just the stimulus needed for the rising they are planning.

The press, almost without exception, is pessimistic, recognizing the rgavity of the situation and tempest which the denial of the right of forced expropriation of lands will provoke among the peasantry.

Prof. Karief in a special article says a parallel of the revolutionary stage of the French revolution is now complete. He invites the ministry to substitute for the 1906 events those of 1789 and then to consider to what step they wish to continue their present course

HENRIK IBSEN.

Noted Norwegian Poet and Dramatist, Passes Away.

Christiania, May 26.—Henrik Ibsen, Norway's greatest poet and dramatist, died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Although Ibsen's literary activity ceased some years ago he has continued to be a familiar figure in the life of Christiania and was frequently seen driving in the streets with a companion. His sudden removal, therefore, deeply impresses the capital. He was 78 years of age.

King Haakon, immediately on receipt of the news of Ibsen's demise, transmitted his own and the queen's condolences to the bereaved family.

The storthing and other public bodies are formally recording the national grief at the loss of this foremost figure in the literary life of the nation.

All the theaters were closed last night.

DENATURED ALCOHOL BILL FINALLY PASSED

Washington, May 26.—After considerable debate the senate passed the house bill relieving denatured alcohol from the internal revenue tax.

The discussion turned largely upon the effect of the legislation on the manufacturer of wood alcohol, which Senator Aldrich asserted would be greatly injured. Senator Hale criticised some of the provisions of the agricultural bill as manifesting too strong a tendency towards paternalism.

The only amendment to the measure in the senate was one providing that the denaturization provided for shall be done "upon the application of any registered distillery," in denaturizing bonded warehouses especially designated or set apart for denaturizing purposes only.

MEAT INSPECTION

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE REGARDING AMENDMENT.

Packers and their Friends Bending Every Effort to Defeat It. President Will Do a Little Publicity In Case Domestic Inspection Is Not Authorized.

Washington, May 29.—An important conference was held yesterday at the White House regarding the amendment of Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, to the agricultural appropriation bill. The president discussed the question with Senator Carter, of Montana, and Prof. Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, who investigated certain packing houses, and later talked over the matter with Senator Beveridge.

At the conclusion of the conference Senator Carter dictated the following statement bearing upon the president's attitude:

"The meat inspection amendment placed on the agricultural bill has met with the opposition of the packers and their friends, who seem to be bending every effort to defeat it. The president says that if the amendment is enacted into law he will be content to merely remedy the evils complained of through the law.

"If, however, the amendment is defeated he will feel constrained in the discharge of his official duty to the public to send to congress the reports in his possession relating to the abuses existing in the packing houses.

"He feels that it is better to refrain from making the reports public, not through ary regard for the beef packers particularly, but because an official statement of the facts would injure the stock raisers of the country, thus making them innocent victims of a line of abuses for which they were not primarily in any sense responsible.

"The only answer that can be made to the consumers of our meats at home and abroad will be the enactment of a law through which an efficient and sufficient inspection shall be made."

Senator Carter said that the packers have asked for time in which to consider the amendment.

"One of the principal questions which they are considering," he said, "is whether they or the government shall pay for the inspection service. It seems a foregone conclusion that they will decide that Uncle Sam shall pay for the work."

Senator Beveridge points out that the expense will not exceed five cents on a carcass of beef and three cents on a carcass of a hog. While the aggregate expense will be probably $1,500,000 a year, it will be so widely distributed that it will not fall as a burden on the packers.

STATE COMMISSION CAN REGULATE CAR SHORTAGE

Olympia, May 28.—In an opinion just rendered, Attorney General J. D. Atkinson holds that the term "reciprocal demurrage," as found in the railroad commission law of 1905, gives the commission authority to compel the railroad companies to furnish cars to shippers and to enforce penalty for failure to do so within a reasonable time.

The decision is regarded as of the utmost importance, both by the members of the railroad commission and by railroadt raeffi officials. The commission is expected to promulgate reciprocal demurrage rules in the near fguture, in accordance with the attorney general's decision, and the vexed car shortage qusetion will then be transferred from the railroad office to the railroad commission itself.

The states of Virginia and Georgia enforce reciprocal demurrage rules of this kind through their railroad commissions, and car shortage troubles are said to have been reduced to a minimum in those states.

Compromise on Book of Forms.

Des Moines, Ia., May 24.—The controversy and debate over the Presbyterian book of forms ended late yesterday afternoon in a compromise in which all words that might indicate that the book is authorized were stricken from the resolutions and from the text and title pages of the book itself. The resolution of the opposition was incorporated, declaring specifically that the assembly made no recommendations with reference to the book. With these limitations the report of Dr. Henry Van Dyke's committee was adopted and all bitterness between the factions was avoided.

Guilty of Arranging Rebates.

Kansas City, May 28.—George L. Thomas, a freight broker, and L. B. Tagagrt, a clerk working for Thomas, were found guilty in the United States court here on the charge of conspiracy to illegally give rebates to shippers. The jury considered the case for only thirty minutes before arriving at a verdict.

Over Twenty-Five Million Goes to Panama Canal---Reduction of Over a Million in Public Printing Appropriation---The Principal Items.

Washington, May 30.—The sundry civil bill was completed yesterday and Chairman Tawney was authorized by the appropriations committee to report it to the house. The amount carried is $11,070,003 less than the estimates from the various departments. The canal appropriation is to be reimbursed to the treasury from the proceeds of the sale of canal bonds, which have been authorized to the amount of $130,000,000.

Deducting the canal appropriation, the bill carries $1,721,980 more than the current sundry civil measure.

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

"I have discovered why American women have to pay heavily to present that aspect known as 'stylish,'" said a women who keeps her eyes open. "In this country—and the rule holds good from New York to San Francisco—a modiste who can turn out a dashing costume charges from $15 to $25 for her work. I have known girls who had only about $35 or $40 to spend on an entire outfit and who had to buy remnants for $3 and $4 and then pay $20 for the making. In Paris the style is within the reach of every woman who is not downright poor. There is no such thing as a botchy dressmaker. The difference between the garments worn by the shopgirl in Montmarte and those of the grande dame is in the quality of the fabric and the trimmings. I think women should bring about a reform in the land of the free. They should insist on the style as do their French sisters. By going only to those who know their business and turn out a trim robe they soon would put the blunderers out of business."

AILING WOMEN.

Keep the Kidneys Well and the Kidneys Will Keep You Well.

Sick, suffering, languid women are learning the true cause of bad backs and how to cure them. Mrs. W. G. Davis, of Groesbeck, Texas, says: "Backaches hurt me so I could hardly stand. Spells of dizziness and sick headache were frequent and the action of the kidneys was irregular. Soon after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I passed several gravel stones. I got well and the trouble has not returned. My back is good and strong and my general health better."

HARD LUCK FAILS TO TURN.

Col. Bill Sterrett Relates a Pathetic Story in His Experience.

"It does beat all," remarked Colonel Bill Sterrett of Texas, as he gazed into the wood fire in the house press gallery, "how far some people will go to skin other people.

"I remember a case where I was indulging my appetite for poker in a game where there wa'n't no more limit than there was Christian charity. A party named Gibbs was in the game too. It came along to a place where there was a big jackpot. I was losing regular and Gibbs was winning regular, and I looked at him kinder baleful two or three times. Finally this Gibbs party says to me: 'Bill, you don't know nothing about this game. I kin outplay you and I kin outluck you. You can't hold 'em against me.'

"That made me kind o' sore and I says: 'Mebbe I can't, but I'll bet you $10 I've got a better pair than you have just at this identical moment before the draw.'

"'You're on,' says Gibbs, putting out a couple of blue chips. 'What you got?'

"'Pair of kings,' I said.

"'Huh,' says Gibbs, pushing the chips over to me, 'take the money.'

"Then I stuck out my chest and opened that pot. Gibbs trailed along and we drew cards. Gibbs took three and so did I. There was right smart chips in the pot and I bet fifty. Gibbs raised me fifty. I had garnered two more kings. I hiked it back and we went along as if we owned the treasury, until finally I called and threw down my four kings. 'Dot gast ye, Gibbs,' I says, 'I got you that time.'

"'Hold on,' says Gibbs, showing four aces, 'I'll take that myself.'

"Now what do you think of that? He had them two aces all the time and give me that ten without showing them and then goes out and gets me for all the chips I've got."—Washington Letter in New York World.

Take a good-sized haddock, remove fins and tail, leaving the head on, and thoroughly drying the fish. Prepare a stuffing of two ounces of chopped suet, two tablespoonfuls of breadcrumbs, one dessert spoonful of parsley (or mixed herbs), one egg, salt and pepper. Mix well together, and pack it into the fish. Sew up the slit with needle and thread. Place in well-greased basting-tin, and brush it over with egg or milk. Sprinkle with one tablespoonful of breadcrumbs and bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven, basting it occasionally.

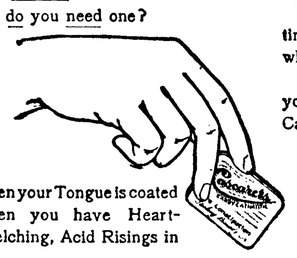
Eat a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it. Carry a little 10c Emergency box constantly with you, in your Purse or Pocket.

When do you need one?



—When your Tongue is coated

—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in Throat.

—When Pimples begin to peep out.

—When your stomach Gnaws and Burns.

That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

That's the time to take a Cascaret.

One candy tablet night and morning, taken regularly for a short time, is warranted to cure the worst case of Constipation or Indigestion that walks the earth.

One tablet taken whenever you suspect you need it will insure you against 90 per cent of all other ills likely to attack you.

Because 90 per cent of these ills begin in the Bowels, or exist through poor Nutrition.

Cascarets don't purge, don't weaken, don't irritate, nor upset your stomach.

They don't act like "Physic" that flush out the Bowels with a waste of precious Digestive Juice needed for tomorrow's Bowel-work.

No,—they act like Exercise, on the Bowels, instead.

They stimulate the Bowel Muscles to contract and propel the Food naturally past the little valves that mix Digestive Juices with Food.

They strengthen these Bowel-Muscles by exercising them.

This stronger action, producing greater nutrition from food, brings back to the Bowel-Muscles greater strength for self-operation.

The Bowel-Muscles can thus, in a short time, dispense with any Drug assistance whatever.

Cascarets are safe to take as often as you need them, while pleasant to eat as Candy.

Then carry the little ten-cent box constantly with you in your purse, and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it.

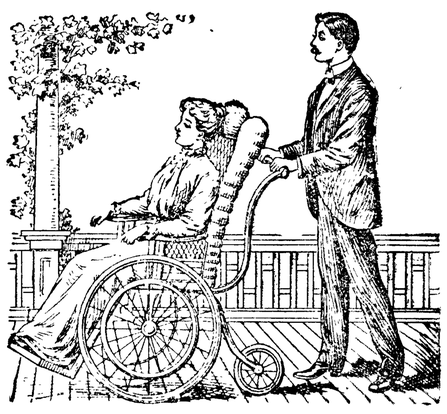
RHEUMATISM

ALMOST AS COMMON IN SUMMER AS IN WINTER.

While the damp, cold, changing weather of Winter intensifies the pains and other disagreeable symptoms of Rheumatism, it is by no means a winter disease exclusively. Through the long months of Summer its wandering pains and twitching nerves are felt by those in whose blood the uric acid, which produces the disease, has accumulated.

Rheumatism is a disease that involves the entire system. Its primary cause results from the failure of the eliminative organs, the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels, to carry out of the system the urea, or natural refuse matter. This coming in contact with the different acids of the body forms uric acid which is taken up and absorbed by the blood. This acid causes fermentation of the blood, making it sour and unfit for properly nourishing the body, and as this vital stream goes to every nook and corner of the body, the poison is distributed to all parts. The nervous system weakens from lack of rich, pure blood, the skin becomes feverish and swollen, the stomach and digestion are affected, the appetite fails and a general diseased condition of the entire system is the result.



Last Summer I had a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniments and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken three bottles I felt a great deal better, and I continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than I have for years. CHAS. E. GILDERSLEEVE. 613 32nd Street, Newport News, Va.

Not only is Rheumatism the most painful of all diseases, with its swollen, stiff joints, throbbing muscles and stinging nerves, but it is a formidable and dangerous trouble. If the uric acid is allowed to remain in the blood, and the disease becomes chronic, chalky deposits form at the joints, and they are rendered immovable and stiff, and the patient left a helpless cripple for life. Every day the poison remains in the system the disease gets a firmer hold. The best time to get rid of Rheumatism is in warm weather; because then the blood takes on new life and the skin is more active and can better assist in the elimination of the poisons. With the proper remedy to force the acid out of the blood, and at the same time build up and strengten the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and other organs of the body, Rheumatism can be permanently cured. External applications relieve the pain and temporarily reduce the inflammation, and for this reason are desirable, but they cannot have any effect on the disease. The blood is poisoned and the blood must be treated before a cure can be effected.

S. S. S., a remedy made from roots, herbs and barks, is the best treatment for Rheumatism. It goes into the blood and attacks the disease at its head, and by neutralizing the acid and driving it out, and building up the sour blood so it can supply nourishment and strength to every part of the body, it cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. is the only safe cure for the disease; being purely vegetable, it will not injure the system in the least, as do those medicines which contain Potash or some other mineral ingredient. S. S. S. tones up every part of the body by its fine tonic properties. While cleansing the blood of all poisons it builds up the appetite and digestion, soothes the excited nerves, reduces all inflammation, relieves pain and completely cures Rheumatism in every form—Muscular, Inflammatory, Articular or Sciatic. If you are worried with the nagging pains of Rheumatism, do not wait for it to become chronic, but begin the use of S. S. S. and purge the blood of every particle of the poison. Write for our book on Rheumatism, and ask our physicians for any advice you wish. We make no charge for either.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennet Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidingly takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps.

RAILROAD GOSSIP

Taking the Olympic forest reserve map as a basis, 36 townships west and south-west of Port Angeles would yield 62,208,000,000 feet. Allowing 20,000 feet to the car, 3,110,400 cars would be needed, and moving 50 cars a day for 300 days a year it would take 207 years to clear this area of its timber tonnage.

The first twenty miles of the P. A. & Peninsular to Lake Crescent will render available for railroad tonnage between 150,000,000 and 200,000,000 feet of timber now in the possession of individual owners who are anxious to mill it.

Port Angeles has about 3,000 population. Its harbor, formed by a natural breakwater, or "spit" known as Ediz Hook, from 300 to a 1,000 feet in width and three and a half miles in length. The oval shaped harbor has an unobstructed entrance two miles wide, and there is not a rock, bar, shoal or foot of foul ground within its ten square miles of perfect ancorage. By including the inner shore of the spit the port has seven miles of available water front. Arrangements have been made with the government for a lease two and a half miles of this spit.

The heaviest grade on the P. A. & Peninsular will not exceed 1 per cent, and the costilest bit of construction will be the twenty-five miles from Port Angeles to Lake Crescent, on which it is expected $562,500 will have to be expended. From Port Angeles to the crossing of the Elwha river, a distance of about nine miles, the road will traverse an almost level plateau, stretching southward from the Strait of Fuca for a length of nearly sixty miles and to a depth ranging from ten to fifteen miles. This tract is adapted to general farming, dairying and fruit growing, when logged off, but is now covered with a heavy growth of fine timber.

Crossing Elwha river, the line will run thru Indian valley, which is about eight miles long and embraces a large area of the richest kind of agricultural land, lying beneath its massive forest of cedar, fir, hemlock and spruce. From the west end of Indian valley it is about three miles to Lakes Sutherland and Crescent. After skirting the shore of Crescent lake for ten miles, the road will take down the valley of the Solduck to the Quillayute river, a distance of forty-eight miles, thru one of the greatest forests of big timber in the world.

The Solduck valley gradually widens as the river is followed toward the ocean until it is merged in the Quillayute valley, which is one of the largest areas of land suitable for general farming and dairying to be found in Western Washington. Tributary are the Calowa and Bogachiel valleys. In the "Quillayute country" are about 7,000 acres of excellent prairie lands; Quillayute prairie containing 3,500 acres; Forks prairie, 1,800 acres, and Beaver, Shuwah and Pleasant prairies a total of 1,200 acres. These lands, at present in a state of imperfect cultivation at the hands of the settlers, many of whom occupied them twenty-five years ago, will soon be sending their products to Seattle for market.

Acute Rheumatism

Deep tearing or wrenching pains, occasioned by getting wet through; worse when at rest, or when first moving the limbs and in cold or damp weather, is cured quickly by Ballard's Snow Liniment. Oscar Oleson, Gibson City, Ill., Feb. 16, 1902: "A year ago I was troubled with a pain in my back. I soon got so bad I could not bend over. One bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me."

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of Indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucin instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Notice to Property Owners

The strongest organization of any kind in the Northwest is an organization of sixteen thousand property owners for their own mutual protection against fire losses; it is the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association with head office at Seattle, Washington. Fully 90 per cent. of its business is on dwellings, household goods, well equipped factory risks, and such risks as are not subject to the conflagration hazard. The expenses of the organization are very light and in five years it has saved its members over $250,000 as compared with the annual rates they would have to pay stock companies for the same insurance.

MR. R. C. BUTTON is looking after the interests of the organization in this district.

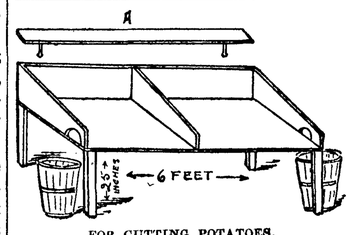
Potato Cutting Table.

When one has a large area to plant to potatoes the work of cutting the seed tubers in the ordinary way is not inconsiderable. One who is handy can readily make the seed cutter here described and save considerable time in preparing the seed for planting. Build a table about three feet deep and six feet wide, setting on it legs so it will stand about twenty-nve inches from the floor, just high enough so the average man can get his knees under it comfortably when sitting down. Have a back to the table a foot high, with sides cut so that at the front end they will be not more than six inches high. A similar board is run down the center, thus making a table at which two can work. In the side pieces, about three inches from the end that is open, the front end, cut a hole eight inches long. A basket is set under this hole, on the floor, and the cut tubers are passed through the hole into the basket. This is done so that by a movement of the hand the cut pieces may be dropped into the basket, rather than have the cutter reach over or around to drop the pieces, which would be necessary if the baskets were behind him or at the sides. Tall baskets are used generally, although the ordinary peach basket will answer the purpose. A shelf is placed at the top of the cutting bench at the back, on which knives and any other tools needed in the work may be kept. The idea is plainly shown in the illustration. — Indianapolis News.



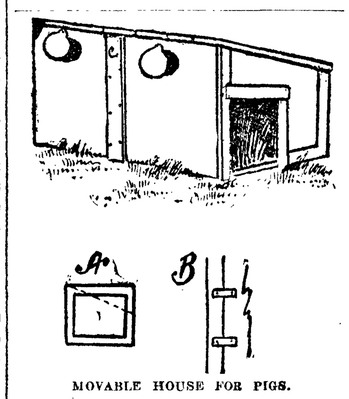
FOR CUTTING POTATOES.

Good Word for Guineas.

The Guinea fowl may yet become a very profitable branch of farm poultry raising. The scarcity of certain kinds of game which resemble in flavor the Guinea, especially the Western prairie chicken and grouse, has led to a substitution of young Guineas on hotel and restaurant bills of fare. Guineas of about the broiler age, weighing about one pound and a half are of an exceedingly fine, gamy flavor, and seem to satisfy the consumer. In this way the restaurants are able to dodge the game laws in certain States and serve "prairie chicken" on the bill of fare at all seasons. Gamehouses are paying high prices for young Guineas, and it would seem that large farms might be devoted to them profitably wherever turkeys and pheasants succeed.

Colony House for Pigs.

Small houses built after the following description may be readily moved to any desired location on the farm. The house is very inexpensively constructed, consisting of two large dry goods boxes; the ends of the boxes are removed, the tops cut off on a slant and the edges of the ends are fastened toegther with small cleats of wood or straps of iron; these latter are better from the point of strength. A cleat of hard wood covers the rough ends of the beads of the floor six inches wide. All nuails are clinched on the inside and all cracks between boards are battened. The door is cut in the end and holes, eight inches in diameter are cut in the upper front for ventilation. Small covers of wood may be fastened with screws so that they can be closed over the openings when the weather is very cold or stormy.



MOVABLE HOUSE FOR PIGS.

Blowing Out a Stump.

To remove a stump bore under it a slanting hole twelve or eighteen inches deep and use half a stick of dynamite or a whole one if the stump be large. Adjust the fuse and fill the hole with dry sand. Use a two inch augur for boring the hole. The stick of dynamite under a large bowlder will usually break it up so that it can be moved easily.

Start the Pigs Right.

The man who starts off his pigs on the corn ration about as soon as he can after they are weaned is laying in a store of trouble for himself later. There is a trouble known to swine raisers as contracted stomach, which results from an improper ration. The animal is apparently "off its feed," but the fact is, the ration has been so poorly balanced that the stomach has not grown with the growth of the rest of the body. If the young pigs are to be allowed a range they will do more or less rooting, eating of soil and sod; as this is their nature, it will not hurt them, but if they are placed where one does not wish the sod uprooted, then the animals must be ringed. If middlings and oilmeal are introduced with the corn ration there will be considerably less trouble. Some of the stock foods on the market have their greatest value to the swine raiser who does not feed a balanced ration and if these stock foods can be obtained practically free from drugs or condiments, they are very valuable in such cases.

Cold Killed Weevil.

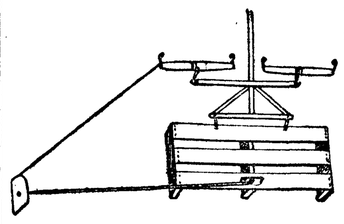
In the cotton-growing season the farmer is prone to forget the many new facts, developed within the past five years, concerning the protection of his primary crop against insects. The leaf worm is easy enough. The boll worm succumbs to poison and machine gathering. The sharpshooter and cotton-square borer can be successfully fought with paris green, according to the best authorities. The boll weevil must be studied further before final results can be announced. Fortunately, the severe winter just past has put so many of these pests out of business that the cotton crop of Texas will be exempt from devastating attacks from that source this season.—Farm and Ranch.

Warm and Cold Winters.

According to the director of the weather bureau at the Missouri State University, the time may not be far distant when the United States weather service can tell us at least six months in advance whether the winter will be warm or cold. It has already been determined, he says, that there are great world eddies of air sweeping around the globe which it is thought cause the difference in our winters, and as soon as stations are established everywhere so that the progress of these may be watched, the bureau will likely be able to give information by the last of September concerning the weather in January, February and March.

Corn Marker.

Runners of this corn marker should be 2x6 inches by 2 feet. The side arm is fastened to sled on a swivel, and is pulled along by attaching a rope to shoe and hooked to singletree as shown. This arm is made 1½x1½ inches and 10½ feet long, for rows 3½ feet apart. Of course this arm is reversible.



MARKER FOR CORN.

Winter Chickens.

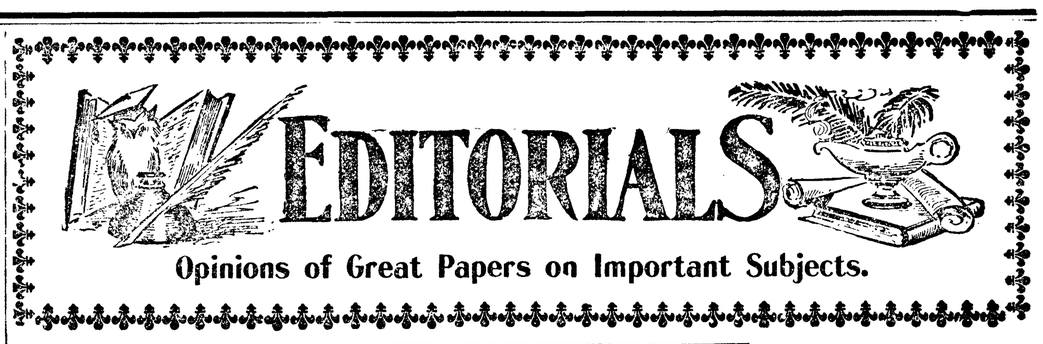
Chickens can be hatched in the winter months and profitably raised. You can hatch them from Sept. 1 until June 1. Other months are unprofitable. Chicks can endure cold weather better than extreme heat. Disease, lice and mites always come with summer months. The expense of feeding is no greater in winter. Profits can be realized from broods hatched in November, December and January. Of course, winter chicks do not grow quite so fast, but they produce a heavier coat of feathers. They grow more compact and solid if hatched early in the winter, and will be just right for April and May, when the price is at the highest point.

What Lime Does for Land.

Farmers often say that they do not need to use lime, because they use large quantities of it in fertilizer. Ground bone and other forms of phosphate contain lime. We cannot obtain phosphoric acid in ordinary fertilizers without lime. Such farmers mistake the most necessary function of lime in the soil. Air-slaked lime has a chemical action which sweetens the soil, makes it more compact or sets free other forms of plant food. This is quite distinct from its power to provide actual food for the plants. The lime in the bone or phosphate may in time serve as plant food, but the air-slaked lime is needed for the more important service.

Wireworms.

It is claimed by a New York farmer that wireworms will not live in ground where buckwheat is grown for two seasons and that potato land may be cleared of these worms by growing buckwheat.



Opinions of Great Papers on Important Subjects.

THE OLD GOVERNMENT CLERKS.

MUCH of the thought that used to be given to a consideration of "what to do with our boys" has been transferred to the problem of the old men. What is to be done with a man when he is old and feeble?

In the stone age, and among savages in more recent times, the question was answered by disposing of him in a mode which was the reverse of sympathetic and humane. We cannot revert to that system. Indeed, the difficulty to-day is, in the opinion of many persons, that we are too sympathetic. Take the case of the clerks in the departments at Washington. The law directs the secretaries to discharge them when they become incapacitated, but the law is not obeyed. So kindly disposed are people in these latter days that few if any old men are turned off. As a Congressman said recently, in discussing the condition, "Under the operation of the civil service regulation, with its wide-open door at the entrance, there is no other outlet, except resignation, than a door wide enough to let a coffin through."

Under the old spoils system, whenever there was a change of administration the President was accustomed to "turn the rascals out." There was a general removal of officers, and the newcomers made a pretty clean sweep of clerks. Now, although we are told that the Government service ought not to suffer by being made an asylum for those who are no longer able to do all that is reasonably required of them, the old men stay, and every one regrets that it seems expedient even to consider what shall be done with them.

How to promote Government efficiency without working hardship and doing violence to every kindly human sentiment is the problem with which Congress is now struggling. All sort of remedies have been suggested, such as summary dismissal at the age of 70, a pension system, and a progressive reduction in salary, beginning at 65 and growing less as the usefulness of the clerk diminishes.—Youth's Companion.

A GREAT LESSON FROM FRISCO.

IT was Sunday in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. Thousands of men, women and children, destitute, some suffering, all close to the most sublime tragedy this country has ever witnessed, gathered about a simple old man, white-haired, peaceful-faced. There were men there who had not seen the inside of a church in years; there were those who had deemed prayer weakness and religion sham. There were those who had scoffed and those who had forgotten the days when they had knelt at mother's knees, and then slipped off to bed, feeling, somehow, that somewhere there was a Great Sheltering Hand that would care for them. Then these words were read, words as grand and as impressive as God's out-of-doors:

"Other refuge have I none, hangs my helpless soul on Thee;
Leave, oh, leave me not alone; still support and comfort me."

And thousands of people joined in that simple hymn and sang the sorrow from their breasts; sang till heaven seemed closer; sang till Hope found place in aching hearts; sang to the glory of the Almighty and in a belief that whatever is must be for good; sang for the better days that are to come. And the white-haired preacher knelt in the grass and prayed as only a man can pray who has unshaken Faith in a just God. He prayed for Hope, for light, for guidance. And he told his God that the people still trusted and believed, and were sure that all would be well.

No great organ pealed, no silken clad congregation passed out of a church. These people wore blankets, rags, the cheapest garments, to hide their nakedness. But they were nearer to that inscrutable Providence that rules the earth, that governs the tides and the life of the sparrow, than ever before. There were no stained glass windows, but the setting was nature's own, a haven for a multitude in time of peril.

And Hope was born on that Sunday. And there was new courage to do and be and to face calamity with stout hearts; to set face toward duty and to again do men's work; to build better, cleaner, saner, finer, as they sang:

"All my trust on Thee is stayed; all my help from Thee I bring.
Cover my defenseless head with the shadow of Thy wing."

THE RUSH TO EUROPE.

THE filling up of the passenger steamers of the thirty lines plying between Europe and this country and Canada, on this side of the Atlantic, was never carried on so vigorously as during this year.

The demand for rooms for summer travel, never so large before, shows no sign of abating. Even the July sailings to the ports where the tropical sun roasts everything in its path are all taken. This is not because torrid temperatures are sought in the middle of the year; it is the only way left to those disappointed in a northern passage to get to the mild zones of northern and central Europe. Forty-eight hours on a railroad train from the disembarking port, sun-baked and scorched by the winds from Sahara desert, will bring the American pleasure seeker to the mildness and exhilaration of Switzerland, Germany, Great Brittain and the Scandinavian countries of the north. This atmosphere will repay the gentleman and gentlewoman for the discomfort of a long, dusty and hot railroad journey in the semi-tropics.

All the lines are adding new steamers but the demand keeps ahead of the supply and thousands of Americans who would like to make the trip to Europe in pleasant weather are obliged to stay home for lack of suitable accommodations.—Utica Globe.

GRAFTERS IN CHARITY WORK.

WHEN Kansas was suffering from the visitation of grasshoppers the whole country united in raising money and contributing food and clothing for the sufferers. Many a mean man was developed then. The contributions were so generous that opportunity was afforded for graft. And more than one man now rich laid the foundation of his fortune in the cash or goods which he stole from the relief fund. Much the same thing has been noted in a smaller scale in the San Francisco case. It is about the sma' business in the world.—Salt Lake Inter-Mountain.

THE GREAT ERUPTION OF VESUVIUS—EXORCISING THE FURY OF THE MOUNTAIN.

AN INVOCATION TO STAY THE RAIN OF ASHES.

Throughout the ruined district such scenes as this were frequent. Before the sacred images the priests, surrounded by fugitives, said prayers for the cessation of the eruption. These services were often held in the midst of the rain of ashes.

AFTER GRADUATION.

In reply to the question, "What becomes of college girls?" a certain college president says, "Why, nothing unusual or sensational happens to them. They scatter all over the country, and become active and useful members of society." Then, says the New York Sun, the president produced a class-book of a class that has been out of college ten years, and let the record reveal the history of the members.

There were one hundred and forty-five in the class when it was graduated. One-third of the members have traveled abroad, and all but thirty mention teaching and tutoring. About fifty-five have done graduate work at other schools and colleges, and up to the present time forty-one husbands have been acquired.

"Married on the hottest day you ever saw to the best fellow," records one girl.

"Married a lieutenant in the United States navy, and since then have lived in a trunk in various places as near the seacoast as possible," writes another.

"Have achieved neither fame nor matrimony," is the pathetic record of one, "but belong to many societies, most of them respectable.

"After two years of nervous exhaustion, got married, and am now emulating 'The Commuter's Wife' in building a house and garden," writes one young woman.

Another, with several degrees and a sense of humor, frankly states her present occupation is nursemaid and housekeeper and "an advanced course in measles."

"A model aunt endeavoring to show four sisters how to bring up children," modestly states another graduate.

"The most enthusiastic naturalist in the State of Vermont," sums up one lucky girl.

One young woman writes tersely, "My native town can boast of but one sane college woman, and my family questions that."

Bookbinding has been the occupation of one graduate. Another, whose specialty is surgery, has performed a difficult operation on the maharain at the palace of the maharaja of Orchha. A third has written books and music and learned to ride a bucking broncho. A fourth, who has really achieved fame as an artist, modestly writes that she has been "doing a little illustrating, bear shooting and chaperoning." And a fifth has evidently made up her mind that she is to be a spinster, for she has adopted a little girl.

There is one thing about the history of this class that is worth noting. Nearly every member of it has been busy in one way or another. The record reveals neither idlers nor invalids.

DATES ARE DECIDED

ALASKA-YUKON FAIR JUNE 6 TO SEPTEMBER 30, 1909.

Decided Also to Exhibit Resources of All Countries Bordering on Pacific Ocean, as Well as Those of Alaska and Yukon Territory.

Seattle, June 2.—From this time on every true Alaskan, every believer in the Yukon territory and every one imbued with the Seattle spirit is expected to get out and talk "Alaska-Yukon exposition," to be held in Seattle June 6 to September 30, 1909.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the exposition another long stride was taken in exposition affairs, and its actual date and scope settled. These two features summarized mean that the fair will be opened on the twentieth anniversary of Seattle's fire, and will embrace not only a full exploitation of Alaska and Yukon resources, but will include those of all countries bordering on the Pacific ocean, together with its islands.

The matter of a site for the fair was also brought up, as well as a move towards securing a temporary administrative home for the fair.

Another result of the meeting is that today will see the formal request made to the governuor of Alaska and the lieutenant governor of the Yukon territory, that these officials immediately appoint an advisory board of twenty-five members from each of these districts to take their part in the organization and work of the exposition.

Primarily Pacific Exposition.

It was the general opinion of the committee that while not in the full sense of the word a world's fair, the exposition should nevertheless be a big one, and that while devoted to Alaska, the Yukon and the Pacific ocean, all states and countries of the world should be invited to participate.

In the matter of a site for the exposition it was decided to announce through the local press that the local committee desires the submission in writing of recommendations for sites.

The committee desires to hear from everyone interested suggestions for a suitable site for the fair, and the reasons for such preference.

The ways and means committee will meet on Tuesday and take up the matter of raising the necssary funds for the exposition and subscriptions to its stock.

SUMMER CAMP FOR ALL.

Entire Washington Militia Will Spend Week at American Lake.

Olympia, June 4.—Through Adjuant General Drain, in Washington, Gov. Mead has completed arrangements with Assistant Secretary of War Oliver for the participation of the entire militia of Washington in joint maneuvers with the regular army at American lake this summer.

The state soldiers will be accepted by the war department for the service for one week from August 5 to August 12, both dates being Sunday, the organizations to arrive in camp on Saturday, August 4. Assistant Secretary Oliver, in his communication to the governor, said:

"The government will endeavor, from its limited appropriation, to pay the entire expenses of this movement, with the understanding that such portion as it will be unable to meet will be paid by the state from its allotment."

On the return of Gen. Drain from Washington, which will be as soon as the militia allotment bill is passed by congress. he will issue the necessary orders for the camp and for the season's target work. The militia allotment bill increases the annual appropriation for the support of the militia of the country from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

NOME BOATS LEAVE.

Steamship Ohio and Victoria Inaugurate Season.

Seattle, June 4.—Yesterday marked the opening of the Nome season with the sailing of the steamers Ohio and Victoria. These vessels are carrying 1,310 passengers. Practically all the people on board are prospectors and many of them are headed for the interior from Nome up the Yukon. Both the vessels are taking all the freight which can be placed aboard them. Large quantities of fresh vegetables and perishables are being taken up, as these will be the first vessels to reach Nome this spring.

Practically all the Nome fleet is now in port and sailors state that there are more vessels in the harbor now than there has been for many years. There are now twenty-four ships in port. Of these ships thirteen are for Nome and will sail within the next five days. Passenger accomodations on these are sold out.

V. W. & Y. Gets Franchise.

Ottawa, June 4.—The bill to permit the Vancouver, Westminster & Yukon railway to extend its line through Yellowhead pass to Edmonton has passed the senate and now only awaits the formal sanction of the governor general to become a law. It has been strongly opposed on the ground that J. J. Hill is the real moving spirit of the enterprise and that the latter's purpose is by it to divert Canadian trade to American channels.

EXTRA SESSION.

California Legislature Meets to Consider Various Matters.

Sacramento, Cal., June 4.—Pursuant to call by Gov. Pardee, the California lesgislature met in extra session Saturday to enact laws and propose constitutional amendments made necessary by the recent disaster in California cities. It is expected that the work will be completed within two weeks. The governor specifies the laws which it is desired to have enacted. Among the important ones are the following:

Legaliizng certain acts performed during the recent thirty days holidays.

Providing for the restoration or substitution of lost records.

Appropriating money to restore or reconstruct damaged or destroyed state buildings.

Providing for pay of the national guard.

Providing that plats of title insurance companies may be used to prove property rights.

Providing for the erection at San Francisco of a building for state officials.

Appropriating $25,000 for school books for children of indigent parents.

Amending the school census law and making changes in certain school laws.

Requiring insurance companies to furnish the insurance commissioner with data as to policies issued.

Extending the time in which foreign insurance companies shall file annual statements.

Increasing the license tax on corporations.

Extending the time for publishing delinquent tax lists.

DECIDE ON CAMPAIGN OF UNCEASING ATTACK

St. Petersburg, June 4.—A campaign of unceasing attacks on the ministry by means of a daily bombardment of interpellations on the inexhaustible subject of bureaucratic abuses has been mapped out by the constitutional democratic committee and was discussed in detail by the members of the party during the evening.

The members of the conference were aroused from a dry discussion of the tactics by the news of the condemnation to death of Warsaw terrorists for the attempted murder of a policeman and the trial by courtmartial of thirty-six more political prisoners at Riga, who are in jeopardy of the fate of the eight who were executed there May 19.

St. Petersburg, June 4.—The speakers in the douma yesterday pleaded for the abolition of capital punishment, declaring the execution of political prisoners at Riga to be an insust to the douma, and the government's action conducive to anarchy. The deputies believe that a crisis is coming and will return home if hampered by the ministry.

SMOOT TURNED DOWN BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Washington, June 2.—That Reed Smoot is not entitled to his seat in the United States senate as a senator from Utah is the decision of the senate committee on privileges and elections by a vote of 7 to 5.

The decision was on Senator Dubois' resolution offered at the meeting two weeks ago, which was carried by Senators Burrows, Dolliver, Pettus, Overman, Bailey, Dubois and Frazier voting in the affirmative, and Senators Foraker, Dillingham, Hopkins, Beveridge and Knox in the negative.

The vote of Senator Depew was not cast.

Votes were had on the constitutional questions of expulsion and exclusion, after which the committee instructed Senator Burrows to immediately inform the senate of the action that had been taken by the committee and to request that a day be fixed for a vote at the present session.

TO MODIFY RATES.

Railroads Agree to Compromise With Coast Lumbermen.

St. Paul, June 4.—In conference with the traffic officials of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific the Pacific lumbermen effected a compromise which reduces the minimum car weight under the schedule which it was proposed to put into effect June 15. The time for putting it into effect was postponed until July 15 in order to allow the lumbermen to clear up old orders and adjust themselves to the new conditions. The details of the compromise have not yet been worked out by the officials, but it is said an agreement was worked out whereby the maximum will be lowered to some extent. It is expected that the revised schedule will be announced soon.

In the past the minimum car weight has been fixed according to the length of the cars, but now it will be fixed on the basis of cubic capacity. The railroads claimed that the cars were not being loaded properly, and that this method would obviate all disagreements.

Cannon Favors Wadsworth Bill.

Washington, June 4.—Speaker Cannon has expressed himself as favoring the Lorimer-Wadsworth plan to amend the Beveridge meat inspection bill so that the government will pay the expense of the inspection. He also favors the court review provision. The speaker holds that with the government paying for the inspection the cattle raiser need not fear a reduction in the price he receives for his beeves to packers and the consumer need not fear that he will have to pay the bill.

OREGON ELECTION

CHAMBERLAIN LEADS IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR.

All the Other Republican Candidates, Including Senator and Representatives in Congress Apparently Elected---Women Suffrage Defeated.

Portland, Or., June 6.—Never in the history of Oregon have the returns from an election come in so slowly and so unsatisfactorily as in the election which occurred Monday. Even in the more thickly populated parts of the state, where generally the complete count is announced on the day after election, only partial returns have been received, while from several districts, among these being Harvey and Malheur counties, absolutely nothing has been received .

Gov. Chamberlain, the Democratic candidate, has been re-elected; Jonathan Bourne, Jr., has secured the popular indorsement of his candidacy for United States senator from Oregon; W. C. Hawley, will represent the first district of Oregon in congress, and ex-Congressman W. R. Ellis will return to Washintgon from the Second district after an absence of eight years.

Woman suffrage has been defeated by a decisive vote.

The state legislature will consist of eighty-four Republicans and six Democrats, while with the exception of governor the entire Republican state ticket has been elected.

STAY IS GRANTED IN MOYER-HAYWOOD CASE

Boise, Idaho, June 1.—When court met in Caldwell yesterday the attorneys for the state filed a motion for continuance. It is based on a federal statute which, as construed by the supreme court, prohibits a state from taking further proceedings in a case of this kind when an appeal from a United States circuit court in habeas corpus proceedings is still pending. The motion was granted and proceedings are stayed.

There was but little discussion of the matter. Judge Smith announced that he would sustain the motion, having found on examination of the statutes and decisions that the state court was absolutely prohibited from proceeding.

It was definitely decided by the attorneys for the defense that they will take no further steps. This announcement has been made by C. S. Darrow. The cases will not come to trial before the end of the year. Messrs. Darrow and Richardson left for their homes this morning.

REPORT ON STATEHOOD WILL BE OPPOSED

Washington, June 4.—Conferees on the statehood bill have signed a report covering all points in dispute, but exception was taken by the Democrats to the agreement in relation to Arizona and New Mexico. The vote was unanimous in regard to the provisions relating to the admission of Oklahoma and Indian territory.

The exceptions taken by Senator Patterson and Representative Moon, the managers on the part of the minority, indicate that the agreement may yet encounter shoals in the senate, where a poll shows that without Democratic votes the report cannot be adopted. The opposition to the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as one state has been led from the first by Senator Foraker. By the aid of a few Republican votes and practically the entire Democratic strength, he has succeeded in preventing an agreement on any measure that would not give to the people of either territory the right at a special election to reject joint statehood.

By the agreement just signed the people of these territories can vote separately on the question of statehood at the regular election on November 6, at which time territorial officers and officers of the proposed new state are elected, and a vote upon the constitution, heretofore adopted, is also to be had.

SENATOR GORMAN DEAD.

Maryland Senator Passes Away After Protracted Illness.

Washington, June 5.—Arthur Pue Gorman, United States senator from Maryland, died suddenly at his residence in this city at 9:05 o'clock yesterday. Senator Gorman had been ill some five months. He was 67 years of age and leaves a widow and six children.

Mr. Gorman has for many years been a leader on the Democratic side of the senate and has several times been prominently meantioned as Democratic candidate for president.

Pacific Coast Packers Protest.

Washington, June 4.—Protests have been received from the Union Meat Company, of Portland, Or., and leading packers of Seattle protesting against the Beveridge amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill. They do not object to federal inspection of packing establishments, but do object to having the cost of inspection assessed against them.

Ventilation of Farm Buildings.

There are no small buildings on the farm that cannot be amply ventilated by the simple plan here described. Generally such buildings are of the single or sloping-roof sort so that the plan can be carried out at small expense. In the rear of the house, near one corner, build an air shaft, made by joining at the edges four boards about eight inches wide. Set this into the ground or fasten to the floor if of boards so that it will be firm. Have it open at the top, of course, and make it three or four feet high. In the side of it, next to the wall of the building and about a foot up from the floor cut out a piece so as to have an opening the width of the board and about six inches the other way, and in the side of the building opposite this hole in the shaft cut a hole of corresponding size. Cover those two holes as well as the hole in the top of the shaft with wire netting so that no bird or small animal can get in.

This is the shaft by which the air enters the building. Then build another shaft long enough to reach the floor up through the roof so that it will come out through the roof a foot or fifteen inches. The top of this shaft must be capped so that the opening will be protected from rain. The lower end is to be covered with wire netting. Fasten this firmly at the roof end and with corner supports to the floor at the bottom. The plan is simple, easy to construct and works splendidly. It is particularly good for ventilating poultry houses. In the plain illustration A represents the shaft through which the foul air passes and B the shaft through which the fresh air enters.

No Remedy But Spraying.

Several nice-sounding schemes for getting the better of the San Jose scale have been suggested, some of them sincerely and some of them by frauds who had a powder of some kind for injection into the trunk of the tree. One writer suggests that if inexpensive trees are planted around the orchard it is desired to protect, the scale will be kept off the more valuable trees. This is nonsense, and the plan will only result in providing additional food for the scale. Any fruit grower trying this plan on any considerable scale would not only fail in accomplishing the desired results, but would, in some States, lay himself liable to prosecution for encouraging the pest. Up to this time no remedy for the San Jose scale has yet been discovered except spraying, and spraying persistently and thoroughly season after season. As for the powder and other things that are to be injected into the trunk of the tree this is plainly fraud and unworthy a moment's consideration by any man of sense.—Indianapolis News.

Combined Roller and Marker.

A neat attachment to a garden roller is the following: Bore holes eight inches apart lengthwise and put in pins. To mark the garden make these pins each hold a small rope, encircling the roller by driving them into the holes beside the ends of the rope. More than one row of holes can be used to change distances. Tack strips lengthwise of the roller to mark places in row for setting plants.

Gang Plowing.

Recent improvement in traction engines and gang plows is making a great difference in the manner of breaking the soil on the larger level farms of the west. Some of the newer arrangements do the plowing and harrowing at one operation. Under certain conditions of soil and season a drill is hitched behind the harrow and a barren field in the morning is seeded to grain crop at night. Those of us who have carefully prepared a large acreage ready for seeding and got caught before drilling with a three-day rain storm will appreciate the advantages of this manner of doing business. It has been frequently predicted that steam power for working the land could never be applied successfully to medium sized farms, but the problem is being simplified each year.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

Growing Black Raspberries.

The amateur who wishes to try berry growing will find the black raspberry a good plant to begin with. The raspberry is in all probability the most honest of berry growing plants. There is no waste, the berries are uniform in size, and as soon as gathered they are ready for the table, or for preserving. A plantation of this fruit, once established, should last six or eight years. It will grow in almost any soil except a very stiff clay, or one that is so poorly drained that the water stands on the soil for some time before being drained away. It is a heavy feeder, so its soil must be fertilized every year or two to keep up its maximum productiveness.

A northern exposure is best for the plant, for it suffers from extreme heat, and the direct rays of the sun, more than from extreme cold weather. A sloping ground is preferred to either the summit or base of a hill. The black raspberry is propagated by burying the tips of the canes about August. Simply dig a little hole with a spade, and bend the cane so that the tip will lay in the hole, then cover it with soil and press it down. The weight of the soil will usually hold the cane; if not a small peg may be used. In the fall a young plant with a mass of roots will have been formed. The old cane may be cut away and the young plants will be ready for setting out. In most cases it is well to let the young plants remain until spring before transplanting. Proper attention should be given to pruning raspberries. Canes of the first season produce fruit the following season, but after bearing they may be cut away.

Hold Cross-Cut Saw to File.

Take two pieces of one-inch board (hard wood is best), wide as saw in widest place, and as long as the saw between the handles. Shape the boards with a "billy" like the cutting edge of saw. Lay your saw on one of these boards with the teeth above the board enough to file nicely, and straddle the saw with a pair of six-inch strap hinges, near the ends of the boards. Now open the hinges and remove the saw, and mark around the hinges to show where to let them in the board the thickness of the hinge. Fasten hinges to this board, and then to the other board in the same manner. Now you have a pair of jaws in which your saw will rest on its back, permitting the teeth to come above the edge of the jaw to file. Bevel edge of boards. Now get two legs for each board, of 2x4, or sticks from the woods, as I did, and bevel to stand like legs of a sawhorse, and long enough to stand up to file easily. Fasten your jaw boards to these legs, from inside of jaws, with screws or wire nails. Fasten a strip across two of the legs at the bottom to put your foot on while filing to help to keep the horse steady. Put in your saw and pull out on the legs to tighten the jaws on the saw.—Farm Progress.

FOR FILING THE CROSS-CUT SAW.

Preparing Potato Ground.

All potato growers admit that a soil that is mellow and well-drained is absolutely essential for the best success in potato-growing; this is more than half the battle, and in this age of insects and bacterial diseases one cannot afford to grow potatoes for market unless he can supply the soil and the soil condition mentioned. The thorough preparation of the seedbed is also important, and the best growers prepare the soil as thoroughly as they would for wheat. First grade tubers for seed and then constant cultivation to keep the weeds down are the rest of the essentials in successful potato culture. In almost all sections, near large markets, potato-growing is exceedingly profitable, and the man with the soil should raise the tubers.

Notes for the Bee Keepers.

Bees should have some pure drinking water within easy reach.

Bees, like men, are good-natured when they are making headway in providing for the future. This accounts for the different receptions given to an intruder at different times.

Beekeeping is an interesting scientific study aside from the pecuniary profit. There is no more entrancing pursuit when one becomes really interested in it, aside from its financial side.

Beehives are now so constructed that they may be opened and their contents removed or changed about and examined without materially interfering with the action of the bees. They frequently continue their labors even when the comb is held in the hand of the beekeeper.

Honey is always a ready seller and the price per pound averages anywhere from 12 to 20 cents, depending upon the locality and quality. A good hive of bees in the average locality will produce about seventy-five pounds of honey per year and pay 50 per cent on the investment of the first season. Get posted on beekeeping if you seek a pleasant and profitable occupation.

The Appendicitis Fad.—Not one patient in ten who is operated on for appendicitis is a sufferer from the disease. An occasional case of appendicitis requires operation, but the appendix craze is in full swing among the people, as well as among many doctors. Many good physicians are inclined to regard any pain or ache situated below the diaphragm as due to a fullfledged case of appendicitis, requiring immediate operation for a fat fee. The leading men in the profession are to blame, for they refuse to raise their voices against an abuse which they know exists and the insistence of patients themselves for the frequency of these unnecessary operations.

Gallstones.—These result from the accumulation within the system of retained mineral matters and are particularly serious where alkali water is used. The treatment depends to some extent upon the peculiar conditions present. As a rule, however, fasting or light diet with free drinking of distilled or lithia water, enemas, sweat baths, the use of absolvents and abundant exercise to induce perspiration will do much toward giving relief. The hot sitz bath, hot applications and avoidance of mental strain are important. In a large number of cases the only cure is a radical operation and this when performed by a competent surgeon is not especially difficult, painful or dangerous.

Brain Disorders.—Congestion of the brain most frequently results from worry and anxiety of the mind, producing sleeplessness, followed by engorgement of the small blood vessels of the brain, sudden loss of vital power and almost instant death. Apoplexy may be an inherited disease, or it may be induced by too free living or its opposite, too great abstemiousness. Paralysis may affect only a small part of the body, from a finger or a toe to an entire limb, or it may disable half the body or the whole body, when death soon follows. When half the body is affected with paralysis, we may be certain that the seat of the disease is in the opposite side of the brain, because the nerve fibres cross.

WEDDING WAS INTERRUPTED.

Halt Ceremony While Sally "Jagged" the Chickens.

Bishop Candler of Georgia recently told one of the national lawmakers from that State an experience he had when he first began to preach the gospel and tie nuptial knots, says the Washington Times.

"One day I was called on and engaged to marry a couple in one of the out-of-the-way districts. I found the house a rudely constructed log affair, with but one room and a loft above, which was entered by a ladder and a trap door. A big table was in the center of the room, and it was loaded with good things to eat, everything having been cooked on an open fireplace which took up nearly all of one side of the room. The bride and groom lined up and I was proceeding with the ceremony, and while in the most impressive part of it, the old lady poked her head out of the trap door in the loft and called:

"'Sally, turn them chickens and jag 'em with a fork.'

"The command was obeyed by the daughter, she leaving the trembling bridegroom while she jagged 'em with a fork. I could not help laughing at the ludicrousness of the whole affair, and I have never witnessed a marriage ceremony since without remembering this experience."

Stevenson in Samoa.

Stevenson's life in Samoa is, in some ways, the most interesting story of all, and here again you can find that story in his own writing. This time, however, it is in his letters more than in his books. These letters are so vivid, moreover, that you feel as if you were right in Samoa with him. You are living in his spotless little box of a house, called Vailima, which means "five rivers," and so reminds you that it is within sound of flowing streams. There, from the broad veranda—and the house is almost half veranda—you can look straight up on one side at the wooded Vaea Mountain; and on the other side down 600 feet before you gleams the sea, "filling the end of two vales of forest." The house is built in a clearing in the jungle. The trees about it are twice as tall as the house; the birds about it are always talking or singing; and here and there among the trees echoes "the ringing sleighbells of the tree toad."—St. Nicholas.

NORTHERN PACIFIC AT TOWNSEND

So much comment has been made locally upon the articles appearing in the P.-I. the past week, and upon the probable source of information that we reprint a large portion of them; to our mind, however, the following in the Townsend Call is equally or more promising:

Mr. Felger, who arrived from Seattle today, was asked as to the cause which led to the P. T. S. asking this franchise at this time and his reply should serve to show the disbelievers in concerted effort that they are working on the wrong tack. Mr. Felger replied as follows:

"A short time ago I was asked to go to Tacoma by Mr. Levy, who handed me a letter from the Commercial Club of Townsend, which opened up the proposition of extending the road to Water street. He said he was very much pleased to see Port Townsend take such an interest and he had decided to look into it. The application for the franchise which will be read tonight was the result."

When asked as to the company's intentions Mr. Felger said Mr. Levy had told him that this question has been a prominent one before the company for two years. The thing that has kept the company back and will continue to do so for a limited period is the work now being pushed along the Columbia and the extension along the Snake river. When these are completed and especially the former Mr. Felger expressed the belief that there would be no further obstacle in the way of immediate completion of the local road.—Call.

"FLAG DAY."

"Flag Day" will be observed over the country June 14. On Thursday, June 2, 1898, the American Flag association was formed. The flag had been improperly used, but there were loyal citizens who thought it should be held sacred and not put to uses which would teach young America to look upon its folds with less reverence than it was regarded by themselves.

It was becoming common to see it used as a trademark, as advertising a brand of cigars or soap, and in other ways it was put to uses that degraded and desecrated it. The object of the American Flag association was to prevent these abuses, and to secure a general celebration of June 14 as "Flag Day," because on that day 1777 congress selected the flag of the United States.

Both the purposes for which the association was formed have been accomplished. The putting of the flag to ignoble uses has been stopped and June 14 has been set apart by congress to be observed as "Flag Day" all over the United States.

The question of direct primaries is fundamental; one of principle rather than policy; moral rather than political. It is simply an attempt to restore to the people the right and opportunity to select their own officers.

GARDEN SPOT OF CLALLAM CO.

Above Comparison With the More Extensively Advertised Portions of State

No doubt many of the old residents of the county will not know to what particular spot the above heading refers, and then may doubt the appropriateness of the statement. To any such, if any there be, we would merely say, come and visit us on Seguin prairie for a day and we will convince you that all we say is true; and it will be a pleasure to any resident of the place to show you its many advantages. It is a beautiful, level tract, consisting of about fifteen hundred acres of prairie land—which but a few years ago would not support that many sheep—but, thanks to the enterprise of its residents, irrigation was introduced, and lo, what a change! The barren spots were made to bring forth abundant crops. At first it was but an experiment, and but a small amount of water was brought down, but as the people began to see what a marvelous change had been wrought they realized that it was necessary to have more water. Accordingly they went to work and made two more ditches, each one carrying thousands of inches of water from the Dungeness river, and now the "Rocky Seguin prairie" is all we claim for it, "The garden spot of the county."

From a population of but a few families living on large farms in 1890, we have grown to a population of nearly five hundred.

It is now possible for a man to make a good comfortable living off of ten acres of Seguin land. Clover will yield from five to six ton per acre. All kinds of vegetables are grown in abundance and of the best quality, especially potatoes and turnips. Mangels are also grown to a large extent by the dairymen. Alfalfa is being introduced, and it is claimed will be much more profitable than clover.

Our soil seems to be particularly adapted to the growing of strawberries, as well as to all small fruit. Apples, pears, plums, prunes, etc., do extra well. Last year apples were a great crop; some of the older orchards averaging ten boxes to the tree.

Many fruit growers are now experimenting with the eastern grape which has done well in a few cases and if properly cared for will yield a good crop.

Dairying is a very profitable business. Pasturage is good the year 'round. One acre is ample for one cow; ten acres, ten cows! No other section can equal this. Dairying is sure to continue to be the leading industry of our people.

Realty has increased in value steadily until today one cannot buy land on the prairie for less than thirty-five dollars per acre; and improved land is paying interest on two hundred dollars per acre. Still we are only in our infancy, for there is not to exceed two hundred acres irrigated properly. It takes time and labor to get the land in good shape for irrigation. Nature has done her part by placing the material here. Now we must do our part and get to work, or rather keep up the good work so well begun. As we have all the advantages of many larger places we can conscientiously invite our friends in the East to come and settle among us; there is a plenty of room, and settlers will not be taking their families into a wilderness.

We have one of the best schools in the county, being the only one outside of Port Angeles that employs more than one teacher and has a nine months term, with one hundred twenty scholars enrolled. Two telephone companies doing business, with one hundred fifty subscribers getting long distance service. Rural mail delivery, five shingle and two lumber mills in operation, with logging and pole camps all about us, and a climate not to be beaten anywhere.

Seguin is situated two miles from salt water, one mile from Dungeness river, with the grand Olympic range of mountains and their snow capped peaks visible at all times; a tiny stream of water running through our yards and fields at intervals of sixty to one hundred feet, little need of any one worrying about the future.

No wonder the Seguin resident is happy and contented. We can make many more happy if they will come and settle on Seguin prairie, or on the logged-off land around us, all of which can be irrigated.

There are no failures on Seguin, agricultural or otherwise; come and get a ten acre tract and be happy for life.

J. L. KEELER.

SEGUIN NOTES.

We will celebrate. A mass meeting of the citizens of Seguin was held on Saturdry evening last when it was decided to have a celebration here July 4th. It will will consist of an old fashioned basket picnic in one of the many groves that are so well adapted to such an occasion. Seventy-five dollars were subscribed at the meeting toward the celebration, to be divided among the sports and fireworks, which will be the finest display ever seen in this section. All to be followed by a grand ball in the hall.

A branch of the Tax Payer's League was organized here last night with a membership of 25. The officers are: Dr. McGeorge, pres.; Wm. Brown, sec'y.; H. S. Sindars, Sr., treas.

It has rained most of the time the past week and the crops are looking fine.

We are to have a drug store in Seguin July 1st, in the building formerly occupied by the Ind. Tel. Co. as an office.

J. L. Keeler purchased a five acre tract in the northwest corner of the old Bell place, and will plat same as several business enterprises are looking for locations in this thriving community.

Mr. Flower of the Tribune-Times staff was a visitor at Seguin last week, showing that since the great special edition he has found out the existence of such a place.

Mrs. Wm. Kase was a passenger up sound on Thursday's boat.

Seguin is now blessed with two photograph galleries. Mr. McKissick could not handle the business alone this year, which shows the prosperity of our residents.
