THE DEMOCRAT-LEADER.

VOL. 7. NO. 14. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1896. PRICE FIVE CENTS

SMYTHE VS. TIFFANY.

The Somewhat Noted Case Has Come to An End.

THROWN OUT UPON TECHNICALITY.

Lawyer Embree Puts in An Effective Plea That the Act Under Which Tiffany Was Being Prosecuted Was Deficient in Its Title, Inasmuch as It Does Not Specify the Purpose of Its Provisions—Judge McClinton Agrees and Dismisses the Case.

The case of the State of Washington against O. A. Tiffany, upon complaint of William Smythe, charged with making a false assertion concerning Mr. Smythe, he being a candidate for election as school clerk of District No. 7, came before Judge McClinton Monday upon the demurrer of the defendent to the information.

The ground of the attack on the information was the unconstitutionality of the law under which the defendant was being prosecuted. The act embracing such law is entitled "An act to prevent bribery in elections" and was passed by territory of Washington and approved December 1st, 1881. The organic act of the territory provided that the title of every act shall clearly express the object of the same.

The supposed law in the act above mentioned provided that "any person who should knowingly and willfully make any false assertion concerning a candidate at any election under the laws of the territory, having a tendency to prevent his election or with a view thereto," should be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The court gave its decision Tuesday and ruled in accordance with the defendant's contention that the subject matter of the act, as above stated, was not within its object as indicated by its title and was, therefore, unconstitutional and void.

The court having declared the act void the prosecution was necessarily dismissed and the defendant discharged.

On the part of the state the case was conducted by Prosecuting Attorney Stewart, assisted by George C. Hatch, and Benton Embree acted for the defendant.

Season of Comedy.

Hodges Comedy Company opened a summer's season here last night in "David Garrick," with Mr. Walter Hodges in the title role. He is an actor of very superior powers and has gathered around capable artists.

Their work last night fully justified their reputation for clean, high class comedy. No one can afford to miss the opportunity of seeing them. They will appear in a series of standard plays and if the patronage justifies it will remain here during the summer.

Tonight they repeat "David Garrick" and Saturday evening will present "My Partner."

"A HAVEN OF REFUGE."

Admiral Beardslee Speaks in Glowing Terms of Our Harbor

Admiral Beardslee in company with a friend, was standing on the bluff Tuesday afternoon looking over the bay. "This is a marvelous work of nature," he said, "It may not have caught your attention, but I witnessed something unusual yesterday," he continued, "my ships were going through their maneuvers exactly within the mouth of the harbor. There are no sand bars to interfere with the movements of the ships, an advantage you will not find hardly in any other harbor in the world. It is an ideal practice ground.

"Once the ships here I have no anxiety as to any accidents. No rocks, no shifting sands to be continually watched. The wonder is that this harbor has never been discovered by the naval department before.

"I can easily maneuver sixteen war ships, two abreast, in this harbor and do it in perfect safety with ample room for all, to say nothing of the open sea to the east which could be utilized if necessary. And then the economy of it all. To take a vessel like the Philadelphia up to Portland necessitates an outlay of about $800 for towage alone. No such expense needed here. Smooth sailing right into port and perfect anchorage anywhere you drop the anchor. It is indeed a "haven of refuge."

SELLING OUT AT COST.

The U. S. Clothing House is Going Out Of Business in This City.

The U. S. Clothing House, for a variety of reasons, has decided to got out of business. The firm was established here four years ago.

They put in an immense stock of goods, well assorted and of good quality always; in fact, it has always been a stock far ahead of the demands of a city of the size of Port Angeles. However, they have kept it up from the start and have sold their goods at city prices.

Mr. Greenberg regrets the necessity that compels him to make a change. He has always been well satisfied with the location of the city and her people, but has been at last reluctantly forced to the conclusion that he is not justified in carrying on business on such a scale.

We are sorry to see the firm go out of business. Mr. Greenberg is well liked here. He has always been courteous and attentive to the wants of his patrons. He has made many friends, who apart from business relations, will regret that he is forced to leave Port Angeles.

In order to attain his end, Mr. Greenberg has decided to close out his immense stock at cost. Everything in the store will be sold either at or below cost. In fact, much of the stock will go below cost. He has a large assortment of goods on hand and there will be a fine chance to secure some very choice bargains.

Every arrangement has been made to look after customers' wants. Additional help has been secured and no patron will have to wait an hour or two before being waited upon.

The sale will begin next Monday and will continue until everything in the store is sold.

CRESCENT TROUT.

Treated by President David S. Jordan, of the Leland Standford University.

Through the courtesy of Mr. M. J. Carrigan we have had the pleasure of inspecting the article of David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, defining the results of his investigation of the Lake Crescent fish. It is issued as a part of the Junior University publications under the head of "Contributions to Biology." The scope of the work is indicated in the prefatory note as follows:

"This memoir is the fifth of a series designed to illustrate the investigations and explorations of the Hopkins' Seaside Laboratory, an adjunct of the Leland Standford Junior University. The present is paper published with the co-operation of the California Academy of Sciences, appearing simultaneously in its present form and as part of the proceedings of the academy."

Fourteen pages are devoted to a discussion of the Crescent trout, illustrated by three full-page cuts of unusual excellence. The author gives a very minute description of the different specimens sent him.

The article begins as follows:

"Some months since Rear-Admiral L. A. Beardslee, U. S. N., called my attention to the splendid trout found in Lake Crescent, a mountain lake in the Olympic range, above Port Angeles, Washington. These trout, according to his views, were of two species, one or both of them new to science. These are locally known as the 'Blueback' and the 'Speckled' trout.

"Recently, through the kindness of Mr. M. J. Carrigan and Geo. E. Michell, one specimen of the speckled trout and two of the blue-back have been sent me for examination. I find myself forced to agree with Admiral Beardslee in the opinion that each of these forms is distinct from any previously recorded or named. The two are allied to each other, rather than to any other form, and the nearest affinities of both seem to be with the steelhead trout rather than any other."

The Olympic Club.

"The Olympic Club of Port Angeles" was organized during the past week and is now under full sail with prospects of a successful cruise. The institution grew out of a feeling that a common meeting ground should exist where the officers of the fleet could find a home while on shore.

A number of our business men got together Monday and decided on the preliminary steps and elected the following officers:

President, M. J. Carrigan; vice-president, J. Scott; secretary, F. S. Mackintosh; assistant secretary, George Ulmer; treasurer, F. P. Fisher; trustees, Judge McClinton, Geo. Michell, W. K. Clark, Thos. H. Bradley, J. W. Hume, Thos. Aldwell, A. A. Richardson, B. Keller; house committee, M. Carrigan, Capt. T. Bradley, F. Mackintosh.

The board of trade rooms have been secured for the use of the club. They will be arranged into two rooms and will be tastefully fitted up for the purpose.

The front portion will be used as a general reception and reading room. It will contain a piano, plenty of easy chairs, secretaries and stationery, card tables, the leading New York and Pacific Coast dailies, magazines and standard periodicals, in fact everything to make it an attractive place for the members and visitors. The rear room will be devoted wholly to billards. Electric buttons will connect the two rooms with the City hotel, which will furnish a special man to look after the wants of the clubmen.

Meteorological Changes.

The weather bureau has been manufacturing a little breeze on its own hook this week.

Observer Bell at this station has received notification from Washington City to proceed at once to Seattle and take charge of the office there. He will be relieved by Charles Adie, now at Neah Bay. Frank Beahan, stationed at Tatoosh, has been ordered to report at Winnemucca, Nevada, for duty.

Mr. Bell thinks he can get his office in shape to move next week.

CITY FATHERS ISSUE ORDERS

To Clean Up Cesspools Along Front Street and Also to Put in Drains to Carry Off Water From Hydrants—They also Grant the Use of City Hall For Various Purposes—Munro Granted a Leave of Absence.

Mr. James Perkins, C. C., F. R. G. S., whose home is London, Eng., has been a guest of Mr. N. R. Smith the past week. Mr. Perkins is a typical representative of the fine, old, English gentleman, famed in poesy and history, honest and blunt, but with a heart as tender as a child's.

He is on a tour of the United States, having come here directly from Southern California.

On Tuesdey last Mr. Smith took him out to see the beautiful Elwha river scenery. On their way back they had a narrow escape from serious injury.

When just about the Eacrett ranch they saw ahead of them a team of horses dashing madly toward them, with a portion of a wagon sweeping the narrow road from side to side. To let them come on meant a terrible crash and possible death. The road was too narrow to allow the runaways to pass and too near to turn about and run.

Mr. Smith took the situation in at a glance. He jumped from his buggy and rushed forward to meet the frenzied animals.

As they came up to him he made a leap and caught the horses and after being dragged a short distance managed to stop them. It was a risky piece of business, but it averted a great danger.

The team belonged to one of the Indians living on the Elwha. The wagon was completely demolished.

Mr. Perkins took the affair coolly and after being assured that Mr. Smith had never seen or handled the runaway horses before, remarked in surprise "Really, now, quite clever, you know."

At the Council.

The city council met in regular session Wednesday evening.

The city clerk was instructed to notify parties owning property on north side of Front street from Geraghty place to Laurel street to put in a drain and fill up the cess pools under the sidewalks in front of their places.

The street commissioner was instructed to put in a flume across Laurel street to carry off the water from the hydrant at the corner of Front and Laurel streets, the flume to connect with the one on the east side of Laurel street.

R Eacrett, Sr., was granted the privilege of erecting a veranda in front of his place of business.

The National Packing Company was granted the privilege of stretching a wire from the telegraph office to their cannery for the purpose of telephone communication.

Bill of the DEMOCRAT-LEADER for $21 for city job printing was allowed.

The Republican club was granted the use of the city hall each Thursday evening.

The Horticultural Society was granted the use of the city hall August 13th.

The marshal was authorized to employ a deputy at $1 a day, beginning August 1st.

Munro was granted leave of absence to the middle of October.

The council then adjourned to meet next Wednesday night.

On Sunday night the Opera House has been engaged by Miss May Howard, the well-known medium and mind reader in her wonderful science of spirit powers producing some of the most marvelous manifestations ever witnessed in this country.

The annual conference of the M. E. Church that was to convene September 2nd has been postponed until September 9th.

Your news item of last week stating a slim attendence at the Methodist church was erroneous. As a fact there was a larger attendance at that service than has been usual and the collections for the day were larger than any previous Sunday with one exception in three months.

Your readers can rely upon the absolute truth of any church news sent from this church. The Methodist people are not ready to change their correspondent who sends news that can be verified by inquiry—of the officials.

DUNGENESS, Wash.

Editor Democrat-Leader:

Your anonymous correspondent of last week opens many weak points in his armor that might be successfully assailed, but to do it we should also have to descend to the personal and that we decline to do. We are in the position of the fat lady, (in the park) who said to the small boy: "I am going to ride on one of the donkeys and I'll pay for one for you if you like to go with me."

The small boy replied: "Thankee, mum, but I'd rather sit here and laugh."

That is the position we occupy and the only reply we make to an attack from the woods.

Yours respectfully,
ROBT. C. LEE,
Pastor M. E. Church.

THE SAWMILL IN ASHES.

Fire Destroys the East Clallam Mill and a Stock of Lumber.

The sawmill at this place went up in smoke Thursday morning along with a stock of lumber piled up around it.

The blaze started up over the boilers about 3 o'clock in the morning and the first known of the fire by the watchman was upon seeing the roof a big sheet of flames.

E. F. Donahoe, the owner of the mill, has been watchman lately during the absence of the regular man. He was on duty Wednesday night and states that about 3 o'clock he took a short walk from the mill down the street; hearing a quick and startling noise he turned about and saw the flames bursting through the mill roof. Although but a short distance from where he stood the fire had gained such headway by the time he got to the mill that nothing could be done by him alone to check it. He gave all the alarm he could by shouting, but by the time help came the fire was beyond control and the crowd of men labored faithfully for hours to save the wharf and town buildings by tearing up planking, removing lumber and with water dipped from the bay keeping the fire from spreading.

The dry and hot weather of the past two months has made a spark of fire a dangerous thing anywhere in the mill and several times lately the roof has caught. The mill has been running since last Friday and necessarily the boilers have been kept hot night and day. The attempt made to turn water on through the hose at the mill failed as a steam pipe burst and the pump was rendered useless.

The loss of the mill and lumber is estimated at $40,000. Insurance is $20,000.

The loss is a severe one to the town as the sawmill was the main industry here. It is not known yet whether or not it will be rebuilt this year, but will be during 1897 if the sale of lumber justifies its rebuilding.—Clallam Bay Record.

Last summer one of our grandchildren was sick with a severe bowel complaint. Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which gave very speedy relief. We regard it as the best medicine ever put on the market for bowel complaints.—Mrs. E. G. Gregory, Fredericktown, Mo. This certainly is the best medicine ever put on the market for dysentery, summer complaint, colic and cholera infantum in children. It never fails to give prompt relief when used in reasonable time and the plain, printed directions are followed. Many mothers have expressed their sincere gratitude for the cures it has effected. DEMOCRATS, Populists and Bimetallists have fused in Kansas and Nebraska.

WHAT place in the cabinet will be reserved for Herr Most if McKinley is successful?

THE Republican machine has met with little success in its effort to whip Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls into the gold column.

THOSE Republicans who howl anarchy at the Democrats must not forget that Herr Most is a gold man and is supporting McKinley.

THE "middle of the road" Populists and administration Democrats are playing their part as assistant Republicans well. The P.-I. and the McGraw ring have some consolation in this.

J. SLOAT FASSETT, Republican nominee for governor of New York, recently said to a New York newspaper: "The Republican farmers up in my part of the state have got the free silver craze, and got it bad."

THE Minnesota Democrats, Populists and Bi-metallists have fused on the National, State, Congressional and county tickets. Leading and well-informed citizens of that state say that there is no question but that it will give silver a large majority.

THE Alabama election resulted in an old time Democratic majority of 50,000. This was the first election since the Chicago convention. The Democratic governor-elect is a free silver man. The legislature is Democratic by a two-thirds majority, which insures the re-election of Senator Pugh. Many Populists, it is claimed, returned to the Democratic party on account of its free coinage declarations.

A CONTRAST.

Mark Hanna was recently asked by a newspaper man what the issue of the present campaign would be and replied that the sole issue "was the election of McKinley."

This seems to be the policy the Republicans have adopted from the beginning in the present campaign. McKinley and Hanna have said as little as possible about the issue before the people. They do not propose to do or to say anything that would give one an opportunity to make an intelligent guess as to what the policy of the administration will be in case of McKinley's election. They seek, apparently, to let gold men think that they are for gold first of all and the manufacturers and silver men to think they are first for a high tariff.

Hanna's first concern is to elect McKinley regardless of his record or his ideas on questions in which the people are interested. After the election, they would then do as they please.

On the other hand we have the campaign of Bryan. There is no attempt to deceive the people by his campaign managers. They have taken the people into their confidence and tell them plainly what they may expect in the event of the election of their champion.

I can now place loans on well improved farms. Correspondence solicited

WALLACE RESIGNS.

Hugh C. Wallace has resigned as national committeeman for this state. This is as it should be. He should never have attended the national convention. He misrepresented his constituents there. He betrayed his friends, who were led to believe that he would stand on the Tacoma platform.

The best thing, the most honorable thing that Wallace has done for two months was to resign as national committeeman.

JUDGE ORANGE JACOBS, one of the old war horses of the Republican party in this state who was delegate to congress as a Republican from 1875 to 1879, has come out for Bryan and free silver. He presided at the Bryan ratification meeting in Seattle last week.

SQUIRE FOR BRYAN.

Washington's senior senator is a true friend of silver. In a telegram which was read at the monster meeting of the Seattle Teller Club, Senator Watson C. Squire expressed himself in the following language:

"I take my stand with the friends of silver, and heartily indorse the platform adopted at the conference of the bimetallists at Tacoma June 30. As a necessary sequence, I shall support Bryan for president.

"The money question is the paramount issue of the campaign. All others can be held in abeyance. I believe that the growth of gold monometallism is the chief cause of the continued falling of prices that is causing so much distress, and that if the monometallic policy be persisted in the result will be general bankruptcy and ruin.

"It will be better for us to suffer some risks and losses at present rather than inflict so much greater losses upon ourselves and our children at a later day, when creditors, debtors and the interests of labor will go down in one common and universal rain, if we do not proceed wisely beforehand to avoid such great disaster.

"Therefore, I trust that the friends of silver will patriotically unite in one common cause, regardless of previous party ties, and work for the speedy remonitization of silver in this country, which, if accomplished, will do more than can be done in any other way to effect silver remonetization throughout the world.

"I have been detained in the East by important business, and in attending to the interests of my constituents. It is my intention to proceed to the state of Washington as soon as possible to bear my share of the burdens of the coming campaign, which I think is one of the most important, if not the most important, in the history of this country.

"I bid Godspeed to the cause of the people."

Gun Practice.

Admiral Beardslee has started gun practice without any delay. Monday and Tuesday was devoted to machine gun practice, Wednesday to rifle practice and yesterday the heavy guns were given a trial. The sailor boys also had a few lessons in sailing the small boats. There was a splendid breeze and the boats made a pretty sight as they shot here and there under full sail.

The gunners made a fine record, the targets both of the Monadnock and Monterey being repeatedly struck until wholly demolished.

Communicated.

DUNGENESS, Aug. 3rd, 1896.

Editor Democrat-Leader:

DEAR SIR—We desire through your columns to make a few statements to the public in regard to the communication from Dungeness, which appeared in your issue of July 31st. We candidly ask the public and "S" himself to read again the article referred to in his communication and see what it contains that should necessarily offend anyone. The writer at least can find none.

What evil motive has been attributed to any? Certainly no one likes to have his motives misconstrued. But no inference was drawn that anyone need resent, nothing but courtesy and respect being expressed throughout.

If anyone has been maligned, it has certainly been Rev. R. Lee and that too, quite recently in the article over the signature "S."

Is "S" a member of the M. E. Church that he wants to dictate who its pastor shall be? Who deserves the epithet of "Pope of Dungeness" if not such an one?

The present writer has no connection with the M. E. Church, nor does he expect to have, but it does have his good will in all the good it undertakes. He, therefore writes from an outside point of view and desires to see fair play though there were only one man on the other side.

In certain instances, it might be well for a church to consult with outside parties in regard to their preferences for pastor, but it certainly is under no obligation to do so, and anyone who so demands that it shall, asks a great deal.

As far as the present writer has ascertained, every member of the Dungeness chuch is in hearty sympathy with their pastor and have as much confidence in him as ever, notwithstanding many rumors set afloat by some designing parties, and the fact that he has their support should carry as much weight in deciding who their pastor shall be as any voice from outside.

If we do not mistake, as to the fact, who "S" may be, his letter has taken on a different sound from those of former times. What may be the cause of this change? We are left in the dark and can only infer. The answer is not found in any statement that he has made.

Mr. Lee has always stood for law and order ever since he came into our community, and existing conditions bear witness to that fact. He still has the respect and support of many worthy citizens about Dungeness for so doing. And the fact that he has done so has brought forth much complaint and some little newspaper gossip.

But we call into question any man's right to malign another, simply for standing firmly by what he regards as the just law of the state. We certainly are not living in Russia or some other despotic country, where the people have no voice in the law.

No man will gain respect by heaping calumny upon a citizen who is working merely to uphold the law.

We would refrain from saying anything at all on this subject, but are prompted by a sense of justice due to the feeling and opinions of a few at least of the Dungeness community, and further that the general public may know the question is not so one-sided as has been represented.

JONES ON SILVER.

Washington's Attorney-General Writes About Silver.

Attorney-General W. C. Jones in S. F. Examiner

The action of the St. Louis convention has left every sincere Republican bimetallist without a political home.

In the past, the Republican party has always favored bimetallism whenever it has spoken on the subject in its platforms, and has directed us to go before the people and advocate that doctrine. In 1888 it denounced Democracy for its efforts to demonetize silver, and, at least by implication, promised that if returned to power it would restore the white metal to its place as standard money. In 1892 it declared that the party from tradition and interest favored bimetallism, and demanded the use of both gold and silver as standard money. It has now turned a square corner and declares its adherence to the present gold standard and its unalterable opposition to the restoration of silver unless by international agreement, an achievement which I am constrained to believe no well-informed man in that convention hopes ever to see accomplished; at least until this country shall take such action as will force England to abandon the gold standard.

It even professes a willingness to debase the currency if other nations will consent.

The advocates of the gold standard have now thrown off the mask of deceit and hypocrisy with which they have heretofore obscured their utterances, and frankly admit that we are on the single gold standard now; that bimetallism means the equal treatment of the two metals at the mints on a ratio fixed by law, and that the use of silver as standard money means free coinage.

The party now invites us to go before the people and repudiate all we have said in former campaigns in favor of bimetallism and acknowledge that the Republican party is not what it pretended to be; to stultify ourselves before the world by admitting that we are either knaves or fools—fools to have innocently advocated bimetallism if it was wrong, knaves to abandon it now if it is right.

Speaking for myself, I decline the invitation. Nor will I indulge in any prevarication about this delusion of international bimetallism. An unprejudiced study of the report of the Brussels conference will satisfy any candid man that the continental nations will agree to no monetary treaty that does not bind England, and will equally satisfy him that England will never agree to any compact that will reduce the purchasing power of her billions of foreign securities and the interest annually received, in the neighborhood of 50 per cent., until she is forced to do so. But should the co-operation of any other nation be deemed desirable, it could be secured by discriminating tariffs incorporated in the very act restoring silver.

But I am too much of an American, I am too proud of the greatness, the energy and the power of this country in which I live, to admit for a moment that the United States should consult the pleasure or the policy of any foreign nation in regulating her finances.

This country annually produces and consumes of all manufactures more than half as much as all the balance of the world combined. Of cotton it produces 64 per cent., of corn and oats about 50 per cent., of copper 40 per cent., of steel and its manufactures 38½ per cent., of pig iron 37 per cent., of lead 35 per cent., and of wheat about 25 per cent on an average.

The great English statistician Mulhall recently reduced the productive energy of the principal nations to foot tons, and these are his figures:

Millions of foot tons:
United States	129,306
Great Britain	56,110
Germany	45,580
France	34,580
Austria	22,510
Italy	11,390
Spain	10,640

The other nations are comparatively insignificant. It is thus seen that measured by this standard the United States almost equals Great Britian, Germany and France combined, and is treble the next three nations on the list. But this is a faint comparison. The annual transportation of the world reduced to tons carried 100 miles is 1,540,000,000, of which the railroads carry 1,400,000,000, and water craft, on ocean, lake and river 140,000,000. The railroads of the United States carry 800,000,000 tons of this traffic, being 60,000,000 tons more than is carried by all the railroads outside this country added to all the water traffic of the entire world. But more than one-third of the water traffic is in this country. The annual tonnage through the Sault Ste. Marie canal, an outlet to one of our lakes, is many times greater than passes through the Suez canal, a highway connecting two oceans.

The volume of business transacted by any country is measured by its production and consumption, plus its transportation, which measures the volume of exchanges and specializations of industries. Viewed in this way, the United States is more than one-third of the commercial world.

Two-thirds of the inhabitants of the world are today on a silver basis, and they transact about one-third of the world's business. One-third the inhabitants, including the United States, are on a gold basis and they transact two-thirds of the business.

Let the country transfer its support from gold to silver, and more than two-thirds of the people of the world and nearly two-thirds of the business would be on a silver basis. Can any one deny that under these circumstances the demand for silver would be greater than the demand for gold, and that as a consequence the white metal would go to a premium over the yellow? But this country adopt bimetallism and lend its support equally to the two metals, and their party will be maintained without any inconvenience to us.

In the face of these figures the American who insists that this country can not regulate its own financial system without foreign interference insults the nation which honors him with citizenship.

Let bimetallists exhibit a degree of patriotism commensurate with the danger that now threatens the commonwealth, subordinate personal ambition to the welfare of their country, unite under one banner, on one platform, and for a single ticket, and victory is assured.

The Beaver Leader says "Pat Kelley went out Wednesday." Is Pat a tallow candle that he should be so referred to?

Ice cream and cake were served after the entertainment was concluded.

Excursions.

It is not improbable that a large excursion will be arranged for from Seattle and Tacoma to this place during gun practice by the fleet. Mr. Nadeau, general agent of the Northern Pacific railway, has written to M. J. Carrigan, local agent, that he is considering the matter and that if he can be assured the excursionists can be entertained he will go ahead and work it up.

The steamer Kingston will be used in case the excursion takes place. Mr. Carrigan is also arranging for an excursion from Victoria.

An Exciting Trip.

The latter portion of the voyage was extremely exciting. There was a heavy sea rolling and a very fresh wind, but the little boat road the waves in fine style. The boat is at Moore's shipyard. Mr. Ackles will put a cover over it before returning home.

At Lauridsen's store there are on exhition two stalks of grain, one of oats and one of wheat, each of which is over seven feet tall. They were grown on Geo. E. Winter's ranch. The grain is in perfect condition. They are certainly fine specimens of what Clallam county can raise.

AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

The Port Angeles Stars Defeat the Dungeness Club.

The Port Angeles Stars are winning everything these days. The Dungeness Club came down last Sunday and got a severe trouncing. The score was 21 to 13, the Angeles boys not playing the last half of the ninth inning. Our club is putting up a fine article of ball and we would not be at all surprised if they came out first in the state for the Examiner trophy.

It is quite likely they will have to meet the Post-Intelligencer nine, as it defeated the Everett Club last week. If this should be the case we may look for a fine game.

The logs were got out by Scott & Shaw, but now belong to a Tacoma man named Moore, who has had a crew at work lately getting them off the beach where last winter's floods scattered them.

J. P. Fallihee went up to Gettysburg Monday night where he will be engaged for the next two weeks with Joseph Sands and Robert Smith in putting up ten miles of new wire between Gettysburg and Pysht. The new line will be put on the county road and the old line, which runs along the beach, abandoned The telegraph office here is closed until August 16th.

The railroad will be constructed if that subsidy is raised. There is no longer any doubt about this. A small party of business men are expected here shortly to look over this end of the county whom we are assured are ready to push other enterprises down this way. It all depends upon the railroad and the railroad depends upon the subsidy. This subsidy is absolutely needed to make the project sufficiently safe for the investment of capital. Without it the railroad will not be undertaken at all during the present business depression. The railroad is a good thing, push it along.
