The Commonwealth is sent this week to a large number of persons in Clallam County and elsewhere. in the hope that they will appreciate our motives and whether they agree with our views or not, will give us, by subscribing, a chance at least to make ourselves understood. To those who live in Clallam County, we would say, that your interests are our interests and that nothing so aids in building up a county as a live and aggressive newspaper and, to that end, in helping us you are helping yourselves.

ORGANIZED FOR PLUNDER.

The prospect of statehood has, of course, made great stir among those whose "interests" are involved in doubtful schemes based upon the uncertain status of tide lands, school lands, etc., under the territorial condition. The work of the organization for the business of public plunder has already begun, and before the meeting of the legislature this fall, it will, no doubt, be extended to include in one big ring all those whose "interests" are for themselves and against the public.

The tide-land grabbers held a meeting last night in this city and effected a "defensive" union which, it may be presumed, will join with other local unions of tide-land grabbers at Tacoma and elsewhere. In the courts and elsewhere these conspirators will fight in unison—that is, they will pool their combined resources of "influence" and money to bear for the protection of claims founded solely upon presumption and trespass.

In this movement toward organized effort in support of absurd and bogus claims, the people of Washington may see the beginning of what will no doubt be a hard fight. It is only necessary to say that in this fight the side of honesty and public interest will not be without its champions.—Post Intelligencer.

We are glad to see so powerful and popular a paper as the Post Intelligencer take such high ground in the matter of state lands. We shall do all in our power to aid in the election of men who will regard and treat such lands as just as much the property of the next as of this generation. We look upon them as a sacred trust to be transferred intact to our children and our childrens children. As such, both the school and other state lands should be leased and not sold. For many years to come these lands will rapidly increase in value and should be so leased as to require a new valuation at least every five years. Manifestly in such reappraisments the value of improvements should not be considered. Tide lands adjacent to cities and towns should be ceded to the muncipality to be treated in a similar manner.

In this way a constantly increasing income will flow into the treasuries of the state and such cities as may own the lands, and the objectionable plan of investing the state monies in mortgages will be avoided.

A NEW RULING.

We have received the following, and are asked to explain its meaning:

"The Secretary of the Treasury has recently ruled in the matter of coastwise steamers entering Puget Sound ports and depating again for foreign ports. Heretofore the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's boats, after touching at the Sound ports, would depart for Victoria and Vancouver, B. C., without clearing for B. C., from the port of entry. The ruling makes it obligatory on vessel masters to clear each time from the Port Townsend custom house."

Under the old custom laws all cargoes in bond had to be discharged at the Port of Entry for the District.

Afterwards, Ports of Delivery were created. Vessels could then enter at the Custom House and proceed to the Port of Delivery and discharge her cargo.

At a Port of Delivery, vessels cannot enter or clear without permission of the Custom Authorities.

Seattle and Tacoma have long been Ports of Delivery, and as such, vessels could go from the Port of Entry to either place without breaking cargo. Heretofore when a cargo was discharged at either place the vessel was allowed to clear at that place, and proceed on her return, without touching at the Port of Entry. Under this ruling a vessel discharging cargo at a Port of Delivery will have to go to Port Townsend to clear.

In all probability the Secretary will make a different ruling as to our Port of Delivery, by allowing British Columbia vessels to enter and clear here, thus making it a partial Sub-Port of Entry. If he does not, the bill lately passed will be of neither ornament nor use to Port Angeles.

RETRIBUTION.

The "Times—Parnell" case which has been dragging its weary way through the courts of Great Britian has come to a sudden and, as far as the Times is concerned, inglorious termination by the confession of Pigott, who furnished the letters on which the prosecution was based, that the letters were forgeries. Thus is Parnell vindicated and his enemies confounded. It will be hard to foretell the full outcome of such a disaster to the Times and Tory government. It is probable that a change of ministry will be the result at the next regular election if not before.

To Ireland the benefits will be incalculable in cementing the national party which, under the leadership of the now triumphant Parnell, will move forward with renewed energy. It will be a glorious thing for that landlord ridden country if Parnell shall have so far seen the error of the land purchase scheme, which is but the abolition of a few landlords by the creation of many, as to become, in Ireland, the champion of the doctrine of the taxation of ground rents, a term synonomous with the single tax. In this way only can the land of Ireland become the property, of the whole Irish people, and that country be lifted out of the semi-barberous condition in which her people now grovel, and be launched into an era of prosperity and happiness.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.

Judge Wickersham of Tacoma, whose trial has occupied much space in the "up Sound" dailies has been convicted of the seduction of Miss Sadie Brantner and will be sentenced, we trust, to states prison for a term befitting his diabolical crime. It is only one of the many cases that happen and we are glad that for once the woman has come out ahead. The attempt to blacken the girl's character did not succeed with the jury.

Piggott the forger of the Parnell letters fled from London but was apprehended in Madrid. Excusing himself for a moment for the purpose of getting his overcoat. he stepped into a passage and shot himself through the head and died instantly.

A discussion of the single tax is going on through the columns of the Victoria Times.

THE CURE FOR POVERTY.

Following a description of the Primrose House, a home for working girls established in New York City, the Standard comments as follows:

Poverty is like some grasses; the more it is nibbled at the faster it spreads. The only way to extirpate it is to strike at the root. And what the root of poverty is no man can fail to see, who, dismissing prejudice from his mind, will seriously ask himself the question, "What is the source of wealth?" and insist on a satisfactory answer. For poverty is simply the want of wealth. It can be cured only by the acquisition of wealth. And the wealth must be acquired, not by gift, or theft—which only relieve poverty in the individual to encourage it in the mass, but by the productive labor of the men whose poverty is to be relieved.

Let the Society to befriend working girls think this out. What the working girls need is things—houses, clothes, fuel, food, furniture, books, jewelry, laces, and a thousand other things. All these are but the result of human labor applied to the raw material of nature. Out of earth and air, and water they have been wrought by man's labor, every one of them, and to earth and air and water they are all returning just as fast as they can. If working girls want more of them, what needs there to be done, save to apply more human labor to the inexhaustible materials of nature and produce them? There is no lack of coal in the bowels of the earth—why should the working girl lack fuel? There is no lack of brick clay, and timber and iron—why should the working girl lack shelter? There is no lack of pasture land for sheep, or of arable land for flax and cotton—why should the working girl lack clothing? She lacks them all, not because they cannot be produced in superabundance, but because they may not be. The men who would gladly mine coal, mold brick, shape timber, raise sheep, grow flax and cotton, build houses, weave cloth, and exchange these things for other forms of wealth which they need and the working girl is eager to produce—these men, like the working girl herself, are forbidden to apply their labor to the raw material of nature. They are fenced out from the earth, to which God gave them an equal indefeasible right with all other men. The coal and iron lie useless in the ground the brick clay is not dug, the timber unfelled, the broad pastures are bare of sheep, the rich soil is untilled, not because men are lazy, or unambitious for wealth, but simply, solely, and altogether because society by one gigantic robbery has made private property of that which the Almighty gave to be the property of all the race—has put the keys of nature's well filled storehouse into the hands of favored individuals, and authorizes them to forbid their fellows to use God's gifts, except as they may choose to allow, and on such terms as they may choose to fix. What the working girl wants is not a society to befriend her in her poverty, but that simple justice which shall make poverty impossible for her so long as she is willing to be indeed a working girl!

And this justice will be secured, without economic friction of any kind, without injustice to any man on earth, by the adoption of the single tax on land values. So soon as men who hold possession of nature's opportunities are compelled to pay to the community the value which attaches to those opportunities by reason of the competition among men for the privilege of using them, so soon will they either utilize those opportunities to their fullest possible extent or abandon them to the unhindered use of others. In either case, labor will find ample occupation, at wages of which it now dares not even dream. No man willing to work will then be idle; if capital declines his services, he will need but to seek a vacant piece of ground, an unused mine or quarry, an uncultivated field, and apply the labor of his hands, aided by such capital as any man, with a prospect of remunerative employment before him, can readily secure, direct to earth itself, and have the whole product for his reward. But capital will not decline his services. On the contrary, it will be eager to secure them, and will compete for the privilege of employing them. For though the laborer will be able to get along without the capitalist, the capitalist will be utterly helpless without the laborer. The richest mine owner or manufacturer will see his capital perish before his eyes if he cannot hire men to work for him.

And with men free to apply their labor direct to the earth the secondary processes of production will flourish as never before. Men wresting wealth from mine and pasture land and furrow will seek to transform it by exchange into a thousand different shapes. Think what the business of piano makers and watchmakers will be when every man who wants can afford to buy a piano and a watch. A surge of reviving industry will run through all society—a swelling wave of wealth. With all the barriers to production and exchange broken down, with every tax on industry abolished, with invention stimulated to its highest point, with the forces of nature everywhere harnessed to do man's work, what limit can be set to the wealth of the world? And it may well be, that in that time happy wives and mothers, looking backward a few years, shall shudder as they think of the evil days when women begged the privilege of work and working girls needed a society to befriend them.

The Lust for Wealth.

During the past few years the greed for gain has grown at a fearful rate in this country. It has become an absorbing passion with many. Men want wealth, not merely competence. They wish to be millionaires.

A moments reflection is sufficient to convince any sensible person that no man can earn a million of dollars or the half or tenth part of it. If one is to become a millionaire he must by some means get possession of the earnings of quite a number of his fellowmen, who will thus be deprived not only of the comforts, but even some of the necessaries of life.

Whoever wishes to become a very wealthy man must make up his mind to be very selfish as well as very shrewd. He must dispense with the guidance of conscience and the luxury of benevolence. He must eschew friendship, save such as exists among bandits; for unselfish friendship costs money and time.

The chief roads to great wealth in this country lie through gambling hells, gold rooms, stock exchanges, boards of trade, and other speculative marts; and these dens are crowded by men as devoid of honest principles as those who travel in the patent safe game.

Railway enterprises are being planned constantly by men who have no other purposes but to realize fortunes by manipulating the stock and the contracts. It matters not to them whether the country is to be benefitted or damaged. The only question is, can we by any amount of lying, flattery, lobbying, or any other species of modern business tactics, make a fortune out of the enterprise, and get out of it before it bursts up and ruins everybody caught in it?

Millionaires and paupers are the natural antitheses of each other. They are both symptomatic ulcers upon the body politic, indicating a deceased condition of socieiy. —Cape Ann Advertiser.

Vested Rights.

The single tax idea by Professor Garland sets forth the expediency of raising all revenue by levying a "tax" upon rental value of land, and opposes the present system of taxation.

To all of this many serious minded people reply that, while the community really does create all rental values, and therefore should be the possessors of them, yet the citizen who has bought land of the government, paying for it, the result of honest toil, with the expectation of receiving any and all increased values which should become attached to it, from whatever their source, must be compensated for the taking from him such rental values. To this reply is made, that as the rental value does not belong to the owner of the land, but is a natural secretion, or accruement of society, therefore society must have it. From the other side again comes the reply that the intent of both the law and the makers of it must be fulfilled; that if the law is bad, and the making of it was a wrong or mistaken act, then let the government, which is responsible for the making of it, repair damages; make good its acts, fulfill its contracts, defend its citizens from financial harm at it (the government's) hands.

So right here we meet fairly and squarly the question of vested rights. Is the government an organic body, and must it act the part of an individual and stand to its own acts and contracts, fulfilling the purposes and intents of its laws? The citizen bought of the government land, with the expectation of receiving whatever values should become attached to it, and the makers of the law expected he would receive such values, and now shall he or shall he not? This is the question fairly stated, and we leave it here waiting enlightment from any one who will reply.

EDITOR "PROGRESS:"—The best reply to the argument of "Vested Rights" is probably to be found in the writings of Herbert Spencer. I would suggest that you reprint a part or the whole of the chapter in "Social Statics" bearing on the point. However, as we do not contemplate any sudden changes, and as the mass of men do not gain, but lose, by reason of the individual's appropriation of rental values, I do not think the question of Vested Rights one likely to stand in the way of a single tax reform. The whole question, ethically, may be stated thus:

Two men cannot occupy the same spot of ground at the same time; situation must ever be a monopoly and the man who acquires a title to such a monopoly has all the rest of his generation at a disadvantage. All the rest of his generation contribute to make the monopolized site valuable, but the so-called owner alone enjoys it.

Now the question arises, what can be done to equalize these benefits arising from the labor and presence of the entire living population; in other words as the posession of a site must ever be a monopoly, what will take the curse off?

Manifestly, take the difference in value of sites, and remit all the other taxes. That is to say, let the annual site value go to the public treasury rather than into the pockets of an individual who may or not have paid for his monopoly.

As a matter of fact the rights of the body of people are forgotten by those who fix their eyes on the injury which they think is sure to come to a few cases. They forget that all value comes from the hand of the worker and that he who absorbs a public benefit is too often a man who gives little or nothing in return —that what he enjoys and calls his is the product of thousands of busy brains and hands whose rights ought to be paramount.

We are always glad to take the higher and more inspiring ground of justice in our reform. We lose nothing by such a discussion. As we aim to set industry free of all tax, give vitality and stability to all legitimate business, make invention and discovery serve the whole people and not a few, therefore we are able to appeal to all men, even to the possessor of a monopoly, and say:

"Is not restitution better than monopolization? Is not free competition, better than the so-called competition, which is only warfare between special privilege on the one hand and labor (handicapped at birth) on the other? Is it not better for one man to surrender a value which he has not earned, than that his ninety-nine less privileged fellows should be deprived of what they actually do produce? I for one have such faith in human nature as warrants me in believing that the majority of land-owners, where they see the inherent, injustice of this monopoly, will cheerfuly surrender their present claim to the site-value of land.—Hamlin Garland in Progress.

HOW TO BECOME A MILLIONAIRE.

Extracts from a Lecture Recently Delivered in Music Hall, Boston, by Rev. W. H. Murray.

We stand here now at the beginning of the twentieth century with the oil, coal, iron, steam, electric interests, the products of forest and soil held in the sure grasp of a few individuals or corporations to be used with the cunning of the gambler. They speculate in the great natural riches of the earth and air which used to be considered as the great boons of God.

There are four things that you must do, young man, and do and believe with all your soul. These four things, if followed out, will lead you to become millionaires, and as many times millionaires as you wish if health and life permit.

First, young man, you must believe that every young man is a liar. [Applause.] You must believe this and act upon it in order to protect yourself and property against the plots and schemes of foolish planners and wicked plotters.

Second, if you want to become a millionaire, you must also believe that every man is a thief. The man of great wealth has what other men want and what they are trying to get from him. A dreadful conclusion to arrive at, is it not, in this land and age, where churches are open to all, and after that beautiful Christ, who died on Calvary, has shown the value of a Christian religion.

Third, young man, you must believe that money is the greatest good and chief end of life. You must believe it heartily.

Reformers love right, soldiers glory, philanthropists their fellow men, but you must think of none of these. You must love money, and be oblivious of the great thoughts and motives which have actuated men.

Think only of money, love it as John Brown loved the slave; toil, clear, and spend yourselves to your dying day, for only so can you become millionaires.

Fourth, you must believe that you will never die. If you could only banish the thought of death how different your plans would be! He who would do great deeds must deem himself immortal. Time dwarfs and eternity expands.

The cradle and the grave tell it all, and he who would become a millionaire must plan, act and dream as one who thinks his deeds can never be interrupted.

Setting aside the element of luck, then, the young man who would become a millionaire must believe in these four propositions; but it is my belief that everyone of them is a lie.

All men are not liars. Some lie from envy, hate or jealousy, and some because they slant that way. [Laughter.]

Gold is not worth as much as health or love or life.

Man is not here to live in grainful pursuits forever.

I am an old man. I stand on the summit of my life and can see the glow, both of my sunrise and sunset. I know there is somthing in me which cannot die. Yet hope is not knowledge, and faith however strong, is not able to demonstrate facts.

Protection Doomed.

A protectionist organ says that "the issue in the recent election was tariff or free trade, and the people decided in favor of tariff."

The issue was high tariff for protection or low tariff for revenue, and the people decided in favor of low tariff for revenue by a vote of 5,534,168 for Cleveland and reform against only 5,437,582 for Harrison and the Chinese system.

In 1884 the republican candidate was so distasteful to many republicans that it was a question of men rather than of principles in many of the controlling states, but a comparison of the Garfield and Harrison campaigns shows that in the eight years since 1880 the high tax party lost ground on its issue.

Thus in Illinois, Cleveland gained in 1888, 70,951 over the vote for Hancock; while Harrison gained only 52,436 over the vote for Garfield.

In Indiana, Cleveland gained 35,487 over Hancock; Harrison only 31,187 over Garfield.

In Ohio, Cleveland gained 55,634 over Hancock; Harrison only 41,006 over Garfield.

In New Jersey, Cleveland gained 28,936 over Hancock; Harrison only 23,789 over Garfield.

In New York, Cleveland gained 101,454 over Hancock; Harrison only 94,784 over Garfield.

In Connecticut, Cleveland gained 15,503 over Hancock; Harrison only 7,511 over Garfield.

In Massachusetts, Cleveland gained 40,030 over Hancock; Harrison only 18,242 over Garfield.

In Maine, itself Harrison polled nearly a thousand votes less than Garfield, while in the northwest the democratic gain of 1888 over 1880 was largely in excess of the republican gain during the same period, the democratic gain in Michigan being 82,104, the republican only 51,117; in Wisconsin, democratic gain 41,648, republican 32,156; in Minnesota, democratic gain 46,349; republican gain 42,456; in Iowa, democratic gain 74,032, republican gain 27,694.

There is scarcely a state in the union, east, west, north or south, in which republicanism has held its own with the increase of population since the census year. The growth of the country is with the democratic party. In spite of its money, its determination to hold the country by fair means or foul, protection is doomed. The democratic party asks no quarter from it, and the figures we have quoted show that it needs to ask none.—Inlander.

Is it Preller's Ghost?

A ghost story of grisly proportions is radiating from the Southern Hotel at St. Louis, Mo. In room 144, in April, 1885, Maxwell chloroformed C. A. Preller to death. Then, after robbing the body, he packed it in a trunk, where it lay for two weeks. Since then the guests who have occupied the room have had strange experiences. The hotel people at first laughed at their fears, but the laugh soon turned to a sickly smile when some of the hotel employes tried to sleep all night in the apartment. Groans and frightful noises, alternating with the opening and shutting of wardrobe doors, created a panic among the employes and guests. Finally the horror of room 144 spread to such an extent among the traveling public that the room could not be assigned. Then the hotel men changed the number and called it No. 133. This had no effect on the circus. One of the best known men in St. Louis occupied the room for three nights recently and was then forced out by the strange noises and opening of bureau drawers, and falling brick in the fireplace.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Sir John Macdonald and others connected with the government say Ben Butterworth exhibited a large amount of gall in proposing to take the members of parliament through the United States. They declare it would be most humiliating and degrading to even consider the proposition.

A number of Port Angeles business men including Messrs, Tho. Malony, D. P. Quinn, Wm Ritchie and E. B. Mastick Jr. went up Sound by the last steamer.

Mr. N. R. Smith is putting a shingle mill in the woods on Dry Creek. The machinery has commenced to arrive, the boiler being brought down by the Dispatch last Tuesday.

We are indebted to pilot Jno. Thompson of Victoria for copies of the daily Times. Mr. Thompson made us a call recently and on his return wrote for the Times a very interesting report of his trip to Port Angeles.

Mr. F. R. Beahan of the U. S. Signal Corps has been transferred from Tatoosh Island to Olympia, W. T. and will leave for there on Tuesday, the 12th inst. In the meantime he will visit friends in Port Angeles.

Last Monday evening quite a number of Port Angeles people visited the ship Indiana at the request of Captain Morrisie and spent several hours. The time was occupied with music and dancing, songs, etc. The Captain expressed himself as much pleased with the visit and invited the party to visit him again before his ship, which is awaiting orders here, leaves the harbor. The boys say the cigars the genial Captain set out were the genuine article. All join in thanking him for their hospitable reception.

Church Festival.

The entertainment given at the East End Opera House for the benefit of the building fund of the First Congregational Church of Port Angeles last Tuesday evening, notice of which appeared in these columns, was well attended and realized about $50.00 to the fund. The full program was carried out, and in addition Prof. Von Eali exhibited an Egyptian mummy. Mr. Eali appeared in full oriental costume and cheerfully answered all questions asked in regard to the wonders of Egypt.

At the close an ample repast was served in the preparation of which the ladies of the committee did themselves proud. On behalf of the Society, the Pastor Mr. A. H. Howells desires to extend thanks to all who participated in making the occasion so pleasant and successful. The church will be a model of architectural beauty and is now nearly ready for plastering, to which purpose the receipts of the evening will be applied.

The Curse of Wage Slavery.

The conclusion of the New York Sun after careful investigation, is that 40,000 working women of that city are receiving wages so low that they are compelled to accept charity or starve. Great God! what a splendid background that makes for Christianity! Forty thousand women in one city working for wages that compels the acceptance of charity to avoid starvation! Ministers in the same city are receiving $25,000 a year for preaching the gospel of Christ, and yet there are those who cannot comprehend why there should be Anarchists in our country. The great wonder is that there are not a thousand to where there now is one!

If to hate a system of government wherein it is possible to reduce the mothers and sisters to a condition of beggary constitutes Anarchy and makes one an Anarchist, then write us down an Anarchist.—Wichita Ex.

"Mrs Fuller wore a beegum dress of gray that was frizzled in front with silver thingumbobs and procade omniumgath erum. The skirt was embonpoint and trailed along the floor like a thing of life. Miss Fuller was in blue, and Miss Mary in an umpire dress of rustic wool, with cremation armadilloes upon the bodice, which made her look rasharshay. Mrs. Nathaniel Paige and Mrs. Ralston were in the dining room, and sat dos-a-dos at a well spread table, both of whom recognized the writer and received him rapturously."—The Hatchet, Washington, D. C.

SECRETARY'S CORNER.

The Secretary's Corner will be a permanent institution hereafter. We will gladly reply to any inquiry sent us. Make them short and to the point. Remember there are from 500 to 1500 who have their eyes upon these pages each week and each one may want to be heard.

Write as often as you feel inclined, but be sure to have your inquires in short sentences. If you desire your letters published, write upon on side of the sheet only. We will reply to any inquiry whether connected with the Colony or not. If a personal letter is wanted, inclose stamps to cover postage.

The schooner is nearly ready for launching. There promises to be a heavy business for her.

As reports, etc., for the quarter ending April 1st next will be issued soon after that date, it is desired that the Secretary have the correct address of each stockholder, so that the report may be mailed properly. Stockholders will confer a favor by attending to this matter at once. A postal card with correct address will be sufficient.

It is reported that the order of Locomotive Engineers propose establishing a system of co-operative industries in different parts of the Union in order to provide employment to members who may be black-listed by the railroad companies. There are several fine openings in Port Angeles, and we hope one of their industries will be established here.

Geo. O. Whitehead of Union Mines, B. C., and Peter Benjamin of Butte, Montana, visited Port Angeles for the purpose of seeing things with their own eyes. They are members of the colony and seemed to be pleased with the townsite and the general progress made during the past two years. They departed for their present homes on Tuesday's boat.
