The Commonwealth is sent this week to a large number of persons in Clallam County and elsewhere. In the hope that they will appreciate our motives and whether they agree with our views or not, will give us, by subscribing, a chance at least to make ourselves understood. To those who live in Clallam County, we would say, that your interests are our interests and that nothing so aids in building up a county as a live and aggressive newspaper and, to that end, in helping us you are helping yourselves.

THE SUNDAY BILL.

In our opinion the Blair bill for the observance of Sunday is not receiving the attention it should through the press. We have felt no fears of its ever becoming a law as by the Constitution, Congress is prohibited from passing laws "respecting the establishment of any religion." But there is no telling what interpretation may be put on the Constitution when administered by a church man like Harrison and we need to be on our guard. The passage and attempted enforcement of such a law would lead to inevitable bloodshed. The Constitution guarantees religious liberty to all the people, and that means the right to be religious or not, as one feels inclined, and to pass a law to compel people to refrain from pursuing the objects of their desires one day more than another, is to fly in the face of that liberal spirit which characterized the framing of our institutions.

The belief that mankind can be made good by law, is fast giving place to the conviction that the race is governed too much, and that improvement is only to be sought and found in the discretion of an increased liberty. The Congress should not only refuse to pass this law but it should amend the bill of rights by giving to the term "individual liberty" its full scientific definition—"the right of an individual to pursue at will, the objects of his desires so long as he infringes not on the equal right of any other."

That the clergy are working to secure the passage of the Blair bill, shows that the spirit of religious intoleration that burned witches and quakers still lives. We have little fear of its passage. There is a good deal of solid sense in the American people when once aroused.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

The Post Intelligencer is authority for the statement that that the bill making this a port of Delivery was not signed by the president and died of inanition.

It is probable that this place will not get what justly belongs to it until we are able to maintain a lobby in the capital. In the meantime we must be cut off from any direct communication with the outside world.

This place is but a few miles off the route of the G. R. & N. Victoria boats and had the bill been signed we should soon have been a link in the direct chain of commerce between the cities of British Columbia and Seattle and Tacoma. The advantage to this place could not be overestimated while the public would be benefited in many ways. So long as the policy of the government is to maintian custom houses one should be placed at every convenient port, so that shipping may be as little as possible interfered with. At present this place is enjoying all the benefits of protection to the point of exclusion and, according to "St. Blaine" we should flourish like a green bay tree.

NO PORT OF DELIVERY FOR PORT ANGELES.

The Port of Delivery bill did not receive the President's signature and so failed to become a law. This has been a disappointment to many interested in the growth and prosperity of Port Angeles. Others again take it philosophically and consider that in the end it will work to our advantage.

The Secretary of the treasury has the power, when a place is made a Port of Delivery by Congress, to make it a Subport of Entry. Still he can make rulings that would be disadvantageous, and the Collector of the Port of Entry for the District if so inclined could also be able to impose such hardships on vessels that they would not care to come here to enter or clear.

We want a Sub-port of Entry, which will give us all the privileges and advantages of the Port of Entry, except the registry of vessels. We asked for a Subport of Entry and a Port of Call: the bill was changed to one for a Port of Delivery. "We asked for bread and were offered a stone," and a stone we would have got, but that the President overlooked the bill and let it die.

The O. R. & N. Co. reduced all its men receiving over $60 per month 10 per cent, without notice, resulting in the tying up of all that companies boats.

As the strikers are licensed men it will be somewhat difficult to replace them. The wages of the men are none too high and sympathy of the public is rightfully on the side of the men. The attempted cut is the result of an order from an official in Omaha who did not take the trouble to look before leaping.

The question as to who owns the tide flats is still agitating the Seattle attorneys: In a recent case before Judge Burke, Attorney Rochester cited Authorities to prove that where the tide ebbs and flows the rights of shore owners do not extend beyond the Meander line. That wharfage rights are under the control of the Admiralty Court. Judge Burke took the case under advisement. His decision will be waited with interest.

The crowded condition of the Evangel on recent trips to this place makes it evident that better transportative facilities will be demanded in the near future. The "Discovery" will be needed long before she is ready.

What Makes the Man.

What I am trying to show you is that whether a man grows up a Zulu or a civilized aristocrat, depends not at all upon what sort of blood runs in his veins, but upon whether all his life is spent in Zululand or under the best social conditions in some highly civilized country. I know there are persons who will have it that nothing can be made of some races of people—negroes and Indians, for instance. But I differ with them. Fred Douglas was an ordinary slave and would have remained an ignorant, half-developed man if he had continued in slavery. But he became free, and he differs in no respect to-day from any other intelligent, well-educated American gentleman except in color. Heredity keeps his skin dark and hair kinky, but conditions have determined his mental and moral character. You may say his case is exceptional. It is only exceptional because of the prejudice that handicaps the negro and prevents him from occupying positions to which his ability often gives him a fair title. And this, too, tends to prove that conditions can and do change human nature. Remove prejudice from the negro and he will develop much faster than he does.

I find that the limits which I usually set for an address are nearly reached, and I must therefore refrain until next Sunday from adding other illustrations of the principles I am discussing; but I cannot conclude without exhorting you to hesitate before finally rejecting what seems to me a transparent verity, if you are disposed to do so. I am aware of the tendency of the human mind to form habits of thought, just as we have formed the habit of breathing until it is automatic, and how difficult it is, therefore, for many persons to change their minds after a certain opinion has become habitual. And I am aware, also, that we have all been taught for so long a time that nations, and peoples, and individuals are inherently different from each other, and that we are all just as God made us, until this opinion has become crystallized in some minds and fossilized in others. If it is fossilized in your mind you cannot admit the new thought. I cannot hope to affect you. But if it is only crystallized, I beg of you to reflect what sort of God this is who makes one man a nobleman and another a peasant; one a millionaire, and another a tramp; one woman a pampered marionette of fashion and another a sewing machine. I beg of you to recognize that the great scientific doctrine of evolution by environment is beginning to find its application in political economy; that the law of natural selection, the survival of the fittest, means when applied to society, that a human being is of this character or that, not so much because of what he inherently is as because of the circumstances under which his life is passed; that the mansion produces one kind of man, and the tenement-house another, and that the mansion and tenement-house are not necessary conditions of human existence but wholly the products of laws which we have it in our power to unmake and thus remove the potent causes of human degradation and misery.—H. O. Pentacost.

Colonol Ingersoll: "I would rather go to the forest, far away, and build me a little cabin—build it myself and daub it with clay, and live there with wife and children; and have a winding path leading down to the spring where the water bubbles out, day and night, whispering a poem to the white pebbles, from the heart of the earth; a little hut with some hollyhocks at the corner, with their bannered bosoms open to the sun, and a thrush in the air like a winged joy—I would rather live there and have some lattice work across the window so that the sunlight would fall checkered on the babe in the cradle—I would rather live there with my soul erect and free, than in a palace of gold, and wear a crown of imperial power, and feel that I was superstition's cringing slave and dare not speak my honest thought."

"The Ninety and Nine."

The are ninety and nine that live and die,
In want and hunger and cold,
That one may revel in luxury,
And be lapp'd in its silken fold;
The ninety and nine in hovels bare—
The one in a palace with riches rare.

They toil in the fields, those ninety and nine,
For the fruitage of mother earth;
They dig and delve in her dusty mines,
Bringing rich treasures forth.
And the wealth released by their sturdy blows,
To the coffers of one forever flows.

The sweat of their brow makes the wilderness bloom,
The forest before them falls;
Their industry fashioned our thousand homes
And cities with lordly halls;
But the ninety and nine have empty hands—
The one owns cities and homes and lands.

Yet the night so dreary and dark and long,
The glorious dawn shall bring;
When over the land the victor's song—
Of the ninety and nine shall ring;
And the chorus shall echo from zone to zone.
"Rejoice! for labor shall have its own!"

An act to Enforce the Single Tax.

The following drafts of a law to exempt the products of industry from taxation and concentrate all taxes on land values and of an amendment to the state constitution, have been introduced into the Pennsylvania legislature by single tax men of that state:

An act to provide for separate assessments of land values and the exemption of improvements and personal property from taxation.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in general assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same:

That from and after the passage of this act all assessments for taxation in any county, city, borough, ward, township, school district or incorporated district of this commonwealth shall show the value of lands separate from the improvements thereon; the word improvements being construed to include all buildings, structures, living trees and developments of mines.

SEC. 2. That the taxing board of any county, city, borough, ward, township, school district or incorporated district of this commonwealth may, at its discretion exempt from taxation all buildings, structures, living trees, developments of mines, personal property; and all products of labor, all salaries, posts of profit, professions, trades and occupations, money at interest, stocks, bonds and loans.

SEC. 3. When in any county, city, borough, ward, township, school district or incorporated district it is desired to make the exemption authorized by this act, a special assessment for that purpose may be made at any previous to the next regular assessment.

Proposed Amendment to Article XX of the Constitution.

SEC. 1. All revenues of this state and all counties, cities, boroughs, wards, school districts and incorporated districts thereof shall be derived from a single tax upon land values.

An Unvarnished Story.

The Liverpool Daily Post informs its readers that a very painful scene recently occurred in a village near Liverpool. It seems that a church had lately been undergoing repairs. Among other improvements a new coat of paint was placed on the pews, followed by a coat of varnish. The result was most pleasing to the eye; but, unfortunately, the varnish had been applied so late in the week that it had no time to become hard before Sunday, when the congregation flocked to their seats.

No apparent inconvenience was suffered until the clergyman was about to deliver the benediction, when the congregation were horrified to find that they were unable to stand up. They were, in fact, glued, or rather varnished, to their seats. Their spasmodic efforts to rise were most distressing to witness. In vain did the clergyman exhort them from the pulpit to resignation. They were seized with a kind of panic, all the more frightful because they were for the moment powerless.

At last, by what seemed to be a simultaneous and Herculean jerk, they managed to tear themselves from their sittings; but at what a sacrifice! The pews were literally covered with Sunday apparel, Shreds of silk, lawns, calico, broadcloth, and cassimeres were left as souvenirs of the tenacity of the varnish used in beautifying the church; and the hapless congregation, rushing from the doors, hurried homeward with an expression on their faces as though their hearts were even more severely rent than their garments.

A FOREIGN LABOR BILL.

The following is the bill referred to by our Cleveland correspondent, introduced by Mr. Haley:

A BILL

To protect American labor from foreign competition.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That any employer of labor, within this state, who shall employ any male person, over twenty-one years of age, who is not a citizen of the United States, or who, having declared his intention to become a citizen, shall not have become a citizen, within five years thereafter, shall be fined not exceeding one hundred dollars, nor less than twenty-five dollars, for each offense.

SECTION 2. This act shall take effect and be in force three months after its passage.

As wealth accumulates in the hands of the few, the desire increases for more absolute government. More police, more military, more armories, more power, are asked for and are given almost without a protest on the part of the masses.—Chicago Express.

Single Tax is the Remedy.

Still the cry for more places to do business, for more houses to live in, comes up, and still the owners of eligible lots and tumble down rookeries stand idly by and see business and people go elsewhere. It is a short sighted policy that will bring an evil return.—Seattle Press.

All you have to do is to buy some of the lots I am now offering for the next few days in the subdivision of lot 37. There is none too poor to buy, none too rich to speculate!!!

Five teams are kept busy hauling lumber, etc. to the West End and up the hill. Foundations for a number of buildings have been laid, and many more are contemplated for the near future. The failure of the President to sign our Port of Delivery bill has made but little difference to the people. Past differences seems, in a measure, to have been dropped and, no doubt, all will now work for the building up of the town.

Messrs. Williams and Chambers have built houses on the Military Reserve, intending, we suppose, to claim it under the homestead laws. Last week Valentine scrip was filed in the Seattle Land Office on the same tract. The entry was, of course, refused and an appeal was taken to Commissioner of the General Land Office. This land was reserved by the Government for military and naval purposes and if not used, it will be eventually sold at public auction to the highest bidder. Squatters can obtain no rights by settlement, nor can scrip be floated on it.

The lease of the colony mill has been signed. Reed and Woodfill will take charge on April 1st. Work will be given to residents, and preference, to those who have been working heretofore in the mill. The change gives satisfaction generally, there being but a few disaffected ones on the townsite, the majority now recognizing that it is better for the town and for the stockholders as well, to have the mill run full time and work given at remunerative wages.

Port Townsend people on the hill are complaining of the lack of water in that city. The rainfall has been so light this season that the cisterns are dry and water has to be hauled to the houses. This water, it is said, is like the waters of the Dead Sea, after using which, a bath in the waters of the River Jordon is a necessity. Port Angeles is blessed with a plentiful supply of good pure water. Four creeks run through the town, the smallest of which would supply a town of 10,000 inhabitants. Besides these, the finest of well water can be got on the hill at a depth of from sixteen to thirty feet. If Port Townsend will build a boat to carry it, Port Angeles will donate all the water needed. As the Jordon water acts on the user of the waters of the Dead Sea, so would this water cleanse and purify those unfortunates who have to use the water now furnished on Port Townsend hill.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We invite communications from every part of the Country and especially from points in Washington Territory. Correspondents should write on one side of the paper only, and briefly and to the point.

The publishers are not responsible for articles under this heading, but will print no communication unaccompanied by the real name of the writer.

EDITOR COMMONWEALTH:

DEAR SIR—As Washington Territory is about to become a State, it behooves her citizens to study thoroughly what are the rights of a state under the Constitution. Among those rights is the right of protecting its citizens against the unfair competition of foreign pauper and coolie labor. In certain states it has become an imperative duty for the state to exercise this right. I send the enclosed bill which is now pending before the Ohio legislature as indicating a practical method of dealing with one of the first problems likely to confront you as a state, viz: chinese coolie labor. It may be well to refer your readers to Art. 1, Sec. 8 of the U. S. Constitution, where the powers of Congress are enumerated, and to Sec. 10 of the same article which gives the restrictions placed upon the states. It will be readily seen that the power to regulate alien labor is not among the powers granted to Congress, nor is it forbidden to the state. Such powers, as you readers will see from Amendments IX and X to the Constitution still reside with the state respectively.

Sincerely Yours,
L. B. TUCKERMAN.

THE PHONOGRAPH.

If, as they say, the phonograph
Can talk and sing and cry and laugh,
It, as a wonder, takes the cake
And will a revolution make.

At home we'll hear the sweetest notes
From prima donnas silvery throats;
The finest orchestra will play
Concerts and operas all day.

We'll hear the grand pianists pound;
Lectures and speeches will resound;
The greatest actors will declaim,
And all the preachers known to fame.

We'll hear loved voices from the tomb
Without a "spirit" in the room—
In fact, we need no longer roam,
For we'll be entertained at home.

All agents who have things to hawk,
Will leave a phonograph to talk,
And lovers can the question pop
With this machine without a stop.

Wax figures with this thing inside,
And with machinery to guide
Their life-like motions, will be found
In country pulpits all around.

So every little church unknown
Can have a Talmage of its own,
With waxen Pattis in the choir
To all the rustic souls inspire.

The Mrs. Caudles now can sleep
And leave a phonograph to heap
Coal fires on their husbands, who
Can't stop the lecture till it's through.

With this infernal thing let loose
And put to every kind of use
We shall be careful what we say,
For it will give us dead away.

SECRETARY'S CORNER.

The Secretary's Corner will be a permanent institution hereafter. We will gladly reply to any inquiry sent us. Make them short and to the point. Remember there are from 500 to 1500 who have their eyes upon these pages each week and each one may want to be heard.

To Correspondents.

Write as often as you feel inclined, but be sure to have your inquires in short sentences. If you desire your letters published, write upon on side of the sheet only. We will reply to any inquiry whether connected with the Colony or not. If a personal letter is wanted, inclose stamps to cover postage.

Let us Consider.

Notices are posted to the effect that a meeting will be held on Saturday evening next, "to take the preliminary steps towards winding up the affairs" of a certain Corporation of this place. This is one of the privileges of the stockholders of any Corporation. But before the final steps are taken, the cost of such a course should be carefully considered. It is our belief that the time for such proceedings has not yet arrived. First settle every obligation and clear the books of all the debts contracted. Then consider whether it is not best for the many to derive a benefit from a large and valuable property, than to have it fall into the hands of the few, and the great income it is bound to produce, if properly managed, be enjoyed by the few. Haste will waste. Time will bring every one his or her reward. Be careful about the proposed steps, and be sure that good judgement prevails. Pay no attention to the contradictory reports purposely being circulated by those who expect to gain out of the proposed "wind up." When you have traced these reports to their starting point, you will find that there is not the slightest foundation for any of them. In a proceeding of this character the individual will not count for a great deal. Stock, and stock alone, will have the say, and a vote of two-thirds of it—if all paid up—will be necessary for ordering even the preliminary steps to be taken. Look carefully into the future and consider the results of such a course, and by all means do not imagine for a moment that the the small share-holder will be the chief gainer. The "dividends," as that will be the term applied to the divisions made, will be in proportion to the amount of stock held by each share-holder. We repeat, do not allow passion to get the best of good judgment. Josh Billings has said, "Never tie to a man or an association of men whose chief desire is to rule or ruin," and it is the best advice that can be given in this case.

Lots in the colony's second addition have been advanced $5 each all through. The cheapest are now $20 each; the highest $40 each. There are about 230 left unsold.

Mr. Buckner of Sequim was in town again this week and made several other choice selections of lots as an investment. We hope that before many weeks pass by he will become a permanent resident of the town.

Mr. Teachman of Seattle is visiting with his family who moved to this place a few weeks ago. He has resided in Seattle for several years past, but prefers this place for a home, and will purchase lots on which he will build, at once.

Lumber is now being delived for the school house. We hope to see that needed building take form in the near future. It will be one of the things that will cause much good feeling to prevail all through the district. A good school building is one thing this district never has had in the past.

H. Culver, W. Dean and N. R. Smith recently measured off an average acre of the famous cedar tract owned by the Colony, and then estimated the timber standing thereon. There were thirtyfive trees within the lines and estimated to contain 90,000 feet. As some of this is contracted at $1.00 per m., the income from this source is liable to be quite a snug sum.

It is frequently remarked that the Colony has become quite a real estate concern. If so it has been from necessity and not as a matter of choice. It must be admitted that its real estate saved it from bankruptcy one year ago, and the same thing will yet redeem everyone of its obligations even to its capital stock if people will only have the patience to wait, and not a great while either.

In reply to an inquiry made, we will say that the total amount of the Capital Stock issued is 5,225 shares. This represents $52,250 of the Capital Stock paid up. The total of the obligations of the Colony, exclusive of paid up stock, is about $22,000. One year ago it was about $31,000. The estimated value of all property, real and personal, is between $120,000 and $150,000.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern:

You are hereby notified that the Puget Sound Co-operative Colony owns and has exercised a control over lot two in block one west, Smith and Voorhees' addition, and that the consent to occupy any portion of said lot must be received of this Company, otherwise the tresspasser will be liable under the laws as such.
