The North Olympic Library System (NOLS) will host two final programs in its Native Voices Program Series, which celebrates the Native Peoples' Concepts of Health and Illness exhibit currently on display at the Port Angeles Main Library.

"Hishuk'ish Tsawalk" – Everything Is One: Revitalizing Northwest Coast Indigenous Food Systems, will be held on Friday, July 12 at 6:30pm at the Port Angeles Main Library. Dr. Charlotte Coté will discuss how Northwest Coast Indigenous people are actively engaging in decolonization and self-determination through the enactment of food sovereignty. Through food sovereignty strategies, Indigenous people are restoring and reaffirming healthy and sustainable relationships with their homelands and placing ancestral ecological knowledge at the center of these decolonization efforts.

The final program in the series, Discovering the Stories Within Us, will be held on Thursday, July 18 at 6:30pm at the Port Angeles Main Library. Everyone has a story, or many stories! In this dynamic and inspiring session, Monique Gray Smith will share her personal story of recovery, including her journey of sobriety and how it led her to become a writer and storyteller. Monique will explain how she captures ideas, moments, and feelings and turns them into stories for both young and not-so-young readers. She will also read from her books and share how the stories were discovered and unfolded over time.

NOLS has been selected in a competitive application process to host Native Voices: Native Peoples' Concepts of Health and Illness, a traveling exhibition to U.S. libraries, through July 31. This exhibit explores the interconnectedness of wellness, illness, and cultural life for Native Americans, Alaska Natives, and Native Hawaiians. Stories drawn from both the past and present examine how health for Native People is tied to community, the land, and spirit. Through interviews, Native People describe the impact of epidemics, federal legislation, the loss of land, and the inhibition of culture on the health of Native individuals and communities today.

The U.S. National Library of Medicine (NLM) developed and produced Native Voices: Native Peoples' Concepts of Health and Illness. The American Library Association (ALA) Public Programs Office, in partnership with NLM, tours the exhibition to America's libraries. As part of the exhibition award, NOLS received a $250 programming grant, virtual training, and publicity materials. Additional funding for this program is provided by the Port Angeles Friends of the Library. Support for the application of this exhibit came from the Jamestown S'Klallam Tribe, Lower Elwha Klallam Tribe, and Peninsula College House of Learning (Longhouse).
