LIFE SAVING TUG

Plans About Ready to Submit to Bidders

The secretary of the treasury has approved the plans for the new life saving tug for Neah Bay, Washington. She will be constructed entirely of steel and 152 feet long with a 29 foot beam. The machinery will consist of a tripple expansion engine of 1,400 horsepower, with one Scotch and one tubular boiler, fire to be kept under the former at all times so the vessel can be under way quickly. The bunker capacity will be 200 tons and the tug will have a steaming radius of 3,500 miles. The equipment of the tug will be a Lyle gun, life raft, breeches buoy, searchlights and wireless telegraph outfit. It is expected that bids for construction will be called for in about two months.

The county commissioners, in session Wednesday, decided to submit to a vote of the people at the coming election, the question of issuing bonds to fund the $24,000 outstanding road fund warrants, with interest. These warrants draw eight per cent, while the bonds could be placed at four or four and a half.

The commissioners also ordered another sale of county lands, date of sale to be set by the treasurer.

IRONDALE SOLD

James A. Moore Pays $40,000 Will Enlarge Plant

James A. Moore, of Seattle, was the successful bidder for the Irondale iron manufacturing property of the Pacific Steel Co., sold at receiver's auction by Mr. M. S. Carrigan. The court's upset price of $40,000 was given.

Following the sale Mr. Moore stated that he and his associates would commence repairs and betterments to cost $100,000, that such changes would be completed within six months, whereupon the plant would commence operating with a payroll of about $6,000 a month and produce sixty tons of charcoal pig iron daily. The present capacity is twenty-five tons.

The Irondale property consists of 320 acres on Towsend Bay. There is a half mile of water frontage, permitting wharfage of vessels with sea-going draft. Thirty-one buildings now cover the realty exclusive of the furnaces and main factory building.

Mr. Moore's plans call for new machinery in practically every department, enlarging the blast furnaces, the addition of a number of charcoal furnaces equipped for securing by-products from the fir timber used, new wharves and a complete rehabitation of the property that has been dormant three years and in the hands of a receiver.

The sale is regarded of vast importance to the Olympic peninsula in its present struggle for commercial advancement.—P. I.

CONVENTION MEETS TO-DAY

Caucusing and Slate Making the General Order Among Delegates.

The republican county convention for the purpose of selecting nine delegates to attend republican state convention; nine delegates to attend joint senatorial convention, and the placing in nomination of candidates for county officers, meets in this city at 10 a. m. today.

C. J. Farmer will be the county's candidate for the nomination to the state senate; he will have the unanimous endorsement of the convention. No better man could be selected from the ranks of the republican party. He is especially fitted by virtue of education, of business and professional experience, and of varied interests in the county.

San Juan, to whom the plum rightfully belongs, has so far announced no candidate, but Jefferson county will put forth her claims for the honor in the interest of the Hon. Wm. Bishop. Mr. Bishop was an opponent of Senator Clapp four years ago; has served two terms as representative; is one of the most prominent dairy ranchers and logging men on the peninsula, of which he has been practically a life-long resident. Jefferson county politicians are claiming the existence of an agreement, by virtue of which the senatorship belongs to them, the judgeship belonging to Clallam. They say the result of the compact placed Judge Hatch on the bench, to which he has since been returned. The justice or injustice of the claim will have to be decided by San Juan, as Jefferson and Clallam having each eighteen votes, the balance of power lies in the five allotted to San Juan.

For representative we understand there are but two candidates in the field, Mr. Davis having withdrawn after losing his home delegation. But one ballot will probably be necessary to decide between Geo. W. Thompson and Geo. W. O'Brien. Mr. Thompson, in having secured the strength of the East End, has a powerful leverage politically, and the result will depend very largely upon the strength Mr. O'Brien develops in the western part of the county, in which he is favored by the fact that he is practically their only candidate.

G. M. Lauridsen is the only candidate, so far announced, for the nomination as commissioner of the second district. He will doubtless win this, the first step in the campaign, hands down.

N. M. Hawkins and John F. Church for auditor and clerk will also be nominated by acclamation.

The nomination for treasurer lies between E. E. Hopkins and A. R. Pringle, so far as is known at present, and the outcome would be hard to predict. Both gentlemen have their staunch friends and are well acquainted with the ways and means necessary to achieve success.

For the assessorship there are but two avowed candidates, John D. Hickok and Horace White. Especial interest has been lent to their candidacy by the recent issuance of a circular letter in which Mr. White outlines his platform of "Equal Taxation." It is said D. A. Christopher may enter the arena, and that it that event the real contest would lie between himself and Mr. Hickok.

The choice between Chas. S. Bown and A. N. Taylor for superintendent of schools will probably depend, as heretofore, upon the distribution of the more juicy fruit. The convention will secure a candidate of far greater ability, in either event, than it has selected in the recent past.

Following are the delegates so far as known at present:

The City Council

City Engineer Gherke being so employed he can not get away to assist the committee on water supply, Alfred Ware was selected to take his place.

The $100 appropriation for road and walk up Tumwater Hill was reported insufficient and street committee was ordered to exceed said said amount sufficiently to place same in good repair.

Renewals of liquor licenses to R. McDonnell and Geo. Dietz granted.

Broken hydrant at Second and Valley referred to committee. Chief engineer of fire department and marshal were appointed committee to inspect chimneys and stove pipes.

Upon motion, decided that city enter into a lease-contract for purchase of a $750 chemical fire engine.

Adam Reis, living in the Mt. Pleasant district, believes a slight effort is all that's necessary to interest a few of the hundreds of homeseekers now coming west in the superior advantages of Clallam county. He made a trip to Seattle a week ago, getting several to come down this way before purchasing, and later in the week closed a deal for the John Warenberg quarter in the Reis Valley, for $2,500 to G. H. Jerkes, with several prospective buyers for other property. He will make other trips upsound for the same purpose.

INDIANAPOLIS ON ANGELES RUN

Rumored Change May Come When C. P. Ry. Steamer Takes Victoria Run

The steamer Whatcom made the trip for Victoria today and will continue for several days while the Indianapolis is on the ways having heavy rolling chocks placed on her sides. These will insure the vessel riding easy, in any sea in the winter season, during which the handsome flyer will be operated on the Seattle-Townsend Angeles run, making a round trip daily.

The latter announcement, while not as yet officially made, will be received with gratification by the traveling public of this and our sister city down the straits both of which, despite the generous patronage afforded the line have in past winters been compelled to put up with almost any makeshift which could be called a boat without regard to schedule. The real estate activity on the west side of the sound is making a gradually increased passenger trade with the two cities and Seattle and the company will, it is believed, be able to operate the fine big steamer at a profit during the season which is usually marked down as nonproductive on the credit side of the ledger.—Call.

A Mighty Cat Hunter

John Hunter, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from the County of Clallam, had a preliminary hearing before Justice Penniman Wednesday. Upon request of the county attorney the case was continued to the and bail fixed at $150. Some time ago Hunter was paid bounty on thirty-odd wild cat scalps at $2.50 each, claiming he had killed them near Royal. Commissioner Christopher satisfied himself Hunter had not been at Royal, and when he presented a new batch of scalps this week, Sheriff Hopkins took him in charge.

Is Good Advertising

Under the caption "Rush Railroads to the Olympic Peninsula," the Post-Intelligencer of Monday last publishes a column summary of the future prospects of Port Angeles. While there is nothing new in the article, not one fact or fancy that has not already been published several times in the papers both of Angeles and Seattle, it serves to keep our little city in mind. It evinces most laudable enterprise on the part of one of our real estate men, and is of particular value at this time when there are many homeseekers on the coast seeking an opportunity for investment.

Cures Winter Cough.

J. E. Gover, 101 N. Main Str. Ottawa, Kans., writes, "Every fall it has been my wife's trouble to catch a severe cold, and therefore to cough all winter long. Last fall I got her a bottle of Horehound Syrup. She used it and has been able to sleep soundly all night long. Whenever the cough troubles her, two or three doses stops the cough, and she is able to be up and well." 25c, 50c and $1.00.

Brings Out the Vote

An experiment in the use of the direct primary was recently made in the Tenth Ward, Seattle, to decide which of two candidates should receive the votes of the delegates in the convention. A total of 340 votes were cast. At the last city election 377 votes were cast. Thus in this little informal primary, settling a contest for only one office, between men who judging by the vote, were equally good, nine-tenths of the total was cast.

At the recent primary held in the Fourth Ward in this city, and we presume conditions in most other wards were about the same, there were but thirteen voters present. A slate, prepared for the express purpose of giving the ward delegation to the ward's candidate for sheriff, was rushed through without opposition of any kind. The delegation was instructed to cast its every vote for its candidate, who is a very worthy man and who doubtless would have had the unanimous vote of the entire ward had the voters all been present.

But the number who turned out to the primary shows a lack of interest in political affairs caused by the knowledge that the individual voter's participation in a primary has little real bearing upon the nominations of the entire ticket. While the voters in the ward are in favor of one of their number for sheriff, still the fact remains that, in the absence of an expression of preference between candidates for other offices, they will have no part in the nominations, and are virtually trusting to luck that the most capable men be selected for the more important positions.

As the returns come from the conventions held in the various counties of the state, it becomes more and more apparent that the direct primary movement is a sure winner. Resolutions are everywhere being adopted favoring the proposed law, and representatives instructed to support it and secure its passage.

A Renaissance in Bible Study

The Bible has probably been until recently, considered in relation to the importance which the majority of people attach to it, the most neglected book in the world. Few homes, among the great middle class which forms the backbone of our country, have been without a copy of it; and yet in few homes where the book was to be found was it read at rare intervals, by any aside from those required to read it in preparation for Sunday-school teaching. Even the Sunday-school scholar expected to find everything he needed in his lesson leaflet and frequently did not own a bible, although attending a school expressly organized for its study.

Within the past ten years a great change has taken place, the Bible has been printed in modern literary form and its wonderful character as a collection of unique literature has commanded the admiration of those who were not interested in it from a religious point of view. The historical method, that is, the study of the biblical events and currents of thoughts in relation to the times, and the oriental nation from which it came, has added new interest and color to events that were remote from western imagination and experience.

The expenditure of immense sums in excavations in eastern lands has brought to light a multitude of remains which illustrate, confirm, and give life to many statements contained in the Bible.

It is decired to find out who would like to engage in any new study of the Bible either at home or in a class. Those interested will hear more about this at the Congregational church next Sunday morning.

MARTYRED TO BUSINESS.

Greenwich Observatory Is Ruined by a Great Power House.

Every American schoolboy can tell something about the Grenwich observatory, whatever may be the ignorance of adults on the subject. The fact that this observatory is rapidly losing its efficacy has, therefore, more than a mere academic interest.

The observatory is being put out of business on account of the fact that some time ago the London County Council established a great power house north of the observatory. This plant, with its tall chimneys, pours forth volumes of smoke and heated air which render meridional observation of stars difficult and untrustworthy. Not only this, but the vibration of the machinery seriously interferes with some of the most delicate apparatus in the observatory, notably the quicksilver reflectors. The Astronomer Royal, after appealing in vain to the London County Council, has now presented his case to the British admiralty with the promise of immediate action.

Curious as it may seem, the average Londoner but vaguely realizes that the observatory loses much of its usefulness if the atmosphere surrounding it be smoky or heat-laden and its foundations subject to vibrations. The meridional observation of stars is of fundamental importance. But of even more importance is the necessity for having the quicksilver present a true horizontal reflecting surface. What now in a more delicate way happens at the observatory happens on the surface of a pool, which, distrubed by the breeze, gives inaccurate reflections of the moon and stars. The thickness of a single strand of spiders' line in the original observations may work out to very serious errors of time or distance in the final results; and the surface of the quicksilver at the observatory is now constantly rippled by the vibration of the London County Council's plant.

The observatory is one of the great British traditions and has shed luster upon the English name wherever astronomy and theoretical or practical geography and navigation are studied. It guides every ship that sails the ocean; on its accuracy depends the location of every danger that the mariner has to avoid; and to it British scientists owe investigations which, perhaps more than any others, have tended to make Great Britain the world power that she is. And yet, now that Greenwich observations are losing their usefulness, the London County Council, few members of which could probably give an intelligible account of Grenewich Mean Time, is resenting the fact that the admiralty considers the tranquillity of the observatory as of more importance than a great electrical plant which supplies electricity to the municipality.—New York Times.

SIMPLE GREENBACK SALAD.

Buying $300,000 Apartment House Small Matter to Hotel Chef.

Catering to the gastronomic fancies of New York City is certainly a profitable employment, if the records of the real estate exchange are to be believed, says the New York Herald. According to them, Gustave Becker, chef of the Holland House, purchased from the Germania Life Insurance Company two elevator apartment houses at 306 and 308 West 94th street. Mr. Becker paid $300,000 for the property.

When asked to talk about himself and tell how he accumulated so much money while devising dishes with which to tickle the palates of patrons of the hotel Mr. Becker took refuge behind a modest reserve which could not be broken down.

"It is such a small matter, this buying of a house or two," he said. "Why should I speak of it? It is not as if I had never before bought property. Part of this hotel is mine, and then I own the house in which I live.

"So many can make money that it is no great credit for a cook to do the same. Other chefs have accumulated fortunes and there has not been so much talk about it. It is enough that I have been fortunate and can purchase a bit of land and houses when I see a bargain."

It was learned that Mr. Becker for some time has had a considerable interest in the hotel where he is employed. The chef's ability to find bargains in real estate is not unknown to dealers, and it is said he knows as much about profitable localities as he does about the last delectable sauce piquant.

Mr. Becker admitted with a show of nonchalance that he owns the fine apartment house at 204 West 94th street, where he has lived for a long time. He seemed surprised that it should be considered unusual for a chef to own a home in a fine residential district.

Suicide Was Too Costly.

The Scot is proverbially careful with money, but if the following be true, says Pick Me Up, he is more careful than we before believed. The other day a wild-eyed Highlander entered a chemist's shop and asked for "Twa pennorth o' rough on rats. Awrm sick o' this life," he gasped out. He was informed that it was only sold in six penny packets. He looked long and lovingly at his six pence, and then said: "Then Aw'l no commit suicide the noo."

FADED TO A SHADOW.

Worn Down by Five Years of Suffering from Kidney Complaint.

Mrs. Remethe Myers, of 180 South Tenth St., Ironton, O., says: "I have worked hard in my time and have been exposed again and again to changes of weather. It is no wonder my kidneys gave out and I went all to pieces at last. For five years I was fading away and finally so weak that for six months I could not get out of the house. I was nervous, restless and sleepless at night, and lame and sore in the morning. Sometimes everything would whirl and blur before me. I bloated so badly I could not wear tight clothing, and had to put on shoes two sizes larger than usual. The urine was disordered and passages were dreadfully frequent. I got help from the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and by the time I had taken four boxes the pain and bloating was gone. I have been in good health ever since."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Cherries and Walnuts.

A delicious salad was recently served at a country house luncheon. Cherries were stoned and the cavities filled with English walnut meat. Then they were covered with French dressing and left on the ice for three hours. Just before serving the fruit was drained, filled into nests formed with lettuce leaves and dressed lightly with oil and vinegar.

Logging and PROSPECTING SHOES

R. L. BEATTIE, Flyer Dock, SEATTLE, Wash.

An old farmer was talking of his boyhood to a group of young people not long ago. It had been lived—that far-away boyhood—early in the last century, in a country place remote from towns. He described its meager conditions—the houses, in which such things as "conveniences" had never been dreamed of, the coarse food and poor clothing, the scanty schooling, the few holidays; no magazines, almost no books, no entertainments or sports except an occasional sleighing party; no "junketings," no celebration of Christmas or New Year, no vacations from work. "Nothing that you young folks have to-day," he finished, "except weather and other folks; but I tell ye," a flash kindled in the faded eyes and the fine old head lifted proudly, "I tell ye, folks cared jest as much for life in those days as they do now." "Weather and other folks" and the opportunity of living—the great universal gifts to all mankind through all the ages. They stand like mighty mountain peaks, steadfast and unchangeable among all the changing philosophies, civilizations, powers. Sorrows come often, and sickness and defeat; there are lives eaten by poverty and dwarfed by constraining circumstance, yet to every life these three things are given—the joy of sunshine and blue skies, the cheer and comradeship and inspiration of other lives pressing upon his, the opportunity to hope and dream and do battle, to learn daily more of himself and his fellow man and God. All over the country are eager young people looking for "chances" to do, to learn and be. This is as it should be if only the longing means watchfulness, not discontent. "Chances" come only to open doors. But while he is waiting let every eager soul remember that the three great gifts are his already to use or to neglect—nature and "folks" and the privilege of living.

English Cherry Pie.

One cup lard and butter mixed, two cups flour, one teaspoon salt. Work the shortening into the flour with a knife, mix with sufficient ice water to hold together, handling as little as possible. Line the sides of a deep earthen baking dish, fill two-thirds full with stoned cherries, add two cups sugar, and place one small cup (inverted) in the center of the dish. Cover with a thick top crust, no bottom crust being used.

Cherry Water.

Crush half a pint of sour, juicy cherries with two heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar and half a pint of cracked ice; shake these ingredients together and drink through straws.

THE KING OF BLOOD PURIFIERS

No other remedy has given such perfect satisfaction as a blood purifier and tonic or is so reliable in the cure of blood diseases of every character as S. S. S. It is known as "The King of Blood Purifiers," and the secret of its success and its right to this title is because "IT CURES DISEASE." It is an honest medicine, made entirely of purifying, healing roots, herbs and barks, which are acknowledged to be specifics for diseases arising from an impure or poisoned condition of the blood and possessing tonic properties that act gently and admirably in the up-building of a run-down, weakened or disordered condition of the system.

One of the greatest points in favor of S. S. S. is that it is the only blood remedy on the market which does not contain a mineral ingredient of some kind to derange or damage the system. It is the one medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by the youngest child or the oldest member of the family, and persons who have allowed their systems to get in such condition that most medicines are repulsive to the stomach will find that S. S. S., while thorough, is gentle and pleasant in its action, and has none of the nauseating effects of the different mineral mixtures and concoctions offered as blood purifiers.

As every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength, it is necessary that this vital fluid be kept free from germs and poisons. So long as it remains uncontaminated we are fortified against disease, and health is assured; but any impurity, humor or poison acts injuriously on the system and affects the general health. Pustular eruptions, pimples, rashes and the different skin affections show that the blood is in a feverish and diseased condition as a result of too much acid or the presence of some irritating humor. Sores and Ulcers are the result of morbid, unhealthy matter in the blood, and Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders that continue to grow worse as long as the poison remains.

Gentlemen:—S. S. S. is used as a family medicine in our home. I myself have taken and always found it what it is claimed to be. It thoroughly cleanses the system of impurities, increases the appetite, improves the digestion, and builds up the general health. I have given it to my children with fine results. It promptly restores the appetite and clears the skin of all eruptions. It is a very fine blood tonic and has my hearty endorsement.
134 S. 9th St., Lebanon, Pa. P. H. THOMPSON.

But all blood diseases are not acquired; some persons are born with an hereditary taint in the blood and we see this great affliction manifested in many ways. The skin has a waxy, pallid appearance, the eyes are often weak, glands of the neck enlarged, and as the taint has been in the blood since birth the entire health is usually affected.

In all blood troubles S. S. S. has proved itself a perfect remedy and has well earned the title of "KING OF BLOOD PURIFIERS." It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, humors, waste or foreign matter, and makes this stream of life pure and health-sustaining. Nothing reaches inherited blood troubles like S. S. S.; it removes every particle of the taint, purifies and strengthens the weak, deteriorated blood, and supplies it with the healthful properties it needs and establishes the foundation for good health. As a tonic this great medicine has no equal, and it will be found especially bracing to weak, anaemic persons. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all other blood troubles are cured permanently by S. S. S., and so thorough is the cleansing of the blood that no trace of the disease is left to break out in future years or to be transmitted to offspring. If you are in need of a blood purifier get "THE KING" of them all, S. S. S.—and good results are assured. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired furnished without charge to all who write.

Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and thin-blooded person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Bloodroot, Mandrake root. Then there is Black Cherrybark. The medicinal principles residing in these native roots when extracted with glycerine as a solvent make the most reliable and efficient stomach tonic and liver invigorator, when combined in just the right proportions, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Where there is bankrupt vitality—such as nervous exhaustion, bad nutrition—and thin blood, the body acquires vigor and the nerves, blood and all the tissues feel the favorable effect of this sovereign remedy.

Although some physicians have been aware of the high medicinal value of the above mentioned plants, yet few have used pure glycerine as a solvent and usually the doctors' prescriptions called for the ingredients in varying amounts, with alcohol.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a scientific preparation compounded of the glyceric extracts of the above mentioned vegetable ingredients and contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Albert Ware was nominated unanimously for surveyor.

J. E. Cochran was re-nominated for prosecuting attorney by acclamation. In thanking the convention, Mr. Cochran said that he considered it a high honor to have served the county one term in the capacity of prosecuting attorney and be the unanimous choice of the convention for a second term.

For coroner there was a lively little tussle, and two ballots were required to settle it. Dr. McGillivray, Dr. McGeorge and Dr. Appleton were the nominees. First ballot, McGillivray 50, McGeorge 19, Appleton 40. Second ballot, McGillivray 71, McGeorge 2, Appleton 29

C. W. Raymond was nominated by acclamation for wreckmaster.

C. J. Farmer named the following gentlemen delegates to joint senatorial convention:

T. T. Aldwell, H.J.Bugge, Geo. Lamb, W. D. Cook, E. E. Fisher, G. M.Lauridsen, J. R. Smith.

The chair named delegates to state convention as follows:

James Palmer, W. W. McGeorge, T.T. Aldwell, H. J. Bugge, K. O. Errickson, P. Grubb, E. F. Gerin, J. E. Ellis, F. Lotzgesell.

At the close of the convention, delegates representing the 2nd and 3rd commissioners districts organized. The 2nd district nominated G. M. Lauridsen for the four year term, and the 3rd district nominated K. O. Errickson for the two year term.

The convention was a large and representative one; perfect harmony characterized the entire proceedings, at the close of which the county central committee was organized with W. B. Smith of Angeles as chairman.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS

E. R. Gherke was nominated for surveyor by acclamation.

For coroner Geo. Lotzgesell received the unanimous vote of convention.

A. A. Richardson was nominated for county attorney. The rules were suspended and secretary instructed to cast vote of convention for him.

Mr. Richardson, when called for, pledged the convention that if elected he would do his duty to best of his ability without fear or favor. He would deny no man justice, rich or poor.

Olif Johnson was nominated for wreckmaster.

Organization of county central committee was then effected, a chairman being selected from each voting precinct. This organization later selected F. S. Lewis county chairman and T. F. Trumbull secretary and treasurer.

H. S. Coleman was nominated for commissioner from second district, and S. G. Tuttle commissioner from third district.

Delegates to state convention were selected as follows:

A. A. Richardson, Geo. Lotzgesell, J. L. Keeler, Juo. Trumbull, A.I. Filion, H. M. Fisher, N. K. Mead.

Delegates to state convention were instructed to also act as delegates to joint senatorial convention if one was called.

A good ticket was named; everything passed off smoothly, and to the apparent satisfaction of all present.

Nominating speeches were a feature of the convention; some excellent ones were made, and the virtues of the favorite candidate extolled.

THE STATE CONVENTION

The republican state convention met in Seattle on Wednesday. All differences were settled before the convention met, and its deliberations were simply a ratification meeting in approval of nominations assured by home conventions directly interested. The three congressmen were renominated as were the justices of the supreme court whose terms expire this year.

Senator S. H. Piles was temporary chairman and S. G. Cosgrove permanent chairman. The feature of the convention was the speech of Senator Piles. He reviewed the history of the republican party and congratulated the people upon the prospect of the future; he "hoped to see this convention declare in no uncertain but in unmistakable terms in behalf of the direct primary law, and I hope that the next session of the legislature will at an early date pass a direct primary law." The ticket is as follows:

CONGRESSMEN.

Wesley L. Jones, North Yakima.
Will E. Humphery, Seattle.
Francis W. Cushman, Tacoma.

JUSTICES OF SUPREME COURT.

R. O. Dunbar, Olympia.
Wallace Mount, Spokane.
Herman D. Crow, Spokane.
Milo A. Root, Seattle.

Henry Peters, who has been clearing up a small tract in the Ennis creek valley, brought us a mammoth sunflower as a sample of the garden stuff he raised this year. The stalk is ten feet in length and the flower nearly three feet in circumference.

Notice and Summons by Publication of Tax Foreclosure. No. 347.

In the Superior Court of the State of Washington, in and for Clallam County.

Clallam County, Plaintiff, vs. All Persons hereinafter mentioned, and all persons unknown, if any, having or claiming an interest or estate in and to the hereinafter described real property, are hereby made Defendants.

State of Washington to all persons hereinafter mentioned, who are the owners or reputed owners, of, and all persons unknown, claiming or having an interest or estate in the hereinafter described real property.

You and each of you are hereby notified that the above named Plaintiff, Clallam County, is the owner and holder of Delinquent Tax Certificate, issued in one general certificate in book form, marked "J," by the Treasurer of said Clallam county, State of Washington, embracing the real property hereinafter described and set opposite the respective names of owners or reputed owners, or unknown owners, situated in Clallam county, State of Washington; and you are further notified, that in reading the description of lands hereinafter described, the abbreviations, "Sec." "Twp." and "R." means Section, Township and Range, and that in reading the description of Lot and Block hereinafter described, the letters "L" and "B" means lot and block respectively.

That said Certificate was issued on the 20th day of August, A. D. 1906 for the sum set opposite each piece or parcel of land hereinafter described, for the delinquent taxes due for the year 1899; that the said taxes for said year are unpaid and due the plaintiff, which said several sums bear interest at the rate of Fifteen (15) per cent per annum from the 20th day of August 1906, said owners or reputed owners, said real estate and said amounts are particularly described as follows, to-wit:

S. E. Stakemiller met with quite a serious accident one day last week. When out driving and passing along Lincoln street near the juncion of Second his horse became frightened and shied to one side, tipping over the buggy and throwing Mr. Stakemiller with much force against the sidewalk, resulting in a double fracture of his collar bone. However, not to be undone by one accident, Mr. Stakemiller is out again.

That whole-souled philanthropist, A. E. Cox, has placed the Olympic-Leader households under obligations with a liberal portion of home grown peaches—the kind that melts in your mouth. The fruit was ripe, of good size, and fully up to the standard of those grown in peach growing districts. With a little care, Mr. Cox thinks peaches can be grown successfully here. We have also reason to know that Mr. Cox's home grown pears are all right.

Rev. and Mrs. Geo. F. Graham departed Tuesday morning for Ballard, where they attend the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the State of Washington, west of the Cascades. This conference is the most important meeting of the Church during the year and it is expected that fully 500 pastors, lay delegates and their wives will be in attendance to represent the various churches of the conference. Bishop H. W. Warren will preside. Rev. and Mrs. Graham have made many warm friends during their short stay among us who will hope for their return.

Order to Show Cause

No. 366.

In the Superior Court of Clallam County State of Washington.

In the matter of the estate of William A. Nichols, deceased.

It appearing to this court, by petition this day presented and filed by Joseph Krajewski, the administrator of the estate of William A. Nichols, deceased, that it is necessary to sell the whole or some portion of the real estate of said decedent to pay the debts of decedent and the expenses and charges of said administration.

It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before said Superior Court on Saturday, the 6th day of October, 1906, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the court room of said court, at the court house in the city of Port Angeles, County of Clallam, State of Washington, to show cause why an order should not be granted to said administrator to sell so much of said real estate as shall be necessary, and that a copy of this order be published four successive weeks in a weekly newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said city of Port Angeles.

Dated September 5th, 1906.

IN THE FOREST PATHWAY.

When russet apples hung their gold
  And maple leaves were turning brown,
And woodland tints were manifold
  And autumn donned her russet gown;
When busy squirrels, growing bold,
  Were storing nuts in hidden places
To keep them through the winter's cold,
  My Lady came, with all her graces.

'Twas in a woodland way we met;
  The golden leaves like snow were falling:
A mellow day—I see it yet—
  Up in the oak a jay was calling;
Above the trees a cloud of crows
  Swept by, as mindful of the fall;
While from the bush a partridge rose
  With whirr of wings nad startled call.

She passed—the sunshine of her face,
  The golden of her hair, still lingers,
Her eyes' fair blue, her form's lithe grace,
  The pressure of her dainty fingers.
She passed—but still the memory stays,
  Though days and years have waxen olden;
And still I find those forest ways,
  Whatever the month may be, are golden.

The Girl Who Suited.

CHARLES ABBOTT was not used to buying diamonds. If he had been he might not have made such a fuss over the one he lost. Still, the way he lost it was enough to make any man out of sorts, no matter if he had had a whole jewelry store to fall back on.

The young woman to whom Abbott had given the diamond, set in an engagement ring, eloped with another man just two weeks before the day set for her marriage to Abbott. Abbott hated to lose the woman, but he hated still more to lose the ring. As soon as he could find out, from the young woman's astonished relatives, where the deserter had gone, he wrote and asked her what she had done with the ring.

"Delia Surry has it, 24 June street," was the telegraphic brevity received in reply.

Abbott did not know Delia Surry, but he construed the telegram to mean that she lived at the address given, so he called there in further pursuit of the diamond. Delia wore the ring into the room. Abbott recognized it, and paid his respects to the diamond rather than to Delia. Presently he showed her the telegram. Delia seemed mystified, and Abbott hastened to explain.

"DO YOU THINK YOU WOULD LIKE HER?"

"The 'it' referred to is that diamond ring you wear," he said, bluntly. "It is mine. I want it."

Delia drew the ring from her finger and read the inscription.

"Dear me!" she said. "Was Josie engaged to you, too?"

"I don't know what you mean by 'too,'" said Abbott, "but she was engaged to me."

"What are you going to do about it?" asked Delia.

"Nothing, except to try to get my ring back."

"I am sorry for you," said Delia, "but I really don't see how I can help you. It is not polite to give away things that have been given you by your friends."

"Josie did not appear to be troubled by any such conscientious scruples," commented Abbott, bitterly.

"Perhaps not. But she probably considered the ring hers, to do what she pleased with. I don't feel that way about it. The sweet little note Josie sent me along with her present endears it to me immeasurably and makes me feel that it would be an insult to our friendship to dispose of it under any circumstances whatsoever."

"All that is probably very touching," retorted Abbott, "but somehow it doesn't touch me worth a cent. It strikes me that Josie might have found a few endearing associations of her own clustering round an engagement ring, and that she would have hated to part with it."

"Oh, but she had to give it to somebody!" cried Delia. "She couldn't keep it. Her husband wouldn't have liked that at all. He wouldn't have let her keep it. He is awfully peculiar. He is a missionary, and missionaries seem to have such funny ideas in the matter of previous engagements. Why, he made Josie give away every one of the rings she had at the time of their marriage. He said if she kept them they might crop out at odd times as material evidence of Josie's former entanglements, and would be likely to give him uncomfortable thoughts even when he got as far away as China. He was afraid to risk that, he said, because if such mementoes got on his mind they might interfere with his work among the natives. Did you ever hear anything so absurd?"

Abbott leaned back weakly. "He made her give up all her rings?" he gasped. "How many did she have, in heaven's name?"

"Four," said Delia, "beside yours and the missionary's."

"And were they all engagement rings?"

"I presume so. At any rate, they were all engraver with inscriptions similar to this. One of them said 'H. K. to J. B.' Another, 'M. C. to J. B.,' and another—well, I forget what the initials were on the other two, but, anyway, they all looked suspicious."

"What did she do with them?" asked Abbott. "Did she give them all to you?"

"Oh, no," explained Delia, volubly. "She gave them to four other girls. You see, there were six of us girls who had been great cronies from our school days. A long while ago, when we were still little girls, we made an agreement that as each of us got married she should divide her engagement rings and other presents among the rest of the team. If one of us happened not to have rings enough to go round, they were to be given to the girls who owned the least jewelry, so as to try to even up our stock. Fortunately she had just rings enough to treat the crowd, so nobody can complain of being slighted."

Abbott straightened up with sudden interest. "I don't wish to appear too inquisitive," he said, "but I should like to know if you are fixed so that you could take care of your friends with the same impartiality in case you took a notion to run off with a foreign missionary?"

"Oh, no," declared Delia. "I couldn't do a thing for them. I am not engaged—not even once."

"In that case," said Abbott, "I suppose you mean to hang onto the ring?"

"I should like to. Josie expected me to. 'I send you this little trifle,' she said—"

"Trifle?" ejaculated Abbott. "That ring a trifle? Good Lord. Why, it cost $200."

"You were very foolish to pay that much," returned Delia, severely. "One hundred dollars is as much as any man ought to pay for an engagement ring, no matter how much money he has, and then, if the girl runs away with another man, he won't be out such a tremendous amount. Josie evidently did not realize how extravagant you had been, because that is just what she said, 'I send you this little trifle,' she said, 'and hope you will treasure it and think of me lovingly.' And I am sure, Mr. Abbott," added Delia, tearfully, "that you couldn't expect me to give up the ring after that. It would be unkind of you to ask it. It is the only thing I have to remember the dear girl by."

"That is more than I've got," said Abbott. "What do you suppose I am going to remember her by?"

"Ah, but you have your broken heart," said Delia, consolingly.

"Quite true," assented Abbott, savagely. "I suppose I ought to get along very well with that."

"Why shouldn't you?" said Delia. "All the rest of the men are going to make that do. At any rate, they haven't asked for their rings. You are the first man I ever knew who raised such a row over a little matter of this kind."

"Somebody has to establish a precedent," growled Abbott. "It may as well be me as anybody. Beside, I need the ring. I'll be getting engaged again myself some day before long, and it will come in handy."

Delia looked at him reproachfully.

"Men are very fickle," she said. "I am glad I am not a man. I am afraid I should be as vacillating as the rest of them. I am disappointed in you. Somehow I had fancied you were going to make yourself very unhappy about Josie for a long time."

"Oh, if it is my unhappiness you are working for, I may possibly satisfy you by achieving more misery through the latter process than by burying myself in grief for faithless Josie," Abbott replied.

"But I don't want you to be unhappy," protested Delia. "That is one reason I don't want you to get engaged again. You will be sure to make a mess of it. I don't want you to do that. I take quite an interest in you and would like to see you do well the next time you make an attempt at matrimony. I want to help you, and in order that I may promote your general welfare I promise to give you back your ring on one condition. As soon as you find a young woman to whom you would like to engage yourself, please let me know, so that I may make a study of her and let you know what kind of a girl she is. I am a good judge of girls. They can't fool me. It will take me only a little while to find out whether she is suited to you or not. If I think she is not, I will not give you your ring, so you will either have to give up the girl or buy another ring."

"But I do not wish to lose sight of the ring pending my engagement," he stiuplated. "Considering that it is to be mine again at no very remote date, I wish to keep track of it. I would like you to arrange matters so I could see the ring occasionally."

"We can fix that easily," said Delia. "You may call here once a week and make sure the ring is all right."

Abbott began his joint guardianship of the ring on the following Wednesday. For six months he continued to examine it at lessening intervals.

"I think I shall need my ring," he told Delia at last.

"Are—are you going to get engaged?" she asked, faintly.

"I hope so," said Abbott. "It won't be my fault if I don't. I am going to ask the girl to have me."

"Remember our agreement," she said.

Abbott strutted across the room conceitedly. "I mean no disrespect to your wisdom," he said, "but I really think I can dispense with your advice. I know the girl well, and she suits me clear down to the ground. She is an awfully funny girl, it is true, but I am head and ears in love with her, just the same."

"Funny?" echoed Delia. "In what way is she funny?"

"Oh, she is so very independent. And then she has such queer notions as to what constitutes loyalty to one's friends. As an illustration of her peculiar ideas in that respect, I will tell you of one characteristic thing she did recently. Several months ago a girl friend of hers eloped and gave her as a keepsake a diamond ring which had been given the runaway by one young man out of the half dozen to whom she happened to be engaged at the time of the elopement. Now, that young man set considerable store by that ring and used his most persuasive arguments on the girl I am in love with, hoping to induce her to restore it to him, but she contended that by so doing she would be showing herself false to her friend, and refused to give it up, except on the most absurd conditions imaginable. But—oh, well, what's the use to finish the story? What do you think of a girl who would do that? Could you recommend her? Do you think you would like her?"

"I—I'm afraid not," said Delia. "I think she must be horrid."

"She is," said Abbott; "perfectly so, I assure you. Nevertheless, I want to give her my ring for keeps. Are you willing that I should?"

"Well, yes," said Delia, "I think I am. I told you once before that you are bound to make a mess of things, no matter whom you give it to, so I suppose you may as well give it to her as anybody."—N. Y. Times.

HIS VARIED EXPERIENCE.

Seedy Individual Thought He Had the Qualifications.

There were a number of the usual type of village loafers sunning themselves one day on and about the steps leading up to the general store in Springness. Among them was a seedy-looking individual, who said he came from Punkville, and he was telling of the many different occupations he had attempted during an apparently checkered career.

"An' I tried school teachin', too," he ended, triumphantly. "Yes, sirree, I tried that, too."

"How long did you teach?" inquired an interested auditor.

"Wal, not long; I reely only went to teach."

"Did you hire out?" persisted the curious one.

"Wal, no, I didn't hire out; I jes' went to hire out."

"Why did you give up?"

"Wal, I give it up becus—you see, I traveled to a place an' I heard 'em say the school teacher was leavin', so, thinks I, I might as well do that as saw wood or mend tin pots; so I asked who to 'ply to, an' they told me to go to Trusty Sneckles. Wal, I looked him up. I told him my objec', an' I showed him my muskel, then I asked him would he let me try my hand on the onrooly boys of the destrick. He wanted to know if I reely thought I wuz fit to tackle 'em, an' I told him I wouldn't mind his askin' me a few easy questions in 'rithmetic an' jography, or I said I'd show him my handwritin'.

"He said no, not to mind; he could always tell a reely good teacher by his gait. 'Let's see you walk off a little ways,' sez he, 'an' I kin tell jes's well's if I'd examined you,' sez he.

"He sot down by his door as he spoke, so I turned kinder quick an' walked off as smart as I knew how. He said he'd tell me when to stop, so I kep' on till I thought I'd gone far enough, then I looked around—the door was shut an' Sneckles was gone!"

"Did you go back?" chorused the audience.

"Wal, no, I didn't go back."

"Did you apply for another school?"

"No," said the gentleman from Punkville, "no, I didn't apply for another school. I ruther judged that mebby my walk was agin me!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Chance to Make a Fortune.

The inventor who will devise an efficient method of dispelling fog or of counteracting its effect will reap a great fortune It is said that a week of the fog so common in London, especially in the latter part of December, costs the railway companies there $1,000,000 and the cabmen $5,000 a day, while the loss to merchants is beyond calculation. According to the Technical World, the excess of gas used on a foggy day would supply a town of 40,000 people an entire year. It is estimated that in consequence of foul atmosphere the people of the British capital are put to an unnecessary expense of from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

"Absent Treatment."

A London court has ruled that a physician can collect a fee for advice transmitted over the telephone. This must be what is known as absent treatment.—Atlanta Constitution.

Opinions of Great Papers on Important Subjects.

THE WOMAN'S SHARE.

THE sailor, the engineer, the employe in powder mill or lead works, the miner, take their lives in their hands when they go to their tasks. The world honors their courage, and pays them tribute of praise when, as often happens, they meet disaster or death in their vocation.

But even their risks are not so trying to heart and flesh as the dull, ceaseless, gloomy foreboding under which their women-folk must always live. The woman who knows the breakfast her good man eats may be the last meal before he is brought home mangled or dead from mine or mill bears a severer test of courage than he who goes forth to danger.

Every woman whose husband works in the comparative safety of field or shop ought to send a sympathetic thought to the wives and daughters and mothers and sweethearts of the thousand and more miners who recently met so horrible a death in northern France. To add to the anguish of the loss came the disfigurement of the dead—so complete that of the first one hundred and six bodies rescued, only forty were recognized.

On the day of the burial sixty-six coffins bore the tragic words, "Non reconnu." It gave the last touch to the agony of the distracted women who wept and wailed at the funeral, that they could not even know whether the men whom they loved were among the blackened corpses.

When the women turned from the graves, it was to meet the harsh exigencies of daily life—the need for food and shelter and clothes. The apprehension of years had for them become a grim reality.

As we read of peril by land and sea we are bound to remember, not only the imperiled, but those who wait and watch for them and live by them—the women who share the fear if not the danger.—Youth's Companion.

CHEATING THE REDMAN.

A STORY which reflects little credit upon the parties concerned comes from the White Earth Indian reservation in western Minnesota. Its accompaniments are plenty of liquor in the hands of the speculators. Since June 21, the report says, the Indians and half-breeds have been permitted to dispose of their holdings or to place mortgages upon them. It was a fine chance for the Indian-cheating rascals who watch for such opportunities, and so it is not surprising to read that in place of money the drunken redmen were given tin checks redeemable at the saloons for liquor. The most shameful part of the dispatch says: "The agent at the reservation is powerless to check these evils, for the law has clothed the Indians with the right to do as they please with their lands."

It is the same old story repeated again and again during the years since the white men and the redmen first met in the conflict for the possession of the continent, a war of extermination through the weapon of liquor, with its accompanying command, "Move on" until the territory under control of the first possessors of the country is circumscribed within narrow bonds. Several writers have proclaimed the shame of the thing in burning words. Joshua R. Giddings in his "Exiles of Florida," Charles H. Coe in "Red Patriots," Seth K. Humphrey in "The Indian Dispossessed," Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson in "A Century of Dishonor" and others of her books have each told a story of substantial uniformity in its details, a narrative of oppression, deceit and wrong. The famous James G. Birney lost much of his social position when he championed the cause of the Indians whose lands his neighbors in northern Alabama and Georgia coveted, but he stated his conviction, based upon careful investigation, that in every case of trouble between a white man and a redman the white man was the original person to blame.

Nobody cares much for the Indian nowadays. No one ever cared much for him. He has had a hard fight against so-called civilization, and the government whose ward he has been has not helped him in time of trouble, but has fallen back upon some technicality of law and allowed swindlers to cheat him and rob him of his lands while he has been crazed with drink. No one ever made an investigation of Indian questions, a really serious investigation tracing matters to the bottom, without a feeling of shame for his country in this chapter of its history. The tin tag and red liquor episode at the White Earth reservation is nothing new. It is the old story with new actors in the scenes.—Chicago Tribune.

DIPHTHERIA'S SURE CURE.

THE Chicago health department makes this assertion in the bulletin of the department:

"Every death from diphtheria should be made the subject of judicial inquiry, as other avoidable deaths resulting from negligence, culpable ignorance or criminal malpractice now are."

This is startling, but it is none too strong, as those are aware who have observed the administration of diphtheria antitoxin. Before the discovery of that remedy, diphtheria was the deadliest disease of childhood. Only in rare instances did those attacked by it recover.

But now, as the health department says, the death rate from that cause "continues a reproach to those timid or ignorant members of the medical profession who neglect to use the antitoxin in the early stages of the disease and in sufficient quantity."

Diphtheria can be cured in every instance by the use of antitoxin, if it is used soon enough after the disease has developed. Not one person ought to be allowed to die of it. When death occurs, as the result of it, the authorities ought to inquire into the circumstances, and severe punishment should be visited upon the persons responsible for failure to prevent it.

The progress of knowledge, however important, among the great mass of people is incredibly slow. Undoubtedly many persons even in Chicago, where the newspapers have published the facts about diphtheria antitoxin time and time again, have no idea such a discovery was ever made as this certain cure for one of the worst diseases that have ever ravaged the human race.—Chicago Journal.

THE YEARLY RAILROAD SLAUGHTER.

IF we were engaged in a war in which during the last year over 10,000 people had been killed outright and nearly 85,000 wounded it would equal the casualties of any year of the Civil War on either side, and would not only be the principal topic of interest, but would fill the land with mourning; and there would be intense anxiety and unremitting effort to bring it to an end. When, however, we are officially informed that between June 30, 1903, and June 30, 1904, 10,046 persons were killed and 84,155 injured in railroad accidents in the United States it seems to make no more impression on us than an idle tale.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A GENTLE "TOUCH."

All the means with which money can be extracted from the unwilling purse of the American tourist are in full practice on the slopes of Mount Vesuvius. Most of them are delicately shaded forms of highway robbery. "On our way down the mountain," says the author of "A Levantine Log-Book," "a beautiful Italian boy approached, put his hand on our carriage, and gave us a sunny smile—twenty-five centesimi.

"He walked along a few yards, and then went forward and patted the near horse's flank—ten centesimi. He stooped down and presented to madama a small piece of lava—fifteen centesimi. I put the price low purposely, as Vesuvius is entirely composed of lava and is thirty miles round. Again he walked along in silence a few yards, and then remarked, 'Fine day'—ten centesimi. He saw a yellow flower by the side of the road, which he gathered and presented to madama with another sunny smile—thirty-five centesimi.

"Here I interfered. 'Fair youth,' said I, 'waste not thy time upon heedless and unappreciative travelers like ourselves. We need no little pieces of lava; our horses do not care for caresses; we have no use for sunny Italian smiles. Here is a coin, fair boy; it is the smallest I have; if I had a smaller it would be yours, but take it with my blessing.' I gave him a soldo, worth about a penny.

"The handsome boy gazed at the copper coin with the expression of a man who has just bitten into a bad oyster. He protested that he did not want, it, and tried to give it back to me—in vain.

"'Hark ye, good youth,' said I. 'Waste not your time on us. That coin is all you will get. Far down the dusty road behold yon carriage. In it there is a Chicago millionaire with his wife, his mother-in-law, and eke his wife's sister. He is rich and generous. I am poor and mean. Fly to the Chicago millionaire. Touch the Chicago man—I mean, touch the Chicago man's heart.'

"The youth with sunny smile understood me. He followed my advice, and over lava blocks he bounded away like a chamois, in a short cut to head off the Chicago man.

"Driving down the mountain, I saw that the laps of the Chicago ladies were covered with yellow wild flowers gathered from the roadside, and the air was perfumed with sunny Italian smiles. But when the Chicago man's carriage was at the foot of the toll-road I heard a violent altercation gaing on. The youth with the sunny smile was demanding of the Chicago millionaire five francs. He said he had been hired by him to walk along by the carriage, push it down-hill, pick flowers, gather lava, and make himself generally useless. The bystanders all agreed with him—they were all guides and carriage-drivers. They showed the Chicago man that he was wrong in grinding the face of the poor, so he reluctantly gave up five francs, and presented it to the youth with the sunny smile.

"Ah, he was indeed a beautiful boy, with his jet-black eyes, his curling hair, his bright and sunny smile. But I am glad I passed him on to the Chicago man."

LIVE OAKS OF FLORIDA.

One Five Feet from Ground Is Twenty-Six Feet Around.

Of the many splendid live oaks which inhabit the Southern States there are none so large as one a short way out of Jacksonville, Fla., beside a sandy roadway bordering the river, says the New York Herald. Here, visited by strangers from various parts of the world, it forms a spectacle so dignified, so magnificent in its proportions and unchangeableness that few can leave it unimpressed.

Naturally the tree is an evergreen, holding its foliage over the winter or until the young leaves of another season are sufficiently well developed to allow of the older ones falling unregretted to the ground. It is for this reason that its mammoth framework can never be wholly seen. Its trunk, however, at a distance of about five feet from the ground measures a trifle over twenty-six feet in circumference. Always the oak marks the landscape, something as might a colossal fountain casting out a spray of trembling green leaves.

Through how many generations the tree has been slowly attaining its great size none can tell with accuracy. In fact, when asked a question regarding the oak's age the oldest inhabitant of Jacksonville made answer: "Dat tree's always been dar, fur's I knows." And even those of more scientific propensities feel strangely inclined to take this statement as convincing. In spite of its perpetual greenness the oak has not the semblance of youth.

Waving through its green crown, even hanging so low as to touch the ground, long strands of gray moss cast over it a look of age and often to those unbred in the South mark it as well with a melancholy, unutterably sad expression.

GEN. TREPOFF DEAD

DESPOT OF RUSSIA PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY.

Tyrant by Nature, Education and Conviction, He Had More Than Once Checked Tide Toward Liberalism—Son of a Foundling.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—Gen. Dmitri Feodorovitch Trepoff, commandant of the imperialpalace, died at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at his villa at Peterhof of angina pectoris. Gen. Trepoff, whose name was indelibly linked with repression in Russia, was a remarkable man. He was a natural despot, a tyrant by inclination, education and conviction. He was one of those men who have constantly appeared in Russian history just at the time when conditions were most promising for putting an end to despotism to turn Russian rulers from liberalism to reaction.

It was he who became the guiding spirit of the reaction after Nicholas II has issued his manifesto in the fall of 1905, promising the people a share in the government. Holding the position of master of the palace, in league with the court intriguers who were determined to restore the old regime, he constantly had the emperor's ear.

Father Was Foundling

Like his father before him, Trepoff was a police master, and the story of father and son was full of dramatic incidents.

The elder was a foundling. Who his parents were was never known. He was found one morning on the back doorstep of a German family, by whom he was playfully named Trepoff (tre-hoff, German for doorstep.)

During the height of the Nihilist conspiracies in the late '70s, it was to the elder Trepoff that Alexander II confided the task of running down the terrorists plotting against his life.

The fight between liberalism and reaction then, as later under Trepoff's son, was in full swing, and then, as later, the energies of the police were directed against the student agitation.

Dmitri followed his father's footsteps. He attracted the attention of Grand Duke Sergius, then governor general of Moscow, and by him was named police master of Moscow. Trepoff soon became Sergius' right arm in fighting the revolutionary student agitation, of which the ancient capital was the hotbed.

Many Plots Frustrated

During those trying weeks plot after plot to kill him was discovered and frustrated. Two of his own nieces attempted to execute the sentence.

but in his dungeon-like room in the center of the palace, where no bomb could reach him, save by shattering a dozen walls, with the telephone constantly at his side, he issued orders and received reports.

His personal courage was beyond all question. He had almost a contempt for death. "I am no fool," he said to the Associated Press correspondent a few days after he assumed the dictatorship. "I am no fool to be potted in the street. I have work to do and I propose to do it. I have given my word to my imperial master to maintain the tranquility of the city and I will answer for the preservation of order with my life."

The strain told upon him and during those memorable weeks the lines of his face deepened and his hair and beard became streaked with gray. He continued at his post throughout the summer, and although there was much political ecxitement, no riot occurred.

Witte Yielded to Him

Trepoff made a pretense of acquiescing in the manifesto of that year and Witte's elevation to the premiership. But in reality he was only waiting favorable opportunity to give battle to the new regime. And when the orgie of liberty which followed the manifesto was in full blast, threatening to sweep away the foundations of the government, even Witte was glad to turn to the great police master to restore order. He accomplished his task and was hailed by the reactionaries as the savior of the situation. The emperor was made to believe that Trepoff alone was capable of safeguarding the life of himself and the imperial family, and so, with the press howling at his heels, he retired to Tsarkoe-Selo to become master of the palace.

There, amid a congenial atmosphere, he took the direction of the campaign for the restoration of the old order. Six actual attempts on the life of Gen. Trepoff have been made within the last three years, and only last year Gen. Kozloff, of the headquarters, was assassinated at Peterhof by a terrorist who believed he was firing upon Gen. Trepoff.

Secretary Root Entertained

Czar Goes on Cruise

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—Emperor Nicholas, Empress Alexandra and family have sailed on the imperial yacht Standrad down the Gulf of Finland on an excursion, which will last several days. The emperor is accompanied by the minister of court and the minister of marine.

UNAPPROVED BY WHEELER

California President Can See No Good in "Spelling Reform."

Stanford University, Cal., Sept. 17—Commencement exercises, which were postponed from last June, were held here Saturday night. The commencement address was delivered by Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of Caliornia. President Wheeler's address was on the subject of philology. In the course of his address he said:

"The establishment by the United States of a standard of written English different from that recognized elsewhere in the English speaking territory is an isolated and indecisive movement promising loss and waste to intercourse and culture and introducing consciousness of contrariety where the opposite is desired.

"The English language is not the property of the people of the United States, still less of the government; it is a precious possession of the English speaking world, and the moral authority to interfere in its regulation must arise out of the entire body and not from a segment thereof.

"Any radical change such as, for instance, would be involved in phonetic writing, would have the effect of cutting us off from the language of Shakespeare and the English Bible, making this a semi-foreign idiom, to be acquired by special study.

"The proposal gradually to introduce, through the co-operation of volunteers, a certain number of new spellings, and then, when these are well under way, presumably certain others, seems to promise an era of ghastly confusion in printing offices and in private orthography and heterography, as well as much irritation to readers' eyes and spirits.

"The list of 300 words proposed by the simplified spelling board is a somewhat haphazard collection, following no very clear principle of selection. One hundred and fifty-seven of them, such as color for colour, are already in their docked form familiar to American usage. There is no excuse, however, for thru (for through) from any point of view."

CANNOT GET $2,500,000 FOR JETTY AT THE BAR

Portland, Or., Sept. 17.—That the $2,500,000 needed for completion of the Columbia bar jetty cannot be secured next year from congress is the opinion of Congressmen Ransdell, of Louisiana, and Jones, of Washington, members of the rivers and harbors committee, who Saturday inspected the jetty, escorted by members of the Chamber of Commerce, Gov. Chamberlain and others.

That it is inadvisable to resume work on the jetty until this sum shall be available, either as an appropriation or under continuing contract, if very wasteful construction is to be avoided, was the opinion of the two committee members, which accorded with the view of Col. Roessler announced before a meeting of the Portland Chamber of Commerce Friday night. Col. Roessler advised further that money should not be diverted from the bar project by insistence upon sums of money for other improvements on the river, larger than are necessary for maintenance of present work.

Jones Opposes Plan

This plan is opposed by Representative Jones, who rather considers the Celilo project more important than the bar project, at least to the Upper Columbia river region, which wants lower transportation rates to and from tidewater. He takes the view that the Celilo barrier, which now prevents navigation up and down the river, should be opened as soon as possible, and that the bar improvement is not as urgent as is alleged, because ships of 23 feet and more draft can already pass in and out.

This opinion is shared by Mr. Ransdell, and he urges that the two projects be striven for together, saying that otherwise there will be divided effort, which will react against the interests of the entire river.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Ransdell said that it is extremely unlikely that the jetty can obtain $2,500,000, or that even the whole Colubmia river can secure such a sum. Both were even doubtful that there will be a river and harbor bill at all next year.

Paul O. Stensland Indicted

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The grand jury has voted indictments against Paul O. Stensland, former president of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, recently arrested at Tangier, and Henry W. Herring, ex-cashier, now confined in the county jail in this city. More than a score of indictments were returned against each man, all of them based upon the mismanagement of the bank.

Southern Pacific Coast Line

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—The Call says: "The Southern Pacific has decided to build a coast line railroad to Portland at once. It will run direct from Corviallis, Or., to Coos Bay and from Coos Bay to Eureka. It will run over the Santa Fe line to Camp Five, over the new line which it is constructing jointly with the Santa Fe to Sherwood and over the line of the California Northwestern to Tilburon.

Governor Ide Retires

Manila, Sept. 19.—Henry C. Ide has retired from his position as governor of the Philippines and has transferred his office to his successor, Gen. James F. Smith. The transfer was made in a quiet manner and without any spectacular incidents.

TAFT GOES TO CUBA

SECRETARY OF WAR TO IMMEDIATELY VISIT ISLAND.

President Addresses Important Communication Through Minister Quesada, to Cubans. Plea to Realize Responsibility as Self-Governing Republic.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 15.—After a protracted conference with Secretary of War Taft, Acting Secretary of State Bacon and Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, President Roosevelt addressed an important communication to Cuba and arranged to send Messrs. Taft and Bacon to that island on Sunday to make a thorough investigation of conditions there and lend their influence to restore peace. The communication is addressed to the Cuban minister to the United States, Senor Quesada. It is an impassioned plea to Cuba to realize her responsibility as a self-governing republic and to restore peace in the island.

Secretary Taft and Mr. Bacon will leave for Cuba tomorrow. They will go by rail to Key West, Fla., and from there the jounrey to Havana will be completed on a naval vessel, probably the cruiser Des Moines.

After Long Conference

The conference which resulted in the Cuban decision began at Sagamore Hill shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday and continued until 10 o'clock at night. At its conclusion Messrs. Taft, Bonaparte and Bacon left for New York, going on to Washington today.

Secretary Taft said he had no idea as to the length of his visit to Cuba. He indicated there would be no haste in the investigation, which would be thorough.

Aside from this no information will be divulged by those attending the conference, the statement being made that the letter of the president was intended to cover the whole Cuban situation as far as it was desirable to do in the public prints.

Senator Albert Beveridge, a member of the senate committee on Cuban relations, also participated in the conference.

LIBERAL LEADERS ARE AGAIN SEEN IN HAVANA

Havana, Sept. 18.—The only results thus far of President Palma's order for the suspension of hostilities has been that Liberal leaders who hitherto have had every reason for anticipating arrest are circulating openly in Havana again and even conferring with members of the government, with regard to peace, and that such insurgents in the field as have been consulted, while they express themselves as agreeable to settling matters amicably, at the same time assume an independent attitude which cannot be said to bode well for a prompt settlement of existing difficulties.

Meantime Cienfuegos is in a state of siege. All accounts agree that there are easily 3000 insurgents a few miles southeast of Havana, and rumors are in circulation that they will enter the city peaceably if they are not molested, but that they will fight if they meet with resistance.

The executive committee of the Moderate party at a meeting yesterday voted to continue its efforts for peace. Terms were informally discussed. It was generally agreed that Secretary Taft might be the eventual arbiter, and the hope is freely expressed that not only will the United States settle the present strife, but that the American government will retain sufficient hold on Cuban affairs to prevent a repetition of the past month's experiences.

Felipe Romero, who was instrumental in reviving the peace negotiations, said last night that the insurgents outside of Havana were ready to resort to arms at a moment's notice if evidence developed of lack of faith on the part of the government, but they were anxious to accelerate the peace efforts if justice was done. He said that at present they have no intention of entering the capital, but instead were showing their strength of numbers outside. He said that the presence of the cruiser Denver had nothing to do with their remaining out of Havana.

To Test an Old Law

Portland, Or., Sept. 17.—A special to the Oregonian from Salem states that Gov. Chamberlain has called upon the various railroads having lines in Oregon to file reports in accordance with the statute passed in 1885, setting forth the value of their property, market value of their stocks and bonds, indebtedness, and amount of business receipts. In case of failure the governor states he will direct that legal steps be instituted against one of the companies to enforce the penalties provided by the act, in order to test the law.

Use Convicts for Road Work

Walla Walla, Sept. 17.—Warden Kees of the penitentiary has received word from the state board of control to send fifteen convicts to Lewis county Saturday night to work on the roads of that county. Short-timers will be taken. The state pays the traveling expenses of the convicts and guards, while the county will pay for board and expenses of the convicts and guards while the men are at work.

CITY OF CHICAGO VICTOR

No Legal Obstacle to Its Ownership of Street Railways

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Judge Thomas G. Winder, in the circuit court, decided in favor of the city of Chicago in the injunction suit based on the Mueller law, which provides for the issuance of $75,000,000 worth of railway certificates by the city. The law was declared constitutional by the court, who also held that subsequent ordinances for the purchase and operation of the street railways, passed by the city, are in compliance with the law.

The decision is a complete victory for the city, the court holding against every point advanced by the complainants in their bill, which was dismissed for want of equity. The court pointed out that it was the evident purpose of the legislature and of the Chicago city council, in the laws and ordinances passed by those bodies, to give the city the right to municipalize the street railways.

Regarding the alleged unconstitutionality of the Mueller law, the court declared that while there may be in some points a doubt as to the intent of the legislature, he believed the doubt should not waver what appeared to be the intention of the legislature in enacting the measure.

The attorneys for the city were jubilant because of the decision, claiming that the court had upheld their contentions in every respect. The case will be appealed to the state supreme court, which will take it under advisement next month.

ADAMS IS NOMINATED

Colorado Democrats Nominate Man Who Was Counted Out.

Denver, Sept. 17.—After three days of strenuous sessions, perhaps the most lively and in some particulars the most extraordinary ever witnessed by Democrats of Colorado, the Democratic state convention adjourned sine die. A complete ticket was named, headed by Alva Adams.

The action of the convention which was considered by all concerned as the most momentous was the reading out of the party of the Speer faction of Denver county because of their alleged subservience to local corporations. The debate on this matter lasted nearly a whole day.

The renomination of Alva Adams was demanded in the platform and was unopposed because of the general opinion among the Democrats that he should be vindicated in his claim that he was robbed of the governorship two years ago in the Peabody-Adams contest before the state legislature.

The platform of the convention indorsed Bryan and took a decided stand against the corporation domination of political parties, and pledged the Democracy of Coloradao to the enactment of a law making it a felony for officials of corporations to contribute to campaign funds.

SUPREME COURT SAYS LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Olympia, Sept. 17.—The supreme court has declared unconstitutional and void the act of the legislature of 1905 requiring railroads to deduct 1,000 pounds from lumber shipments for weights of standards used on the cars.

The decision was in the Spokane county case of the Washington Mill Company against the Great Northern, in which case the trial court refused to grant a writ of mandate to compel the railroad to make the deductions.

The supreme court in its decision says the first section of the act itself makes the standard part of the car, while the second section requires the deduction to be mde from the net weight of freight carried, of which the supreme court says, "thus required freight to be carried free, and is in contravention of article 1, section 14, of the constitution of the United States, and therefore void.

TYPHOON AT HONGKONG DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Manila, Sept. 18.—Cable reports from Hongkong state that a typhoon which sprang up suddenly at 10 o'clock yesterday morning did enormous damage to the shipping in that port.

The German steamer Johanne and the British steamer San Cheung were sunk.

The Hongkong, Canton & Macao Company's steamer Fatsban foundered, and of the crew the purser and mate alone survive.

The Canadian Pacific Company's steamer Monteagle went ashore.

All business in the city is at a stand still. The typhoon lasted two hours.

PROHIBITION TICKET

A. S. Cohen, William Everett and I. M. Wilkin Nominated for Congress

Seattle, Sept. 17.—The Prohibitionists held their state convention here with delegates present from all parts of the state. For congress A. S. Caton, of Olympia; William Everett, of North Yakima and I. M. Wilkin, of Seattle, were nominated without contest.

A platform was adopted for the state campaign, which favors initiative and referendum, the election of United States senators by popular vote, the primary election law and government ownership of public utilities.

A new sawmill, with a capacity of 40,000 feet daily, is to be erected at Eatonville.

Blair for Senator

John L. Blair, San Juan's candidate for the state senate, was nominated by a combination of the delegates from that county and Clallam.

The City Council

Councilman Hallahan made an extended report to the council of a trip to Lake Creek and the natural reservoir at the head of the creek, which he visited last week. Lake Creek itself will furnish, it is thought, more water than Little River, and can be easily diverted to Ennis Creek. The lake, which is on the north side at the eastern end of Mount Angeles, is about 1,000 feet wide by from 2,000 to 3,000 feet long, balloon shape and being very deep—said to be over 400 feet—forms a natural reservoir of sufficient size to supply a large city with water during the dry season. Owing to its location it can never be contaminated. The water flowing therefrom will furnish a splendid water-power which could be economically developed. Approximate estimates are now being prepared for a water system to include that source of supply, and it is thought and hoped the council will line up in favor of the proposition.

On motion of Mr. Hallahan the city attorney was instructed to take necessary steps for filing of water right.

Ordered that the fire chief be summoned before council at next session to give information regarding justice of claim for services at Muskett fire.

Committee reported deed from Chas. Raming to city for portions of First and Unice streets, and the making of satisfactory agreement regarding taxes; city attorney ordered to take charge of details.

Bills allowed: Lewis Supply Co., $13.10; Gutenberg & Co., $13.87; Willson Hdw. Co., $9.65; C. Wise; streets, $95.25.

The republicans of Hoko precinct held their primaries last Saturday in the open air. It was held on the banks of the Hoko river near Stotzenburg's, the river being high and not easy to cross. Eight of the patriots stood on one side of the water and four on the other and motions were put and nominations made by shouting. To even matters up Chas. Wynn who lives on the west side of the river and John Hillstrom on the east side were elected delegates.—Clallam Bay Record.

The Bellingham Revellie says that "the shingle mills bureau, which includes about 90 per cent of the mills of the state, has voted to close down for ninety days commencing January 1st. The effect of this long period of idleness will probably be felt more seriously in general business than was the shut down caused by the recent strike, because it will come at a period when there are fewer avenues of employment open to the idle shingle weavers."

T. T. Aldwell has received the following from Congressman Francis W. Cushman under date of September 6:

"I have the honor to advise you that I have this day instructed Special Agent Fred Bennett, in charge of the District of Seattle, Wash., to proceed with Special Agent Ellet to Port Angeles and make the reappraisement as provided for in the first act mentioned as providing for such appraisement and which action he is directed to take as soon as possible.

The Indianapolis will call at Angeles Wednesday, the 26th, on her way to Victoria, and again on the 27th, on her way to Seattle to accommodate those wishing to attend the Provincial Exposition. $1.00 for round trip. By the way, the Navigation Company has decided to keep the Indianapolis on the Victoria run this winter.

The steamer Oregon, after fifteen years service on the Pacific, being one of the best and speediest ships, went ashore seventy miles from Valdez, Sept. 13, in the intense darkness. Capt. H. E. Soule, for a time a resident of Angeles, was master.

Proceedings Board of Commissioners

Wednesday, the 12th day of September, 1906, at 1:30 p. m.

The Board being unable to meet at 9:30 a. m, pursuant to adjournment, met at 1:30 p. m. Present commissioners Christopher and Filion and deputy auditor Hawkins.

The auditor having received bids from the Pioneer Bindery & Printing Co., the Irwin Hodson Co., and Bushong & Co., to furnish Tax Rolls, Tax Collection Register, Tax Receipts, etc, for the year 1907, and the Pioneer Bindery & Printing Co's. bid being the lowest and best bid, the Board instructed the auditor to purchase said supplies of the Pioneer Bindery & Printing Co.

The Board instructed the auditor to draw a warrant of $50.00 on the current expense fund for the incidental expense account.

The Board examined and allowed the following claims and ordered warrants drawn for the same on the current expense fund

Joe Pearson, services fighting fire. $13 75
W. E. Burnside, county treasurer, costs of sending John Hagedorn, a defective youth to Vancouver, Wash 31 00
Pioneer Bindery & Printing Co., supplies 70 30
Tribune-Times, publications and supplies 13 55
A. L. Johnson, hauling county charge 1 50
T. S. Brophy & Co., supplies for Westphal County Home..... 1 30

Whereas, there is now outstanding, Clallam county general road fund warrants amounting to $24,632.86, upon which there is approximately the sum of $8,500 in interest due and unpaid, and that the indebtedness of the county evidenced by the said warrants was an indebtedness within the limitations of the constitution of the State of Washington, and

Whereas, we believe that it is to the best interest of the county to fund said general road fund warrants, by issuing bonds and redeeming said warrants.

Therefore, be it resolved that we submit to the electors of Clallam County to be voted on by them at the next general election to be held on Tuesday the 6th day of November 1906, the question of voting bonds in the sum of $34,000 or so much thereof as is necessary to take up the outstanding warrants issued on the general road fund of Clallam county and the accumulated interest thereon to be by said Clallam county exchanged at not less than par value for said warrants and interest, or sold at not less than par value and the proceeds used for the payments of said warrants.

Be it further resolved that the auditor be instructed to publish this resolution according to law.

ALFRED I. FILION,
D. A. CHRISTOPHER.

The Board examined and allowed the following claims and ordered warrants drawn on the funds of road and bridge district No. 2.

James Fitzgerald, meat for camp..$27 65
E. W. Merrill & Co., groceries.... 1 80

The Board examined and allowed the following claims and ordered warrants drawn on the funds of road and bridge district No. 3, the same to come out of the appropriation of $250.00 for Ozette and Neah Bay road.

Frank Wheeler, labor.....$17 50
Harry Taylor, labor..... 20 00

The Board ordered the Auditor to issue a warrant for ..... on the current expense fund in favor of W. E. Burnside, County Treasurer, for the redemption of the state, county and school district tax, also interest on Tax Certificate No. 1764. Said certificate having been issued on lands in Suburban Lot No. 10, known as Streets.

It is agreed that the City must have a deed recorded for the above land and remit city taxes and settle costs of a foreclosure proceeding now pending.

The Board ordered the County Treasurer to advertise and sell as provided by law all those certain described lands and lots recorded in Commissioner's Journal No. 7, on page 365 to 373, the same having been acquired by said county at tax sale for delinquent taxes.

The Board allowed the following Commissioner's claims:

D.A. Christopher, one days salary, $4.00
A. I. Filion, one days salary, 4.00

The Board adjourned to meet Monday the 1st day of October, 1906, at 9:30 a.m.

Pain from a Burn Promptly Relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

A little child of Michael Strauss, of Vernon, Conn., was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand, and as cold applications only increased the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James Nichols, a local merchant for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale by all druggists.
