WORK BEGUN ON SOLEDUCK ROAD

New $25,000 Road from Port Crescent to Piedmont is Completed.

The new automobile road to Lake Crescent, built jointly by the County and Michael Earles, was completed last week and the contractors, Govan and Woodcock, moved camp Tuesday to the Soleduck Hot Springs, where they will be engaged for the remainder of the summer and fall in removing slides and repairing the Hot Springs road.

Mr. Govan, speaking of the work at the Springs, says fully $25,000 worth of work will have to be done to place the automobile road from Fairholm to the Hot Springs in good condition so great was the damage done by the unprecedented storms of last winter. They will have a crew of twenty-five men on the work as long as the weather holds good.

Nothing definite is known concerning the big log hotel which it is said the Hot Springs Company will have built at the Springs for temporary purposes. Mr. Govan expects to have the contract, but the details rest with Mr. Earles and he has not yet come down for his summer outing.

All the people at the lake, and, in fact, everyone who has ridden over the new road from Port Crescent speak in the highest terms of the work done. An entirely new road has been built from the Joyce shingle mill, or Joe-Town, to Piedmont. Through the low, swampy land back of Port Crescent and extending well up the hillsides, the road has been liberally gravelled, while practically every yard through the hills is rock blasted. In other words, the hill road is simply a shelf blasted out of rock, the inner edge a wall of rock, the outer—well, all one can see is the edge of the rock and the green across the deep ravine. It has been largely donkey engine and scraper work, the refuse having been pulled directly out from the hill side, and upon the refuse a nice trim wall of rock laid up much like the government road in Yellowstone Park.

Mr. Govan says the County has secured a real bargain, the work being easily worth $25,000, while it cost only $17,000, the result of bidding a lump sum when the conditions were unknown. "Just at present," he said, "it's rough and hard to travel, like a freshly plowed field. But it will be a fine road bed when packed down. No other road in the county has so much rock work."

The County pays $10,000 of the expense and Mr. Earles the balance.

Mrs. Lauridsen Entertains.

The social function of this week was the reception given by Mrs. G. M. Lauridsen in honor of her neice, Miss Rylands of Bridgeport, Conn. The floral decorations of the home were exceptionally beautiful. No particular color scheme was carried out, but sweet peas and roses were in profusion everywhere, filling the air with their sweet fragrance. Assisting Mrs. Lauridsen in receiving were Miss Bernice Allen, Mrs. Wm. Moore, Mrs. McGillivray, Mrs. C. P. Brown and Mrs. A. A. Smith. Mrs. Chas. Haswell and Mrs. James Lauridsen presided over the tea t ble, while Miss Angeline Ritchie, Athelene Fisher and Beatrice Allen gracefully served the guests with the dainty refreshments.

Prof. Lange, pianist, accompanied by Geo. Parks, violinist, filled the house with strains of the sweetest music during the entire afternoon.

Over one hundred invitations were sent out by Mrs. Laurid sen, and judging by the many handsomely dressed women on the streets, fully that many responded.

The second annual Western Washington Fair, to be given in Seattle the week of September 19 to 25, will have one of the greatest entertainment programs ever offered by a fair association in the Northwest. The management has promised some novel features in the way of races. Prominent among these will be daily relay races of four miles, with four horses, to be ridden by the most expert horsmen from many ranches in the Northwest, which are sending entries for these races.

LIQUOR LICENSE ORDINANCE PASSED

A $600 Fee in the Future. Number of Saloons in City Limited to Nine.

Council met in regular session on Tuesday evening at City Hall, with all members present, save Councilman Fitzgerald, who is taking a vacation.

Councilman Harding reported elevated walk from Valley street to Pine Hill in dangerous condition. Referred to street superintendent for investigation, with instructions to make needed repairs.

Street Superintendent Small reported slides on water front near C street and asked for instructions regarding same. Ordered to make passage way over slides on Third street near C and to use old planks from White creek bridge.

Councilman Grubb of ordinance committee reported that with a few minor changes liquor ordinance was entirely satisfactory.

John Hickok petitioned council as follows:

To the Hon. Mayor and City council: For self protection against any water company or corporation I respectfully ask your honorable body to grant me the privilege of erecting and maintaining a private water system by means of hydraulic ram, to be located at the junction of Valley street and the alley between 11th and 12th streets. I also ask the privilege of going up Valley street 300 feet with pipe or flume to get sufficient fall to run my ram, thence east on said alley 600 feet across Cherry street. This privilege to last for thirty years.

No objections. Referred to Fire, Light and Water Committee.

The liquor ordinance question was then taken up and ordinance read section by section for amendments. The proposition to strike the words in Section 2, "from and after the first of January, 1911," was lost on a tie vote, Stakemiller, Grubb and Harding voting to strike out the words and Myres, Rouse and Elliot voting against.

Councilman Grubb offered the following, to be known and numbered as Section 9:

Hereafter no license shall be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors for more than nine saloons, except upon the ratio of 800 of population in addition to each license granted, population to be found upon the basis of the school census of the city. Adopted.

Upon roll call, the ordinance was then placed upon its final passage, Councilmen Myres, Stakemiller, Grubb, Rouse, Elliott and Harding voting aye.

Light Committee authorized to string lights on Front street during Elks' State Convention week, and clerk instructed to have notice published, requesting owners to restrain cows during convention time.

Street superintendent ordered to investigate condition of Laurel street zigzag and report at next meeting.

Following bills were allowed:

R. D. Willson Hdw. Co., supplies light plant, 65c; H. Gutenberg Hdw. Co., supplies light plant, $2795; J. R. Gallagher and men, fire at Lounsdis residence, $18.

Street committee returned assessment rolls for construction of sidewalks on Valley street against the following property owners:

E. D. Hines	$38 39
A. R. Pringle	27 31
Thos. Ollis	33 57
Mrs. Hitch	29 20

Referred to Finance committee.

A Pleasant Card Party.

The social event of last week, altho very informal, was the card party given by Dr. and Mrs. McGillivray on Saturday evening. Their pleasant home was made unusually attractive with the tasteful decorations and arrangement of beautiful flowers. About thirty-five guests partook of their hospitality and spent a most delightful evening. The guests of honor were Mrs. S. A. Hoyt of Seattle, Miss Rylands of Bridgeport, Conn., and Miss Listoe, of St. Paul, Minn. The head ladies prize was won by Mrs. Kirschberg and the gentlemen's was a tie between A. A. Smith and Conrad Luppen.

THE LAKES, PORT ANGELES SUMMER RESORT

Good Accommodations, Magnificent Scenery and a Health-Giving Ozone. Brilliant Secial Affair

The better half of the junior editor of this paper has just returned from a few days outing at Lake Crescent and is filled with enthusiasm over the magnificent scenery, excellent fishing, the fresh pure air, laden with the fragrance of cedar and pine, the cordiality and hospitality of the residents of the lake and the great improvement in the accommodations to be had at the hotels.

The finest kind of meals are set before the guests, consisting of delicious home-grown vegetables and fruits, freshly butchered meats, spring chickens, the finest fish in the world, and sweet, fresh milk from their own cows. The city people are appreciating these improvements and advantages over the ordinary summer resort and are flocking to the lakes in ever increasing numbers. Every hotel is full and the launches are kept busy day and night, bringing and taking away passengers. People from all parts of the country are to be found here and all are delighted with the unsurpassed scenery and beauty of the lakes and surrounding country.

A fine new road has just been completed to Piedmont, so that now one has an exceptionally good road all the way from Angeles, instead of having to go over the old Port Crescent road. The travel to the Soleduck Hot springs has never been as heavy as this year, and it is hoped the accommodations there will be greatly improved by another year.

In response to unique invitations sent out by Mrs. Ovington to all the people on the lake, about fifty gathered at her pleasant resort on last Saturday evening, and were delightfully entertained by this charming hostess. Prof. Kackeack, a mind reader of renown, did some wonderful "stunts" for the entertainment of the guests, while Miss Annette Trumbull delighted many with her fortune telling, both by cards and palmistry The phonograph furnished music for the dance, which was enjoyed till the wee small hours of morning Delicious coffee and cakes, with home-made candies were served during the evening by the hostess and her assistants, and other stunts which pleased us all, were enjoyed at this gay and festive ball.

WRIGHT'S MARINE BAND

New Uniforms and New Instruments A Splendid Organization.

The band boys have received their splendid new uniforms, which consist of a dark blue broadcloth coat handsomly trimmed with black braid, and the letters P. A. M. B. in silver on the low coat collar, and a blue military cap, trimmed in gold. When the boys receive the eight new instruments ordered, expected any day, Wright's Port Angeles Marine Band will be one of the best equipped as well as one of the best uniformed bands on the coast. The band, under the efficient instruction of Prof. Wright, is already becoming widely known as one of the very best body of musicians in the Pacific Northwest. The boys and their music will be a star attraction at the time of Elks' convention in this city.

CIVIC PARK NEVER SO BEAUTIFUL

Cleaning Up Day a Great Success.

An enthusiastic crowd of hard workers responded to the call for help to put Civic Park in condition for the entertainment of the visiting Elks. A lot of new ground was cleared, old rubbish burned, many new rustic seats put in and plans made for new tables and benches. It will take another day's hard work to finish and the services of any interested parties will be gratefully accepted.

A vote of thanks is due the ladies of Civic Club who served such a fine dinner to the workers.

Minor Happenings of the Week

London.—London floated $180,000,000 new American securities during the last six months, against only $11,000,000 a year ago.

Washington.—National banks are very generally making application for designation as depositary banks under the postal savings bank law.

Baltimore.—Cardinal Gibbons was 76 years old July 23. On that date 50 years ago he was ordained a priest. He was made a cardinal June 30, 1886.

Newcastle, England.—The strike of 12,000 employes of the Northeastern railroad has been settled. The men accepted the terms offered by the company.

Hongkong. — Chinese authorities have sent 10 gunboats and 1200 soldiers to Colowan to assist the Portuguese soldiers, if necessary, in exterminating the pirates there.

Chicago.—Leading state banks here report that savings deposits are still increasing gradually and generally, while many new accounts are starting. The public has been recently neither buyer nor seller of securities.

Rio Janeiro.—Sir William D. Haggard, British minister to Brazil, will be asked to act as arbitrator in the long standing boundary dispute betwee Peru and Colombia in place of Baron de Branco, the Brazilian foreign minister, who had declined to act.

Chicago.—President Taft will be invited to open the National Conservation Congress at St. Paul on September 3, according to a decision reached at the conference between the executive committee of the congress and representatives of the Twin Cities' board of managers.

Victoria, B. C.—A splendid hotel, which will cost approximately $2,000,000, is to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company in Victoria. The site was purchased for $278,000. It is situated on Government street, the city's main thoroughfare, and is within a stone's throw of the Empress, owned by the Canadian Pacific railroad.

OREGONIANS TO VOTE ON SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

Portland, Ore., Friday, July 23.—Perhaps the women will vote in Oregon after November 8. At least, that is the purpose of an equal suffrage amendment offered under the initiative, for enactment next November. Woman suffrage has been rejected in Oregon four times—in 1884, 1900, 1906 and 1908.

Thirty-two initiative and referendum measures will be voted on at the election next November. The attorney-general and the office of secretary of state have completed the ballot titles for the measures, which indicate how the measures originated and contain a brief synopsis of their contents.

Following are some of the measures that will appear on the ballot:

Women's taxpaying suffrage amendment, granting to all taxpayers, regardless of sex, the right of suffrage.

A law for the division of several of the larger counties in the eastern part of the state, thus creating three new counties.

Constitutional amendments are proposed to abolish the poll or head tax, and to give cities and towns exclusive power to regulate or suppress the sale of intoxicants.

Another amendment will be voted on for preventing tariff in liquor within the state. The liquor law bill will be framed to prevent the manufacture of beer and whisky and the giving away of the same in Oregon.

PATTEN AGAIN DECLARES AGAINST SPECULATION

New York, July 25.—Reiterating his declaration that he never would again re-enter the speculative arena and declaring that in his opinion the crux of the financial situation lay with the grain crops, particularly corn, James A. Patten, the erstwhile "cotton king," sailed Saturday for Europe on the steamer Kroonland. He was accompanied by his partner, William H. Bartlett, of Chicago, and William S. Clough, of Boston.

"It seems the crux of the financial situation this fall depends on good crops," said Mr. Patten. "The oat crop is short, wheat is short and hay is short. Now, if corn fails, the country might have a period of dull times. A great deal depends on the drought. The entire corn belt has had a serious deficiency of moisture since March 22."

May Arbitrate G. T. P. Strike.

Montreal, July 23.—Vice President James Murdoch, representing the general committee of the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont conductors and trainmen, today, in a telegraphic message to Ottawa, accepted Minister of Labor King's suggestion for the arbitration of the Grand Trunk wage dispute by a board to be named by the government and to be satisfactory to both parties.

Washington State News Items

Tacoma.—Polk & Co.'s 1910 directory will show an estimate of Tacoma's present population of 116,200.

Washington.—The Chehalis County bank, of Aberdeen, and the Montesano State bank, of Montesano, have made applications to be named as depositaries for postal savings banks.

Minneapolis.—Minnesota may not be called upon to pay taxes next year. The state treasury is groaning under the burden of a surplus never equaled. There is nearly $4,000,000 in the treasury.

Olympia.—Certifying on honor that he is a member of the Republican party, Thomas Burke, of Seattle, has filed with the secretary of state a declaration of candidacy for United States senator.

Olympia.—The state highway commission has opened bids and awarded the contract for improving the Langley state aid road, in Island county, to the county commissioners of that county at the board bid of $1,686.

Washington.—Civil service examinations for appointments as railway mail clerks will be held on November 12 at the following places: Bellingham, North Yakima, Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Walla Walla and Wenatchee.

Bristol.—A farmers' co-operative sawmill is the latest industry proposed for this place. It is proposed to purchase a portable mill or induce some present mill owner to locate here on a liberal stock subscription. This will give Bristol two sawmills.

Kettle Falls.—The Stevens County Federation of Commercial Clubs met here with M. W. Teeple, the president, presiding, and with W. H. Brooks as secretary. It will have 50,000 booklets of about sixty pages each, with information concerning each section of Stevens county.

Steilacoom.—Royal A. Gove, past grand master of the Washington Masons, laid the corner stone of the new temple in this place Friday evening. The local lodge is the second oldest in the state, having received its charter June 13, 1854. It numbers 75 members. The new temple is to be a two-story brick, costing $8,000.

Bellingham.—The contract for the construction of the new Bellingham armory, for which the legislature appropriated $75,000, has been let to George McKenzie, of Everett, at a trifle over $56,600. The contract for the plumbing and heating was given to H. B. King, of Seattle, for $4,953. The building must be finished before March 1.

SPOKANE WANTS PLACE ON COMMERCE COURT

Spokane, July 23.—To procure the appointment of a Spokane man as one of the five members of the new United States court of commerce is the object of a movement started among Spokane business men.

A large element will favor the selection of H. M. Stephens, attorney for Spokane in the historic rate case. Others mentioned are Federal Judge Edward Whitson and Frank T. Post.

No two of the five members of the court are to be selected from any one of the nine United States court circuits. The ninth circuit includes Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Alaska, Arizona, Montana, Nevada and Hawaii.

GOVERNMENT BUREAU TO PROTECT INDIANS

Washington, July 23.—Regulations designed to protect the Indians whose trust periods have not expired, in disposing of their allotments by will, are being compiled by the bureau of Indian affairs.

Congress at its last session authorized Indians who have reached the age of 21 and whose lands are still under the control of the government, to will their allotments. The bureau will throw all the safeguards possible around the red men in order that they may not be the victims of fraud.

Previously the Indians whose trust periods had not expired were not able to execute wills, their property descending in accordance with the laws of the state in which it was located.

Labor War Declared Off.

St. Louis, July 25.—Formal announcement has been made by J. T. Templeton, secretary of the Buck Stove & Range Company of the end of the fight with organized labor. The employes of the plant are to be organized. The announcement says in part: "The present management is, and always has been, friendly to organized labor. We believe labor has a right to organize for its protection and advancement."

Chicago Claims 2,100,000.

Chicago, July 23.—The population of Chicago has passed the 2,000,000 mark, according to the 1910 school census made public this week. The total minor population of the city is 814,115, an increase of 66,768 over the census of 1908. Based on the minor count the total population is 2,100,000.

Mountaineers Hit the Trail.

Nason, Wash., July 25.—Sixty-five mountaineers arrived at Nason at 2:45 p. m. yesterday and immediately hit the trail for Lake Wenatchee, where the first temporary camp was made.

The party walked thirteen miles to the second camp at Chickerman creek.

NEED OF EQUITABLE LIABILITY LAW

NOTABLE TWO-DAY CONFERENCE HELD AT TACOMA COMMERCIAL CLUB.

All Agreed That Present State Statutes on Subject Are Antiquated and Inefficient—Committee Named to Consider Feasibility of Permanent Organization.

Tacoma, July 23.—Imbued with the desire to secure legislation which will result in a more equitable liability and the payment of indemnities for personal injuries, Governor M. E. Hay presided at one of the most notable two-day conferences ever held in Tacoma. The conference sessions opened at the Commercial Club. Every interest of the state of Washington was represented in the assemblage, the people, labor, capital and the state administration. Two hundred representative men attended the sessions and considerable ground was covered before the adjournment was called.

Legislator, executive, state officer, attorney, employer and employe who participated in the discussion of the existing liability laws voiced the unanimous opinion that the state of Washington is burdened with antiquated remains of statutes covering the liability of employers, the most wasteful that could be devised and absolutely devoid of justice to either employe or employer. Suggestions for a revision of the existing laws and others for the formulation of complete new systems were forthcoming from several of the speakers and it is anticipated that with the close of the conference a definite course of action will have been decided upon.

Committee Is Appointed.

During the afternoon session Governor Hay appointed a committee of five to investigate the feasibility of inaugurating the liability conference as a permanent institution. The committee is headed by C. R. Case, president of the State Federation of Labor, and the other members are ex-Senator W. S. Graves of Spokane, Everett G. Griggs of Tacoma, State Labor Commissioner C. F. Hubbard and W. C. Miles. A report of the committee findings will be handed to Governor Hay.

A separate resolution, offered by Paul E. Page of Buckley, prominent lumberman, providing for the appointment of another committee of nine representing the public, labor and capital, to advise and consult with the original committee in arranging the ultimate nomination of the various officers necessary, was adopted. The second committee will be named by Governor Hay today.

Reconsidering a resolution of the morning session calling for the appointment of a committee of five to draft a model statute designed to cover the objections to the existing laws, Senator J. A. Falconer of Everett moved during the afternoon session that the original resolution be brought up for immediate discussion. The committee will be named this morning by Governor Hay and further discussion will follow. The original motion for the appointment of the committee was put by Tallmadge Hamilton.

Governor Hay Presides.

The conference opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when Governor Hay was introduced as presiding officer by H. A. Rhodes, president of the Commercial Club. The addresses of Governor Hay, United States Senator Wesley L. Jones and Jesse S. Jones of the state railroad commission were features of the morning session.

Responding to a call from Governor Hay, Senator Jones declared that the subject under discussion by those assembled at the conference was one which interests all classes of mankind, one of more than mere dollars and cents and affecting the public and state as well as the employer and employe.

"No subject," said Senator Jones, "can better command our attention than the settlement of this great question. It is a matter of vital importance to all. The public wants to see the industrial peace which will be one of the direct results. The laboring man wants to be compensated not only for his physical suffering, but for the loss he sustains in losing for the time being, at least, the means of obtaining those things upon which life itself depends."

Speedy Change Is Needed.

Frank B. Cole, chairman of the committee which has the convention in charge, also made a brief address telling what prompted the Commercial Club to call the conference. With one accord speakers both of the morning and afternoon session were unanimous in their decision that the need of speedy change in the laws is not only a question of financial interest to both employer and employe, but has reached the stage where common humanity demands a revision of the laws.

In his brief but scholarly talk, the opening feature of the afternoon session, W. W. Wynkoop of Tacoma insisted that amendment of the indemnity system is a question of principle for conscientious citizens, affording discussion as important as the question of labor itself. The justice or injustice of the present laws was the text of the speaker's remarks and to prove his assertions that a waste and drain is imposed upon society under the existing methods of meeting personal injury indemnity he gave statistics showing that of $100,000,000 paid out to workingmen ostensibly as compensative liability for injuries they had received, this sum was shaved and reshaved by casualty companies and attorneys until the workingmen received only 40 per cent of the total sum. The other 60 per cent, said the speaker, was swallowed up in the trial of the cases, for lawyers' fees and witnesses and the kindred schemes for shaving the original amount. By adopting new methods of settling and adjusting the claims of the injured workmen, said Mr. Wynkoop, society can amend the present conditions and reap a general benefit. In further statistical figures he asserted that 75 per cent of the trial cases in Washington courts are personal injury suits and that $200,000 was paid out in one year for jury services, trial in many of the cases being entirely unnecessary and unsought by the plaintiff workingman, who is naturally averse to going into court. Eighty per cent of the injured workingmen of this state get no compensation except what they receive by special contract or from divers means of charity, he said.

"When the factory machine breaks down, the cost of repairing that machine is charged to the product," said Mr. Wynkoop. "Nobody has occasion to think that such a procedure is unfair. Society has ultimately to bear the loss and burden of personal injury and why, then, cannot society adopt some set and just method of properly compensating the human machine which breaks down occasionally under the force of some peculiar injury?"

Committee of Ten.

Recommending the appointment of a committee of ten members to frame a bill covering employers' liability and workmen's compensation for personal injury, Tacoma's two-day liability conference was closed by Governor M. E. Hay at the Commercial Club last evening. The existing liability laws have been attacked almost universally as unjust and wasteful and in having taken the important preliminary step to secure passage of a revision, the conference is conceded to have made a rapid stride in a direction which has met with failure in other communities.

GOVERNOR PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS

"I am very much pleased with the attitude which the delegates to the Commercial Club conference maintained toward the important matter of employes' compensation for injuries," said Governor M. E. Hay to The Ledger yesterday. "Great good can not help but result in the gathering.

"Both employes and employers recognize the reasonableness of the cause and will get together to frame a bill which will at least remedy many of the glaring defects of the present statue, and be of benefit to both.

"I do not hope that the bill which the committee appointed will frame will be the best possible. That has not been the case in any matter of legislation concerning so vital a matter. The steps taken are, however, in the right direction and the results will finally come.

"The manifest injustice which the present law makes possible, it seems to me, calls for immediate action and the coming legislature will have the advantage of acting upon a bill presented by men who have given the matter particular study."

BANKERS THINK NATION CRAZY ABOUT AUTOS

White Plains, N. Y., July 23.—The Westchester County Bankers' Association believes that the people of the United States are "automobile crazy," and that the bankers of the country ought to intervene to save their clients from this madness. At their annual convention held here this week the association passed resolutions asking its members to scrutinize carefully the application of those who want to borrow money on notes for the purchase of automobiles. The banks are to use extreme caution in discounting such paper.

The bankers declare that hundreds of persons have put themselves in peril of bankruptcy during the last six months by mortgaging their homes or hypothecating valuable securities to buy machines.

LOOKS TO WEST TO SAVE THE COUNTRY

New York, July 25.—Rudolph Spreckels, son of Claus Spreckels, of San Francisco, and "grafter hunter," came back Saturday from Europe and spoke gloomily of the business outlook, saying he believed the "interests" were preparing some move to injure business temporarily for the benefit of the "standpatters" who want re-election to congress this fall.

"However," said Mr. Spreckels, "I think the insurgents will be returned to congress in larger numbers and will indirectly control national legislation. Ultimately, I think, the great West will prove to be the savior of this country from the corporation interests."

White Is Asked to Resign.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 25.—Democrats of St. Clair county in convention here, passed a resolution demanding that Representative Charles A. White, who admitted taking a bribe for his vote for United States Senator Lorimer, resign. Three votes were cast against the resolution.

RATE INCREASE IS SUSPENDED

RAILROADS ANNOUNCE INTENTION TO HOLD SCHEDULE IN ABEYANCE.

Increases Filed With Interstate Commerce Commission Not to Become Effective Until November 1—Reasonableness of Tariffs to Be Determined by Commission.

Washington, July 23.—It was announced after a conference between Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and a committee of the traffic officials of Western trunk lines, that the advanced rates filed by the carriers would be suspended voluntarily until November 1.

The agreement effected is the same, substantially, as that made between the commission and the Eastern lines. It means that all important and general increases in freight rates that were to have become effective on August 1 will be postponed until the commission shall have had opportunity to determine whether they are reasonable or not. It does not follow that the suspensions will be made permanent.

The action of the railroads in voluntarily suspending the advances was taken with a view of simplifying a complex situation and avoiding embarrassment.

Permission is given by the commission to the roads to file on one day's notice the suspended tariffs to become effective November 1.

By the terms of the agreement, existing rates will continue in effect until that date. Meantime, the commission proposes to undertake the hearing of the companies involved in the proposed increased rates. Already it has been decided that the testimony in the Eastern cases will be heard in New York beginning on August 15. The taking of testimony in the Western cases will be begun in Chicago on August 22.

STRANGE HOOK FOUND IN JAWS OF SALMON

Astoria, Or., July 25.—A few days ago Charles McPherson, who is buying fish for the Warren Packing Company at its Tongue Point station, received a 23-pound Chinook salmon which had in its mouth a large steel hook, that is not only a curiosity in itself, but indicates the long distances which the salmon travel during their migrations at sea.

The hook was fastened in the cheek of the fish and as the wound around it had entirely healed, it had probably been there for six months or more. It was very large, of a peculiar pattern and exceptionally well made.

A. G. Spexarth, who is considered the best local authority on all fishing tackle, was shown the hook and says it is not of American make, as none of the manufacturers in this country turn out anything like it. He believes it is a hand-made affair, probably the work of a Mexican or an Indian, although there is an English company which manufactures a hook similar to it. The line, a small piece of which was attached, is also peculiar in its make.

The line itself is of fiber, while it is reinforced with twine pleated in a style that clearly indicates it was Mexican handwork. He believes the salmon got the hook, which was apparently used for trolling, while in the waters off some port along the south coast and probably in the vicinity of the Catalina islands.

HOLDS LUMBER RATES TOO LOW FOR PROFIT

St. Paul, July 25.—The railroads won a substantial victory in the findings of Frederick N. Dickson, master in chancery. These are the preliminary finding in the lumber rate suit instituted in the fall of 1908 against the interstate commerce commission by the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Company.

The lumber rates established by the interstate commerce commission from the Pacific coast to all points east of the Pembina line, which is made up of the western boundaries of Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, are sustained, but the rates from the coast to points east of that line are held unreasonably low.

The railroads ask for a rate of 50 cents a hundredweight on lumber shipped from Portland, Or., to St. Paul and for 60 cents from Portland to Chicago. The interstate commerce commission cut this to 45 cents from Portland to St. Paul and 55 cents from Portland to Chicago.

Mr. Dickson upholds the contentions of the railroads and recommends an injunction nullifying the order of the interstate commerce commission on these rates and on other lumber rates from the coast to points east of the Pembina line.

Rains Stop Fires.

Winnipeg, Man., July 25.—Heavy rains have brought all forest fires under control of the fire rangers. Three million dollars is the rangers' estimate of the loss in that district.

CASE REFUSES HIGH PLACE IN CONFERENCE

Tacoma, July 25.—C. R. Case, president of the State Federation of Labor, Saturday morning declined an appointment as chairman of the committee on permanent organization of the employers' liability law conference, because he did not consider that laboring men had been properly represented in the conference.

"You are assembled here," he said, "to consider the subject of just compensation for the working men. In this meeting are representatives of all the big factories, mills, shops, railroads and timber industries, but only one representative of the workingmen is among you.

Representation Disproportionate.

"They have a representation of only one in 100, yet in the actual condition of affairs they outnumber you 1,000 to one. You would honor that one representative who is with you, by placing him at the head of your committee, and then you would expect the workingmen to abide by your action in working for the enactment of laws influencing legislation in which they are vitally concerned.

"You may be sincere in your desire to better the workingman by increasing his wages, but they know that the majority of the interests represented here have opposed every effort to obtain liability legislation, better working conditions, protection from dangerous machinery, shorter hours of labor and sanitation."

Tells of Grievances.

Mr. Case recited other grievances, such as the corporations' failure to keep political promises, and based his refusal of the appointment made by Gov. M. E. Hay upon his argument. Clarence Parker, a member of the Typographical Union, publicly announced his sympathy with Mr. Case's position.

O. F. Cosper, secretary of the Commercial Club, under whose auspices the conference was called, said after the meeting that all representatives of labor had been invited to attend, and that their failure to do so was not the fault of the club nor of the other representatives who were present.

BATTLESHIPS TO GO ON ANOTHER CRUISE

Washington, July 25.—There is going to be another big battleship cruise next fall, although it will not equal the world's girding tour of three years ago. Sixteen battleships will cross the Atlantic in November and make a cruise to European ports. The fleet's detailed itinerary has already been made public by the navy department and has been approved by Acting Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop and Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, commanding officer of the fleet.

Divides Fleet.

The present policy of the navy department is to divide the fleet into divisions in order to afford division commanders as much latitude as possible in handling their vessels. After visiting the various ports the ships will mobilize at Gibraltar on December 23, and Christmas day will be spent there.

On December 31 the fleet will leave for Guantanamo, where it will arrive January 16. The cruise of the torpedo division will be independent of the battleship cruise. The destroyers will leave New York on November 1 and will visit Ponta Del Gada, Leghorn, Algiers and Madeira, returning to San Juan on January 12. The battleships will visit Mediterranean ports according to the following schedules:

Some Assignments.

Connecticut and Michigan, to Villa Francho and Naples; Delaware and North Dakota, to Toulon and Genoa; Louisiana and South Carolina, to Phaleru Bay; Georgia and Nebraska, to Barcelona and Lisbon; Rhode Island and Virginia, to Marseilles and Lisbon; Minnesota and Vermont, to Naples and Villa Francho, and Mississippi and Idaho, to Genoa and Toulon.

NEW SOUND STEAMER LAUNCHED FROM MORAN'S

Seattle, July 23.—The steamship Kulshan, built for the Puget Sound Navigation Company at the Moran yards for the Seattle-Bellingham run, was launched at high water Thursday afternoon. It was one of the most successful events of its kind that has occurred in the history of shipyards on this coast.

The Kulshan is the largest steel passenger vessel ever built on Puget Sound, and the officials of the owning company and President J. V. Patterson, of the Moran company, were the recipients of congratulations from the host of local steamship men who were present at the launching.

The Kulshan is the old Indian name for Mount Baker, which looms up behind Bellingham. It was originally intended to call the steamship the Comanche.

Miss Irene Yarrow of Bellingham, who christened the ship, was chosen for that honor by popular vote of Bellingham and Anacortes.

Will Inspect Prisons.

Washington, July 24.—Robert V. Ladow, superintendent of federal prisons, will leave early next month to visit the penitentiaries at McNeil's island, Wash., Atlanta and Leavenworth, to establish the parole system which was authorized by congress. About 2,500 prisoners are in the several prisons who will be affected by the law. In addition there are about 500 federal prisoners in state reformatories and a number of others in jails.

NICARAGUANS ENTER STRONG PROTEST

REPRESENTATIVE OF MADRIZ SENDS FORMAL STATEMENT REGARDING BLOCKADE.

Protest Is Against Action of State Department in Refusing to Recognize as Binding Under International Law the Order Declaring Bluefields a Closed Port.

Washington, July 25. — Protest against the action of the state department of the United States in refusing to recognize as binding under international law the order of Dr. Madriz, provisional president of Nicaragua, declaring Bluefields a closed port, and in refusing further to take seriously Norway's recognition of this order, was made Saturday by Corry M. Stadden, counsel here for the titular government in Nicaragua.

Report was received by Mr. Stadden from Madriz of the routing at Cotalpa, after nine hours of fighting, of 500 insurgents and of the capture of many prisoners. Mr. Stadden's statement concludes with the observation that "If the state department will diligently observe international obligations due to a friendly state, the insurrection will soon be suppressed, with due care for the preservation of American lives and property."

Unfriendly Acts Denied.

The statement in part says:

"King Haakon, having recognized President Madriz as the de jure, as well as de facto government of Nicaragua, as all other powers with the exception of the United States having diplomatic relations with Nicaragua have done, it was eminently proper for him to recognize the decree closing the port of Bluefields. This action was based upon a formal protest that vessels flying the Norwegian flag had committed hotile acts toward a friendly government, thereby incurring liability to seizure.

"It should be beneath the dignity of the state department to quibble over the character of the gunboat Venus, which was publicly purchased in the United States for the titular government of Nicaragua. If she is operating unlawfully, she may be seized as a pirate. If she has not been seized, it must be presumed that she is operating entirely within the law, and she should not have been driven away from Bluefields by the American commander.

Quibble Undignified, Is Retort.

"All of the official acts of President Madriz since he assumed office have stamped the lie upon the evil reports issuing from insurgent sources that he is not sympathetic toward the United States and American interests in Nicaragua.

"President Madriz has neither sympathy for, nor affiliation with ex-President Zelaya."

Protest against the murder by the revolutionists of Chichow, a Chinese merchant at San Pedro Del Norte, has been made by Chinese residents of Nicaragua to the representative here of their government.

WORK OF GEOLOGICAL SURVEY FOR JUNE

Washington, July 23.—During the month of June the geological survey reported the classification of 1,244,501 acres of coal land and 1,306,655 acres of non-coal land. The sale price of the coal land was fixed at $80,605,666. The minimum price fixed by law for the same land is $14,300,923.

Withdrawals were made covering 1,350,864 acres of coal land and 3,600 acres of oil land. Restorations were made of 1,036,800 acres of withdrawn oil land in Louisiana.

Under the enlarged homestead act 2,751,933 acres of land were recommended for designation in the states of Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico, Colorado, Washington, Oregon and Utah. Twenty-nine petitions under this act were disposed of and 49 were pending at the end of the month, many of which were awaiting additional showing by the applicants.

In the Musselshell group placer claim, situated in the Clearwater national forest, Idaho, 800 acres were classified as mineral land and 1,430 acres as non-mineral land.

Young Wild Ducks Plentiful.

Klamath Falls, Ore., July 25,—Deputy Game Warden L. Alva Lewis, who has just returned from a trip to Tule and White Lakes and the Government bird reserve on the Lower Klamath Lake, said that there were more young ducks in those waters this year than he had seen there for years. Young ducks and geese are as numerous there as they were eight or ten years ago.

Pact Please China.

Peking, July 23.—In acknowledging the receipt of the text of the Russo-Japanese convention, China will express her satisfaction over the avowed purpose of Russia and Japan to adhere to the terms of the Portsmouth treaty. The government will, futher, express pleasure over the mutual pledge for the maintenance in Manchuria of the status quo and the principle of the open door for commercial development.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU TO WATCH CHICAGO INTERESTS

Chicago, July 23.—Chicago, through the initiative of the City Club, is to have a bureau of efficiency. The plan, primarily, is for the purpose of following up the work of the Merriam commission, keeping tab on the administration of the various departments of government, and at times suggesting where changes for the better could be made. The organization which will have the matter in hand will be known as the Chicago bureau of public efficiency, and, while being unofficial in its character, will not hesitate, to quote the Record-Herald, to delve into anything that "doesn't look right."

In addition to the municipal government the commission will make an investigation into the manner of accounting and the expenditures of the county board, sanitary district, board of education, public library and park boards. There will at all times be a staff of expert accountants and investigators at work.

The plan as made public was drawn up by a committee of the club, consisting of Alfred L. Baker, Julius Rosenwald, Walter L. Fisher, Charles E. Merriam and Dr. Henry B. Favill, all of whom are members of the National Municipal League, Mr. Fisher being one of the vice presidents.

The proposed commission will be under the general direction of six trustees, selected by the board of directors of the City Club, who shall in turn choose a director to assume active charge of the work under them. As outlined the plan is similar to the bureau of municipal research now in operation in New York city .

BANKERS IN FAVOR OF CENTRAL BANK

Hoquiam, July 25.—The following officers were elected by the Washington Bankers' Association Saturday: President, E. W. Purdy, Bellingham; vice-president, George Donald, North Yakima; secretary, P. C. Kauffman, Tacoma; treasurer, C. C. Richardson, Cheney. The executive council is as follows: Robert Moody, Everett, chairman; C. S. Gilchrist, Centralia; L. J. Pentecost, Tacoma; Walter G. Shuman, Waitsburg; W. H. Martin, Ritzville.

Resolutions.

The committee on resolutions recommended a resolution favoring the establishment of a central bank, commended the monetary commission for its work, and recommended that the reduction in the size of currency proposed by the secretary of the treasury be not made. A resolution concerning bills of lading passed, and hereafter no bills of lading will be paid by draft unless they are properly safeguarded.

The following laws are among those which the bankers will ask the next legislature to enact for their protection: Uniform warehouse receipts act; act punishing those making false statements affecting banks; law placing affairs of failed banks in hands of state examiner; amendments to garnishment act.

STATE BANKERS PLEDGE AID TO CANAL EXPOSITION

Hoquiam, July 23.—The Washington State Bankers' Association yesterday endorsed the proposal that the Panama Canal Exposition be held in San Francisco in 1915 and pledged the support of the organization to the enterprise. The principal address of the morning session was that of J. L. Mahundro, state bank examiner, on "Needed Changes in the Banking Laws."

Mr. Mahundro said that the majority of the board of directors of every bank should be residents of the state, and that only citizens of the United States should be allowed to operate banks. He named a Japanese bank doing business in the state as an example. He spoke at length on other much needed legislation and asked the bankers to cooperate with his office and work for the best interests of all.

The bankers were taken to the Coats Logging Company's camp on the Wishkah River, and to that of the Polson Logging Company on the Hoquiam River, in automobiles, and were treated to a regular camp dinner.

After dinner they were taken into the woods, where they saw several giants of the forest fall before axe and saw.

Spokane Charter Ordered Revised.

Spokane, July 26.—Advocates of the Des Moines plan of city government won an important victory when Judge Sullivan issued an order requiring the city council to call a special election before October 1 for the selection of a commission to revise the charter. The council had voted to delay the election until next May, when the terms of half of the aldermen will expire.

Australia First in Sheep.

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Vice-Consul General Henry D. Baker, of Sydney, in a report to this government, shows that Australia leads the world in sheep farming. The estimated value of the Australian flocks is $22,352,400 and their annual gross output is estimated at 75 per cent of the value.

The number of sheep in the countries leading in the sheep industry are: Australia, 87,043,266; Argentina, 77,781,001; Russia, 58,510,523; United States, 54, 631,000; United Kingdom, 30,011,834.

PRODUCE MEN TO BE PROSECUTED

SEATTLE COMMISSION MERCHANTS ALLEGED TO BE VIOLATING STATUTES.

None in State Have Secured State License Required by Act of Legislature Passed in 1907—Farmers Plan to Sell Direct to Consumer.

Seattle, July 26.—Every commission man on Western avenue is an open and flagrant lawbreaker, is the opinion of certain lawyers, based on the provisions of Section 7024, Revised Statutes of Washington, and liable to a maximum fine of $500. The section reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to engage in the business of selling farm, dairy, orchard or garden produce on commission, or to receive or solicit consignments of such produce on commission in the state of Washington without first obtaining a license from the commissioner of horticulture to conduct and carry on the business of such commission merchant, and giving a bond to the state of Washington, executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this state, the form of said bond to be approved by the attorney general, for the benefit of persons intrusting such commission merchant with consignment of produce to be sold on commission, in the sum of three thousand dollars, said bond to be conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such commission merchant."

No Record of Licenses.

A careful investigation of the books of the state horticultural commission in Olympia yesterday revealed that not a commission man in Washington has complied with Section 7024, which was made a law in 1907.

For three years and more the Western avenue commission men have openly ignored the law passed for the protection of consignors and growers of produce.

George F. Vanderveer, prosecuting attorney, said last night that he would issue warrants for the arrest of commission men violating Section 7024, which means that warrants probably will be issued for every commission man on Western avenue. Mr. Vanderveer said that the reason prosecutions had not been started before was that he was of the opinion that the commission men, on the passage of the law referred to, had changed their business into one of buying and selling instead of handling produce on consignment.

FARMERS PLAN TO SELL PRODUCE DIRECT

Seattle, July 26.—For the purpose of marketing the products of the farm direct to the consumer, eliminating the middleman entirely, the formation of an organization to be known as the Washington Grange Co-operative Association was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of State Grange delegates representing twenty-two counties, held in the Labor Temple.

To organize such an association, a committee of three managers was appointed. It is to have charge of the business of the Grange Co-operative Association, to employ agents for the conduct and promotion of such business, and to maintain a bureau of information for the benefit of the grangers of the state.

To Consolidate Existing Enterprises.

The committee will consider a plan to unite all the co-operative stores in the state, now numbering over 150, with a market to be established in Seattle, forming one vast organization that will buy the entire output of manufacturers and establish a distributing point in Seattle.

The board of managers elected by the delegates, who were given full power to act by the Washington State Grange, consists of C. B. Keagley, of Palouse, for a term of three years: Chris McDonell, of Colville, two years, and S. M. McKee, of North Yakima, one year.

In addition a committee consisting of L. Y. Williams, of O'Brien; E. Hazleton, of Monroe, and L. L. Snow, of Olympia, was elected to have charge of the establishment of the market for the farmers' product in Seattle.

Opposition for Equity Company.

During the morning session the grange unanimously decided against adopting the plan of the Equity Co-operative Company, after L. C. Getsinger, fiscal agent for the company, had explained the working of the system. It was decided, however, to confer further, and it seems probable that the objectionable features may be eliminated.

Chutes for Hay Harvesting.

Dayton, July 23.—Barren hills in the mountainous districts of the upper Touchet valley are being transformed into grain fields because the farmers have found a method of getting the crops down the hills. This land heretofore has been listed as practically worthless. Farmers have installed wire chutes from the plateaus to the valleys, as high as six wires being used to form a chute. The hay is sent down the incline. Some of the chutes are 500 feet long and the hay is shot over the bluffs with terrific momentum.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

"GOLDEN RULE CHIEF" CLEARED OF CHARGES

THE "Golden Rule Chief" is back on the job, and those who fall by the wayside in Cleveland O., are once more assured that they will be afforded kind treatment when they find themselves in the toils.

Chief Fred Kohler has been cleared of the charges that were preferred against him following a trial before the civil service commission, and when he returned to his desk after being suspended for several weeks he resumed his practise of tempering justice with mercy.

The chiefs of police of some of the other large cities laughed when they read that Kohler had adopted rules for the conduct of his department in Cleveland in which the word "kindness" played the star role.

Chief Kohler decided that his department could get better results by treating prisoners with proper consideration of their feelings and rights, a plan that is utterly disregarded in many of the big cities.

His order read like this:

Officers in charge:

Under no circumstances will you allow the so-termed sweat-box method, or harsh or brutal treatment to be used on or toward any prisoner, or witness in our custody. The proper inquisition must always be made.

FRED KOHLER,
Chief of Police.

The new plan had not been in operation six months before Kohler was being called the "best chief" Cleveland ever had. The department got results as effectively as those who mistreat prisoners and put them through the tortures of the "third degree."

Several important cases were handled under Kohler's golden rule plan. Notable among these were the Whitla kidnaping case. It was through information obtained by Kohler that the Boyles were arrested in Cleveland for kidnaping the little Sharon (Pa.) boy. Chief Kohler got confessions from the pair without mistreating them.

Then it was that other chiefs forgot to laugh. They agreed that if the application of the golden rule would so easily clear up a case in which such daring and desperate criminals was concerned there was something in it. They were surprised when charges were preferred against Kohler. Politics seemed to have played an important part in the filing of the charges, and after the civil service commission had heard only part of the evidence 13 of the original 23 counts against him were dropped. After the testimony was all in the board quickly exonerated the chief.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE'S VISIT TO OYSTER BAY

ROBERT MARION La Follette, senior senator from Wisconsin, the veteran Insurgent of the upper branch of congress, was the first of the Republicans who have kicked over the traces to see Theodore Roosevelt after the former president's return from the jungles and the courts of Europe.

It was rather a surprise when Senator La Follette arrived at Oyster Bay to see the former chief executive. The two men had been none too friendly politically, and La Follette had seen occasion to criticise some of the acts of Roosevelt.

There are lots of persons who would like to know just what went on between the two behind the closed doors at Sagamore Hill. Certainly they patched up any differences there may have been between them, for did not the senator, after emerging from the Roosevelt home, say: "I want to tell you that Colonel Roosevelt is the greatest living American, and he is in fighting trim."

La Follette is not given to idle flattery. Those who know him are aware that he speaks plainly and does not beat about the bush. He has been fearless in his actions in the senate, and when he thought he was right he went ahead. Consequently such praise of Roosevelt from the La Follette lips is taken to mean something important so far as the political situation is concerned.

It is likely that La Follette did not go to Sagamore Hill without being asked. Just what Roosevelt wanted with him has not been made plain, but it probably all will come out in the political wash.

The senator has refused to say what the occasion of his visit was, but it is more than likely that the Insurgent movement which has grown wonderfully while Roosevelt was away, was the chief topic of their conversation. He declared he would prefer to have the details of the conference come from the former president.

Old politicians throughout the country have been waiting impatiently to know from Roosevelt what was the cause of the chat. Shortly after he talked with the Wisconsin senator Colonel Roosevelt went to the summer White House at Beverly, Mass., and had a conference with President Taft. That something important was to come from these two conferences everybody expected.

ZEPPELIN DETERMINED TO MAKE AIR-LINE WIN

CARRYING 20 passengers 300 miles through the air in nine hours is getting pretty close to the realization of the dreams of persons who expect to see aerial craft supplant vehicles that are propelled by steam or electricity on rail or land.

So when Count Zepplin, the seventy-two-year-old German aviator cried: "all aboard," and started on the voyage high above ground from Friedrichshafen to Dusseldorf, and made the trip without a single mishap, there were many who said. "I told you so."

The count calls the great dirigible craft the Deutschland. It seems that the Deutschland is a great deal like the Chicago baseball team called the Cubs. When the count is at the helm the Deutschland behaves splendidly. When Manager Chance is in the game with the Cubs the team is almost unbeatable.

A few days after his first memorable trip, Count Zepplin turned the machine over to an assistant. The Deutschland of course, did not know that the master hand was not at the helm, but it acted like it She had aboard 32 passengers, including 20 newspaper men who intended to write thrilling stories of the flight. Now the scribes are thankful that they are still in the land of the living and able to write at all. The Deutschland sailed along for a great distance without doing anything objectionable. Near Osnabruck, however, it began to act up. Something got out of gear and in the time it takes to wink your eye a couple of times the scribes found themselves in a pretty fix.

The Deutschland had dropped into the tops of several trees and became so tightly wedged there that it stuck.

The passengers were forced to climb to the ground, glad that none had been hurt.

Count Zepplin, disappointed, but not discouraged, to be discouraged not being a part of the makeup of an aviator, rushed to the scene on a train. He began at once to rescue his great aerial craft. It was found to be considerably damaged, but it was repaired and Count Zepplin says it will be ready shortly to resume the aerial passenger service.

ROBERTS ONE OF LEADERS IN WORLD OF FINANCE

WHEN the Commercial and Continental National banks consolidated in Chicago and George M. Reynolds became president of the merged concern one of the country's foremost financiers was forced out of a position.

George Evan Roberts, who like Mr. Reynolds, is a native of Iowa, was the president of the Commercial national and had he so chosen no doubt could have held an important place with the new bank. But Mr. Roberts decided that he would step down and out and did so.

Mr. Roberts was born in Delaware county, Iowa, in 1857. He too has plowed corn, shocked wheat and done the other hard work that usually falls to the lot of a farmer boy.

From the public schools Mr. Roberts went into a printer's office as the "devil" and learned the trade from the ground up. He became connected with the Fort Dodge Messenger and later was its proprietor. He was elected state printer of Iowa in 1882, was connected with Iowa banks and in 1898 was chosen as director of the mint by President McKinley. Mr. Roberts served in this important government position until 1907 and was then selected as president of the Commercial National bank.

Mr. Roberts is the author of several important works on finance, among them "Coin at School in Finance," "Iowa and the Silver Question" and "Money, Wages and Prices."

Several reports have been circulated concerning Mr. Roberts' future, but none has been authorized by him. One was that he was to be reappointed director of the mint. This he took occasion to deny. His friends say he is too valuable to the financial world to remain out of it lon

DIDN'T WANT EMILY

LAWYER WAS SATISFIED WITH HIS RECOMPENSE.

Love's Young Dream Long in the Past, and Solid Business Reasons Alone Were All That Made an Effective Appeal.

Daniel Webster Horner stood looking down at the street from a front window of his law office in Turnersburg, pondering. Fifteen minutes before a jury had pronounced one of the young Horner's clients not guilty—though until the trial was well under way everyone had supposed the man would hang. Daniel Webster Horner's eloquence had saved him. Everyone agreed to that. In the street Horner could see groups of men everywhere, all talking excitedly, nodding in approval, or shaking hands in general congratulation. And Daniel Webster Horner was their topic.

Down the street from the courthouse a tall man with a much bowed body shadowed by a huge sombrero, came slinking. The crowd turned to watch him—Jerry Mutchin, the accused. But they welcomed him with mild approval, nothing more. Mutchin must have felt this, for he scarcely looked up to answer their greetings, but came on with wavering steps to Horner's office.

A creaking of the rickety stairs, a timid knock at the door and Mutchin entered. He dropped heavily into a chair and for a moment covered his face with his hands. When he looked up beads of sweat stood out on his forehead and his chin was trembling.

"Dan," he began quaveringly, "you saved me—you—just your pleas that moved the jury. Everybody knows, old man, that you did it all. You're a hero, Dan, and I know it, and I'm here to give you all I have for payment. I—I haven't any money. You knew that when you took the case. But—"

Mutchin's fingers gripped the chair arms in despair and his eyes distended as he paused and gasped for breath.

"But I'm grateful beyond words, Dan," he hurried on. "So I've come to give up to you the most precious possession of my life—I mean, Em'ly."

"Em'ly?" the lawyer repeated. "What's that?"

"Em'ly—Em'ly, my wife! I'll get her to divorce me and marry you."

The lawyer still appeared to be puzzled.

"Dan! You don't mean to say you've forgotten!" Mutchin cried. "Em'ly—you and I were both in love with her in high school days. I won—"

The lawyer stopped the speech with a quick gesture, and appeared to be struggling hard to keep from laughing.

"Really, I've had a dozen sweethearts since then. I couldn't recall her on that short notice."

It was Mutchin's turn to look dismayed.

"Then—then why did you do it? Why did you work like a hero to save me? If it wasn't for the love of Em'ly—then, for heaven's sake, why?"

"Look around this room for your answer," the lawyer replied. "See this cracked plastering—the painted floor—the second-hand desk—that tin sign creaking just outside the window and nobody even looking up to say it ought to be oiled. Your case was dramatic and sure to get into the papers—that's all. I took it simply because I had to have the advertising. You must be going? Good luck then. Be sure to give my respects to Em'ly—and remember when you go to the primaries next month that I'm running for county prosecutor."

Also Puzzled Grandpa.

Eight-year-old Gracie confunded a company of merry young people by her innocent repetitions of something she had heard her shocked grandfather say.

One of the company, a young man, had been a privileged "friend of the family" for years, paying mild and desultory attentions now to one, now to another of the four daughters of the household. Something was said about his long and happy comradeship with the pleasant girls, for the moment absent upon some hospitable errand.

"They're all lovely," said the young man warmly—"all as sweet and sound as ripe peaches. I like them all so well that I often wonder which one I like best."

"That's what grandpa was saying he'd like to find out," came the infantile bomb.

For Cleaning Windows.

For cleaning windows and mirrors, there are several proprietary articles on the market, but a little soda or kerosene and a little thin starch put over the glass and allowed to dry will give excellent results when rubbed off and polished with newspaper or cloth that leaves no lint. In very cold weather a little alcohol on a cloth is effectual.—Harper's Bazar.

The Great I Am.

"I thought your wife forbade you to marry again when she died?"

"So she did, but now I'm just going to show her who is master in the house.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Force of Habit.

Bronson—What did that pretty saleslady say when you stole a kiss?

Johnson—She said: "Will that be all today?

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN CLALLAM COUNTY.

OFFICIAL PAPER

Published Every Friday at Port Angeles by The Webster Publishing Co.

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1910

County Official Paper.

There is only one official paper for Clallam county. The Board of Commissioners awarded the Olympic-Leader the contract for the county printing for the year beginning July 1, 1910.

The city council, sitting in regular session Tuesday evening, passed the ordinance raising the saloon license from $300 to $600 a year. The council also added another section to the ordinance, limiting the number of saloons to nine—the present number, until such time as the population of the city has increased 800 to each license granted. While a $600 license fee is a step forward, this action of the council is nothing more than justice to all parties concerned. Nothing more than was promised Mr. Lauridsen when the Board of Commissioners placed the county license fee at $600. It is a tardy compliance with a mutual understanding between county and city officials.

This action of the council at this time was brought about solely through the agitation of the temperance people of the city in the stand they have taken for moral reform and civic righteousness in our community. There is not a man in Angeles that honestly believes any such action would have been taken by the council had there been no local option election held here. This should encourage our temperance people to redouble their efforts for a more perfect organization and for a continuance of the work in hand for the future.

IRONDALE'S STEEL PLANT.

Now that there is a steady output of steel from the Irondale furnaces and rolling mills, aggregating 3,000 tons a month, and demonstrating the success of the venture, many manufacturing industries requiring steel will begin to cluster around the parent plant. Several manufacturers in the East are now negotiating for locations, and the Western Steel Corporation, owner of Irondale, will itself add several different features of manufacturing in addition to that of producing steel from the raw material.

President Moore, of the Steel Corporation, announces that in ninety days the output of steel will be increased from the present output of 3,000 tons a month to 4,500 tons, and thereafter the capacity of the plant will be increased from year to year. No difficulty is now met with in getting capitalists interested in Western Steel, as the question of cost of production and quality of the product has been settled to the utmost satisfaction.—Quilcene Megaphone.

The question of finding desirable markets for the products of the plant of the Western Steel Corporation in this city is well settled by the placing of orders during the past few days for quantities of steel bars sufficient to keep the entire plant running night and day for a year to come, says the Irondale News. The placing on the market of the first shipment of finished product brought the superior quality of material manufactured here directly before the consumer and seller, and the tests to which it has been subjected by people who will be users of it have demonstrated its superiority over the output of other steel products in the Eastern states.

At the recent encampment of the Coast Artillery reserve corps the Bellingham company carried off highest honors in gunnery and general efficiency, with Everett a close second. The encampment was at Fort Worden, where the citizen soldiers had training at the handling of the guns which command the entrance of Puget Sound.

Dr and Mrs W S Mowers of Tacoma returned to their home last Friday after having spent a month at the Marymere

Among those who have been spending their vacation at the Marymere was Miss Della Shanstrum of the New New Washington in Seattle

SEQUIM

The chief Industry and Income of this community is the production of butter. Butter is a staple article of consumption Always in demand, prices fluctuate very little, the market never fails. Consequently the resources upon which this bank exists are negotiable profitable and everlasting. It affects the quality of our loans very favorably. Another reason.

State Bank of Sequim.

A complete surprise was given to Mr. and Dr. Willis Cook last Friday when a good number of their friends took possession of their home while they were away on business for a short time. It was to help them celebrate the tenth anniversary of their wedding. The time passed all to quckly; a fine lunch was served and everybody had a jolly good time, and all wishing them many happy returns of the day departed for their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Greenfield came home Monday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Lake, a sister of Mrs. Greenfield.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brackett and Mrs. Geo. Brackett, Sr., left Monday afternoon for Seattle to be gone for a few days.

L. G. Wilber and Johnnie Ward went to Port Angeles Sunday.

Hugh Priest is having some substantial improvements made on his home near Sequim.

George Brackett, Charlie McDougal and Jack Knapman have the foundations built for new homes. Sequim is surely coming to the front with her fine new homes.

J. W. Grant and daughters Gladys and Hazel of Prosser are here visiting with relatives and friends. Mr. Prosser says he got rooted out over there.

Ray Maxfield left for his fine home in Quillayute last week. He said he would drive most of the way, and still thinks Sequim is all right.

The Good Templars went to Washington Harbor for a moonlight picnic and a clam bake last Thursday evening, but the moon was full and refused to come out, so they did not get their clams but all enjoyed the big bon fires and had a jolly good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Kilby were in Sequim on business Tuesday.

A good many are getting ready to go out camping. It will be grand when they get the road built so they can drive through to LaPush.

Died Sunday morning, July 24th, 1910, Benjamin Crosby. He was born May 13th, 1865 in Caster, Canada, and was married to Miss Margaret Edith Howard Dec. 13, 1893. They had seven children, six girls and one boy. They came to Washington in 1906. Mr Crosby was an Odd Fellow in good standing.

BLYN.

Mrs. F. Curry is here visiting Mrs. F. Spearing.

Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy are happy over the arrival of a baby girl.

Arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mitchell a baby girl.

Miss Julia Yaccardo has been home a couple of days visiting her folks but has now gone to Sequim to work.

F. W. Warner returned Sunday from a business trip upsound.

Misses Mable and Ruby Delaney spent a few days in Port Townsend las tweek, having some dentist work done

The people who took upland in the lake district are getting up a petition to build a county road from Mr Delaney's ranch through to Mr Violette's place

The logging camp is now working opposite Mr Reposa's place They find hauling on the car much easier

A show is to given at the hall Saturday night and a dance after

Mr and Mrs Gunderson and children, also Mr and Mrs George Clark are spending the week in Port Townsend

The blackberries are very plentiful up here this year and are at their best now

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Mrs. Henry Breckenridge is spending a few days in Angeles with her daughter, Mrs MacMillan.

We have learned of Mr. Elves that his daughter Grace is getting along vrey nicely. Her aunt, Mrs. Thompson from Everett, came several days ago to care for her. She returned to her home again Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Myres were up Sunday to spend the day with the parents of the latter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis.

Geo. A. Sewell was up on a business trip last week.

The hay season struck the Blue Mountain neighborhood just fine this year.

Miss Viola Stillwell came down from Seattle to spend several weeks with her mother, Mrs. Kale.

Mr. James Elves has been fixing up his house and is going to put an addition to it.

Mr. Fries and Chas. Lewis have been home a few weeks putting up their hay. They are now at work again at the mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Michigan have come to spend the summer with their son and family.

The teams have been very busy climbing the hills the past few days as people are coming out to help us enjoy our fine fishing and blackberry picking this summer.

Mrs. Arron Lewis is visiting her son, W. Lewis, this week in Angeles.

TWELVE MILLION TELEPHONES.

IT IS reported that there are now in this country 12,000,000 telephones, or one for every two houses in the country. This does not mean that one-half of the residences in the country contain an instrument, since many business houses have a large number, but the figures are instructive and illuminating. Practically everybody who is anybody in the cities or towns and villages has a telephone, while those in the country districts are legion. The astonishing fact is that each of these 'phones is used on an average six times a day. The total number of calls in a year runs up into the billions and is not appreciable by the human mind.

This is the more remarkable when we consider that forty years ago there was no such thing as a telephone, and even twenty years ago the instrument was not common outside of business houses. Now they have become one of the necessities of life. We use the telephone not only in business, but for social purposes, for shopping and marketing and for almost every purpose where we used to use the mails or do without. If by any catastrophe the telephones of the country should be silenced forever it would amount to a calamity of the first magnitude. We have adjusted our lives to the telephone and could not do without it unless we made new and undesirable arrangements.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

REGULATION OF THE AIR.

LAWS have been passed by Germany, France and Switzerland having to do with the traffic of the air. The city of Paris has fixed a duty for the entrance of aeroplanes in keeping with the duties collected at the gates upon automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. It will not be long before legislation governing flying will be general. There must be laws regulating speed and the height to be flown. Lanes of traffic will have to be mapped out if there are to be many machines. Certain types may have to be kept upon one level while other patterns journey through their individual planes. The policing of the air is going to be a tough nut for the lawmakers to crack. State boundaries and the borders of nations are to become exceedingly indefinable.

The most interesting one of the difficulties so far foreseen relates to the ownership of the air. Under the common law a property holder owns all the ground beneath him and all the air above. How is he going to warn off the trespassers upon his atmosphere and how is he going to collect damages for trespass? Judge James W. Gerard of the Supreme Court of New York says a property owner can enforce an order against flying over the land so far as the law gives him that privilege, but, in case of suit, he will gain little recompense. "Such an owner," he says, "could not collect more than six cents, unless the aeroplane did damage to the property. It would be simply a case of injury without damages."

Automobile laws are a jumble of State regulations and city ordinances. Add to them the aeroplane laws soon to be enacted, and consider the muddle of legislation for which the busy little gasoline engine must be held responsible.—Toledo Blade.

RAISING THE "MAINE."

THE loss of no vessel, naval or other, ever made a greater sensation or was fraught with graver consequences than the mysterious destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor Feb. 15, 1898. This tragedy, which involved the deaths of 266 American sailors, made inevitable the war with Spain and the freedom of Cuba. Now, after a dozen years, Congress has passed an act appropriating money for the removal of the battered wreck.

This action is in recognition of a persistent public demand, based partly upon the sentimental consideration that the bodies of sixty-seven sailors were never removed from the sunken hull, partly upon the practical ground that the wreck is a menace to navigation, and partly upon the feeling that the raising and examination of the hull will clear up any uncertainty as to the nature of the explosion which caused the wreck.

A naval board of inquiry, after sitting twenty-three days, found that the battleship was destroyed by an external agency, presumably a mine under the bottom and somewhat on the port side. This opinion was based largely upon the reports of the divers, who found that the bottom plates over a considerable area had been bent inward and upward over thirty feet. The Spanish government made an inquiry of its own, and maintained that the explosion was from within.

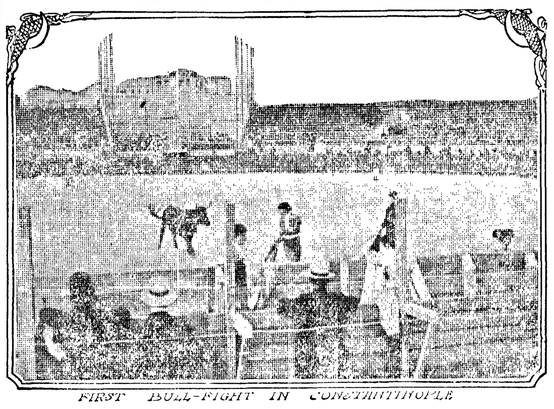
The agitation for raising the Maine has been continuous since 1898, and there is general satisfaction at the action of Congress. Cuba is especially pleased. It probably would have undertaken the work itself in behalf of the appearance and safety of its principal harbor had it not been deterred by lack of money and by considerations of international etiquette.—Youth's Companion.

IS THE WORLD GOING INSANE?

A SANITARIUM specialist declares that 265 years hence the entire population of the world will be insane. Anyone who follows the evidence of the medical experts in a murder case will be inclined to believe him, and to believe that the medical profession will be the first to succumb to derangement. Fortunately, however, there are many perfectly sane persons, and there is no fear of any such terrible fate as this pessimistic physician prophesies.

Medical science is constantly advancing. Presently tuberculosis will be driven from the face of the earth. Bacteriology has already defeated numerous diseases that were once deadly. Eventually disease, as we know it to-day, will no longer exist. Preventive medicine is revolutionizing civilization. There is no room for pessimism in the medical profession, to whose splendid optimism humanity looks for its greatest aid toward the ideal life which the future must develop.—Chicago Journal.

TURKS WITNESS SPANISH SPORT



FIRST BULL-FIGHT IN CONSTANTINOPLE

The great sport of the Spanish people, bull fighting, was introduced to the Turks in Constantinople the other day, but the subjects of the sultan did not take kindly to it, as is proved by the emptiness of the grand stand, shown by the accompanying photograph. There were many protests against the granting of a concession for the holding of bull-fights in the Turkish metropolis, but all were vain.

LESSON IN FARMING

Thirty Tons of French Garden to Be Transported.

Plants Undisturbed While Earth Surrounding Them Is Removed From Reading to Birmingham Farm Demonstration.

London.—Some thirty tons of French garden, heavy with plants as well as "golden soil," are being removed from Reading to Birmingham.

The garden, which stood in a corner of Messrs. Sutton's trial ground at Reading, is the best educational model yet seen. In its new site in Warley park, close to the bandstand, it will cover a strip 160 feet in length, and a good three days' work will be spent in setting it up and, so to speak, naturalizing it. The garden will be opened by the lord mayor and lady mayoress of Birmingham, who were originally interested in the scheme by Mr. Chance—like his cousin, Sir Joseph Chance, one of Birmingham's notable benefactors.

The model is described as "educational," designed to "demonstrate the continental system of intensive cultivation," and as a demonstration it is not less chaming than it is educational.

Everything is to be transferred just as it is, and not one plant of the many thousands will be disturbed. The frames and cloches and open patches of ground are to demonstrate the growth and progress of French gardening as well as the results; and for this reason all the spectators will follow one path in one direction, so that they may pass with the explanatory lecturer, as it were, from February to November.

First, they will see a bed in the making, one part pit, one part heaped manure, one part completed with soil and frame. Next comes a row of frames in which three crops are growing cheek by jowl—lettuces, carrots and radishes. This is succeeded by a row in which four crops are growing together, the fourth being cauliflower.

From the frames you pass to the cloches under which the seed is first sown, making a close green mat. Next are the cloches where these seedlings are pricked out at even distances, showing how the cloches feed the frames. At this stage the first part of the year is completed. The succeeding beds and frames illustrate how the soil is used yet again for the later part of the year.

This is perhaps the most novel and interesting part of the demonstration. The variety is most striking. One of the late beds is filled with cabbages, between which again is a double crop of radish and endive. These cabbages, though they have only been in the ground six weeks are already as big as cabbages which were planted last November. Five months have been saved.

Other frames and cloches contain peas which are already in pod, strawberries which are just ripe, tomatoes in flower, and melons just beginning to set.

SNAKES CHANGE MAN'S VIEWS

Pennsylvania Farmer Puts His Hand Into Nest of Copperheads and Stops His Grumbling.

York, Pa.—Farmer William Tracey changed his notions about the weather when he reached into a nest of six copperhead snakes in removing an old stone fence, in Dover township, and promptly resigned from the Knockers' club.

Before the adventure of his hand Farmer Tracey's remarks at the Eastmount village store were those of a weather pessimist. He opined that it was unseasonably cool and that crops would suffer if a hot wave did not soon come along.

However, if that particular hot wave for which Tracey hankered had been there when he put his hand into the copperheads' nest, it is probable they would have been active enough to have made Tracey the hero of a different sort of reception. As it was, the six snakes were too sluggish from the chill to move with their summer alacrity.

LOVE MEASURED BY MACHINE

It Will Be Patented by Man Who Declares That it Records Psychological Attractiveness.

San Francisco.—A mechanical arrangement which he terms a "love machine," and which he declares will measure the strength of human affections between lovers, friends or relatives—which will correctly tabulate the amount of resistent will power of any individual, and which will also tell to an infinitesimal fraction the amount of psychological attractiveness exerted over a person by another—has been invented by Charles Trudow, a mechanic, who lives on Jones avenue, Elmhurst. Trudow has applied for letters patent upon his contrivance and is seeking capital with which to start a "love machine" factory.

The machine is termed a "phystymograph" by Trudow. Its powers are such that the human emotion termed love is drawn into it when two persons grip a pair of handles, not unlike those of an ordinary electric battery. A dial which connects a contrivance of springs and wires registers the amount of affection the two persons who grip the handles have for each other. If there is no love between them the dial hand remains motionless. According to tests by Trudow its only fault is that it cannot tell the full amount of love between some extra affectionate couples. The machine will not measure the affections of two men—the dial hand remaining motionless, as is the case when there is no love between men and women.

GAS PIPE ITS OWN PLUMBER

When Fire Came From Leak a Lead Jacket Plugged the Hole—Explanation Is Simple.

Kansas City, Mo.—Chance sometimes works overtime to produce very insignificant results, and, as an example, here's the story of a fire in the joint basement below the Economy Furniture company, 813 Main street, and a pawnshop owned by G. A. Stevens at 813½ Main street. A lead jacketed pipe runs through the floor of pawnshop to a steam radiator above. A space near the pipe was left when the plumbing was done. Directly below the hole is a gas pipe.

Now, at exactly two minutes of 11 o'clock in the morning, George A. Stevens, Jr., who clerks in the pawnshop, dropped a lighted cigarette through this hole; at the same second the gas discovered a small leak in the pipe and ventured out. The cigarette set fire to the gas and in a few moments a little blue flame was scorching the floor of the pawnshop. By the time several fire companies arrived the fire was extinguished and the gas pipe leaked no more.

Now, here's the explanation: The flame had melted the lead packet about the steam pipe, the lead had dripped down on the gas pipe and the leak was plugged.

City Owns Pigs and Pianos

Inventory Being Prepared In Cleveland Lists Everything From Canary to Elephant.

Cleveland, O.—The task of preparing an inventory of every bit of property, movable and otherwise, owned by the city of Cleveland, is now drawing to a close. Twelve hundred typewritten pages in the office of Department Examiner Brown, at the city hall, show a complete list of everything that the city of Cleveland owns from office blotter to reservoirs, and from lead pencils to Minnie, the Brookside zoo elephant.

The work, so far as it has progressed, reveals the fact that Cleveland owns at least three pianos and two organs, six canary birds, 77 pigs, 239 chickens, 60 cows, several barber chairs and a number of razors, and only the general schedule for two departments out of a total of 200, has been completed. There are 139 rocking chairs at the City hospital and 118 at the infirmary.

Cleveland is the second city in the United States to adopt the plan of preparing an inventory of all goods and property owned. The first was Lynn, Mass.

"I believe that the municipal code should require every village in the state to adopt this plan," said City Examiner Brown. "An inventory should be made at least once every year. It is a valuable thing for a city to possess, and it is a businesslike procedure that should be generally followed by cities of the state."

Will Buy American Cattle

Slaughter Houses Be Erected at Smithfield and Importation of Meat Discontinued.

London.—To encourage the importation of American cattle into England, the city of London corporation has a big scheme on hand. It is proposed to construct a huge slaughter house and cold storage plant in connection with the Metropolitan meat market at Smithfield.

Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars will be spent on the scheme, and when they are completed the buildings will constitute one of the finest establishments of their kind in the world. They will be equipped with all the latest appliances and are expected to create a revolution in the importation of cattle into this country.

The scheme is viewed with consternation by the railroad companies here, who receive a large proportion of their income from the carriage of frozen meat from Liverpool and other ports to London. Under the new scheme cattle will be shipped direct to London.

This scheme will have a double advantage. The meat of foreign cattle killed in London will fetch as high a price in the market as if the cattle had been of English origin, while it will reduce enormously the necessity for consuming frozen meat

There are already two great slaughter yards in this country—at Birkenhead and Deptford, near London—but their capacity is not equal to the demand which any considerable increase in the importation of live American cattle would make upon them.

Solves Living Problem.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Living at a cost of approximately 32 cents a day for four years is the record of Yeoman J. C. Thornton, United States navy, Memphis, Tenn. Thornton was discharged from the service at the Indianapolis station the other day and re-enlisted the next day for another term. His pay, during the last four years, was at a rate of $75.50 a month, or $1,026 a year.

During the four years of $4,104 received in wages Thornton saved $3,644. The secret of his economic subsistence is that Thornton, being in the navy yard, paid no board, clothing, room nor medical attention. He was not extravagant and did not use tobacco, did not drink nor gamble.

Wet Weather Kills Horses.

Pottsville, Pa.—Over a dozen horses died in Pottsville and vicinity the other day of a strange, new disease which is said to be caused by the wet weather, and different parts of the country report scores as having died from the same disease. It begins like the mange and soon affects the eyes.

HAWK SWOOPS DOWN ON HAT

Carries Off Chantecler Headgear of Jersey Miss and Drops It Into Passaic River.

Singac, N. J.—While on her way downtown Miss Margaret McPhail had an exciting experience with a huge chicken hawk, which made off with her chantecler hat.

When near the schoolhouse on Pompton turnpike, she first noticed the hawk hovering over her, but high up in the air. The bird, after circling about and swinging nearer and nearer to her, suddenly swooped down on her head and seized the hat.

It fluttered and pulled at the headgear, while Miss McPhail screamed. Two girl friends ran to her assistance. Miss Minnie Hartdorf reached her first, and she tried to drive off the bird, but the hawk flapped his wings wildly several times, striking Miss Hartsdorf in the face and blinding her for the time being.

Miss McPhail was so frightened that she sank to the ground. By that time the hatpins had worked loose and the hawk flew away with the headgear in its claws. When over the Passaic river the bird evidently discivered it had made a mistake and dropped the hat, which fell into the water.

At that moment Howard Jackson of Montclair, a member of the Sunnyside Canoe club, came around the bend of the river in his canoe. Some men called out to him to secure the hat, which he did and returned it to the owner.

Autos Knock Out Skeeters.

Orange, N. J.—Annual report of state highway commissioners declares that oiling of roads to lay dust has had a marked effect on Jersey mosquitoes, driving them away from residential districts and confining them to tracts where the roads are not treated. Smoke and gases from passing automobiles had the same effect

LITERARY LITTLE BITS

The spring publishing season in London is said to have been far from successful. One commentator declares that the real cause of this condition is that so few of the books issued are of any permanent value. There's something in that.

Augusta Huiell Seaman's new book, "Jacqueline of the Carrier Pigeons," is a story woven about the historic siege of Leyden in the days of William the Silent, and its young hero, Gysbert Cornellisen, is an actual boy of whom history has given a brief glimpse.

Signor d'Annunzio has been staying quietly in Paris, studying the life of the dressmakers employed in the great fashion establishments for the purposes of his new book, "Amaranta." The heroine is a poor girl who leaves her Italian home to seek employment in Paris.

The third and last volume of General Kuropatkin's memoirs has appeared in Russia. In this he attacks the Russian press for having, as he declares, contributed to the demoralization of the Russian troops during the war with Japan; and he advises that in future wars only events calculated to raise the morale of an army should be allowed to be mentioned in the newspapers.

That unconventional book, "The Martyrdom of Man," by Winwood Reade, nephew of the novelist Charles Reade, has lately gone into an eighteenth edition. It was of its author that his uncle once said that he was "heir to considerable estate and gifted with genius; but he did not live long enough to inherit the one or to mature the other." Winwood Reade wrote many books of fiction and travel, but only the volume mentioned above has survived.

A new series of books to be called the "Harvard Studies in Comparative Literature" has just been founded by Professor Schofield of Harvard, who is to be the general editor. It is to comprise works by Harvard graduates or instructors in the field of comparative literature. Professor Santayana, the philosopher, essayist and poet, will start the series with a book on "Three Philosophical Poets—Lucretius, Dante, and Goethe." The series is to be published by the university.

H. Addington Bruce in "Daniel Boone and the Wilderness Road" has written a book which serves the double purpose of a biography of Boone and a study of the first phase of the territorial growth of the United States. As biography, the work presents a complete account of Boone's life and an estimate of his specific contribution to the progress of the nation. As history, the process of expansion in its military, political, economic and social aspects is considered.

Maxim Gorky has now married Mme. Andrieva, who caused his last visit to America to end somewhat disastrously. Mme. Andrieva was a noted actress before she married Gorky, and it is reported that Gorky has renounced socialism, has been expelled from that party as a renegade and that he is coming to America to star his wife in several of the plays he has written. Since renouncing socialism it is said that he no longer deserves his pseudonym Gorky, which signifies "the bitter," as he has become optimistic and cheerful.

A GIRL'S ENTHUSIASM.

The first bride who ever made a honeymoon trip on a railroad in America did more by that act to expedite the building of the world's first trunk line, declares C. F. Carter, in his book, "When Railroads were New," than the ablest statesmen, engineers and financiers of the Empire State had been able to accomplish by their united efforts in half a dozen years.

The bride who achieved so much was Mrs. Henry L. Pierson of Ramapo, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Pierson were in Charleston, S. C., early in January, 1831, on their wedding tour. When Mrs. Pierson heard that a steam locomotive was to make its first trip with a train-load of passengers from Charleston to Hamburg, six miles away, she was eager to take the ride; and her husband agreed.

The two cars were crazy "contraptions" on four wheels, resembling stage coach bodies as much as they did anything else; but the train contrived to get over the entire system of six miles and back again at a fairly satisfactory speed.

The bride was delighted. She could talk of nothing else. When she returned to Ramapo she gave her brother-in-law, Eleazer Lord, and her father-in-law, Jeremiah Pierson, such glowing accounts of her railroad trip that they were fired with enthusiasm. The bridegroom had already become almost as ardent an advocate of railroads as his bride.

Young Mrs. Pierson gave it as her opinion that if a steam railroad were built it would be possible to go from New York to Buffalo in 24 hours. At first the men-folks were inclined to smile at this, but they were thoroughly impressed with the value of the locomotive as described by this ardent advocate.

Mrs. Pierson's girlish enthusiasm was the determining factor which crystallized the ideas of those men and led them to take the steps which finally resulted in the building of what is now known as the Erie road, which, by uniting the ocean with the Great Lakes, became the world's first trunk line.

No railroad had a more romantic history than this one, which had its inception in so romantic an incident. It required 20 years of toil and anxiety, sacrifice and discouragement to get the line through, but it was accomplished at last, and the bridegroom and bride were again passengers on a trip which will live in history.

This time the bride was a handsome woman of middle age, but she was just as proud of her husband as she was on that first trip, for he was vice president of the road, the longest continuous line in the world; and the trains did move at a speed that would have carried them from New York to Buffalo in 24 hours, just as she had prophesied two decades before.

"Uncle Joe" on College Education.

"To a bright young man who has anything in him, a college course is not necessarily fatal to success. That is my view of it," says Speaker Cannon in a discussion in the Yale News of the value of a college education. He continues:

"The common school system—the High School course—gives the average individual at least fair equipment for practical success in business or in the various callings that men follow who live by the sweat of their faces. That is about all that the average man will utilize.

"There is always a question as to whether the average student will survive the spoiling effects of a college course.

"But there are a great many students who accomplish something along the specialties, as there are a great many of them who accomplish something practical in business and politics, notwithstanding the burden of bearing a collegiate course.

"The human animal, on the average, is not worth his salt if he is incapable of making his own way."

Women's Curiosity in a Shoeshop

"Women are proverbially curious," said the shoe salesman, "but I think they show it more in a shop of this sort than anywhere else. At times it's hard to get a customer's attention, she's so busy watching what the women on either side are buying. And when a sale is completed and a woman walks out with her new boots on, watch the others. Every eye is fixed on the newly clad feet, and if the wearer happens to be smartly dressed there'll be a sudden demand from the others to be shown shoes of the same type. I think it's for that reason that women are so particular about not having holes in their stockings when they buy shoes. Men don't seem to care."—New York Sun.

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

NO NEED FOR AN ARCHITECT

But for Demijohn School Board Might Have Found Out Earlier What Was Wanted.

Mayor Edward Schwabenland of Riverside, N. J., and Henry Tesnow, one of the most popular residents of that thriving little borough, were talking the other day on queer sayings and doings, when Eddie told of a motion that had once been made in a school board of which he was a member.

The needs of the town, Eddie said, demanded that a new schoolhouse should be erected, and after the board had discussed the question to a considerable length one of the members arose to his feet.

"I move, Mr. President," said he, impressively, "that we build a new schoolhouse on the site of the old one; that we use the material in the old one for the new one, and that we don't tear down the old one until the new one is built."

"Well, what did they do about it?" smilingly queried Mr. Tesnow.

"They were a little bit slow coming around," replied Eddie, "but just as soon as they got their breath to working again they sent for an architect to figure out how the thing could be done."

"Did he find the answer?" asked Mr. Tesnow.

"No," was the chuckling rejoinder of the mayor. "He worked on it until the demijohn was empty, and then told the school board that what they wanted was a sleight-of-hand professor, not an architect."

LAUGHED IN FACE OF CARE

New York Artists Turned Eviction Tribulation Into a Time of Joyous Merrymaking.

The trials and tribulations of the large number of clever young men and women who are struggling for recognition as writers and artists in New York city are lightened in considerable degree by festivities in the studios.

One young woman whose landlord was hard-hearted turned a seamy situation into light comedy, and saved expense, by giving what she called an "eviction" party. At about two in the morning, after a generous flow of soul and punch, she announced to her masculine guests that it was time to labor. With much joy each of these became a furniture mover. They burdened themselves with chairs and tables and bric-a-brac and trailed with their loads through the silent streets toward the new studio. On the way they rested in the middle of an avenue, placing the chairs round the tables on the asphalt and resuming the social function. A raising of windows began, and the sound of a bell somewhere created an annoying fear that a patrol wagon might be coming round the corner.

Thus it was that the soiree on the asphalt was suddenly broken up. The window gazers, wondering what this strange proceeding in the night might mean, probably did not realize that they were viewing a process in the land of Bohemia of laughing carking care out of countenance.—The Sunday Magazine.

Hopeful Sign.

That the war on tuberculosis pays immediate dividends in human life is proved by a report of Dr. Bosley, health commissioner of Baltimore. In the monthly health bulletin for July it is shown that the number of deaths from tuberculosis occurring in the city was 92, as compared with 123 for the same month last year. Dr. Bosley says that he attributes the decrease in the number of deaths to the educational campaign that those interested in the fight against the "white plague" are making. "The interest of the public has been aroused," he declares, "and there is a general tendency on the part of the people to heed the warnings and to observe the hygienic rules being promulgated." In ten years, if the present progress is kept up, Dr. Bosley believes that tuberculosis will be stamped out.

Haakon Follows the Hounds.

King Haakon of Norway is fond of telling his first appearance with his regiment, when he headed it at parade. It was the King's Own Norfolk Yeomanry.

"I was horribly nervous," he says. "I am not what might be called a 'crack rider,' and I had seen the yeomanry on parade and in many cases following the hounds. My word, but they ride like the wind and look as if they could easily go up a church steeple if they got the order or the hounds showed them the way. I felt as I rode along at their head that every man was inwardly criticising my style and setting me down as a hopeless duffer. It was a horrible experience and I never want to go through it again."

LITTLE WILLIE'S BRIGHT IDEA

He Caught Santa, All Right, But Probably Santa Had His Innings Afterward.

A. B. Walkley, the dramatic critic of the London Times, refused, at a dinner at the Union club, to criticise adversely the New theater of New York.

"To criticise you adversely, at a moment when you are giving a feast in my honor, would surely be impolitic on my part," Mr. Walkley said. "I should be putting my foot in it, like the Santa Claus of Chelsea.

"A Chelsea artist—you know all London artists live in Chelsea—rose in the middle of the night on Christmas eve, and, in pajamas and bare feet, proceeded to the coal black room of his little sons. He had in his arms toys, sweets and picture books, and his wife with a glad heart watched him depart.

"But a minute after he entered the boys room he muttered a terrible cry.

"'John, John, what's the matter?' cried his wife.

"'Oh,' he groaned "I've caught my foot in a rat trap. 'A nice place,' he added, reproachfully, 'for a rat trap, I must say!'

"'There, if I didn't forget!' the wife exclaimed. 'Willie told me he was going to set it to catch Santa!'"

TOO CONSPICUOUS IN COLOR

United States Will No Longer Have Grey Horses in Its Cavalry Regiments.

The gray charger, long an inspiration for the poets of chivalry, is now passe. So say the high officials of the war department who look after the purchase of horses for the United States cavalry.

He may be just as vigorous, intelligent and faithful as his brothers of another color, but he's too conspicuous, they tell us, too apt to get his $200 hide filled with lead. So he has to go. Horsemen of the National stock yards can no longer sell grays to the government, which they maintain is bad business all 'round.

Uncle Sam formerly owned $240,000 worth of horses of this color. One troop in every regiment was known as the "Gray Troop." But on investigation the department decided that so much money in living targets was a bad investment, for in these days of high-power rifles the gray troop would be a shining mark for the infantry of the enemy before the bays and blacks and browns and sorrels could get close enough to be distinguished from the scenery.

Home Moving Pictures.

In being adapted for the home moving pictures have entered a new and very promising stage. A simple apparatus recently patented is described as only three feet long by one foot deep. It is provided with a ground glass at one end, on which a picture 8x10 inches in size can be thrown, but if a larger view is required, the ground glass can be removed, when the image will be projected upon a white sheet or other surface provided, and will be enlarged more or less, according to the distance from the machine of this new screen. Any convenient light, such as an acetylene bicycle lamp—will serve for an illumination. It is expected that the apparatus will be made in a variety of styles, from a cost of a dollar or two to quite expensive outfits, and the spools of film, lasting two to three minutes, are to be furnished at prices comparable to those of phonograph records. Freedom from risk of fire is claimed, as the film is heated much less than by the powerful lights necessary for the larger machines.

Wildcat Meat for Fighters.

Wildcat meat is at a premium in the Chinese quarters of San Francisco as a result of the strife between the Yee family and the On Tick Tong—which has brought about six murders in or near San Francisco since November.

There is a superstitious belief among the Chinese that if their warriors are fed on the flesh of the wildcat they will acquire the ferocity of the beast and their fighting efficiency will be much improved. The butchers of the quarter are driving a thriving trade in wildcat among the two clans now at war.—Fur News.

Sir John's Business Methods.

Sir John Fisher, who as an admiral has a great many demands upon him from people who come on pretense of talking business, uses, and is said to be the inventor of the following method of warning them off: A slip of paper is handed to the caller before he is brought into the outer office. It says: 'When you go to see a business man, go on business and state your business in a businesslike manner. When you have concluded your business go about your business and leave him to finish his business and mind your own business."

NO MARKET FOR UMBRELLAS

United States Consul in Peru Has Post in Country Where Rain Is Unknown.

Former Secretary of State S. M. Taylor of Urbana, now United States consul to Peru at Callao, is home on the first leave of absence from his post since he was assigned to Callao three years ago.

"We like life in Peru," said Mr. Taylor. "While my office is in Callao, I live in Lima. Callao is the seaport, a place of about 35,000 population, while Lima, seven miles distant, has a population of 150,000. We are 11 degrees south of the equator, so that this is their summer, but it is never very hot there. They get the sea breeze and it rarely gets over 85 degrees Fahrenheit, while the lowest temperature is about 65. Of course, frost never occurs there.

"The climate is one of perpetual sunshine. It never rains. All agricultural operations must be carried on by means of irrigation. A Peruvian girl came up to Panama with me, and, though she was almost a woman, she had never seen rain. When we encountered a thunderstorm in Panama she was badly frightened. It was the first thunder I had heard for three years."

LOOKING AT IT IN TWO WAYS

Pertinent Remark Ex-President Roosevelt Is Credited with Making to Admiral.

At a recent banquet of the alumni of the Virginia Military Institute in New York, Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, Va., whom the gallant men of that state love to call "Governor" because he came within distance of the chair shortly before he was made president of the Jamestown exposition, recounted a story Admiral Harrington told to him.

The admiral was showing President Roosevelt the things at the Norfolk navy yard not marked by pathway signs, when they came upon a view commanding some battleships lying peacefully in the late afternoon of an Indian summer day.

"I tell you, Mr. President," said the admiral, enthusiastically, "that if we had had all of these wonderful vessels several years ago we would not have had a war with Spain."

"Yes," said the president, lifting his mustache, "and then—then I would not have been president, eh?"

Young, but Has Traveled Far.

Just two years old, Sarah Clarkson already is so widely traveled it would trouble many a grown person who thinks himself something of a globe trotter to catch up with her. She has traveled almost 50,000 miles in the course of her short life and was paying her first visit to New York when the steamship Inverness, of which her father is the captain, put in there recently. Capt. Arthur Clarkson hails from Boston. He is looking forward to introduce his daughter to his home for the first time before she is many days older, for Sarah was born at sea on the way from Calcutta to Bombay, and she has not visited America before. But there are few important seaport towns in the far east that she has not looked on with her baby eyes, and in every one of them, avenging hundreds of her sex who have mourned the faithlessness of Jack afloat, she has left behind a trail of sweethearts among the big, wind-tanned men who go down to the sea in ships.

One Trip Nearly Paid for Schooner

Dealers at T wharf were given a surprise when Capt. Horace Hillman of the 14-ton schooner Eliza Benner of Edgartown offered 20,000 pounds of fish to buyers at the exchange. No one believed that a schooner the size of the Benner would attempt rounding Cape Cod at this season so deeply loaded. But the captain had recently purchased the vessel and thought if he could reach Boston at a time of high prices he might be able to nearly pay her purchase price.

With five young men belonging on Martha's Vineyard Capt. Hillman took the schooner out on the ocean side of Nantucket and in a short time filled the craft to the hatches. The venture proved so successful that the crew earned about $30 each and the Benner almost paid for herself.—Boston Herald.

At the Tomb of Rachel.

Writing from the Holy Land, a correspondent of the Philadelphia Exponent has this to say about the tomb of Rachel, which is marked by a memorial the funds for which came from Sir Moses Montenore: "Two hours' journey to the south of Jerusalem, on the road toward Hebron, stands a small fortress called Barak, beside the gate of which are three tanks for the reception and preservation of rain water. Near this fortress, beside a spring, stands a house said to have been built by King Solomon, and a mile and a half farther south is the tomb of Rachel."

Mistake of Australian Colonists.

In the early days, colonists, thinking to make their surroundings more homelike, introduced rabbits. The rabbit, coming to Australia, increased and multiplied at such a rate that it overspread the whole continent, and became a nuisance, to keep which in check has cost many millions of pounds, and will yet cost many millions more. The Australian rabbit brings forth its first family—of up to nine or ten—at the age of three months. Thereafter, the doe produces the same litter every month.

Upper berths in sleeping-cars have been officially branded as inferior to lower berths, and the sleeping-car companies have been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate their prices accordingly. But neither upper nor lower is so good as the poorest bed in a hall bedroom, where one can sleep with a window open, and get some fresh air unmixed with cinders and smoke.

Alaskan Glaciers.

An interesting fact about Alaskan glaciers is that some are "dead" and others are "alive." Davidson glacier, which is really a tongue of the Muir glacier, has been ascended by travelers for a number of years. It is a dead glacier, having a moraine of several miles between it and the sea. Looking at it from the boat, it represents a kaleidoscopic appearance as the sun shines upon it, and the surface seems scratched with tiny pin lines. These are in reality deep crevices, which must be approached cautiously, for they are lurking pitfalls for the unwary.—Vancouver Providence.

WHAT LEGISLATION DO CANDIDATES FOR STATE SENATOR AND REPRESENTATIVE INTEND TO SUPPORT IF ELECTED.

Voters Should Know From Them Before They Vote at the Primary Election.

Among measures that appeal to me, and I think to our voters generally as having merit and that they should support, are:

1st. A more economical state administration than that of last session, whereby increased taxation has been too burdensome.

2nd. So changing our primary law as to include the nomination of Supreme Court Judges; where no candidate receives 50% of the party vote for U. S. Senator that the two receiving the highest number of votes be balloted for at the general election as in North Dakota; and so further amending it that candidates may know what they may or may not do or say, and newspapers may or may not print concerning candidates and escape criminal prosecution and the candidates right to the office be not imperaled; and that courts may be able to interpret them. All of which is practically impossible as now written.

3rd. A law enabling small estates to be probated with less expense and delay.

4th. A law whereby County Commissioners shall be elected by the voters of their respective Commissioner's District, and empowering them to appropriate moneys awaiting payment of uncalled warrants (most of which will never be called) to other funds that its use may accrue to the people.

5th. That the powers of the Railroad Commission be so enlarged that it may regulate and control steamship navigation and charges, whereby existing abuses may be corrected.

6th Such change in the jury law of last session as will afford some sane or reasonable method of impaneling jurors in Superior Court when not enough in attendance to complete a jury, without so great delay and expense or compelling the waiver of substantial rights to parties as therein demanded.

7th. Such amendment to the equally crazy provisions of last session's revenue law relating to service upon owners as shown by the records in Auditor's office of properties foreclosed for taxes. Provisions so notoriously "freak legislation" that no legislator seems to know how or why they became law.

8th. The enactment of laws providing for the initiative and referendum similar to the laws of Oregon.

9th. Such changes in the laws of cities of the third class as will confer greater powers and more clearly define the powers already conferred on them.

10th. Such changes in saloon legislation as will make each county a voting unit; a thousand dollars the minimum saloon license; an 8 o'clock p. m. to 7 o'clock a. m. closing of all saloons and laws forbidding all treating in saloons.

The people of the entire county pay the burdens imposed by saloons and should have a vote for or against their being maintained.

No reason exists for their remaining open any part of the night time. No good and much evil results therefrom.

Continued opposition of saloon interests to such legislation may so strengthen growing sentiment against them that may result in state wide prohibition.

Each measure herein suggested will likely be before the next session for legislative action, and are not theories but the settled law of some of our most progressive states.

No worthy candidate will refuse to define his position on these and like measures demanded by the people. If capable men they will pledge support to them if they believe them right and if they think them wrong will declare against them, expressing wherein they think them wrong

Under our form of government there is nothing of so vital interest to the voter as to know how candidates stand on matters effecting public interests, in the lines of their official work. To not demand this is not in keeping with the best citizenship, and not promotive of the highest measure of official action.
