Off Eddie's Hook

by Fownden Flore

When times are tough we eat it or bury it, but in good times we drop it and walk away. The other day a pioneer citizen complained bitterly about the appearance of our downtown streets.

Well, if she had stopped to think it over, she would have realized that one of the great privileges of the civilized free man is the right to walk away and leave his mess behind him.

If we put every litterer in jail, it would do no good for his friends would stand at the cell door strewing rubbish.

Now we are opening up the downtown area for the encouragement of business and pleasure, we are finding more and more rubbish at our feet. Some of it is dropped by our most distinguished citizens. It falls silently and relentlessly day after day until the wind and rains come and make hash of the rubbish.

We can't appeal to pride for we don't have much, nor can we get tough because we have an enforcement complex to handle. We can't afford it. So, in our role as a small time smart aleck, we have a proposal.

We suggest to the city council that the city purchase two motorized sweepers and hire a couple of men to push them over our downtown sidewalks. About the only thing we can do about our alleys is to get a wind machine and we hope you don't think we are about to offer our services. It would only arouse jealousy.

Bonneville Power Administration's new film, "Intertie," has recently been honored at the Venice Film Festival, according to word received here by M. D. Parrett, Superintendent of the Clallam County PUD.

Officially selected for submission by the U. S. Government, the film was chosen for exhibition in the documentary division of the festival, and received the coveted Diploma of Excellence.

"This is a mark of significant achievement in such a worldwide competition," reads the letter from H. R. Richard, Bonneville administrator.

Since its release in January 1969, the film has been given many awards. The film has also been chosen to be an officially sponsored entry of the U. S. Government in foreign film events.

"Intertie" is a 16mm color dicumentary which presents the story of the Pacific Northwest-Pacific Southwest Intertie, the largest single high-voltage transmission system ever undertaken in the United States.

Much of the movie was made in the high mountain and desert country of central Oregon, and includes dramatic sequences made wtih a special helicopter-mounted camera.

COUNTY BOOKMOBILE ON DISPLAY AT COUNTY FAIR

The Clallam County bookmobile is on display at the County Fair, August 22-24 for the first time since purchased in 1968 and is staffed by County Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Harry Lydiard, president, has arranged for the following members to be in attendance: Friday afternoon, Mrs. Ruth Durr wachter and evening, Mrs. Forrest Henry; Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Janet Lorden, and evening, Mrs. Charles Canning; Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Ted Hermann, and evening, Mrs. C. S. Chaffee.

Regular borrowers coming to the fair may take this opportunity to pick up their new 1969-70 schedules and bookmarks book lists will be available.

Others may enjoy a leisurely browse in a mobile library that can rarely stop more than 20 minutes for its readers. It carries some three thousand volumes covering a mide range of subjects, including novels and children's books. With a much larger charge out desk, more shelves and superior lighting, this model has many interesting new features.

Victoria Artist Will Be Judge of County Fair Art Exhibit

This year's judge in the County Fair's Art Department will be a well known Victoria, B. C. artist, Vuokko Onervais.

Mrs. Onervais is from Denmark and studied art extensively there. In 1958 she came to Calgary, Alberta and there continued her studies at the Alberta Art Centre.

After finishing at the centre she continued her studies with a private teacher from the university, concentrating on color, technique and psychology of art, and the influence of lights on color.

Later she moved to Victoria, B. C., where she opened her own studio and has been teaching all phases of oil painting for the past four years.

In addition to the exhibitions of paintings, sculpture and pottery competing for prizes, there will be artists in action who will be demonstrating their specialties.

Among them will be Helen Filion, Pat Scarano, Betty Warder, Hazel Pike, Mary Nansen, Richard Sargent, David Huntzinger and Astrid Fredriksen.

This year Mrs. Lysle (Helen) Filion is chairman of the adult art department, and Mrs. Leonard (Fannie) Nelson is chairman of the junior art department.

Nobody Should Go Away Disappointed from the Fiftieth County Fair

Douglas Youts of New Zealand, nine times world champion tree faller who has appeared at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds in Vancouver, British Columbia, will be featured at the logging show at the Fair grounds, according to Manager Ed Hagerty

For the Fair's 50th anniversary with Clallam County's own Mel Harper in charge, Clayton Stewart of Tasmania, with several world championships to his credit will be among the contestants.

Harper, who is himself a high wire specialist, will have a number of Peninsula contestants to present other phases of this big logging event.

Saturday will be a big night on the Midway, says Manager Hagerty, and a big night to just plain stand and sit around with friends and neighbors some of whom may know a thing or two about 50 years ago.

Besides the big-time rodeo show will be on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

"And a 50th anniversary for anything just doesn't come around every few minutes and we don't want to miss out on this one, so we'll be seeing you," says Ed.

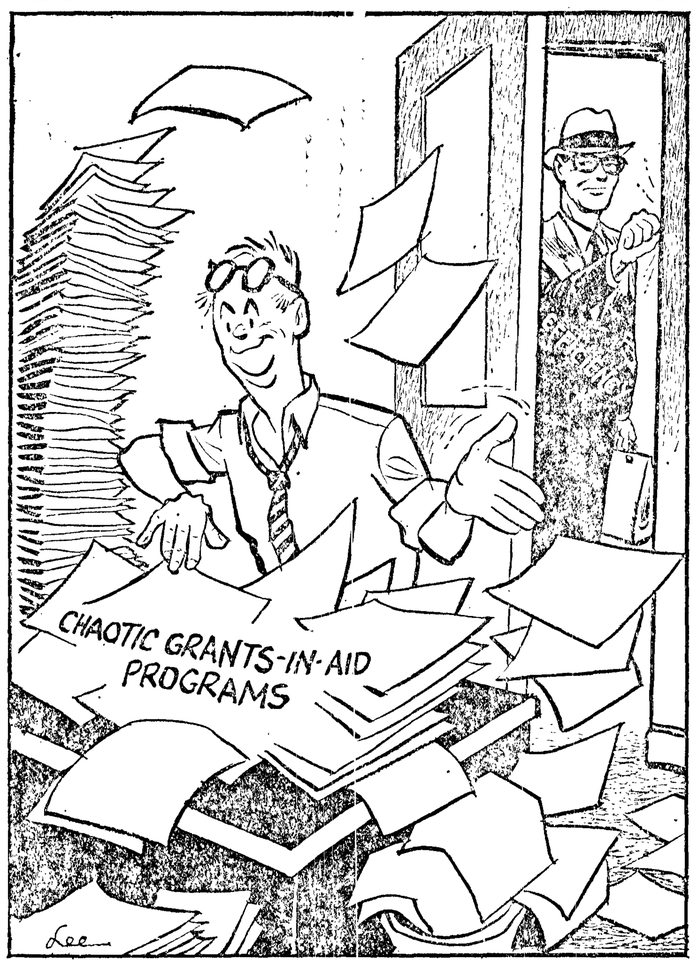
GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR TAX SAVINGS



LET'S CONSOLIDATE

Congress is considering legislation to bring order out of chaos in the Federal grants-in-aid programs.

With 42 new programs added in the last Congress, the number of grant categories has now reached 420, according to Sen. Mundt, (R-S.D.). "Since 1958, grant programs have increased from $1.8 billion to an estimated $20.8 billion for fiscal year 1969 and an expected $25 billion in the current fiscal year," he explained. Senator Mundt said that the grants as a source of state and local revenue "have become increasinly important, demonstrating the acute need for improving their administration." The amount of such grants compared with total state-local revenue has grown from ten to eighteen percent in the past twenty years.

The proposed legislation would permit the President to examine and sonsolidate grants which cover programs of a similar or related nature. Greater efficiency and coordination at lower cost can be the result, while state initiative in solving the state-local problems will, at the same time, be encouraged.

The Bureau of the Budget will provide the President and Congress with an objective analysis of the progress reports submitted by the program heads.

Such legislation should result in more efficient and economic administration of the programs, subject to the consolidated grants to Congressional review, and limit their duration to their authorized period.

The Administration and the Congress are to be commended on their efforts to streamline the complexity of these federal operations.

Congressman Meeds Has Answers When Chamber Of Commerce is Host

Second District Congressman Lloyd Meeds carried himself through with credit during his session with members of the Chamber of Commerce in annual "Meet Your Congressman" discussions Monday noon.

Mr. Meeds, in excellent form, had the answers all down the line and not only that but he was prepared to follow through when a "committee" met with him afterward to plan with business leaders for a way out of the tidal woes at Ediz Hook.

It can be interpreted as a triumph that the congressman received practically unanimous support of the mode of attack on the problem as he described to the Chamber.

It is refreshing to listen to a good committee man field the questions that were propounded. Don Judd and his committee, too, deserve credit and respect for the sensible character of the questions posed.

Congressman Meeds was introduced by program chairman George Buck. President Joe Dailey urged members to attend a meeting of Olympic Chambers of Commerce next Tuesday.

HUSKY SPORTS NEWS

by John Reid

(One of a six-part series previewing the 1969 University of Washington football team.)

Receivers

University of Washington (Special)—The University of Washington's top two pass receivers from last season are gone, but the Husky coaching staff has found some able replacements to improve the Husky passing attack in 1969.

Last season Husky receivers could only manage to grab 31 percent of the aerials thrown from quarterbacks Jerry Kaloper, Gene Willis and Tom Manke. And most of those were caught by Harrison Wood (17 catches), the Minnesota Viking's 8th-round draft choice, and Cary Wojciechowski (10 catches)—both lost to the Huskies by graduation.

None of Washington's split end candidates caught a pass as a Husky last season. However, Husky coaches were pleased by the performances of two candidates for the position in spring drill—Rich Davidson and Ralph Bayard.

Davidson doesn't possess great speed, but has all the other fine attributes of a fine receiver, including great hands and fine moves. A junior in eligibility, he was a non-letterwinner two seasons ago, and sat out last season.

Bayard is a speedy JC transfer from San Francisco CC, the same place where O. J. Simpson performed two years ago, and also could develope into a tremendous receiver.

At the tight end position, the Huskies could have one of their finest in years. Ace Bulger, who caught the winning touchdown last season in the Huskies' 6-0 win over UCLA, is bigger and stronger at 6-4 and 225 pounds, and also is a fine blocker. He caught four other passes besides the one against UCLA last year, and this season should grab even more.

Backing up Bulger will be sophomore Dan Gosselin, who at 6-4, 200, is up from the freshman team.

The Huskies will also get pass-catching help from halfback Harvey Blanks and fullback Bo Cornell. Blanks, who possesses tremendous hands, speed and moves, was third in the pass-catching department last year with nine catches for 132 yards, while Cornell was fourth with six catches for 72 yards.

SEATTLE PILOTS BIG DRAW FROM DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN POINTS

When it comes to attracting tourists to the Puget Sound area the Seattle Pilots are leading the league.

As a result of recent surveys conducted in Sicks' Stadium, home of the American League Pilots, statistics show that the Seattle expansion team has been luring tourists to its home base by the thousands, including communities on the Olympic Peninsula.

The Pilots Newsbureau, which has been receiving clippings from all parts of the nation, reports that Seattle is receiving exposure comparable to, if not in excess, of the World's Fair year.

August 2, with the Pilots hosting the New York Yankees, the survey revealed that 75 percent of those in attendance were from outside the city limits of Seattle; 55 percent were from outside the Greater Seattle area; and 19 percent were from outside the State of Washington.

Visiting them were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bleill of Tacoma, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Harlan of Yakima and Mrs. Munsetta Martin of Keyport. They were joined by local residents too. Marvin Nix returned from a successful fishing trip to Sekiu where he got his limit. His biggest fish weighed 34 lbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Strampher and family, former Agnew residents, now of Walla Walla visited in the area from Thursday until Monday. Billy Sstrampher was a guest of Timmy Schilke.

The week before last Mr. and Mrs. Harold Banks of Courtney, Canada, were guests for three days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Winters. Mr. Banks is a cousin of John Winters and they visited also with them. The Winters and their guests went to Bremerton on the following Sunday to pick up their son John who had been visiting with relatives in Bremerton. While there they had a birthday picnic for the families and celebrated all the August birthdays at the home of Mrs. Winter's brother Alan Beal and family.

"We Service What We Sell"

It's the Law

Presented as a Public Service by the Washington State Bar Association.

Mrs. Brown, who lived alone in a large residential section of town and loved cats, began keeping several of them in her home.

However, her love for cats would not allow her to sell any of them or to let any go. Soon Mrs. Brown had more than forty cats living in her home.

Mrs. Brown's neighbors, protesting that the cats made much noise at night and caused obnoxious odors, said the animals were a nuisance and asked the court to restrain her from keeping so many pets.

Mrs. Brown replied that she kept the cats safely and securely confined and in an extremely sanitary manner. She said every cat was in a perfect state of health, well-fed and happy. Mrs. Brown wanted to see them kept and cared for in a proper way, and feared that others might not take the trouble to care for them as she did.

She also said she had a right to keep her cats, and that what she did on her own premises was her own business. After all, wasn't her home her castle.

The keeping of cats or dogs in a person's home is certainly a right of every property owner. However, you cannot use your property in such a manner that it unreasonably interferes with your neighbors in the use and enjoyment of their property.

Any activity, even the keeping of cats, which impairs the enjoyment of homes in the entire neighborhood and which infringes upon the well-being, comfort, repose and enjoyment of a considerable number of persons residing in your neighborhood may amount to a public nuisance. As such it could be enjoined by the courts.

BOOK REVIEW

"WHO SPEAKS FOR CIVIL DEFENSE?"

Edited by Eugene P. Wigner, with Introduction by Walter Cronkhite (Now available in the Public Library).

This book is an up-to-date provocative report on the status of civil defense in the United States, that describes what is being done and most importantly, what is NOT being done, to save millions of lives in case of a nuclear attack.

The five contributing authors agree that there probably is no one who does not believe in civil defense, but most people prefer not to think about it at all. Whether it's fire, flood or earthquake, the public seems always to require a disastrous example before they will act to protect themselves.

We are so appalled at the size of a nuclear disaster that we cannot, as a nation, discipline our minds to contemplate the importance to national recovery of the difference between over one-half of the population surviving or only one-quarter surviving (the 50 million which could be saved by a complete fallout shelter system.

The response of the public to the National Fallout Shelter Survey which was conducted in 1967 belies the myth of public resistance to civil defense, however. Better than three out of four home owners with basements responded positively to the questionnaire which was distributed, indicating that they ARE interested in surviving.

Figures indicate that there are about 100 million people outside the reach of blast, heat and fire under a large nuclear attack, but within the area of lethal fallout radiation. Most of them would die in the absence of a shielded place to take cover for from one to fourteen days, but there is a potential for saving all of them.

This book raises some absorbing thoughts and reminds us that "it" can indeed happen here, even though we would like to think that no nation would dare attack us.

Let us not forget that a rational President of the United States, backed by all his top advisors, decided in October, 1962, to dismantle the Cuban missiles by force, believing the chances of nuclear war resulting to be as high as one in three.

Since the United States has been free from the direct havoc of war for a century, the American people have a vague concept of civil defense. This book reminds us that Sweden and Switzerland were spared from Adolph Hitler's blitz conquest primarily because these countries were accurately reported as being fully prepared to defend themselves. Can we say the same? Our prospects are very promising, but not entirely assured.

There is no place to go to escape today's modern missiles, but he who has time has life. Those who live outside of an actual blast area will have time to be concerned with survival, following a nuclear explosion.

At Walter Cronkhite says: "If there are enough of us left after a nuclear war to carry on our government, one can safely forecast that the first order of business of the first post-war Congress will be the gosh-darndest investigation this nation has ever witnessed. Subject: "What Ever Happened to Civil Defense?"

Public Hearings In Olympia Will Consider Oyster Problems

The Department of Fisheries will hold public hearings in the large conference room of the General Administration Building, in Olympia Wednesday and Thursday, September 3 and 4 at 2 p.m. at the Willapa Bay Shellfish Laboratory in Ocean Park to discuss proposed regulations to meet existing and expected oyster drill problems in Puget Sound, Grays Harbor and Willapa Harbor accordng to Thor C. Tollefson, Fisheries Director.

Proposed modification of existing regulations—to define new restricted and unrestricted shellfish areas and to re-word regulatons pertaining to transferring oysters within and between areas—contains six parts, as follows:

1. Establish five restricted shellfish areas in Willapa Bay (Middle Sands, Nemah, Nemah south side, Cedar River, Goose Point.)
2. Declare remainder of Willapa Bay an unrestricted shellfish area.
3. Declare Grays Harbo an unrestricted shellfish area.
4. Establish two additional restricted shellfish areas in Puget Sound (Hamma Hamma Flats, Hood Canal, and Upper Case Inlet, North Bay, southern Puget Sound).
5. Merely combines existing regulations (WAC 220-72-010 (3)).
6. Recodify regulations pertaining to oyster drills. This procedure is required to index the regulations in the Washington Administrative Code Book.

Tollefson said that anyone concerned with the proposals is invited to comment in writing or at the hearing.

Adoption of the proposed regulations is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, September 9 at Fisheries conference room in the General Administration Building, Olympia.

We care where our product is served.

Beer served in pleasant and wholesome surroundings is the aim of the United States Brewers Association. And we are always striving to do something about it.

The USBA is represented by field men around the country. They meet with proprietors of establishments where beer is sold. They work in every way possible to promote a set of high standards wherever beer is served.

This USBA effort means even more enjoyable places for America's great beverage of moderation.

CREDIT UNION SAVINGS UP $25 MILLION OVER PREVIOUS YEAR

Savings in Washington's credit unions passed the $300 million mark in 1968, up from $275 million in 1967, disclosed Paul F. McGinty, managing director of the Washington Credit Union League, Bellevue.

An upward trend in the growth of total assets and lending activity was also reported. Assets of the State's 386 credit unions reached a new high of $352 million, an increase of $33 million over 1967, while loans outstanding went from $250 million to $283 million.

A total of 442,678 residents of the State hold memberships in Washington credit unions, McGinty said. The figures represents a gain of over 13,000.

The average dividend paid by credit unions during the year was 5 percent per annum. Most are paying quarterly or semi-annual returns on savings.

The Washington Credit Union League is the statewide association of credit unions, owned and controlled by member credit union organizations. Credit unions themseles are mutual-help financial institutions comprised of groups of people, united by a common bond of association, who save their money together and make loans to each other at low rates of interest.

SMOKEY, THE BEAR A WEEKEND VISITOR ON OLYMPIC PENINSULA

He will never manage to be as many places at once as Santa Claus, but Smokey The Bear is becoming well traveled this summer in his efforts for Keep Washington Green.

And with more bear suits and more volunteers to wear them, Smokey's education role with children could be made even more effective, says the statewide Keep Green agency.

Smokey, accompanied by Miss Keep Washington Green, Janice Wittenberg of Shelton, has been a popular weekend visitor at campgrounds across the Olympic Peninsula all summer.

The team hands out green whistles, Smokey comic books, "Keep Green" bumper stickers and litterbags to children, hoping their parents will get the message as well.

Smokey has also appeared simultaneously at fairs and festivals in the state, thanks to extra costumes maintained by the United States Forest Service, Keep Washington Green, Washington State Department of Natural Resources and other forest agencies.

So if you think you've spotted a Sasquatch, don't panic. It's probably only Smokey The Bear doing his thing as the most popular educator ever to hold class.

SALMON FISHING HOURS CHANGED BY DIRECTOR

Commercial salmon fishing was reduced to two days this week from three in Areas 1 and 2 except for the West Beach portion of Area 1 where large mesh (8 inch) gill nets and purse seines with 8-inch mesh could fish for four days, according to Thor C. Tollefson, Director, Department of Fisheries.

The reduction was on the recommendation of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, that manages Fraser River salmon runs, to allow a larger escapement of late running sockeye salmon.

Other Puget Sound areas remained as scheduled except that purse seines with 8-inch mesh may fish in Area 4A for the same fishing time—five days—as in Area 4.

Gill netters are reminded that fishing opens at 6 p.m. daily this week instead of 7 p.m.; purse seine hours change to 5 a.m.-9 p.m. instead of 5:30 a.m.-9:30 pm.

Kiwanians Hear University Engineer On Paper Progress

by S. H. Morse

Howard S. Gardner, Professor of Chemical Engineering at the University of Washington, was the featured speaker at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday.

He discussed the new programs of the pulp and paper industry. These include scientific techniques. The first school to include pulp and paper technology was the University of Maine in 1913. Now there are six colleges including Washington giving these research studies.

Gardner analyzed both the physical and chemical processes in the industry and how research at the U of W since 1940 has aided in the development of new methods especially in waste materials.

Senator Sandison was thanked for his assistance in securing funds in 1965 for building a research building at University of Washington. The speaker stated that United States and Canada produce 50 percent of the paper used in the entire world.

By 1985 the pulp and paper industrial capacity will double. Gardner stated that there is a demand for trained personnel in this field of work.

Guests were Ernest Feser, director of curriculum and instruction for School District 21, Clinton Radke, Edward Cavanaugh, Robert Evans, Fred Royce and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Green with their son Michael, a student at Washington. Mrs. Herman Ahlvers accompanied Derby Queen Barbara Pearman and Princess Crystal Sorensen, who sold buttons and hats advertising the Salmon Derby.

The Beaver Kiwanis Club, Victoria, B. C. will have an interclub meeting here Tuesday, August 26.

Goldenager Ladies To Act As Hostesses For Artmobile Stop

The Washington Artmobile, sponsored by Intermediate School District No. 111 (Pierce County Schools), the Department of Public Instruction and the Washington State Arts Commission, will appear in Port Angeles as part of Derby Days, Saturday, August 30 at 10 a.m. corner of Front and Cherry Streets. Ten ladies of the Goldenager Club are to serve as hostesses during the Open House.

The purpose of the project is twofold: to provide students in every area and of all age levels an opportunity to see a carefully chosen exhibit of original art and to provide a similar experience for the general public.

Funds for the construction and operation of the unit came from two sources: Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, and a grant from the Washington State Arts Commission. A state appropriation through the Department of Public Instruction provides funds for the operation of the unit through the 1969-70 and 1970-71 school years.

The theme of the 1969-70 exhibit is "(The Art of the Pacific Northwest Coast Indians" The exhibit, loaned to us by the Portland, Oregon Art Museum, was selected by the museum and Mr. Bill Holm of the University of Washington and arranged by Mr. Neil Meiztler.

The cost of the unit is approximately $35,000 defrayed by funds of the two sponsoring agencies. Ten thousand dollars was contributed by the Washington State Arts Commission through a grant given them by the National Arts and Humanities Foundation. 25 thousand dollars was contributed by Intermediate School District No. 111 through a Title III Elementary and Secondary Education Act grant. An additional $28000 operational grant was also provided through Title III for 1968-69,

The unit is an all-aluminium trailer, 10 feet by 50 feet, carpeted, and equipped with heating and air-conditioning facilities and the finest of museum lighting. Power for the unit is provided by a self-contained generating plant mounted on the International truck-tractor which pulls the unit. The exacting requirements of the State Fire Marshal have been met and every effort has been made to provide all possible safety measures.

The unit is designed with a ramp approach and exit to accomodate the handicapped visitor.

Pomona Grange History Dates Back to Early Days of County Fair

by Ella M. Stubbs

Members of Clallam County Pomona Grange are proud of the Clallam County fair for its "Fifty Years" of success and in a measure Pomona Grange too feels it has played a part in its history.

Records show that as early as 1918 a committee was appointed to cooperate in the promotion of the fair. Pomona Grange was organized only one year previously in March, 1917..
each subordinate and Pomona member take a membership in

In 1928 it was decided that the fair association and the master of each Grange was a voting delegate.

Pomona Grange purchased "The Hostess House" on the fairgrounds and in 1930 a decision was made to incorporate Pomona Grange's Community Hall at the fairgrounds.

Records show the fairboard was re-organized after the war in 1950 and each subordinate Grange was entitled to one member and one alternate.

In 1957 Pomona Grange turned over the helm of the fairboard to its own elected president. Previously the Pomona Master automatically became president.

Because of the various civic organizations' intereste and rapport with the programming of the annual fair, Pomona Grange in 1965 relinquished its role with the full knowledge that these organizations would lend their whole-hearted support to the fair.

The Pomona Grange lauds Clallam County Fairboard members for their achievements on their "50th Anniversary" celebration.

The tables were beautifully decorated by Mary Baker, and Lula Wheeler.

NEW-TYPE DRIVER CARDS EXPECTED TO SOLVE MANY SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Merchants and law enforcement agencies are expected to welcome the new color photo driver licenses and identification cards which the Washington Department of Motor Vehicles will begin issuing next month, according to Director Doug Toms.

Washington is the 21st state in the union to adopt the photo driver license, which was authorized by the 1969 legislature to provide "a standard and readily recognizable means of identification of each person living in the state."

Police agencies will have access to the central negative file in Olympia to assist in criminal investigations. They also supported the photo identification cards as a means of identifying injured or ill persons.

Businessmen see the photo card as a safeguard in such transactions as cashing checks and selling liquor to youthful-appearing customers.

The color photo licenses will be issued to each driver as his current license expires during the next two years. The picture adds 50 cents to the biennial $5 cost of a driver licnese. For a $3 fee non-drivers may obtain identification cards which are valid for five years.

Applicants for driver licenses and identfication cards should submit two documents bearing their photo and/or signature and proving their identity. Otherwise the card will be marked not valid for identification."

Acceptable documents for providing one's identity include a driver license "pre-bill"; a previous driver license; a credit card an identification card or document issued by the military or other governmental agency; or a notarized affidavit (signed by a parent or guardian if the person is a minor.)
