ALLIES NOW WITHIN REACH OF MONASTIR

FRENCH AND SERBS ARE ADVANCING ON MACEDONIAN CITY WHILE VON MACKENSEN IN DOBRUDJA IS RETREATING

The forces of the Central powers on the Macedonian front apparently are on the run. Sofia and Berlin admit that the Teutons and Bulgarians are retreating on Monastir, before violent attacks by the Serbs and French and official reports from Entente capitals say that the Serbians have captured a number of villages and inflicted severe losses on the Bulgars and Germans. Some 500 men have been taken prisoner. The Serbs and French are now on the plains of Monastir and the city apparently is doomed. In the Cerna region also the Bulgarians have been put to flight.

In Dobrudja von Mackensen's army is still retreating before the Rumanians and Russians, burning villages as it retires.

On the Transylvania front desperate fighting is in progress with little advantage apparently to either side. There appears to be no sign of a breakdown of the Rumanian defense on this front.

There has been a revival of fighting in the Baltic provinces on the Russian front, heavy attacks by Russian infantry in the lines near Riga being reported.

On the western front the most recent development was a heavy attack last night by Germans along the Somme front which resulted in a few gains in the St. Pierre Vaast region, but these were made at the cost of disproportionate losses, according to the Paris communique. On the British front, the positions recently captured on the Ancre have been consolidated.

DEEDS NOT WORDS COUNT TODAY

In days gone by when community "boosting" was a business almost elevated into the rank of a profession, and every clerk in a store thought that he was going to get something for himself by helping to sell his employer's real estate at high prices, the whole business of town development consisted in words—hundreds and thousands of words, illustrated with photographs and distributed in pamphlets where they could do the most good. As a result thousands of adventurous people in the East and climate-weary people in the Middle West came to the Pacific coast and bought land, since when they have been largely occupied in trying to sell it again, and make a living at the same time.

All that the Pacific coast had to offer was a climate. There was little industrial employment available and the agricultural lands were mostly covered with stumps or growing timber presenting an almost unsurmountable obstacle to the would-be settler.

So the cities overgrew the country. Then came the urgent need for employment and slowly the communities which had been "boosting," began to look around for industries—something to support the community life. Now the industrial era has opened and one of the chief difficulties encountered in its development is the high cost of sites for industrial plants, the heritage of the real estate boosting days.

Water front lands that ought to have been retained by the state or the county or the city, as the case might be, have been sold for a song to speculators and the price has grown and grown, like a snowball, gathering up profits in successive deals and tax charges, and all of this now is placed as a dead weight around the industry when it is secured. Sometimes the people of the community have to dig down into their pockets and find this money and pay it as tribute to the speculators.

That is the price paid for the old time "boosting." It is surely time that the people were brought to realize the truth, that every profit made on real estate is a tax upon a producer, and if it is not paid today the time will surely come when it will have to be paid. The lesson of the experience on the Pacific coast is that lands chiefly valuable for industrial purposes should not be allowed to get into the hands of speculators, and that lands chiefly valuable for homes should not be made the basis of gambling, the debt on which sooner or later must be paid by some home builder.

❖ ❖ ❖

The day of the bluff has passed. Now the community that desires growth must lay its cards on the table and show just what it has to offer. And the question of sites for industries is not everything. Employers these days consider the comfort and convenience of their people and in selecting a location for their business they consider just such questions as the cost of living, the availability of good homes, the educational facilities, the drainage and water systems and many other conditions that make for the health and happiness of the community. Therefore the community that wishes to bid for industrial growth and prosperity must be well equipped in the requirements of a modern community, and by no means the least important asset is a friendly, cooperative and progressive community spirit.

RYTHMIC REFLECTION

Johnson is in politics and Thompson also plays them: If Johnson advocates some things, then Thompson ups and slays them. If Johnson says a thing is black, its white in Thompson's vision; the thing that sacred is to John is fit for Tom's derision. If Johnson dead should go aloft, the town knows very well, that Thompson will avoid that place and beat it down to Hell!

PACIFIC COAST NEWS

Dream Gives Fire Warning

A dream that came true and saved the lives of six people was experienced Tuesday night by the 5-year-old daughter of R. T. Trusty, who lives in a houseboat near the foot of Macadam street, Portland. The child woke up, her parents say, screaming that the roof of the houseboat was on fire. To convince her that she was mistaken, Mr. Trusty got up and investigated. He found that the place really was in flames and the fire bureau was notified. In the house asleep were J. E. Bell, Mr. Trusty's father-in-law; Mrs. Trusty and three small children. No one was injured and the flames were confined to the roof.

Fear Submarine on Coast

The N. Y. K. liner Inaba Maru, on word from the Canadian government by wireless that a German submarine was operating off the Pacific coast, doused her lights and changed her course, according to K. Mizutani, director of the Yamato company, a steamship company of Osaka, Japan. The Inaba, he says, came within the three-mile limit when she was off the mouth of the Columbia river, and hugged the shore on her way north. She reached Victoria three days after the wireless report of danger was received.

Goes Ten Thousand Miles to Wed

A cablegram has been received at Dawson, Y. T., by Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McCarter, telling of the safe arrival Saturday of their daughter Margaret in England, and of her marriage there Sunday to Lieut. Charles Rodney Thornback. Lieut. Arthur McCarter, of Dawson, a brother of the bride, was present at the wedding. Miss McCarter traveled ten thousand miles over land and sea in going from her sub-Artic home, where she was raised to the heart of the empire to become the wife of her soldier husband. The groom was a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in Dawson until a year ago, when he left for England, where he secured a commission as lieutenant in the Tenth Cheshire regiment.

Irrigation Institute Reelects Benson

E. F. Benson, of Tacoma, who founded the Washington Irrigation Institute, was elected president for the fourth time in the final session of the annual meeting of the organization at North Yakima Wednesday. Resolutions were adopted indorsing a proposal to give non-resident property owners a vote in irrigation district matters, but only in person; but the proposition to give such representation to the extent of one vote for every 40 acres or major fraction, was defeated. A resolution was adopted urging congress to extend for five years the time of repayment of the $20,000,000 government loan to the reclamation fund.

Townsend Church Freed of Debt

St. Paul's Episcopal church is out of debt for the first time in its history. There has been hanging over the parish for 28 years an obligation of $1,250. It was outlawed, of course, but the parishoners felt a moral obligation to pay an honest debt, and the holder made a liberal donation conditional on the payment of the balance. This sum was raised last month at a fair given by the ladies of the church. The bishop's committee says that it is not true, as published in the Post-Intelligencer, that the sheriff served notice that raffling must cease, and that the order of the sheriff was defied.

"Lady Congressman" is Praised

Melvin G. Winstock, of Seattle, who toured six states under the direction of the Republican national committee, assisted in the battle in Montana, which resulted in the election of Jeanette Rankin, who will be the first woman to sit in congress. "Miss Rankin," said Mr. Winstock, "is splendidly educated, gifted with persuasive eluquence and a ready and magnetic political debater. She did not depend very largely upon the regular organization, but had her own forces organized and it was largely independent effort which won a signal victory in a campaign in which the Democrats were so successful. I had the pleasure of speaking with her at several of the big towns in Montana, and her reception was really wonderful. She has had much legislative experience in her work for woman suffrage and goes to congress well equipped.

Youth on Trial for Murder

The trial at Waterville of Walter Holt, 20 years old, son of a prominent wheat rancher living on Badger mountain, the self-confessed slayer of Mrs. Erma J. Smith, an aged homesteader, has begun. The defense will likely be insanity, as young Holt has been considered queer since he was shot in the head when a youngster. Mrs. Smith was found dead in a tent on her homestead on Badger mountain with a bullet hole through her head. Holt was after the money. He secured only a dime.

What Happens to Scholars

The tendency of high school graduates in the state of Washington is to pursue their studies in higher institutions of learning, although many take up teaching as their profession and quite a number marry and raise families, according to statistics which have been gathered by Mrs. Josephine Preston, superintendent of public instruction. Mrs. Preston has completed a survey of the students who graduated from high schools in 1915. Statistics have been compiled showing the present vocation of each of the 3,779 girls and boys who completed their high school course in June of that year. Of these 1,772, are now in higher institutions of learning, while 251 are reported to have school in view for the near future. A total of 182 graduates are taking special courses of study. School teaching has claimed 96 while 56 are recorded as "preparing to teach." Fourteen have entered newspaper work, 48 are stenographers and 15 bookkeepers, while 34 are engaged in "office work." Farming holds special charms for 111 while 374 are "working at home." A total of 51 have married, this number being composed solely of girls, "marriage" being given as their profession.

NIGHT LIFE IN ANGELES

The Mystery of the Meal Ticket

I like progress, and anything progressive appeals strongly to my temperament, if it does not hit my pocket too hard. Therefore, when I heard that there was a Progressive Whist party at the Catholic social hall the other evening, I decided to go. The price of admission, to a man of my financial resources, was perhaps a little embarrassing and for a moment beyond me; but I once worked at the mill and still have friends there; as a result of which I was able to attend the party.

Dressed in the latest and best "Toggery Shop" attire, I presented my card at the door, and after scrutinizing me closely, the boy at the door motioned me to enter. Hastily shaking hands with about 600 good-natured people, I took my seat at one of the tables and the play began.

"You look pale tonight, Francis," chirped an elegantly-gowned girl who was my partner in the first game, as she dealt the cards and passed herself four aces: "what's the matter?"

"Oh nothing," I drawled in an unconcerned manner, as I 'annexed' two of her four aces (remembering a sleight of hand trick I used to do at school). "Just the strain of election, I guess—I board at the mill now you know, and we have the meal ticket system and its positively perplexing to keep track of every meal you eat, and I miss quite a few."

The game finished and the rules governing (to which I had agreed to before I sat down) called on me to remain at the same table while the elegantly-gowned girl "moved up" one. As she rose to leave she smiled "good-bye" to me, carelessly throwing her hand on the table with the cards face upwards and MY two aces in it. But whist is a progressive and complicated game.

My next partner brought me better luck; besides she was short-sighted and came from Arkansas, so my four aces came in handy. We won. Bill Taylor came along to punch the tickets smiling on me good-humoredly—he and I are old friends. Following the example of the rest of the good players, I passed my pasteboard up to him over my shoulder without looking up as I was deep in argument with a man at my side on the rules governing poker.

Bill seemed rather a long time punching my ticket and I rose to go, looking up at him inquiringly as I did; but he smiled and said: "Nothing doing Francis, this is a Progressive Whist party; not a Restaurant," and passed me back my meal ticket which I pocketed hastily, my face coloring with a strong hectic flush.

BILLIE BURKE COMING TO DREAM IN FASCINATING SERIAL FILM

Copyrighted 1916 by George Kleine

MISS BILLIE BURKE

Billie Burke, famous star of the speaking stage and proclaimed by many theatrical critics America's most charming actress, is coming to Port Angeles. Not in the flesh, but on the motion picture screen of the Dream theater will the fascinating Billie greet her friends, for it is in "Gloria's Romance," a wonderful motion picture novel from the pen of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes, that Billie is now at work. She plays the part of Gloria Stafford, daughter of a millionaire banker, and will be afforded unusual opportunities to wear some gowns that are sure to be the talk of the year. These frocks were specially designed for Miss Burke by Henri Bendel, Lucile and Balcom, known the world over for their unique creation, and are certain to be studied most carefully by all who are interested in fashions of the moment.

The supporting cast is headed by Henry Kolker, an actor of sterling merit, who has appeared as the star of a number of famous productions both on Broadway and on tour.

Manager Chenaur, of the Dream theater, is to be congratulated on securing such an attraction for his patrons, as the picture is in tremendous demand among theater managers, and it was only because Manager Chenaur offered a higher price for the film than his competitors that he was able to land the production at this time. The first chapter of "Gloria's Romance" will be shown at the Dream tomorrow.

A Joke on Himself

Although usually a very quiet person, Sir James Barrie has at least one good story to tell against himself. He is exceedingly fond of cricket, but his love for it is somewhat greater than his powess at it. "I always go on smoking till it's my turn to bat," he says. "When I go in I put my pipe down, alight. It's often still alight when I get back to the pavilion."

SUBSTITUTE FOR MILK

LONDON, Nov. 16.—To avoid hardships arising out of the higher price of milk, the Housewives War league has put on the market a so-called "milk improver." It is a white powder, with the correct combination of bone and flesh-forming constituents. A penny's worth, mixed with a pint of water, is added to a pint of cow's milk, and the housewife has a quart of "just-as-good."

MANY HOUSES IN BERLIN ARE EMPTY

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—For every thousand houses, with or without attached stores, in Berlin, no less than 66 stand empty as a result of the war, according to statistics compiled by the statistical bureau of Greater Berlin.

The greater majority of the empty houses are flats with one and two rooms in addition to kitchen and both.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

NORTH PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15.—Following is the report of the North Portland Union Stock Yards Co.:

Cattle: One of the largest runs of the season greeted the trade this week again, after several light Monday runs. Receipts totaled well over 1,600 head. Demand was very good, there was a large supply of prime beef available for killers; there was also a large offering of plain and fair sorts of cattle which found slower outlet. Feeders were in good demand with a large supply, best fleshy feeders brought $5.50 to $6.00, with very good kind around $5.00, common stuff sold down to $3.00. Several loads of prime steers brought $7.10; a large proportion of prime steers sold from $6.70 to $7.00; good steers sold $5.25 to $6.65; best beef steers all sold early in the day while off grade went at slower demand. The supply of butcher stuff was limited. Demand was very good both from packers and butchers, prime cows sold at an advance of 25c, bringing $5.75; while strictly good cows brought $5.25 to $6.60; heifer tops were $5.75, there being only a few head.

Hogs: Prices in the hog market continued its upward trend, the market opened with a keen call from all packers, while there was a good supply of 3,500 head, it did not nearly meet the demand. The top was $9.75 for several loads which was 15c higher than last week's close. The bulk of sales were $9.60 to $9.70, a good 5c higher.

Sheep: Receipts were light, prices ruling strong. There was one load of east of the mountain lambs that brought $8.85 which was 35c higher than anything offered for some time. Valley lambs were unchanged, tops bringing $8.50; there were several loads of prime yearling wethers which brought $7.75 at the close of last week. Mutton ewes are in good demand prices ranging from $5.50 to $6.00.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 16.—It is announced that a number of Holland's colonial merchant princes have formed a syndicate to inquire into the question of what fresh plantation enterprises can be founded in Dutch Guiana with a view to helping raise it from its present weak condition, and applying to this struggling South American colony the expert knowledge of the Dutch East Indies.

STATE-WIDE FRAUDS IN ELECTION IN IDAHO

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 16.—Discovery of 35 irregularly sworn in votes was the first fruit today of the investigation ordered by Attorney General Peterson into suspected state-wide election frauds. The prosecuting attorney of Washington county declares these 35 votes to have ben irregularly sworn in on election day and added that 35 additional votes probably had been irregular.

These 70 were among the 768 sworn in votes on which the commissioners passed on their first day of canvassing in that county.

SAM HUGHES QUITS AS MINISTER OF MILITIA

Resignation From Canadian Cabinet Result of Difference of Opinion Over War Management

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 14.—General Sir Sam Hughes has resigned as Canadian minister of militia and defense. His resignation was requested.

The break between General Hughes and Premier Borden and other members of the Canadian government resulted from differences over questions of policy and details of administration. Since the beginning of the war there have been many such differences on questions of military management, but until recently it is said, they have been adjusted generally by allowing General Hughes to carry out his plans.

Lately the friction has increased and adjustments have grown more difficult. It is understood there has been a growing disposition on the part of the premier and the cabinet to insist upon their own plans as against those of General Hughes.

One of the points over which a difference arose was the supplying of the Canadian forces with the British army rifles. General Hughes it is reported, advocated the use of a Canadian weapon.

It is taken as a striking coincidence that the arrival of the Duke of Devonshire as governor general of Canada should be marked by the resignation of General Hughes, under whose administration as minister of militia Canada has raised 400,000 men for overseas military service.

WEATHER FORECAST

The United States weather bureau predicts as follows for tonight and tomorrow: Fair; fresh near coast slight temperature changes; easterly winds.

To Voters of the City of Port Angeles

This is to announce that I have accepted the nomination for City Treasurer on the People's ticket. Although the convention was held without my knowledge, I appreciate the interest taken in me, and after due consideration and upon the advice of prominent business men and many friends I have decided to enter the race again.

The result of the primary election seems to indicate that the public desires a change of administration and for that reason, I feel that I must give the people a fair chance to express their choice which they did not have in the three cornered contest before the primaries.

I wish to thank those who cast their ballots for me in the primaries and will appreciate their generous support again.

I shall cheerfully abide by the voice of the people, be it for or against.
