ALLENBY'S MEN STILL VICTORIOUS

FEW DETAILS HAVE BEEN REPORTED OF THE SITUATION IN PALESTINE — TURKS ARE SAID TO BE VIRTUALLY ISOLATED ON RIVER JORDAN AND IN DANGER OF CAPTURE.

(By Associated Press)

Few details of the situation in Palestine, as it has developed in the last couple of days have been reported. Brief official statements tell of the further advance of General Allenby's victorious troops. It appears, however, that the Turkish force which succeeded in reaching the eastern bank of the Jordan are virtually isolated and in imminent danger of capture.

CHANGE IN DELIVERY NO REFLECTION ON CARRIERS

There has been so much uncertainty in the delivery of the Herald to its many customers, on one route and another, that it has been decided to place the whole of the routes in charge of a responsible man who will take charge of the whole delivery. Subscribers of the paper who are not getting service are asked to phone in to the office their name and address directly they miss one issue. The Herald is paying for the new service and it desires the cooperation of all its customers to make the service both efficient and valuable.

In making this change the Herald desires to state that no reflection is cast upon the boy carriers. Many of the customers live in outlying districts and it has been hard for the boys to deliver. Many have made no provision for the safe delivery of the paper in wet and boisterous weather. The boys have not delivered good but have endeavored to make good collections, not realizing that customers are not willing to pay for what they do not get. There have been complaints on both sides—the customers and the delivery boys. But the Herald desires to live up to the business maximum of "The customer is always right" and makes the change accordingly.

FOCH SUMS UP THE GREAT ALLIED UNITS

GENERAL FOCH IN AN INTERVIEW SUMMARIZES THE FIGHTING ARMIES IN THE FIELD AND PRAISES AMERICANS FOR GALLANTRY IN ACTION.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Marshal Foch, commander in chief on the western front who dislikes interviews and rarely grants one, received a few newspaper men at his headquarters Tuesday. Among those was the correspondent of the Telegraph who thus records the marshal's brief utterances.

British Army.

"The British army is better than ever. It fights better than ever. All of its losses have been made good, and it is a more splendid army than it has been before."

American Army.

The Americans are splendid and are wonderfully gallant in the field. Ten thousand Americans arrive in France every day."

French Army.

The French army in the same good old army that it was in 1914. No more is to be said."

In discussing the general situation the marshal said: "The enemy is shaken up and down, but is still holding out. You must not think that we shall get to the Rhine immediately. We have passed over the crest and are now going down hill. If we gather momentum as we go like a rolling ball, so much the better."

AMERICANS ASKED TO SUBSCRIBE TO GREATEST LOAN

FINAL DETAILS OF THE BIGGEST LOAN IN ALL HISTORY ARE MADE PUBLIC — THE BONDS WILL MATURE IN TWENTY YEARS AND BEAR 4 1-4 PER CENT INTEREST.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The American people will be asked to subscribe in the three weeks beginning next Saturday the greatest loan in all history.

The treasury department announced tonight that the amount of this, the fourth Libery loan, will be $6,000,000,000. The bonds will bear 4 1-4 per cent interest and will mature in twenty years, with the government reserving the right to pay them in fifteen years if it elects.

In making public these final details of the loan, the treasury also gave out the quotas each federal reserve district is expected to subscribe and from which will be figured the share of each state, county, city and hamlet. Apportionments for states and smaller sub-divisions will be worked out by district organizations and announced soon.

In assigning quotas, the treasury took into consideration unusual conditions either of prosperity or of business hardships, as well as the banking resources of each district.

New York, with its big financial interests and corporations headquarters is asked to raise $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent of the total.

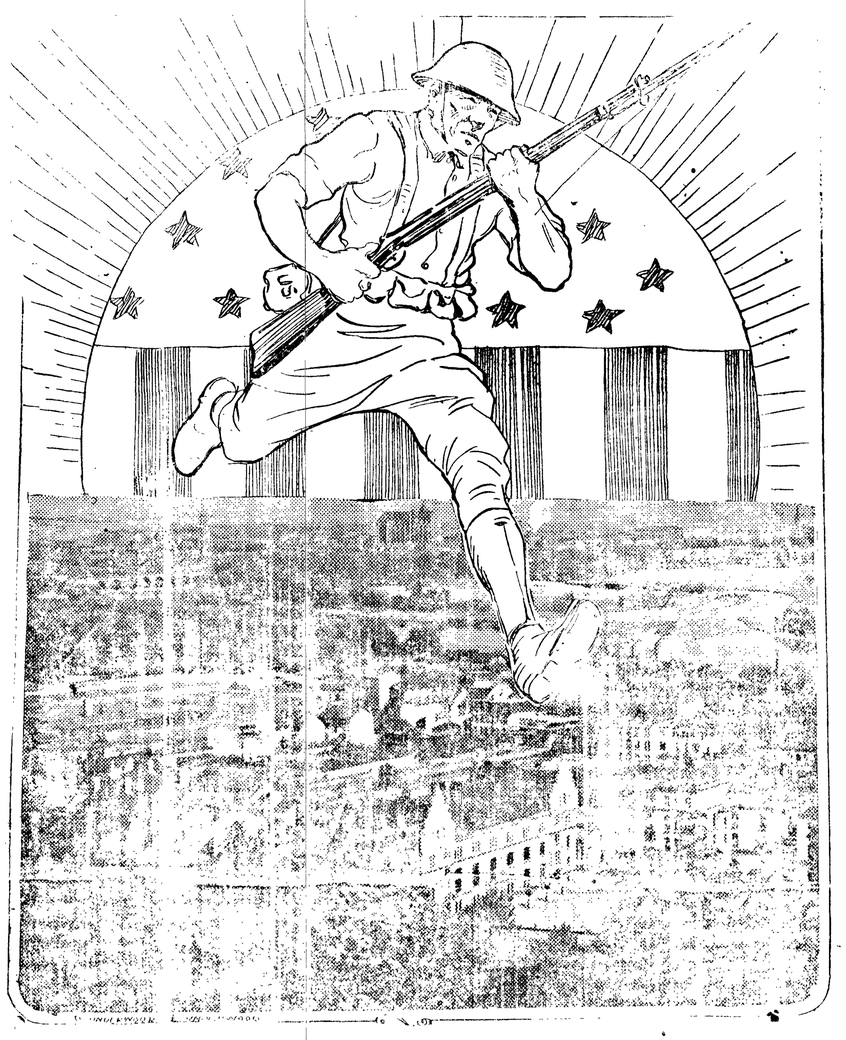
(LAFAYETTE, WE ARE HERE)



THAT is what General Pershing said at the grave of Lafayette, and that is what a Yank army says today at the gates of Metz, where Lafayette heard the call that brought him to America to help our forefathers achieve their independence. Marie Spiridonova Leads Her People Against The Bolsheviki

RUSSIA'S JOAN OF ARC

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 25.—Will a woman be the savior of Russia,

It begins to look as if a girl, young and beautiful, will lead the Russian people out of the darkness of Bolshevism into the light of real democracy.

She is Marie Spiridonova, already known as "Russia's Joan of Arc." Her name means "Mary of the New Spirit," and she is endeavoring to live up to it by injecting a new spirit into her people. She is young and frail—just past 30—but already she has a history as a revolutionist. She is generally credited now with being the leader of the new "terrorist" party which is fighting the Bolsheviki tooth and nail, and which is said to have engineered the death of the German tyrants in Russia, Count Mirbach and General von Eichorn.

It would not surprise Russian observers in Stockholm to hear that Mlle. Spiridonova and her followers were accused of complicity in the attempt to kill Premier Lenin made by Dora Kaplan. Mlle. Spiridonova has been reported killed since the assassination of Mirbach, but the report is not given credence here.

Once Supported Bolsheviki.

Mlle. Spirdonova was in a Siberian prison when the March revolution of 1917 overthrew the czar. Since her release she has been the leader of the left wing of the revolutionary Socialist party. Until the Bolsheviki signed the treacherous peace treaty at Brest Litovsk she supported them, but since that time she has conducted a bitter campaign against them which seems to be on the eve of fruition.

Mlle. Spiridonova was only 19 when she shot and killed General Lupjenovsky, governor of Tambov, who had as dark a record as any Russian tyrant ever boasted. His favorite diversion was to invite Cossacks to all sorts of outrages against the peasants, especially the vomen.

Mlle. Spiridonova was a student at Tambov. She was not poor and she was not suffering, but she could not bear the miery about her. So she decided to take the life of the oppressor of her people with her own hands. She shot him through the heart one day at a ralway station.

Brtally Mistreated.

The Cosacks seized her, stripped her nude, bat her brutally and threw her into a old cell. When she refused to tell thenames of her accomplices, the soldiers pulled out bunches of her hair and brned her body all over with their cigaettes. For two nights she was passe around among the soldiers.

Finallyshe was sentenced to death, but the sntence was changed to life imprisonment and she was sent to Siberia. One of her friends expected ever to ee her again. For 11 years she live through the torture of Siberian risons, keeping her mind sane by studng languages, chiefly English and Frich.

Her ame is sacred to millions of Russias, even among those who have no part in the Terrorist movement.

Whe, after undergoing the torture in wtern Russia, she was removed to Siria, her progress to and through and bond Moscow was in the nature of a tumphal procession. On a line of thsands of miles, crowds gathered trailway stations or crossways, and o official censorship could keep the effect of her itinerary or suppress the thic acclaim.

T people called her "Marusja"—a petame for Mary. To this day they tellow, in 1906, when a girl in her teo, she was in Siberia with other priners, she was offered her liberty, burefused it, unless her fellow-prisoers were also released.

BULGERS TRY TO STAND ON RIVER BANK

BULGARIANS STILL BEING HARD PRESSED BY THE SERBIANS OFFER STIFF RESISTANCE ALONG THE RIVER BANK — ALLIED FORCES ARE MARCHING NORTHWARD FROM PRILEP.

(By Associated Press)

Apparently the allies in Macedonia have completed the splitting apart of the German and Bulgarian forces east and west of the Vardar. The Serbians are pressing rapidly along the River Celes which the enemy apparently will not be able to hold and other allied forces are marching northward in that direction from Prilep.

Standing on the heights along the Bulgarian frontier east of the Vardar, the Bulgarians are offering stiff resistance to allied attempts to advance.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 25.—The Swedish gunboat "Geinhild" has been sunk by striking a German mine in the Skagerrak with the loss of the chief officer and eighteen men.

Persistent rumors are current that another Swedish gunboat struck a mine a few days ago and that the greater part of the crew were killed.

SPANISH GRIPPE HAS TAKEN HEAVY TOLE OF LIFE

EPIDEMIC OF INFLUENZA AND PNEUMONIA IS INCREASING — BOSTON VERY MUCH SCOURGED WITH THE COMPLAINT—STEPS BEING TAKEN TO COMBAT THE EVIL.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The epidemic of Spanish influenza continues to rage in Boston. Four hundred thirty-seven deaths from influenza and 155 from pneumonia have been reported in the last ten days. During the last twenty-four hours 80 deaths from influenza and pneumonia have been reported among the soldiers stationed at Camp Devens.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The seriousness of the epidemic of influenza in this state was emphasized in a proclamation from the governor's office tonight, suggesting various measures for meeting the situation. The proclamation says in part:

"It is earnestly requested that everyone who has had medical or nursing experience, or who can assist in any way, communicate with the commissioner of health at the state house, so that he will have information to enable him to mobilize the entire medical and nursing resources of the commonwealth.

"I would suggest that the fuel administration throughout the commonwealth consider revising the existing orders pertaining to the utilization of coal, so that the public health may be protected."

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Nearly 3,000 new cases of Spanish influenza in army camps had been reported to the office of the surgeon general of the army today, increasing the total number of cases to nearly 23,000. Deaths reported were 112, due chiefly to pneumonia which followed influenza. The total of pneumonia cases was 390 for all camps.

The total number of cases at Camp Devens is now placed at 10,789. Experts have been sent to Camp Devens to study conditions there in an effort to combat the disease.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Thirty-seven deaths and more than 200 new cases of Spanish influenza and pneumonia were reported today in this city and nearby army camps. All the deaths were those of soldiers and 110 of the new cases developed among military or naval men.

At Camp Dix 36 men died today, bringing the number of deaths to 96. One death and 43 new cases were reported at Camp Mills.

In this city 59 sailors, eight marines and 83 civilians were taken to hospitals suffering from influenza.

NO APPRECIABLE BREAK-DOWN IN MORALE

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 25. (By Associated Press). — Information obtained from thousands of prisoners taken by Americans in recent operations does not indicate and appreciable breakdown of German marole, according to examining officers. It is true that individuals occasionally say they are glad they are captives, tired of fighting, hungry and badly treated, but officers point out that at the same time is possibly true of allied prisoners taken after several days' of bombardment.

From a great mass of prisoners information and observation from other sources military authorities say they find the enemy well fed and well clothed. The German soldiers' clothing is of good quality and is plentiful and their rations are generous and nutritious. German arms are always well kept and there is a vast supply.

ST. QUENTIN GRADUALLY ENCIRCLED

ENCIRCLING OF ST. QUENTIN GOES ON — FRENCH AND BRITISH MAKE GAINS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE CITY.

(By Associated Press)

In the encircling of St. Quentin and in driving the Germans and Bulgarians northward in Macedania the allied armies are making further progress against increased enemy resistance.

Around St. Quentin.

Northeast of St. Quentin the British and French made further gains and are pushing forward in the direction of the northwestern suburbs. Heavy fighting is taking place in the region of Gricourt and Felency. The British are advancing despite counter attacks by the Germans who were repulsed with severe losses.

French Sector.

On the French sector to the south only the artillery has been active. Between the Ailette and the Aisne the French have repulsed German attacks in the important territory about Moisy farm at the western end of the Chemin des Dames.

Aerial and artillery activities ha increased markedly on the Americ sector southwest of Metz, but no fantry engagement has resulted. I the American and German airmen gunners are busy, the artillery p special attention to crossroads troop formations within range.

FARMERS AND THE DRAFT.

Under the rules of the war department for executing the new draft law, special provision is made for informing the district boards in regard to farm labor requirements in order that necessary food production may be maintained.

In the new draft, the district boards are charged with the duty of putting into deferred classes those persons who are more likely to further the war by remaining in civilian occupations than by entering the army. Accordingly, three advisers are to be selected for each district board—one of agriculture, one for labor, and one for other occupations. The agricultural adviser will be appointed by the board upon the recommendation of the secretary of agriculture. The advisers are not members of the board but may, when invited, attend its meetings.

The duties of the agricultural adviser will be to furnish to the board facts relative to farm labor requirements, not only of his own district, but of the whole country. He is expected to be the repository of all facts having relation to the deferment of agricultural workers, whether these be necessary farm laborers, managers or operators. He will have to advise the district boards as to a shortage or surplus of necessary farm workers for any given district, as well as for the entire nation and make it possible to have necessary workers transferred from districts in which they may not be necessary to other districts in which they are sorely needed.

The adviser may also concern himself with individual cases that come before the district board. He will have the right, under certain conditions, to examine the questionnaires and other records in the files of the local board for the purpose of ascertaining whether persons entitled to deferred classification have actually claimed it. In case he finds the names of such registrants, he may file for them a claim for deferred classification with the district board, which, in turn, may require the local board to certify the questionnaire and record of any such registrants for consideration. Reasonable time will be given for the purpose of obtaining information and supplying the affidavits required. If a local board determines to consider a case for deferred classification because a registrant is engaged in a necessary occupation, notwithstanding no claim for deferred classification on that ground has been made, it shall endorse the recommendation on the questionnaire of the registrant and forward it to the district board having jurisdiction. The district board will thereupon consider the case and proceed to classify the registrant, notwithstanding the fact that no claim for deferred classification by or in respect of the registrant has been made.

Another duty with which the adviser is charged is to confer with employers of necessary farm workers, and to instruct them as to their right under the regulations to file a claim for deferred classification in respect of any registrant who has failed or refused to file a claim for deferred classification in his own behalf. This, in the opinion of the war department, is a very important matter. The apparent injustice of placing many registrants in Class I is often due to the fact that employers have failed to make claims for deferred classification on behalf of necessary workers. It is to avoid a repetition of this trouble that farmers should see all of their necessary employes, whether sons or other laborers, of draft age have made for them just claims for deferred classification.

One important explanation is made in the new selective service regulations in connection with the expression "skilled farm laborer." The questionnaire provides deferred classification for the "necessary skilled farm laborer in necessary agricultural enterprise." The new regulations provide that in Class II shall be placed any registrant found to be engaged in a "necessary" agricultural enterprise, and found to be necessary to such enterprise in the capacity of a farm laborer—"especially fitted for the work in which he is engaged." This quoted phrase constitutes an explanation of what is meant by "skilled" as applied to farm labor. The expression will make easier the determination of the status of many registrants.

The purpose in the appointing of advisers is to place men where they can do most to help win the war. These advisers will be able to help greatly the district boards to keep the necessary workers in agriculture. These workers, whatever may be their inclination to enter military service, should stand ready to serve in the capacity in which they can contribute most toward a speedy ending of the war. In order that this may be done a frank statement should, in each case, be made to the boards. It is believed that it will frequently require as much courage on the part of many men to remain in their civilian occupations as to waise deferment.

This effort to keep men in industry, rather than to send them to the camps and the trenches, should not be abused so as to permit the slacker to escape military duty. The necessities for raising an army are paramount. Every man that can be spared will be needed and needed badly to bring the enemy to his senses. The adviser should be assisted in every possible way by every leitimate agricultural interest to find the men that can be spared for military duty, but also to keep those that are essenial o the maintenance of a proper food supply.

CONFESSIONS OF A WAR BRIDE

Bob Proves Slow.

Every morning I decide that I will not go down to the pines at the gate to wait for the postman—and every morning I go. For it's time a letter came from Bob. I get almost superstitious about waiting for one so anxiously, as if by merely watching for it, I could delay it. Jim says an occassional hitch in the mail from France is inevitable. He advised:

"Stick it out like a sport, Sissy. [illegible]

Bob may be all right—but I am NOT and I never will be until Bob writes me how he rejoices because he is to be a father, and until he promises never again to let any trouble come between us. Only thus can we "make up" completely for our miserable quarrel about nothing.

But——what if Bob should never send that message to me?

Then——I shall be desperate and desolate. Then I could almost—But no—not that. I couldn't do what Ena Rose did.

There's something about me that would probably insist on being "good" in spite of something else in me which revolts when I remember that just because I am a female and a potential mother, I haven't the right to control my own future. Nature has mapped it out for me for months to come.

Still if Bob values his own queer moody temper more than his love for me and our child-to-be—then I may again have to remind myself that "I will NEVER do what Ena Rose did."

I met Ena leaving the grocery store late this afternoon. I had a load of supplies in the auto, but—

Well, Ena was going home early. She looked like a rag—white and limp.—so I took her home in the car.

Henry was certainly a slacker all right. When Ena discovered that he hadmarried her only to keep himself out of the draft, she insisted on sticking to her job. She wouldn't make a dependency claim when he was called—but now it turns out that she ought to have done so.

She whispered her story to me: The stork was scheduled to arrive at her home about the time he is due at the Lorimer's. But Ena decided that she didn't want the tie of a child between herself and Henry. Also she is afraid.

Henry was certainly a slacker all right—he may be killed—and she doesn't love him anyway, ond she can't bear the thought of his being the father of her child. What is she to do?

I was awfully sorry. Still I can see what Ena's temptation was. Who could possibly want to be married to Henry?

I get so impatient of all men, some times. When I have cared so much, why can't Bob hurry up and tell me that he cares a little?

HARD WATER HURTS THE KIDNEYS

Kidney troubles, as a rule, are common in sections where the drinking water is hard or alkaline. The filtering of this mineral-laden water throws an added burden on the kidneys and kidney weakness results. Backache, lameness, or some slight bladder weakness may be the first warning, but it shouldn't be neglected. If not treated promptly, it may lead to orturing gravel, dropsy or fatal Brigit's disease. When hard water has a tendency to weaken the kidneys, agood kidney remedy should be used occasionally. Read the following proof of their worth:

Mrs. Wm. Stedmand, 622 S. Prospect St., Tacoma, Wash., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have done me so much good I can't help but recommend them. When I was living in Nevada my kidneys were in bad shape. The trouble was caused by drinking the alkali water in that part of the country. My back ached all the time and I was bothered by the way my kidneys acted. My sight was blurred sometimes, too, by the specks floating before my eyes, and dizzy spells often came over me. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills removed the trouble and I have had no kidney complaint since."

HOOVER SPEAKS FOR THE BELGIAN RELIEF

Cablegram from Mr. Hoover.

Henry P. Davison,
Chairman Red Cross War Council,
Washington, D. C.

The ten million imprisoned people in occupied Belgium and France are facing shame, suffering, disease and some of them death for lack of clothing this winter. They must be helped. I hope that the Red Cross will undertake a renewed campaign to obtain this clothing in America. It can come only from us. Your first campaign yielded magnificent results, bringing in fully 5000 tons of clothing in good condition. But much more is needed if these war-ravaged people are to get through the winter in decency and safety. In the face of brutal coercion and spiritual suffering they remain splendidly courageuos. This courage challenges our charity. Let us match the courage of Belgium by the generosity of America.

HERBERT HOOVER.

Mr. Davison's Reply.

My dear Mr. Hoover:

Your cablegram regarding the collection of used and surplus clothing for 10,000,000 imprisoned people in occupied Belgium and France is a call to the Red Cross to assist again in the relief of this stricken population. We have set aside the week of September 23-30 for a special campaign for this purpose. As the need is greater than ever, it is certain that the people of the country will respond even more generously than before. Your appeal has been sent to our chapters through our divisional organization, and our workers, we feel sure, will be glad to know that they can again be of service in this way.

Cordially yours,
Sgd. H. P. DAVISON,
Chairman Red Cross War Council.

To the Chairman of the Chapter:

Most of the Chapters in this division have already returned cards stating that organization is perfected for the Chapter's part in collecting 5000 tons of used and surplus clothing for the Belgians. The people of Belgium depend upon the success of this effort to protect them from shame, suffering and death this winter.

Rummage sales and salvage have reduced the amount of used clothing available all over the nation. Still our surplus is ample if we find it all.

Herbert Hoover's appeal is the most heart-touching statement that has appeared for many months on behalf of any phase of war relief. If this appeal reaches every home in your Chapter, you need have no fear as to the response.

Your Chapter has a quota but every available garment can be used. Send all that can be collected.

We know a man of moderate means who gave his best overcoat to this collection after reading Hoover's appeal and is having an old one repaired for his own use this winter. This is the spirit in which this call must be met. The Belgians are entitled not only to what surplus clothing we can freely spare, but to whatever we have that we do not actually need.

The success of this collection is a matter of life or death for people who have already borne all the indignities and tortures of war at the hands of a merciless enemy who still oppress him.

Sincerely yours,
EARL KILPATRICK,
Director Dept. of Development.

The store room west of the Citizens Bank will be open every day this week with some one in charge to receive your bundles, or they will call for them at your home if notified.

THOMAS HAD TO GIVE UP HIS HOME

Spent All He Had In Search For Health—Tanlac Brings Relief.

"I spent everything I had during my fifteen years of sickness, and never found anything to help me as much as Tanlac has in the past three weeks," declared Elmer E. Thomas, a well known employe of the Oregon Ship Lumber Mills, living at 47 East 9th St., Portland, recently.

"If I should tell all the trouble I have had from bad health," he continued, "it would take hours to write it down. My first illness was a very stubborn spell of typhoid fever, which left my stomach in such a bad fix that I could hardly digest anything. Most of the time my food would just lay in my stomach like rocks and ferment, and the gas from it would press on my heart, and cause it to beat like a trip hammer. One time I was operated on for appendicitis, and I also suffered from intestinal trouble, and disordered kidneys. I also had rheumatism, which seemed to affect my whole body. My joints and muscles especially were swollen and extremely painful. I often had headaches, which were so bad at times I could hardly see. I was unable to work so long, that I had to give up my home, and spend everything I had for medicines and other expenses.

"I tell you I must have a cast iron constitution or I would have been dead long ago, and when I look back now on what I went through, I don't see how I stood it at all. But Tanlac has put me back on my feet, and has astonished me as well as all who knew my awful condition. Actually I don't have an ache or pain, and you may know I feel like a brand new man. My appetite is so big I can hardly get enough to eat, and everything seems to agree with me perfectly. Before I began on Tanlac, I was almost a nervous wreck, and would lay awake for three or four nights at a time without sleeping a wink, but now I sleep like a log. My kidneys and bladder don't bother me any more and every sign of the rheumatism is gone. By the aid of Tanlac tablets I have been relieved almost entirely from constipation and I never have a headache. My friends who have watched me for the past few years, and knew of my condition are now asking me what I have been taking or doin to make such a big change. I am now putting in full time at the lumber mills and am steadily improving all the time. I gladly recommend Tanlac to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Port Angeles by Owl Drug Store, in Dungeness by Wm. A. Monson, in Sequim by F. D. Babcock, in Blyn by W. B. Main and in Mora by W. F. Taylor.

"THE ETERNAL TEMPTRESS" AT THE LINCOLN

The choice of a suitable screen vehicle for Lina Cavalieri, the noted opera singer, who makes her cinema debut in this city at the Lincoln theater on Thursday and Friday was a long and difficult one. After thousands of manuscripts had been rejected, however, "The Eternal Temptress," by Mme. Fred de Gresac, was decided upon. This is a story of a beautiful woman of modern Venice and is not only a thrilling, griping description of affairs in Italy at the outbreak of the present war, but casts a stron light on the methods used by the wily Prussian diplomats in gaining their purposes. As Cordelia Sanzio, Cavalieri becomes a tool in their hands until she comes into her better self through her love for Harry Althrop, a young American, and saves his life as well as many thousands of Italy's brave soldiers.

The Illustrations Show (B) a Suggested Plan of Arrangement for a Vegetable Storage Room in the Corner of a Basement; (A) Construction of an Air Duct for Ventilation; and (C) Cross Section of a Storage Pit Containing Irish Potatoes.

USE HOME FACILITIES FOR VEGETABLE STORAGE

Many Cellars Are Suitable, But Care Must Be Given to Amount of Light and Heat—Outdoor Cellars Are Especially Desirable On Farms—Must Keep Out Frost and Moisture.

In the fall the wise home gardener, whether in city or country, plans and works for his garden next year, and stores the surplus products of his summer work. He plows hard or stiff clay soils, as the action of the frost during the winter will break the soil into fine particles and render it suitable for planting. He clears away the weeds and rubbish and gets ready for an early start in the spring. Plowed ground dried out more quickly than unplowed and by plowing in the fall it is possible to get such crops as peas, beets and early potatoes planted much earlier than otherwise would be the case.

If the gardener has planned his crop so that fall finds him with a large surplus of storable vegetables, much of his attention will be given to placing them away, safe from moisture and heat, so that through the winter they will help to reduce grocery bills and vary the diet without regard to market conditions or winter temperature.

Home storage of vegetables, important at all times, is especially valuable if canning or drying containers are high in price. Furthermore, crops of suitable sorts that mature at a season when they can be preserved by storing should be kept in their natural condition instead of being canned or dried.

Beets, late cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, parsnips, potatoes, sweet potatoes salsify and turnips may be stored in their natural condition. Beans of various kinds including the limas, may be stored dry. Successful storage is not at all difficult. In fact, good facilities already exist in many homes, it being necessary only to make use of the cellar, the attic, a large closet, or other parts of the dwelling, depending upon the character of the product to be stored.

Storing in House Cellars.

A cool, well-ventilated cellar offers good conditions for vegetable storage, but many cellars are not well suited because of poor insulation or lack of ventilation. Cellars containing furnaces are usually too warm or too dry for storage of root crops. Often it is possible, however, to partition off a room, either in one corner or at one end of the cellar, where the temperature may be controlled by means of outside windows. At least one window is necessary, and two or more are desirable for light and ventilation.

Natural earth makes a better floor than concrete or brick, as a certain amount of moisture is desirable. Walls of the storage room should be parallel to the walls of the cellar. Ventilation may be secured by opening windows, but an air duct, made of wood, metal or terra cotta, and permitting cool air to enter near the floor level, is desirable. A piece of board with a hole the size of the air pipe is fitted in the window in place of one of the panes of glass. Another pane of glass may be removed from the sash and a small hinged door fitted in its place, which when open allows the heated air to escape. In cold weather both the hinged door and the damper in the air pipe must be closed. The windows in the storage room should be darkened in order to protect the vegetables from too much light.

Barrels, crates, boxes or bins may be used as containers for the various vegetables, but movable containers are preferable to built-in bins, as it is possible to remove them for cleaning.

Using Outside Cellars.

Outdoor storage cellars or caves are particularly good for the storage of many vegetables. They are especially desirable on the farm, as they afford convenient and inexpensive storage facilities for surplus vegetables that otherwise might be lost. They possess all the advantages of the basement storage room and are superior in many respects. It is possible to keep the cellar cool and to reduce temperature quickly by opening the door during the night, and closing it in the morning before the air becomes warm.

As the root cellar must be proof against frost and moisture, its types and construction vary with the geographical location. In the southern portion of this country the structure usually is entirely above ground and protected by only a few inches of sod and straw or leaves. In northern sections outdoor cellars are made almost entirely below ground and are covered with a foot or two of earth.

Full directions for the construction of storage rooms and cellars and for the storage of vegetables are contained in Farmers' Bulletin 879, "Home Storage of Vegetables," which will be sent free on request to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

HOME STORAGE IS ECONOMICAL

The storing of late vegetables is an economy for those who grow them in sufficient quantity for the needs of the family.

To care for the surplus vegetables nothing more, in many cases, is required than the use of facilities existing in or near the home.

Often the late vegetables from a small garden can be stored with no expense.

When considerable quantities of vegetables are grown it is frequently advisable to construct a permanent storage room in the basement of the dwelling or under an outbuilding or to build an outdoor cellar of wood or masonry.

If permanent facilities are not available late vegetables can be kept in outdoor pits or banks, requiring no cash outlay except for labor.

Ambition

TIRED MEN and WOMEN who "feel old before their time," who are languid, have no energy and lack ambition—these are often sufferers from kidney trouble.

Weak, overworked or diseased kidneys are indicated by ambitionless, always tired, nervous condition, by sallowness of skin and puffiness under eyes, backache, stiff joints, sore muscles, or rheumatic pains.

Foley Kidney Pills

N. R. Reese, Dublin, Ga., writes: "I want to say I am better. Before I started to take Foley Kidney Pills I could not turn over in the bed I had such severe pain in my back and hips. I was so stiff I could not bend over and I had to get up at night five to six times. By taking Foley Kidney Pills I am up and able to go to work."

The Weather

The United States weather bureau predicts for tonight and tomorrow: Fair, light northerly winds.

The West Side W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Banderob on Lincoln Heights tomorrow afternoon. This being the last meeting before the convention next week all members are requested to be present.

George Venables Smith who has been sick with bronchitis for the last two weeks was downtown today, although he says there is work enough for three men for the next week or two on his home place.

H. A. Falk, who has been up near Petersburg, Alaska, on the new canning venture in which he has an interest, returned last night on the ten o'clock train. He reports very favorably on the new outfit. A very good season for salmon was experienced, and a great deal of canning done. The rest of the party will remain over the clamming season; if there is a good market for these little creatures, a good amount of canning will be done. The salmon season is slackening up and Mr. Falk took the opportunity to return to his home in Port Angeles. He has had a fine diet of all kinds of fish while he has been away and has had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Albert D. Hulse, a well-known Port Angeles boy has written to his mother telling her he was scheduled to make his first flight at Sam Houston, El Paso, Texas, on the 21st but had been deferred four days. Mrs. Hulse is anxiously waiting for a report of the flight. Albert is with the division under orders for Siberia and expects to leave very soon. The time for preparation is so short that he writes his mother the boys fear the necessary warm sweaters and clothing will not arrive in time for their needs. He proudly declares he will shed every drop of blood in his body for his country if necessary in order to beat the Hun. He has composed and sent the following poem prettily mounted on leather as a souvenir to his mother:

In Life's Garden

Out in Life's garden where sympathy grew,
God planted a soul, 'twas the soul o' you.
Life's wonderful garden, Love, seeking went through
Till he found a heart, 'twas the heart o' you.
I have sought through Life's garden of roses and rue
And I find one sweet blossom all jewelled with dew.
Love, Sympathy, Faith, all unchanging and true—
Are the hearts of my flower, dear mother, 'tis you.

Dr. John R. Voris and Dr. William Chandler Covert are en route from Seattle today for Port Angeles where they will make headquarters at the Merchants Hotel. They are coming overland and expect to spend a week on the Peninsula visiting the various camps "along the line." They will speak at the big opening meeting of the Liberty Loan drive scheduled for next Saturday evening on Laurel street in front of the Y. M. C. A. headquarters. Dr. Voris is head of the entire religious work of the Y. M. C. A. in the Northwest, while Dr. Chandler is pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in Chicago. The addresses of both these gentlemen will be excellently worth while and many persons are undoubtedly looking forward to the opportunity of hearing them speak.
