ODELL SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR BRUTAL CRIME

(By Associated Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 24.—A supreme court jury last night brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree against James D. Odell, indicted with his wife, Pearl Beaver Odell, for the murder of Edward J. Kneip on the night of January 7. Odell was sentenced to die in the week of June 13. The crime of which Odell and his bride of a month were accused and to which police and county officials say they confessed was described by county officials as most brutal.

Young Kniep, whom Mrs. Odell accused of causing her downfall, was taken in a taxicab from the factory where he worked by Odell, posing as a police officer, and after they had been joined by Mrs. Odell, the three were driven to a lonely spot south of the city. There in the bend of the old Genesee Valley canal, Kniep, according to Odell's confession, and the story told on the stand, was handcuffed to a tree. Mrs. Odell, according to the confession, then beat him upon the head with a heavy iron file until he collapsed. His body was then dragged to a culvert nearby, stripped of clothing and left.

Later the Odells returned to the spot, according to their story, Kniep recovered and attacked Odell, With the aid of his wife, according to Odell's story, Kneip was beaten off and felled with a club.

Mrs. Odell will be tried May 26.

AFFINITIES AT BOTTOM OF MANY DIVORCE SUITS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 24. — More than fifty per cent of the divorces granted in this country are based on "trumped up charges" resulting from the fascination of the husband and wife for some one else, Francis Minor Moody of Chicago, executive secretary of the international committee on marriage and divorce, declared today before the senate judiciary committee.

Appearing in support of the joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment for uniform federal marriage and divorce laws, Mr. Moody charged that the newspapers refused to print articles dealing with the seriousness of the divorce situation because many of the men connected with the newspapers "are of that kind."

The witness declared that the divorce evil "was a worse plague than the saloon ever was" and that the remedy was in federal legislation. He told the committee that in 1916 the divorce rate in the United States was 136 per 100,000 exceeding that of Japan where, he said, the divorce situation always had been recognized as serious.

RUSSIA'S ROYAL DEAD BURIED WITH MUCH SECRECY

(By Associated Press)

PEKIN, April 24.—Seven bodies, four of them said to be members of the Russian imperial family, arrived in Pekin from Harbin yesterday and were buried in the Russian cemetery outside the city walls. The whole proceeding was surrounded with the greatest secrecy, even the Russian legation receiving scant information.

The bodies were declared to be those of Grand Duke Serge Michaelovitch, Prince Ivan, husband of Princess Helene, daughter of King Peter of Serbia, Prince Igor, brother of Prince Ivan and Grand Duchess Elizabeth, a sister of the late empress, and three servants, who shared the fate of three members of the royal family, when, it is alleged, they were killed and their bodies thrown down into a coal mine near Perm. The discovery of their whereabouts was said to have been made by a commission appointed by Admiral Kolchak last summer.

Robert Montgomery, Puyallup editor, probably will be temporary chairman of the convention.

TURK TREATY CONDEMNED BY SIG. NITTI

(By Associated Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 24.—Izzet Pasha, former Turkish grand vizier, was placed under arrest by entente authorities here today, General Alirza Pasha and several other prominent Turks were also apprehended.

Izzet Pasha was one of the Turkish delegates named to go to Paris to receive the terms of peace from the Allies.

All Mohammedans are called upon to unite in a movement to "free the sultan from allied influence" in a proclamation issued by Col. Jafar Tayar, commandant at Adrianople, on April 15.

The attitude of Col, Tayar toward the sultan is evidently different from that of Mustapha Kamal, who has disclaimed any allegiance to Constantinople.

SAN REMO, April 24.—"You will have a war in Asia Minor, and Italy will not send a single soldier nor pay a single life," said Signor Nitti, Italian premier, in an interview today following a critical analysis by him of the Turkish peace treaty.

"You have taken from the Turks their sacred city of Adrianople," said Signor Mitti. "You have placed their capital city under foreign control; you have taken away from them every port and larger part of their territory. And the five Turkish delegates whom you will select will sign a treaty which will not have the sanction of the Turkish people or the Turkish parliament."

The Turkish treaty has been almost finished by the council. Premier Nitti, gave his opinion of the treaty in the remarks he made to the council saying: "I am constrained to tell you that this treaty to my mind, is a more imperfect production than anything the peace conference has done."

In its discussions over the relations with Russia, it is understood that the council will not treat the subject as an allied question. It has already been decided that as the allies were not at war with Russia each ally is free to have such intercourse or non intercourse as it may deem fit.

"When last June we urged the men to return to work," said one official," the men replied that they were starving on the job, and that they might as well starve idle as working.

Under the agreement the enlisted men of the navy will get an average increase of 39 per cent, and the army men 20 per cent. Senator Wadsworth explained that this would bring the compensation in the two arms of the service to about the same thing in dollars, on account of the differences in allowances.

HOOVER AS A REPUBLICAN.

In his telegram to Chandler M. Wood of Boston, Mr. Hoover has definitely announced that he would not accept the Democratic nomination for President. No longer "an independent progressive," Mr. Hoover wishes to be considered as a Republican and only as a Republican.

Evedintly his political opinions have undergone a process of crystallization since his statement six weeks ago that "before I can answer whether I am a Democrat or a Republican I shall have to know each party stands on those issues"—to say nothing of his previous statement that "until it more definitely appears what the party managers stand for, I must exercise a prerogative of American citizenship and decilen to pledge my vote blindfold."

What clarification of issues has taken place which enables Mr. Hoover to make his choice of parties at this time is not apparent, but he has evidently determined, for reasons satisfactory to himself, to make his fight wholly within the Republican party, and such a choice is likewise the prerogative of American citizenship.

Mr. Gerard, who advocated Mr. Hoover's nomination at the Jackson Day dinner in Washington, turned against him at the Jefferson Day dinner of the National Democratic Club and said:

"But a Herbert Hoover, a partisan, seeking only the Republican nomination, standing hat in hand before the door of the house where the forces of reaction are in council, is quite another Hoover. It is a Mahomet going a suppliant to the mountain—not the mountain offering the nomination to a great independent."

Whether Mr. Hoover is standing hat in hand before the forces of reaction remains to be proved. We shall believe it only when we have seen it with our own eyes. At the same time every friend of Mr. Hoover must concede that he has been maneuvered into a much weaker position than that which he formerly occupied.

The leaders of the Republican Old Guard are no longer afraid of him as a Democratic Presidential possibility. They have no inducement to nominate him lest the Democrats should take him and sweep the country. Mr. Hoover is at a further disadvantage in formally aligning himself with the Republicans at the time when Hiram Johnson has assumed the leadership of all the radical elements of the party and shrewdly turned the coming National Convention into a contest between himself and the reactionaries.

A situation might easily develop out of which Mr. Hoover would be nominated at Chicago, but in present circumstances it would not be a nomination dictated by the Hoover Republicans and independents. It would be a nomination dictated by the Old Guard in the effort to save their own skins by using Hoover as a bulwark against the rising wrath of the country. Mr. Hoover's position would then be not unlike Mr. Taft's in 1910 when the late Senator Dolliver described him as " a good man entirely surrounded by men who know exactly what they want."

The alternative is for Mr. Hoover himself to assume, and to assume at once, the responsibilities of leadership and place himself aggressively at the head of the progressive voters of the country. He could have done this better as an independent outside the inner circles of either party, but he can do it as a Republican too—provided he does it.

Mr. Hoover can well afford, without the sacrifice of a single ideal or a single principle of government, to be the regular Republican candidate for President of the nomination has been clubbed from the reactionaries of the party by a militant public sentiment What he cannot afford is to allow himself to become merely a life-preserver for the Old Guard to enable them to keep afloat four years more. That would be fatal to everything that Mr. Hoover represents in American politics.—New York World (Dem.)

"Yolande"

by Marion Brunot

WHO PLAYED "LADY NASH."

Lowell handed me a program, but I didn't have a chance to look at it. The play was exquisitely staged, in a country home of an aunt of "Lady Nash." "Lord Nash" was there, from whom his wife was separated, and there were any quantities of other house guests—delightful people who did a great deal of talking, and always the central figure of the discussion was the alluring, dangerous and dare-devil "Lady Nash."

She didn't appear, though, for ever so long. Even so, her personality was felt, and the excellent dialogue portrayed her in a way that only cleverly selected words can.

"Too much talk," whispered Lowell. He is a critic, and rather likes to be pessimistic.

"I think it is delicious," I answered back.

"I hate to be kept in suspense," he sighed.

"I love it," I retorted.

He yawned, back of his program. Lewell's too well bred ever to yawn openly. He never makes a faux pas socially. And it is natural—not a particle assumed. I have observed other men, less at ease, watching him enviously, but he never seems aware of it. Perfect manners are something I do believe people are born with — they can't be attained.

As for myself, I can do any amount of airy-fairy prattle — I can make what is styled "a hit" when I really desire to do so. But occasionally I get my foot in it most hideously—and at such times, if Lowell chances to be present, his eye will root itself upon me with a saddened glance. It used to worry me, but it doesn't any more. A person can only be what human nature has moulded them to be—there's no use in attempting anything else.

When you do you are artificial. And that is what makes anybody from a painted woman to a "dummy" in a clothing store, unable to deceive all the people all of the time.

All this was passing through my mind as I was listening with my right ear to the conversation upon the stage and watching Lowell out of my left eye.

He had just met my gaze and smiled in that knowing way he has, when a servant announced an automobile breakdown near the country home of "Lady Nash's" aunt.

"People do such heedless driving nowadays," a prosaic English woman —or, rather, a woman portraying such a part said as if imparting something almost scandalous. I laughed, for I know just such bores who say something everyone has known for etenities as if it were being uttered for the first time.

Then past the closed French windows of the country house "swished" a tall, slim girl, and I glimpsed brilliant green and white—a color combination I adore, but which I can't wear at all for it makes my eyes too "catty" for anything.

As she stood at the door, one hand outstretched and clasping a marvelous tailored parasol which matched her gown and hat perfectly, she swept the group before her mercilessly and giggled.

Every face on the stage but hers took on a surprised expressions. "Lord Nash's" fairly blanched.

"You weren't expecting me," she said.

"Not—er—exactly," admitted the hostess. "You see, my dear niece—"

"But my car broke down—what else was there for me to do;" and Lady Nash advanced to the center of the stage, still smiling.

My face blanched as white as Lord Nash's had. I gripped Lowell by the arm.—

"It's Emmy! Emmy Cunningham —she's the leading woman!" I said and then I subsided weakly.

ANOTHER EUROPEAN WAR?

The dispatch of the French troops to Germany for the ostensible purpose of forcing compliance with the Peace Treaty has given rise to fears that the European War may break out anew. Britain, Italy and the United States have objected to the French action. Many think the French are bent on acquisition of more German territory. On the other hand, a large body of opinion shares the French fear of a German militaristic revival.

"If France may cross the Rhine of its own motion," says the New York World (Dem.), "so may any other nation, and the invasion of Germany will thus become a free-for-all, leading straight to new European alignments and new wars." The World thinks that France, and not Germany, should have been the one to appeal to the League of Nations, for "a League that cannot function in the presence of the very menace of hostilities of which it was designed to take notice is discredited by its own membership."

In the British protest, "France is condemned in unsparing terms by her chief Ally, while Germany is inferentially upheld," declares the Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Dem.) and the Eagle adds:

"Nothing France can gain from the occupation of the Rhineland cities will balance the political advantage accruing to Germany from the split between France and her allies."

"French militarism is back of the movement," the Emporia Gazette (Ind.) believes, and the Youngstown Vindicator (Dem.) holds that President Wilson's charge that the militarists of France were in the saddle has been "vindicated by the French occupation of the four German cities —Frankfort, Darmstadt, Homburg, and Hanau; while the Pittsburg Leader (Prog. Rep.) says:

"The real question is whether the Allies will permit France to endanger everything, every country, because of a fear which other governments consider unfounded. Will Millerand and Foch, representing the militaristic idea, force France into the friendless class occupied once by Germany alone?"

"The paper peace becomes a fragile barrier," submits the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune (Rep.), "in the frowning presence of reversion to war that menacingly impends," and the Sioux City Tribune (Ind.) says flatly, "Marshal Foch wants to annex both banks of the Rhine—that is what he is working for." This paper blames the situation largely on American failure to ratify the peace. "The Senate's refusal," it says, "has thrown France into the hands of the militarists." The Des Moines Register (Ind. Rep.) believes that "the aloofness of Britain" indicates fear that the move is "a stroke for the Rhine frontier."

But a large section of the American press upholds France unreservedly. To make clear the French point of view, the Salt Lake Herald (Rep.) says:

"British and American protests against the separate action of France without allied concurrence suggests the story of the fierce looking dog. The two nations are saying to France that they know the German dog won't bite her, and France replies, 'Yes, but does the dog know it?' "

The "red" uprising in the Ruhr disput down other excuses would have been found for keeping the German soldiers there on the very borders of France and in control of the coal mines whose product is pledged in part to France. Finding excuses is one of the best things Germany does."

"The larger question raised by the Ruhr Valley and Frankfort occupations," says the New York Tribune (Rep.), "is this: Is German disregard of the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles to be checked before it becomes a fixed habit? Is Germany to be encouraged to believe that the Allies will tolerate a policy of piecemeal revision through piecemeal nullification?" The Tribune regrets that united allied action was impossible, but adds:

"It is not just to expect France to sacrifice her safety because unity of action is temporarily unobtainable. She is in a position to halt German violations. And it is high time for some allied power to remind Germany that the Treaty still stands and must be respected."

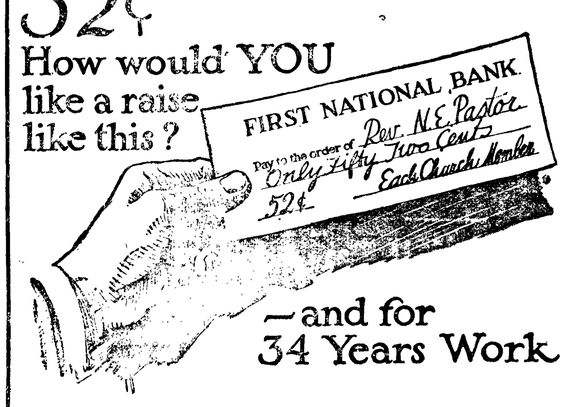
52¢ How would YOU like a raise like this?



—and for 34 Years Work

THAT is the kind of increase in salary the minister has received. His living expenses have risen just as fast and as far as yours.

But he is paid on the average just 52 cents more per church member than he was paid 34 years ago.

The Minister Never Fails You

Every officer of the Government with a war message to deliver appealed to the ministers first of all.

But 80% of the ministers receive less income than government economists figure as a minimum for the support of an average family.

When hospitals need money they enlist the support of the ministers—and receive it.

But when sickness visits the minister or the members of his family they must be treated in a charity ward. His pay is less than a day laborer's.

8 out of every 10 ministers receive less than $20 a week—about half the pay of a mechanic.

We Pay Him Half the Wages of a Mechanic

And of these pitifully inadequate salaries, how much do you contribute? Nothing if you are outside the church; an average of less than 3c a day if you are a church member.

All of us share in the benefits of Christian ministers to the community. They marry us; bury us; baptize our children; visit us when we are sick. In their hands is the spiritual training of the youth.

We Are All Profiteers at Their Expense

Part of the Interchurch World program is this—a living wage for every minister of Jesus Christ; an efficient plant, and a chance to do a big man's job.

If you want better preachers, help to pay the preachers better. It's the best investment for your community—and for your children—that you can ever make.

LEE Tires

"SMILE AT MILES"

Gluttons For Punishment

Lee Tires ask no favors of the road.

On rough country roads their tough treads eravel almost unharmed over sharp and jutting points that would tear the heart out of less sturdy tires. On paved streets and b oulevards Lee Tires wear down surprising and pleasingly slow.

If you knew how to make tires and none but the best would satisfy you, the Lee Tire is the kind you'd build.

So thoroughly good are Lee Tires that you'll get an netirely new idea of tire mileage and satisfaction from the first one you try. Let us show you why.
