First Street Paving Ordinance Is Passed

The city council last night finally passed the ordinance creating the local improvement district for the paving of First Street, after considerable debate regarding the desires of the property owners who had put in a new petition two weeks ago asking for a change in the plans so that bids might be called for all kinds of paving. The majority of the council backed up by the opinion of Attorney S. C. Rose, representing the new owners of the Opera House block and the Giles-Harrington Company and August Swanson, another property owner who was present, decided to go ahead with the original plan of calling for paving consisting of nine inches of concrete. The resolution providing for the calling of bids for other paving was then called up and reconsidered and wiped off the slate.

In the absence of Mayor Pegram, Acting Mayor Fred Henson presided and all the councilmen were present.

When the First Street improvement was under consideration, a letter from T. T. Aldwell was read describing an interview with City Engineer Dimock of Seattle, who was reported as recommending seven instead of nine inches of concrete, but this suggestion was not approved by anyone present. Both Mr. Rose and Mr. Swanson said that they preferred to rely upon the recommendations of City Engineer Young, who is familiar with the special local conditions governing these paving plans.

The council approved the suggestion of the city engineer that a testing machine for sand and gravel be purchased fo rhis department and the cost, about $200, distributed among the various improvement districts. It was explained that lack of this machine frequently caused delay while samples of materials were forwarded to Seattle for testing.

An application for a sewer laying license by Belfort & Tomei was finally disapproved after considerable debate Some of the councilmen objected that Tomei's work had in several instances not been satisfactory, while others opined that he was a first-class layer of sewers and the trouble with certain faulty jobs had been that the inspection under the former city engineer had been lacking in effectiveness. A roll call was had on the proposition, and Hooker, Horstman and Henson voted to issue the license, while Burns and Hallahan voted against it, and Van Brunt and Filion refrained from voting.

An argument ensued about the vote and finally, to end the argument Filion asked permission to vote "no" and the chair declared the motion lost.

The council referred the matter of the appointment of a caretaker to the fire committee. The appointment of Harry Doran was sought by one councilman while another favored the reappointment of Chauncey McNay at an increased salary. McNay recently resigned but has now decided that he would like to return to the position if the salary is increased from $100 to $125 and he is allowed a few afternoons off duty each week.

Building permits were ordered issued to C. C. Henry, for two $1800-dwelling houses, to Francis McGerr, for a $1200-house and to the Clallam Canning Co., for an extension to the wharf.

A survey of the proposed Tumwater and Sixth street road, following the meander line of the Tumwater bluff, will be made by the city engineer, the clerk announcing that $25 had been deposited to pay expenses of the same.

The city attorney was directed to bring in a resolution of intention to grade Sixth street, from Peabody to Albert, the work to be done by cash payments by the property owners.

ALL READY FOR CLAM BAKE ON CHERRY HILL

Final arrangements were completed today for the big Clam Bake and Clean Up Rally of residents of Cherry Hill tomorrow evening at Ninth and Oak streets.

The Port Angeles Marine Band and the Boys' Band have been engaged to enliven the occasion, and bushels of clams will be steamed in large boilers and handed out to the multitude as fast as Chef Schroeder's corps of trained cooks and walters can accomplish the feat.

Every resident of the vicinity is expected to be there, big and little, and if some arrive from the East end and Tumwater Hill, anxious to learn how a campaign for municipal improvement should be launched and conducted, they will be given the glad hand and a plate of clams and no questions asked.

Festivities will begin at seven o'clock, so that those who wish to attend other events later in the evening may do so. Flare lights have been provided so that the band may work overtime, if the meeting is prolonged, however.

At the meeting, the residents of the entire hill, will be enlisted in a campaign against dirt under the leadership of the "Dirty Dozen" under whose auspices the affair is to be given.

Those living between the Second street bluff and Third street will rally under Leon Sutton; between Third and Fourth, Ray Haynes; Fourth and Fifth, Al Phillips; Fifth and Sixth, Thos. H. Guptill; Sixth and Seventh, Chas. A. Bork; Seventh and Eighth, Will H. Taylor; Eighth and Ninth, Sanford C. Rose; Ninth and Tenth, Jack Woods; Tenth and Eleventh, Chris Morganrath; Eleventh and Twelfth, Dr. H. H. Butler; Twelfth and Thirteenth, C. S. Stakemiller, and Thirteenth to Boulevard, W. C. Schroeder

Lieutenants wil lbe assigned to each half block, whose duty it will be to enthuse his neighbors for fine lawns, clean streets and alleys, and clean vacant lots.

In this way the "Dirty Dozen" hope to lead up to permanent sidewalk, streets and up to date improvements generally

Those in attendance at the meeting are expected to give their views on what should be done along those lines and in this way help to form a progressive program.

The park committee of the city council was authorized at last night's meeting of the council to confer with the county commissioners and the county fair committee on the subpect of the improvement of the city park with a view to establishing it as the site of the annual county fair, and on a motion of Councilman Horstman the committee was authorized to promise the expenditure of $1,000 providing such a measure should be found desirable.

County Agent Holland addressed the council saying that the unanimous opinion of the committee appointed by the county board was that the city park would provide a splendid site for the fair.

City Engineer Young reported that George Wilhelm had inspected the park in his company and had expressed the opinion that golf links could very well be established there and that the links, fair grounds and the proposed aviation field could be located on the park ground without interfering with each other.

It is proposed that the park committee and other members of the council, with the county commissioners, visit the park early next week and report back upon plans for the improvement.

PAVING MATERIAL.

Property owners of the business district have displayed an unusual lack of interest in the details of the big improvement jobs ahead of them, and the council last night finally decided to go ahead with the original proposition for the paving of First street and ignore subsequent petitions and suggestions. The ordinance creating the district was finally passed, calling for paving with concrete nine inches thick. The Herald believes this to be much the best course. Once open the way for controversies over the various kinds of paving and the actual work is liable to be delayed for many months without any good result. Everyone really expects concrete to be used and while it is true that a paving of less than nine inches might hold up under the increasing heavy truck traffic, it is likewise possible if not probable that it would not. The cost of the one or two additional inches of concrete is very much less than the subsequent expense involved if the road is not made strong enough. All other things being equal, the rule is that the thicker the paving the longer it will last.

There are several pavements which are more beautiful and more comfortable to walk upon than concrete, but these are better adapted to the residential than the business districts of the city. Experience everywhere confirms the opinion that for such jobs as we have in the business district of this city, a good, strong concrete pavement is the most practical and efficient.

The Herald takes issue with the view expressed last night by one of the councilmen that it is none of the council's business what paving is used, and that this rests entirely with the property owner. The latter should be consulted, but he is not the only party at interest. Every citizen and hence every councilman is concerned to see that the public streets are well and truly paved. All of the responsibility cannot be shouldered onto the property owner.

AN ARID CONVENTION.

The delegates to the Republican state convention at Bellingham rallied nobly around Senator Miles Poindexter and instructed the delegates to the national convention to promote the candidacy of the senator for the presidency. Guy Kelly was indorsed for national committeeman and a platform adopted, the only important plank of which was support for the "reservationists" in the treaty issue. The platform declares against state socialism, which might be assumed in any platform of republicanism, and favors "universal"—the polite term for "compulsory"—military training. This latter issue, however, has been tried out in a congress controlled by the Republicans and has lost. The general tone of the convention was reactionary, as the only forward-looking measure in the platform is the declaration for the budget system which has been recommended by President Wilson.

The "Red" scare seems to have pervaded the convention to a certain extent, and measures of suppression rather than of cure of the causes of social discontent are recommended. Senator Poindexter, who has recently come out as an opponent of trades-unionism emphasized this attitude by declaring that leaders of organized labor, whether knowingly or otherwise, are advocates of doctrines known as "Bolshevistic," inasmuch as they favor the control of industry by the workers.

Taken by and large, there is nothing very encouraging in the reports of the proceedings of the convention for the independent or progressive voter—nothing much to tie to. It looks as if the Republican party was so sure of carrying all before it next fall that no bid had to be made for popular support. The dotted line at the head of the Republican ticket, it seems, is to be presented to the free and independent elector with a request that he put his cross there, give three cheers for the G. O. P., and go back and try to solve, once again, the problem of making ends meet against the recurrent raids of the profiteer brigade.

We feel like the Jews felt under the Pharoahs—as though we might as well pray for a leader to guide us across the desert of decayed or decaying ideas, into a land of inspiration, even if it does not exactly flow with milk and honey.

"Yolande"

by Marion Brunot

YOLANDE SENSES A LOSS.

Lowell chose a melody entirely new to me, limpid, apathetic, full of tragic emotion; one moment indicating a weird expectancy. One next all hope gone forever. Where had he found it anyway?

His greatest passion ever has been music—he is everlastingly surprising his friends by unearthing something different, and then takes keen pleasure in keeping them guessing for a while, and finally telling them the secret of his discovery.

He watched Emmy as he played. Slowly she raised her eyes, and met his gaze evenly unflinchingly, and then her eylids fell, her lashes sweeping her cheeks as I had seen them do countless times in the past. She drawled an "and" in her chat with John Hyatt—that was the only admission that she had observed Lowell at all. Yet somehow I felt as if something had been taken from me. Not a tangible someeaing that I could advertise for in the penny a word columns of the newspapers, but an indefinable, irreparable loss.

Just then Lowell changed his musical repertoire. He broke into a lively air from Victor Herbert opera and my old spirits returned.

"Your dinner was beautiful—I had a wonderful time," Emmy enthused as she wrapped herself in a long evening cloak. "You have arranged, I fear, for Mr. Hyatt to take me home. Thas was unnecessary— I'm an independent person who needs not an escort. But thank you, dear, your selection is fine. Mr. Haines has spoken of the necktie luncheon at the Ritz. I believe we're to have it Friday. Your friends are honizing me, Yolande. You generous child."

She kissed me affectionately.

"I'd see you in the meantime, every day, but I haven't a minute, and she frowned as if she hated everything and everybody.

I worked like a slave between the dinner at our apartment and the luncheon at the Ritz. I had several important orders and somehow I put on a tremendous amount of extra touches on them. In fact, so good were they that when finally they were finished I even, drew a deep breath of keen satisfaction.

I have gotten to the point in my work where I am my own critic—that is a far step on the road in any art.

My only two diversions that week were the first, a dance with Torrence Travers. I love to shake my "tootsies", and Torrence is a dream of a dancer. Not the finest point in the tripping of feet escapes him—he could be a professional in this line any time he desired. I often chide him and say: Begin before you get rheumatish, Torrence.

I wore a robbin's egg blue evening dress and no jewels.

"You're the prettiest doll in New York," he said upon our homeward trip. "You know Yolande, I am continually wishing you would marry me."

'Why not do the marrying yourself, Torrence?" I retorted, in high jollity.

"I've given up doing that; I've turned over a new leaf,' 'he said, sadly. "When I wed you, and it shall never be anyone else, it"ll be of your own asking. You'll have to carry me off bodily as a cave man used to do. It will be a cave woman episode."

I fairly screamed at this, but he did not even smile. Men are queer propositions.

My second diversion was a long drive with Lowell. He was dreadfully quiet, and didn't mention our Sunday night dinner until I referred to it. That surely was totally unlike him, for he's such a good person at postmortems that sometimes I think he should be a woman in his next incarnation.

And Emmy—you haven't told me what you think of her since coming into closer range?" I queried.

"She's remarkable," he admitted, "But do you know, I liked her almost better on the stage than at your home. I'm—I'm almost afraid of her!" and he laughed uneasily.

"A rag and a bone and hank of hair," I quoted glibly. But my heart was too heavy.

OVERALLS UEBER ALLES.

When Birmingham, Alabama, (or was it Tampa, Florida?) set the blue-jeans style, defying fashion and the profiteer, and the rest of the country seemed prepared to follow suit, press opinion in America paused to cheer or jeer and when overalls immediately jumped from $2 to 6, remained to philosophise on political economy. While some saw in the "overall" movement a check to high prices, many felt it to be a passing fad that would boost the cost of blue denim today and die of enraged vanity tomorrow.

As a "striking expression of the so-called 'mob-mind' ", the Richmond News Leader (Ind. Dem.) sees the spread of overall clubs paralleling the great fads of Europe, like Holland's "tulip craze" and the earlier "home spun movements" of this country. But in company with others, the News Leader thinks that it will not have "lasting economic effect," although the determination to wear out our ordinary clothes will "accomplish great good."

The New York World (Dem.) thinks that this "flare-up all over the country of popular discontent with the high cost of clothing is a remarkable and a significant thing." It feels that it will solve the question of the H. C. L.

"For the people," it says, "have the power and, as the Overall Club idea shows, the resolution, when aroused, to regulate prices by regulating consumption, and they can cheapen the cost of any article that they set out to cheapen, from shoes to sugar, of which in their self-indulgence they consume twice as much as they need."

The Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch (Ind. Dem.) also believes in the overall idea for, it says, it "offers one of the few sound economical methods of reducing the intolerably high cost of living," and the New York Globe (Ind.) suggests that the colleges should take up the good work and even if it only last a season "one season would be enough."

Among those who praise the purpose but doubt the method is the Charleston News and Courier (Dem.) which sees evidences of "conviction on the part of a great many people that the limit in high prices has been reached" but considers it "a grave question whether these Overall Clubs, if they multiply and gain members, will not do a great deal of harm." And the harm will come to those, as the Sun & New York Herald (Ind.) points out, who "wear these garments of necessity and not from choice," and who are "not enthusiastic about enrolling in the Overall Club."

But, while it admits these obvious disadvantages, the Philadalphia Record (Ind. Dem.) has a kindly word for "jeans" remarking that:

"So far as appearance go, there is not much to choose between overalls and many of the curiously fashioned garments that come ready-made from the hands of the manufacturer. The color of denim fabric, a cheerful blue, is certainly more pleasing to the eye than some of the greenish and yellowish effects now so much in vogue and as for fit, are not the loose, flowing lines of the overall more becoming to masculine beauty than the skin-tight trousers in which Young America loves to disport himself?"

But the Greensboro News (Ind.) can see no escape from the price-gougers. Overalls have already gone up from $2 to $6 in Alabama, it discovers, and—

"The next step," it pessimistically asserts, "is the fig leaf. Well, the weather will soon be favorable; but we wonder if forehanded, prudent and concienceless profiteers are not already beginning to take options on all the fig trees."

Among those who choose to use the movement as the text for serious discussion is the Pittsburg Leader (Prog. Rep.) which declares that "the way to reach the price problem is at its source, not in the last step in the travel,—when it reaches the consumer." Granting that the Overalls Club meant well, the Leader declares that "nothing can be won by fighting prices in the stores of the retail dealers."

The call of the Chattanooga Times (Ind. Dem.), however, to wear out the old clothes, is echoed by many who throw cold water on the hope for a blue denim millenium.

"This movement," the Times explains, "is not aimed at the dealers, because the dealers cannot help themselves. The manufacturers are the first offenders. . . . . when "shiny" and patched garments become not only respectable but really badges of self-denying Americanism, we may expect the offenders at 'headquarters' to feel the effect."

To this sentiment the New York World (Dem.) agrees, with the assertion that "if every American family resolved itself into an 'Old Clothes Club' and proceeded to make its suits and shoes do another yerar" it would result in "much effective direct action."

But it is neither old clothes nor overalls that will bring us back to normal, declares the Columbia Record (Dem.) "but the old and eternal laws that regulate commerce," while the Lynchburg News (Dem.) thinks the cure is "to quit loafing and get back on the job."

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. "A NOTE TO THE WISE."

Having returned on Saturday from Seattle where I went to get what information I could from the wholesale houses, and purchase stock and instruments of the latest, I was shown a letter received while there from the Glass Factory of what the price on glasses are to advance at ance, and that is 33 1-3 per cent.

This price is like many other things, outrageous — but we will have to stand it. I shall not raise my prices until May 1st, but after that not the full increase if I can live without. Take advantage of the present rate before the first.

THIRD PARTY LAUNCHED BY LIBERALS

CHICAGO, April 27.—A national convention of the committee of forty-eight to form a new political party will be held here July 10 to 13, it was announced today by M. C. Harrison, divisional director of the organization.

The new party, "representing the needs and hopes of average American men and women, will conduct an aggressive campaign against both reactionary old parties and in support of a constructive program of economic, social and political progress," an an nouncement said.

The committee of 48, which adopted a platform and a statement of aims at a convention in St. Louis last December, has a membership of 50,000 Mr. Harrison said.

The organization's platform includes:

"Public ownership of transportation, including stockyards, large abattoirs, grain elevators, terminal warehouses, pipe lines and tanks. Public ownership of other public utilities and of the principal natural resources, large water powers and large commercial timber tracts.

"No land, including natural resources, and no patents to be held out of use for speculation, or to aid monopoly. We favor taxes to force idle land into use.

"Equal economic, political, and legal rights for all, irrespective of sex and color. Immediate and absolute restoration of free speech, free press, peaceable assembly and all civil rights guaranteed by the constitution. We demand abolition of injunctions in labor cases. We indorse the effort of labor to share in the management of industry and labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, through representatives of their own choosing."

In a statement addressed to "Americans ready for a new party," it was declared that the time had come "for lovers of the real America to organize themselves anew," to form a "new political party to restore to America constitutional rights through which the government shall be made responsive to the will of the people."

The statement said the old parties were "bankrupt of democratic purpose and have made their peace with a treasonable reaction."

MRS. M. E. PROCTOR, who says she is so grateful for what Tanlac has done for her that she wants the whole world to know about it. Declares her complete recovery after so many years of suffering seems too good to be true.

"I am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that I want to tell the whole world about it," said Mrs. M. E. Proctor, of 717 W. First St., Los Angeles, Calif., when speaking of the splendid results she had obtained from the medicine. "To think that I should have suffered for so many years, and spent hundreds of dollars in vain efforts to get relief and then find complete relief after taking only four bottles of Tanlac, seems too good to be true."

"Yes, indeed; for years and years I suffered terribly from stomach trouble. Everything I ate seemed to form gas and so affected my heart and breathing that I would have palpitation and would turn purple in the face in my efforts to get my breath These attacks caused me intense suffering and were so bad that I was frequently confined to my bed and would have to be attended by some member of the family for fear I should succumb during one of the attacks.

"I got awfully thin and was so weak that I had to give up all house-hold duties. I often went for two weeks at a time without getting a good night's sleep and as a consequence became very nervous and low-spirited. In fact, I was a confirmed invalid and my friends did not expect me to live very long.

"I sat reading the paper one evening when my eye caught the statement of a lady who had suffered with similar trouble to my own and telling how she had been wonderfully helped by Tanlac. I sent for a bottle and started taking it and the results have been most surprising.

"My appetite is splendid now and I can eat most anything without any distress afterward. The gas stopped forming and I no longer have palpitation or that smothering feeling. I sleep sound all night long and get up feeling rested. I am in better health today than I have been for forty years and I feel years younger.

"I don't believe there ever was as good a medicine made as Tanlac."

HOW FAR IS MT. VERNON?

Not So Far That the Statements of Its Residents Cannot be Verified.

Rather an interesting case has been developed in Mt. Vernon. Being so near by, it is well worth publishing here. The statement is sincere—the proof convincing:

B. J. Fritz, painter, 806 S. Sixth St., Mt. Vernon, Wash., says: "I have always been strong for Doan's Kidney Pills and, as a rule, I keep a box on hand all the time. Whenever my back feels stiff and lame and my kidneys get out of order a few doses of Doan's soon relieve the trouble. I know of no better medicine for kidney trouble than Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Fritz had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Cold That Hangs On

This is No. 5 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs.
