PLATFORM IS NEITHER FOR NOR AGAINST THE LEAGUE

CONVENTION ADOPTS COMMITTEE'S PLANKS JUST AS PRESENTED

(By Associated Press)

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 11.—Rescuing the party by the eleventh hour compromise from a threatened split on the league of nations issue, the republican national convention last evening adopted a platform and then adjourned.

Harmony on the league issue was reached after many hours of heated negotiations revolving about the subcommittee on resolutions, but bringing into consultation first and last virtually all the big men of the party. In the end the irreconcilables and the mild reservationists accepted a treaty plank drafted by Elihu Root before his departure for Europe several weeks ago, but revised in some details to meet the views of the contending elements.

It condemns President Wilson's league convenant upholds the senate in its rejection of the treaty and endorses the principle of an international peace concert in harmony with American traditions.

After impatiently marking time all day for the resolutions committee to complete its work, the tired convention received with cheers the reading of the platform by Senator Watson of Indiana, committee chairman, and adopted it with a great chorus of cheers. It nearly drowned out a minority report presented by Edwin J. Gross, the Wisconsin member of the committee, and signed only by himself. The substitute provided flat rejection of the league idea, advocated government ownership of railroads and contained other proposals which the convention hooted as "socialistic."

The relative chances of the presidential candidates apparently were little affected by the platform agreement, and on nomination eve there was in evidence no development which changed the situation with Wood, Johnson and Lowden leading, but without any of them having enough delegates to nominate. So far as the talk of those on the inside revealed, the attainment of harmony over the troublesome treaty plank had no reflex on any of the candidates except possibly in the case of Senator Johnson. He will not now appear on the convention floor and that is a disappointment to his supporters, who had believed that the appearance of their leader in a treaty fight would help his fight for the nomination.

In accord with the plan to finish up the convention's work on a skip-stop schedule, it was agreed to convene at 9 a. m. and to hurry through the nomination speeches and remain in con-

LABOR PLANK DENOUNCED BY SAM. GOMPERS

(By Associated Press)

MONTREAL, June 11.—The labor plank adopted by the Republican National convention was condemned here today by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. He referred especially to the section of the plank providing for the settlement of public utilities strikes by tribunals similar to the Esch-Cummins transportation act of 1920.

When asked what would be the result of the rejection of labor demands by the Republican party, President Gomper's only comment was: "You may draw your own inferences."

BANKER SAYS NO NEED FOR GLOOM EXISTS

TAHOE, Cal., June 11.—It must be clearly understood that there is no money available now for purely speculative or non essential enterprises, John S. Drum, president of the Savings Union Bank and Trust Company of San Francisco today told delegates of the California Bankers convention of which he is first vice president.

"Bankers must turn" he said, "to the orderly deflation of the credit expension which could not be avoided There is no occasion for hysteria or gloomy forebodings, but it is time for recognizing conditions, as they exist."

The world's circulation of currency is estimated, he said, at $56,000,000,000, an increase of $19,000,000,000 since the summer of 1914. Of this increase fully $16,000,000,000 has been added since the signing of the armistice, he said.

"The recovery from the unhealthy conditions consequent upon war must necessarily be gradual," he continued.

Pointing out that the government contracted an indebtedness of nearly $17,000,000,000 during the war and added to that $4,500,000,000 of victory notes in the spring of 1919, Drum said, "it is hopeless to expect these enormous issues of credit instruments to be absorbed by the savings of the people."

He said that since 1913 money in circulation had increased 71 per cent and bank deposits 120 per cent, while the average percentage of actual cash held against these deposits had fallen from 11.7 to 6.6 per cent.

In spite of existing conditions, it is necessary to meet the capital requirements of such essential enterprises as the transportation systems, housing, foreign trade and the production of needed commodities, he said.

"The government must adjust its expenditures to its income and provide for its needs otherwise than through credits with the banks," he continued.

Excessive taxation that restricts enterprise must be discouraged and opposed, he held.

AMERICAN CITIZENS NOT "ALIENS" IN CANADA.

(By Associated Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 11.—An American citizen is not an "alien" in Canada, according to a ruling made today by Magistrate Sir Hugh John MacDonald, in the city police court. The ruling was made at the suggestion of the crown prosecutor in dismissing a charge against Roy H. Lage, of Sioux City, Iowa, of being an alien in possession of a revolver.

POLES ARE VICTORIOUS OVER REDS

WARSAW, June 11.—The great battle along the river Beresina, which began May 14, was crowned yesterday with a great success for the Poles, according to the Polish official communique today.

The enemy was, however, definitely defeated June 8, the communique states, and the next day the Poles attacked and drove the bulk of the hostile forces beyond the Beresina taking 600 prisoners and capturing numerous machine guns.

WOOLEN COMPANY ESCAPES UNDER TECHNICAL RULE

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 11.- Indictments charging profiteering against the American Woolen Company of New York, and Massachusetts and William M. Wood, president of the corporation, were quashed by Federal Judge Mack. Judge Mack sustained a demurrer interposed by Charles E. Hughes, special counsel for the defense, which held that woolen goods did not constitute wearing apparel and therefore did not come with in the meaning of the Lever Act.

HALF OF RUSSIA IS HUNGRY, SAYS TURNER.

LONDON, June 11.—Fifty per cent of the people of soviet Russia are hungry, although everybody is getting a certain allowance of food, declared Benjamin Turner, member of the British labor delegation to Russia, in describing today conditions in that country as he observed them. Mr. Turner with another delegate, Thomas Shaw, member of the House of Commons, returned to England yesterday.

The majority of the people of Moscow and Petrograd, he said, support the Bolshevik government. The rural population is not opposing the authorities, but is not fully in agreement with communism.

MRS. CATT REELECTED.

GENEVA, June 11.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was unanimously reelected president of the Woman's Suffrage Alliance at this mornin's session of the Congress here today. She has agreed to accept the office it was announced, despite her statement in a speech yesterday that she felt compelled to retire.

USUAL CRAZINESS INDULGED IN BY YELLING DELEGATES

(By Associated Press)

COLISEUM, CHICAGO June 11. — The Big Three, Lowden, Johnson and Wood—were all placed in nomination before the Republican convention today during the first four hours of a sweltering session.

Each of the nominations was accompanied with tremendous demonstrations on the floor and in the galleries in which the usual convention scenes of marching, shouting, sweating delegates prancing about the hall carrying flags, banners and likenesses of their favorite candidates were witnessed.

Forcing the convention along at express speed to make up for the time lost in settlement of the treaty issue, efforts were made to hold the time given to demonstrations down to a minimum. Seconding speeches were limited to five minutes and two minutes when there were more than seconders. The effort was to reach balloting before adjournment tonight. All the nominating speakers got ready responses from the convention.

Charles F. Wheeler of California, who nominated Johnson got roars and cheers from the convention when he referred to the Wilson administration as "the royal family" and by inferences, to William G. McAdoo as "the crown prince."

"Are you prepared for four more years of them?" he asked. The crowd shouted, "No, No," but when Mr. Wheeler referred to Senator Johnson as having had no campaign fund, both cheers and guffaws marked his utterance.

Gen. Wood was nominated by Governor Allen of Kansas. The demonstration which followed lasted forty minutes.

Frank Knox of New Hampshire and Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York, seconded the nomination of General Wood.

Governor Lowden was presented in nomination by Representative Rodenberg of Illinois, and his supporters kept up their demonstrations of approval for forty-two minutes, waving flags, smashing hats and parading around the hall.

Charles E. Pickett, of Waterloo, Ia., and Mrs. Fletcher Douglas Dobbyns of Chicago, seconded Governor Lowden's nomination.

Chas. E. Wheeler of San Francisco, presented the name of Senator Johnson and an outburst of approval by the Johnson supporters lasting half an hour followed.

Representative Schall, the blind member of congress from Minnesota, thrilled the audience by his seconding speech and by unanimous consent he was given two more minutes.

Richard Daugherty of Jerseytown seconded Johnson's nomination, as did Charles P. O'Neil of Michigan. Another seconding speech was delivered by Mrs. Katherine Phillip Edson of Los Angeles.

Connecticut yielded to Massachusetts and Speaker Gillett presented Governor Coolidge in nomination. Delaware passed and Florida yielded to North Carolina for the nomination of Senator Pritchard by former Senator Butler.

Hailed as the man to "scourge the last of the bosses from the temple of the Republican party," Senator Hiram Johnson was formally placed in nomination for the Republican presidential candidacy by Charles S. Wheeler of California.

The orator described Senator Johnson as the man first brought forth for presidential honor by California after seventy years statehood, and left no controversy in recent political history untouched as he sketched the senator's career.

Mr. Wheeler attacked the argument of political geographers against candidates from the Far West.

"California would say to such men that this progressive world of ours has been moving right along," he said. "That the course of empire has steadily pursued its westward way; that the hand and brain of men have not only spanned rivers and levelled hills, but they have now leaped athwart the ether and new highways through the very heavens themselves 'until the East and West are one.'

"The California delegation claims the right to speak authoritatively for the rank and file of the Republican party. It bases that claim upon the fact that it was sent to this convention by the stupendous majority of 160,000 American citizens, who in literal truth, hailed from every nook and cranny corner of this nation.

"This proposition may be laid down with axiomatic certainty. The November election will not be won by the platform of either political party. The personality of the candidate—and not the party affiliation—is going to elect the next president of the United States.

"The man who will enter the White House on the foutrth of March, 1921, will be that Republican or that Democrat in whom the average American voter places the most faith.

"These voters have learned within the past few years that the most powerful ruler in the world is the president of the United States. They are smarting under a sense of personal oppression. No man can make them believe they are not the victims of the profiteers. They believe that the remedy for their economic wrongs will be found when there is again in the White House a man of vital force and broad human sympathies, and they are grimly determined that never again with their consent shall there be elevated to that all-powerful place any man who has not convinced them by his record that he is in touch with the needs of the average man.

"These voters form the great middle class of the nation. They hold the balance of power, and they will not stand for a reactionary administration.

"Do you want another four years of economic chaos? Do you want another four years of the Wilson family in the White House? If you insist that the father of the dynasty shall abdicate, do you want the people then to take up the crown prince?

"If you do not, why then gamble with chance? Why close your eyes to the obvious? Why not admit to yourselves—what every man of political vision knows—thah there is one Republican who can sweep the country; whose nomination will carry with it the absolute certainty of his election?

"It may be true that our near-officer class, the captains of industry, the disbursing officers of the primary army, and the colonels of the commissary who advance the sinews of war—would prefer a military leader. But I am here to say for the rank and file of the Republican party that 'The plain Yanks, who fill the ranks, that have the votes, are calling for the son of California."

The nomination of Senator Pritchard was not seconded. Delegates were growing restless, impatient and tired of oratory. The roll call progressed to New York before the next candidate was found. State Senator Mills made the nominating speech for Nicholas Butler. He had a hard time making his announcement heard.

Announcement was made that Coleman DuPont had withdrawn. No intimation was made as to where his support would be given.

Judge Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse placed Herbert Hoover in nomination

AVOID BREAK BY DODGING ISSUES.

The Republican platform, adopted by the Chicago convention last evening proves, as anticipated, a very lenghthy document and its outstanding feature is the studied avoidance of direct declarations upon the most important issues of the day. Without the exact text of the plank dealing with the Treaty of Versailles before us, it is impractical to attempt to analyze it, but the data to hand indicate clearly enough that to prevent a break between the pro-Leaguers and the Irreconcilables the platfomr committee left the issue wide open for future settlement, when the business of campaigning is safely past. However, the issue hardly can be dodged in that way during the elections. Some sort of "agreement" with "other nations" is favored, but we are left in doubt as to whether the platform committee favors a special agreement with our late enemies or with our late allies in the Great War. Judging by the peace resolution, the intent is rather to go together with the Germans, than with those who fought side by side with our soldiers.

The plank is not an honorable one. It is adopted in the face of a great fear lest expression of honest opinions on the floor of the convention migh imperil the success of the party at the polls. But it will do this, because there must be some loss of confidence in the ability of a party whose chosen delegates are afraid to express themselves. The criticism of the president and his alleged "autocracy" is obvious camouflage, which will deceive nobody.

The platform has one plank worth while, anyway, and that is the plank dealing with agriculture. If—and by reason of past experience we are justified in emphasizing the "if" — the promises therein contained should be fulfilled much good to the nation would result.

The industrial plank, like that dealing with the treaty, is conveniently indefinite, as also is the one dealing with the returned soldier problem.

The platform otherwise is a fair enough sample of these attempts to compromise differing opinions and offer something in black and white to an electorate to ponder. No great amount of time will be devoted to studying this one. The main question comes back to the selection of a presidential candidate. Upon the party's leader will depend just what and how much the platform means.

SWITZERLAND AND THE LEAGUE.

The narrow majority by which the Swiss referendum decided in favor of joining the League of Nations was a great surprise. Even the opponents of the League were astonished at the heavy anti-League vote in some of the cantons. The popular vote—414,954 to 322,886—was perhaps safe enough, but a majority by cantons was also required, and was obtained by the close margin of 11½ to 10½. The Swiss Federal Council had already approved adhesion to the League, and the ratifying referendum thus gives a very precarious majority of confidence, in spite of the vigorous campaign of propaganda carried on throughout the country by the members of the Council.

The division was along racial lines, heavy majorities being returned in favor of the League in the French and Italian-speaking cantons, while the German-speaking cantons went almost as decidedly the other way. While many pro-League papers in Switzerland attribute this to pro-Germanism, the Thurgauer Zeitung explains it otherwise, saying:

The underlying reason for the lack of enthusiasm for the League in German Switzerland is that the League Covenant is bound up with the treaties of peace, which, in the opinion of our people, do not fulfill the promises of the victors.

To call this pro-Germanism is unjust. It is rather a manifestation of a wounded sense of justice. German Switzerland cannot admit that the peace treaties of Versailles and St. Germain constitute a just punishment for the responsibilities of the war. It cannot understand why, a year and a half after the armistice, whole peoples who were misled by their chiefs should still suffer from famine. The children of Vienna in their dumb misery are the best argument against the League of Nations. And the occupation of German cities by black troops has been felt to be cruel and unnecessary humiliation.

Yet even so, this paper is glad that adhesion was voted, "for we cannot picture Switzerland remaining forever outside the League, and it was better to come in at the beginning than later." It believes that if the League will now undertake to dispense "real justice" its enemies will be reconciled.

Most of the Swiss socialists are concentrated in the German-speaking areas and this fact is given much importance. La Revue says the anti-League vote in many sections was "a victory for the Bolshevist clan," while at Berne, according to the Bund, "the Socialists furnished the greater part of the anti-League vote, the bourgeois of town and country being overwhelmingly in favor of the League." On the other hand, the Socialists of the Romanic cantons seem to have voted the other way. At Neufchatel, according to the Journal De Geneve, "more than half of the Socialists left their leaders, Messrs. Graber and Naine, in the lurch," and the same phenomenon was noticed at Fribourg and Valais. The Berne Socialist paper, Tagwacht, comments bitterly:

"Romanic Switzerland has triumphed. It has saved the Federal Council and determined the new political policy of Switzerland. And it will not fail to present, at an opportune time, its bill for 'saving the nation.' "

The paper notes with satisfaction that the Federal Councilors from the Germanic cantons who campaigned for the League were given a stinging rebuke and were saved "only by the votes of French Switzerland—a fact whose political consequences will soon be felt," and then continues:

"The Romanic proletariat betrayed us, not only in the French part of Berne canton, but throughout Romanic Switzerland. The vote is incomprehensible, and reveals in disturbing fashion the political immaturity of the the working class, which allowed itself to be misled by the jingo phrases of the Past of Paris. The party must realize that the revolutionary mentality of these workmen is greatly underdeveloped."

The Tribune De Luazanne says the vote was the heaviest ever registered on a referendum, 77 per cent of the 950,000 voters participating. The vote was heavier in the Germanic sections than in the others. As indicating the wide variance of opinion, it cites the fololwing figures:

Geneva (French) 25,206 yes; 5147 no.

Valais, (French) 19,159 yes, 6030 no.

Tessin, (French) 15,666 yes; 2817 no. (This canton polled the smallest percentage in all Switzerland, less than half the electors voting.)

Zurich, (German) 15,912 yes, 25.015 no .

Basel (German) 10,686 yes; 12,030 no.

Berne (German) 7,777 yes; 12,266 no.

Throughout the country, and especially throughout the French cantons, there were popular demonstrations and celebrations after the announcement of the result.

LABOR CONVENTION MAY SIDETRACK IRISH RESOLUTION.

(By Associated Press)

MONTREAL, June 11.—Vigorous opposition to the proposals of Irish sympathizers that the American Federation of Labor, in convention here, endorse the "Irish Republic," and demand the withdrawal of British troops from Ireland, is forecast. Several Canadian delegates announced they would combat such a move on British soil. Others intimated there was a possibility they would withdraw if the question was brought before the convention for debate.

"We have our own opinions on the Irish question," said a Canadian delegate, "and while they may or may not agree with the wording of the resolution, the convention of the American Federation of Labor is no place to discuss such a topic, especially on British soil."

at 3:30, Chicago time. The delegates were stewing, noisy and clamoring for the end of talk and to start voting. Beveridge gave up the gavel to Senator Smoot. After hearing the Hoover nomination the convention went back to the call of the states.

North Dakota passed and when Ohio was called Frank B. Willis, former governor of the state, took the platform to nominate Senator Harding. Oklahoma passed as did Oregon, and for Pennsylvania Mayor Hoare of Pennsylvania took the platform and nominated Governor Sproul.

There was a steady passing of states until Washington was called when George H. Walker, of Spokane, took the platform and nominated Poindexter.

As the end of the list of nominating speakers drew near the leaders were discussing the plan to take two ballots and then adjourn until tomorrow morning.

While Dr. Butler was being nominated the New York delegation took its first ballot the result being: Butlet 68, Wood 10, Hoover 3, Lowden 2, Coolidge 2, Harding 2, Poindexter 1.

West Virginia was called at 4:45, Chicago time, and Joseph M. Sanders nominated Senator Sutherland.

CONVENTION ADOPTS COMMITTEE'S PLANKS.

tinuous session until a candidate is nominated.

The treaty plank put the Republicans on record for "agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world," and declared the covenant for the league "signally failed" to accomplish peace. It further declared that the league covenant "repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable" the policies of Washington and Monroe.

The unfortunate insistence of the president, upon having his own way without any change, the plank declared, required Senators to vote their own judgment "or submit to the commands of a dictator."

The plank also approved the course of the senators acting in opposition to the covenant and pledged the Republican administration to such agreement with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilization, without surrendering the right of the American people to erercise its judgment and its power in favor of justice and peace.

Other planks dealing with important matters follow:

Foreign Relations.

The foreign policy of the administration has been founded upon no principle and directed by no definite conception of our nation's rights and obligations. It has been humiliating to America and irritating to other nations with the result that after a period of unexampled sacrifice, our motives are suspected, our moral influence impaired and our government stands discredited and friendless among the nations of the world.

"We favor a liberal and generous foreign policy, founded upon definite moral and political principles, characterized by a clear understanding of, and firm adherence upon our own rights and unfailing respect for the rights of others. We should afford full and adequate protection to the life, liberty and property and all international rights of every American citizen and should require a proper respect for the American flag; but we should be equally careful to manifest a just regard for the rights of other nations.

A scrupulous observance of our international engagements when lawfully assumed is essential to our own honor and self respect and the respect of other nations. Subject to a due regard for our international obligations, we should leave our country free to develop its civilization along the line most conducive to the happiness and welfare of the people, and to cast its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require.

Agriculture.

The farmer is the backbone of the nation. National greatness and economic independence demand a population distributed between industry and the farm, sharing on equal terms the prosperity which is wholly dependent on the efforts of both. Neither can prosper at the expense of the other without inviting joint disaster.

The crux of the present agricultural conditions lies in prices, labor and in credit.

The Republican party believes that this condition can be improved by practical and adequate farm representation in the appointment of governmental officials and commissions; the right to form cooperative associations for marketing their products, and protection against discrimination; the scientific study of agricultural prices and farm production costs at home and abroad with a view to reducing the frequency of abnormal fluctuations; the uncensored publication of such reports; the authorization of associations; extension of personal credit; a national inquiry on the coordination of rail, water and motor transportation, with adequate facilities for receiving, handling and marketing feed; the encouragement of our export trade; an end to unnecessary price fixing and ill considered efforts arbitrarily to reduce the prices of farm products which invariably result to the disadvantage of both producer and consumer; and the encouragement of the production and importation of fertilizing material and of its extensive use.

The federal farm loan act should be so administered as to facilitate the acquisition of farm land by those desiring to become owners and proprietors and thus minimize the evils of farm tenancy, and to furnish much long time credit as farmers may need to finance adequately their larger and long time production operations.

Industrial Relations.

There are two different conceptions of the relations of capital and labor. The one is contractual, and emphasizes the diversity of interests of employer and employe. The other is that of co-partnership in a common task.

We recognize the justice of collective bargaining as a means of promoting good will, establishing closer and more harmonious relations between employer and employes and realizing the true end of individual justice. The strike or the lockout as a means of settling industrial disputes, inflicts such loss and suffering on the community as to justify government initiative to reduce its frequency and limit its consequences.

We deny the right to strike against the government; but the rights and interests of all government employes must be safeguarded by impartial laws and tribunals.

In public utilities we favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to make an investigation of the facts and to render a decision to the end that there may be no organized interruption of service to the lives and health and welfare of the people. The decisions of the tribunals to be morally but not legally binding, and an informed public sentiment to be relied upon to secure their acceptance. The tribunal, however, should refuse to accept jurisdiction except for the purpose of investigation, as long as the public service be interrupted. For public utilities we favor the type of tribunal provided for in the transportation act of 1920.

In private industries we do not advocate the principle of compulsory arbitration, but we favor impartial commission and better facilities for voluntary meditation, conciliation and arbitration, supplemented by that full publicity which will enlist the influence of an aroused public opinion. The government should take the initiative in inviting the establishment of tribunals or commissions for the purpose of voluntary arbitration and investigation of this issue.

We demand the exclusion from interstate commerce of the products of convict labor.

Free Speech and Agitation.

We demand that every American citizen shall enjoy the ancient and constitutional right of free speech, free press and free assembly, and the no less sacred right of qualified voter to be represented by his duly chosen representatives, but no man may advocate resistance to the law and no man may advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Aliens within the jurisdiction of the United States are not entitled of right to liberty of agitation directed against the government or American institutions.

Every government has the power to exclude and deport these aliens who constitute a real menace to its peaceful existence. But in view of the large numbers of people affected by the immigration acts and in view of the vigorous malpractice of the department of justice and labor, an adequate public hearing before a competent administrative tribunal should be assured to all.

Railroads.

We are opposed to government ownership and operation or employe operation of the railroads. In view of the conditions prevailing in the country the experiences of the last two years and the conclusions which may be fairly drawn from an observation of the transportation systems of other countries, it is clear that adequate transportation service both for the present and future can be furnished more certainly, economically and efficiently through private ownership and operation under proper regulation and control.

The Service Men.

We hold in imperishable remembrance the valor and the patriotism of the soldiers and sailors of America, who fought in the great war for human liberty and we pledge ourselves to discharge to the fullest the obligations which a grateful nation justly should fulfill, in appreciation of the services rendered by its defenders on sea and on land.

Liberal legislation for the care of the disabled and infirm and their dependents has ever marked republican policy toward the soldier and sailor of all wars in which our country has participated. The present congress has appropriated generously for the disabled of the world war. The amounts already applied and authorized for the fiscal year 1920-21 for this purpose reached the stupendous sum of $1,180,571,893. This legislation is significant of the party's purpose in generously caring for the maimed and disabled men of the war.

Theappeal charges that th eofficials who took part in the Winnipeg strike are now conspiring with the Canadian government in refusing the appeal to the Privy Council for the workers "incarecrated in our jails for their duty toward labor."
