Tyce-Sappho News

By MRS. J. E. MERRITT

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Konopacki returned home Sunday, April 16, from a two month vacation trip to California and Arizona. They hitched up their trailer February 1 and started a leisurely trip down the coast. They spent a few days in Santa Rosa, visiting Eddie's aunt, Mrs. Rose Baldwin, and then went on to Pismo Beach, which they liked so well they decided to stay there a few days and try their luck at digging the Pismo Clams which Harriett had read about in Sunset Magazine. The tide wasn't right, so the K's got only one, but those clams are large, and the one was split in half and fried for dinner. (Boy, it must be real tender and delicious.)

They spent a month in the Los Angeles area, parked their trailer in Harriett's brother-in-law's yard (he is Elmer Geiger, and late wife was Harriett's sister) and were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Storms in San Gabriel.

They visited many friends and relatives and there was no point of interest that they missed, while there. After a month the Konopackis hitched up the trailer and drove down to San Diego for a few days. They did a lot of sight-seeing there and enjoyed the balmy weather. From San Diego they drove to Apache Junction, Arizona, where they spent two weeks, enjoying the 80 to 90 degree heat and visiting Mrs. Mabel Gibson and son Gary. Mrs. Gibson formerly lived in Beaver and Sappho.

They came home by way of Grand Canyon and Las Vegas and stopped for one day at Medford, Oregon.

Meeds Eyes Junk Mail

The ever-increasing deluge of "junk mail" which has irritated citizens here, is being combated by Meeds, who has stirred up new interest in Congress.

And at least one Congressman, Lloyd Meeds of Washington's Second District, hopes to be able to do something about it.

Meeds also is trying to bring attention to the problem of unsolicited third class mail by citizens of the return of that mail if it costs the returner anything.

Such a two-pronged approach might decrease Post Office revenue deficits, curtail mass mailing of unsolicited mail and cut heavy weight into the traffic of obscene mail.

Proposals have been made in Congress for an across-the-board increase in all postal rates. Meeds, who noted that first class mail already is carrying its own share of the Post Office loss, said that he is concerned about the large subsidy for third class mail.

In giving a substantial subsidy to a non-profit organization, such as a newspaper, advertising industry which competes with other advertising media now paying their full share of taxes and related criminal offenses.

The Department of Justice obtained a total of 1,227 convictions in tax fraud cases referred to it by IRS.

Federal judges imposed average prison terms of 318 days, imposed probation or suspended sentences totaling 2,448 years, and levied fines totaling $2.5 million against convicted tax evaders. In addition to these fines, taxes and penalties of $179 million were recommended for assessment in the criminal cases.

Such taxpayers are liable for their entire civil tax, penalties and interest as well as for the additional amounts imposed for fraud.

Presently third class mailing costs 2.78 cents per letter under the current rate schedule. Third class mail from non-profit organizations qualifies for a lower rate, a policy Meeds would like to see retained regardless of whatever cost at which the category finally is pegged.

Small increases in third class mailing rates in the past—none of which brought the category near a parity with the other two—has not been enough to cover the cost of the increase on the total mail volume. The primary "junk mail" class was a class of mail which was not subject to a rate from the Olympic Peninsula—doctors from the Olympic Peninsula—to emphasize his opposition to "junk mail" sent one day.

Strawberry Point Was Our Goal

Once more Louie made up our pack but with the memory of the last trip in mind he fixed them much lighter. I weighed 5 pounds less than I did when we went to Strawberry and I never did have much poundage on my shoulders so I had even less this time which didn't do much for my comfort with those heavy duty straps again.

We drove to Third Beach trail and liked in Louie said we would have to cut across Taylor's Point since the tide was too high to allow us to walk around it on the beach. He took off like he planned to beat the tide anyhow while I tried unsuccessfully to match my steps with his strides and only succeeded in a second rate dog trot. The marker where the trail leaves the beach was missing but Louie seemed to know when to start sealing the cliff while I clawed my way up both him breathing hard on his pack. When we finally reached the top and began the trek across country I thought this was really going to be easy. We were going thru Newport's old homestead (may God bless his brave and hardy soul) trees were sparsely spaced, very little underbrush and a nice path. If I had voiced my thoughts Louie would probably have taken me by the hand and led me back as they did in the world today, every Christian needs endurance. All sessions of the Assn. of Washington's newest and most unique tourist attractions is the newly-revived COMSAT tracking station. This film to everyone who has interest in the physical world.
