HERALD CANDIDATES RUNNING CLOSE IN RACE FOR BIG PRIZES

MIDDLE PERIOD OF CONTEST LIKELY TO PROVE DECISIVE

So close does the big race now stand among the headliners that the next eleven days are vitally important. Most determined efforts are being made now.

The entire race in the Herald mammoth prize campaign is literally neck and neck at this stage and it will be an honor long to be remembered to win out in such an election—to say nothing of the $2500 awards awaiting the biggest victors. The winners will be deserving of and will certainly receive the plaudits and congratulations of all Clallam county. Never before have such valuable gifts been presented and never before has such an election of any character assumed the magnitude or attracted the intense interest of the populace as the present Herald enterprise.

Going along at a record pace, Miss Lola Welter retains first place in District No. 1. Miss Welter has a host of friends all over the community who are seemingly as much interested in the success of her campaign as she is herself, and they are hoping that she can retain her present high position in the battle.

Again the honor of leading District No. 2 has gone to Miss Catherine Monson of Dungeness. This popular young lady has been one of the real contenders ever since she entered this campaign. She may be difficult to beat in her district for she already is gaining strength on the second period schedule.

Another one of the leading contenders for one of the big prizes in the first district is Miss Doris Cooney. Miss Cooney has been making a wonderful race and has had little difficulty in getting near the top of the list of workers.

Miss Clara Young continues to gain and stands right up with the leaders. Miss Young is very popular in the city and is one of the candidates who is expected to gain in strength as the campaign approaches the finale—her friends assert that she will be mighty hard to beat for first position, from the manner in which she has been polling votes recently.

Miss Norma O'Brien is the attractive little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Brien and has been one of the highest contestants from the very start of the race. She is fortunate in having the assistance of her well known mother and sister in electioneering—as she is one of the livest hustlers in the whole campaign.

One of the biggest gainers of the whole campaign is Mrs. M. T. Powers. Although a few days late in starting Mrs. Powers evidently possesses many friends all over this part of the state, who are coming to her support in a manner for which she is one of the leading factors for the first honors of the race.

One of the most likeable contestants in the race, judging from the support he is getting is Mr. Edw. Rupert. Mr. Rupert is showing the contestants what can be done in a very short time by perserverance. Mr. Rupert is displaying real salesmanship ability and continuing in the same way he has started will certainly be one of the strong contenders for first honors. We are still waiting to hear from Mrs. Fuller and also Mrs. Coble Rowe.

One of the biggest gains made by any one candidate yet recorded was that made by Miss Lee Ona Copeland of Forks in District No. 2. She is receiving real support from both her town and surrounding country and the coming week may see her leading her district if she makes another such gain. Miss Copeland is the daughter of Mr. Copeland, proprietor of the Forks Hotel. She is a very popular young lady and her friends say they will support her to the very last minute.

We would be very much pleased to hear from Miss Sadie Rogers. The Contest Manager was informed when he arrived at Port Angeles that Miss Rogers was one of the livest wires in this section. We hope Miss Rogers will prove to be as represented.

The contest manager was very sorry to hear that Miss Edith Bohl was taken sick with rheumatism and had to quit the race. This is too bad as Miss Bohl no doubt would have made some of the candidates hustle for that Sedan car had her health continued.

TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Contestants must necessarily depend upon the assistance of their friends and acquaintances to win or lose. If you have not as yet paid your subscription, do so at onceand help one of the ambitious candidates along. Your subscription will be welcomed and an offer of voluntary assistance will meet with just appreciation on the part of the recipient. You probably intend taking the Herald—you need it if you are a resident of Clallam County—so why not pay for two or three years or even five years in advance and give the votes to the candidates of your choice.

It should be remembered that the big votes will be discontinued one week from next Tuesday night, August 3rd, and as close as the race now stands IT IS IMPERATIVE FOR THE CANDIDATES TO WORK EVERY REMAINING DAY IF THEY WISH TO WIN.

SOLDIERS DECLARE SHOTS WERE FIRED FROM MONASTERY

(By Associated Press)

BELFAST, July 23.—Shooting was renewed this morning in the Kashmire Streeta rea where fighting occurred last night, in clashes between Unionists and Sinn Feiners, with military intervention. Early in the renewal of hostilities one man was reported wounded by a shot that passed through the window of his home.

It was definitely stated this morning that ten persons were killed last night in the hostilities and more than 100 persons wounded in fighting.

The soldiers complained that they were fired on from a monastery and alleged the Sinn Feiner scouts were engaged in bringing up reinforcements to the monastery.

NEGRO ADMITS SEVEN MURDERS

(By Associated Press)

SANTA ANA, Calif., July 23.—Mose Gibson, the negro sentenced to hang for the murder of Roy Trapp, a rancher of Fullerton, California, near here, confessed to a total of seven murders and innumerable robberies, according to a statement made here today by Sheriff C. E. Jackson, of Orange Co., immediately after his return from taking Gibson to San Quentin penitentiary. Those murdered are:

J. R. Revis, restaurant keeper, Bayton Rouge Junction, California.

A storekeeper at Wagoner, Gridnie County, Louisiana, November, 920.

Watchman at the sugar mill at Gramercy, St. James Parish, La., November, 1910.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Earhart, at Phoenix, Arizona, June 12, 1920.

Roy Trapp, Fullerton, California, July 15, 1920.

WATKINS, OHIO, HEADS TICKET OF PROHIBITION

(By Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Neb., July 23.—Ohio got its third presidential candidate for the 1920 campaign when the prohibition national convention nominated Aaron S. Watkins of Germantown, Ohio, after learning from W. J. Bryan that he would not accept the nomination voted him Wednesday.

Mr. Watkins won on the second ballot after he and R. H. Patton had each received 85 votes on the first. The vote on the second ballot was, Aarson S. Watkins, 108; R. M. Patton, 74; D. A. Poling, 24; C. A. Randall, 2. It took 105 votes to nominate.

The party adopted a platform favoring the league of nations but expressing no opposition to reservations, advocating a greater participation by women in federal agencies for bettering the condition of workers, compromising farmers' aid in equalizing prices, securing farm labor and ccoperative marketing and demanding industrial courts to end industrial warfare.

Discussing the situation upon his arrival at Bozeman, Montana, after he had received the telegram urging him to make the race, William Jennings Bryan made the following statement: "I realize that there are many good people who are greatly disappointed in the nominations by the republican and democratic parties and also disappointed with the silence of the old party platforms on the subject of prohibition and the enforcement of the prohibition law, but while I would be pleased if I could accede to their request and make it possible for them to vote for me, I realize also that there are millions of democrats who have helped to place the eighteenth amendment on the constitution of the United States and who have been my staunch friends in this fight. I fell that I cannot ignore them and I believe I can be of greater assistance by remaining in the democratic party and assisting them in the future than by stepping outside of the party even to make the race for president."

GOLD DREDGING ENGINEER HERE

D. S. Oliver, engineer of the Pendleton Gold Mining Corporation, which has holdings in McDames Creek, in the Laird District, British Columbia, is in Port Angeles a guest at the Patterson Hotel.

Mr. Oliver says that in his opinion the McDames Creek is the richest placer mining section in the western hemisphere now, as gravel taken from 14 feet below the surface at their claim showed $58 in coarse gold to the cubic yard. They have one dredge to install as soon as it arrives on the scene and have two others being manufactured and expect to have all three working next spring.

Mr. Oliver was for many years employed at the Puget Sound Navy Yard as a machinist. He left the navy yard when offered a position as master mechanic for the Pendleton Gold Mining Corporation. He expects to leave within a week or ten days for the McDames Creek in order to be on the ground to superintend the installation of the dredge and the other machinery and equipment.

FRENCH MARCH UPON DAMASCUS

BEIRUT, Syria, July 23.—French troops, on the failure of King Feizel, of Syria to begin evacuation, according to the terms of the ultimatum, began a march on Damascus yesterday.

They encountered no opposition and are proceeding towards Aleppo.

A CLINCHER ON CHAUTAUQUA CONTROVERSY

Editor, Daily Herald:

I wish to reply to the statement made by Mrs. Webb, who is here representing the West Coast Chautauqua, in which she accuses me of telling what is not true about their chautauqua at Chehalis, making her statement under oath. Here is my statement she refers to:

"I have just come from Chehalis, Washington, where the West Coast had a Chautauqua. We also had ours. In the first place the people signed up for the West Coast because on the face of the contract it looked fine. They thought they were going to get part of the dividends. Instead of that the guarantors had to pay ten dollars as a deficit and they told the West Coast Chautauqua that they wanted no more of that. We have just closed our Ellison - White Chautauqua there. No one had any deficit to pay. Everybody was satisfied and every bank in town and all the business, professional and educational interests of the town invited us back, and signed the guarantee for next year. I have the list of names with me and anyone can see them. This was after both Chautauquas had given their programs. They unanimously turned down the West Coast and unanimously took the Ellison-White."

Here is Mrs. Webb's sworn statement: "That the West Coast Chautauqua has not given a program at Chehalis during the season of 1920 nor have they ever put on a summer chautauqua at Chehalis, Washington. That the statement made by Mrs. M. C. Reed, superintendent of the Ellison-White Chautauqua, in the Daily Herald of July 21 in regard to this matter is therefore incorrect and misleading. Signed Vonnie Owings Webb."

Here is a telegram from D. W. Noble, president of the National Bank, dated July 20, 1920, addressed to one of your local banks reading as follows:

"Chehalis, Washington, July 20, 1920 West Coast Chautauqua cost local guarantors $10 each. Ellison-White summer chautauqua just closed satisfactory. Signed, D. W. Noble."

I can testify personally that they had a chautauqua there as I have just come from that place. As to the time of holding their chautauqua it could not have been very long ago, for their agent who got the contract signed up, told me not later than last Friday that he had not as yet received his pay for doing the work and that he was going into the office again to see if he could collect it. The point I wish to make, and have made most conclusively, is that wherever both Chautauquas have been in the same town and the people have had the opportunity to judge, they have taken our chautauqua because it gives the best program that can be given for the money, and on the best terms that is consistent with good service. If you do not get a good program you have no chautauqua, no matter what the terms of the contract are. In conclusion I will give a few more telegrams from places where we have both been. Here is one from the First National Bank of Grangerville, Idaho:

"Grangerville, Idaho, July 21, 1920. General sentiment here favors Ellison-White Chautauqua. Signed, First National Bank." Here is another:

"Primville, Oregon, July 21, 1920. West Coast Chautauqua unsatisfactory. Ellison-White good. Signed, First National Bank."

I could multiply these if necessary and I am only giving testimonials of National banks where they have had both chautauquas. I personally, have nothing against the West Coast Chautauqua nor anyone connected with it, nor any other system, but I do think that all chautauquas should maintain even in the slightest detail of business management those high ideals which from the platform it seeks to instill in others.

POLES ASK MORAL AID OF AMERICA

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23. — Poland has asked the state department to formally announce to the world the moral support of the United States for Poland in its battle with the Russian Bolsheviki.

The suggestion also was made that some expression from President Wilson would be welcomed and would do much to stiffen the morale of the Polish people.

WARSAW, July 22.—Poland today sent armistice proposals direct to the Soviet overnment at Moscow. After those proposals had been dispatched by wireless, a new Polish cabinet was formed under the premiership of Witos. The Polish message was short tnd to the point.

There was some delay in dispatching it owing to the collapse of the Polish cabinet. A reply is expected by Friday night.

DUNGENESS HAS MOVIE THEATRE FOR CHILDREN

(By Our Correspondent.)

DUNGENESS, July 23.—The East End Marine Band gave a concert in Athletic Park, Sunday afternoon. It was a fine day and the crowd enjoyed the good music.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lotzgasell, accompanied by Miss Ruth Anderson, returned Monday evening from a two days' trip to Seattle. Miss Anderson has been a guest for the past week.

It is reported that the plant of the Glendale Creamery Co., which was to close out by August 1st, is soon to be run on a cooperative basis, by several Dungeness ranchers and business men who have bought the local interests of the company.

The Dungeness picture house gave its opening performance last Saturday night. The machine was purchased and installed at the expense of the people in the Dungeness school district, and is one of a very few in the state operated solely for the benefit of the pupils.

It has been chiefly due to the untring efforts of Mr. C. J. Seal and Mr. J. Mapes that the school children are to have the advantage of carefully selected films, that will be principally educational.

Pictures will be shown every Saturday night, and every other week the Vantier Bros. will furnish music during the show and afterwards for a dance. All proceeds for the benefit of the school.

The machine which is one of the best in the county, is to be operated by Mr. Miller who has kindly offered his services free of charge.

The screen is metallic, which next to glass, is considered the best obtainable. This week the main feature will be a six reel film entitled, "Out of the Woods." a Bray Picturegraph and Ford comedy will follow.

James Lotzgasell went to Seattle, Wednesday on the Sol Duc on a short business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Hart spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Dungeness with Mrs. Hart's parents.

Nineteen members of the Dungeness Boys' and Girls' Club left on the Sol Duc Thursday for the convention at Puyallup. They were chaperoned by Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Schumacher.

SPECTACULAR CONTEST RESULTS IN SECOND DEFEAT OF CHALLENGER

(By Associated Press)

SANDY HOOK, July 23.—Resolute won today's international cup race after a spectacular race, and tied two to two with Shamrock IV in the fight for America's Cup.

Resolute dashed first across the line at 1:1-35 official time and Shamrock followed at 1:1-56. Then both plunged forward on the first ten mile leg of the 30-mile triangular course—a beat to windward down the Jersey shore.

As Shamrock was 23 seconds behind Resolute in crossing the line and had to give the defender a time handicap of 6 minutes and 40 seconds, she had to finish 6 minutes and 18 seconds ahead of the Resolute to win.

Skipping along in front of Shamrock IV, Resolute turned the first mark at 2:34-47 and sped away on the second ten mile leg, a reach out to sea. The green sloop followed the defender around the first mark at 2:26-56.

The Resolute turned the second mark at 3:25-49. Shamrock turned the mark at 3:27-16.

After having beaten the Shamrock to the first mark on the ten-mile beat to windward the defender had sped away on the second leg with the wind increasing to a 15-knot breeze, throwing the water in a shower of spray. Although the green sloop did her best to catch the American craft in the second leg she was unable to do more than cut down very slowly her rival's lead of a half a mile.

Shamrock passed Resolute within three miles of the finish, but about a mile from the finish Resolute broke out her ballooner and drew past the Shamrock.

The official finishing time was Resolute 4:39-25, Shamrock IV 4:43-6.

The official elapsed time was Resolute 3:37-52, Shamrock 3:41-10. By this figuring Resolute won by three minutes, 18 second elapsed time, plus her time allowance of 6 minutes, 40 seconds, making a corrected time of 9 minutes, 58 seconds.

Despite the announcement from a Staten Island shipyard that the two sloops would be drydocked if Resolute won today, the Regatta committee signalled the final race for tomorrow.

EX-SOLDIER CANDIDATES.

Editor, Daily Herald:

To all stay-at-home patriots: Now is the time to show just how muh was patriotism and how much was bunk.

When the boys were over there dying and sweating for this Country, do you remember how we stood around telling each other how much we would do for them when they got back?

Now those that could get back are here, and some will come out as candidates in their respective parties this coming election. As men, Uncle Sam has put his O. K. on them, why not Clallam County?

We made no mistake when we picked them to do our fighting; will we have the nerve to turn them down at election?

They may not be professional politicians, having been too busy with other duties, and their ideas may not conform with ours, but say, don't mention it, maybe they can get the good old ship back on an even keel, if we haven't got it too far gone while they were away.

We will not have to change our party affiliations to support them, there is enough to go around, good reliable men, that will be a credit to this county if we can prevail on them to file and then get out and elect them.

Don't expect them to come around with the glad hand and the campaign dope; that's old stuff and I don't believe they will use it, but you can depend on them to deliver the goods when they get in office, and that's what we want.

What do you say to putting those we can in the State and County offices this coming election?

CIVIC PRIDE.

When the downtown street work, now under way, is completed we may expect the beginning of a spirit of civic pride in Port Angeles which will lead always on to greater achievements.

It has been difficult for the citizen to be anything but apologetic to the visitor when taking him or her through the business section of the citq. The old plank roadways and sidewalks are shabby and most of the buildings are mean.

The roads and sidewalks will soon be paved and new buildings are beginning to take the place of the disreputable old shacks which belonged to the days of fishing village and the Socialist colony. It will become the duty of every citizen to uneeasingly work for more new buildings. Maybe we shall have to boycott the shacks and thus illuminate the minds of absentee owners. Anyway, when that civic pride gets working in good shape things will move—and move rapidly.

PLANS OF THE ODD PARTIES IN STATE.

After several days of maneuvering at Yakima something definite, that is yet not decisive, has been arrived at. The Triple Alliance, standing aside from the Non-Partisan League officials has determined to place a third ticket in the field for the coming elections, provided that this decision is maintained by a referendum of members. The Non-Partisan League, the Railway Men's Welfare League and the Workers' Non-Partisan League—an off shoot of the farmers' organization—on the other hand decided to invade the Republican primaries and endeavor to nominate their candidates on the Republican ticket.

It is obvious that the split noted above reduces whatever effectiveness joint action by these various organizations might have had in the coming campaign. The lines drawn at Yakima are peculiar and difficult for the outsider to understand. There is jealousy between the farmers' and workers' organizations and there is wide divergence of opinion regarding political methods between the Non-Partisan League and organized labor, while the unions seem to be somewhat at outs with the railroad men's leagues. Taken by and large it does not appear that much success can attend the disjointed efforts which the various bodies will put forth.

The real difficulty attending the Yakima gathering, as at the recent Chicago conventions, is the lack of leadership. For perhaps the first time we can see an attempt at democratic organization for political purposes—that is the building of a new organization from the bottom up. The result to date certainly can not be considered encouraging. There are as many views as there are groups of men; as many opinions as there are delegates.

The result is a babel of voices signifying the Lord only knows what, unless it is discontent with existing conditions, and there is no leader able to say how the discontent may be remedied.

Little can be accomplished by men who cannot trust each other and who are so unwilling to submerge unimportant differences for the common welfare. The third party movement in this state is a failure for lack of leadership.

Daily Editorial Digest.

ELEVATING THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

Senator Harding's promise to "elevate" the vice presidency by making the incumbent of that hitherto much-ridiculed office his "Chief Partner", "has met with quite general approval throughout the country," judging from press comments, as the Senator's own paper, the Marion Star (Rep.) proudly remarks. The fact that both tickets present a good, strong candidate for the "second in command" seems to appeal to the newspapers, and the great majority consider that it would be a fine thing for the President, Congress, and the public if either these men could "sit in" when his Chief meets with the official family.

The New York World (Dem.), however, is not enthusiastic over the idea. It hints that perhaps the Senate would not care for the arrangement, especially in the event of a recurrence of the present situation, in which the Vice President is "allied with the minority in Congress." The New York Times (Ind. Dem.) goes so far as to admit that the idea is "engaging," and while the Constitution already provides ways and means for aiding the Vice President in becoming "versed in the public business" attending cabinet meetings might prove of further assistance. But the Times doubts that this or "any other extra-legal scheme" will make the office "essentially different from what it has been."

While it may not make much difference in election results this year, suggests the Providence Tribune (Ind. Rep.), for the voters will choose between Harding and Cox, still the people may well hope that some arrangement may be made whereby Franklin Roosevelt or Governor Coolidge, which ever of them is elected, "may take a more active and influential part in shaping the nation's course than the recent Vice Presidents have been permitted to take." The Knoxville Journal and Tribune (Rep.) agrees:

"The Vice President should be made to feel that there is something more for him to do and to think about than merely presiding over the sessions of the Senate. The office should be made and regarded as of sufficient honor and importance that no one would feel it beneath his dignity to seek and obtain that office."

Speaking with satisfaction that comes from due recognition of a favorite son, the Boston Herald (Ind. Rep.) believes that "in his relation with Mr. Harding as President, Calvin Coolidge as Vice President will have full share in the councils and responsibilities of the government." From the middle west another admirer of the Massachusetts governor, the Minneapolis Tribune (Rep.) voices its pleasure; "the public will learn with approval," it declares, "of the purpose of Mr. Harding to employ the Vice President" in restoring harmony between the legislative and administrative branches of the government."

The Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Dem.) supports Mr. Harding's announcement and explains that it "is not a suggestion of constitutional change but a reasonable concession to the heir-apparent of the Presidency." It continues:

"We think the idea is sound as affecting a man like Governor Coolidge and even more so as affecting a man like Franklin Roosevelt. It would not be surprising if Governor Cox should make the same announcement. It is a wholesome thing to dignify the Vice Presidency. Its isolation from the administrative sphere is one phase of our system that is regrettable. The Harding notion of ending such isolation by executive fiat is wholly practical and admirable."

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

DO YOU DO IT THIS WAY?

Five years ago the head editor of a large magazine was talking to a friend of mine about his assistants, of whom he had three at the time and of whom he had had at least a dozen in the course of his work on that magazine.

Couldn't Read Copy But—

"He," he said, naming one of them, "is one of the two poorest copy readers in the country, but I wouldn't give him up for half a dozen perfect copy readers."

"Why?" he was asked.

"Because he is the only man I ever had who would make up his mind about a story without referring his decision to me," he said.

That, as I said, was five years ago. Recently my friend was telling me about the assistant of whom the editor spoke and with whom he himself had pust come into contact. The former assistant is now the editor of one of the largest and wealthiest magazines in the whole country.

Could Trust His Own Judgment

Think of it—a rise like that in five years! Of course he had other good qualities of which we do not happen to know; but there is no question that the one of which his chief spoke, had much to do with his rapid rise. He could make up his mind. He was not afraid to trust his own judgment.

There is no better habit that any young man or woman in business can cultivate than the habit of accepting responsibility.

The man who is afraid to make up his mind, even on minor matters, without his chief's O. K., may never get fired but he won't often get raised either.

(Besides which, if he bothers his chief too often and at the wrong time, he may also get fired.)

A Symptom and a Cause.

The habit of indecision is both one of the symptoms and the cause of an unhealthy mental condition. If you find that you have a nervous dread of deciding any question, that you try to get others to decide for you or to make circumstances decide, that is the time to get after both your physical and your mental health and see what can be done to improve them.

Of course I do not mean that to make important decisions rashly is a good thing either in business or private life. The thing to do is to think things over clearly and fully, and then without waiting for the issues to get confused by too much mulling over them, to make the best decision one can and be ready to stand by one's judgment.

The Girl Who Smiled Throug

By MARION RUBINGAM

WAS IT LOVE?
CHAPTER V.

A few days after the visit to the Model Farm, Alice chanced upon David Thorne driving out of the livery stable a few blocks from her home. He had the same little runabout and the same grey horse with which they had driven to Five Corners.

"Want to come?" he asked cordially, as he pulled up the horse and jumped to the pavement.

"I'd like to, but I can't this afternoon," Alicesaid reluctantly.

"What are you doing then?" he asked, looking at the "string bag" that swung from her arm, and at the gigantic bunch of roses she held.

"I'm going visiting," she told him.

"Visits can always be put off," he urged.

"Not this one," Alice answered decisively. And as he continued to urge she added:

"Over in the foreign section there's a little girl of fourteen who has been crippled for two years. I go over every week and carry her flowers and packages with surprises in them. And I mustn't disappoint her now."

"All right, I'll go along," David decided suddenly. "May be we can drive your young friend round her block, if it would amuse her."

"It would be heaven for her," Alice said, and her eyes shone.

They drove over to that section of the town commonly known as "Dagotown," though only a part of its inhabitants was Italian. Every town or city has such a section; they look alike, they are all equally dreary. Some of the houses were wood,, many were piece upon piece of rusted tin, a very few were of brick. Rubbish collected faster than it could be swept away, and no attempt to pave the streets had apparently ever been made. As Farmington was small, the houses in the foreign quarter boasted small chicken runs and gardens, fenced off by dead branches of trees interlaced with more rusted bits of tin.

It was a general dead level of greys and browns, and in its setting Alice and her huge bunch of red roses fairly radiated light and color and cleanliness.

She disappeared into one of the houses, while David and his carriage were promptly surrounded by a group of unwashed urchins. He amused himself for a time by handing out pennies, until the small group grew to immense proportions and his change gave out.

"Is she a teacher?" one youngster asked, perking his thumb to the house to indicate Alice.

"I don't think so," David answered.

"What's her name?" one asked.

"She's the Happy Lady, didn' je know dat?" one of them answered in scorn at the other's ignorance.

"The Happy Lady, eh? That's a good name," David said. He stared at the door through which Alice had disappeared. Yes, she was a Happy Lady! He remembered her ready smile, her shining eyes, her sudden laugh. Even in repose, she seemed radiant—as she had looked when with her glowing armful of flowers she disappeared into the dark little house.

She came out presently, her blue eyes serious and appealing.

"Would you like to do something awfully nice?" she asked. David looked down into that exquisite color, so deep he almost forgot to answer. Then he caught himself.

"Of course," he answered.

"Peppita—that's my little friend—has been feeling badly. Would you like to drive her out to the Farm with us? It would make her happy for weeks."

"Sure," David answered slangil But as Alice ran back for her charg he felt a sudden disappointment. An not even the obvious pleasure of th shy, pale faced little Italian girl mad up to him the loss of the sole compan ionship of the Happy Lady.

But when his errand was done, and Peppita had been deposited at her home again, he cheered up. At least he was alone with Alice for the all too brief drive to her house.

"Now, for being good, you'll let me call on you tonight, won't you?" he asked.

Alice smiled with pleasure, then she remembered something and shook her head.

"I neglected all my afternoon work and I must do it tonight," she decided. "But—" she noted his look of disappointment, "tomorrow evening?"

"Until tomorrow then," he answered. And she again felt the rush of a warm sweet emotion. And with the start of a song on her lips, she ran up the steps of her house.

Tomorrow—Roses.

Melba Pays Tribute to Welsh Singers

Famous Welsh Singing Organization Under Direction of Madame Hughes-Thomas at Chautauqua on Fourth Day

Ellison-White present on the fourth day of Chautauqua a feature musical attraction in the Royal Welsh Lady Singers of Wales, Great Britain, under the direction of Madame Hughes-Thomas. Coming from the traditional "land of song," this organization has long been regarded as the foremost interpreters of Welsh national music and in their successive tours of England, France, South Africa, Australia and America, they have been welcomed with real enthusiasm by all music lovers.

The great singer Melba said recently: "The Royal Welsh Lady Singers are magnificent; they are perfectly splendid, and you may say I said so. The program was of high class, and the artists were artists of distinction and distinguished talent, and they evoked repeated encores from a discriminating audience."

DID YOU EVER READ KIPLING'S STORY ABOUT THE BLIND ARTIST?

All who have read Kipling's book, "The Light That Failed," will remember the pathetic story about an artist who gradually went blind. Many people today are gradually losing their sight by exposing their eyesite to strong light, by ever taxing their eyes by refusing to wear glasses when Nature demands them. Don't risk losing your sight. Have your eyes examined now and learn their true condition.

SEATTLE MARKETS.

SEATTLE, July 22.—Steady on cattle and sheep and stronger on hogs at last week's closing quotations were conditions at the stock yards opening this week.

Hog receipts were 240 head, sold on a stronger market and all moved quickly. The market was fully 25c higher, topping the list at $17.85.

Hog quotations: Prime, $17.25 at 17.85; medium to choice, $16.25 at 17.-25; rough heavies, 14.50 at $15.50; pigs $12.50 at $13.50.

The cattle market was steady and featureless, with arrivals of 91 head, all sold. The offerings consisted principally of secondary cows and a few steers of fair average quality.

Cattle quotations: Prime, $10.50 at 11; medium to choice $9 at 10; common to good, $6 at 7.50; best cows and heifers, $8 at 8.50 ;medium to choice, $7 at 8; common to good, $5 at 6.50; bulls, $5.50 at $6.50, calves $7 at 14.

Scarcity of eggs moved prices up to 44 cents for local and 42 for eastern and Oregon. Heavy poultry shipments last week were absorbed by cold storage plants. Butter firm with light receipts.

Sheep quotations: Lambs $10 at 12.-50; valley lambs, $11 at 11.50; yearlings, $8.50 at 9.50; wethers, $7 at 8; ewes, $5 at 7.

The local spud market is holding barely steady. Several Washington districts are now offering Kennewick stock in carload lots, with quotations off the crub at 6 1-2 cents per lb. Jobbers do not anticipate any radical price reductions for the balance of this month, but feel certain that sharp precessions will come in August.

Oversuuply of rain cut cherries deluged the street Saturday, causing a glut and price-cutting and an unsettled market for bings at 1c per lb.

Wholesalers to Producers:

Eggs: Puget Sound select ranch, 43 at 45c per dozen; Eastern Washington, Oregon and Idaho, nominal.

Butter Fat: F. O. B. stations, 60c per lb.; raw milk, $2.80 per cwt.; dairy 33c per lb.; baker's 28c per lb.; fresh dairy 38c per lb.

Poultry: Broilers, 1 1-2 lbs, and up, 28c per lb.; do 1 and 1 1-4 lbs., 22c each; hens, live 3 at 3 1-2 lbs, 18c per lb.; 4 lbs. and over, 27c per lb.

Hogs, choice block, 80 to 150 lbs., 17 at 20c per lb.; do heavy 18c per lb.

Beef Steers, fat, 12c per lb; heifers, fat 12c per lb.; cows and bulls, 10 at 11c per lb.

Veal: Fancy light, 19 at 21c per lb.; do medium, 14 at 17c per lb.

Mutton: Fat, 10c per lb.; spring lambs, fat, dressed, 15c per lb.

Wool: Medium clean, 20c per lb.; medium heavy, 16c per lb.; No. 6 cotts 10c per lb.

How can you expect to buy a cigar for five cents with vegetables as high as they are—Bridgeport Post.

HAD TO FIGH FOR BREATH, SHE SAYS

"Since taking Tanlac I have gained tweny-five pounds and feel better than I have in years," said Mrs. Merry A. Cheever, who lives at the corner of 55th Ave., and 102nd street, Portland, Oregon. Continuing she said:

"I suffered twenty years with rheumatism and stomach trouble and a few months ago had to give up completely and take to my bed. I had pains all over my body and my muscles would draw up so tight I could hardly keep from screaming. At times I felt like a thousand needles were sticking me and I had a pain over my kidneys nearly all the time. Nearly everything I ate seemed to turn to gas and caused my heart to palpitate so bad I feared I had heart trouble, and I thought every breath would be my last. I was badly constipated, too, and had simply terrifying headaches that would last a week at a time. I was so nervous I felt like crying out at the top of my voice and I lost so much weight I only weighed seventy-five pounds.

"A friend advised me to take Tanlac and it was simply wonderful the way I improved right from the start. I have now taken four bottles and my indigestion is entirely gone. I eat anything without the slightest trouble, my rheumatism has just about left me, I never have a headache and my nerves are steady as a clock. I am never constipated any more and by general health is so good I want to tell the whole world about what a wonderful medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold in Port Angeles by Owl Drug Co.; in Dungeness by Wm A. Monson; in Sequim by F. D. Babcock; in Blyn by W. B. Main: in Morse by W. F. Taylor, and in Forks by Geo W. Groffman, and in Neah Bay by W. W. Washburn & Son.
