RAILROADS GIVEN NEW DEALS; CAN NOW EARN MAINTENANCE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31. — Advances of 40 per cent in railroad freight in the east, 25 per cent in the south, 35 per cent in the west and 25 per cent in the mountain Pacific territory were granted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Passenger fares were increased 20 per cent the amount asked by the railways to help in absorbing the 600,000,000 dollars wage increase granted by the railroad labor board.

A surcharge of 50 per cent for sleeping and parlor cars was granted today with a 20 per cent increase in the rate on excess and 20 per cent in the rate on milk.

The increases may become effective on five days notice given by the carriers to the commission and public, and must be put into effect before January 1, 1921.

Since the government guarantee to the roads expires September 1, it is generally expected the advances will be put into force before that date.

In arriving at the increases the commission placed the valuation of the railroad property at $18,900,000,000 as against the $20,616,000,000 estimated by the railroad executives.

The increases granted by the commission are estimated by it to be sufficient to absorb the wage award of the railroad labor board which the railroads placed at $618,000,000, and to bring the net profits within the 5 1-2 per cent permitted under the Transportation Act.

STEAMERS ALSO MAY INCREASE THEIR RATES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31. — Coastwise steamship lines were authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to increase their freight rates "to the same extent as herein granted to the railroads operating between the same points or in the same territory."

The commission also gave electric railway lines permission to increase their freight rates by the same percentages as approved for truck lines in the same territory, adding "this was not to be construed as an expression of disapproval of increases made or proposed in the regular manner in the passenger fares of electric lines."

Valuable Tips For Contestants In The Herald's Prize Race

(By the Contest Manager.)

Here's how candidates in The Herald's mammoth campaign can quickly jump into the lead and cinch their hold on the Ford Sedan and other prizes by next Tuesday night, 9 p. m.

One five year subscription counts 50,000 regular votes.

Each club of $25 counts 175,000 extra votes.

Total votes 225,000.

Two five years subscriptions count 100,000 regular votes.

Two clubs of $25 or $50 counts two times 175,000 or 350,000.

Five five year subscriptions count 250,000 regular votes.

Five clubs of $25 counts 5 times 175,000 or 875,000 votes.

Any other combination of long term subscriptions will pile up the votes on "double quick" if secured by next Tuesday night, 9 p. m. It can be readily seen that these clubs count up mighty fast and will be of inestimable value in winning the biggest of the prizes which mean $1110 to first and $675 to second, etc.

Always remember that on each $25 that you turn in next Tuesday you will receive 175,000 extra votes besides the regular votes on your receipt book cover.

Promptly Tuesday night at 9 p. m. the second voting period which started July 21, will come to a close. And starting Wednesday and running until August 14, the third and last voting period will be in force. During the third and last voting period contestants will be allowed but 150,000 votes on every club of $25 worth of subscriptions. Two weeks from today the Herald contest will end. Two weeks from today eight very handsome prizes will be awarded under the rules of this contest. Will you be one of the winners? You can be if you will work.

Only a few hours remain of this second voting period, and you will have to be quick if you want to receive this period vote scale, and the extra votes which you can earn if you have secured a $25 club of business. It doesn't make any difference how many votes you have you may need a few more. It is better to be way ahead, than to be thirty or forty votes short. The difference is that in the first case you win and in the second you lose. That's the difference. Enough is it not?

You must not be too sure of your self you know. Over confidence has worked havoc with many a person. There is absolutely no way of telling when you have enough votes and you can't tell what the other fellow will do. The only way you have of making sure of your prize is to keep at your work every day. Don't stop and look back and find fault with yourself, for not working. The others made the same mistake you did. Just think every contestant in this race is trying to defeat you — just what you don't want them to do. But to win, you must WORK. Set your face toward the goal and keep plodding along. You will win if you work hard enough and long enough.

After this contest is all over, you are going to hear the remark: "I wish I had worked harder, I could have won over so and so." It will be too late then to regret not having worked harder. The prizes will be awarded, then, and you will be the one to lose.

One young lady made the remark yesterday: "Why, there is no chance for me being a contender for this automobile as I have not got so very many votes." That is where the young lady is wrong. We informed you at the beginning of the contest that more contestants who would enter this race and work the easier it would be for some one to win. Up to date, we have not had over nine contestants working, more or less. None have done a great deal, some have done a little better than others but not one of the leaders has such a big reserve vote as to feel too sure of their prizes. In fact a new contestant could come in this contest at this late date and work hard during the next two weeks and worry any one of the leaders. So you can figure it out that no one contestant has got any too big a reserve vote.

EVERYBODY IS PLEASED WITH CHAUTAUQUA

The Ellison-White Chautauqua gave its last entertainment "An Evening in the South Seas" by native Maori Singers and an illustrated lecture on New Zealand by Leila Blomfield, yesterday. They were rewarded by crowded houses. Last evening the "big top" was packed; there was no vacant seat anywhere.

In view of the doubt cast upon the program by a rival chautauqua company, The Herald has made it a point of inquiring here and there among the many people gathered to listen to the various offerings. There is no hesitation in the verdict given. There is little criticism but a general feeling of satisfaction has been manifested on all sides.

When Director Reed thanked the audience last evening for the loyalty and patriotism shown by them he got a rousing ovation, and must have left Port Angeles with the knowledge that he had faced and conquered a difficult situation tactfully and well.

Last night's program was both instructive and "wonderful," as one enthusiast called it. The geography of the listeners was considerably enhanced by the story of the little country which inhabited by a maneating population sixty years ago, is now in many ways the governmental pattern-maker for the civilized world.

One of the pleasant outcomes of the ended Ellison-White chautauqua is that sufficient guarantors have signed up to insure another visit next year.

PULP MILL SOON WILL OPERATE

Theodore Horstman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who had been looking over the plant which is being rapidly installed on Ediz Hook by the Washington Pulp & Paper Corporation said today:

"One can easily understand when he sees the immense quantity of very heavy machinery already in place on the first and second floors of the large concrete building, why such plants cost millions of dollars. According to present appearances at the plant, the mill will be in operation within three or four months."

REBEL TURK LEADER IS NOW PRISONER

ATHENS, July 30. — Colonel Jafar Tayar, former Turkish nationalist commnader of Ardianóple, was attempting to escape to Bulgaria, when captured at Bostanli, between Adrianople and Kirk-Kilisseh, after the Greeks captured Ardianople, but the roads north had previously been occupied by Greek troops. He will be treated as a rebel to the allies and to the Turkish government at Constantinople.

Colonel Jafar Tayar is taking his capture coolly, saying "it is fate—it was written." A chest of Turkish gold was found in his palace in Adrianople.

PASSENGERS ARE HURT IN WRECK

SALT LAKE CITY, July 31.—Eight passengers and one trainman were injured seriously and twelve to seventeen passengers injured slightly when seven cars and the engine of train 30, on the Oregon Short Line, derailed near Downey today, said an official report given out at the road headquarters here today. None of the injured are expected to die, the report said.

COL. HARTLEY WILL BE HERE WEDNESDAY

(By Associated Press)

EVERETT, Wash., July 3.—Colonel Rowland H. Hartley, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, will start Monday for a swing of speaking dates through southwestern Washington and the Gray's Harbor country.

He will be accompanied by his male quartet, his press man and his son David. Monday morning he will be at Centralia, visiting on his way cities of Oakville and Elma and hold night meetings at Hoquiam and Aberdeen.

Tuesday he will start at Montesano and finish that evening at Port Townsend. Wednesday he will make way points to Port Angeles with a meeting there that night.

Thursday night's meeting will be held at Olympia and Friday his trip will finish with meetings in Seattle.

SLAYER OF SHERIFF AND OTHERS CAUGHT

LE GRAND, Oregon, July 31.—C. O. Hart, alleged slayer of Sheriff Taylor in Umatilla jail, and his pal, Jim Owens, are safe in the county jail here having been brought in by a posse of six men headed by J. H. Machlen of this city. They were found asleep in a sheep herders camp on the Toll Gate road in the Weneha Forest, and when they awoke they were in irons.

PENDLETON, Oregon, July 31. — Jack Rathie, alleged ringleader in the jail-break was brought to Pendleton from Gibbons today. He was apprehended by a posse this morning.

CONGRESSMEN AT QUINAULT TODAY

TACOMA, July 31—Congressman Albert Johnson, chairman of the house immigration committee, and three members of the committee investigating Japanese activities on the Pacific Coast, are at Lake Quinault today for a fishing trip. The four committee members will return to Tacoma, Monday morning when examination of the additional witnesses will be resumed.

Following the hearing here Congressman Johnson and perhaps other members of the committee will personally visit the Puyallup Valley and other points in eastern Washington to investigate Japanese activities in the fruit raising industry of the state.

FRANKLIN D'OLIER VISITS SEATTLE

SEATTLE, July 31.—Franklin D'Olier, national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest of Seattle members of the organization on August 11, according to an announcement made here today.

Seattle will be Mr. D'Olier's only stop in Washington on his tour of inspection of American Legion Posts in the West, with the exception of Centralia, where he will make a pilgrimage to the graves of the former service men who were killed in the parade on November 11, according to the announcement.

Invitations have been sent to all posts in the state to send representatives to meet Mr. D'Olier here.

FRONT PORCH CAMPAIGN AT MARION OPENED

(By Associated Press)

MARION, O., July 31.—Senator Harding's front porch campaign began today with a pilgrimage to Marion by a delegation from Mansfield and the surrounding country in Richland county, Ohio.

In the opening speech of his front porch campaign Senator Harding told the delegation that the greatest usefulness of the nation demanded a leveling of class, a lowering of barriers and a realization of "the interpendence and mutality of interests of all our people." The great war, he said, had helped towards such realization.

Greater cooperation in industry and complete assimilation of the foreign born, he suggested as pointing the way to a fuller national accord.

Urging also re-adjustment of taxation, he expressed doubt whether the war-time profits levy would work for peace.

"We want to make wealth bear its full share of taxation and we ever will. Having this thought in mind and also the necessity for peace, I doubt whether the excess profits tax will accomplish the end we seek in peace. I would gladly recommend a change but I am not yet prepared to suggest an equitable substitute, i should have no hesitation in asking Congress to seek the earliest possible solution."

The league of nations was not referred to directly, but Senator Harding declared "the nation's highest duty is to cling to the fundamentals on which we have builded to the astonishment of the world which impaired our nation's onward march."

ARISTOCRATIC CALF NEWCOMER IN CLALLAM

The dairy industry of Clallam county advanced another step forward this morning when "Calypsos Westerner," a pure bred Guernsey bull calf arrived at Port Angeles from Hubbard, Oregon, on his way to his new home on the Wayside Farm owned by Willis Chambers.

Calypsos Westerner came to Clallam County as the result of the work of the Farm Bureau in the Fairview community. The dairy leader in that community, Dan Jackson, who furnished the information leading to this purchase, has found more than an ordinary demand for pure-bred dairy cattle of good quality and that Fairview is determined to improve the value of her dairy cows.

Bulls of the type of this newcomer will get heifers that will produce fifty pounds of butterfat more than their dams per year and will be able in the first five years, to increase the amount of butterfat produced in that community by 5250 pounds, which at fifty cents per pound is worth $2625.00.

While the pedigree has not arrived it is reported to carry some excellent records. The three nearest dams of the calf have an average record of 725 pounds per year. The five nearest dams of the calf's sire have an average of 712 pounds fat in one year.

This looks good for the better livestock campaign and for the Farm Bureau work in Clallam County.

WORLD-WIDE "RED" CONSPIRACY BACK OF IRISH REVOLT

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 31.—An official report concerning the reception Thursday by Premier Lloyd George of a deputation of unionist peers and members of the house of commons to discuss Ireland, shows that the chief spokesmen were the Duke of Northumberland and Sir Edward Carson, unionist leader, both of whom emphasized that the Sinn Fein was part of a great world-wide conspiracy, in which Bolshevism and German revenge were playing an active part, aiming at the destruction of Great Britain.

The Duke alluded to an alliance alleged to have been formed early in 1919 between the Sinn Fein and Bolsheviki through Dr. Patrick McCarlan, Sinn Fein "ambassador" to the United States, and declared that the program of the Sinn Fein was identical with that propounded by the third internationale.

Sir Edward Carson elaborated his theme of the existence in the United States and other parts of the world of propaganda bureaus representing the discontented people of Egypt, India and Ireland. He argued it was from the time that Frank P. Walsh, of the Indian propaganda bureau in America, "came to Ireland last year that the Sinn Fein became unmanageable in a conspiracy which would eventually beat the British government." He quoted from speeches of Judge D. F. Cohalan of New York to support his arguments. He referred to the existence of a German propaganda bureau in Zurich to foment Irish discontent and declared Germany never would abandon her struggle for revenge. He also spoke disdainfully of the principle of self-determination being applied to all small nations without consideration of the interests of the larger nations.

Premier Lloyd George expressed disappointment that the deputation had failed to suggest possible remedies. He agreed there was Bolshevist support behind anti-British activities in Ireland and said he would not be surprised if there also was Bolshevist money. "But," he added, "we should make a mistake if we came to the conclusion that the Sinn Fein is purely a Bolshevist conspiracy against Great Britain."

The premier touched on the difficulty of finding necessary troops and officers for carrying out a military policy in Ireland "under condition worse and more wearing to men's nerves than the late war."

"We are doing our best," he continued, "but we want recruits. We want officers to lead and to guide. We want a thousand to put down this conspiracy."

Then, having alluded to the drastic nature of the government's coming bill and the difficulty of bringing criminals to justice, he emphasized the necessity of having public opinion behind any effective law. "That," he said, "you can only do by making it clear that this is not your sole remedy or your last word."

Mr. Lloyd George contended that there was need for a side by side policy for enforcing the law and for a policy of granting Ireland any measure of liberty and self-government consistent with the supremacy and security of the United Kingdom. He emphasized the necessity of getting the vast mass of British opinion, especially the working class, behind the government's policy, declaring, "I do not believe you can govern England under any other conditions."

THE LATEST DITTY.

A little bird singing at our chamber window says that the "gang" has something all trimmed up for next Tuesday night's meeting of the council. It might have been pulled last Tuesday only the absence of Hon. Hallahan from the city left the bellwether out of herd.

AN OFFICE GOING BEGGING.

One of the offices seems to be going begging. Only Mr. E. E. Nichols so far has filed for it. That is the office of constable. As it is quite certain that Mr. Nichols cannot desire this office for the sake of compensation that is in it, the question naturally arises why does he want it, or is he in the race for the fun of the thing?

We should like to know the identify of the deputation of prominent citizens who, in accordance with time-honored custom, waited upon Mr. Nichols and urged him, in spite of his natural disinclination and so forth, to enter his name for the office of constable in the patriotic cause of good government and the enforcement of the law.

The list of those gentlemen would be worth $5 to The Herald for its feature page.

THE PRIMARY DOOMED.

Indications are growing stronger every month that the day of the primary election as a means of choosing candidates for office is nearing its close. Designed to facilitate popular selection of candidates as opposed to the old boss-ruled party convention, it has developed into something that was not anticipated, owing to the participation in one party's primary election of members of other parties.

Naturally this is resented by party members and certainly it is contrary to the intent of the primary law and of the party system of government.

Observers may well conclude that one of two things must happen; either the party system of government will be undermined and give place to some new system, or the primary election laws will be repealed.

The poor showing made in states having presidential preference primaries this year may prove to be the last blow to the primary system. Large sums of money were spent for the purpose of boosting candidacies of men who were not by any means popular choice candidates and none of them cut any figure when the presidential candidates were nominated. It was a waste of money and not for the national welfare.

There is one chance left. The ringsters may now prevail upon one of their henchmen to enter the race for dog-catcher. Don't the times change, boys?

ISLAM RISING AGAINST THE TREATIES.

In a rather sensational article the Extrablatt, Vienna, issues a warning about the possibility of an uprising in the East of all Islam. From the Balkans over the Sea of Marmora to Asia Minor, from Constantinople over the Black and Caspian Seas to Middle Asia, Afghanistan and India, a terrible unrest is making itself felt, it declares. "This entire continent with its mingling of many peoples has risen against the enforcement of the peace treaty. Formerly divided against itself by race conflicts, religious fanaticism and boundary disputes, this heterogeneous mass is now united almost without exception against the European powers whose rapacious hand is stretched out towards the near East. It has been found expedient in Paris and London to leave the Sultan in control of Constantinople, and there the old man remains, protected by British cannon, threatened on all sides by nationalists who are forming an imposing opposition to the dismembering of Islam for which they will gladly fight and die. The Holy War of which we have so often been warned is now here and is causing all Europe genuine anxiety.

"And with this," continues the Extrablatt, "is associated, the overflow of Bolshevism from Russia into Asia. Those ideas whose cradle is Moscow, instead of spreading out towards the West and South into Europe, are beginning to spread towards the East into Asia. Even now they reach out almost to the door of India, gaining an irresistable strength through the belief that, by them, Islam is to be saved. England's position in Persia and the Near East is threatened, in many places her troops have been driven back; and England's commercial as well as political interest are here involved, for by the peace treaty she received by far the largest share of the oil fields in the Near East and these are now threatened. The French are in no more enviable position. They have been beaten by the nationalist troops and are maintaining their ground with difficulty. For the Italians and the Greeks the worst is yet to come. Smyrna, which was ceded to the Greeks, will be difficult to hold, and Venizelo's confidence scarcely deceives even his closest friends.

The influence of this united uprising has been to dictate a lessening of the severity of the demands made on Turkey. It seems, however, as if this design had been again abandoned. If this is true, a strengthening of Oriental unity must be reckoned with. Even now England is sending a larger fleet to Constantinople to protect the city from the nationalistic hordes of Mustafa Kemel and from a possible uprising against the Sultan, even, indeed from the Turkish troops themselves. Mustafa Kemel's power is spreading through Asia and the conquering hero returning from Europe. He has won to his side a nephew of of the Sultan Abdul Afis and has brought the Arabians under his banner.

The peace terms which the Entente endeavored to dictate to these various nations has acted as an explosive that has shaken the entire Orient to its very foundations," the Extrablatt concludes. No man can say today what the end of this unprecedented disturbance will be nor to what new problems it will bring us."

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE TRUER HEROISM.

"She is the most devoted daughter," a neighbor said to me some days ago about a mutual friend of ours whose mother was sick. "Simply never thinks of herself. She is just wearing herself to a bone waiting on her mother. She runs up and down stairs a dozen times a day. She gets up half a dozen times a night to see if her mother wants anything, and half the time I think she forgets to eat her own meals she is so anxious to have everything for her mother just so."

I thought at the time that that sounded like a rather dangerous state of affairs.

Yesterday I heard that the devoted daughter had broken down and her mother, who is barely up from her own illness, is trying to take care of her.

To spend oneself lavishly and extravagantly for the sake of others, has a certain beauty about it. But when you come right down to it, isn't the beauty of spending oneself carefully and wisely, saving oneself where one can in order to make oneself last longer and be more efficient, beautiful with a saner, more balanced beauty?

A Very Brave Woman.

I knew another woman who had an invalid husband to care for. She was both the wage-earner and the homemaker. She worked hard at her office and then came home to be nurse and housekeeper. She was devoted to her husband and the burden of anxiety about him was added to her other burdens.

"The hardest thing I had to learn," she told me once when we were talking about her situation, "was that I must learn not to waste myself in worrying. I had to learn not to wake up in the night and wonder what kind of a night he was having and go look at him—the nights are his hardest time, you know. And if I got up with him I had to learn to go right back to sleep.

"Then ,of course, I have to save myself in waiting on him. I would have liked to anticipate his every wish and run up and down stairs to do any little errand, but I know that wouldn't be kindness to him in the end.

Not Just Food But Strength.

"I think the hardest thing though was to teach myself to be absolutely regular about my meals and eat properly. I just turned against food at first when I was so worried, but I taught myself to eat is by saying to myself, "It isn't just food I'm eating—it's strength to do things for him."

I call that woman the finest kind of a heroine — for she showed her endurance and courage not just once in a crisis, but day in and day out for years.

I speak of her experience in the past not because she is dead but because, as you may like to know, her trial is over and she has her reward. Her husband ultimately recovered, he has a fine position, and she is enjoying the rest and comfort she so nobly has earned.

WHEN A WOMAN IS NERVOUS—WORRIED

The lives of most women are full of worry. Men's troubles are bad enough, but women's are worse. Worry makes women sick. It pulls them down, and in their weakened condition they are subject to pains, aches, weakness, backaches, headaches and dizzy spells.

Most women neglect their health, and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her life. If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a run-down condition.

LENTS, OREGON—"In my younger days I was greatly distressed. I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and received such relief that I can recommend it to others. I have raised a large family and am a great-grandmother and have always insisted on my daughters-in-law using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during expectant periods."—MRS. B. F. The Girl Who Smiled Through

A CRITICISM.

CHAPTER XII

But Clara had to be told, so the day after she and David went to the show, Alice went around to her home to see her.

"haven't the time," she told her mother. "But I'm afraid I should tell her. If she gets out and she hears it indirectly, she'll feel badly because I didn't let her know."

Alice knew, too, though she would not even tell her mother, that Clara was taking more than a friendly interest in David, and since they were engaged, she felt that the sooner Claar knew the better.

Clara was out on the front porch, screened by the climbing vines, and very busily sewing.

"It's your new dress, isn't it?" Alice said, dropping down on the top step. "It's awfully pretty."

"I'm altering it, the waist is too loose. I'm going to wear it tonight. What will you wear?"

"What will I wear? Tonight? What do you mean, dear?" Alice asked in surprise.

"The dance at Hooker's, didn't you know? David just told me about it. It's that lovely old farm houes about five miles out, you know the Hookers. Well, it's a dance tonight. David is taking you, and he's bringing around a man for me." Clara tumbled out her information haphazard fashion.

"No, I didn't know, I suppose David is at the house now. Well, he'll tell mother."

"You might act excited," said Clara. "Think of going with David Thorne! Every girl in town will be green with envy."

"Clara," began Alice, "did you know about David and me?"

Clara dropped her work and looked at her friend. Purposely, Alice avoided her eyes. Whatever Clara would give away by her expression, Alice did not want to see. It seemed to her like a species of eaves-dropping—to read from this girl's manner the possible secret of a disappointed love.

Clara's thimble fell to the porch and she bent over fumbling to look for it.

"No," she said quietly, "I didn't the recovered thimble in her hand, and came over to kiss Alice. "You are lucky dear. I could almost fall in love with hi mmyself. But you are not so lucky as he is. I've always wanted something nice to happen to you, you've had such rotten hard luck all your life. And I hope this is it."

"It is," Alice said dreamily, nursing her knees and oloking away down the street. "I never imagined I could be so happy about anything. I fell as though this thing were so precious, it couldn't last." She got up, flushed and suddenly awkward for her little speech.

But if Clara suffered from a broken heart, she gave no evidences that night at the dance. David had brought a man, a Guy Conrad who had come up from the city and who was a former school friend of David's. And Clara was evidently pleased with him, and was looking her prettiest in her new frock.

As for Alice, she suddenly wished looking at Clara's freshness, that she had taken time to fix herself up. In order to make up for the time spent visiting Clara, she had worked late in the garden, which always took extra attention at this time of the year, and she had pricked her fingers mending a ruffle on her blue dress, and the stains from the potatoes and onions she had peeled for supper had settled in the marks as though forever. Scrubbing her hands to free them of stain and dirt, she had used kitchen soap and had made the skin rough and dry, and her nails, as her mother remarked "looked a sight."

"You could have negleited some things, and we might have eaten cold things for supper, that little lady said reproachfully to her. "Your gingham dress is not fresh any more, I wish you would take the money and buy yourself something nice, something like Clara has. And your hair needs shampooing—"

"Dear Mother, don't fret," Alice answered easily. "The Hooker's don't know me well enough to care what I wear, and David loves me anyway. He has seen me looking much worse than this."

Alice did not dance, but David did. And she was quite content to sit and talk to those who were too old or too awkward to dance, and watch him. She was serene and thoroughly contented when, as most were filing out for supper, he came over to her.

"Clara has gone upstairs to brush her hair. Want to go too?" he asked. "I'll smoke a cigerette and wait here for you and we'll go in the dining room together."

"Why, does my hair need brushing?" Alice asked smiling. It would be nicer to spend the time on the porch with him while he smoked!

"It does a little," David answered. "Run along—I'll wait."

In dismay Alice turned to a mirror. Her hair looked badly. It almost always did, she had the sort that came down in wisps without any provocation. Flushing and hurt by his gentle criticism, she followed Clara upstairs.

Hair Grown on Bald Head

After being almost totally bald, a New Yorker happily found something which brought out a new, luxuriant growth of hair of which he is so proud that he will send the information free to anyone who asks for it. Write: John H. Brittain, Station F, New York, N. Y. Many women and men have grown hair after all else failed. Cut this out, show others; this is genuine.

Gardner Loses 2-Hit Game.

A mare fraction of a second, lost in rounding third base in the eighth inning lost for Seattle, a wonderful game of base ball yesterday. Bill Stmupf, who is playing the best game of his career right now, was tagged as he slid home with the tying run and the play turned the tide in favor of the visitors. Los Angeles momentarily halting the mad dash of the Rainiers with a one to nothing victory.

Schaller Star of Win.

PORTLAND, July 30.—"Biff" Schaller starred again for the Beavers yesterday and the Seals suffered their second straight defeat, 5 to 2. Schaller grabbed three hits and was hit by a pitched ball in four times up and scored four runs. Dick Cox made three hits in four times up.

Graham used three twirlers in an effort to stop the Beavers, but they were all treated alike. Glazier, while hit hard, received better support than any of the Seal hurlers. Polson replaced Glazier in the ninth and retired the Seals after they scored one run.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Guisto was the shining light for Oakland yesterday and the cause of a 5 to 4 victory over Sacramento in the eleventh inning. The contest see-sawed from the start and in the eighth Guisto tied the score with a home run. In the eleventh his double scored Knight. Sacramento made five errors, but none figured in the scoring.

Sacramento	4	9	5
Oakland	5	9	1

Babe Gets His Blow.

St. Louis.—Pounding three St. Louis pitchers for twenty-one hits, New York won yesterday's game 19 to 3. Nine of the visitor's hits were for extra bases, two being home runs.

Ruth made his thirty-sixth home run.

Three for Indians.

Cleveland.—Cleveland made it three straight from Boston yesterday, winning 3 to 4. Bush, who started to pitch for Boston, was wild and ineffective and also made a costly error.

Strunk Beats Old Club.

Chicago.—Amos Strunk, recently obtained by Chicago from Philadelphia yesterday turned the trick against his former teammates by driving in the run in the tenth which gave the locals a 6 to 5 victory.

Giants Take 'Em All.

New York.—The New York Giants made a clean sweep of the series with St. Louis by winning yesterday 8 to 7, in a ninth inning rally. McHenry, a pinch hitter put the Cardinals one run to the good in the ninth with a home run that also scored Lavan. In the Giants half, Burns walked and Bancroft doubled. Burns scored on a single by Young. Frisch sacrificed and Bancroft came home with the winning run on King's sacrifice fly.

Reds Creeping Up.

Brooklyn.—Cincinnati made it three yesterday 11 to 0. Eller held the Dodgers to six hits. Mammaux was knocked out of the box in the fourth.

Pirates Lose One.

Philadelphia.—Timely hitting by Wrightstone and Wheat was the feature of yesterday's 7 to 2 Philadelphia victory over Pittsburgh. Hubbell pitched his first game here as a local player. President Baker of the Philadelphia club announced the purchase of Catcher John Peters of the Birmingham Southern association team.

New Chandler Damaged.

John Anderson's new Chandler car was considerably damaged last Sunday when it overturned while rounding the Land corner just out of Sequim. Both front wheels were torn off and the fenders and lights smashed. Mr. Anderson escaped without serious injury.

Rains Benefit Root Crops.

The late rains, while to some extent injuring hay, was very beneficial to other crops. Potatoes and all root crops have shown a marked improvement and grains of all kinds are much better filled out than had been expected earlier in the season.

Grain Harvest On.

Grain harvest commencing with barley, will start in about ten days and offers for the new crop are such as to return farmers a reasonable profit.

Solicitors for dairy feed firms are traveling the east end for orders.

BAPTIST.

First Baptist Church, Eighth and Peabody streets, R. W. King, Pastor.

That was a fine session of the Sunday School last week and we only lacked ten of going over the top again. Why not do it tomorrow? My what a treat you are missing by not being in that Bible Class taught by Mr. Rumsey. They are doing things there.

The pastor wants every member of the church and every other person who will to hear his sermon tomorrow morning on "God and Man in the Judgment of Men." You will get a new vision of what you ought to be and the reason you do not accomplish more than you do. Don't fail to come to the Sunday School and stay through the morning sermon.

At night another most vital question to you will be discussed. "What doest Thou Here?" Can you tell? Do you know? Three phases of the subject will be discussed. Myself and I, Myself and the other fellow and Myself and God.

Strangers will find a hearty welcome.

TO STOP COUGHING, SNEEZING, WHEEZING.

Unseasonable spring weather left a number of coughs and colds. Now comes the time of hay fever and asthma and more persons than ever will be coughing, sneezing and wheezing. No wonder there is a tremendous demand for Foley's Honey and Tar, that old reliable family remedy for coughs, colds, hay fever, asthma and croup. It heals and soothes that raw, rasping feeling in the throat, clears the passages and makes breahing easier. —W. J. Mathewson, Agent.

Firestone

Sales of this tire have increased 96% the first six months of this year, proving the balanced tire, the Firestone 3½ has accomplished what Firestone sought for it, more mileage, greater economy, greater comfort, which has been passed on to the public at low cost—most miles per dollar.

Balanced! That means to you more than mere thickness of tread, greater air capacity, more plies of fabric, greater cushioning, or the gauge of the sidewall. It means that all component parts of the Firestone 3½ are scientifically balanced by specialists who have put years of study and practice into a single purpose—to meet your demand in a small car tire. You can now have all four tires on your car give uniform service if they are Firestone.
