

When You Drive, Don't DRINK!

One out of every five automobile accidents which happened in the State of Washington during 1966, involved only one car.

According to the State Patrol, out of the 16,988 one-car accidents, 899 persons lost their lives; and 7,151 received injuries.

THIS BRINGS UP THE QUESTION: Why or how do so many drivers get themselves involved in an accident when there are no other cars around—no other drivers or whom to fix the blame? There are perhaps several answers to this problem, one of which is the drinking driver.

The person who drinks and drives is always a threat to his own safety, as well as to others. His judgment is most certainly impaired and he is not able to drive in as safe and legal a manner as when he has not been drinking.

Packers Lose Playoff Game

The Forks Packers, in a playoff game between the third-place teams of the Olympic Little League's eastern and western divisions lost 18-12 to the 49ers Sunday at Memorial Field in Port Townsend.

The Packers, after tying with Sequim's Lions in regular season play, were relegated to third place for the playoffs by the flip of a coin.

The Packers Sunday gave up the home field in Sunday's other game at Port Townsend.

In a game between the divisional champions, Port Townsend's Colts won 12-0 over the Eagles at Sequim.

The Packers' Sunday game was the first score as the 49ers went 68 yards on a pass from Brad Sandvig to Alan Adams. Forks tied it up at the 12-yard line. The Packers then went 6-6 when a 1-yard plunge by Jeff Wittenborn capped a second quarter scoring drive.

The two teams twice exchanged punts in the third period, but the 49ers scored again after intercepting a Packer pass at their 21 yard line. The 49ers went the 79 yards on three long passes by Sandvig; Arne Sather threw the last one for 34 yards on the opening play of the fourth quarter.

The Packers came right back after the kickoff to score on the first play from scrimmage. Wittenborn went 60 yards for the score to tie it up at 12-12.

The 49ers scored the day's final touchdown on a number of passes and a 1 yard plunge into the end zone by Matt Ruby. The Packers' final late game comeback attempt was halted by a pass interception at the 49ers 22 yard line.

Washington State Heart Ass'n. News

Even if all precautions are met, emergencies will happen. How you handle them may save a life. Washington State Heart Association says hunters should remember these points in handling heart attack victims.

Keep the stricken hunter ABSOLUTELY still.

Get him immediate medical attention. Leave him alone if you must go to get help.

Never let the victim walk or ride a horse. If you must move him to a place of aid. You can improvise a stretcher by using two poles and a blanket, according to the first aid methods.

Keep the patient warm, but not so bundled that he'll perspire.

Make him comfortable. Usually a position between lying down and sitting makes breathing easier.

Loosen collar, belt and any other restrictive clothing or accessories.

Administer no liquids or stimulants. An unconscious victim might choke on liquids. If he has medication prescribed by his physician and can swallow, give him the prescribed dosage.

Thank You

To the people of Forks and the surrounding areas:

We, the students of Forks Junior High, wish to thank you for the splendid support you gave our magazine subscription drive.

The drive was a big success—we took in $747.00 the first day and $1729 in all. Cheryl Lamb and Mark Tom Sparlin should get the starting nod at the signal-calling slot.

The rest of the Washington backfield is a big question mark as to whether or not they'll start the game. We had eight Huskies battle for starting positions. Headliner Carl Wojtechowicz had a great game against Oregon State as he rushed for 75 yards in 17 carries and was voted the outstanding back on the newspaper.

Thank you again, sincerely, for your support.

Husky-Trojan Clash Saturday

One of the most publicized gridiron games of the season, the Husky-Trojan clash, almost a complete sellout two weeks in advance, brings to Seattle one of the top offensive teams in the country. Coach Johnny McKay's men from Troy have piled up 117 points in their first four games of the season, and limited their opponents to only 30.

The Huskies, on the other hand, have limited their opponents to the same 30-point limit in four contests.

Sophomore quarterback Tom Mankie is the second-best coast grinder in the total offense department with 561 yards in four games.

"All the way with O.J." has been the familiar cry with Trojan football fans since the team's 60-0 junior college transfer leads the nation in rushing offense.

The Huskies have a lead in the National Junior College All-American team and holds all of the National JC runner news for the season.

The rest of the USC backfield is just as strong. Such Troy stalwarts as Mike Smith and Larry Bortwell, along with sophomore running back Soege and Toby Page will be against the Purple and Gold.

All-American Ron Vary, at 243 pounds, anchors a Trojan line that averages close to 225 pounds per man. Vary switched early in 1969 from defense to offense, made five All-American first teams plus several Pac-8 selections.

Coach Jim Owens' Huskies will be out to avenge a 17-14 defeat to USC last year. With the game marking homecoming festivities at Washington, the Huskies will have the home field advantage over the Trojan juggernaut.

Reports on the state of education research reports on new programs and projects in schools and driver's education are also on the agenda.

Plans also will be discussed by State Superintendent Bruno for a statewide meeting next spring of school superintendents.

The needs of small schools which have become a major concern in legislation to be prepared for the 1969 legislative session will be explained and explained.

Hunting Reports, Opening Weekend

Well over 200,000 residents of Washington State turned out Saturday for what was generally orderly and highly successful start of the 1967 fall hunting season.

The "bluebird" weather was less than perfect for the state's waterfowl hunters, but such conditions are normally expected by waterfowlers at this time of the year.

The slacks taken up by increased hunter visits to the Chelan-Okanogan area, Blue Mountains of southern Washington, Yakima valleys and San Juan Islands of upper Puget Sound.

The Columbia Basin region of central Washington—the state's prime pheasant area—reported about average hunting pressure, with hunters well distributed and finding better success than last year on non-irrigated lands of the Basin.

General hunting prospects for the coming weekend are said by the State Game Department to be as good as on the opening. Although Okanogan deer hunters can usually expect lessened success during the middle weeks of the deer season, the west-side hunters has steadily improving success on leading drop and deer hunting visibility increases.

Best areas for coastal hunters seemed to be the Forks Burn of Clallam County, where 94 hunters checked had taken 14 bucks.

BLACK-TAILED DEER

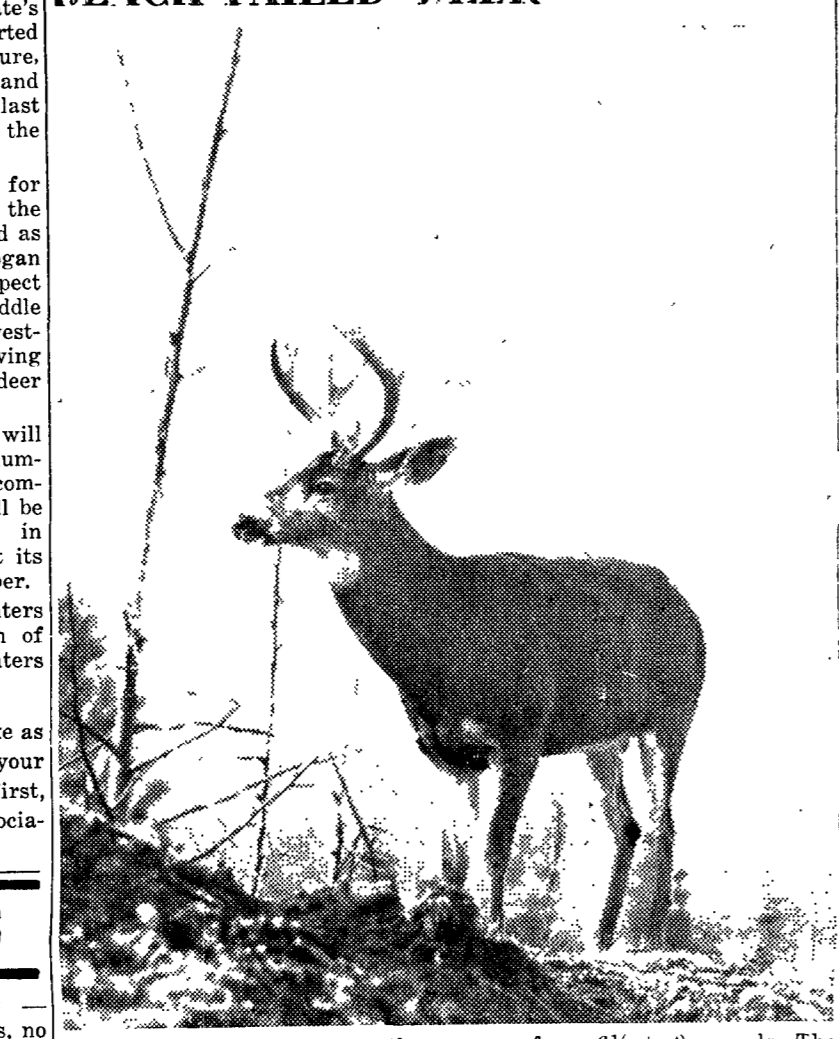

Recreational Projects Approved

State Land Commissioner Bert L. Cole announced today 29 recreational projects approved by the Department of Natural Resources for the 1967-69 biennium were approved by the State Interagency Committee for Outdoor Recreation.

Total acquisition and development costs are $193,884 for the 28 sites located in 18 counties. Funds from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Act and the State Initiative No. 215 and Referendum No. 11 will be utilized for this purpose.

In addition to these sites the department is moving ahead in the recreational development of several undeveloped state and state-owned lands including the Capitol Forest Park.

Black-tailed Deer

In the state of Washington there are three species of deer—the White-Tailed, Mule and Black-Tailed. The Black-Tailed deer is the one common to Western Washington. It is smaller than the Mule deer and antlers are not nearly as massive in spread or girth.

The gestation period is approximately 183 to 212 days, or loosely, 7 months. The period of fawning extends from March to August, however, the main concentration of births usually occurs between mid-May to the 10th of June.
