traffic if you are crossing a sidewalk. Don't let anyone, ir cluding yourself, be surprised Never proceed so fast in parking lots that you can't stop if a hazard suddenly appears. 4. Always look for pedestrians or other drivers who may seem to come from nowhere, and don't forget hazards like stray shopping carts. When leaving the lot, be sure to stop first at the sidewalk, if there is one, and then stop again at the road yay until you can enter the traffic safely.

hemlock and silver fir. 75% of the total or 229,000,000 Loard feet was hemlock and silver fir. Over 17% was cedar or 54,000,000 board feet. The remaining 23,000,000 board feet was spruce and Douglas fir.

Most of the timber sales are clearcut harvest of overmature timber. Following logging these units will be burned and then planted.

There were four prelog sales. The smaller trees and windfalls are being removed prior to logging the larger timber. Prelogging the small trees removes some of the material that is normally broken in a normal clearcut. Removal of the windfalls

The bulk of the timber sold was hemlock and silver fir. 75% of the total or 229,000,000 Loard feet was hemlock and silver fir. Over 17% the muscles of the legs are the body's "second heart'; that all other things being equal, leg muscles which are well-developed from much walking are as indicative of a long life ahead is a sound heart.

Walking comes as naturally to human beings as breathing, yet as an exercise for pleasure it has become so foreign to most of us that hardly anyone is likely to know such natural things about himself as how many miles an hour he can comfortably walk. But everyone knows how fast he normally drives a car!

We are told that walking will not reduce a person, but will keep the pounds from coming cn, and keep them from coming back once they have been lost by other means. A normal brisk walk of a mile or two does not make the welker hungry, and it is an observable truth that habitual walkers are characteristically not overweight. It has been recorded that a fairly long stride, at a fairly rapid pace, puts less weight on the feet, and is easier and less tiring than a slow walking speed. This is a difficult art to practice on crowded city streets, although it is estimated that city people, because of their "extra steps" up and down curbs, around sidewalk obstacles, to avoid bumping people, to beat traffic lights, actually walk more than ountry people do, although not as Wighter Carrier B
