Short Comings

Steelhead fishing on local rivers reached a snail's pace due to the cold weather. Many fishermen believe the fish don't bite during a period when the Northeasteries blow. The real problem is that it's much too cold to fight the freezing guides and biting wind.

The brave ones have managed to catch fish. The Bogachiel continues to be the local top producer in numbers of fish caught. The steeles run in the 4 to 7 pound class with an occasional larger fish.

Bob Joutsen landed an 18-1/2 pound buck while fishing with Clarence Fuhs a week ago.

Reports of larger fish are slow in coming in.

The Arctic air mass has reached into the Pacific Northwest like the hand of a giant sending temperatures downward in some areas while nearby areas out of the path of the Northeastly wind record more mild temperatures.

We offer two weather reports this week to illustrate the changes in areas only a few miles apart.

Mrs. Olive King records the weather at the Northeast end of the prairie and the U. S. Weather Bureau records at the Ouliyate Air Field.

Notice the effect of a normal front from the West as recorded by both stations December 23 through December 26 and the change that takes place when the Arctic front moves into the area Friday, December 27.

Snow
A warming trend brought up to 6 inches of snow in the outlying areas of Forks Monday night and by Tuesday morning the snow had turned to slush as the rains came.

Highway 10E was blocked early Tuesday by a snow slide on Lake Crescent as the heavy rain and mixed snow continued.

Slick road conditions continued to make highway traffic in and out of Forks hazardous.

North Coast Bus Lines cancelled trips to Forks and the West End due to road conditions.

Many cars seem coming into Forks have had tire chains on indicating the perilous road conditions.

Cold temperatures driven by a Northeast wind covered the Northwest this week and most of the area experienced a heavy snow cover to go with it.

The Forks area was spared from the snow in general, but the areas to the North and South didn't have such luck as snow reached depths up to 20 inches.

Accidents
Lowering temperatures, icy road conditions and Friday's heavy snow led to the typical winter problems for motorists. Vehicles off the roadway between Port Angeles and Forks was almost the rule rather than the exception on Friday.

Traffic was held up for approximately one hour at Barnes Cove on Lake Crescent due to an overturned logging truck.

First, a pickup driven by Mark Thomas of Clallam Bay slid off the roadway. As another vehicle tried to pull Thomas back onto the roadway, a log truck driven by Jay Presley of Port Angeles slid off the roadway and rolled over, dumping a load of logs on the Thomas vehicle.

Traffic was blocked at this point and vehicles continued to pile up. A log truck driven by Frank Winkler of Cosmopolis and a car driven by Edward Long, Vancouver, collided as they approached the accident scene.

A park vehicle driven by Carl E. Hintzick, Star Rt. 1, Box 10, was struck by a car driven by John A. Spoelstra, Forks. Hintzick was investigating the other accidents at the time of the mishap.

Damage was minor to all vehicles involved except the pickup driven by Thomas was extensively damaged. No injuries resulted from any of the collisions.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Editor Forum, also Parents and Grandparents:

As we all know, there is presently a great to-do on the matter of special levies and taxes for schools. So let me tell some side of the matter that I, at least, have seldom seen properly discussed, and I have been around a long time and raised a large family, and even for a time taught school and acted as a member of a school board afterwards. So then -- even as not all children have the same kind of hair, nor the same physique, nor wear the same size shoes at any given age, neither do they acquire the same mental maturity. Even in the same family there is this difference, so why then do we assume that all our kids should go to school in the first grade at the age of 6 years? Apparently our school people still condone this nonsense.

There were these two boys I knew very well. The older was barely five pounds ahead of his younger brother all thru their childhood though there was more than a two year's difference in age. Yet in his early teens, the elder, in only one year, took a spurt of growth that placed him a good six inches taller and 60 pounds heavier than his kid brother. Though they both grew to nearly equal adult size, the younger did not get there until 18 years old.

Mental development may follow this same erratic pattern. It is of utmost importance that in school we consider a child's capacities all the time and place no heavy reliance on his chronological age. In the lower grades, a child's time is worth nothing money-wise. The years he has to spend in college are working years, so the student who can graduate from college two years earlier than the average may be said to have nearly a $10,000 advantage over his slower schoolmates.

For hundreds of years children were taught to read by the phonetic method, but during the later generations, somebody thought up this word method in which the child is taught to disregard the alphabetical components of the words he reads and recognize the word as a whole.

Here again our school people have neglected the fundamentals and as a result we hear complaints that modern kids simply can't seem to read as they should. All higher animals presumably, and so we are taught, have five senses: sight, hearing, touch, taste and smell. Thru these they receive their knowledge of their surroundings. Now the emphasis along this line varies immensely species to species. Most animals do not see as well as we do; far from it. But in compensation, their hearing is acute and sense of smell so wonderful that it beggars our

WRONG GATE!

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO RIGHTS?

The basic American right of secret-ballot elections—which Congress applied to labor-management relations when it passed the Taft-Hartley Act 20 years ago—is frequently undermined by decisions of the National Labor Relations Board. In place of the ballot box, which the law requires to certify a union as the collective-bargaining agent for employees, the NLRB has been sanctioning authorization cards signed by an employee which either request an election or designate a union as his representative.

An example of this practice is a recent case involving misrepresentation—and in which Long Island duckling played a significant role. Briefly, a garment union demanded that it be recognized by a dress manufacturer, claiming that it had authorization cards signed by 27 of the firm's 49 employees. The company refused recognition because it felt that the card majority had been obtained improperly. But the NLRB ruled that the employer did not have a reasonable basis for doubting the union majority and ordered it to bargain.

A U.S. Court of Appeals subsequently blew the whistle on the use of the cards and reversed the Board's decision. The Court noted that while the cards were printed in English, they were signed by some employees of Polish background who couldn't even read English. The Court also called attention to testimony indicating that some employees signed the cards in the belief that it merely entitled them to a free duck dinner which the union was giving for employees.

Said the Court: "The Congress that passed the Taft-Hartley Act would have been mightily surprised to learn that a card signed even under the circumstances testified by the (NLRB) General Counsel's witnesses could endow a union with the right to represent all employees and requiring an employer to recognize it."

Despite the Court's reversal, the NLRB blithely continues to disregard the intent of Congress and to ignore the right to secret-ballot elections.

nose-blind imagination. We humans, in learning of our surroundings, and incidentally in school, depend almost completely on our eyes and ears. These are the parts to our education.

Those teachers who depend on the "see words" type of reading instruction only, are especially likely to turn out poor readers for they forget that this might work very well for the so-called eye-minded pupil, it is all wrong for the extremely ear oriented that with atten-

Gun Control Act

Sportsmen and hunters concerned over the effect of the new Federal Gun Control Law on possession and sales of firearms were given an explanation of the law's implications today by Elroy Travis, Alcohol, and Tax Representative of the Internal Revenue Service.

Purchasing or owning an ordinary gun used for hunting, target shooting or other lawful purpose will not subject weapons fanciers to any unreasonable restrictions, Mr. Travis said.

"The Gun Control Act of 1968 prohibits certain persons from buying and possessing weapons and ammunition, and limits the sale thereof," Mr. Travis said. He summarized the prohibitions on possession of firearms to include felons, dishonorably discharged veterans, aliens illegally in the U. S., mental incompetents, and former citizens who renounced citizenship.

Mr. Travis pointed out other exclusions that apply to persons under 18 who cannot purchase any firearms or ammunition. "Persons over 18 but under 21 may purchase rifles and shotguns for legitimate purposes, but are prohibited from purchasing pistols or revolvers," Mr. Travis added.

The new law places restrictions on out of state sales. Individuals may purchase rifles or shotguns in a state contiguous to his state of residence after a 7 day waiting period. The purchaser's state of residence must enact enabling legislation if a contiguous state sale is to be made lawfully.

The new Act has no impact on existing local ordinances, according to Mr. Travis. He stated that the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the Internal Revenue Service is charged with administering Federal firearms laws.

Dealers in guns and ammunition have new responsibilities in weapons transactions, Mr. Travis indicated. He urged prospective purchasers of firearms to cooperate fully with gun and ammunition dealers whose businesses are affected by new licensing provisions which began December 16, 1968. Local Alcohol and Tobacco Tax officers can provide information and answer questions for interested sportsmen. Federally licensed gun dealers are also being provided with detailed explanations of applicable laws.

Comment: The sportsman and hunter is not the one that feels the true effect of the new Gun Control Act. The dealers that are involved in the sale of firearms and ammunitions are the ones that are expected to have full knowledge of the new rules and regulations.

Stop in at your friendly dealers and they will show you the complete 160 page catalog they are to know.

The sale of ammunition to customers involves filling out a form with the purchaser's name, age, date of birth, type of ammunition, quantity and date of purchase. They don't have to ask you what or who you choose to kill. They just have to assure themselves you're a good law abiding citizen. One local dealer's comment: "For the birds" only thru phonetic methods. Fortunately most of us are able to compromise and learn by both methods. We are a mixture. Some distinctly aren't.

A teacher is in some ways in the same fix as the old woman domiciled in a shoe. Much of the teacher's professional time is taken up by what might be called housekeeping. Hospitals no longer expect their trained nurses to scrub floors, etc., etc. That non-technical stuff is left to Aides. We need to take the load off the backs of our teachers by a similar system. Now I am convinced that with attention to the above delineated details, we can immeasurably expedite our educational processes and with that the cost of education as a whole. The real essential is that a child learn to read well and with understanding. Given that as a base, the whole world is his, for everything one wants or needs to know can then be reached thru books and the press.

SPORTS WANDERINGS . . .

A new season begins for the Forks Spartans when they open league play against the Port Townsend Redskins Friday evening in the Key city.

Everything up to now looks good on the season record but the chips are on the line now that the league campaign is about to get underway.

The Spartans, under coach Ray Mohondro, have rolled to six consecutive victories after an impressive jamboree showing. They have defeated Quilcena 60-56, Willah 73-56, Clallam Bay 58-51, Chinacum by 57-35 and 55-45 scores and annihilated Quinalt 87-25. Clallam Bay has been the only opponent capable of putting up much of a struggle against the Spartans thus far.

At this time it is difficult to determine just how good the Spartans really are. Friday's game with the Redskins will be the Spartans toughest test and a good season indicator. The Redskins have been beaten this season and beaten badly, but all the opponents have been "A" and "AA" schools. Port Townsend has fared well in its home surroundings and a good close contest at Blevin Gymnasium will place the Spartans as a top league contender.

The Olympic "A" League is composed of Forks, Sequim, Port Townsend, Vashon, North Mason and Lakeside. The league winner has a direct entry to the state 3 tonney in Tacoma in March. The second place team plays St. Edwards of Seattle for the second state tonney entry.

The Clallam Bay Bruins get back into basketball action Friday when they travel to Neah Bay to encounter a fast improving Red Devil team.

The Bruins have their hearts set on the league title which would give them a trip to the "D" journey in Spokane in March.

The Bruin attack is paced by Don and Dan Wilson, Ken Sternbeck and Brent Youlden. Coach Harold Van Riper is still trying to find the fifth man to give the Bruins the added strength to go all the way.

Neah Bay is led by its spark plug Glen Haltunen and the Bruins will be out to bottle him up.

January 10 the Bruins open their title efforts against the Quilcena Rangers in the first league game.

Sunset Highlights

By FRED JARVIS

Guess I'm going to have to do some real scratching to come up with something to fill the column this week as there wasn't much in the way of league bowline.

Could put down what I think of this weather we're getting, but am afraid it wouldn't be fit for print so guess I'd just better find something else.

Hope everybody had as good a Yuletide as we did here in the Jarvis abode. Our little grand youngster like to wore the old man out but enjoyed every minute with her and the rest of our family. Sure missed our son, Doug, tho'. Got a letter the other day and he'd just rolled another 600 series. Tuesday night's Sunset League had five weeks to go and Ed Duncan's Rotorsellers lead by four over second place Clark's Vagabond.

Part of Wed. afternoon's Powder Puffs bowled Monday and will have those scores next week as the rest of the girls bow today.

The Hoop Owls do their next bowling the 8th of January. Thursday night Women's League and the men's West Linkers also do their next performing in the New Year.

Early Fri. Mixed saw some pretty fast scoring as Bernice Richardson posted a 217-495 and Sally Nagel had a 501. Willis Bryan tossed a nifty 234 and Duke Streeter knocked the stuffing out of 585 pins for Hi series. Maureen Anderson picked off the 5-7 split and your old neighbor picked off the 4-7-9-10. Slippery road conditions forced postponement of the Late Fri. Guys and Gals.

Sat. Nite Monte Carlo saw hard luck strike three people who had their names drawn for the Jackpot slots. Dean Helfrich drew the big money try and missed as did Leta Rondeau who saw a seven pin stand between her and half the big money. Melba Harris had the same kind of luck, and so we'll all be there this Sat. night to try again.

George Richardson picked up some free games and from the way Bernie bowled Fri. night, George, you'll need those to keep ahead of her.

Chuck Hamby picked off a big money slot later in the evening and went home fifteen bucks happier. Lou Bigelow had her troubles. She's never shot a 500 series and we thought maybe this was the night as she racked up two 170 plus games.

One open frame too many in the last game cost her the 500 as she ended up with a nice 497. Next time, Lou. The Sunset Lanes Women bowled next in the Olympic Traveling League at Bainbridge Sunday, January 5th. They are currently in seventh place, seven and a half games out of first.

Claude Clark's Vagabond team of the Men's Olympic Traveling League are tied for third, two games out. Sunset Lanes is in seventh, with the West End team in last. The men bowl also Jan. 5th, at Poulbo.

Sunday Night Mixed saw Yvonne Kettel lead the women with 106-624. Ed Huling had Hi 10 for the men with 216 and Willis Bryan a 580 for Hi 30.

Brager Bros. Log. leads the rest of the pack by seven with four weeks to go in the Forks Prairie League.

Ted Rasmussen led all bowlers with 237-579. Ralph Hill led for a nifty 229-578, and Ray Birdwell also smashed out a 277. Fred Jarvis picked off the 6-7-10 and George Richardson a 6-7.

Good bowing to you all this New Year.

SEASONS GREETINGS
Old Man Winter has recently decorated the Sol Duck River with white bells keeping with the Holiday Season. The recent cold spell has laced the river's edge and trimmed tree branches along her banks.
by Lonnie Archibald

BOLDNESS - SPIRIT - STEELHEADER
There is no doubt in my mind that the boldest of them all is the Northwest Steelheader. A fisherman from Kent tries his luck in the upper Sol Duck with a rather cool temperature of 12 degrees surrounding his well-clothed but shivering body. If the cold itself is not enough to send one home shivering, Old Man Winter has left his mark by lacing the waters edge with ice telling the Steelheader that his impression is correct. It's cold, go home.

283 Million B F Timber Sold By State

283,000,000 board feet of State timber was sold for $16,385,000 during calendar year 1968 in the Forks district, announced E. C. Gockereil, North Olympic Field Supervisor of the Department of Natural Resources.

The 44 sales were bid up from $5,736,000 to $16,385,000 an increase of 185% over the appraised price. Average stumpage bid was $57.87 per thousand board feet.

"This was much higher than the $32.66 bid for 306,000,000 board feet sold during calendar year 1967" said Gockereil.

The contracts for the timber sales require that over 50 miles of high standard logging roads be constructed and an additional 35 miles of spur roads be built to log the timber. These roads and a number of bridges represent a permanent asset to the State with a value of $1,700,000.

78% of the timber sold was hemlock and silver fir, 18% cedar and the remaining 4% was spruce and Douglas Fir.

"The increase in stumpage bid reflects the continued demand of logs for export to Japan coupled with a strong domestic market," added Gockereil.

"The Forks District will continue to develop the large state holdings it manages, harvest its mature timber in the region and bring income to the public trusts including the common schools, universities, agricultural schools, normal schools, capital and county", said State Land Commissioner Bert L. Cole.

T-V Club

Notice to Forks TV Translator Club members: the service of Channel 2 is now in operation.

License Tab Sales Begin Today

Motor vehicle license tabs for 1969 will go on sale Thursday, January 2, at the office of Alice C. Thorne, County Auditor, in the Clallam County Courthouse, and at the following licensing agencies located in the county for the convenience of the public:

- Sequim: Patricia Cox at Johnny's Auto Sales.
- Forks: Arthur Anderson at West End Wrecking & Salvage.
- Clallam Bay, Sekiu: Bertha Rice at Rice's Resort, Sekiu.

Vehicle owners can anticipate receiving in the mail during the week between Christmas and New Year's the "Notice to Renew" forms printed on a data processing card sent out by the Department of Motor Vehicles from Olympia. The 1969 license tabs should be purchased during the month of January as the 1968 tabs become invalid for use after January 31. The auditor's office reports that the heaviest counter rush is experienced during the first and last weeks of the month, and those purchasing tabs at the courthouse may avoid the waiting in line if the licenses are obtained at other times.

Many car owners find it more convenient to complete the transaction through the mail by sending the complete "Notice to Renew" form to the auditor's office in the Courthouse with their check or money order payable to the Clallam County Auditor for the amount shown on the form as the total of fees and tax. Mail renewals should be postmarked no later than January 25th in order that the tabs may be sent to the vehicle owner by the January 31 deadline.

Tabs will be issued to all vehicles this year. If vehicles licensed in another state and are now going to be licensed in the State of Washington, it is necessary that the owner bring in the out of state license plates before Washington plates can be issued. This also applies to replacement plates.

The 1969 passenger car tabs have a new color combination this year -- a yellow-gold imprint of the State of Washington on a blue background with a blue "69" on the state map outline. Truck tabs will be green with a gray-white tab and a green "69".

Each passenger vehicle must pay a basic license fee of $8.60 plus an additional two percent excise tax on the vehicle's market value according to a manual issued by the State Department of Revenue listing all vehicles by make, year and model. The excise tax ranges from a minimum of $2 on older cars to many hundreds of dollars on luxury cars such as the Rolls Royce.

DEAR JANE

Family Financial Protection
Policyholder Questions Answered by the Health Insurance Institute, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

DEAR JANE:

Every year my husband makes a grand New Year's resolution and one week later he promptly breaks it. The problem is that he makes such a to-do with the children over this resolution, and you should see their faces as he breaks the promise he made at New Years in just one week. If he does the same thing again this year, how would you suggest I handle it? Just sign me...

Nothing New at New Years

Dear Nothing New:

One of the very basic jobs that parents have in teaching their families behavior is honesty. An individual should never make a promise to himself that he has no intention of keeping, and especially to others. How can we expect our little ones to express honesty when the adults in their lives use a little bit of dishonesty here and there. Advise your husband to make no promises this year.

DEAR JANE:

We are having a little dispute in our family. We live in an area where there are several related families in the same general area. No one family can do anything without the rest of the family knowing the various plans. My husband and I feel that if we are having a party, we are not obligated to invite our relatives to these occasions. The rest of the family feel very stung about this and feel that if one couple of the family is having a social gathering, they should invite the immediate family as a matter of course. We are having a New Years party. Are we obligated to invite the family?

Rebelling Relations?

Dear Rebelling:

It is good to feel the desire of enlarging your circle of acquaintances. People who spend their entire lives around a small set circle of acquaintances, whether it be family or friends, will experience a very limited life. If a couple were to always invite their family to all of their social gatherings, then they would never be in the position to broaden their scope of new friendships. In each person's experience there are so many wonderful people to meet and enjoy, that it is a shame to limit yourself to only those with whom you are already acquainted. In addition, a couple cannot afford to entertain all of the family and friends each and every time they entertain. Share yourself with your family, but do not limit your friendship to a few close relatives. You are free to invite anyone you wish to your party.

DEAR JANE:

Every New Year's day I am faced with the same problem. Football games all day long! My husband gets up in the morning early on New Year's day, about 6:30 a.m., to be exact, and click, on goes the TV. Even if it is snow, he sits there eye-eyed waiting for the football games to start so he won't miss a single moment of the commentary. There is the Orange Bowl, the Rose Bowl, the Purple Bowl, the Salad Bowl and I don't know what all else, all day long. The children can't make any noise or Dad has a canary. What do you suggest a wife can do to get her football-crazy husband to participate in a family project?
TV Widow

Dear TV:

This is Dad's one day of the year. His big moment. He works hard all year round and if the football games are that special to him, then see to it that he has this one day for himself. Plan a family project for the day before New Year's or an appropriate time for you. On New Year's day, plan something special for yourself and the children. I might suggest something for you. Perhaps you could plan a stay at a motel or hotel in a nearby town. Take your entire family. Eat out and get a change of scenery. Pick an establishment with a good TV. Let Dad spend the day with the TV and you and the children go sight seeing, visiting or to a movie. That way Mom gets away from the meal routine for a day and a half, children get to go on a trip and Dad is happy with the football games.

Loss of Income Health Insurance
 This type of policy assures you that you will help maintain your family's standard of living if your husband becomes ill or injured and is disabled.
 Loss-of-income insurance provides weekly or monthly cash payments when the insured person is disabled. Of course, the funds can be used any way you see fit.
 In 1967, more than $7 million people were covered by loss-of-income protection, and received more than $1 billion in benefit payments.
 Q: I was employed by a company for many years where my family and I were covered under a group health insurance plan. When we had medical expenses, I paid 20 per cent of the cost and my company paid the remainder. Now that I've gone into business for myself I've decided we need an individual family policy. Comparing the costs of the two for basically the same coverage, I've discovered the individual policy is more expensive. Can you explain why?
 A: Under a group plan the same coverage is set up for everyone in that particular group. It is centrally administered for the entire group and is therefore less expensive than the individual policies which are tailor-made to the requirements of the family, and administered on an individual basis.

Does a larger brain mean greater intelligence?
 Not necessarily. For instance, man is the most intelligent member of the animal kingdom, yet his brain is smaller and weighs less than those of some animals. Man's brain weighs about 3 pounds, while an elephant's weighs about 10 pounds. The clue to intelligence may be in the cortex, the surface covering of the brain. Intelligence seems to be related to the amount of folding in the cortex.

How do ants find their way?
 Some ants get their bearings from landmarks. Others use the direction of the sun's rays. It has also been found that some ants lay scent trails as they walk along, by touching the tips of their abdomens to the ground from time to time. As they do this they secrete the scent. In some cases scent patches also have a shape that tells other ants the direction in which the first ant was traveling. You can demonstrate this by reversing a chip or some such object over which a column of ants is passing. The ants at once become confused. It is as if an arrow had been turned backward.

Who were the cliff dwellers?
 The cliff dwellers were the ancestors of the Pueblo Indians. They were called the Anasazi, an Indian word for "Ancient Ones." The Anasazi lived mainly in the area now known as Four Corners — the area where Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah meet. The cliff dwellers are remembered for their great stone villages built on the tops of mesas.

 How does night change into day?
 The earth rotates, or spins, on its axis from west to east. The direction of the earth's rotation makes the sun appear to rise in the east and set in the west. The earth makes a complete rotation once every 24 hours. This is the earth's day. As each part of the Forest Service Timber Sales Under "Morse Amendment"

The National Forests of Oregon and Washington will begin immediately to advertise timber sales for 1968 under provisions of the "Morse Amendment" on log exports.
 Regional Forester Charles A. Connaughton, U.S. Forest Service, said instructions from Washington, D.C., are being forwarded to Forest Superintendents to proceed so that there will be no delay in the timber sales program. Sales, which must be advertised 30 days ahead, were held up this month pending instructions to implement the provisions of the Morse Amendment.
 The Amendment to the Foreign Aid Bill requires domestic processing of all but 350 million board feet of timber sold each year on federal lands west of the 110th meridian. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall have agreed that the 350 million exemption will be allocated among the following administrative

Church News

In the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "God" to be read in all Christian Science churches this passage are found familiar passages from the account of Daniel: "Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now the king spake and said unto Daniel, 'Thy God whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee....'

"So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he believed in his God."
 Related passages from the denominational textbook will include the following: "Citizens of the world, accept the glorious liberty of the children of God, and be free! This is your divine right" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy).
 Services at VFW Hall, A. St. S. E. are held at 11 a.m. All are welcome.
 Also awaiting decision is what to do about two "minor" species in Oregon, Washington, and northern California -- Port-Orford-cedar and Alaska yellow cedar. These species were the subject of a recent hearing in Portland to determine what amounts if any of these species may be considered surplus to domestic needs, and therefore could be exported in addition to the 350 million limit contained in the Morse Amendment.

Meditation

"THAT IMPRESSIONABLE AGE" by J. William Hawk

Several years ago I was told, "Spend your time and energy with youth; they can still be influenced. We older people are already set in our ways." I will never know precisely what this person meant, but I will always remember this advice with a bit of sadness.

It is true that the early years of our lives are the years when we are the most easily influenced. This is why they are called our "formative years." We are shaped and affected while we are very young. So it is important to establish the attitudes and values which we believe are most precious when persons are six months to 15 years of age. The book of Proverbs says, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." No doubt, the values which Christians want to establish are honesty, diligence, patience, understanding, respect, obedience, love, gratefulness, trust and a multitude of others. Neither a just and free society nor a worshipping Christian community can survive without them.

Today, however, it seems more important than anything else to teach flexibility. One of the dominant words in the contemporary vocabulary is "change." We receive poems, songs, sermons and news casts about how the times are changing. In addition we are warned that the changes we have seen and experienced are but a foretaste of what is to come. The person who is not trained to live comfortably with change is going to feel most out of place. So during that impressionable age we must not make impressions that are so indelible that they cannot be revised and reoriented for the future. We must teach the young how to evaluate matters on their own, rather than quickly giving impressions about whether things are intrinsically "good" or "bad." By doing so we can guard against the pathos of the person quoted above who felt the world was leaving her behind because she was unable to change.

One last warning about impressions. Impressions are frequently in error. We struggle hard to overcome those first impressions of people we meet, for they are made without knowing the person. Be impressed only when you know someone well enough to know that he preaches what he practices and practices what he preaches. This is why the impression of Jesus Christ cannot be forgotten or overcome.

THAT IMPRESSIONABLE AGE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor for growth for the building of a better and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

You have to be so careful what you say to children when they're at that impressionable age. Our neighbor has a little daughter. And, being something of a skeptic, he's been careful not to let her be exposed to religious teaching, at least not in any direct way. But the other night she asked, "Who is God?" And, since he wants to see her grow up with the highest ideals, he hesitated a moment before he answered her question. Then he said, "God made the world." (And he wondered why he hadn't said "God is nobody — there isn't any god.") Her wondering eyes and pursed lips tugged at his heart. "Gosh, Daddy," she mused, "He's somebody to know!" Whether you're a child or an adult, that pretty well sums it up. Either God is nobody—or He Is Somebody To Know! And the church bells ring every Sunday.

Gripping Power From A Spray Can

Fourth, drive out slowly, trying not to spin the tires.

The traction improver will stay on the tires for several miles when driving on snow covered roads. However, it wears off quickly when traveling on hard-surfaced highways.

Liquid Tire Chain was given limited usage during the 1967-68 winter season. Following development of the compound by Dow Chemical Company, a survey among those drivers who used the traction improver indicates almost universal success.

The compound is effective at temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. In addition to its intended use of freeing stuck motorists, it also has been used successfully on snow blowers and small snow plows, bicycle tires, snowmobiles and even the bottom of boots and rubbers.

A push-button application system available as an option on most 1969 Chevrolet models permits a motorist to apply the traction improving compound to the auto's rear tires without leaving the driver's seat.

The system includes a control button mounted on the instrument panel and vacuum-powered applicators located in the car trunk over each rear tire. The applicators each contain a four-ounce can. The cans may be replaced when empty but only AC Liquid Tire Chain cans are suitable for replacement use in this push-button application system.

LIQUID TIRE CHAINS — Mountain roads and deep snow provide the perfect setting for this lovely model to demonstrate the effectiveness of traction improving compound being distributed by AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors. Called AC Liquid Tire Chain, the compound is simply sprayed on the rear tires, providing up to three times normal traction to help free a motorist stuck on ice or in deep snow. It is available from service stations, auto dealers and other retail outlets handling AC products.
