EIGHTH STREET BRIDGES COMPLETE

1500 Feet Long, 100 High, 30 Wide; Contain 820,000 Feet Lumber; Cost $820,000.

The Eighth street bridges are complete this week, and will be opened to the public in a few days, or just as soon as the approaches thereto can be completed. They are a credit to the builders and to the city officers, who have had charge and supervision of the plans and construction. It will pay any resident to take a trip to see them, for they are works of art.

According to the contract the bridges were not to be complete until September 1. Construction work was begun in February 13, and completed July 23. They cost $29,544.59, which price includes cost of collection, all engineering and clerk's expenses. The assessments for the payment of same, 20 per cent of which is levied against the property fronting on Eighth street, will be paid in full by some, but the larger number will make yearly payments for ten years, making the cost hardly noticeable. The bridges were designed by City Engineer Chas. Filion, who is also responsible for the accuracy of their construction, according to the plans and specifications prepared by him. City Clerk Shields also takes pride in the new bridges, for the construction of which he has labored for the past two years.

The bridge over Valley street is 766 feet long and 100 feet high, and that over Tamwater street 775 feet long and 102 feet high. Each is 30 feet in width on top, with two 10-foot roadways and a 5-foot side walk on either side. The siderails and guards at the outside of the sidewalks are designed for the protection of children, having a galvanized wire netting, making it impossible for children to fall or crawl through and a three-cornered pointed top rail to prevent fool-hardy children from attempting to walk same. This also adds to the appearance of the structures. 820,000 feet of lumber is used in the bridges

FIRE AT MANHATTAN PLANT.

Loss About $2,000 to Building, Dynamo and Other Machinery.

A brisk little fire broke out early Sunday morning in the boiler room of the Manhattan Canning Company and did considerable damage to the buildings and machinery. The watchman had gone to the outer end of the plant on the regular round of his duties, after having started a fire in the boilers, when the roof caught fire, presumably around the smokestack and in only a very few minutes the fire had spread to magnitude. The foundation under the boilers was almost completely destroyed and considerable damage was done to the various machines in that portion of the plant. The large dynamo was completely destroyed, as was also the switchboard and the adjoining parts thereto. Quick action, however, on the part of the employees, some of whom happened to be near, together with the aid of the crew from the U. S. R. C. Snohomish, saved the plina from being completely destroped. After the fire had been extinguished, a crew of men was put to work immediately clearing away and rebuilding and by the following morning it was reported that they were in a condition to proceed with the canning of salmon.

This is certainly rushing things along rapidly, and the new manager, Mr. C. I. Crawford, is to be congratulated on his good work. The loss sustained is estimated at approximately $2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith returned Sunday from Seattle, where they attended the Press Association and enjoyed the festivities of the Potlatch. Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Glenn, of Portland, accompanied them home for a week's visit.

Miss Margaret Delabarre is having a little box party tonight at the Dre Theatre in honor of Phyllis [illegible]y.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mathewson returned the first of the week from their trip to Alaska, which they enjoyed greatly.

PROGRESS OF MILL AND RAILROAD

Steam Shovel Lost in the Brush West of Town. Framework of Mill Well Started.

The big lumber mill is making a splendid showing from town this week, some forty rows of heavily braced timbers, a portion of the framework for the first floor, having been set in place on the "wharf" which was built out to the westward of the shingle mill. But tho on piling, the new mill will not set over the water as the whole region thereabouts has been and is being brought to a uniform level by dredging—in fact, the millsite looks much like an ideal section of the Sahara, one wide expanse of gray sand.

Work on the railroad grade has progressed to a point about half a mile west of the lagoon, where fifty men are employed around the shovel and in extending the track. The grade crosses the old road along the bluff just at the outer side of the spit, and is a solid gravel roadbed, for the most part smooth as a table top and from twenty-five to thirty feet wide. Progress should be very rapid from this time on, for the cuts and fills will be of a minor nature on the plateau till the Elwha is reached.

Good progress is also reported from the camps west of the Elwha, grading being under way in several places.

MAYOR VETOED THE FIRE LIMITS ORDINANCE

Myers, Wilcox and Swanson Voted to Sustain Him—Was Again Introduced.

Bond of Wm. Denio in the amount of $13,096 given to secure the city in the Third street improvement was approved.

Clerk instructed to notify the Manhattan Canning Co. to remove all buildings occupying any portion of Third street.

Plans and specifications for the Railroad avenue improvement were adopted.

Hearing on Francis street sewer continued to August 5th at request of city engineer.

Hearing on assessment district for grading streets east of Francis street postponed at request of engineer who was given ninety days more time.

Young & Denio granted $1,095.69 on the Eighth street bridge contract leaving a balance of $5,300 still held by the city. Council agreed to go over the bridges Wednesday for final inspection. Street superintendent instructed to finish approaches.

Resignation of W. A. Rogers as councilman from the Sixth Ward accepted.

Ordered that fire hydrant be placed at corner of 7th and Race.

In the matter of the oil barrels held in the city's substation it was, after several unsuccessful attempts to otherwise dispose of the difficulty, moved that the clerk be authorized to pay the Chase Engineering Co. $240, the price of the barrels, providing the company will give a reasonable assurance that the city will be reimbursed when the barrels are returned. The city clerk refuses to accept the responsibility thus shirked by the council and the matter is apparently as far from settlement as ever.

The city attorney having reported favorably on the matter of the city entering into an agreement with the Olympic Hotel Company for the building of a sewer on Francis street, he was instructed to draft an agreement to be submitted at next meeting.

Ordinance regulating manner and form of making, approving and filing plats was passed; publication in another column.

Mayor having announced his veto of fire limits ordinance, assigning as reason that it was objectionable to owners of down town property, motion was made by Dustman that ordinance be passed over veto. Dustman, Fisher, Elliott and Rogers voted for and Myers, Wilcox and Swanson against; lost. Ordinance was again introduced and went thru to second reading; referred to committee and attorney.

WORK ON THIRD STREET STARTED

Piling Driven and Capped from Second to Third, at Eastern Edge of Tumwater Trestle.

Work has already been commenced on the Third street improvement, contract for which was awarded to W. S. Denio, the piles and caps having been set for the roadway from Second to Third, along the east side of the high trestle, under which the new street will cross the Little River tracks on its way to the Earles mill. It is understood that Chris Kuppler, contractor on the Central School building, who has lately been handling the Sol Duc hotel improvements, will take an active interest in this work.

OLYMPIC HOT SPRINGS GAINING IN FAVOR

Fishing, Mountain Climbing, Concerts and Dancing a Popular Combination.

W. B. Webster, writing from the Olympic Hot Springs, says there are about thirty guests at that resort, a jolly party who are enjoying to the limit the outdoor attractions offered. Some fine catches of trout are being made, one party bringing in sixty. The stream is quite high at times, owing to the rapidly melting snow; there was a snow bank four feet deep at the time of writing within a half mile of the springs. Children enjoy the outdoor bathing pool, where the water is always warm. All who feel able, climb to Crystal Ridge, just above the springs, parties going up nearly every day. "All report being well repaid for the tiresome climb. The outlook and grandeur of the scenery is incomparable; there is much snow on the ridge, one visitor imagined that it was 100 feet deep in places. There is also an immense garden of beautiful mountain flowers near the snow, and one could imagine the stars and stripes spread out before them." Every evening the guests assemble in the office for an impromptu concert and dancing parties are frequently given.

"Wm. Everett cut his foot quite badly with an adz the other day. Their boy, who was taken to Port Townsend and pronounced in a dangerous condition, was brought out here on a stretcher, carried by two men, and is improving nicely. If he continues to improve as at present, he will soon be about. The waters of the hot springs have all the sanitariums outclassed."

SLIDE MILE IN 52 SECONDS.

Remarkable Speed Attained On Mountain Snow Slope by Marathon Runners.

The nightmare sensation of sliding down an extremely steep and interminably long roof was this week translated into a positive, physical experience by Joe Frankoviz and Victor Galbraith, two of the winners in last year's Mt. Baker Marathon who are now camped on the slopes of Mt. Baker training for this year's race, which takes place August 15.

About two miles above the meadows on the south side of Mt. Baker, is a long snow field with a slant equal to the steepest roof. Hiking over the snows, Galbraith dared Frankoviz to attempt the slide. Frankoviz stepped onto the snowy slope and shot away into space like a meteor. In an instant Galbraith followed, both young men landing safely in a immense bank of snow far below.

The stunt was so exhilirating that the boys tried it over and over again and finally, just to satisfy an argument which has arisen among two forest rangers who had witnessed the feat the slope was measured and was found to be a foot or two over eight hundred feet long.

Then Galbraith, timed by Frankoviz and the rangers, made an exhibition slide covering the distance in eight seconds, or at a speed of about a mile in fifty-two seconds.

Not next, but third! The Tribune-Times will receive a Linotype next week.

ASSISTANTS FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Children Flock to Grounds in Such Large Numbers that One Overseer is Not Enough.

The Play Ground Association held a meeting in the library room Monday evening and elected Judge Cochran president in place of Mr. Thomasson, who has left the city. Mr. Anderson, the young man in charge of the play ground gave an excellent report of his work so far and all members seem well pleased with the progress he has made and the enthusiasm he has created amongst the children, who flock in large numbers to the play ground at both Lincoln Heights and Central. Mr .Anderson stated that he felt the need of an assistant to look after the little children, while he was devoting his time to the older ones and after discussing the matter it was decided to secure the services of Miss Gertrude Willson for Central school. An effort will also be made to secure someone for Lincoln Heights; the name of Miss Lorena Ester has been suggested as one well qualified and she is expected home from the summer school at Bellingham the last of next week. The officers of the association are very much pleased with the interest shown by the parents on Pine Hill and Lincoln Heights and wish the parents in other parts of the city would embibe a little of their enthusiasm. They are planning now for an ice cream social to help raise funds. No better movement for our young people has ever been started than this Play Ground Association and it should receive the hearty support of every progressive citizen. In co-operation with the school board they will start at once to put a part of the new school grounds in better condition so that the apparatus now being used on the old grounds can be moved over by the time school begins. Parents are urged to visit the play grounds and enjoy a frolic with the children and all children are welcome, whether their parents are members of the association or not.

"UNTANGLING TONY."

New Dramatic School's First Play Opera House, Saturday, August 2nd.

The Angeles School of Elocution and Dramatic Art will present some of its pupils in a first review in a two act comedy entitled "Untangling Tony." This play affords an excellent opportunity for acting and will demonstrate the fitness of Professor Murray to teach the art of acting and expression. This school is a permanent institution of Port Angeles and has selected the best play obtainable for its first production; this will be followed from time to time by other plays by prominent writers. "Untangling Tony" will amuse the audience with its strong situations and lively dialogues. The school also teaching vaudeville, will have numbers of vaudeville between acts, which will compare favorably with the best on the stage today.

Those of Prof. Murray's students participating in this first play are: Misses Hazel Hooker, Marjorie Weeks, Mayme Thompson, Mrs. Minerva Troy, Mrs. Annis Harris, Miss Marcella Schweitzer, E. B. Warboys and Prof. Murray.

GOT RID OF THIER RHEUMATISM

Experience Very Much Like that of Man Who Took Up His Bed and Walked.

There were two instances of the curative qualities of the waters of the Olympic Hot Springs this week. Mr. Howard Case, of Issaquah, came out on the 16th scarcely able to hobble about with the use of a cane from a severe attack of rheumatism in his legs. He had taken but a few baths when he declared he felt much better and all noticed that he was getting about with much difficulty, writes Editor Webster from the Olympic Hot Springs this week.

Pete Parezam, but nine months from Montenegro, who has been working in the woods near the Elwha Power Plant, and came out here on Tuesday of last week suffering from rheumatism in his knees, and who with difficulty got on and off his riding pony on the way out, has also experienced a marvelous cure in a very short time. Both of these men walked out over the eleven mile trail on Monday, July 21st. Mr. Parezam declaring that he felt completely cured and Mr. Case in a greatly improved condition. There is not the slighest question that the water here will effect a cure of rheumatism when the case is not too long standing and also afford relief in any case. This fact should make the hot springs of Clallam County the mecca for all sufferers from the troublesome malady, and will, when the facts become generally known.

TOWNSEND FAIR ASSOCIATION ASKS FOR CO-OPERATION.

Believed This Year's Fair Will Prove to Be a Better Advertisement Than Ever.

Port Townsend, Wash.,
July 22nd, 1913.

My Dear Mr. Editor---Now that we have issued the premium list for our Third Annual Fair, to be held at Port Townsend, September 10th to 13th next, we feel that it is time for the farmers to take an active interest in our fair and begin to save something for exhibition.

The grain and hay harvest is right on hand, and the best should be saved, tied into bundles, and hung up until the fair opens.

We want all kinds of vegetables and farm produce, for without the active co-operation of the farmers of the Olympic Peninsula we cannot make our fair a success, and it is the wish of the directors of this association to make of this fair, a fair that is essentially a "farmer's fair."

Few people realize the possibilities of this section of the country. Last year, without any preparation whatever, the Port Townsend Commercial Club gathered up the best of our exhibits and sent them, together with Mr. J. M. Hutchinson in charge, to the State Fair at North Yakima, and there captured the first prize for the best precinct exhibit of vegetables and field products against the whole state, thus bringing more attention to this section of the country than we could attain in any other way, in fact, Mr. Tutchinson was deluged with questions by people interested who wanted to know all about the Olympic Peninsula.

The different fair committees are hard at work perfecting details that this year's fair may be better than ever, and in a few days full particulars will be given of the horse races, limited to horses owned on the Peninsula and in Island County.

We are organizing a "Better Babies Contest" along scientific lines as advocated by the Woman's Home Companion, and prize medals will be given to the winning babies in both the rural and city classes, while saving accounts will be given to the winners in the several classifications. Full particulars of this contest will be given out as soon as arranged. Several other attractions are under consideration, both amusement and education. A series of lectures is being arranged, covering scientific poultry raising bee culture, caponizing, and other features, all of which it will pay well to attend.

COURT HEARS RAILWAY CASES

Sanford Given Judgment for $1650 and Costs. Appeal in Severn Case. Divorces Granted.

Miss Mamie Weir of Concrete, Skagit county, returned to her home Wednesday, after a few days' visit here with her cousin, Miss Cecil Smith. Miss Weir was born in Clallam county on the Cosser farm, east of town.

The Superior Court has been in session all this week. The court will also be here again on the 30th, but will probably not be here again during the month of August.

The case of George vs. Cain on a promissory note, payment of which has been held up pending the settlement of several garnishment proceedings occupied the attention of the court for a day. The matter was taken under advisement.

Mrs. Mona was granted ad ecree of divorce from Frank Miller.

Judgment was allowed to be taken in the case of Main vs. Rhodes, thru failure of his attorney to hear from defendant.

In the matter of J. Larkin vs. Clallam county for a reduction of taxes, the court refused to arbitrarily reduce same, and the commissioners were called upon to show cause why said taxes should be reduced. This was done and a judgment entered.

In Railway vs. Sanford, et al., for right of way across farm, attorney Buddress had a hard time getting a judgment to suit him, finally getting satisfied through concession by Railway and allowances of court. The judgment calls for the payment of $1650 and costs and Railway must keep irrigation stream going during construction.

A motion for a new trial asked by former in Railway vs. Severn, was denied by court and Railway will appeal.

Eight cases of condemnation were heard preliminary, and one new case started. This about cleans up the condemnation suits.

A number of probate matters were heard and several estates closed.

Chas. George secured a judgment against the Chase Enginering Co., of Spokane for $465.50 for extras in the construction of the substation for city against about $113, allowed by contractors.

In the case of Fred Wright vs. N. K. Mead, et al., for damages for unlawful deportation defendants moved against complaint asking that the several elements of damages claimed be enumerated. The court directed that plaintiff be given 30 days to file an amended complaint conforming to said motion.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dinsmoor were awarded the custody of Flossie Higdon, whom they adopted some two years ago, and who is now compelled to use a plaster case because of injuries received.

George Race was granted a decree of divorce from Mrs. Race.

ANOTHER FIRE IN DRY KILN AT EARLES MILL

A second fire in the dry kiln at the Earles shingle mill, Saturday afternoon, caused a loss of about $3,500, a portion of the roof as well as one million shingles being destroyed. The dry kiln, which is of cement with plank roof, is built in four sections with cement partitions, so that fires started by too great a heat from the steam pipes can be the more easily confined. However, the city fire department, aided by the men and big pumps on the Snohomish, which pumps are one of the chief features of that vessel, were on duty from late afternoon till one o'clock the next morning. By Wednesday night the partly burned shingles and rubbish had been cleared out and repair work was well under way, so the mill was only partially crippled for a few days.

Mrs. Conrad Luppen returned last Friday from an extended visit in California with her son's family and other relatives and friends. She reports a most delightful vacation.

Mrs. T. F. Trumbull and son, John, with two cousins from Seattle, and Beth Webster went out to Lake Crescent Hotel for a week's pleasure at the Lake.

A prompt response to the appeal made by the Commission which is now soliciting funds for the purpose of erecting a heroic sized bronze statue to the late Governor Mead leads to the belief that the money required will be raised within the next few months. The Commission consisting of Governor Ernest Lister, Secretary of State I. M. Howell, Prof. W. D. Lyman, Prof. W. H. Gilstrap, Henry Hewitt, Jr., Dr. W. D. Kirkpatrick, L. H. Hadley, C. C. Siegel and H. H. Matteson, has just issued the call for donations to the fund, and the statement is made in the announcement that contributions in any amount will be gladly received. Checks should be made payable to the Mead Memorial Commission and mailed to Box 144, Bellingham.

Ex-Governor M. E. Hay and Senator Wesley L. Jones were the first to respond to the call for funds. "No man in the history of our State deserves better the honor which the Commission is seeking to pay him," said Ex-Governor Hay. "We owe much to Governor Mead," said Senator Jones, " the least we can do is to honor his memory by every means within our power."

It is said the Trow Agricultural bill has done away with the old state fair commission and by providing that all monies collected must be paid into the state general fund has practically wiped out the fair. The state appropriated $40,000 for the North Yakima fair, but $8,500 must be used for debts, leaving $31,500 to pay expenses for two years. The expenses are about $45,000 a year and if the gate receipts, etc., must go into the state general fund, there will be little doing in the exhibition line.

The senate finance committee has made a change in the tariff law that will meet the commendation of the republicans as well as some democrats. In case a country discriminates against this country in tariff taxation the president can suspend the tariff rate and levy duties to counteract. This amendment is almost identical with the provisions of the Payne-Aldrich bill which was found to work exceedingly well.

The North Yakima Republic insists that Yakima folks should spend their vacation at home. They set the clock an hour or two ahead in North Yakima so that by going to work by starlight and quitting shortly after noon the summer can be endured. Isn't it asking too much of suffering humanity to remain in such a climate if the wherewithal for escape is available?—Aberdeen World.

In Michigan they wanted some roads so they stopped talking and arguing and went to work and made them. About 8,000 teams and 750 automobiles turned out one day ond and by night over a hundred miles of road were graded and covered with gravel. The women helped by taking dinners to the men engaged in the work. That is one way, and a good one to get good roads.

THE JUDGING OF DAIRY COWS.

Right Kind of Instruction in Schools Would Materially Advance Dairying Interests.

The joke on the city boarder on the farm is one of the original thirteen. The trick is turned and the joke is on the farmer when he gets a boarder in his dairy herd. Six boarders in a herd of 18! That was the discovery of one farmer when he had his cows tested—and he had been feeding those six cows at a loss for three years!

Teachers at the Puyallup Summer Session of the State College are learning to spot the boarders in the dairy herd. After only four weeks of instruction, the class in dairying made a remarkable showing at its first judging contest. Five cows from the Western Washington experiment station were led out before the class of 23 students. The students were asked to pick the first, second and third best butter cows. The students, without any assistance, made their selections. Bonney, the best butter cow of the lot by the Experiment Station records, had been given first place by 20 of the 23 students. Three give her second .

Olive, the second best cow, was placed second by 16, first by 2 and third by 1.

Gay Greta, the third best, was the third choice of 13 and second choice of 3.

Josephine, the fourth in value, is nearly as good a cow as Gay Greta, and was placed third by 6, second by 1 and first by 1.

Penelope, the poorest cow in the lot, received no firsts, no seconds and but three thirds.

The record of this class of 23 is an indication of what might be done in the development of the dairy industry in the state by the right kind of instruction in the schools. Incidentally, it might be said that the dairy instruction at the Puyallup Summer School is done by H. L. Blanchard of the Western Washington Experiment Station—one of the best dairy and poultry men in the state. The teachers who form a large part of the class will make use of their training in their own schools.

In Missouri a law was passed abolishing free lunch in all of the saloons, but the chief of police at Kansas City finds a very large hole and crawls through and pulls the saloons after him. In a very profound manner he decides that the pretzel is not an article of food and therefore is not barred by law. In other words anything that looks like a figure eight is not meant to be ate. A very profound man is Mr. O'Doud.

It is estimated that $600,000 is spent annually in this country for music. Music. Much is spent very foolishly, aye—worse than spent,—squandered.

Let's see,—who is the vice president? Oh, yes,—Marshall. We had almost forgotten there was such a person.

SEATTLE POTLATCH A DRAIN ON SMALL TOWNS

Those Who Advertise City Show Assist in Working Hardship on Home Community.

It is estimated that more than four hundred people from Port Townsend were attracted to Seattle on account of the Potlatch, says the Leader. This estimate is corroborated by the sale of tickets on Union dock. Placing the expenditure of each person who went to Seattle at the conservative figure of $20, it will make a total of $8,000, taken out of local circulation and "potlatched" to Seattle. Aside from the $8,000, the coffers of the transportation company were increased $800, as the company did not give excursion rates, realizing that the people would go no matter what the expense might be.

It has been the policy of Seattle to receive but not give, as has been evidenced on many occasions. When some small city plans an entertainment, Seattle people stay at home. Take for instance the encampment of the U. S. W. V., held in this city. The attendance from Seattle was the smallest of any camp in proportion to the number of its membership. At each fair given by the Olympic Peninsula Fair Association, when excursion rates have been given by the steamboat company, Seattle would be represented by several business houses who realized that the fair would be an opportune time to introduce goods, and one or two owners of speedy horses, who desired to secure the prize money offered by the association. Other small cities receive the same treatment from Seattle, but when Seattle bids the residents of the cities to come and "blow" themselves within its gates, they all respond.

It is necessary that the people of every community should have one outing at least once a year, so that the dull cares of business or home life can be put aside for a few days, is beneficial and should be indulged in by all. But to go to a large city to be jostled by the surging crowds, charged exhorbitant prices for every accommodation, which is a drain on the purse strings of many who cannot afford it, works a serious hardship not only on that class, but the community in which they reside.

It is time the smaller cities call a halt and the people take their outings in such a manner that they receive more rest and recreation, and at the same time not impoverish themselves and the community to build up another.

MEGAPHONE ENTERS 5TH YEAR.

Smallest Community in United States Has One of Best Papers in State.

With this issue of the Megaphone enters upon the fifth year of its existence. Four strenuous years have passed away since the world was startled by the birth of the paper, and, during that time we have completed the Port Townsend Southern some twenty-seven times, have built vast shipping terminals. But far and above these great achievements has been the wonderful moral influence the Megaphone has exerted over a bunch of Port Townsend citizens who had been strangers to the truth since infancy. And if, in administering rebuke to these people, we have said anything we are sorry for we are glad of it.

The Megaphone will make no promises for the future. The paper will be just a little better than its patronage justifies. The public cannot consistently ask for more than this. But we would like to see the paper's patronage increased to a a point that will check the depletion of the clam beds in front of this office, and obviate the necessity of the editor running the risk of a charge of buckshot from the watch-house of the Quilcene Oyster Company on moonlight nights.

That the Megaphone has been appreciated by a considerable number of its patrons we firmly believe. That the community is the smallest in population having any kind of a newspaper is proven by the American Newspaper Directory. This fact alone no doubt carries with it some pride with the Quilcene public.

And with these words we desire to say that the future of the paper lies wholly in the hands of its patrons.

What is probably the queerest stable in the country is to be seen in Lewis county, Washington, where the stump of a giant fir has been hollowed out, making room large enough to house two horses. It is 10x11 feet at the base, and to render it impervious to rain a roof has been added. It stands on the homestead of George Beiries, who first used the partially hollow stump as a potato storehouse, finding room in it for seventy-two sacks. Later he enlarged the interior to its present dimensions.

Recently there has appeared a good deal of very favorable criticism of canned goods. Food experts are begining to endorse canned fruit and vegetables as excellent parts of daily diet. All this has been brought about in opposition to the canners themselves. The law now compells them to make their products clean and pure and put them up so carefully they do not need embalming extracts to keep them from spoiling and the products so greatly improved they increased in food value.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

Under orders recently issued by Governor Lister, the state highway commission will rush work on all state highways, so that the department will be able to get the roads in shape at the earliest possible time. The last legislature appropriated $1,600,000 for this purpose, and of this amount about $300,000 is this year available. Gov. Lister wants a start made at once. He has already made a trip over the routes of the proposed new highways in Western Washington, and will, within a short time, visit the remaining portions of the state. Another stimulus to immediate roadbuilding in the state is the decision of the state supreme court that the $3,000,000 road bond issue, authorized by the voters of King county, is legal. This means that work of the construction of a comprehensive system of highways in that country will proceed at once. The county commissioners have their plans ready and were waiting for the court decision before taking final action.

The bringing of a portion of the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific Coast as its permanent station and the giving to the Puget Sound Navy Yard of a greater amount of construction work than it has had in the past, are announcements made by Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, during his recent visit to the Pacific Northwest. He states that the location of the navy yard is magnificent and unsurpassed and after the opening of the Panama Canal there would never be any scarcity of work at this yard.

That the Wenatchee fruit district is to enjoy this year the best season it has ever had for soft fruits, and that fully a half million dollars worth of this fruit will be distributed by the growers before the winter shipping of apples begins, is the report sent out from this section of the state. Prospects are also bright for excellent prices.

That the ship construction facilities of Puget Sound are ample for the possibilities in this line that will come with the opening of the Panama Canal, is shown by the almost weekly launching of some vessel at the yards of the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock Co. The latest boat to take the water is the steel tug '.Milwaukee," built for the Milwaukee Terminal Co., which was launched last Tuesday. This boat is the first steel tug ever built for a railway company on this coast. It will be used in towing car barges between the various ports on Puget Sound. That many steel vessels can be under construction at one time in this plant and launchings occur with such rapid succession, is indication of the large facilities of the Seattle Construction & Dry Dock Co.

Representative Albert Johnson, of Hoquiam, has introduced into Congress a bill providing for the transfer of the forestry bureau from the department of agriculture to the interior department, where it was originally placed. The functions of the interior department and forestry bureau are so closely related that much criticism has been aroused at their separation. Mr. Johnson stated that the many trips of Attorney General Tanner and Land Commissioner Savidge between the departments to obtain the return of 700,000 acres of the state's land now locked up in the forest reserve has convinced him that all matters pertaining to the administration of public lands should be under the direction of one cabinet officer.

State Labor Commisioner E. W. Olson has interpreted the new juvenile law passed by last legislature as prohibiting the sale of newspapers on the street by boys under 12 years of age; also that it prohibits the employment on the stage of any child under this age. While the old law covered the same point, it gave judges a right to grant permission for such appearance. The whole matter is, however, still in question and awaits the interpretation of the state attorney general.

CLEAN UP THE POTLATCH.

Next year papers throughout the State will advise their readers as the Yakima Republic did this year, not to attend the Seattle Potlatch. Not because the papers do not like Seattle, not because of the I. W. W. and soldiers' and sailors' riots that marked the recent festivities on the Sound, but because women were not safe from insult, neither this year nor last, on the streets of Seattle during the Potlatch. The riots might occur at any time; they only want an occasion, and they are not native to Seattle by any means. But rowdyism, ruffianism and hoodlumism are quite another matter. They can be prevented, but for two years have not been in Seattle. Mayor Cotterill testifies to them, the Seattle Times warned against them during the Potlatch, returning visitors tell of them, but more eloquent than all such testimony is the fact that 500 civilians applied to the police authorities of the city for police powers to check the growing pest of the rowdies and hoodlums. These festivals, and notably the Potlatch, are seized on apparently by ruffians as a time for unrestrained license. It is doubtless true that hoodlumism can not be suppressed entirely, but it can be isolated instead of becoming frequent. Tacoma complains of offensive hat bands, Potlatch visitors of rowdyism and insults to women. If these things can not be suppressed, then these festivals will die of inanimation. Other festivals can take notice.—Aberdeen World.

Camping brings out all the philosophy there is in a man. It teaches him how to be happy while he is uncomfortable.

According to announcement just made from the supervisor's office, twenty-seven men, to serve as guards and rangers, have been appointed and assigned to duty in the several districts in Jefferson and Clallam counties, as follows:

Under District Ranger Morganroth of Port Angeles, one each on lower Elwha, upperElwha, Ennis creek, Lake Crescent, lower Soleduck, upper Soleduck, Hoh, Bogachiel and Calawah; under District Ranger Whitehead of Quilcene, one each on lower Dungeness, Deer Park, Lookout, Port Townsend Southern railroad, Hood Canal launch, Mt. Walker Lookout, and Dosewallips; under District Ranger Hutton of Potlatch, one each on the Hama Hama, Lake Cushman and the South Fork, Skokomish, and under the District Ranger Pauli of Quinault, one each on the Wynoochee, Humptulips, Col. Bob Lookout, Quinault Lake and the Queets river.

With the present limited trail system on the Olympic reserve the principal means of protecting the national forest from fire is by a systematic patrol on foot and the use of the 150 miles of government telephone, one-half of which was constructed during the past ten months. In addition to the foot patrol, and in favorable districts horse patrol, Supervisor Fromme is developing the lookout system with properly oriented maps and protractor on three prominent mountain peaks, and plans also introducing an auxilliary fire patrol introducing an auxiliary fire patrol by means of a gasoline railroad speeder between Quilcene and the head of Discovery bay and a gasoline launch on Hood canal from Quilcene south to Potlatch.

CAPT. J. M. DENNIS GONE TO HIS REWARD

Capt. James M. Dennis, laborer, resident of Angeles since 1889, died Tuesday of heart disease and will be buried Sunday, the funeral being held at the Opera House, by the Socialist Local. The last tribute will be paid by a leading Socialist speaker from Seattle.

Capt. Dennis was born in Tennessee and enlisted in the 26th Missouri Volunteers; after serving four years, the governor appointed him colonel of the state militia. He has no family save a son living at Anacortes. About a mouth ago, feeling the end was near, he told Messrs. Seevers and Hooker just how he wished to be buried and his wishes will be carried out as closely as possible.

A large crowd flocked to Civic Park yesterday to eat the good dinner served by the ladies of the W. R. C. It was an ideal day for a picnic and the ice cream and cake sold well during the afternoon and evening also.

The Arcata, in command of Lieutenant Jack, formerly of the Snohomish, was in the harbor a few hours Wednesday on business with the Snohomish.

FOREST FIRE BULLETIN.

High Pressure Area Chief Dread of Fire Fighters in Northwest.

Portland, July 28.—The Western Forestry & Conservation Association, representing the patrol organizations of the Pacific Coast, has just been notified by the Secretary of Agriculture that a plan for forecasting hot dry winds conducive to forest fires, formulated jointly by the association, the Forest Service and the Portland office of the Weather Bureau, has been approved and that weather officials are being instructed to co-operate in perfecting a system for reports and forecasts to be issued from Portland and San Francisco.

Most of the disastrous fires on this coast occur when a high-pressure area in Northern British Columbia and Alberta coincides with a low-pressure area in the California region, producing a violent southerly air current which may, however, be sharply deflected in different directions by local conditions, exceedingly drying because containing no moisture, and well-known as the summer "east wind," "west wind" or "norther," according to locality. In winter it is the famous "Chinook." It is the chief dread of fire-fighters, for fires not thoroughly in hand are likely to be fanned beyond human control with tremendous rapidity.

It is proposed to have the Weather Bureau co-operate with that of Canada in watching the development of such atmospheric conditions in both countries, so government, state and private protective agencies may be notified and take precaution to safeguard logging operations, redouble patrol activity, and prevent the firing of slashings. While it is not likely that the service will be perfected this year, arrangements are being made with the Canadian authorities and a full study of the report system necessary has begun.

All agencies emphasize that the danger season is here and urge the utmost precaution with fire from now on by campers, land clearers and loggers. Burning slashings without permit will be vigorously prosecuted. Some arrests have already been made, one in Oregon being for carelessly firing a hornet's nest.

IN RECOGNITION OF VOLUNTARY AID GIVEN

The subjoined resolutions and letter were handed to Capt. W. E. AtLee, Commander of the United States Revenue Cutter Snohomish, by Secretary Pearce, of the Port Angeles Commercial Club, in recognition of the voluntary aid given by the vessel at the recent fires at the Puget Sound Mills & Timber Company's shingle mill and the Manhattan Salmon Cannery.

July 30, 1913.

Capt. W. E. AtLee, Commander,
U. S. Revenue Cutter Snohomish,
Dear Sir:

It affords me much pleasure to hand you herewith, a copy of resolutions adopted by the Port Angeles Commercial Clubon July 23rd, 1913, thanking the officers and men of the Snohomish for the valuable assistance rendered by them in fighting fires at the shingle mill of the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company's plant and the Manhattan Cannery on Saturday and Sunday, July 19th and 20th respectively.

You may be sure that not only the Commercial Club, but the citizens of Port Angeles are profoundly grateful for the voluntary aid, in the absence of which, great loss of property might have resulted.

I have the honor to subscribe my self. Respectively,

W. S. PEARCE,
Secretary of Port Angeles Commercial Club.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS.
July 23, 1913.

Adopted by the Port Angeles Commercial Club and presented to the officers and men of the United States Revenue Cutter Snohomish.

Whereas, on July 19th and 20th, the United States Revenue Cutter Snohomish rendered timely and valuable assistance to the City Fire Department in fighting and subduing the conflagrations which threatened the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company's shingle mill and the Manhattan Salmon Cannery, both in the city limits of Port Angeles,

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, that the Commercial Club of Port Angeles in regular session assembled, hereby extends a vote of thanks to the officers and men of the said Revenue Cutter Snohomish, for so valorously combatting the flames, which without their assistance might have wrought much greater damage,

Be It Further Resolved, that this resolution be spread upon the minutes of the said Port Angeles Commercial Club, and that a copy of the same be transmitted to the commander of the Snohomish.

Dated at Port Angeles, Washington, on this the 23rd day of July, A. D. 1913.

W. S. PEARCE,
Secretary.

HOH RIVER WELL WILL BE DUG SOON

The right weather forecast and a calm sea is all that is delaying the Jefferson Oil Company from completing its first Hoh River well within the next two or three weeks. The second consignment of machinery and material, already loaded, will be towed up the coast by the tug Standard just as soon as the weather permits.

At the Jefferson Oil Company holdings the former natural landscape is being transformed rapidly. The road up the bluff has been completed. The donkey engine which will be used in hauling up supplies is ashore and will be in place soon. When the second load arrives everything will be in readiness for putting up the derrick, placing the boiler, and rigging the well. The well will be of the familiar walking beam type, with the engine far in the rear of the hole.

The landing of machinery and supplies has been but one sample of the difficulties which must be contended with along the Hoh district coast. The company is proceeding as rapidly as possible, but is taking no chances of dumping valuable machinery in the ocean, or having it spilled and wrecked in the breakers.—Aberdeen World.

"But, Eliza," said the mistress, "your little boy was christened George Washington. Why do you call him Izaak Walton? Walton, you know, was the famous fisherman."

"Yes'm," answered Eliza, "but dat chile's repetashun fo' telling de troof made dat change imper'tive."

"I hear that Doctor Smith is treating you?" asked his friend.

"Yes," said Dobson.

"What is he doing to you?"

"Well," said Dobson, "we chat together, he writes me prescriptions, I tear 'em up, and I get well."

MOTHERS' PENSION APPLICATIONS GRANTED

Twenty-seven Children Given Promise of Better Homes and More Efficient Care.

Judge John M. Ralston of the Superior bench spent Wednesday and Thursday here considering Mothers' Pension applications under the new law, and some other matters coming before the Court.

In the former, nine cases in all were submitted, eight of which were allowed, and 27 children are given the promise thereby of better homes and more care. The matters are considered only quasi-public and therefor we are not warranted in giving too much publicity thereto. Suffice it to say that eight mothers with twenty-seven children, but with no means of support, were granted relief at a cost of $210 per month to the county. The law under which these pensions were granted was passed by the last legislature and provides that destitute women with families may be awarded not to exceed $15 per month for the support of herself and first child and $5 per month for each additional child, provided, that such relief will make it possible for such mother to maintain a home and care for her children, and that she is a proper person to have the care of said children. Some pitiful stories were told, all of which were undoubtedly true. In one case the county attorney is looking into a case of desertion in an effort to compel the offending father to assist in the support of his children.

In the case of the saloon men arrested for keeping open July 4th, E. E. Day, by his attorney T. F. Trumbull, petitioned the court for a writ of habeas corpus, alleging custody by the city marshal upon an illegal complaint. The case was submitted by stipulation with the city, and was heard upon the demurrer of the city attorney, who alleged that the petition did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The attorney, however, told the court he had advised the lower court that the court did not have jurisdiction, in that the complaint was not sworn to and was therefor illegal. Upon this showing the court overruled the demurrer. No writ of habeas corpus has as yet been issued, but the admissions of the city attorney practically concede the point. The Court holds that if this complaint is held invalid it does not mean that the offenders may not be rearrested upon a valid complaint.

A number of probate matters were also heard by the court.

"My husband is particularly liable to seasickness," remarked the lady passenger. "Could you tell him what to do in case of an attack?"

NEWBROS' HERPICIDE SAVES THE HAIR

And Keeps You Looking Young.

Don't look older than your are. It is just as easy to look younger. While lack of hair or poor hair is not always an indication of age, it is frequently accepted as such.

A person well advanced in years possessing a good head of hair is always spoken of as "well preserved."

Everyone can retain beautiful, luxuriant hair if they make the effort. In almost every instance poor hair or the loss of hair may be traced to the activity of the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide prevents the scale-like accumulation and puts the scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. With the elimination of the dandruff the hair no longer drops out. The itching of the scalp stops almost at once.

Newbro's Herpicide is the remedy for which there are many substitutes, preparations claimed to be "just as good." You don't have to accept a substitute. Insist upon having genuine Herpicide.

Sold and guaranteed and your money back if not satisfied.

W. J. Mathewson, Special Agent.

PRESENT GENERATION WILL SEE NATIONAL EQUALITY

Secretary Daniels, of the navy department, speaking before the San Francisco Civic League said, "We may as well get ready for the inevitable, for women are going to vote.

"The world is only now fully awakening to Jefferson's idea of government. This chart of human liberties first of all declares that, paramount to the protection of infant industries is care for the infants of the republic.

"For 6,000 years they have been allowed to die by impure milk, impure food, disgraceful sanitary conditions, unhealthy surroundings, death-hole tenements and typhoid and other preventable germs. We have spent millions to protect infant industries until they have grown into giants, and we continue to feed them. We have spent only a pittance to protect the infants.

"It is only in recent years that the conscience of the country has aroused to the protection of girlhood and the suppression of the vice traffic has been vigorously undertaken by local, state and federal governments. Juvenile courts have come out of this new enlightenment.

"If the women of California exercise the right of suffrage for health, sanitation, the protection of the child, the women, the home; if they stand against graft and hysterics, if they sentence immoral men to political St. Helenas; if they oppose privilege and the rule of protection that lets one man get rich at the expense of many; if they set their faces for the real reforms, who will dare say that suffrage has not been justified of her children?"

The proud father, to whom a college education had been denied, met his daughter at the train on her return from college.

"But, Helen," he said, "aren't you unusually fat?"

"Yes, Dad," she replied, "I weigh one hundred and forty pounds stripped for 'gym.'"

The father looked dazed for a moment and then demanded: "Who in thunder is Jim?"

Mrs. Geo. Krousey, of Tumwater Hill, entertained at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of her birthday. The decorations were sweet peas and ferns. Those being present were Mesdames Leland, Pierson, Tracey, Reddeck, Waddell, Huddle, Curren and Mrs. W. Waddell. Many dainty little tokens were received by the hostess and a very pleasant afternoon and lunch was enjoyed and all departed wishing the hostess many happy returns of the occasion.

Miss Gertrude Willson is acting as Mr. Anderson's assistant at the Central play grounds and parents need feel no hesitancy about letting their little boys and girls go there to play on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, when she will be there. It is hoped that soon an assistant can be secured for Lincoln Heights play grounds also, as it is difficult for Mr. Anderson to give proper attention to both the little ones and older boys and girls at the same time. The play grounds are becoming more popular every week and Mr. Anderson is proving himself quite a hero to the boys, at least. Last week, under his guidance, a crowd of young boys enjoyed a couple of days' outing on Mt. Angeles and a hike to the lakes will be enjoyed before long. We can do nothing better for our boys and girls than to provide them with good, clean, healthful sports, under the superintendency of a man of the character of Mr. Anderson.

Over in Port Townsend the boys, members of the recently organized Boy Scouts, have been having an outing back in the mountains, under the leadership of Col. Geo. Welch. They marched some sixty miles, altogether, and made the summit of Bald Mountain, 6500 feet high. In its account of the outing, the Townsend paper, by the transposition of linotype slugs in correcting, made one of the Olympic-Leader's characteristic "bulls," saying the boys camped "on the banks of the mountain trout, and the scouts hooked the creek. The stream abounded in quite a number of the speckled beauties."

D. H. Bodley returned the first of the week from his extended trip, reporting his brother much improved. He says the crops are fine in Michigan and Ohio, but burned up in Kansas and on thru to Oregon. Mrs. Bodley and daughter, who accompanied him, remained in Everett. This was the first visit Mr. Bodley had made to his old home in thirty-two years, yet he found many familiar faces.

Mrs. Annis Harris as "Mrs. Ray" will cleverly change from an angry to a joyful mood and will assist in two engagements and a reunion of husband, wife and daughter, while they are "Untangling Tony" at the Opera House tomorrow. Good! no, that doesn't express it!

Mrs. H. H. Butler, Mrs. C. C. Rice, Mrs. Wm. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith, Miss Cecil Smith, Miss Perclau of Seattle, Mr. Krull and Judge Lanthorne made up a pleasant party that spent the week-end at Williams' Cabin and climbed Mt. Angeles.

Miss Eunice Stakemiller and Mrs. John Willson went to Seattle Wednesday to meet their aunt, Mrs. R. E Ank, of Mt. Carrol, Ill., who is coming to make an extended visit with her brothers S. E. and C. S. Stakemiller and their families.

Tony is Untangled because Mildred starts the task. It takes mighty good acting and a quick mind to grasp the situations as she will do tomorrow night at the Opera House. Miss Connie Hoare as Mildred will excel in her part.

Complimentary to Miss Phylis FitzHenry, the Misses Cora Wolverton and Mamie Thompson entertained a large party of girls at the home of the former on Saturday afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. Hyde and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mack Clark spent the week-end at the Olympic Hot Springs and enjoyed a climb up Crystal Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong and Col. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey of Port Townsend, passed thru Angeles Saturday on their way to the Olympic Hot Springs.

THE POWER OF THE WOMEN VOTE

The Pictorial Review for August contains an interesting story regarding the election of Gevernor Lister, the eleventh-hour candidate, who owed his election to the fact that the women of the state could not and would not endorse the republican candidates. The Review says:

"Ernest Lister was an iron manufacturer. He was a man of the finest personality, of great efficiency, and his home life was ideal. He was in no sense a politician, but under former Governor John R. Rogers he had had charge of the state's finances as a member of the board of control public institutions and expenditures. Governor Rogers' administration is without question the best Washington ever had. The success of it was largely due to the system of efficiency introduced into the state's affairs by Ernest Lister. The latter fought extravagant expenditures, instituted sound business methods and saved the state from bankruptcy. When Governor Rogers took office, Washington state warrants were quoted at sixty-five dollars on the hundred. When he relinquished the office, state warrants were selling at above par. This change in state credit was due to Ernest Lister's efficient business methods.

Unfortunately for Lister's chances however, he was an eleventh-hour candidate. At the Democratic primaries, Lister ran second, being beaten by Judge Black, who accordingly became the party nominee. After the campaign had been in progress for some time, Judge Black was declared inelligible by the State Supreme court, and Lister was placed on the ticket. This was about three weeks before election day. With such a handicap, no one dreamed that he could be elected.

"The majority of the male voters held to the principles that they had inherited from their fathers, stuck to their parties, regardless of political scandals or anything else. The women, never having inherited any political principles at all, made up their own. What they wanted was a clean, efficient governor. They cared nothing about the party label he bore. Accordingly they turned to Lister by the thousand. They got out non-partisan circulars signed by women of all parties, asking support for Lister. They held great mass meetings where prominent citizens who thought more of efficiency than of a party labels urged Lister's merits. Never have we anywhere attended a political meeting that for earnestness, cleanness and high tone equalled those Lister meetings. All reference to scandals in other parties was tabooed. Mr. Lister's sole plea was that efficiency, independence, honesty. A lecture at Carnegie Hall could not have been more dignified or cleaner. Such meetings mean something for the future of American politics. In the entire state of Washington, not one newspaper backed Lister. But the women never faltered. By the same methods they had employed to elect other desirable men, they got voters into line for Lister. When the final tally was made, Ernest Lister was found to be elected Governor of the state of Washington."

THE SILENT LAND OF MYSTERY

precipitous that all mountain characteristics exist in boundless profusion—glaciers, snowbanks, cataracts, waterfalls and all.

And tho there is no one pre-eminent object to dominate the entire region, like Rainier and Baker, yet there are more distinct peaks penetrating the upper atmosphere to the realm of eternal winter than in any other area within the state. The Elwha Basin, being in the very center of these snowy peaks, is the natural key to the approaches of all. Altho the heights, from 7,300 to 8,250, may seem insignificant compared with the Cascades and Sierras, yet the elevation of the Basin being but 3,300 feet, the actual distances above camp in either case are nearly the same and all the difficulties encountered are essentially the same as on the loftier peaks.

A wall of homegeneous granite or sandstone is but a naked wall, whether it be 100 or 1,000 feet high. Hundreds and thousands of feet mean nothing to the eye when they stand in meaningless front. A mountain covered by pure snow 10,000 feet high has but little more effect on the imagination than a mountain of snow 1,000 feet high—it is but more of the same thing. "The large volcanoes with their enormous snowcaps and glaciers test the strength of the best climbers," says Asahel Curtis, "but seldom afford the chance for delicate work like the crags and pinnacles of the Olympics."

The view from the top of one of the Olympics, it matters not whether it be Olympus with its near view of the high peaks, or Angeles with the Straits below and Vancouver and the San Juan Islands in the middle distance, or Constance with the Canal and Sound at its feet, is one so vast, so stupendous, so immense that there is no man living or to come who can tell of it so that another man can understand it.

Perhaps some idea may be obtained when one says that the eastern horizon is over 1,000 miles long, reaching from Mt. Jefferson down in Oregon northward to the edge of the world over in British Columbia. Put your rule on the map and see how far it is from Mt. Jefferson to Seattle, then measure the same distance north from Seattle along the Cascades and yet get the length of the horizon as you see it from the Olympics.

The Mountaineers, a Washington organization, similar to the older clubs, the Mazamas and Sierras, made the first real expedition to Mt. Olympus, during July and August of 1907. Their visit, the first annual outing of the club, was also the means of opening up a good trail to the Elwha Basin, the work being done by Angeles people. After camping in the Basin for ten days, waiting until the pack train could return to town and bring in the second division, during which time several of the immediate peaks were scaled, the party left on three days' trip to Mt. Olympus. Their experiences have been very graphically described by Prof. W. D. Lyman of Whitman College:

"It may be remarked that this party of mountaineers was the largest knapsack party on record in this country. Each member carried from six to ten pounds of provisions, besides his or her bedding. The course from Camp Elwha to the Queets Pass follows a deep glacier-filled canyon, in which are icewells and crevasses of glacier blue and green, wondrous for beauty, to a lofty pass, from the summit of which we look westward to the giant bulk of Olympus. In the foreground is one of the fairest of all the fair scenes of the mountains, the mountain meadows of the Queets. Though not so large as Paradise Park on Mt. Tacoma, this Paradise of Queets is not inferior in charm. It seems like a land of Beulah as we descend into its green glades and flowery meads and dip our fingers into its pearly streams or gaze entranced into its deep gorges and watch the sunlight weave its golden braid from the irised mist which hangs at the verge of foaming cataracts. If the pack train could penetrate into this inner sanctuary of the Queets paradise, it would be the true place for a permanent camp. This park bears abundant traces of the glacial age, for its interwoven and uplifted strata of sandstone and slate have been planed and grooved in a manner wonderful and beautiful to see.

Passing through this most enrapturing scene of the whole trip, we cross a deep gorge in which flows a branch of the Queets from the great Humes glacier on the eastern side of Mt. Olympus, and make our camp within rifle shot of the huge green ice-cataract, finding sweet sleeping places on the springy heather. After a cold night, with the stars shining with almost the sparkle of a frosty night of winter, we feel confident of a propitious day. But alas! the gods of Olympus were affronted and at 3:30 when the trumpet call for rising should have been sounded, a cold, dense mist gathered over the valley of the Queets. Delaying three hours for development and seeing that the light brightened, it was decided to proceed in the hope that as on other days the clouds would give way with the growing time.

"We followed a rugged and difficult course skirting the northern edge of the Humes glacier, and finally with the aid of a rope dropping down upon the twisted and crevassed body of the glacier itself, terribly beautiful. The vastness of this glacier, tho inferior to the Hoh glacier on the northern side, is a revelation to those first seeing it. In fact it became plain as we proceeded that Olympus is a titanic pile, with a base equal to that of Adams or even Tacoma himself. Nature evidently aimed to rear here one of her loftiest monuments, but did not carry out the elevation in proportion to the design of the foundation. But the vastness of the ground plan furnishes abundant basis for glaciers, and here they surely are.

"We had been on the march but an hour when the rain began to fall. In another hour it began to pour. Still we faced it, girls as well as men, and hope still reigned of a clear sky above the clouds. But soon rain gave place to snow. The wind began to whistle around crags and along the treacherous ice-cracks. It soon became a serious matter. One girl, though struggling bravely, was 'all in.' Her face took on a pallor that frightened those near her, and only by two men sustaining her on aplenstocks could she maintain herself at all. Others were in danger of similar collapse. But we throw ourselves a few rods further against the wind and stand on a windswept ridge of snow with the Hoh glacier three miles long, way below us upon which we must descend, to rise again upon a long ridge of rock to gain the summit. The scene was one of the wildest and grandest that the writer, after much travel, has ever seen. The savage crags of the summit, not so very far away, but 'so near and yet so far,'—partially visible as the storm broke and swung about them, then entirely hidden by the gathering snow, the huge tortured and contorted mass of the Hoh glacier lost in pinnacles of rock and wheeling scud of storm and about it all the dismal soughing of the wind, while the snowflakes stung and slapped the face and hands—it was a scene not to be forgotten by that little company of men and women.

"And now the order was given to retreat. We had met the enemy 'and we were his.' It would be pleasurable if we could chronicle that we came down to camp without a single further mishap. But we are obliged to make an exception, for while descending the moraine at the foot of the Humes glacier, two-thirds of the hard course done, one of the party, Miss Winona Bailey, lost her footing on a strip of the slippery heather and slid down fifty feet, landing beneath a projecting tongue of snow. It was a distressing and painful accident, as the cuts and bruises were many. The labor of carrying the helpless woman, unconscious part of the time, down the rough declivities in the midst of the wrathful storm, on a hastily constructed stretcher made of aplenstocks and ropes, was extreme, and there was danger that she might lose vitality in the extremity of cold and pain to which she was subjected. But the descent was at last accomplished and the injured sister made as comfortable as circumstances permitted. A few of the party remained with her until the members of the second party, who had remained at the main camp, could come over to care for her.

"Such, in a brief view, was the outing of the Mountaineers for 1907. Though partially defeated by storm and though having some of the trials inseperable from so large and ambitious an undertaking of the kind, it resulted in the demonstration that in the heart of the Olympics is a region of extraordinary charm to the Mountaineerer and Naturalist."

"Why, Jimmy," said his mother, "I do believe you're teaching that parrot to swear!"

"No, I'm not, Mother," the boy replied; "I'm just telling it what it mustn't say."

Be free from CRITICISM.

Mrs. Housekeeper:—

The way to be free from CRITICISM is to have your house so tastefully furnished that your NEIGHBORS' tattling tongues can find nothing to CRITICISE. And you will like to have your friends come to visit you if you home is well-appointed throughout. A good way to avoid criticism is to go to a store you can depend upon for selling up-to-date furniture. And you want to go to a store where you know that the price is right.
