PORT ANGELES OLYMPIC LEADER

VOL 29, No. 33. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1913. 5c THE COPY.

ORDERED ORDINANCE FOR WORK ON CHERRY

Eighth Street Bridges to Be Provided with Cluster Lights by Ladies' Literary Club. New Planking Ordered on Roadways.

The city council held quite an extended session Tuesday night and considerable work was gone through albeit largely routine. All members were present, except Wilcox on leave.

Resolution of intention to improve Cherry street came up for hearing. A protest signed by F. P. Fisher and half a dozen other owners was read. Engineer's estimate of $30,000 for work on Cherry street and $12,000 on Second from Cherry to Valley was also read. These two districts showed valuations of $47,480 and $4,140 respectively. Mr. Elliott moved that the attorney bring in ordinance for improvement of Cherry street, and this carried, leaving Second in the air for the time being, it being the opinion of the council that this cut should be coupled with a fill on Valley, which would divide the cost.

Question of putting a wearing surface on 8th street bridges was brought up and upon motion of Fisher, roadways were ordered, covered with hot tar and two-inch plank laid diagonally at a cost of approximately $1000, same to be charged to refund coming to city from moneys advanced in preliminary work. Carried. In this connection it was announced that the Women's Literary Club, having the original bridge fund, would use same to light said bridges with cluster lights.

A petition was read from secretary of the Commercial Club asking that city re-advertise for bids for construction of seawall in Seattle, Tacoma, Vancouver and Victoria papers. The council seemed to fail to grasp the reason for the request, and the matter went over after an explanation as to why no bids had been received. City attorney stated that a new Resolution of Intention would be necessary, and all preliminary work would have to be done over. Old assessment roll is wrong, in that property which should be included was left out. New roll will have to include leaseholds and practically whole city in enlarged district. He further stated that an effort is being made by parties interested to get together so that seawall can be built without an inner retaining wall as contemplated originally by grading of other streets so sufficient dirt can be secured. A motion by Elliot failed; Dustman, Fisher and Swanson voting against re-advertising, upon the ground that we are not prepared to call for bids on this work at this time.

Street commissioner recommended and council so ordered that request to put up building on A and Third street be indefinitely postponed.

Also upon recommendation of street commissioners, $10 was allowed to fix side hill on 9th street, between Pine and Valley.

The city clerk notified council that estimates for year with little over half of year gone have been overdrawn as follows: Treasurer, $181; Clerk $393.91; Engineer $1,443.06; Fire Department $347.15 (new hose); filed.

Request of Fred Zbinden that his unexpired license be transferred to M. M. Pizer and W. E. Wiseman of Seattle, to whom he had sold his business. Bond of new owners being approved, council granted transfer, Dustman voting no.

Notice from F. P. Fisher as custodian of government property was read, notifying council that city hall is located on government land, and that application to lease same will be necessary. Unless such application is made within a reasonable time, city will be ordered to vacate. The purpose of the communication seemed to have all occupants on the portions reserved from the recent sale to relinquish all claim to same by asking the government for a lease, same to date from last December, when the order withdrawing certain portions was made.

Fisher moved that clerk be directed to acknowledge receipt of communication, stating that city will comply therewith and asking amount of rental on lease which will be required; carried.

The Olympic Hotel Company notified city that they had planned to open their hotel December 5, and asked that city take steps immediately to provide light for said hotel, also that a hydrant be placed near said hotel for fire protection. The electrician was directed to take steps at once to have lights provided, but the question of placing a hydrant brought out a protest from Myers, who stated that if the city was getting these hydrants free as it should it would be all right, but they were costing the city $40 a year besides installing. Motion to install hydrant carried, Myers voting no.

Water company was directed to repair water pipe on Peabody street at 4th.

Two bids were submitted for the purchase of the Municipal refunding bonds in amount of $36,000. Jas. N. Wright, of Denver, bid par at 6 per cent, $50 premium; transcript of proceeding to be furnished by city. Under same terms Sidney, Sweitzer Co. of New York, bid $148 premium and was awarded the issue.

Street superintendent was directed to proceed with putting in new sidewalks on north side of Front street, ordered by council some weeks ago.

The school board, with Superintendent White, appeared before the council in a body. Messrs. Stakemiller and McGillivray addressing that "august body" in behalf of the children, asking that 4th street in front of the new school building be improved, as it was impassible last winter and will be again this winter unless fixed, and that a fire hydrant be placed in the vicinity, a four-inch main already being extended to location. A foot bridge is also a great necessity. Upon motion of Fisher, question of repair of street was referred to street superintendent, for report at next meeting, and hydrant was ordered placed at direction of school board. Board thanked the council.

Engineer submitted estimate of additional work done on Francis street, showing balance due contractors after deducting 25 per cent of $2,058.75; the amount was allowed.

EXPERTS MAKE SURVEY OF LAKES

Lake Crescent 576 Feet in Depth; Temperature Ranges from 60 to 40 Degrees.

Dr. George Kremmer, Professor of Chemistry of New Mexico State School of Mines, and W. R. Boorman of the University of Wisconsin, returned Monday from Lakes Crescent and Sutherland, where they gave detailed tests of the chemical and biological characteristics of the waters of the lakes, including depth, temperature, fish food available and origin. They had intended also visiting Lake Ozette, but found that the difficulty of getting their apparatus to that section was too great.

The gentlemen exploded the theory held here that the country about these beautiful lakes was of volcanic origin, they claiming that it is of glacier formation. At some time a great glacier split at Barnes creek at the east end of Lake Crescent one half gouging out the hole down Lyle river, the other half making the bed of Lake Sutherland and spending itself down Indian creek to the Elwha.

Lake Crescent, off Sunshine Cove, midway the length of the lake, shows a depth of 576 feet, with a temperature of 60 degrees for a depth of twenty feet. Below that depth the temperature is down to 40 degrees. In this colder water the fish live, coming to the surface or shallower water only at times. Lake Sutherland attains only a depth of 83 feet at its deepest point and is two degrees warmer in both surface and deep water.

As to plankton, or fish food, the gentlemen find that Lake Sutherland has the greatest supply of any lakes visited so far on their extended trip.

The government experts are making a survey of the various lakes of the Northwest for the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, for the purposes of stocking these waters with fish best adapted to the various waters. They carry four hundred pounds of apparatus. They are co-operating with the state fish commissioner, who is doing everything possible to assist them in their investigations.

The new high school has received a coat of white paint and the basement has been enlarged and provided with an outside entrance.

Herman Anderson, the playground superintendent, made a business visit to Seattle the end of the week.

MEANY CLIMBED MOUNT MEANY IN SNOWSTORM

Mountaineers Have Best Outing in Seven Years. A Jolly Crowd and Everyone Uncomplainingly "Played the Game."

"It was the grandest sight I have ever seen and I am a member of every Alpine club in America and have climbed every important peak in the states; there is nothing in the Alps to compare with it," was the way one of the Mountaineers expressed himself regarding the view from Olympus, which was scaled by sixty-seven members on the 11th of August. "The entire Cascade range from Oregon to far up in British Columbia was free from clouds and all the big volcanoes, Baker, Tacoma, Adams, St. Helens and Hood, were in sight at the same time. The Alps can boast of no such scene as that."

For three years certain of the Mountaineers, members of the club who participated in the first annual outing, but who failed to climb Mt. Olympus on that occasion, have been urging another trip into the Olympics. Each time a majority of the members of the board has held that the trip would be too expensive and would appeal to so few that failure would be inevitable. Yet the results, over 130 applications and 112 actual participants—the committee having been unable to provide transportation for more—has proven the Olympics to be the most popular of any section of the Northwest. There were visitors from almost every section of the country, mostly professional people, the roster including a number of noted mountain climbers.

The unusual depth of snow in the Dodwell & Rixon pass prevented the use of horses and permanent camp had to be established in the Elwha Basin, instead of the valley of the Queets as planned. Consequently each one participating in the climb had to pack his own blankets and provisions.

"It was the largest knapsack party on record," said L. A. Nelson, who was at the head of the committee in charge of the outing," and even tho they've got blistered faces and came back soaking wet from the heavy rain the last night out, they have all played the game. It is the best natured company I have ever been with." Nelson, himself, had his lower lip swollen to abnormal size and a number of others showed the effects of a day on the vast snow fields.

It was raining the day the writer visited the Mountaineers in the Basin, the showers continuing all night and most of the next day, when the party left for the Low Divide on the opposite side of Mt. Seattle. The clouds were detached and moving slowly along, just resting on the tips of the peaks. Apparently the condensation was due to the broad snow dome of Mt. Queets, as the rain all came from those clouds which had just passed over its summit. The party had divided, twenty of the stronger having scaled Mt. Meany, while most of the others gathered flowers in the grassy parks on the summit of Barnes which is really a hill-like ridge. All of them were half frozen and soaked to the skin on their return to the camp.

Professor Meany, president of the State University, said they had a beautiful view of all the surrounding country just before reaching the summit of Mt. Meany, but while making the last hundred feet they were treated to a hail storm, and later on during the descent, to a snow storm. Meany, the Matterhorn of the Olympics, was named by the Press Expedition of 1890, the Professor being then on the editorial staff of that paper. At the evening campfire, over which the Professor, as president of the Mountaineers, presided, he thanked the members for the great pleasure he had had that day, in taking formal possession of his mountain.

It was "limerick night" that evening, every member responding to the president's call with a jolly on some member of the party. An original poem on the sentinel fir of the Elwha Basin was read, and several talks on permanent camps or club houses made by visitors from Portland, Vancouver, B. C., Boston, and other places. In honor of Mrs. Parsons of Berkley, a visitor who has made the ascent of fourteen mountains each over 10,000 feet high, the pass and glacier between Mts. Seattle and Noyes, which forms the principal view from the Basin, were named Marion pass and glacier.

The ascent of Mt. Seattle was made both from the Basin and the Low Divide, and Mt. Christie was also ascended by a small party while at the Divide.

CITY OF LONG BEACH GIVES GOOD SATISFACTION

Angeles Should Patronize Steamer Owned and Operated by Company of Home Business Men.

Elsewhere in this issue is the official schedule of the Port Angeles Transportation Company, a recently organized association of Angeles capitalists who solicit a share of the passenger and freight traffic of the sound between this city and up-sound points. The company has put a first-class steamer on the run, with up-to-date accommodations in every particular, and, with a fair passenger and freight charge, should have at least its full share of local traffic. Look up the schedule and have the new transportation company and their splendid steamer, City of Long Beach, in mind when contemplating your next trip up sound.

OLYMPIC HOT SPRINGS CURED HIS RHEUMATISM

Luigi Matriotti, one of the old-time ranchers of the East End was here Saturday on his way home from the Olympic Hot Springs, where he has been rusticating for the past few weeks. He is loud in his praise of the curative properties of these springs, going in crippled considerably with rheumatism and coming out in three weeks much improved.

The pastor of the Congregational church returned Tuesday and the church will be open Sunday.

CITY MAY OBTAIN SPIT FOR FREE FACTORY SITES

Mr. Ritchie Reports Special Act all that is Necessary to Enable City to Secure Ninety-nine Year Lease.

A large and enthusiastic crowd was present at the Commercial Club meeting on Wednesday evening. The club room was filled almost to capacity with representative business men and citizens of Port Angeles, while a goodly number of outsiders were present.

The feature of the session was an address by Wm. B. Ritchie, who recently returned from the East, where he had been on a business trip for the Commercial Club and other interests affecting the welfare of the city.

Mr. Ritchie's mission in behalf of the Commercial Club was to confer with the authorities at Washington, D. C., relative to a long term lease of Ediz Hook from the federal government to the city of Port Angeles, for manufacturing sites.

It is pleasing to announce that Mr. Ritchie was cordially received by the senators and representatives from the state of Washington and members of the Light House Board, who have jurisdiction over such matters, and were assured that a lease of ninety-nine years would be given the city on the property, after certain formalities are complied with.

Having been fully advised as to the plan of procedure in the premises, Mr. Ritchie communicated the same in a comprehensive manner to his auditors, who agree with him that nothing of a prohibitive nature stands in the way of the successful consummation of the negotiations.

It will be necessary for congress to pass a special act for a lease of the duration asked by the city, inasmuch as the present law only gives the Light House Board authority to lease such government land for a term of five years. The Washington authorities informed Mr. Ritchie that the act would undoubtedly be passed.

The audience listened with rapt attention to Mr. Ritchie's discourse, and expressed its approval and appreciation of his efforts by prolonged applause at the conclusion of the address.

The acquisition of the Spit by the city will be a signal triumph, for it will then be in position to offer free sites to all classes of industries, and its effect upon the city's development will be of value scarcely realized at the present moment.

Several other questions of importance to the city and the county came up for discussion, and were referred to the proper committees for adjustment.

In its entirety, the meeting was a most successful one; harmony and good feeling were in evidence throughout the evening, and everybody departed in the best of spirits, confident that brighter days are ahead for our thriving ,bustling city.

STEAMER SIOUX ON ANGELES RUN

Will Make Speedy Daylight Round Trip, Giving Business Men Half Day in Seattle.

That the growth of the passenger travel to the Olympic Peninsula has again made it necessary to increase the steamer service, is the announcement made by Mr. Frank Burns, general manager of the Inland Navigation Co., who was in the city Tuesday.

Commencing with the evening trip out of Seattle August 21st, the steamer Sioux will be placed on the Seattle-Port Angeles run, leaving Port Angeles 7:30 a. m., arriving at Seattle 12:30 p. m., returning leaves Seattle 6:00 p. m., arriving at Port Angeles 11:00 p. m., daily, calling at Port Townsend in both directions.

"We do not expect this service to be very profitable in the start," said Mr. Burns, "but there comes a time on every growing run when the business for one vessel is too large and not quite large enough for two, and, in order to endeavor to create extra travel to offset the added expense, a special excursion rate to Seattle will be given until further notice, of $2.50 for the round trip, good returning on date of sale and on steamer Sioux only.

This new schedule of the "Sioux" will furnish a close connection with the steamer Whatcom at Port Townsend for Anacortes and Bellingham, and will allow Port Angeles business men to go to Seattle, have a half day in which to transact business and return home the same night at a reduced rate and without having to pay for a berth on the steamer.

BOYS HAD STRENUOUS AND ENJOYABLE OUTING

Climbed Mountains, Hiked to Hot Springs, and Gave Wildwood Shows in Evening.

The crowd of boys who had been out camping on Lake Crescent for nine days returned last Friday afternoon, after a very strenuous and enjoyable outing. The membership of the party was as follows: Charles Hanson, Bernard Schweitzer, Robert Wilkins, Will Thompson, Raymond Isabell, Eric Ulstrum, Bert Niles, Kenneth Bell, Harry Garber, Joe Hoare, Elston Isabell, Oliver Mitchell, Douglas McNutt, Stewart Brown, Elmer Jacobs and Herman Anderson.

The time was spent in swimming, climbing Storm King Mountain, fishing, cruising the lake, trips to Marymere, and a two days' tramp to the Sol Duc Hot Springs. Nearly all the traveling was done on foot, even the journey from Port Angeles to the Lakes was done on foot. The evenings were spent around the campfire, with a wildwood show nearly every night, and story telling, etc.

According to Mr. Anderson, who had charge of the party, the boys proved themselves throughout to be real men, as was largely shown by the cooking department, which after the first few days was done entirely by the boys, under the direction of Chief Cook Bill Thompson. And such fine meals!

A big lift was given to the boys by Mr. J. C. Hansen, who handled the baggage transportation end of the trip.

Next Monday Mr. Anderson is going to take another crowd of boys from Lincoln Heights for a week's outing, which will end this summer's vacation.

NO PLACE LIKE PORT ANGELES.

J. Emery Lester returned to Port Angeles this week, and will re-engage in the real estate business Mr. Lester says that he has come to stay this time; after a tramp through the country, he has decided there was no place like Angeles. He was among the first of the many who came here last year to enter the real estate business and succeeding in making things hum for a time—so long as there was anything to do to speak of in that line—and will succeed again. He can't help it; he has it in him. Mr. Lester is a pleasant affable man to meet, of good business ability and always makes friends, success to him.

THE THAW CASE.

In police parlance, the escape of Thaw from the insane asylum at Matteawan, was undoubtedly a "frame-up." It probably involved the bribery of asylum attendants, and Mrs. Evelyn's estimate of the cost at something like twenty or thirty thousand dollars is somewhere near the likely truth. The timing of the escape at a time when a situation has developed at Albany that makes extradition practically impossible does not argue a large amount of Thaw insanity. As a matter of fact, the man was never insane in the ordinary meaning of that word. It was used as a convenient excuse for murder. The man himself protested against the plea en though it was used successfully to keep him out of the electric chair or the penitentiary. He has protested against it ever since his imprisonment. He is probably right in his protest. There always was and always will be two opinions as to his degree of guilt. Some think he should have been acquitted, others think his punishment, if, indeed, he has been punished, at all, far too light. But there is a very general opinion that the girl was not worth his deed, and that, adjudged insane, he should be compelled to remain in the madhouse. There is another very general opinion that he is a fine example of an indulged child with too much money to spend, and that responsibility for him rests as much on his parents as on anyone. The fact remains now that he is free, and that New York is helpless to do anything about it. The further fact remains that almost any insane criminal may flee Matteawan in the present state of affairs at Albany and, like Thaw, go scot free. The still further fact remains that a man was killed in New York in 1906 and that his murderer, largely because he is a rich man, is at liberty and duobtless will remain at liberty, flouting law, justice, authority and adding further to the contempt many feel for the courts. The whole proceedings in the Thaw case have been a sham from the start. They merely show what money, together with the evasive lawyers it can hire, can do.—Aberdeen World.

The people of Kansas and Oklahoma, who have been suffering from an extreme drought and a torrid temperature, united in prayers last Saturday and Sunday for rain. But the rain came not. If the good people of these two freak states will emigrate to the Pacific Coast they will be blessed with a sufficing of precipitation and won't have to pray for it either.

BOASTER OR BOOSTER?

Boaster or Booster? Not much difference in spelling, is there? But there is a vast difference in the meaning of the words, says the Tacoma Tribune. The boaster is the one who loudly proclaims his city to be the biggest, the best, the cleanest, and the finest on earth, and if anyone dares so much as suggest a way to make it a cleaner or better, the boaster turns upon him and shouts, "Knocker — Muckraker—Traitor!" and raves about the city getting a black eye. The booster is the one who cares enough about the good name of his city to help make it worthy of the reputation. He sees wherein it is not wholly perfect and instead of entirely disregarding the facts, he seeks to remedy the defects. He realizes that some time, someone will call that boaster's bluff and he hopes to make that boaster's downfall a little less severe. So the booster goes about to better conditions, and because he really cares about his city he ignores the imprecations of the short-sighted boaster and keeps on working.—Anacortes American.

The following article is taken from the Home Economic report given by Ellen P. Dabney at the State Fereda-tion of Women's clubs and appears this week in the Western Woman's Outlook:

If the woman of tomorrow is to be efficient, the girl of today must be trained along definite lines in her life business—and the public schools must do the training. A great deal more training is needed in elementary grades than we have at present because more than eighty per cent of the girls never get beyond the grades. It is the masses we need to educate.

We need better training schools for teachers—and teachers should be required to have two years of special training before entering the teaching field. A misconception of the work has caused many superintendents and school boards to make the sad mistake of employing those who have had little or no training, which has brought the standards so low in those districts as to make the work a detriment rather than a value. The women's clubs should make an earnest effort to see that none but competent, well-trained teachers are employed.

The conflict over the authority of the postmaster general to change rates and classifications under the parcel post has been compromised without further excitement. Upon assurance by Postmaster General Burleson that he would not make further changes in the parcel post system until present rates can be thoroughly tested, the senate postoffice committee has indefinitely postponed action on Senator Bryan's resolution to annual the power of Burleson to change rates and classifications. It is understood from this that the changes announced to go into effect August 15 are cancelled and that the parcel post remains as heretofore.

California's anti-alien land law became effective August 10, but it appears a way has been found to largely circumvent the statute, for in the three or four weeks previous to that date most of the principal Japanese and landholders had incorporated holding companies, deeding the land to these companies. Over 100 land companies, with a combined capitalization of about $5,000,000, were incorporated before the law went into effect. The Japanese are not slow in "catching on" to modern ways and means.—West Coast Trade.

The news from Mexico is not reassuring. It was not expected to be. Provisional President Huerta can not be expected to adbicate unless compelled. Naturally, he will resist compulsion. He is not president of Mexico for the good of the country, but only by the accident of sudden civil strife. He views the situation as a personal matter, of course. You could scarcely expect to listen to reason.

BUY ADVERTISED GOODS.

Collier's Weekly gives the following cogent reasons why it is safest to buy advertised goods:

"You have more assurance of quality in advertised goods than in those not so well known. You naturally ask why?

"No manufacturer can, year after year, afford to go down in his pockets to pay for advertising when his goods do not give satisfaction. He seldom makes a profit on his first order—it is the repeat order that makes the money for him.

"Successful advertising is a sure indication of quality, for without value of the product, no advertising could succeed. The manufacturer, and everyone connected with the distribution would lose reputation and money, for the public will not long continue to be gulled.

"Advertising is no more extravagance than the use of good seed for good machinery by the farmer. Extensive advertising is just as economical as quantity production in the motor car industry, for example, for it brings larger and quicker returns on the investment, allowing for reinvestment in material and consequent larger production.

"Money spent is extensive and judicious advertising is the best investment in the world today for everyone concerned. Any salesman will tell you that advertised goods, can be, and are, quality, considered, sold at much less cost than those unknown."

CANNOT MEET REQUIREMENTS.

From 10,000 to 15,000 men and women are turned away from the portals of the United States every year, and sent back to the countries whence they came, in their endeavor to enter the land of promise. The reason is that they do not meet the requirements set for immigrants by the American authorities.

This condition constitutes one of the most difficult problems faced by the American department of labor, and in an effort to solve it the department has sent W. W. Husband, one of its special agents, to investigate and report on immigration conditions in England and on the continent.

Every year, in spite of the efforts of the steamship companies to exclude such passengers from their lists, nearly 15,000 immigrants see the gates at Ellis Island closed against them, and with the earnings of years swept away by the expense of the voyage, they are compelled to resume the battle of life under conditions from which they sought escape by emigration. The department does not either desire or seek, according to Mr. Husband, the lowering of the present standards, but Secretary Wilson is anxious to devise some plan whereby the shock and suffering incident to being turned back after sighting the shores of the promised land may be prevented. In an effort to do this, Sepcial Agent Husband will investigate the booking of prospective immigrants by transportation agents with the idea of devising some method whereby only those who are practically certain of entry into the United States will be permitted to embark on the other side of the water.—Tacoma News.

THE NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 28.—How to make best use of the $200,000 available for Washington's representation at the Panama exposition in 1915 is the problem being attacked on the grounds at San Francisco this week by the state exposition commission and Governor Lister.

Numerous plans have been suggested, among which is the proposal to turn the Washington building at San Francisco into a mammoth free moving picture show, to operate throughout the exposition, showing motion pictures of the logging, fishing and wheat growing industries, the scenery of the Cascades and Olympics, and such sports as mountain climbing, boating on the sound and fishing in the lakes and rivers.

Of the appropriation $25,000 is available for an exhibit at the San Diego exposition. The Washington commission will go there from San Francisco, though Governor Lister will be unable to accompany the commission on this jaunt. He met the commission at San Francisco Saturday, having stopped enroute at Eureka, Cal.

The commission is considering seriously a proposal to have the Washington and Alaska buildings combined, or built on the same tract of land, at the San Francisco exposition, and possibly also at San Diego. Such a plan not only would enable Washington and Alaksa to make a better showing combined than either could separately, but would also connect the two in the minds of visitors to the fair, conveying the impression, which is the fact, that Washington is the gateway to the rich northwestern territorial possession.

Going to Blaine and Bellingham to look into the condition of women workers employed in the fish canneries, as a part of the investigation work that will precede the fixing of a minimum wage, Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson and Dr. Theresa McMahon of the industrial welfare commission were surprised to find numerous and flagrant violations of the child labor law. Youngsters, from the age of 9 upward, were being employed for 10, 12 and as long as 16 hours in the canneries, in violation of the law that provides that no child under 14 may be employed without a special order signed by a superior court judge. The investigators, although met with a condition which they had not come to inspect, were prompt to act, swearing out 104 separate complaints for violations of the law. One of the largest companies operating canneries, evidently believing that the one trip of inspection would be all that might be expected, paid no attention to the first group of warrants, and when Commissioner Olson and Dr. McMahon returned, two days later, they found not only the children previously noted, still at work, but numerous others, under age, who had been employed since the previous visit, so a new batch of warrants was sworn out.

This is not the only blow that the so-called fish trust has suffered this year. Having to obey the warning notice, served upon them by Governor Lister, three fish traps, operating in illegal depths of water, were seized by Fish Commissioner L. H. Darwin, this being the first time in the history of the state that any action of this kind had been taken against the fish trap men, though some of the traps have been operating for years in defiance of the law.

Working women and girls throughout the state will be asked to keep, during the next few months, a careful summary of all their expenditures, even down to corsets and shoestrings. They will be asked to set forth how much they paid for room, for board, for various articles of feminine attire, for lemonade, candy and car rides. The information is sought by the new industrial welfare commission and will be used in determining intelligently upon a fair minimum wage for working women and minors.

As a preliminary to fixing such a minimum wage the commission has determined that a thorough investigation into the cost of living in the state is necessary, and it is in regard to this that the co-operation of the women and girls will be sought. Blanks have been prepared, on which, the employes will be asked to note their estimated expenditures, during the past year, for the various individual items. In addition to this as many as possible will be prevailed upon to keep an accurate account of their expenditures from this time on, so that the commission may be sure that the figures they receive are not the result of mere guess work.

Governor Lister addressed the annual conference of governors at Colorado Springs this week on the subject assigned to him by the conference, "A State Department of Efficiency and Economy." Governor Lee Cruce of Oklahoma also was to have discussed this subject but feared to leave his state, which would give the lieutenant governor, with whom he is at outs, full authority. During Governor Lister's absence, however, Lieutenant Governor Louis F. Hart, though of the opposite political persuasion, has made no attempt to interfere with, change or improve upon the progress of the administrative machinery under the governor.

Governor Lister, himself a practical builder of roads before his advent into state politics, having constructed the first piece of improved street in Olympia, among other jobs, discussed practical road building at the three states road conference at Eureka, Cal., at which California, Oregon and Washington were represented.

Last year the state fair at North Yakima had exhibits from only one county outside the Yakima valley. This year half the counties in the state will be represented. The fair, which now is under direct control of the new department of agriculture, has offered a $50 bonus to every county making an exhibit, with the additional proviso that the exhibits thus arranged may be exhibited at any county or district fair in the state before or after being shown at the state fair. Agricultural Commissioner J. H. Perkins has instructed every field deputy of every branch of the department to assist communities that are preparing exhibits.

The state board of equalization will be in session next week, beginning September 2, to equalize the returns made by the various counties and the state taxes for 1914. The considerable appropriations made by the last legislature will necessitate a general fund levy of three mills, the extreme statutory limit. On the first day of its session the board will consider the returns from eastern Washington counties. Thursday, September 3, will be devoted to western Washington counties. Thursday, September 4, steam railroads will be valued and Friday, September 5, electric railroads and telegraph lines.

* * *

Highway Commissioner W. J. Roberts has returned from Walla Walla, after selecting, at the state penitentiary, the 30 convicts to be used, for the first time in the state, under the "honor system." The men will be used on the Hood canal road and each will be paid 50 cents a day, serving without a guard, and will be given conditional pardon if he serves the state faithfully for a period that may range from three to nine months.

* * *

Spokane and Walla Walla counties will be able to collect approximately $320,000 from the Spokane & Inland railway, due in 1911 and 1912 taxes, as the result of a decision of the supreme court, this week, the court holdiing against the railroad in increased valuation placed on its property by the public service commission in1911, having the effect of practically doubling its taxes.

* * *

The rainfall in the various counties of the state since January averages seven inches less than the rainfall for the same period last year, have amounted to practically nothing and fires have amounted to practically nothing. Reports received by the state forester show some damage to logs in fires that have burned cutover lands, but practically no damage to green timber. Although the work of safeguarding the forests has been effective this year, the cost will prove less than in 1912.

A New Yorker named Onion appealed to the court to have his name changed to Barrett. Doubtless he made out a strong case,—anyhow his wishes were acceded to.

NOT DEAD, BUT SLEEPETH.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said:
"My trade of late is getting bad;
I'll try another eight-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angels watch the golden stair
To welcome home the millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad. displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldy gain
And patronage but gives him pain.
Treat lightly, friends; let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose
Unsought except by men he owes,
And when he dies, go, plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep—
Where no rude noises may dispel!
The quiet that he loved so well.
And when the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss,
And on the stone above, "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

Doings in the County

SEQUIM.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Longmire, now of North Yakima, arrived last week for a visit. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Beasley who came to look over Mr. Longmire's place with the intention of buying, and as they liked the place very much the deal was closed, Mr. Beasley buying the place with all the household goods. Mrs. Longmire has been very sick since she came to Sequim, but is now getting better. They will all leave for North Yakima as soon as Mrs. Longmire is able to travel.

There was quite an excitement last Thursday afternoon when Mr. Christ Miller lit a match in the Miller garage and a pan of gasoline near him caught fire. Mr. Miller was working on Francis Bugge's car; he soon had the hose turned on and with plenty of water soon had the fire out. The car was very little damaged and was put in good shape again.

There are 1300 soldiers camping in Sequim which is quite a sight for most of the people here who never saw many soldiers all together at one time. They have three bands and there will be music and drills in the afternoon and evening. They start for Port Townsend Friday morning.

Mrs. Lizzie O'Leary, who has been confined to her bed for some time past, is now improving under the care Dr. E. F. Dent. Mrs. E. Dawson is nursing her.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Sprague and children are camping in the mountains.

The farmers are very busy getting in their grain.

LINCOLN HEIGHTS.

Mrs. Eiban was taken to the Olympic Hospital last Saturday and at this writing [Wednesday] is reported as getting along fine and will soon be able to be up.

A few days ago Mesdames Kelly, McKee, Allison and Beam, of Pine Hill, Riley, of Columbus, Kansas, and Burgman, of the Heights, spent a merry day at J. P. Fleming's. As all ladies, except Mrs. Allison, has lived a number of years in Kansas, the conditions of that state were freely discussed, and but one of the number who had lived there, expressed a desire to return.

Mrs. Geo. Cowan went to Victoria Monday on a visit.

The Burgman family is happy in the possession of a pony. They lived on a farm too long to be willing to do without a cow and a pony.

Mr. Anderson and fifteen boys left here at 9 a. m. Monday and reported at the lakes at 5 p. m. Here's wishing them all a good time and safe return.

O. B. Fleming with his son, Clare, daughter, Hattie, and friend, McPhee dined with O. B.'s parents Saturday evening and Sunday morning. McPhee and Fleming took the boat for Seattle, where they will spend a few days and then O. B. will go on to Moravia, Idaho, to begin school on Monday.

What? Bertie Stilwell home from Seattle these two weeks? And Mr. and Mrs. Lewis had all that company! Mrs. Claud Lewis and children from Alberta, Mrs. Will Lewis and three sons from Seattle, Mr. Elda Lewis from Sequim.

Jack Kilmer was bailing hay out to the Fisher place last week.

Mrs. Lottie Winters received a telegram last week from her sister, Mrs. Bert Hyde, who lives on Whidby Island stating that one of the children was not expected to live. John immediately carried the news to the Emery family in Blue Mountain, and Mrs. Emery and Sam went on the next boat. Mrs. Hyde is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery.

Mrs. Harlow and baby, of Mount Pleasant came down the first of the week to spend a few days at the Luke home.

Grandma Land has not been well of late and one of her granddaughters came down from Seattle on Monday to stay a while with her.

Miss Climena Harbaugh has gone out to the lakes to work.

Little Roscoe Winters caught a trout in Bagley creek last week that measured 11 1-2 inches in length.

EAST END.

The construction of the new steel bridge over the Dungeness river at Dungeness is now under way. It will be completed in three weeks. During a portion of this time traffic will be suspended at this point and travelers will have to use the "Billie Ward" bridge.

A milking machine of a new and improved pattern has been installed in Peter Govan's dairy farm by a representative of a farm machinery company, and is now on trial for thirty days.

School begins on Monday, September 8th, with seven teachers.

Paul Davis, the new manual training teacher for the Sequim school, arrived on Saturday from Cedar Falls, Iowa, to begin work next month.

A small crew of men has started work on the new Sequim-Dungeness road under construction by Myers & Fitzgerald. A donkey engine was moved last week from the Fitzgerald shingle mill site and is now used in grading the hill north of Sequim, where the construction crew is now at work. The road is to be completed in four months.

On Friday afternoon of last week friends and neighbors to the number of a dozen gathered at the L. L. Ramalia home on the invitation of Mrs. R., to sew for Mrs. Edwards, who it will be remembered lost all her clothing by fire a few weeks ago. Mrs. Clarence Case rendered pleasant and effective service with her auto, gathering and returning to their homes all those attending. z

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

The combined convention of the Northwest Merchants' Association, whose membership includes business men from the states of Washington, Idaho and Oregon, and the Manufacturers' and Merchants' Industrial Fair which were held in Seattle last week, proved an unqualified success. Hundreds of merchants from over these states were present and heard discussions of their business problems and were generously entertained, at theatre and banquet by the Sales Managers' Association, under whose auspices the convention was held. The industrial Fair, which was in itself a small exposition, was held in the same building and the visiting merchants showed great interest in the displays of Seattle manufacturers and jobbers. Both events will probably be repeated next year on a larger scale. The last day of the fair, August 23, was Made-in-Washington Day, in accordance with the proclamation of the governor. Special features appropriate to the day were brought out at the Armory, and all the big stores of Seattle had their windows turned into Made-in-Washington exhibits.

* * *

At the good roads meeting of the three states of Washington, Oregon and California held last week at Eureka, California, Governor Lister promised the delegates that his state would have its part of the Pacific Highway finished by 1915. He said in part: "The state of Washington is putting every effort in the construction of a highway from the northern boundary of our state to its southern bounary at the Columbia River that will be a part of the great Pacific Highway. By 1915, the year of the Panama-Pacific Fair, we will have this highway in excellent condition for automobile travel from one boundary of the state to the other, and we hope that our California and Oregon neighbors will visit us and see the wonderful resources of the great Pacific Northwest."

Four thousand hop pickers will be required to gather the crop of the Yakima Valley this year. This is the estimate of the Yakima Valley Hop Growers' Association, which is now making an effort to get this labor for the three weeks' harvest that begins about the first of September. It is estimated that the Yakima crop will be about 20,000 bales or 160,000 boxes, and will have to be picked at the rate of about 8000 boxes per day.

Thomas A. Parish, former member of the state tax commission under Gov. Hay, prior to that assessor for King county, and lately member of the Seattle city council, died suddenly last week at his home in Seattle of heart disease. He had been a resident of Seattle since 1898. He was interested in mining in Washington, Idaho and Alaska. Mr. Parish had a special talent for public service and served the public well in the various offices he held.

Many people have the idea that all of the immigration is towards Canada, without any returning, yet during the past year 45,000 Canadians crossed the line and became American investors. One company alone bought a $1,350,000 ranch in Texas. The only advantage that Canada has is cheap lands, which will soon pass and this is offset by many disadvantages.

PLACING THE BLAME.

Who is to blame when a boy goes wrong?

Is the boy himself the only person who is responsible?

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the first president of the Chinese republic, tells this story of the way in which China punished a young man who killed his father: The young man himself was put to death, his uncle suffered the same penalty, and the schoolmaster and the six nearest neighbors were exiled to a place more than a thousand miles from the village in which the crime occurred. It is the Chinese theory that not only the parents of a boy, but also his other relatives, his teacher and his neighbors, are in some degree accountable for the character and conduct of the boy.

Behind all this lies a fundamental truth that we too often ignore—a truth that stimulates the sense of responsibility, both in the family and in the community.

The Chinese system could hardly be applied in America; yet if teachers tried to know something more of their boys than they can learn in school, and if, in general, men had more of the elder-brother spirit, there would be fewer problems to be solved by the judge, the probation officer and the reformatory. There are teachers and neighbors who meet with honor this delicate test, but too many are indifferent, or afraid of being misunderstood.

INEFFICIENCY OF HIGH SCHOOLS.

Pupils Should Be Given Business Education First, With Frills as Dessert.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, at the laying of the corner stone of a vocational school near Aurora, Ill., uttered some very sensible remarks, regarding the inefficiency of our high schools of today. They are:

Our real discontent is being produced by the hundreds and thousands of men and women turned out by our high schools and colleges and thrust by our modern system of education into a modern warfare with no weapons save those of the ancient crusader.

These educated men and women have been eking out miserable existences in callings which God did not intend they should follow. Their discontent has been increased by the sight of low-browed inferiors; scarcely able to read or write, gathering unto themselves all the good things of life. Unless some way be devised to minister to the wants, physical and mental, of these educated men and women, they some time will trample under foot all the theories of the Republic in order to reach a better condition of life.

Too many think they are advocating the rights of man when they are merely advertising their real or pretended wrongs. The conquests of politics are often waged not for equity but for supremacy. It is the changed heart, not the striped suit, which reforms the malefactor. Our discontent is not to be settled by statutory enactments.

Very few, if any, of the high school graduates today are better fitted when they leave school, to tackle the problems of life, than the day they entered. They have been given education along certain lines that is impracticable, very few are thoroughly versed in the fundamental rudiments of education, — geography, arithmetic and grammar. Not one out of a hundred could compose a suitable business letter. The high school education of today should be made a business education first, leaving the frill to be served as dessert.

Mental Originality.

Anatole France coined a phrase which may have the breath of life in it. "What is madness after all," he says, "but a sort of mental originality?" He writes that Charles Dickens always liked madmen and cites among the madmen good Mr. Dick in "David Copperfield," whose innocence is described with such tender grace. "I believe," writes the great Frenchman of letters, "that Dickens had more feeling than any other writer. I believe that his novels are as beautiful as the love and pity that inspired them. I regard 'David Copperfield' as a new gospel. I believe, lastly, that Mr. Dick is a 'sensible' madman, because the only reason left to him is the reasoning of the heart, and that is hardly ever received. What matter if he does fly kites on which he has written some reflections concerning the death of King Charles I? He is benevolent, he wishes ill to no one, and that is a piece of wisdom to which many sane men do not so easily attain as he."

Great Eaters, Great Breakfasts.

Looking over the aged pages of Morris Berbeck's "Journey in America," which extended through Ohio, we found this account of a breakfast at Rushville (June 16, 1817), in Fairfield county:

"A gentleman, myself and three children sat down this morning to a repast consisting of the following articles: Coffee, rolls, biscuit, dry toast, waffles (a soft, hot cake of German extraction covered with butter), pickerel salted (a fish from Lake Huron), veal cutlets, broiled ham, gooseberry pie, stewed currants, preserved cranberries, butter and cheese. For all this for myself and three children and four gallons of oats and hay for four horses we were charged 6s. 9d. (or about $1.65)."

There were great eaters in those days, and from this record they got plenty to eat.—Ohio State Journal.

First Chess Champion.

Authentic history locates chess in Persia in 760, and the word chess is known to be of Persian origin, coming from the word "shah," meaning "king," and chess has been considered a game for kings from time immemorial. The game found its first home in Spain toward the close of the fifteenth century, and in 1561 Ruy Lopez published his treatise, which is recognized as the foundation of all modern chess. His work was republished in Venice in 1584, and from that date the Italians became recognized for their chess dominance. The first chess champion seems to have been Paoli Boi, who defeated every master of his time, including Ruy Lopez himself. Chess playing as an occupation is not a profitable employment, although most of the chess masters devote their time exclusively to it and therefore earn a most precarious sort of a living.

How Rough Diamonds Shrink.

The loss in weight in diamonds when going through the process of cleaving and chipping and polishing amounts to from 50 to 60 per cent on the average. Accordingly, the price of a rough diamond will have to be advanced in the finished brilliant, aside from all other expenses, at least twice to three times. With the well known "solitaires" the loss in weight is even greater, because it is necessary to chip off so much more. Thus, the diamond Excelsior, which, in its crude raw state, weighed 971¾ carats, produced two brilliants, weighing together only 340 13-32 carats, with a loss in weight of 65 per cent; and the Cullinan, originally weighing 3,024¾ carats, was reduced to only 980 carts, with a loss of 67 3-5 per cent.

Have the Best Last.

He who eats the best grapes from a bunch first and finishes with the poorest on the stem is likely to feel at the end that grapes are very unsatisfactory and that he does not care for any more. But if the last few grapes are good he is more than likely to reach for another bunch. And so it goes with all the gastronomic affairs of life. The dinner that starts off with a very poor soup and works through a mediocre fish to a fair entree, an excellent roast and a superb salad, concluding with unimpeachable coffee and a dessert fit for a queen, leaves a far better impression than a dinner that starts with excellent soup and progresses "downward" steadily to an atrocious finish.—Providence Journal.

A Cool Convict.

A life convict in the Andamans had served some long period when an order recently came for his release. All the time he had been in the band and had evidently so far forgotten that he was a prisoner that on his release he put in a claim for a pension on account of his long and faithful service as a government servant.—Madras Mail.

THE INSPIRATION OF LIBERTY.

OUR example has aroused the world spirit of independence. The experiment of liberty if it had failed with us most surely would not have been attempted by others. Our counsels and acts operate as powerful precedents in the great family of republics. And so a wise and harmonious administration of the public offairs—a faithful, liberal and patriotic exercise of our private duties as citizens—while they secure our happiness at home will serve the cause of liberty beyond the equator and the Andes. —Edward Everett.

POCKETBOOK INSURANCE IS CHEAP

By HOLLAND.

YOU can insure your pocketbook by reading the advertisements in this paper. The manufacturers of the most reliable goods and the merchants who sell them are telling you what is best, what is cheapest, what is most desirable and where it can be bought.

They know what they are talking about, and they would not talk in such an expensive manner unless they knew their words would bear inspection. They want to save money for you because by so doing they make a permanent customer of you.

It takes little time and little trouble to read the advertisements and few occupations will pay better. The returns are immediate and the profits are in cash.

IF YOU WANT THE BEST YOU WANT THE GOODS THAT ARE ADVERTISED.

A man who was rather boastful of his game of golf visited a course he had not played for some time.

"By-th-way," he said to his caddie, "the last time I played here I played a round with Mr. Gregory. He was a great player and he beat me, but I think I could beat him now."

"I'm sure you could," said the caddie.

"You see the improvement in my game, then?" asked the man as he swelled up a bit.

"It isn't that so much," said the caddie.

"Well, then, why do you think I could beat Mr. Gregory?" asked the man.

"Because he's dead," said the caddie.

Justice Moody was once riding on the platform of a Boston street car standing next to the gate that protected passengers from cars coming on the other track. A Boston lady came to the door of the car, and as it stopped, started toward the gate, which was hidden from her by the men standing before it.

"Other side, lady," said the conductor.

He was ignored as only a born-and-bred Bostonian can ignore a man. The lady took another step toward the gate.

"You must get off the other side," said the conductor.

"I wish to get off on this side," came the answer, in tones that congealed that official. Before he could explain or expostulate Mr. Moody came to his assistance.

"Stand to one side, gentlemen," he remarked quietly. "The lady wishes to climb over the gate."

An old, experienced man went into a busy restaurant. He took a seat, looked around him and, pointing to a well-dressed gentleman who had not yet been served, he said to the waiter:

"Waiter, how long has that gentleman been here?"

"About twelve minutes, sir," the waiter answered.

"What's his order?"

"Porterhouse and French fried, sir, with mince pie and coffee to come."

The old man hardened by experience, slipped a quarter into the waiter's hand.

"Waiter," he said, "I'm in a hurry. Put on another porterhouse and bring me his."

JOHN CAIN, JR. ENTERTAINS.

Of the many pleasant functions given for the young people during the summer vacation, quite the smartest was the card party given Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. John Cain in honor of their son, John Junior, and also as a farewell party to Miss Margaret Delabarre, who left this week for the east. The handsome spacious rooms were all elaborately decorated in flowers and vines, presenting a most attractive appearance. Music was furnished throughout the entire evening by Mr. Theo. Jensen, violinist, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Meredith. Five hundred furnished the evening's entertainment, the highest scores being won by Miss Mae Webster and Mr. Paulson. The former was presented with a sterling silver spoon, the latter with sterling silver match case. Most delicious refreshments,, daintily served, closed the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Cain was assisted by Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mack Clark and Miss Delabarre and Miss Church.

Reverend Smith Gave Entertaining Talk on Recent Trip.

The Congregational church was reopened last Sunday for preaching services, after Pastor Smith's vacation. At the morning service Rev. Smith preached a splendid sermon from the words taken from Holy Writ, "All things work together for good to those that love God; to those that are the called according to His purpose." Mrs. C. J. Farmer, who was visiting in the city, joined the choir and took part in the song service. At the evening service, the pastor gave an entertaining talk descriptive of what he saw and heard during his absence.

Among other things, he spoke of the impressiveness of a meeting he attended in one of the large churches, which was conducted by five old veterans, who had just returned from the re-union at Gettysburg. He spoke also of the splendid work being done in all the towns and cities he visited, by the Y. M. C. A., which made him realize more than ever the great need of a similar organization for Port Angeles so that our young men might find entertainment and enjoyment in other places than the saloons and pool rooms.

To illustrate how far ahead of us Los Angeles is when it comes to advertising, he told the following story,

A funeral of rather a prominent man was being held in one of the churches recently, and several had officiated at the services, all extolling the memory of the deceased. Finally, during a short intermission, a gentleman arose and said he had nothing to add to what had been said about the exemplary life of the deceased as he was a stranger to him, but he had been pleased to listen to what others had to say and simply wished to announce that he had just platted out a cemetery and after the funeral his cars would be at the service of any who cared to go out to look it over.

A lady friend has presented the church with two fine collection plates, which are to be used next Sunday for the parsonage debt fund, when it is hoped a good collection may be secured.

Another very important matter that needs immediate attention—important because of its deplorable and dangerous condition—is the side walk on Fifth street, between Lincoln and Peabody. This walk, in its present condition, is a menace to all who have occasion to pass on it, and especially the school children living south of Fifth and west of Lincoln streets whom ust use the walk on their way to the Central school building. The long boards of the so-called sidewalk are loose and the opposite end flies up when stepped upon. Some little child is liable to be injured and the city to have a damage suit on its hands unless the walk is ordered repaired at once. It has been allowed to remain in its present condition long enough. Next week one hundred school children will pass that way at least twice a day.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Haggith leave today for Seattle. Mrs. Haggith will remain for a couple of weeks' visit.
