PORT ANGELES OLYMPIC LEADER

VOL 29. NO 35. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1913. 5c THE COPY.

CITY WILL NEED $33,000 NEXT YEAR

$7400 for Streets; Lights $3000; Police $3300; Engineer $3000; Clerk $2500.

Mostly routine business occupied the city council Tuesday night. All members were present except from the Sixth and Third wards, which were not represented, Mr. Wilrox of the Third being away on leave.

In the matter of the improvement of Fourth street in front of the new school building the street committee recommended the appropriation of $175 with the understanding that the school district would pay the cost of gravelling same after the street is put in shape by the city. The recommendation was adopted upon motion of Fisher, and later Mr. Dustman brought up the matter of fixing Chase street, between Fourth and Fifth on the same terms, and $25 was allowed.

The estimates for expenses and revenues for 1914 as fixed by the council in special session were read and approved. The estimate fixes the total requirements for the current expense fund at $20,640, with an estimated revenue from other sources than taxation at $7,950, leaving a total to be raised by taxation at $18,690. For other purposes, interest on bonds, etc., $12,900 will have to be raised from taxation. A few of the important items in the current expense as given are: Treasurer $1200; Police $3300; Street Department $7400; Engineer $3000; Attorney $1500; Clerk $2500; Street Light $3000.

The city engineer gave his estimate of the total work done on Third street extension work at $6349.53, with a balance due contractor of $3641.41. Upon motion of Dustman, the amount was allowed.

A request was read from John Cain, of the Olympic Hotel Co., asking privilege of laying a 12-foot sidewalk on Francis street in front of the new hotel. The petition was granted, same to be constructed under the direction of the city engineer. It was stated on the side that the walk would probably be of concrete.

J. B. Hardman offered to accept the position of caretaker at the cemetery at $5.50 for each case, including the hauling of the box and the work of digging and covering the grave. Present price is $7.50. Referred to cemetery committee.

Ordinance for the improvement of Cherry street was read a first and second time and referred to the city attorney and the ordinance committee as was also an ordinance for the improvement of Third street extended over the Sampson Donation Claim and Third street "North" being the extension in a northeasterly direction down the south side of the Sampson Claim to K street, and the improvement of K street to Railroad aveune.

A resolution touching this latter improvement was presented by Mr. Dustman and referred to a special committee. According to the resolution it is the intention of the council to improve said district by grading, piling and planking said street a width of forty feet and that the cost be assessed against abutting property and against an enlarged district which was not named.

A committee, named by the settlers on the reserve who have not been able to prove up, appeared before the council and asked the appropriation of $100 as the city's part of the cost of sending a man to Washington, D. C. to get the president to revoke former President Taft's order, setting aside certain lots from sale under the act recently taken advantage of by the other claimants. Dr. Lewis stated that he had been selected by the committee to appear before the president and others at Washington, and remain in Washington for about six weeks. He thought the settlers had as much right to get these lots as the others, and that the holding by the government of the corners facing on four streets in the business section menace to the improvements and no one else cares to pay the extra expense for the government property, hence the work is held back. He did not believe the government would ever use the property as the beautiful building at Port Townsend is now being practically abandoned and the site is not a desirable one. Dr. Lewis reviewed the history of this reserve at some length, tending to prove

BEST HATCHERY IN STATE.

Material Has Been Purchased and Ground Secured at Lake.

"I assure you there will be built on Lake Crescent by far the handsomest hatchery in the state of Washington," writes Fish Commissioner L. H. Darwin, in promising that he will yet get construction work under way this year.

The site for the lake hatchery has been secured from the government and all material purchased; work can be commenced upon arrival of the lumber. Concurrently with the construction of the hatchery, the county will spend several hundred dollars in piling and screens at the Lyre river outlet in order that the hatchery may be made effective.

"In this connection," writes Mr. Darwin, "I may say that I have just received a very favorable report on Lake Crescent's water as to its trout raising poclivities from Prof. Kemmer, who is investigating all the lakes of Western Washington for the Federal government." Mr. Darwin also states that the people of Clallam county owe the appropriation entirely to the able work of Representative Beam and Senator Troy, who introduced and secured the passage of the bill.

THRU WESTERN CLALLAM COUNTY

Newspaper Men Tell of Trip Over New Hoh River Trail to Mt. Olympus.

Nearly five hundred miles by steamer, by auto, and on foot over forest trail and through trailless forest, traversing most of the western part of the Olympic peninsula from ocean to mountain steeps, catching speckled trout from crystal streams, inspecting oil seepages and gas "blowouts,"two glorious weeks in the open, comprised the vacation trip of the proprietors of the Bremerton News. The personnel of the party changed from time to time, only three, E. S. Keith, E. L. Gale, and H. O. Stone, making the entire trip together,but all who participated in its pleasures and difficulties felt well repaid for the time and effort expended.

The party left Bremerton for Seattle on the evening boat, Sunday, August 10th. After taking in the sights of the city, passage was taken at midnight on the "palatial steamer' Bellingham for Clallam Bay. The writer, for one, wishes to draw the kindly veil of silence over that trip. There were long swells rolling in from the ocean and the good ship Bellingham developed a "nawsty motion."

Clallam Bay was reached late on Monday evening and when once more on "vice-versa" as the college girl said, those who had declined to partake of the sumptous fare offered on the steamer, proceeded to make up for lost time, and meals, at the hotel.

Piano for the Forks Athletic Club.

Here at Clallam we found M.B.Beidelman, representative of Eiler's piano house. He was selling pianos in the wilderness and had one loaded on an auto truck to take to Forks. Finding it impossible for the entire party to secure transportation at once to Forks, Keith and Baldwin went ahead to prepare the way and the remainder of the party spent the following day fishing in Clallam river and in the Hoko. While on the way to the latter stream the writer glimpsed the first "big game" seen on the trip, a bear cub which crossed the road ahead of us. Fishing in the Hoko was good and the day on this excellent trout stream was one of the most enjoyable on the trip.

Dairying Under Difficulties

Illustrative of the pioneer conditions which obtain in that section,we saw a man bringing cream 20 miles over a mountain trail from the Ozette lake country on pack animals. He made the trip twice per week and it took two horses and a mule to transport six cans of milk. He walked.

Clallam Bay was dotted with fishing boats, as the salmon run was on, but none of the party indulged in any of this kind of fishing.

Wednesday morning the party bundled into an auto truck for the the thirty-five mile ride to Forks

COUNTY MUST PAY WARRANTS

Issued When Warrants Sold at 20c on Dollar; County Claimed Did Not Get Value Received.

Final accounts were allowed and decrees entered in the probate cases of J. J. Isler, Hamblet Jackson, Rudolph Kneer and Chas. F. Hemenway.

Decrees of Appropriation were ordered in the condemnation suits of the Seattle, Port Angeles & Lake Crescent Ry. vs. David Hammond, W. A. Kulp, and L. M. Harned, for trivial amounts and in miscellaneous cases involving a number of defendants not to be found. This about cleans up the railway cases in this county as far west as Gettysburg.

Mother's Pension was allowed in one case at $15, the mother being from Sequim and having two children and no means of support. Applications were made by two others with husbands, one deserted and the other crippled.

Frederick Lehman, a resident of the United States since 1863, was admitted to citizenship.

In the case of Carrigan vs. von Bernuth for the reimbursement of plaintiff, defendants thru their attorneys sought to have the matter transferred to the Federal court at Seattle. The action was resisted for the reason that the defendants did not sign bond on removal and the case was taken under advisement.

H. E. Peck, attorney for Henry McGerr, got an order from the Court for his attorney fee of $100 for which he had filed a lien.

In the case of the Irwin-Hodson Co. vs. Clallam County and Treasurer Babcock for a writ of mandamus to compel the payment of two warrants issued in October, 1894, for $124 and $100 respectively, the order to pay was given upon the ground that the issuance of the warrants placed the burden of proof upon the county and that no fraud was shown in the evidence. In view of the fact that the warrants had been cancelled by the Board, the Court commended the action of the Treasurer in refusing to pay same. The warrants are a part of a considerable amount of the issue of that period when warrants sold for 20c on the dollar, and which were ordered cancelled by the Board on the ground that the county did not get value received for same. The case was recorded by a stenographer to preserve the record in case the county should see fit to appeal.

Decrees to grant title were granted in Carrie Kneer, et als. vs. P. S. C. C. and Annie Towns. These suits grew out of the old colony titles in transfers to C. W. Cook and E. S. Towns, who failed to file their deeds.

Will of Mrs. Sarah Richardson was admitted to probate and J. H. Gibson named as executor. There is a dispute as to the community property in this case. Bond fixed at $1,000.

In the matter of Huter, alias Jim, Indian, vs. Tallicus, to set aside an alleged heirship, the matter went to the court upon briefs to be submitted. The court admitted that he doubted his jurisdiction, it being held by Messrs. Stewart and Lindsay appearing for Tallicus that the Federal courts alone had jurisdiction in the matter and that the decisions of the Secretary of the Interior have heretofore been final in such matters. The suit involves property now claimed by Johnny George and A. Hall, Indians residing at the Elwha.

In the State vs. H. Sewall and O. B. Webb, practically charged with grand larceny in the disposition of notes received for the establishment of a condensary at Sequim, bail bonds were fixed at $1500. Sewall is in custody at the hospital here and Mrs. Webb is within reach at any time.

A decree of divorce was granted Robert Clemon from Olive Clemon. They separated 14 years ago at North Yakima.

Court will convene again for a whole week commencing Sept. 22, and possibly in the interim.

ROAD PLANS APPROVED.

The state highway board approved on the 2nd, the plans for nine miles of road on the Olympic highway from Hama Hama to Duckabush on Hood Canal and ordered Commissioner Roberts to call for bids.

EASTERN BROOK TROUT.

Game Warden Pike Distributing 16 Cans This Week.

Game Warden Pike, assisted by Bob Gould, is distributing sixteen cans of Eastern brook and rainbow trout in the streams of Clallam county this week. The Eastern trout, coming from a federal hatchery in the East, are the first of that species to be planted in this section; most of them will be put in streams in the East End of the county, a few going to Neah Bay. The rainbows will be placed in Lake Sutherland and some of the small streams en route, by Maurice Fisher who will take them in charge upon arrival; a few will also be sent to Neah Bay.

Mr. Pike also expects to receive within a short time sixty pair of young Chinese pheasants from Albany, Oregon. Most of these will be placed in the care of ranchers in the East End, who will not liberate them before spring. Mr. Pike believes a mistake has been made in parcelling out these birds heretofore. The people of each neighborhood would like to have a few, but when a pair is placed here and a pair there, each fatality really means the loss of two birds. They should be kept together on a large farm or adjoining farms, until they become established in that particular neighborhood, when they will spread fast enough of themselves. In the lower Dungeness country, says Mr. Pike, the snow melts quicker than any other place in the county; also the ground dries more quickly after a heavy rain. It is the wet weather that causes the most fatalities.

PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION

Plans Being Made for Continuance of Work During Winter.

The playground association held a meeting Monday night to listen to the report of Herman Anderson, the playground supervisor, who had completed his two months' work here. All felt more than satisfied with what Mr. Anderson, a perfect stranger in our city, had been able to accomplish and it is hoped another year will find conditions for playground work vastly improved. Mr. Anderson took over forty boys out on the different camping and outing expeditions and gave them the time of their lives. Safe to say, they, at least, will never forget Mr. Anderson. He is a clean, wholesome young man with the highest kind of ideals and thus makes a most admirable companion for young people. The association regrets that it cannot be assured of his valuable services for next year. During the fall and winter months the association will endeavor to keep in close touch with the school board and faculty; lending whatever assistance and encouragement they can in providing clean, healthful sports for the pupils and also to assist in procuring for them the right kind of entertainment.

The auditorium should be the student's social hall and everything connected with the schools in the way of dances, parties and entertainments should be given there under the direct supervision of teachers and parents. Let it be the work of the playground association to assist in bringing this about and let us have some fine lectures and musicales also during the long evenings of the winter months. And what about a gynnasium, one of the absolute essentials of a modern up-to-date school? Cannot, at least, a start toward one be made in our schools this fall? The columns of this paper are open for a discussion of this important factor of school life.

FRANCIS STREET GRADE.

"The Francis street grade would have been completed this week, had it not been for the rain," said A. L. Johnson yesterday. "We have received the lumber for box drains from Seattle and two or three days more will see the street ready to be turned over to the city." It is a good job, a credit both to Hahn and Grierson, the original contractors, and Johnson & Leonard, who completed the work.

All that's necessary now to make a first class business street is a wharf, cement sidewalks, arc lights and increased population.

FINE PIECE OF CONSTRUCTION

Work on Railroad Grade West of Town Practically Completed to Within Mile of River.

Buried out of sight in a deep cut a few rods east of lower Dry Creek bridge, the Erickson steam shovel is eating its way thru the last piece of heavy work between the city and the bluffs of the Elwha river.

Four miles of completed grade lie to the rear, on most of which the 18-foot roadway has been cleared of coarse gravel and finished as smooth and level as a city lawn ready for the grass seed. The entire grade from the curve at the top of the hill near the outer base of the spit to Dry Creek is perfectly straight, being only a short distance from the beach and practically paralleling the old county road, which, however, crosses the railroad tracks again and again. A number of cuts have been made and in one place a quarter mile fill, from six to ten feet high, involving the dumping of an immense amount of gravel, has been made to bring the tracks up to the level. It may be taken as a natural matter of course that the Puget Sound Mills & Timber Co., will be by far the largest patron of the railroad west of Port Angeles, but the suggestion one frequently hears made to the effect that the road west of town is being built merely as a logging road, will straightway appear idiotic to anyone who walks out along the line and gets something of an idea of the erpense being incurred. The writer has seen new roads and branch lines built in Iowa and Minnesota, but never a grade brought right up to scratch before permanent rails were laid as in this case.

The gravel taken out from the Dry Creek cut is being dumped off a trestle crossing the stream a few feet below the county bridge and in another gulch, also about fifty feet deep; a half mile further on. Work has been going on night and day at this point, acetylene torches being used.

With the half mile of grade put in by hand, several months ago, west of the creek, less than a mile remains from the end of the present work to the Elwha, but this mile involves a cut nearly twenty feet deep in places and some time will be required to complete it.

THE LITTLE SHOP.

Moderate Prices, Quick Service and Cleanliness Big Features of New Cafeteria.

That the Mesdames Smith and Brockhaus have faith in the future of Port Angeles is evidenced in the opening of a cafeteria, such as have been popular in the larger cities, and will doubtless prove so here.

Both ladies are experienced in catering to the public's stomach, knowing exactly what is wanted and how to serve it at prices to fit one's pocket book. The rest room attached to this establishment will surely be appreciated by the shoppers as it will be fitted up with reading and writing desks, easy rockers, lounges ,etc., also will tea and crackers be served at very small charges.

The cooking equipment is up-to-date. Prices are moderate, service quick and cleanliness a big feature. An invitation is extended to all patrons to visit the kitchen any and all times.

Ladies are especially invited to make this their headquarters during shopping times.

C. NOYES OF SEATTLE.

A man with twenty years' experience in the real estate, rental and business opportunities lines, has located in Port Angeles with his family and will open an office in the Olympic Leader building, formerly occupied by Miss Ellen McCaffrey, where he will be glad to meet any one wishing to buy, sell, exchange or rent property. Mr. Noyes guarantees to one and all fair treatment. Please call.

You will find almost anything you want in the line of notions at Bodley's Racket Store.

SEQUIM ELECTION OCTOBER 14.

Commissioners Reduced Size of Area to Be Incorporated.

At the hearing of the petition to incorporate the town of Sequim, the board withdrew from territory included in published application the north half of the northwest quarter, and the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter and the east half of the southeast quarter of said section 20, and after establishing boundaries ordered auditor to call election for Tuesday, October 14th, to determine whether said territory shall be incorporated as a fourth-class town.

The board also made an estimate of expenditures and revenues for year 1914 and set time for making tax levy at 2:00 p. m., October 6.

Wednesday the board made a trip to Sequim in an endeavor to reach a settlement, regarding right-of-way for the new county road. It is believed that one or two condemnation suits will have to be brought to clear the matter up. The property involved has no great value.

565 PUPILS ARE ENROLLED

High School Now Has Finest of Apparatus in Chemics and Physics Laboratories.

The city schools opened Tuesday morning with the largest enrollment in their history. Central school shows an enrollment in the grades of 317 pupils, while in the high school there are 114. Lincoln Heights has 104 and Pine 30, making a total of 565 for the first week. On account of the crowded condition of the Lincoln Heights school it has been found necessary to bring the 7th and 8th grades over to Central for the present. There is an unfinished room in the Lincoln Heights building which will be finished up if necessary. An extra room in Central school building will be fitted up with forty seats and 130 have been ordered for the auditorium so that it may be used for a study room. Miss Hazel Morse has been employed for a third grade teacher and it may be necessary to get one or two more teachers. The laboratory has been fitted with the finest kind of apparatus for the study of chemistry and physics and a greater interest will be taken in the building up of the school library. Superintendent White seems to have a splendid corps of teachers under him and altogether the school year of 1913 starts out with very bright prospects. We would suggest that the patrons of the school and the citizens generally of Port Angeles show to our instructors every courtesy and kindness within their power and that we lend enthusiasm and encouragemet by visiting the schools as often as possible. Let us see, too, what arrangements can be made for a gymnasium. It is one of the essentials of school life, especially during the dreary, rainy winter weather.

NEW MANAGER AT STAR.

Will Put in Opera Chairs and Picture Machine of Latest Model.

F. C. Thompson, who has recently taken the management of the Star Theatre, is a new comer in our midst, hailing from Bremerton, where he has been a very successful business man for several years. His judgment of small cities is much appreciated when he states that the future of Port Angeles looks very bright and he is willing to invest capital, a surety of his sincerity.

He intends to renovate the Star and is now awaiting opera chairs which are soon to arrive. He contemplates putting in a new machine of the latest model.

The services of Mrs. Guy, whose popularity as a pianist has long been established here, have been engaged.

Performances will start every evening at 7o'clock and as soon as daylight electric service is established, daily matinees will be in vogue at this popular playhouse.

The Cain Real Estate and Milwaukee offices have been moved this week to the Olympic Hotel building on Francis street.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN MAINE.

On Tuesday, September 8, there will be a special election in Maine to fill a vacancy in the congressional delegation from that state which is arousing considerable interest. It is the first serious test of the temper of the people in regard to the politics of the new administration and of congress which is to be had, and for that reason has more importance than would otherwise have been given it.

The district is a close one under ordinary circumstances. Representative Forrest Goodwin, whose death creates the vacancy, was elected in November last from the Third Maine district, receiving a vote of 17,221, against 16,512 cast for his democratic opponent. There was no progressive candidate at that time, which probably accounts for Mr. Goodwin's success. The situation is complicated in the coming election by the appearance in the field of a progressive candidate. If, despite the third ticket in the field, the republican nominee should pull through, the result unquestionably would prove that the democrats have lost ground by reason of their tariff policy.

The three candidates in the coming election are John A. Peters, republican; William R. Pattangall, democrat, and Edward M. Lawrence, progressive. An idea of the views of the coming election held by party leaders may be judged by the fact that Secretary Bryan is to make speeches in the closing days of the campaign on behalf of the democratic nominee, while former Senator Beveridge has been canvassing the district on behalf of the Bull Moose nominee.—P. I.

The Board of Regents of the University of Washington is just now having its troubles because pressure is being brought to bear by several newspapers to compel the board to abandon its secret meetings and open all sessions to the public and particularly the press. The Board is not inclined to do this, taking the position that to permit all that goes on at its meetings to be made public would tend to destroy the organized working force of the University. Chairman Cosgrove, of the Board, says that much of the good work accomplished by the Board would be impossible if it were compelled to let the press into all of its little secrets. Governor Lister has taken a hand in the matter and it is stated is inclined to believe that the open meeting would best serve the interests of the public. The matter is likely to bring about a political upheaval in the personnel of the Board in the judgment of those who are in touch with subjects pertaining to the state administration.

The new weights and measures law of the State of Washington has attracted the attention of the Federal authorities. The United States Bureau of Chemistry has secured data regarding the Washington law from Secretary of State I. M. Howell,, who is ex-officio superintendent of the new department and some of the ideas may be incorporated in the rulings of the Federal department.

"The weights and measures law will mean a big saving to the consumers in this state when the department is fully organized and in operation," says Mr. Howell. "It is the purpose the law to abolish short weights and in my judgment this will be a factor in reducing the cost of living in the state of Washington."

THE MEXICAN ELECTIONS

Very few people realize the chaotic condition Mexico is in at the present time and this government has a most troublesome question to deal with. Everyone is waiting for the outcome of the election called for this month yet the constitution of that country says that no election shall be held if an insurrection is pending or in force. If the insurrection does not cease and the election is held the constitutionalists who are the revolutionists, will not recognize it as constitutional. It is a great pity peace cannot prevail in that benighted country. It is the richest on either continent in agricultural and mineral resources and capable of becoming one of the most prosperous countries in the world. The whole trouble lies in the complexity of its population, which consists of something like fifteen millions comprising three classes,—whites, or Spanish, mexitozos, or half breeds, (Spanish and Indians,) and the Indians. There are sixty-three distinct dialects, fifty-two of which are Indian, all entirely different and a large proportion do not speak Spanish. Of this population only thirteen per cent are pure Spanish and they control the politics of the country. The leading men are all envious of each other and are not willing to abide by any election unless it is in their favor. There never has been an honest election and probably never will be. Intervention or annexation is folly for in either case the country would only prove a source of trouble.

NO BANKING BILL.

Senator Kenyon one day last week expressed the belief that the situation as to the currency was such that no general currency legislation could be generel currency legislation could be enacted at the special session of congress. He thinks a bill may be passed providing for emergency currency, embodying some modifications of the Vreeland measure, which is now a law. If the attempt is made to enact a general currency law, he doubts whether it will be possible to pass it before the regular session, even if congress is kept at Washington all fall.

The house will pass the bill as the administration wants it, but the situation in the senate is badly up in the air, owing to the opposition of many democrats who are quietly trying to block general legislation at this time. In some quarters it is declared the administration bill cannot get out of the senate banking and currency committee.

The Puyallup & Sumner Fruit Growers' association has decided to institute a new departure next season by the installation of presses for the manufacture of berry juices. Experiments are being made with a berry juice cordial, which will not ferment to be bottled and sold to the general public, the ordinary juices being used for soda water fountains and other drinks.

Our modern day and up-to-date detectives might learn a few tricks from the sleuths of Paris. They have a new means of getting evidence over there, according to reports. Very simple, as well as dead-to-rights evidence.

Statistics of Fourth of July casualties show the death roll for the day, from injuries incident to the celebration, to have been thirty-two. This is the lowest number since statisticians began recording the fatalities of the day. The first year that the fatalities were compiled the death roll was 466. This was ten years ago. The safe and sane Fourth of July has evidently come to stay.

Massachusetts has been annoyed by aviators' falling and mussing up the landscape, therefore its legislation has enacted a law against such performances.

HOME LOYALTY.

A case in point illustrating the benefits of home trade to the town itself has been told. It is a subject that permits of elaboration. It was told how a town with the home trade spirit forged away ahead of a neighboring town which obtained its merchandise from the mail order houses. The advantage of trading at the home stops was made plain and now a word on the subject of home trade as a duty. As a matter of fact, it is a duty that every citizen with the welfare of his particular community at heart owes to that community. Probably he himself is obliged to earn his living in that town. If so no arguments should be needed to convince him that home trade is so much his duty that if he is a patron of the mail order houses instead he does not deserve a livelihood from the patronage of his neighbors. Take a man who earns his bread and butter in another town or city. In spite of that fact it is his duty, too, to patronize the home stores. They are doing business where he has established his home, where he casts his vote at election time and where his children are going to school. He most certainly owes that town something besides taxes.

Of course fair treatment by the storekeeper should be expected, and usually he is shrewd enough to accord it. On the other hand, the thousands who have to their sorrow bought " a pig in the bag" from a mail order house know that "distance lends enchantment"—to the view the mail order house takes of the matter. A home merchant cannot very well go behind his announcements in the local papers, while the mail order houses can and do make all kinds of offers in their city papers, knowing full well the best satisfaction a defrauded customer in a remote town can get is to write a letter of protest.

Home trade as a duty ought to be a town slogan. It should be practiced and preached by every man and woman identified with the best interests of the town they call their home.—Raymond Times.
