PORT ANGELES OLYMPIC LEADER

VOL. 29. NO. 47. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, NOV. 28, 1913. 5c THE COPY.

EAST END IMPROVEMENT WILL COST $180,000

Cost of Regrade of Francis Street About $75 the Lot. $32,000 to Be Expended on "Peabody" District.

The Council started something Tuesday night at its regular session which, if brought to a successful termination will mean a revolution in civic improvements in this city. The clerk was directed to call for bids for the improvement of the entire business section and the city attorney was directed to bring in ordinances directing the improvement in the entire east end district, the total aggregating an expenditure of $300,000. The mayor and other city officers and Councilmen Dustman, Wilcox, Elliott and Swanson were present.

Railroad Wants Rights Over New Streets.

Amongst the first business of the evening was the reading of a new franchise ordinance giving additional privileges to the Seattle, Port Angeles & Lake Crescent Railway. It was referred to the ordinance committee and city attorney for one week. The ordinance provides for additional right to the company over Third street extended, Third street north, crossing K and L streets, and alley in blocks 137 and 136, Front street, Railroad avenue, thence north to city limits. The usual restrictions are placed on the company to conform to regulations of council and saving the city harmless for any damages by reason of existence of proposed railroad extension.

Ordinance Ordered for Improvement of "Peabody" District.

Resolution No. 12 declaring intention of council to improve Front and First streets from Chase to Albert and Peabody from First to Front came up for hearing of objections of property owners affected. There being none the attorney was directed to bring in an ordinance ordering the work. The engineer's estimate of the cost with plats, etc., were filed, showing the figures to be $32,010, assessed valuation $34,070, and cost per lot from $137 to $967.95.

Some Objections Made to District as Proposed.

Resolution of Intention No. 13 also came up for hearing of objections and there was a goodly list both individually and collectively. That is they did not object to the improvements being made and paying for them but they did object to the method proposed of putting all in one district. On this Mr. Peter, Mr. De Swarte, Mr. Rouse, and Mr. Lindsay were heard, and the drift of the remarks of all were that if the remonstrators had attended the meetings of the Development Association the protests would not be in. That the only reason for making one contract out of the 23 distinct streets to be improved was to lessen the costs, and make the whole of the work possible. This was explained by Mr. Barkhoff and others that the assessed valuations on some streets were so low that to put each in separate and distinct districts would not only entail heavy expense but would make the sale of bonds on some of the streets very difficult if not impossible. The board of equalization could equalize the costs on assessment rolls according to benefits; in fact this is what the law says absolutely must be done.

Barkhoff Plans Cost of 23 Streets at $180,000.

The engineer employed by the Development Association, Mr. Barkhoff, estimated the cost of the work on the 23 streets at $180,000, and the clerk's and city engineer's temporary assessment roll distributed this against the property in the enlarged district at from $70 to $157 per lot, including the regrade of Francis street. The estimated cost of the regrade of Francis was said to be about $75 per lot. The assessed valuation of the property in the entire east end district is $219,015. As there are a number of very steep hills to be cut in the southeast corner of the district it is not thought the work can be done at the estimate of $180,000.

At the close of the argument Mr. [illegible]an stated that the protestants w[illegible] a small portion of the district as a whole. A monster petition, which was on file, had been sent in to the council asking for the work, and the preliminary expenses had been paid by those wishing the work. If an ordinance is brought in the owners of the district will have two weeks to get together before the ordinance can be passed and he moved that the city attorney be directed to bring in an ordinance ordering the work. This was done by unanimous vote.

Commended Valiant Services of Boys of Snohomish.

A resolution was adopted commending the valiant service of the boys from the Lifesaver Snohomish at the Crescent Cafe fire. A copy was directed sent to the ship and one to the Treasury department at Washington.

Clerk called attention to the fact that the time limit of notice given to property owners to place five foot sidewalks on Eighth street between Valley and C had expired. He was not advised how many had complied with notice. Street superintendent was directed to put in walks where not built and to have same charged against the abutting property.

Protection Not All It Should Be.

Asst. Fire Chief Dilling addressed council calling attention to the condition of certain fire hydrants in the city and the clerk was directed to notify water company to put same in good repair at once. Dilling also gave the water pressure at the various fire plugs, same ranging from 45 to 110 lbs.

Condition of hose cart was brot up by Dustman and same was referred to Fire, Light and Water committee for report as to means of providing a new cart or a substitute. The committee was also asked to report as to the practice of using gasoline in the business section.

Mr. Elliott asked that the fire chief be again directed to have fire extinguishers recharged and the same was ordered.

A resolution of condolence was also adopted and ordered sent to Councilman Fisher on the death of his aged father.

Dustman called attention to bad condition of road to cemetery thru city park and street superintendent was directed to repair same out of the park fund.

Chas. George served notice on the council that he had a judgment against the Chase Eng. Co. and warned them not to pay them any money on contract.

Upon recommendation of street committee a crossing was ordered put in at Seventh and Race.

St. Supt. was ordered to repair Front street walk near top of hill, same being deemed dangerous.

The claim of W. J. Taylor for $133 for care of one Johnson, was filed upon motion of Elliott, who said the city attorney and counsel for Taylor seem to disagree and to let them fight it out in the court if necessary. This was the final result after a heated argument between the city attorney and Mr. Trumbull representing Dr. Taylor. It was admitted that the marshal had a right to call in a physician to attend an indigent, but to incur extensive hospital obligations was questioned. Mr. Trumbull thought as both officer and doctor had acted in good faith the city should not be small in the matter.

The council then adjourned until Monday night next, presumably for the purpose of considering the Olympic Power franchise ordinance.

COURT NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Superior Court will convene here again next Wednesday. A number of cases have been set for hearment of the Brewery receivership has been set over to Jan. 5.

In regard to the post office location matter no further action will be taken until after the first of the month. We understand some good bids have been submitted.

CLUB ENDORSED ENTERPRISE

Asks Board of County Commissioners to Provide Funds for Necessary Literature for Campaign.

The special meeting of the Commercial Club Wednesday evening was attended by a large and representative gathering of the business and professional men of the city.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering ways and means for assembling proper exhibits and devising the best methods for fitting out the demonstration car which the Milwaukee Railroad Company has generously tendered the Commercial Club.

It is the purpose of the Club to cover the Milwaukee system with the car, and in all probability other railroads, with a view to demonstrating to eastern people the products of Clallam county soil and the exceptional advantages which the City of Port Angeles offers to the investor, the business man and the manufac-

Speeches in behalf of the undertaurer.

Speeches in behalf of the undertaking were made by several of the gentlemen present, and much enthusiasm was aroused, for all agreed that great benefit to the city and county would result from the tour.

A resolution was unanimously passed endorsing the enterprise, which will be in charge of Messrs. Chas. J. Tucker and Fred Phillips, and a committee of three was appointed to wait on the county commissioners with instructions to request that body to make an appropriation for providing the necessary literature for the campaign.

The car will be available within the next few days and the gentlemen who will accompany it with the various exhibits of forest, field and ocean together with stereopticon views and a large assortment of photographs, hope to start East soon after the first of December.

The Port Angeles Commission House is moving its stock of goods into the old skating rink where they will hold forth for the present and continue to buy and sell farm produce.

LECTURE COURSE PAID FOR

School Will Probably Have About $200 as Profit on Undertaking.

The auditorium at the High School had every seat filled on Monday night to witness the first entertainment of the Lyceum Lecture Course, given by the Dixie Quintette. It was a howling success, the best minstrel entertainment ever given in Angeles and had the audience convulsed with laughter most of the evening. Their program included, besides the musical numbers, readings from Dunbar which were highly appreciated. Their quartettes of the cat fight and chicken fight and the take-off on the Irish, German and Jew were perfect screams.

Superintendent White announced his pleasure at the financial success of the course, stating that they had already sold enough tickets to pay for the entire course and $120 to the good. The school needs the money and we are glad that the undertaking is an assured success.

We would suggest, however, that the matter of a new sidewalk on Fifth street between Lincoln and Peabody be looked after so that traveling would be safer before another entertainment in the auditorium. This street should be better lighted also.

MOSS SCRAPER NEEDED

Its a curious anomoly: A people depending to a great extent upon the business men for improvement in the central portion of town, placarding their own streets with advertisements of the competing city merchant. It is also a peculiar—peculiar in that nowhere else could a people be found who would be so unchivalrous—a peculiar fact that the city councilmen should take money from our own women, money raised by weeks of planning and hard work, for the beautification of a walk up a hill on one of the principal streets, and then, for a paltry two bits, sell the privilege of maintaining glaring billboards in the center thereof—something which has been declared a nuisance and long since relegated to the outskirts of every progressive city in the country.

OLD GLOBE HOTEL MASS OF BLACKENED RUINS

Port Angeles' Frame Business Section Gets One More Lease of Life. Burned Building in Center of Wooden Row.

The happiest community of business men in the whole length of the Pacific Coast were those of Port Angeles last Tuesday morning when it became apparent that the fire which had broken out in the old Globe Hotel building was being confined thereto, and that neither of the frame buildings close alongside was in the slightest danger. One moment the entire interior was a mass of flames which went roaring out thru the roof—and the next the seemingly impossible had come to pass and the fire was under control.

It was about seven o'clock when the engineer of the steam laundry discovered the rear of the Crescent Cafe to be in flames. Even tho there was no wind—to which fact the business portion of the town is indebted for its existance today—the fire gained headway rapidly and only prompt and valiant service on the part of the firemen got the flames under control. It seems almost miraculous that with such a big fire it was possible to save the city, and too much credit cannot be given our firemen and the trained men from the Snohomish, to whom we are already under obligations for assistance at other fires.

The Crescent Cafe building was owned by Mrs. D. W. Morse and was not insured. It had been leased by Dr. Dobbs and his brother and they rented out the rooms. Dr. Dobbs was perhaps the heaviest loser as his whole dental equipment was destroyed, with everything else on the upper floor. He carried some insurance, as did Chef Dobbs in the restaurant who also lost everything. Mr. Larkin, who had charge of the cafe for the past two months, lost all his crockery, and he also had all the bedrooms upstairs furnished which was a total loss. Mr. Neal, the real estate man, saved his desk and papers, but Mr. Cole, who had just opened a new barber shop, lost everything but the chair. Like many others, he knew nothing of the fire till he came down to open up.

The Owl Drug Company had a great deal of their stock ruined by water. Most of the goods were moved out into the street, but even these did not escape being water soaked. Their store was closed for several days waiting on the insurance adjuster.

The Times Clothing Mart had some of their stock damaged by being water soaked from the quantities of water thrown on the roof. Mr. Muskett says he had no insurance but he feels so grateful to think he escaped from so close a call that he is going to put on the biggest sale ever held in the city, which will include not only his damaged goods, but all his handsome holiday stock as well. There is gratitude for you!

While everyone regrets the loss to the Morse family, who seem to have had more than their share of fire loss recently, yet all the business men say they can rest easier now that the oldest and most dangerous building on that side of the street is removed. All occupants of buildings in the business district surely have cause for thanksgiving this year that their places of business were not reduced to ashes and that there were no serious accidents. Mr. Lucas of the Snohomish had the misfortune to step on some broken glass which went thru his rubber boot, cutting him severely. He was taken to the hospital and later removed to his home at Mt. Pleasant, where he is getting along nicely.

BILLS INTRODUCED FOR LEASE OF EDIZ HOOK

Poindexter and Falconer Have Taken Up Matter and Will Endeavor to Secure Action at Earliest Possible Moment.

Now that Washington's Progressive representatives at the National Capitol have taken up the matter, things are moving in regard to the City securing a lease of the spit for manufacturing purposes. Bills were introduced into both Senate and House by Senator Poindexter and Representative Falconer on November 20th, authorizing the Secretary of Commerce to lease to the City of Port Angeles for a period of ninety-nine years the desired property. The bills read as follows:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That authority be, and is hereby, given to the Secretary of Commerce to lease to the City of Port Angeles, Washington, at his discretion, for a period of ninety-nine years, certain unoccupied property of the United States under his control, which is located within the limits of the Ediz Hook Lighthouse Reservation."

Senator Poindexter, always alert for the interests of ALL THE PEOPLE, has wired Mr. J. Lloyd Aldwell that the bill was referred to committee on public lands and he will see that a report is forthcoming at once. And Mr. Falconer may be relied upon to secure action in the House upon the matter if anyone from the State of Wahsington can do so at this time.

We may confidently expect word within a few days that the bill has passed both houses and gone to the president for approval, but meanwhile the Mayor, the Commercial Club, and everyone interested in the welfare of the city, should lay aside their petty political differences and recognizing the fact that these men have taken quick action, get in and back them up.

PIONEER PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY

Last Summons Came to "Grandpa Fisher" While Sitting at Home Talking to His Wife.

This community was shocked early Tuesday afternoon to hear that Mr. Herman Fisher, or Grandpa Fisher, as he was affectionately called by young and old, had passed away without a moment's warning, at his home on the corner of Seventh and Oak. He was downtown in the morning to the fire and at the noon hour went to his son's drug store to remain while the clerk went to lunch as E. E. Fisher was up sound. He seemed to be feeling well and walked home and while his wife prepared luncheon was relating some of the funny little incidents of the fire, when all at once he dropped over dead. Coming so suddenly, it was a dreadful shock to his wife and family. Tho' he had looked very frail for the past few years, he seemed this fall to have been holding his own unusually well for a man of his years.

Mr. Fisher was born in Baltimore in 1837. He was married at New-Port, Pennsylvania, May 21, 1860, and is survived by his wife and four sons, all but one of whom are residents of Port Angeles. The funeral was held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, from the Christian Science church and was largely attended by the many friends of the family who wished to pay their last respects to one of the earliest pioneers of Clallam county, and a man who had many friends and few enemies. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher came to Port Angeles May 2nd, 1887, and have made it their home ever since. They took up a homestead out near Mount Pleasant, and later at Lake Sutherland.

Mr. Fisher retired from business life less than a year ago, having kept a racket or notion store on Front street. During the boom a few months ago he sold his store property at a good price and retired to enjoy a well earned rest. He spent most of his time working in their beautiful garden which is one of the best kept in town and the envy of many passers-by.

The sympathy of the community goes out to the widow in her loniliness and sorrow after 53 years of married life. The surviving children are E. E. Fisher, Frank P. Fisher and M. M. Fisher of Port Angeles, and Chas. H. Fisher of Elgin, Illinois.

STAR COMPANY THURSDAY

Leading Lady and Man in Presentation the "The Wolf" Have Real Dramatic Ability.

Miss Jessica Ray, who plays the only female role in the successful Eugene Walter's play, "The Wolf," is rapidly carving out an enviable reputation by her excellent work in this most difficult part, and the critics are unanimous in claiming that in this young lady J. J. Holland has made a "real dramatic find."

Miss Ray has had an excellent training in that best of dramatic schools, the stock company, and in the roll of "Hilda MacTavish" she has a part that fits her like the proverbial glove. Mr. Holland has surrounded his star by an excellent company, including the handsome romatic actor, Fred R. Cantway. The production is carried complete even to the furniture. The date of this phenomenally successful play at the opera house is Thursday, Dec. 4th.

HAVE THE HOSE READY

We like the suggestion of Mr. Simmons of the Owl Drug Company, who has had several years' experience in fire departments, that two hose carts should be permanently stationed on Front street, ready for instant use. The next fire—and we may rest assured there will be another—may occur between midnight and morning, when the few minutes lost time will decide the result. There's plenty of hose; keep it where it will be instantly available.

RAZZERED BY A COON

Ting Byers, a shingle weaver, and Pettett's Coon were the participants in a little altercation in a Front street resort Saturday night with the result that Byers has several stitches in his abdomen, also a razor broken in three pieces as a memento, while Pettett has no coon. Just where the latter got to no one seems to know, the boys saying he slipped away in the darkness and has been keeping dark ever since.

Can any man establish a stable government in Mexico whose hands will be clean of blood? In a country where military power means massacre and murder, who can be recognized as leader?

A million dollars annually is being spent in this state for nursery stock. The state of Washington collects annually for license to do business nearly $5000 for nursery companies agents. Of this amount fully two hundred and seventy-five nurseries contribute and possibly a thousand ted before it can be delivered to custed before it can be delivered to costomers.

Will someone please explain why in 1897 when hogs were selling at $3.25 on foot, that one could buy bacon for ten cents a pound, and in 1913, with hogs selling at seven and one half and eight cents per pound, on foot, bacon now costs 35 cents per pound. The difference between the selling price of hogs and bacon was then 7 cents a pound, the difference between the selling price of hogs and bacon is now 27 cents a pound. Does it not seem plain that somebody besides the farmer is getting the big end of the deal?

Samuel G. Blythe, that past master in the art of taking the measure, with tailor-like accuracy, of politicians and public officials, explains that President Wilson dominates those about him because he knows more than they do; that is, he has taken up the pressing problems, considered them with a trained mind and decided the course to pursue. When he has done that, he listens to everybody with a suggestion to make, but changes his decisions only when he finds someone who has given the subject at hand more thought than he has. That is why he so rarely changes his decision.

Secretary Houston's instructions to Chief Forester H. S. Graves: "Establish permanent boundaries. Classify your lands; segregate the agricultural land and fix right limits for what is needed as protective and productive forests. Develop permanent policies based on full recognition of lasting public interests, and settled forestry practice fitted to the indivual needs of each forest and locality. Study efficiency; make any changes necessary for this purpose, but make no changes that are not clearly called for in the public interest. Carry out your plans for the development and increasing use of the forests; but, above all, make each forest work for community upbuilding and local as well as general welfare. We must always have in mind the men and women who are building up a new country and laying foundations for prosperous thriving commonwealths. We must try to study their needs and see where and how the forests can help them. But we must not cease to guard effectively against the evils of private privilege and monopolistic control of resources now the property of the public."

Life is just one dollar after another.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

To prove theoretical and practical training for the vast number of boys and girls who yearly are thrust from the public schools into the economic struggle of life has been the subject of much consideration by thinking people during the past ten years.

Different states and communities experimented with manual training and achieved good results but the most promising realization was the passage by Congress, in the spring of 1912 of a law, whereby co-operation is had with states in aiding and maintaining vocational courses in state normal schools.

Wisconsin, always in the foremost rank where education is concerned, established a commission to investigate the relation of industry to education and that commission reported that if Wisconsin was to compete with the rest of the world in agricultural and manufacturing interests, the children of that state must receive the education that meets their needs.

Among other recommendations was that for establishment of a state training school for teachers who should be competent to teach agriculture, domestic science and manual training.

Washington is fully alive to this vocational trend, as numbers of her schools demonstrate. Perhaps Snohomish County leads all others in this respect, as exemplified by the agricultural educational facilities of the Snohomish City High School and the Vocational School at Everett. Both are excellent examples of practical training for life, work, and happiness.

Tuberculosis kills 200,000 persons each year in the Uuited States—1 every 3 minutes. It kills one-tenth to one-seventh of all our people. It kills one-third of all who die between the ages of 18 and 45. It costs in dollars and cents over $500,000,000 a year in the loss of life and labor to the United States. Not less than 1,000,000 people, it is estimated, in the United States are now suffering from it.

Tuberculosis is caused by the tubercle bacillus or germ. The germ is a vegetable parasite, rod shaped, 1-10,000 of an inch long, discovered by Robt Koch of Berlin in 1882. The germ growing in the body destroys tissues and produces poisons or toxins which cause the well known symptoms of the disease. Tuberculosis is a communicable, preventable, and curable disease. There are 1,300 anti-tuberculosis associations and committees working in the United States, also 550 special hospitals, 400 dispensaries, and over 200 open air schools. A number of books and pamphlets on the subject can be obtained of "Outdoor Life," 289 Fourth Ave., New York.

IS IT WORTH WHILE TO BE A BOOSTER ?

The old saying that the most valued member of any community is the man who tries to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before, has always been with us a truism which should command the respect of every right-thinking citizen. There occur very many instances in the average man's life which raise the question of whether the strife, work and energy which it is necessary if we are to grow are really worth while. On every hand we see individuals who never make a move for betterment of the community, who could not by any known system be prodded into activity if their work might redound to someone else's benefit, but who are carefully watching their chance to take advantage of somebody else's hard work and necessities, and in that manner separate from the active members of their vicinity the means of livelihood,and frequently the hard earned dollars which have been accumulated by public spirited and energetic citzens. In every locality the men who do things are subjected to indignities, are obstructed, maligned and slandered by this class of parasites who only thrive on somebody else's hard labor. This trait of human character is exemplified in numberless ways. One of these individuals may own a piece of land through which a right-of-way for a wagon road is necessary for the general betterment of the community He will immediatelydemand a price for this property, usually ten times the amount for which it could be sold for any other purpose. The fact that the road will benefit his property instead of damaging it has no bearing on the case. He may be a member of some city council, and a franchise for some public service enterprise be asked for and immediately his mossback instincts present themselves by putting up a cry that the people are being robbed for the benefit of the corporation; or he may own property upon which to establish an incitizen wishes to establish an indoubles,says the Raymond Revieu. dustry and immediately the property doubles and triples in value, and the fact that the establishment of this institution which gives a number of people a better opportunity to earn a livelihood, which adds wealth and material benefit to the community in general is a question that he is not interested in, and only his personal interests are ever considered.

He will spend months in studying out some opportunity to hold up those who are giving their best efforts toward the development of the county in which they live, all the time criticising and obstructing the live energetic members of the community. One of these individuals is able to tear down more than a dozen energetic men can build up. Communities can be found in which ten or a dozen of these individuals reside that should have been thriving cities, but are now struggling villages, communities where nature has been bountiful with her gifts, communities surrounded with natural resources which are wonderful in extent and possibilities—but communities which are cursed by the dry rot of mossbackism, by these cliques of obstructionists who promote and engender factional strife, divided effort and insane jealousy of their neighboring cities.

And why not charge up to these parasites the loss which their presence and their activity has placed upon the community? No reasonable person can arrive at any other conclusion than the one above given, that the incubus wh'ch has throttled the growth of their community is responsible for lack of development, lack of prosperity, lack of material growth, and this loss is conservatively estimated when we state that it is in the ratio of five to one. This is a matter which should receive the attention of every community in an attempt to discover who are the mossbacks, who are those who breed factional strife, and by comparison each individual can arrive at a proper conclusion on the question. No greater truth ever emanated from the Savior of mankind than that of "By their fruits ye shall know them."—Raymond Review.

John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union, says that war with Mexico would cost the United States $1,000,000 a day. Altogether too much, considering the littleness of the satisfaction we could get out of licking Mexico.

Dr. Wiley said recently that he'd "rather be able to cook a potato well than to paint the frescoes of the Vatican." His wife must have "gone to the country."

The teacher, who was giving the primary class a nature talk, inquired, "Johnnie, how does a bee sting?" Johnnie, a graduate from the school of experience, replied with emphasis, "Awful!"

COMBINATIONS.

Combinations may exist for a good purpose, just as they may exist for a bad purpose, whether among business men, among farmers, among laborers, and, as regards all of them, our aim should be effectively to suppress combinations that work evil and also to favor those that do well, while nevertheless exercising over them such thoroughgoing control as to enable us to be sure that they in very fact do well alike to competitors, to wage workers and to the general public. If a corporation or a combination makes for efficiency we favor it; provided the benefits are shared with reasonable equality among the employers and capitalists, the workers and the general public. If, however, the so called efficiency represents merely profits for the employer obtained by exploiting the workmen or mistreating his rivals or swindling the general public, then our desire is not merely to stop the practices, but to punish those who take part in them. It is our aim to help legitimate business. We wish to see the business man prosper and make money, but unless he does prosper and make money he can neither permanently pay good wages to his employees nor permanently ren der good service to the public.—Colonel Roosevelt.

ADVERTISING TACOMA

A photograph showing the result of a city development campaign recently undertaken by the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, has just been published in Popular Mechanics. The Chamber sent to a long list of persons living outside the state a booklet advertising the city, accompanying each with a letter advising the name of the Tacoma citizen who had requested the forwarding of the booklet. The letters received in reply to this unique campaign, from eastern and southern parts, were so earnest in approval of the scheme that it was decided to give them publicity and they were pasted in strings of eight or ten and hung on a wire at the edge of the sidewalk, for a distance of a block, so that the citizens of Tacoma might realize the results of advertising the city.

He had been around from church to church trying to find a congenial congregation, and finally he stopped in a little church just as the congregation read with the minister:

"We have left undone those things which we ought to have done, and we have done those things which we ought not to have done."

The man dropped into a pew with a sigh of relief.

"Thank goodness," he said, "I've found my crowd at last."

A Methodist bishop, accompanied by his two beautiful daughters, started out one morning on a fishing trip. While the bishop was fishing, and old fisherman chanced along and spoke in a friendly way:

"Ketchin' many pard?"

"Brother, I am a fisher of men," replied the bishop, with dignity.

"Well, you brought along the right kind of bait, all right."

Cruisers? Yes, the woods are full of them. Messrs. McIntosh and Delaney are working in Dist. 41; Mr. Avery and his helpers are in the Van Kuren district. "Looka heah," he began, "does Ah understan' dat yo' wants to go to Hell?"

"No sah," explained the backslider; "but Ah done been baptized in de Mefodis' church."

"Lan sakes, man," corrected the minister,"yo' ain't been baptized; youse jes' be'n drycleaned."

"Thank you Ma'am," said the old man to his little granddaughter who had brought him his slippers. "Or rather," he continued, "thank you Miss. You are not a Ma'am."

William, senior, eyed William, junior, wrathfully. "Then how is it," asked the parent, "that I found these three cores in your bedroom, and there is only one pear in the cupboard?"

"Father," said Willie, calculating the distance to the gate,"that's the one I didn't touch."

Scientists say that a pint of pea nuts has more nourishment than two pounds of beefsteak. That may be true but the fact remains that the goobers have no gravy and there is nothing left for hash the next morning.

You know of the bargains in your store. Don't be selfish. Tell others about them.

"Now, Tommy," said the Sunday-school teacher. Suppose you had two apples and you gave another boy his choice of them, you would tell him to take the largest one, wouldn't you?"

"No, ma'am," said Tommy promptly.

"Why, Tommy! exclaimed the teacher in shocked surprise; "why not?"

"Well," said Tommy, "in dis bunch it wouldn't be neccessary to tell him dat."

THE NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

40 PER CENT MORE ACCIDENTS

Olympia, Nov. 26.—Practically 40 per cent more accidents were reported to the industrial insurance commission during the second year under the workmen's compensation law than during the first year. The forthcoming second annual report of the commission also will show that the average period of disability has been somewhat longer during the second year, an average of 27 days instead of 25 days shown during the first year.

The report also shows that a considerably greater proportion of single men are reported as sustaining accidents than was the case during the first year. This has been attributed by some to an alleged growing preference of employers for single employes, since these get smaller compensation, if injured, than men with families to support. The real explanation seems to be, however, that greatly increased activity in the logging business, in which practically all employees are unmarried, has been largely responsible for this showing. The tide of immigration from southern Europe, large numbers of the immigrants being single men, also probably has something to do with the case.

The business of the commission for some months has been practically double that of a year ago. In spite of this, only a gradual increase in expenses of the commission has been made and the department is keeping well within its appropriation for the biennium.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY.

According to information reaching Governor Ernest Lister, Sunday, December 7th, will be widely observed throughout the state as "Tuberculosis day." The arrangements for that observance are in charge of the Washington Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, but public officials, ministers, commercial organizations and other vehicles for the dissemination of constructive propaganda are cooperating actively in the work. It is hoped to have a sermon bearing on the prevention of the spread of the White Plague preached from every pulpit, and editorial comment made in every newspaper. "Tuberculosis day," since the fight against the spread of the disease was inaugurated, has become national in aspect, and is observed in practically every state."

"Too much cannot be said of the work that is being done in this connection," said Governor Lister in discussing the subject. "It is a movement that inspires sympathy and assistance on all sides, for it aims at one of the most insidious diseases of our modern civilization. I sincerely hope that the observance of Tuberculosis day in the state of Washington will be wide-spread, for such observance can be of inestimable value in educating our people in how to guard against the white plague and how to go about its cure, once contracted."

WOMEN'S WAGES

New statistics secured through an investigation of the industrial welfare commission indicate that women and girl employees in fish canneries get much better wages than female workers in any other line of industry yet investigated. However, they work longer hours, the average for all branches of the industry being about 56 hours a week, while some are listed as working 75 hours a week. Fifty-six per cent of the employees make $11 or more a week. In department and other stores it was found that about 55 per cent of the employees made above $9 per week, while less than two-fifths of the laundry employees earned as much as $9.

THE HONOR CAMP.

Reports of the highway commissioner show that from September 11, when the Hoodsport Canal honor camp was started, until November 1, the thirty members of that camp have moved 5054 yards of dirt and hardpan, cleared about three acres of land ready for road construction, grubbed a total of one acre, and completed 300 yards of cribbing along the Sound. About 40 big stumps were pulled. To have done this by contract would have cost $2,653.55. The second honor camp was started at Kalama this week.

WHEELER NAMED REGENT

Governor Ernest Lister last week made his appointment to the board of regents of the University of Washington, when he named Eldridge Wheeler of Montesano as successor to Howard Cosgrove, Seattle, who resigned. Mr. Wheeler is the head of the public schools of Montesano and also mayor of that city. In making the appointment the governor said he believed the public school system should have a representative on the university board.

STRENGTH OF MILITIA

"Fifteen hundred to 2000 troops could be mustered by the state of Washington within two weeks," declared Governor Lister last week in answer to a query from the New York Sun, which asked similar information of all governors. Governor Lister refused to discuss whether he would favor intervention. "The president of the United States is thoroughly capable of handling that situation," he said.

Although declining to comment on the reports that Washington delegates had been thoroughly "steam rollered" by the Pinchot forces at the recent National Conservation congress, until he learns the facts direct from them, Governor Lister said this week: "I believe the people of Washington want a type of conservation that will not retard development. They do not want all the bars thrown down but there is a feeling conservation as practiced has not always been for the best interests of the Pacific Northwest.

The governor has given his approval to a statewide movement started by the Washington Children's Home Society to have Wednesday of this week devoted to special exercises in the public schools to interest the school children in seeing that orphans and homeless and neglected children generally, are cared for on Thanksgiving day. This movement promises to become even more general in the schools next year.

Saloons that have been operating for as long as four years without state liquor licenses have been discovered by the state tax commission in its campaign for collections. In all instances where such lapses have been discovered the delinquents have first been given a chance to pay and then arrested if they declined the opportunity.

The state industrial insurance commission was inspected last week by a committee of the National Civic Federation appointed to investigate all states having compensation laws. The committee congratulated the commission on its manner of conducting the work.

W. J. Roberts has resigned as state highway commissioner. Governor Lister is expected to appoint a successor this week, to take office December 10.

ANNUAL WARNING GIVEN

Christmas Greetings on Packages Must Be on Reverse Side.

Christmas packages bearing the customary bright colored stickers carrying friendly greetings, will be returned to the sender unless the stickers are pasted only on the side of the package opposite the address. If the name of the sender is not stated on the package, it will be sent to the "dead letter" office. Foreign countries will not accept packages bearing the stickers, on account of their similarity to postage stamps. Postmaster Fisher says that last year a number of Christmas packages not complying with the above requirements were returned to the senders, while others were sent to the dead letter office at Washington.

A nother precaution which should be observed is that which refers to the placing of stickers in such position that the package will be sealed; that is, over strings or where the paper laps, for by so doing the mailing class is changed from fourth class to first, and will be held for more postage.

DRESS.

Dress makes the man and also makes the woman. Good dressing need not be expensive. Good dressing is dressing in good taste, and good taste is more a matter of judgment than of purse. Good dressing is being so dressed that no one can tell half an hour after meeting you how you were dressed, so complete was the fitness of the habit to the inhabitant. Like the best window glass, dress should never call attention to itself.—Charles F. Thwing.

When you feel Lazy, Stretchy, Half Sick, Blue and Out of Sorts, look to the Liver; it is Torpid.

HERBINE

Is the Remedy You Need.

It is an invigorating tonic for a torpid liver. The first dose brings improvement, a few days use puts the liver in fine vigorous condition. Herbine also extends its restorative influence to the stomach and bowels. It helps digestion and food assimilation, purifies the bowels and brings back the habit of regular daily bowel movements. When the stomach, liver and bowels are active, bilious impurities no longer obstruct functional processes, the result of which is renewed energy, mental activity and cheerful spirits.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ANOTHER CHANCE

An Appeal for a Few Seconds Thought While Holiday Spirit is Abroad in the Land.

To Every Man, Woman and Child in the State of Washington,
Greeting:

There are two great Universities in the State of Washington.

You all know of the University of Washington in Seattle, but can you say as much concerning the University of Another Chance, situated at Monroe, Wash.? The law creating it, as laid down in the statute books and the records of the Commonwealth of Washington at Olympia, refer to it as the Washington State Reformatory.

The inmates—students, if you please—have come, however, to accept Supt. Cleon B. Roe's designation. They refer to it, and prefer it to be referred to, as the University of Another Chance.

While the holiday spirit is abroad in the land, will you not give the three hundred and fifty students in the University of Another Chance a few seconds thought?

Do you know that there are men here who watch and wait and listen anxiously every day, while the mail clerk calls off the names; men who listen in vain for theirs? They never receive any mail, month in and month out. They have neither loved ones nor true friends in the great outside world to write to them.

Think how happy YOU could make some one of those three hundred and fifty students with a timely holiday postal card, bearing some seasonable message of hope, cheer, friendship or love. The cost to you would be paid if you could see the glisten-eyes with which some happy student would go up to receive YOUR card when his name is called. The silent tribute that that man would offer you would amply repay you for the time and the few pennies thus expended.

If you care to send a breath of the joyous holiday spirit inside the University of Another Chance, during the most trying time of any one of the students' stay here, just mail a postal card this way:

To Student.....
University of Another Chance,
P. O. Box 277,
Monroe, Wash.

Through the proper channels, each student will have his name or number written in the blank space which you leave and he will receive one or more postals Christmas Day. It will cheer him mightily, even if they do come from unknown friends and well-wishers on the outside.

And, please, sign your name and address in full so that as fast as we are able, we may send you in return a copy of our little weekly paper, the Index.

Don't delay mailing your card. Do it today.

Respectfully submitted,
No. 1156.

An important event in American social life was the wedding this week of President Wilson's second daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson, to Francis Bowes Sayre. It was intended to have the wedding very simple, but this was almost impossible with her father occupying the high position that he does, which necessitated the inviting of many guests in connection with the official government, naturally making the wedding a very brilliant affair. This is the 13th wedding to have taken place in the White House and as President Wilson's daughters are very much admired for their beauty of character as well as of features, the event caused an unusual amount of interest.

The Degree of Honor will give a masquerade ball in the opera house Thanksgiving night to which the public is invited. List of prizes given later. tf

MARRIED THANKSGIVING DAY

Miss Florence Belford, daughter of W. M. Belford, was married to Geo. D. Phillips at the parental home, corner Second and Laurel, Thanksgiving Day. Rev. C. E. Fulmer performed the ceremony. They will live in San Francisco where Mr. Phillips in engaged in the undertaking business.

CONG'L SUNDAY SCHOOL

The teachers of the Sunday School are Mr. White, Mr. Gilmore, Miss Sara Brown, Mrs. L. M. Campbell, Miss Hazel Morse, Mrs. E. H. Isbell, Miss Jessie Gilmore and Miss Susie Wilcox. The officers of Mr. Gilmore's class, The Court of Avalon, are Bernice Campbell Pres., Frank Fisher Vice Pres., Frances Gifford Sec. and Treas. Anyone wishing to become a member of the class is required to go thru an initiation. The class holds its regular meeting the second Friday of every month, at the home of one of the members.

The Cross and Crown system in the S. S. is helping to increase the numbers in the classes. In beginning each scholar is given a celluloid pin. For the first term of three months or thirteen Sundays a bronze pin is given; for the second a gun metal pin; for the third a silver pin, and for the fourth a gold pin. When the gold pin is received a certificate of attendance, with ribbon and seal attached, is also given. All of the pins except the gold one must be returned when the next higher grade is reached. Any scholar absent without an acceptable excuse loses the part of the term already earned, but may begin a new term the next Sunday he attends.

The pupils of the seventh grade are jubilant over the thought that their beloved teacher, Miss Lizee, is feeling quite well and strong again and hopes to be able to resume her school work next Monday.

The ladies of St. Andrews Guild will hold a bazaar at the opera house the afternoon and evening of December 4th and 5th. Fancy work of all kinds on sale, also plum puddings, cakes and pies. tf

HOG CHOLERA AT CHIMACUM

Hog cholera, a dread disease that has visited other parts of the United States, has made its appearance in Chimacum valley and has killed a large number of hogs, causing a serious loss to farmers engaged in that branch of industry as the price of pork is quite high.—Leader.
