PORT ANGELES OLYMPIC LEADER

VOL. 30. NO. 4. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1914. $1.00 EER YEAR.

LIGHTING SYSTEM WILL BE EXTENDED

Street Contractors Will Use Power at Rate of $1,000 Per Month for Pumping.

Things did not run so smooth at Tuesday's council meeting and while long hours were put in, the net results did not show up to advantage. There was a hesitancy, too, on the part of some of the members and a feeling that all was not right, and that there would have to be somewhat of a readjustment.

Fowler for the street committee, reported verbally asking that the walk up Lincoln Heights be repaired, that street at Ninth and Chase and Twelfth and Chase be repaired, and a 14-foot plank sewer be put in across the road, together with a few loads of gravel, and the broken sewer at Sixth and Albert be repaired. The whole batch was referred to the street committee and street supt. with power to act.

Street Lighting System to Be Extended.

The electric light committee reported recommending that bids be called for 100 poles, 75 35-foot 8-in. top and 25 40-foot 12-in. tops, that old light plant be permanently closed in February but left in shape for prompt service if found necessary; that street lighting system be extended as far as found practicable; that electrician's salary be raised from $75 to $100 per month.

Electrician Dell Church also recommended the purchase of poles and some 1500 lbs. of 6 and 8 wire.

The reports were adopted jointly and Clerk directed to call for bids for poles, same to be submitted within two weeks.

A little later in the evening a number of other matters pertaining to the light plant came up and there was considerable hesitancy manifest and a reluctance to act. Among these were a letter from the Tacoma expert, Godfrey, stating that certain materials would be necessary to put sub-station in shape, and another stating that Mr. Aldwell had dropped in to see him advising him that he was ready to have measuring devices at station placed on low side of transformers, and since company is willing would recommend acceptance. The Power Company, too, had submitted a like communication. Mr. Aldwell, who was present, explained to council that his company owned all the measuring devices in use, and as a more perfect instrument could be had at this time to measure on the low side to make all uniform he would concede to city the same privilege, the company to buy and own the meters or the city to buy and own them. The cost would be $400, whereas the cost of the high tension meters would be $1700, or $750 for city's half. It was ordered that city purchase and own the measuring devices, and that offer to measure on low side be accepted, city attorney to draft the necessary agreement. The rest was referred to the light committee to bring in a report at next meeting.

Street Contractors and Brewery Want Power.

Another communication which was brought up at this time was one from the Power Company stating that they had opportunity to sell power to a couple of users and asked that city transform same, offering 10 per cent which would bring in to city according to Mgr. Aldwell, $100 per month from the street graders and $75 per month from the brewery people. This, too, was referred to light committee for report to council.

Considerable discussion took place over these communications in which the status of Godfrey as adviser to city was questioned and the advisability of employing him or some one else as adviser during the next month or two was brought up and will be threshed out more upon the submission of the report of the committee.

Notice was served on the city by the Power Co. that Chief Operator Thomas had started to measure juice going through the sub-station at noon Sunday, 18th. It was explained that the devices used were temporary, tending simply to give an idea of the amount of juice being delivered.

Street Improvement Matters.

Shields of the special committee on extension of street improvements asked for another week in which to report. Property owners desire a meeting with committee. Granted.

As committeeman for adjusting the Third street extension further time was also granted. Shields explained that the property owners seemed inclined to be fair, that the main objection to city going through Sampson tract was the leaving of a wedge-like strip between said street and the railroad right-of-way, which would be worthless. He was also advised that Mr. Shank had stated that the railroad only wanted fifteen feet of this street extended and was willing to pay prorata for same.

Team, Harness and Wagon Bought.

Special committee appointed to secure a team for city, reported purchase of a team from J. Leonard at $650, a harness from Nicholson at $75 and a wagon from Swanson at $100. Committee was continued for the purpose of looking into matter of securing quarters and a driver to be near the city hall, or if thought best not to try the double service plan on the team to look into the matter of procuring an auto hose truck, which will carry all necessary hose and such firemen as happen to be near at hand when an alarm is sent in.

The Water Grant Proposition.

City attorney asked further time to look into water grant proposition, there being some doubt as to whether city is bound to take water from water company. There being a purchase clause in ordinance granted for 25 years in 1909, whereby city may purchase after ten years at appraised value, it would possibly be cheaper for city to purchase at that time than to attempt to construct a new plant with the unsettled condition of the bond market. In this same matter Fisher stated the special committee had conferred with Manager Brumfield relative to a better rate for hydrants and that officer has taken the matter up with the owners in Tacoma.

The Grading of C Street.

The city engineer reported that the petition for the grading of C street was sufficient, there being more than a majority of the owners of the lineal frontage on said street. This brought the statement from the attorney as an excuse for not presenting the Resolution of Intention that it was much safer to proceed by legal petition of property owners. Inasmuch, however, as two-thirds of the signers signed with pencil, it was ordered upon motion of Dustman and Shields that the city attorney bring in Res. of Int. sure at next meeting, the latter stating that it was the desire to have no unnecessary delay in getting this work started.

Date of Hearing Final Roll Feb. 24.

The Final Assessment Roll for the improvement of the business section, involving the L., W. & M. contract, came before the council from the engineer on schedule time, and upon motion of Shields the date of hearing on same was set for Feb. 24, and the Attorney was directed to see that the proper notice thereof was printed this week.

Councilman Wilcox Resigned.

The resignation of B. G. Wilcox as councilman of Third ward was read and accepted. Mr. Wilcox feels that his business takes him away too much from the city and that in justice to himself and the Third ward he takes this action.

Quite a laugh was provoked when a letter was read from J. B. Hardman, who has persistently applied for the position of caretaker at the cemetery. He asked to withdraw his application stating that he is not connected with the Socialist party and does not care to be. This was recognized as a slap at the chn. of the cemetery com., Mr. Fleming.

W. B. Ritchie addressed council, asking that city take care of water which a culvert put in by city is distributing over his property at 7th and Washington, as he wishes to improve same at an early date. Rfd.

C. H. VanBrunt asked that alley in block 192 be opened. Rfd. to St. Supt. and Com. with power to act.

Would Be City Treasurer if Position is Vacant.

Floyd G. Hayne and Felix Filion made application for position of city treasurer in event a vacancy is declared, both agreeing to do all work including collection of light rents at $60 a month. Council was seemingly of opinion that there was no vacancy unless present treasurer Mr. Graves resigns, as the law reads that he is elected for one year or until his successor qualifies. Upon motion of Dustman a committee of three was named to confer with the treasurer to the end that the ordinance prescribing his duties may be complied with. Dustman, Fisher and Bigelow named.

Petition of property owners for a temporary walk from Olympic Hotel south to 4th street was read. If city would furnish plank for 3-board walk residents would place same. Granted.

Property owners of Francis street asked that lights be placed at intersections of 5th, 6th and 7th. This had been covered in report of light committee.

Ordinance establishing grade of C street ordered prepared by next week.

Dustman, Shields and Bigelow named committee to look into matter of purchasing auto truck.

Bill of W. B. Ritchie to Com. Club $40 for trip to Portland in re lease of spit, and N. K. Mead for trip to Olympia were laid over, there being some question as to whether city authorized the trips.

An ordinance was presented by Fisher prescribing the method of procedure in the matter of Local Improvement District and the protection of laborers' liens. The ord. is said to be a copy of Seattle's methods. Read twice and referred.

The Cluster Light Standards.

Mr. Aldwell stated that during his recent visit to Tacoma he inspected the cluster light poles in service there which the city is about to dispose of at junk prices. He stated that they were fine looking posts, solid and clean with four lights, which could be used as one bulb center or three without bulb. He thot it a great opportunity for city as they can possibly be had at $10 or $15 each and cost Tacoma $125. There are 25 or 30 of them. Light committee will investigate.

The following resolution was presented by Fleming and adopted:

Whereas, The power now vested in the city engineer enabling him to discharge workingmen in employ of contractors is unnecessary for the protection of city and opens the way for abuse of power and graft, besides forcing workmen to essay the impossible role of serving two masters, Therefore, Resolved, This clause be left out of future contracts.

Shields also called attention to fact that license for bill boards about town has not been paid and moved that they be removed at once. Mayor White stated that he understood that a young man had just purchased the business for $750 and Shields withdrew his motion to allow the young fellow a chance to recuperate his losses to some extent.

WOMEN OF WOODCRAFT HOLD PUBLIC INSTALLATION

At the regular meeting of Women of Woodcraft held in I. O. O. F. hall Saturday evening, January 17th, the officers for the ensuing year were duly installed by Past Guardian Neighbor Hattie Thompson. A few friends had been invited to witness the ceremonies, after which a nice lunch was served in the dining room. The officers for the new year are: Guardian Neighbor, Mary Clevenger; Past Guardian Neighbor, Hattie Thompson; Adviser, Orson Boyd; Magician, Mary Hopf; Banker, Mason Burgess; Clerk, Paul Hopf; Attendant, Pearl Wold; Capt. of Guards, Chas. Buchanan; Musician, Cordia Toler; Inner Sentinel, Jennie Martin; Outer Sentinel, L. A. Strobel; Managers, R. A. Martin, F. I Strobel, Myrtle McRoberts.

I would like to say through the columns of the Olympic-Leader, since there are so many strangers coming into the city, if there is anyone belonging to a Circle of Woodcraft who is a stranger here we would be glad to welcome them at any time to our circle in I. O. O. F. hall.

Guardian Neighbor.

The first arrest in enforcing the inspection law of the department of griculture was made in Spokane last week, when O. B. Anderson was haled into court by Miss A. B. Wimple and Will Adams, inspectors of the department, on the charge of obstructing an officer in the discharge of his duty. It was deemed advisable to make an example of this case.

PLAINLY UP TO PROPERTY OWNERS

Now Contract is Let, When Will Work Begin on Grades in the Business Section?

The question has been asked the past week many times and anxiously by a much interested populace, "Now the contract is let when will work begin on the grades, and is there any certainty that work will begin?"

The answer to the first question is plainly up to the property owners in the district as a whole. The work will go forward at an early day if the get together spirit is manifested, and all seem to be anxious to have the work go ahead, being satisfied that they have at last found a satisfactory way out of the mud.

The contract reads that work is to commence 15 days after the approval of the final assessment roll and the day of last appeal therefrom. The policy heretofore, with the exception of Francis street, has been to do the work on an estimated assessment and to make the final assessment roll and equalization of benefits afterward. Messrs. Lewis, Wiley & Morse, however, have had considerable experience in grade work, and the essential of a low bid is that the work be allowed to proceed uninterrupted after commencement; hence their demand for the day of commencement.

The final assessment roll of this district is now before the council, and the necessary 30 days notice of the hearing thereon is now being published according to law, the day of hearing being fixed for Feb. 24th, so that if there is no hitch and no obstructions placed in the way the contractors should be able to get to work within the next six or eight weeks. The work must be concluded within six months after commencement under penalty of $25 and $10 per day.

While the contract with the city aggregates $194,000, it is possible that work will be done to the extent of many thousands of dollars additional. It is stated that the contractors have practically agreed with property owners for the extension of the improvement by private contract, that many have contracted to have the dirt taken from their property to place it at grade at some of the cuts and that a sewer system is to be included in the Front street work, and possibly in other districts. All this latter, however, will not complicate the situation or cause delay as it will be wholly by common consent and agreement with property interests abutting.

When the work starts, however, it may be taken for granted that it will be finished in a hurry, and when complete Port Angeles' disgraceful business section will be transformed, and one of the essentials for our future prosperity will be complete.

AN OPTIMISTIC, BUT NOT INFLATED RING

Lewis, Wiley & Morse Will Be With Us in All Our Growth and Development.

Seattle, Wash.,
January 17, 1914.

Mr. W. S. Pearce, Secretary
Commercial Club,
Port Angeles, Wash.

My Dear Mr. Pearce:—Your article in the Seattle Sun of Friday, January 16th issue on page 6 was well written and interesting.

It is generally known as a fact that January, February and March are very dull seasons with newspaper men, and they have hard work to get as much copy as tney would like, and I would suggest that you try keeping Port Angeles well to the front in all three of the Seattle papers.

Anything that you would write them of the activity of your city, together with its prospects, growth, and development will find a welcome place I believe in all of our city papers.

I think it would be well for you to follow out a conservative plan in your articles so as to cause your readers to see that they are worthy of confidence, having a good optim-

HOTEL OPENING BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Four Hundred Enjoy the Festivities of Banquet and Dance at the Olympic Hotel.

The Olympic Hotel was the scene Wednesday of the most brilliant social function given in our city for many months. Contrary to the rule, the realization of this notable event was far greater than the anticipation. Guests began arriving about four in the afternoon and were cordially welcomed by the reception committee. Supper was served from 6 till 9:30 and the spacious dining room was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the large crowd. About one hundred and fifty were seated first and the same number were served at the second tables. At the close of the dinner the pages brot in immense baskets of fancy paper hats, both for ladies and gentlemen, and each guest was fitted out with the latest Parisian head-gear brot here as souvenirs for the occasion by Mr. Cain on his return from Chicago last week. Many of them were real works of art and fitted in admirably with the ladies costumes, while others were ludicrous and caused all sorts of fun and merriment, at once removing the formality of the occasion.

Seated at the table with Mr. Cain as his personal guests were a number of officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. who came down from Seattle to help celebrate the opening. J. R. Veitch, assistant traffic manager, made an enthusiastic after dinner speech, predicting all sorts of good things for Port Angeles and making an excellent impression. G. W. Morrow, R. M. Boyd, general freight agent, and R. F. Weeks, division freight agent, were also present.

Dancing began soon after dinner in the spacious lobby, additional guests arriving until the whole totaled 400, making it difficult to dance at times so large was the crowd on the floor.

It was the early hours of the morning before the last of the guests reluctantly departed from the scene of the evenings pleasure, hoping that this was only the beginning of many more such happy functions in this beautiful hotel of which all Port Angeles is proud and of which she has long felt the need.

PLANS FOR THE CELEBRATION

Committee Bending Every Effort to Make it Greatest in History of the City.

Plans for the great celebration of the completion of the Olympic Power Company's hydro-electric plant on February 12th, are rapidly maturing. The committee in charge of the affair is bending every energy towards making it by far the greatest event in the history of Port Angeles.

Invitations are being sent to all the leading commercial organizations of the northwest urging that they be represented by large delegations, and the indications now point to an extremely big attendance from abroad.

Assurances have also been received from prominent speakers that they will be present, and deliver addresses appropriate to the occasion.

As previously published, the banquet will be held at the Olympic Hotel.

Arrangements have been made with Asahel Curtis, the famous scenic photographer of Seattle, for giving his splendid stereopticon views of Clallam county and the Olympic peninsula at the opera house in the afternoon.

It is also proposed to give a ball at the opera house in the evening, thereby rendering it possible for everybody to enjoy themselves in a way most pleasing to their fancy.

Tickets to the banquet, which will be sold at one dollar each, have been printed, and will be for sale at the majority of the business houses from now until the day of the celebration.

The committee recommends that tickets be bought as early as possible, as they will be limited, and it is necessary for the committee to know approximately the number that will attend in advance.

PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT IN EDUCATION

An Article by County Supt. Geisness in January American School Board Journal.

The political party under the leadership of Roosevelt and others is only one phase of the "progressive movement" now sweeping over the country. The political leaders affiliating with the new party emphasize the necessity of doing away with boss rule and of restoring to the people their full rights, granted them by the constitution, which rights are in danger of being taken away or destroyed. Because of the noise and flurry incident to a political campaign special attention has been called to the political phase of the progressive movement, but the causes of unrest and dissatisfaction in which the Progressive Party originated are also affecting other departments of life and that in a degree hardly less marked, tho at present less apparent.

This is a government by representation and the people exercise most of their rights and powers through duly elected representatives. A man who has been elected to represent his district in Congress or his state in the United States Senate, or who has been elected to represent his people in the legislature of his own state has been highly honored if he is the choice of his people in selecting a man in whom they have so great confidence as to delegate to him important powers of legislation. However the political boss and demagogue has also had certain powers bestowed on him which in a certain sense have been delegated to him by the people. If the people have not directly expressed by their vote the desire to have the boss represent them, they have nevertheless tacitly given their consent by their indifference or silence. And so the political boss is a "middle man" standing between the people and their duly electedrepresentatives and exercising certain powers and wielding a certain influence acquired through wealth, trickery or dishonesty and allowed to hold his place and influence because the people from whom he gets his power are either too weak, indifferent or too ignorant to throw him overboard.

The sentiment which favors the overthrow of the boss in politics is liable also to favor the abandonment of delegated power whenever that is possible or practicable. The progressive element is, for instance, quite generally in favor of election of U. S. Senators by the people and the president of the U. S. by popular vote It favors the abolishing of the caucus system inside the party lines with direct primaries instead, etc. While the progressive element does not aim to abolish representative government and to introduce a pure democracy it does emphasize the importance of doing away with all unnecessary and offensive representation and further-

Ben Danielson, the mail carrier from Ozette country, was in the city the early week, the first lay-off he has had for some years. While he is of the opinion that the parcels post is a great boon to the country folk, yet in the recent order allowing packages of a weight of fifty pounds he feels somewhat that the government is generous at the expense of the frontier carrier. When he made his bid four years ago on this contract it was with a four-pound limit and a somewhat high rate on packages, and he was able to carry the government end of the trip with one horse redily. The new rate for short haul in parcels post, however, makes it possible for residents of remote districts to have shipped to them goods up to parcels of fifty pounds for something like 54c, which is one-half to one-third the freight rate to these points, the government fixing its rates o na basis of good roads and up-to-date transportation facilities. Mr. Danielson states he had 700 lbs. to take in on his last trip, flour, sugar and nearly everything needed for the larder being shipped in by parcels post.

Arthur Cays of Dungeness spent the early week in the city on business.

RAILROAD CONSTRUCTION HAS WROUGHT MARKED CHANGES

By W. S. Pearce, Sec'y Angeles Commercial Club, in Seattle Sun.

Railroad construction on the Olympic Peninsula in the year just closed has wrought many changes.

During the last 20 years several abortive attempts at railroad building have been made in this territory. They were promoted and fostered by adventurers who never had positive assurances of the requisite backing, but who after having launched their schemes, trusted to fortune in securing the capital. The inevitable result was failure, and as a very natural consequence Port Angeles and the Olympic Peninsula have suffered repeated disappointments and reverses.

For many years the transcontinental railroads, while recognizing the enormous wealth and the vast tonnage which this region affords, have viewed the situation complacently, and under a "gentlemen's agreement" that it should remain uninvaded for an indefinite period, have refrained from taking any real positive action.

The fullness of time arrived, however, and the parties to the compact had evidently not reckoned with the influence behind the present movement which crystallized into a definite policy, with the result that the Seattle, Port Angeles & Lake Crescent railroad, a subsidiary corporation of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co., is an actual entity.

Grading on about forty miles of the road from the Clallam-Jefferson county line west has been completed via Port Angeles, the main terminus. Heavy shipments of steel rails are now on the way and track laying will begin during this month. Statements from high officials are to the effect that trains will be in operation along the line by May 1 of this year.

Oak Bay, some eight or nine miles south of Port Townsend, has been selected as the eastern terminus of the road, from which point a ferry service will transport trains to Seattle, connecting with the main line of the C., M. & St. P., giving to Port Angeles the advantage of terminal rates, the dearth of which has been the real barrier to her commercial progress.

The road is being extended west from Port Angeles as rapidly as men and money can accomplish it to the great timber belt, where more than 30 billion feet of the finest fir, cedar, hemlock and spruce on earth are waiting to be manufactured into merchantable lumber, the major portion of which must be milled at Port Angeles, and which of necessity must go out from this harbor by water and rail.

It is generally assumed that the road will ultimately girdle the Peninsula, connecting up with main line at Grays Harbor and Olympia. There is logical reason for such prediction, for the Olympic empire embracing an area of 9,000 square miles, stands without a peer on the American continent in diversified wealth. The timber alone is an asset, which, when manufactured will mount into sums that will stagger the imagination, while tens of thousands of acres of the richest and most productive soil on earth await the touch of the thrifty husbandman.

It is not unusual for land in Clallam county to yield from 140 to 150 bushels of oats and 100 bushels of wheat to the acre, while all varieties of roots and grasses flourish with amazing luxurianec.

Dairying, yet in its infancy, is developing into a very important industry. Clallam county produced 1,000,000 pounds of butter in 1913.

Another institution which is destined to become a potent agency in the development of Port Angeles and the Olympic Peninsula is the great hydro-electric power plant recently completed by the Olympic Power Co., six miles west of Port Angeles. The current was turned on Dec. 27, and Port Angeles, Port Townsend, Forts Worden, Casey and Flagler and the city of Bremerton are now being lighted from this service. The construction of this mammoth enterprise, with a capacity of 8,000 horse power, has cost $1,500,000.

As a direct result of the building of the railroad and the power plant, saw mills, shingle mills, sash and door and box factories are being erected on the harbor of Port Angeles, where the billions of feet of timber will be cut and from which point it will be distributed.

An eight hour day, with time and a half for overtime, and a minimum wage of $2.25 per day for all mill workers are provisions of a resolution adopted by the International union of Shingle Weavers, Sawmill Workers and Woodsmen at their convention in Aberdeen last week. The demand for the new work day and scale is to be made effective on May 1, and a conference to present these demands to the manufacturers will be sought soon.

Clallam county receives $2,624.15 from the January apportionment of the state school money, which is divided among the counties in proportion to the school attendance. We paid in more by $1,255 that we received from the state; all but seven of the thirty-nine counties receiving more than they were called upon to pay in, which on its face has the appearance of robbing the thinly settled counties for the benefit of those that are wealthier.

Call of the Moose, a magazine published in Indiana by the Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose, devotes a great deal of space in the January number to the subject of vocational training in our public schools. The Moose are giving it a thorough test in their school at Mooseheart, so what they have to say would doubtless prove of interest to those parents anxious to see it introduced into the Angeles schools.

The lumber industry is after all the chief asset of the Pacific Coast, and the timely opening of the Olympic Peninsula will greatly assist in the development of the Northwest in 1914 says J. E. Chilberg, the Seattle banker, in Sunday's P.-I., in a review of the commercial possibilities of the coming year.

PROPOSE TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION

Commission Recommends Separation of State from Local Taxation as Sources of Revenue.

Olympia, Jan. 21.—Figures compiled by the tax commission show that only 15 per cent of the entire taxes of this state are borne by personal property. The reason assigned for this is that practically all intangible property escapes taxation either by exemption or refusal to list, which would indicate that the Washington tax, commonly known as the general property tax, is, in fact, a real estate tax.

Contending that the present system of taxation is antiquated and has not been revised to keep pace with modern conditions, the tax commission is giving attention to a constitutional amendment to be presented to the next legislature for submission to the people at the election in 1916. The present system is so embodied in the constitution that it cannot be remedied without a constitutional amendment.

The remedy urged by the commission in event of such amendment will be the separation of state from local taxation as sources of revenue. This implies that the present state tax levy will be abolished and in lieu thereof the state will levy either a direct or gross earnings tax on public service corporations such as railroads, telegraph and telephone, express and car companies, leaving to the counties and cities the exclusive right to tax for local purposes all other real and personal property.

This will establish home rule in the matter of local taxation, abolish any necessity for the so-called equalization between counties, and will permit proper classification of the subjects of taxation, making it possible to tax each class in proportion to its ability to pay, or in proportion to benefits and privileges received from the government. It is urged that with proper classification, a very high percentage of personal property will be added to the rolls, thereby relieving the burden from real estate.

The commission points out that the present system takes the taxes derived from the railroads, revenue which belongs by right to the people of the entire state, and distributes it inequitably among the local divisions. Seven counties receive little or none of such revenue and many school districts receive none, while adjoining districts receive many times the amount to which they would be entitled by an equitable division.

The industrial welfare commission which is charged with the duty of fixing a minimum wage for women employees, has decided that the first minimum will be fixed for employes of mercantile establishments. The commission has secured the temporary services of Miss Caroline J. Gleason, secretary of the Oregon welfare commission, who has a national reputation in work of this kind. Conferences will be held, consisting of three employers, three employes, and three representatives of the general public. After investigating the conditions of labor, wages paid and cost of living in the industry, the conference will recommend a minimum wage which the commission will act upon.

The locating commission named by Governor Lister met with the board of control Wednesday to go over tentative plans prepared for the new girls' training school, which will be built this year on the land recently purchased by the state near Grand Mound, 10 miles from the present state training school near Chehalis. The girls will be moved from the Chehalis school to the new industrial school when it is completed.

Members of the board of control will within the next two weeks visit all of the state institutions under their supervision for the purpose of checking up with the superintendents of those institutions the list of supplies asked on their semi-annual requisitions, contracts for which will be let in April. By thus closely checking up the supplies asked for, the board feels that it can get a better knowledge of the requirements of each institution and they can determine just how necessary the requisitioned supplies are in the conduct of the institution. A further saving of time can thus be effected, is the opinion of the members of the board.

The annual meeting of the county assessors was held here this week, the tax commission meeting with the assessors and discussing methods of assessment.

The state land board held daily sessions last week to clean up a number of old cases and will resume the daily meetings this week.

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr Dyspeptic, would you not like to feelthat your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Baker, of Battle Creek Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by all dealers.

ELWHA POWER REACHES BREMERTON

Bremerton News Tells of Current from Elwha Power Being Turned on in that City.

From out the heart of the Olympics, fed by their eternal snows, a mountain torrent dashes downward over rocks and foaming in swirling rapids, toward the blue waters of Puget Sound. For ages it pursued its course, unfettered, until a little while ago men trapped it in its box-like canyon and confined it with mighty barriers of concrete and steel. At first it resented this treatment and surging beneath the giant dam that spanned its current, it tore loose its fetters and dashed on in freedom. Then these men once more bent to the task and today the mighty Elwha, harnessed to the mill, turns the wheels that generate electric current for the Olympic peninsula. On Wednesday afternoon, the last link in the ninety mile line was completed and the juice from the Olympic Power plant was turned into the switch-board of the Bremerton-Charleston Light Company.

Against All Obstacles.

This has been no small task, involving as it has the expenditure of a million and a half of dollars and almost continuous labor of many men for three years. Difficulties have been overcome, new obstacles have arisen and these in turn been conquered, largely by the indomitable will and tenacity of one man. To this man belongs much of the honor as upon him has devolved a large share of the work of the undertaking. When the first dam was undermined by the swift rush of the waters, tearing out much of the work done and wrecking the power house when just ready to begin service, it was his energy that put new life into the project and made the final results possible. This man is Thomas Aldwell, of Port Angeles, general manager of the company.

Gives Interesting Details

A visit to the power station at the foot of Highland avenue gives one only a faint idea of the magnitude of this system, but even this is of much interest. Here, on Wednesday afternoon, the current had just been turned on and they were testing it out. W. A. Danielson, assistant general manager, who has been in charge of the work since last April, was watching with evident pride the successful outcome of months of labor toward this end. In answer to an inquiry as to the current being actually turned on, he pointed to a meter on one of the big transformers where the needle pointed to almost 2,400 volts. "We generate at the plant" he said, "6,600 volts which is stepped up to 66,000 for transmission. This load is carried until we reach Hood's Canal, where it is stepped down to 13,200 volts while crossing under the canal on a 1½ mile cable. On this side it is again stepped up to the 66,000 until it reaches Bremerton where it is stepped down to 2,300 volts at which it is delivered to the Bremerton Light Company and to the navy yard." The total length of the transmission line is about 90 miles according to Mr. Danielson, and in this instance it not only cables under Hood Canal but crosses overhead above Dogfish bay for a span of 1,300 feet and over Washington Narrows with a 1,600 foot span. Each of these crossings are 135 feet above the water, and the wires are supported by steel towers. The highest of these, the one in Bremerton at the foot of Highland avenue, is 170 feet above high tide. The concrete base extends 14 feet below the water and the weight of the two back piers is estimated at 82 tons. This is necessary to balance the strain on the tower which is about 3½ tons at the top. The wire cables, of which there are eight strands, are especially constructed of aluminum with a steel core, providing a minimum weight for the amount of conductivity.

The right-of-way for the transmission line has been so cleared as to protect the line from danger by falling timber, as the protection of their insulators is essential to the service, very strict rules will be enforced against anyone destroying them. A telephone line follows the power line all the way from the power house and over it the writer was able to hear the roar of the falls and the machinery at the plant.

Marks New Era.

The coming of the Elwha power to this section marks the opening of a new era of development. "We expect," said Mr. Danielson, "to extend our system as rapidly as possible and to give the people of this section service as fast as it can be arranged. We want the people of Kitsap county to feel that their interest and ours lie together in the future development along the line and we will give them every possible advantage of service.

more lays stress upon the fact that when it becomes necessary for the people to delegate certain powers to their chosen representatives care should be taken that these powers be delegated to individuals who may at least be reasonably expected to possess the ability and the integrity to carry out these powers with reasonable efficiency and diligence. If these principles of the progressives are carried into the educational field we shall find that there is abundant room for the operation in the direction of reform. Our educational system from the point of view of the amount of money expended as well as the importance of the work done is second to no other department in our government. And in this system too we find that the work is carried on chiefly by men and women to whom certain powers have been delegated by the people. The trained workers in the educational field, except in some cases the state and county superintendents, must look for their position and compensation and tenure in office at the hands of the representatives of the people to whom the power have been delegated of hiring, fixing the compensation and dismissing those engaged in educational work. It would seem that the individuals to whom the people have delegated so great power in education should possess such qualifications as would give reasonable assurance of efficient service. Nearly all teachers, principals and superintendents are elected or appointed to their positions by Boards of Education the members of whom have been elected by the people. The members of these Boards with few exceptions serve without pay and no legal qualifications are required for these positions except in some states the ability to read the English language. That the power and duty of selecting teachers, fixing their salaries and term of office must be delegated by the people to some body less unwieldy than a popular assembly is quite evident, but it is almost absurd that this important power, and other powers now given to these representatives of the people in the educational field, are exercised by men and women who possess no qualifications for the position than their own willingness to serve. The work of the schools has been criticised a great deal of late and the assertion has been made that the work is superficial, lacks thoroness and does not bring adequate returns on the money invested. That these charges are to a great extent true there can be no doubt and it is more than a probability that many of these weak points in the system are due chiefly to the fact that the ignorant "middle man" in the educational system stand in the way, and the trained workers are only hired men and women who come and go and do their work by order of the boards of ignorant and untrained laymen. It is doubtful if conditions improve greatly as long as teachers are only transients, interested in the community and its people but for a short time and always necessarily looking out for new fields and employing their skill and finesse in pleasing the touchy member of the Board and making life as agreeable as possible for the short time that they expect to remain in the locality. A teacher scarcely becomes acquainted with her pupils, a few of the patrons, and is just beginning to realize the needs of the community along educational lines when she departs for other fields to begin her work over again.

The situation resolves itself somewhat to this: the people tax themselves to properly train teachers, principals and superintendents and then elect Boards, consisting usually of men and women without any training and often without experience and in fact often with little or no education to wield the actual power in school affairs and to dictate to those trained to the profession in matters purely educational. The professionally trained teachers, principals, and superintendents have such power as the untrained, inexperienced and often ignorant school boards see fit to hand out to them.

The progressive element which seems to have for its aim the effacing of the useless and troublesome "middleman" in politics might turn their attention with hopes of still more far reaching results to the ignorant and inefficient "middle man" in our educational system.

SYNOPSIS.

Kirk Anthony, son of a rich man, with college friends, gets into a fracas in a New York resort. A detective is hurt. Jefferson Locke insinuates himself into the college men's party.

Locke, aided by Kirk's friend Higgins, who thinks it a joke, drugs Kirk and puts him aboard a ship bound for Colon. Kirk is on the passenger list as Locke

Kirk wins the capital prize, $15,000, in the lottery. He and Runnels make plans for advancement. The Cortlandts, having turned from the older Alfarez, intend to make Senor Garavel, a banker, president of Panama.

CHAPTER IV.

New Acquaintances.

As he turned away Kirk became conscious that the woman in the next chair had let her book fall and was watching him with amused curiosity. Feeling a sudden desire to confide in some one, he turned his eyes upon her with such a natural, boyish smile that she could not take offense and began quite as if he had known her for some time:

"These people are money mad, aren't they? Worst bunch of gold diggers I ever saw." Surprised, she half raised her book, but Kirk ran on: "I hope you don't mind my speaking to you. I'm awfully lonesome. My name is Anthony, Kirk Anthony."

Her face showed that the name carried no significance.

"I understood you to tell the purser your name was Locke," said she in a very low pitched, well modulated voice. "I couldn't help overhearing."

"But it isn't really; it's Anthony. I'm the undignified heir to the stocks and bonds of an old party by that name who lives in Albany."

"Darwin K. Anthony?" questioned she quickly. "Is he your father?" Her face lighted with a flash of genuine interest.

Kirk nodded.

"It's funny, isn't it, with all his credit that I can't get a shirt until I put up a diamond ring?"

"You are joking, are you not?"

"No, indeed. I didn't intend to take this trip. I didn't even know I had sailed. When I woke up I thought this was a hotel. I've got no more baggage than a robin."

"Really? How did it happen?"

"Well, to be perfectly honest, I got drunk—just plain drunk. I didn't think so at the time, understand, for I'd never been the least bit that way before. Hope I don't shock you."

His new acquaintance shrugged her shoulders. "I have seen something of the world. I'm not easily shocked."

"Well, I was perfectly sober the last I remember, and then I woke up on the Santa Cruz. You see, it was a big night—football game, supper and all that. I remember everything up to a certain point, then—curtain! I was 'out' for twelve hours and sick. That's the funny part; I'm still sick. What I can't understand is this: It took all my money to pay for the supper, and yet I wake up with a first class ticket to Panama and in possession of one of the best suits on the ship. It's a problem play."

"You say you were sick afterward?"

Kirk turned his eyes upon the speaker mournfully. "My head isn't right yet."

"You were drugged," said the woman.

"By Jove!" He straightened up in his chair. "I'm beginning to see. It was Locke. That's how I got his name. This is his ticket. Oh! There's going to be something doing when I get back."

"Is he your father?"

"You did not impress me as a college student," said the stranger.

"I'm not. I graduated four years ago. I barely made it, but I did get through."

"And you have never been to the tropics?"

"Not since I had my last row with the governor. Have you?"

"Many times. It will prove an interesting trip for you. At least you have that consolation."

"What is it like?"

Evidently the artless effrontery of the young man had not offended, for his neighbor talked freely, and in a short time the two were conversing as easily as old acquaintances.

When at last she rose, after an hour that had swiftly sped, she was gratified at the look of concern that came into his eyes. She looked at him with genuine approval as he bowed and said:

"Thank you for the pointers about Panama. I hope I may have the pleasure of talking to you again."

When she had disappeared he murmured admiringly:

"Jove! She's a corker! And she's not so old, after all. I wonder who she"— He leaned over and read the card on the back of her steamer chair. "Mrs. Stephen Cortlandt, Suite B." it was lettered. Straightening up, he grumbled with genuine disappointment: "Just my blamed luck! She's married."

By pledging his one article of jewelry Kirk became possessed that afternoon of several shirts, collars and handkerchiefs, likewise a razor, over which he exercised a sort of leasehold privilege. The purser made it plain, however, that he had not sold these articles, but merely loaned them, holding the ring as security for their return, and this arrangement allowed Kirk no spare cash whatever. Even with all his necessaries paid for, it surprised him to find how many channels remained for spending money. He suffered most, perhaps, from the lack of tobacco, but even in the matter of cigarettes he could not bring himself to accept favors that he could not return.

Kirk was of a peculiarly sanguine temperament that required much to ruffle and looked upon the whole matter as a huge joke. It was this perhaps that enabled him to make friends in spite of his unsociable habits, for the men liked him. As for the women, he avoided them religiously, with the exception of Mrs. Cortlandt, whom he saw for an hour or two morning and afternoon as well as at meal times. With her he got on famously, finding her nearly as entertaining as a male chum, though he never quite lost his dislike for her husband. Had she been unmarried and nearer his own age their daily intimacy might have caused him to become self conscious, but under the circumstances no such thoughts occurred to him, and he began to look forward with pleasure to their hours on deck.

The Santa Cruz was four days out before Cortlandt joined them, and when he did he merely nodded casually to Kirk, then, after exchanging a polite word or two with his wife, lapsed into his customary silence, while Mrs. Cortlandt continued her conversation without a second glance in her husband's direction.

The man evidently possessed a wide knowledge of current events, a keen understanding of men and things, yet he never opened up. He listened, spoke rarely and continued to spend nine-tenths of his time in that isolated corner of the smoking room, with no other company than a long glass and a siphon.

One day when Kirk had begun to feel that his acquaintance with Mrs. Cortlandt was well established he said to her:

"Stein told me today that your husband is in the diplomatic service."

"Yes," said she. "He was consul general to Colombia several years ago, and since then he has been to France and to Germany."

"Are you diplomating now?"

"In a way. We shall be in Panama for some time. Colonel Jolson will be interested in you."

"I don't see the point."

"Your father is one of the most powerful and aggressive railroad men in the country. Perhaps you know something about the railroad opposition to the canal?"

Kirk smiled. "Well, to tell you the truth," said he, "the governor doesn't consult me about his business as much as he ought to. He seems to think he can run it all right without me, and we've only been speaking over the telephone lately."

"One of the strongest forces the government had to combat in putting through the canal appropriations was the railroads. Colonel Jolson has no reason to love your father.

"By the way, when are you going into business with him?"

"I? Oh, not for a long time. You see, work doesn't really appeal to me, anyway. I suppose if I had to hustle I could, but what's the use?"

Mrs. Cortlandt let her eyes dwell upon him curiously for a moment. Then she said:

"Have you no ambition? Is there no—girl, for instance? Have you never been in love?"

"Oh, see here, now!" Anthony blushed in a manner to excite the envy of any woman. "I don't like 'em. I'd rather play football."

"You lack stimulus. If you should meet the right woman"— Then, seeing the amusement in his face: "Believe me, I know what I am talking about. I know what a woman can do. Your life has been too easy and placid. You need some disturbing element to make it ferment."

The Santa Cruz was now rapidly drawing out of the cold northern winter and into a tropic warmth. The nights were perfect, the days divine. The passengers responded as if to a magic draft, and Kirk acknowledged to a reluctant enjoyment of the change and found himself less eager to go back.

Mrs. Cortlandt joined him as usual on deck after dinner, and they did a mile around the promenade, chatting idly of many things. The evening was too glorious to permit of early retiring, and a late hour found them leaning over the rail, side by side, while Anthony bewailed the fact that he knew nothing of the country just beyond the dark horizon ahead of them. They talked about the canal

"It is a big task, Mr. Anthony, and the mere digging of the ditch is the smallest part. There is a great deal more to be done. You see, as men attain culture, they require more than mere food and drink and bedding, and in the same way, as nations attain to greatness, they require more than mere territory—they reach out and absorb power and prestige. Our decision to build the Panama canal is like the landing of another Columbus; the conquest is to follow. After that will come—who knows what? Perhaps more wars, more pillage, more injustice, just as in the old days of Central and South America."

"You talk like a man," Anthony said admiringly. "I had no idea you looked at things in such a big way."

Mrs. Cortlandt hesitated slightly as she changed the subject. "I heard you tell the purser the other day about your financial troubles, and it occurred to me that Mr. Cortlandt might assist you."

"Thanks, awfully," Kirk hastened to say, feeling himself flush uncomfortably. "But I sha'n't need anything. The old gentleman will wire me whatever I ask for. Does—Mr. Cortlandt know how I am fixed?"

"No."

"Please don't tell him. I—I'm a little bit ashamed of myself."

Mr. Cortlandt was awaiting his wife and rose courteously as she entered their suit.

"Did you send Annette for me?" she inquired.

"Yes. I thought you had forgotten the hour. We rise at 6."

"My dear," she returned coolly, "I was quite aware of the time. I was talking to Mr. Anthony."

"By the way, some of the passengers are remarking about your friendship for him."

Mrs. Cortlandt shrugged. "I expected that. Does it interest you?"

The man favored her with his wintry smile. "Not at all."

"If he should need assistance while in Panama I should be obliged if you would accommodate him."

"Don't you think that is going a bit too far? You know I don't fancy him."

Mrs. Cortlandt frowned slightly. "We won't discuss it," she said. "I assured him he was at liberty to call on us for anything, and naturally that ends the matter."

"Naturally," he agreed, but his colorless cheeks flushed dully.

When Kirk came on deck early the following morning he found the Santa Cruz nosing her way into Colon harbor. A land fog obscured his view somewhat, but through it he beheld a low, irregular line of mountains in the background and close at hand a town. The ship came to anchor abreast of a point upon which he descried a squat little spider legged lighthouse and long rows of frame dwellings half hidden behind slender palm trees. Beyond were warehouses and docks and the funnels of many ships. On either side of the bay was a dense tropical wilderness. "Will you go over to Panama city or will you stay in Colon?" asked Cortlandt.

"I think I'll remain on the ship. Then she can't get away without me." Kirk answered. But when he explained his desire to the purser that worthy replied:

"I'm sorry, but you'll have to arrange that with the agent. We make a charge, you know, just like a hotel."

"I'm going to cable my old man for money."

The officer shook his head with finality. "Nothing doing, Mr. Locke. If you want to stay aboard you'll have to pay in advance. I don't intend to be stuck for your bill."

"All right, then, I shall throw myself upon the mercy of strangers."

Ballard's SNOW LINIMENT
Is the Right Remedy for All Abrasions of the Flesh.
If the wound is cleansed and the liniment applied promptly, the healing process begins at once and the wound heals from the inside outwardly, thus performing a perfect cure that leaves no scar. If the wound heals on the outside too quickly, pus forms under the surface and breaks out into a running sore that is hard to cure and inevitably leaves a bad scar.
Owners of blooded stock prefer this liniment to all others for that reason, and they use it not only on fine animals, but on human flesh, as it does its work quickly and thoroughly.

CITY AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Clark returned today from a week's visit to Seattle and Victoria.

The Port Angeles Commission Co. will buy your cow and calf hides at the very highest prices.

Beginning with Jan. 25th there will be Sunday evening services at St. Andrews church at 7:30. Morning services at eight and eleven.

The Port Angeles Commission Co. quote you prices on ham and bacon, cooked hams, lard, and all packing house products, that cannot be duplicated this side of Seattle.

Mr. Phillips, the promoter of the new bank, came Wednesday of this week to take up his permanent residence in our city. He is pleased to announce the addition of several new names to the list of stock holders and that they expect to be open for business about the middle of February.

The W. L. C. met at the home of Mrs. Hickok, 18 members present. The program consisted of Life of Liszt, Life of Schubert, Schubert's Haunts in Vienna, and instrumental music. The program taking up all the time, current events and roll call were dispensed with. Adjourned to meet with Mrs. Hibbard next Friday.

Deputy Sheriff Garf. Davis returned Sunday morning from Seattle with D. L. Gallagher, charged with grand larceny by check raising last spring. Gallagher at the time was a resident of Sequim. He also made a trip to Seattle Wednesday, returning yesterday with A. E. Cline on the same charge. Both will be given a hearing shortly.

Mrs. Voy of this city had a sister who was injured in a street car collision in Chicago about ten days ago, in which several people were killed and 38 injured. Mrs. Voy was greatly relieved when she received an answer to a message stating her sister was improving.

One of the upper Front street restaurants has a sign out—Wanted, a red-headed girl. It would be interesting possibly to know what special virtues are possessed by the strawberry blonde that the proprietor is so specific as to the maid wanted.

The Royal Order of Moose have changed their place of meeting from Haning Hall to the Odd Fellows hall; they have laso changed the date of holding sessions from Monday to Thursday. The next meeting will be held on the 29th, regular work and initiation.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Treasurer Graves Resigns.

Special committee named to confer with city treasurer reported in the shape of a communication from the treasurer submitting his resignation to take place Feb. 1, or upon appointment and qualifying of his successor. Upon motion of Dustman same was accepted.

Special committee reported team satisfactory and recommended payment. So ordered. Douglas C. French was engaged to drive same at $70 per month.

Shields reported as chairman of special committee to see railroad people re cost of extension of Third st. reported that committee had met with representatives of railroad company and had asked railroad to pay 50 per cent of cost, which he thot would be accepted. No news had been received from headquarters on the report of the conferees and the committee was given time to report further.

East End Improvement.

Resolution of Intention to improve east end was read, together with a protest against such work being done for the reason that the improvement is against the laws of the state, in that it is sought to bunch the streets of the district.

The city attorney here impatiently called attention to his repeated statements that while each street would eventually have to be assessed according to benefits on that particular street, there was no question but that the Resolution of Intention could bunch them to save time and expense, and without adding a penny to the cost of any property. He was sure that signers to protest did not understand this. The matter went over to next meeting.

The city engineer submitted a set of standard specifications for street work, and upon motion of Shields, to save time, same was referred to a committee for report at next meeting

Petitions signed by 74 voters of the Third ward asking the appointment of E. H. Finch to the vacancy in that ward, and by 23 voters asking the appointment of L. J. Leonard were read and filed.

Application of P. F. Harley for appointment to position of city treasurer read, he agreeing to keep office at city hall and to collect light rents

Completion of Power Station.

A letter was read from Expert Godfrey stating that a certain list of equipment would be necessary to complete power station, and that upon assembling of this, work could be done in two days. That rate for power would be taken up with city electrician and committee and committee should be authorized to devise rate sheet. For this latter an appraisal of the light plant should be made. Ref. to com.

A letter to Chn. Dustman of Light Com. was read from L. T. Hazzard of Portland offering his services to complete distributive system for $300. Filed.

A letter was read from the Com. Club explaining the Ritchie bill. Dustman and Bigelow thought that inasmuch as the bill was not authorized by council it should not be paid. Fisher recommended its payment but it got lost during the evening.

Grade Ordinances Referred.

Grade ordinance establishing the grades of the streets in the east end improvement district was introduced by Dustman and referred after reading to the ord. com. and city eng. and atty.

Ord. establishing the grade of C street bet. Fifth and Broadway was introduced by Shields, read twice and referred as above. The grade at Fifth street i s214 feet above datum, and at Broadway 302 feet.

Agreement drafted by city attorney for change of franchise to read low side of transformers instead of high was read and upon motion of Dustman adopted.

With the presentation of the voluminous grade ordinances, Impt. Dist. ordinances and other papers submitted, all of which, and particularly the Impt. Dist. Ord., City Attorney Smith took occasion to state, took an immense amount of study and work to prepare and gave some idea of the great amount of work imposed upon the attorney without assistance.

Resolution of Intention to improve C street was introduced by Shields and hearing set for Feb. 17th after consultation with engineer as to presentation of necessary data.

Harley Elected Treasurer.

Dustman now moved that we proceed to fill vacancies in offices of treasurer and third ward councilman Agreed, but method not agreed. A motion by Dustman that E. H. Finch be named for councilman of Third ward, he having three-fourths at least of the voters of the ward on his petition. Lost, Fisher, Shields and Fleming voting blank.

Bigelow then took a like shot at the treasurer, moving that Harley be named, he having been a candidate and only defeated by a small vote. Lost, 3 to 2, Fleming not voting.

Floyd Hayne named by Dustman with same result. Shields then stated that there were three applicants and moved that council proceed to ballot until a choice was made. This method was adopted and Harley was named for treasurer on the fourth ballot.

However, for councilman things did not go so smooth. The first and second ballots gave three votes to Finch, two for Leonard. The third seventh, twelfth, twenty-second reversed the figures; during the rest of the fifty-eight ballots taken Finch had two all the time and part of the time three votes but could not get the fourth. Leonard kept two most of the time, Clegg, Schweitzer, Ball, Bjornson, Pinyerd, and Paddock received one occasionally. Something after midnight however, after repeated efforts to adjourn, the council gave it up for a week.

Bond of City Engineer Filion was read and approved.

A special meeting was called for Wednesday to meet with an expert and consider methods and cost of raising the Morse concrete building.

THE ATHLETIC CLUB'S FIRST SMOKER

The first smoker given by the new athletic club, at the Opera house Saturday night, went off without a hitch or rough spot, the bouts being individually good, and a spirit of good fellowship prevading. The meeting was opened by a short address by His Honor, Mayor White, who said the club had been organized for clean, manly sport, affording a much needed place for young men to spend their spare hours in the long evenings. The Marine Band entertained with a musical program, and there were two solos. The wrestling matches were good, it being conceded that McDonnell, while unable to put his opponent down on his back, put up the best exhibition of skill. Of the boxing matches that betwen Christopherson and Toots Dorn afforded the most amusement. All the matches were declared draws.

Com., Miss Maude Hoare; Sergeant, Mrs. Lou Gehrke; Captain, Mrs. Phelps; Lady-at-Arms, Miss Sarah Fowler; Sentinel, Mrs. Margaret Porter; Picket, Mrs. LaFlower; Musician, Mrs. Nailor; Record Keeper, Mrs. Lillie D. HIGH SCHOOL

The Freshmen proved themselves jolly entertainers at their Frolic last Friday evening. They began the evening by giving a farce and a pantomine, both of which were laughable and in which the actors played their parts very well. Music was furnished between the acts by Herman Krupp and his small brother who played the violin. After this games were played for a half hour, everyone joining and having a merry time. The boys then found their partners for refreshments, consisting of cake and ice cream. Everyone had a good time and they all agreed that the Freshman party was a great success.

A meeting was held by the Sophomore class last Monday, when they decided to give a Valentine party for the high school on February 13th. Committees were appointed for providing entertainment and refreshments.

From the yelling done by the spectators at the basket ball game on Tuesday, the neighbors must of thot that something very exciting was going on in Athletic hall. And indeed it was exciting. In spite of the many weeks of practice, the girls beat the lady teachers, who had practiced for just one week, by only five points, the score being 11 to 7. Of the six points made by the teachers, five were made by Miss Boughton. Miss MacKechnie played a splendid game as center. Mary Brown certainly surpassed herself by throwing many of the baskets on her side and helping the high school win.

The Senior boys had a fine team, and played a good game, allowing the other boys to make only one basket, which was thrown by Mitchell. Of course, the Seniors piled up their score, the result being 19 to 2, but considering the size and muscle of their team, it was hardly surprising.

The second number on the lecture course is Katherine Ridgeway, the most famous woman lecturer in the country. She will speak in the high school auditorium on Friday, February 6. Tickets will be sold by the students.

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr Dyspeptic, would you not like to feelthat your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Baker, of Battle Creek Mich., is one of them. He says,"I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by all dealers.

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS THURSDAY APPLE DAY

To Create Greater Publicity and the Consumption of "The King of Fruits."

Governor Lister has issued his second annual proclamation naming Thursday, Feb. 5th as Apple Day. The Governor in his proclamation recommends "that on that day the people of the state of Washington, in their homes, at their clubs, in hotels and restaurants, on dining cars and in other places of suitable character, partake of the apple in its natural form, or in the many delicious dishes and delicacies that may be prepared from the apple, by so doing not only assisting in calling attention to the apple industry of the State of Washington, but affording themselves practical proof of the real physical benefits and delights to be had from consumption of the apple." He further recommends "that the commercial organizations of the State of Washington, the railroad companies, and other organizations having for their purpose the dissemination of information and the upbuilding of the commonwealth, join, on that day, in calling the Washington apple to the attention of our own people and also to the attention of the world."

Correspondence received at the office of the Yakima Commercial Club indicates that the Apple Day will be given wider recognition than last year as the states of Idaho and Montana are rejoining in its celebration on February 5th. All railroads, hotels and restaurants are making elaborate preparations for recognizing this event. Merchants are planning decations for their stores and the schools are arranging appropriate exercises for its observance.

TRIBUTE TO THE APPLE

An apple is one of the masterpieces of nature. A vast, complicated interplay of forces worked together to produce it. For years the tree grew from seed to trunk and branches, and then through many months it carried on the secret, subtle chemistry by which it distilled its juicy sweets into its ripened fruit. Bursting into fragrant bloom and bud in May, it then elaborated its sap into the flesh of the apple and flavored it with sugar, spiced it with wine and wrapped it in its thin but tough integument. The breezes fanned it, the showers baptised it, the sun kissed it and the frost mellowed it. It distilled its most delicate flavors from the dew and caught its colors from rainbows and sunsets. Earth and sun watched over it and the solar system cradled it in its care. That apple literally became a center of the universe and all the stars revolved around it. After such wide toil and tender care, with so many virtues and graces lavished upon it, no wonder that it comes to us as one of the choicest gifts of nature. And now it will presently appear on our tables prepared in many appetizing forms, apple sauce, apple butter, stewed and baked, and especially as that universal favorite, apple pie, or even better still, apple dumplings. It will be flavored and spiced so that its very odor will make the mouth water. But why cook an apple? The raw fruit, just as it fell ripe and mellow from the tree and came fresh and crisp from the cool cellar or with the frost of the orchard still upon it, needs no culinary art to improve it. It melts in the mouth and sends its delicious sweet in a stream of exquisite sensations down along the whole digestive tract. A knife spoils it; let it be crushed and crunched in the mouth and then it gives out it richest flavor and yields the greatest satisfaction. The apple is one of the most wholesome of our fruits and has health-giving and medicinal virtues of the greatest value. It starts all the secretions into vigorous action and floods the system with a new tide of life. It is a friend of health and a foe of disease. It is food, tonic and cosmetic all in one. It imparts its own virtues and its wine kindles brilliance in the eyes, and its ruddy colors plant roses in the cheeks. One can hardly eat too many of them, and after the heartiest meal there is always room for at least one apple more. And an apple is a social fruit. It flocks in great multitudes and heaps in the orchard and it draws human beings together in fellowship. Sometimes there is only one thing better than an apple, and that is another apple that is being eaten by a friend. One does not enjoy an apple so well alone; it suggests comradeship and fellowship, and then its colors glow in richer hues and its flesh is more juicy. On a winter evening around the family fireplace it is a means of family unity and grace. Plenty of good apples will help to keep the children at home and in at night. When the neighbors come in, the inevitable basket of apples always puts everybody at ease and in good humor. Among the blessings of the year let us number our great apple crop. Forty million barrels are none too many. They will be poured out upon our people in a rainbow shower and will bring health and gladness into many homes. —The Spy.

IRONDALE STEEL PLANT TO REOPEN

New Capitalists in Control; Declare It Will be Operated Within Sixty Days

The steel plant at Irondale, in the lower Sound country, acquired under foreclosure proceedings by the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York some time ago, has passed into the control and ownership of a group of capitalists who are heavy shareholders in the Pacific Coast Steel Company, owning mills in Seattle and San Francisco.

It will be operated beginning within the next sixty days, not as a townsite or real estate speculative proposition, but simply as a manufacturing plant, until such time as the company decides to locate the work elsewhere.

Official announcement of the transfer of the steel plant was made yesterday by officers of the Occidental Steel Company, which is the newly formed corporation to which the Metropolitan Trust Company transferred the plant at Irondale, and the capital stock of which is now owned by Judge E. M. Wilson, of Seattle and San Francisco, and D. P. Doak, a steel manufacturer and capitalist of the latter city.

The former is president of the Occidental Steel Company, Mr. Doak is vice-president and T. S. Clingan, manager of the Youngstown plant of the Pacific Coast Steel Company, is general manager.

The Irondale plant purchased by the new owners includes only the plantsite of sixteen acres and the plant, including three open hearth steel furnaces and one blast furnace. Only the former will be operated. Also there was included in the deal 3,500tons of pig iron and 20,000 tons of iron ore. The consideration is said to have been approximately $300,000.

The townsite and real estate proposition of the old Western Steel Corporation, founded by James A. Moore and associates, together with the Graham Island properties and other holdings of the Moore concern are still held by the Metropolitan Trust Company.

The plant has a maximum capacity of 150 tons of steel bars and steel shapes per day. No effort will be made to attain this maximum capacity for the present. The plant has been idle for some years, or since the appointment of receivers in an action brought by the Metropolitan Trust Company, of New York, against the Western Steel Corporation and James A. Moore et al.

The officers and owners of the Occidental Steel Company now in possession of the plant are practical steel manufacturers. They own the steel plant at Youngstown, now shut down —and which is not likely to be opened.

Section 2: All local improvements named in said Act shall be ordered only by ordinance, either upon petition or upon resolution therefor as in said act provided, and in such ordinances covering the same it shall be stated whether the cost and expense of the said improvements shall be in whole or in part against the property specially benefitted, and what part, if any, shall be paid by any other than the special fund to be created for the local improvement district.

In case such petition shall be found sufficient, the City Engineer shall transmit to the City Council, such diagram as required by said Section 9. But before said petition is accepted by the City Council, the City Engineer and City Clerk must first ascertain if the signers to such petition are the owners, or agents under written authority of owners, according to the records in the County Auditor's office, of the aggregate amount of a majority of the lineal frontage upon the improvements to be made and of the area within the limits of the assessment district to be created therefor. The City Council may order signatures not signed in ink to be disregarded. No signatures can be withdrawn after the petition has been filed with the City Clerk.
