PORT ANGELES OLYMPIC LEADER

VOL. 29, NO. 16 PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON, FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1914. $1.00 PER YEAR

$11,481 FOR "C" HELD TOO HIGH

Bids Rejected; Grade To Be Changed. Power Rate Established at 6c for Small Motors.

It was after midnight again Tuesday night before the city council adjourned. A somewhat exciting session was held. All members were present.

Street commissioner reported that the Water company had moved its pipes on Peabody street bridge; recommended that street superintendent be empowered to purchase root plow; recommended that $250 be expended on Tenth and Eleventh streets east and west of C. The recommendations were adopted.

The street commissioner also reported assessments on sidewalk, and O K'd the same, and upon motion of Shields same was referred to the Clerk to prepare and certify to treasurer assessment roll for collection.

Bids on C Street Turned Down

Two bids were then read for the improvement of C street from 5th to the Boulevard,both accompanied by checks for 5 per cent.

Cotton & Eagle bid 44c yard for dirt work, 89c for gravel work, with other work necessary, making a total of $11,880.

The bid of A. L. Johnson & Co. was some $400 less, they bidding 42c for dirt, and 85c for gravel, total bid $11,481.

Engineer's estimate was $10,000, and bids were ordered rejected, and engineer directed to revise his grades, it being stated that the grades in a certain locality could be a foot higher, reducing the estimated yardage and still not impair the road. It also came out in the argument that if bonds were guaranteed, a lower bid could be had. Bidders figured at 80c for bonds.

K and C Laid Over

Shields of special committee asked another week in which to report on K and C streets improvements, stating that the committee was loth to report until property owners could reach an agreement. Allowed.

Power Rate Sheet Adopted

City electrician submitted an amended rate sheet for power which was practically the same as the former, viz: First 75 kw 6c; 100 kw 5½c;150 5c; 200 4½c;275 kw 4c; 450 3c and over 450 2½c. Mr. Dustman objected that amount was too high; city electrician held that a person with a 3 hp engine could get the benefit of the 2½c rate and he thought it was very reasonable. He had communicated with several cities the size of Port Angeles, some larger and none had a lower rate. Only Seattle and Tacoma offered a less rate. The rate sheet was adopted, 5 to 2, Dustman and Bigelow voting no.

$60 to Place One Street Light

City electrician reported that it would cost $60 to place light at 7th and Washington streets, Wilcox reported that it would be necessary to have light as it was a very dangerous point, the ditch there being 3 to 9 feet deep and in a shadow, one young man had already fallen in and was crippled for ten days. This ditch gave Shields a chance to say "I told you so," for all agreed that the ditch should never have been dug. The light was ordered placed, and Wilcox moved that the ditch be fixed with box drain and filled; Shields moved to amend that it be referred to street superintendent for report. Carried.

Action against city for payment of claim of W. J. Taylor for services rendered at instigation of marshal, $133, was read and attorney authorized to protect city's interest in court.

Extra Piling Turned Down

A communication was also read from the railroad company by W. Brumfield, its local attorney, asking that in conformity with conference with the council on Monday, that an additional pile be included in the specifications for the work on Railroad avenue between Francis and Oak, also that 18 inch stringers and bracings be placed to make said trestle conform to other being placed to connect therewith. Shields moved that the request be denied. This brought out an extended debate as to what the railroad and committee had agreed to when Front street was given up. Mr. Shank admitted, said Shields, that the question of how many piles or what size caps should be used was not mentioned in the negotiations at all. Fisher followed this with the statement that these questions were of recent origin as shown by the fact that Mr. Erickson had bid on the present 4-pile specifications. Shields stated he had no objections to the plans being amended, with the additional expense borne by the railroad company. The motion to deny the request of the railroad company carried, all voting aye.

Mayor announced appointment of M. P. Jensen as night police vice Fred Pollow resigned. Confirmed. Mr. Jensen was formerly on the Snohomish and the mayor thought he was very fortunate in getting so capable a man.

H. W. Doty and Ed Ramsey asked that certain stumps be taken out of street in front of a new home recently erected on 13th street between Oak and Laurel for the latter. A motion by Fowler to order street superintendent to do the work was lost.

In view of building under a handicap and shortage of room, Charles Morse, constructing the new post office building, asked that he be allowed to blockade alley when necessary. Permission granted.

Wm. Smith of the Gate City Bottling Works granted privilege of removing present building to new location just east of the City hall.

POOR COUNCILMEN GROSSLY ABUSED

Citizens Must Continue to Invest Thousands that Cows May Have Free Pasturage.

The now notorious cow ordinance, permitting each family to have free pasturage for one cow on the city streets, was passed by the council Tuesday night.

Two ordinances or substitutes had been prepared, but only one came to light in the discussion, that to bar the cow from the streets after June 1st, within the limits east of E street. Bigelow offered an amendment that one cow to a family be allowed; seconded by Fleming. It being apparent that the cow would win out, Shields moved to restrict without. Shields moved to restrict within the limits bounded by Tumwater, 8th and Race. Fleming said might as well exclude entirely. Motion lost, Fisher and Shields alone voting for restricted limits. Then came the vote on the Bigelow motion to amend allowing one cow east of E street, carried by same vote.

Shields then moved to have license of $1 per month for first cow and $25 per month for additional cows imposed. Lost, same vote, 5 to 2. Fisher then tried his hand at amending. Said main object was to eliminate from business section; moved cows be barred from territory bounded by Cedar, 6th and Race. This got a recruit, Fowler, making the vote 3 to 4. Motion lost. Shields then moved that restricted district be that within Valley, Third and Albert. Lost. This seemed to give Dustman the needed inspiration to vent his pent-up feelings. He stated that all these motions were makeshifts as was the original motion to amend declared to be illegal by attorney. He had said he would oppose the cow running if this ordinance had been brought in, but he had changed his mind during the week. He, like every other councilman, was trying to do what he could for the benefit of the city, but although neither he nor his coworkers got one cent for the time they spent, they were the butt of ridicule, of ridiculous and absurd abuse by every newspaper in town and particularly one. And that one had the nerve to appear in the council chamber among men he had so grossly abused. He for one did not intend to stand for it and a changed vote was his answer.

This started the ball. Bigelow endorsed Dustman's statements, adding that as to one he did not consider it necessary to answer, considering the source too low and degrading. Wilcox followed, stating

MOOSE MEMORIAL IMPRESSIVE

Flag Decorations and Large Moose Heads Call Forth Much Favorable Comment.

In honor of their departed brothers, the Loyal Order of Moose held Memorial services last Sunday afternoon in the opera house at 2:30. The hall was tastily decorated in red, white and blue, the stars and stripes occupying a prominent place. Entirely covering the side walls were flags of all nations, loaned for the occasion by the boys from the Snohomish, many of whom are Moose.

A large mounted moose head projected from the front of the stage, while on either side were small fir trees brilliant with electric lights. Exactly at 2:30 the large band of Loyal Moose marched into the hall to the strains of martial music furnished by Theo Jensen and Howard Campbell. The invocation was pronounced by Prelate C. A. Petitt after which the audience joined in singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

The vocal solos by Miss Sadie Robertson and Mrs. Minnie Troy, and the quartette," Lead Kindly Light," sung by Mrs. Troy, Miss Robertson, Mr. Wm. Wills and Cecil McNutt, were all very beautiful.

Secretary L. M. Campbell called the roll of the departed Moose brothers, prominent members of the order responding, with a short eulogy to the memory of each. L. M. Long, State Director, being unable to come to Angeles to make the memorial address, sent as his substitute Mr. McDonald of Seattle. His talk was principally about the Moose school and farm at Mooseheart, Illinois, and was very interesting. E. G. Cooley, the superintendent of the school, is one of the most prominent educators in the United States and a strong advocate of practical vocational training.

A violin solo by Theo. Jonsen and a cornet solo by C. Thompson with Howard Campbell accompanist closed the program and the benediction was pronounced by Prelate C. A. Pettit.

MEXICANS WILL UNITE IN COMMON CAUSE.

Yesterday's dispatches from Washington indicate that the United States will be compelled to fight the entire armed forces in Mexico, rebels and federals uniting in a common cause.

The usual formalities incidental to a declaration of war have been performed by Huerta. O'Shaughnessy, America's representative at Mexico City has been handed his passports and the Mexican representative in Washington made a formal demand for his yesterday morning.

General Carranza, at the head of the Constitutionalists, has demanded that the United States withdraw from Vera Cruz and seek reparation for the Tampico insult from the rebel government. It is said the Constitutionalists and Huertaists at Tampico have united to oppose American operations. Washington is meeting the crisis by again placing an embargo on the exportation of arms to the rebels and planning for the dispatch of a large force to guard the various border states.

AMERICA'S CLEANEST SPORT.

Baseball is now an assured success under the management of our old base ball fan E. W. Merrill as manager, and "Muck the Tailor" as assistant manager. These gentlemen expect the hearty support of all the business houses, not only financially but morally. You will not have a chance to forget about baseball for the management is going to give the city a team you will be proud of.

MAYOR GILL SPEAKER AT SEQUIM'S MAYDAY

Celebration Next Friday Will Be on Greater Scale thanEver Before Attempted at Sequim.

As so many persons wonder why we hold our Celebration on May 1st, thus leading in the out door gatherings so numerous during the summer and fall, it may be well to go into history of this May Day merrymaking which has become so popular thruout the Olympic Peninsula.

At one time, what is now known as Sequim Prairie was about as worthless a stretch of land as could be found in this state as it produced one scant crop of grass, good for pasture only, lasting until late in the spring, when the soil dried out so there was no possible chance for anything green to sustain life; no grain, vegetables or crops of any kind could be raised.

Early in 1895 a few land owners joined forces and in spite of the ever present criticism handed out in such generous quantities to the pioneers in all undertakings of this kind, they put thru a canal over three and one-half miles in length thru which water could be taken from the Dungeness river and spread out over this worthless waste. On May 1st, 1895, the water was turned into this canal and with it came bountiful crops, with never an off season, and these pioneers found themselves the owners of the finest kind of wealth producing lands.

Other irrigation canals followed, until today Sequim is in the center of the richest farming community on Puget S und where over forty thousand acres are susceptible to irrigation with but a few thousand acres at present improved. The balance of this land will be covered with irrigation canals in a few years and Sequim will then be the center of the most highly improved and pro-

PORT ANGELES' BIG MILL.

(Editorial in Seattle Times, April 20.)

Another evidence that the Olympic Peninsula is wide awake is afforded by the opening of the big Earles sawmill in Port Angeles, one of the largest enterprises of the kind in the world.

It has a strategic location, with an immense body of splendid timber within easy reach, with the ocean in front, and rail transporation centering in the leading city on the Straits.

Therefore the product of the Earles mill will reach out to all parts of the globe. The launching and completion of this project marks an era in the industrial development of the state, in particular of the fertile Olympic Peninsula.

SOLDUC SPRINGS INVITING RESORT

Many Thousands Expended to Make Route Pleasant to Tourists Visiting the West.

To estimate in dollars and cents the value of scenery and natural grandeur of the Pacific Northwest is indeed out of the question, but certain it is that the Northwest states are in more advanced position than ever before in their history to realize on the magnificent heritage that represents supreme efforts of creation.

The tourist and the world traveler may journey with ease and comfort among a wonderous assembly of magnificent scenery.

Time was when Yellowstone park was the one loadstone that drew thousands of visitors to the West to marvel at its geysers and stand amazed at nature's strange contortions; then these travelers journeyed farther and found in Mount Rainier's heights of superb beauty, a scene worth all the trip across the continent. Today Mount Rainier is one of America's greatest tourist attractions, and is advertised everywhere.

Yet Another Attraction.

Then came Glacier national park, the discovery of Louis W. Hill, and the Great Northern railway, and Mr. Hill is himself devoting to this newest national playground all the force of his great organization. The park this year will draw mutitudes westward, and on to see the beauties of Puget Sound and the far Northwest.

The Rockies have their playfield in Glacier park; the Cascades in Mount Rainier national park, and the last of the Northwest's mountain ranges—the Olympics—has now been provided with a resort of peculiar and charming beauty in Sol Duc Hot Springs, in the very heart of the Olympic vastness. Michael Earles, one of the most notable figures in the Northwest timber world, with his associates, has expended upwards of $600,000 to place at Sol Duc Hot Springs a resort that might justly be called the Carlsbad of America, and would serve as a worthy addition to the other magnificent parks and playgrounds that are annually bringing to the Northwest such increasing numbers of travelers.

A Gift From Above.

Generations ago the Indians discovered Sol Duc Hot Springs, hidden far back of Lake Crescent, and close beside Mount Olympus, the most majestic and towering of all the Olympic range. The redmen parted with their secret grudgingly, for the healing waters they regarded as a gift from the Great Father to them alone.

The main buildings of the Sol Duc resort were completed only two years ago, and last season saw many additions and improvements, but the season that is just opening sees still more changes and improvements, adding to the conveniences and amusement attractions. Mr. Earles spent $70,000 to complete the macadam roadway that leads from Lake Crescent to the Hot Springs, a distance of about fifteen miles. From Port Angeles, on the Straits of Juan de Fuca—the city laid out by the federal government in President Lincoln's administration—to Lake Crescent is one of the finest automobile highways in the West, and the miniature voyage on Lake Crescent connecting the two highways is one of the joys of the Sol Duc trip.

Ideal for Motorists.

Some time in July automobilists will be able to motor right through to Lake Crescent, ferry their machines to the opposite end of the Lake, and in an hour reach Sol Duc. Later in the season they may ride in their machines on westward to the Pacific ocean, giving to Seattle and the Puget sound cities one of the most magnificent automobile trips on the continent.

Work is proceeding on the last link of the automobile roadway from Seattle to Lake Crescent—that stretch along Hood canal that is one of the new state highways. The Seattle Automobile Club is eagerly awaiting the day when this splendid road will be opened, and will conduct a tour through to the lake.

The value of all these Northwest pleasure resorts and the connecting lines of automobile highways extending from Mexico on the south to British Columbia on the north, and eastward eventually to the great lakes, is already evident, but eventually will be felt many times over throughout the Upper Pacific coast states. The time is not far away when the Northwest will stand equal as a playground with the Southern states that have such an advantage in the start in the race.—Seattle P. I.

STREET WORK MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Day & Abbott Preparing for Concrete Addition 47 by 80, on West Side of Merchants.

The merchants along north Front street, east of Laurel, who are attempting to do business behind a twelve-foot high board fence, built along the front edge of their sidewalk are beginning to realize something of what the regrade means. Yet they are bearing up fairly well, consoling themselves with the tho't that others will soon be in the same fix.

Delay in the delivery of piling and gravel has held up portions of the work this week, tho' the activity has been greater in other lines. The largest crew has been employed on the Lincoln street sewer, where the creek has been piped and flumed and big concrete foundations put in for the sewer. Additional trenches for retaining wall foundations have been dug, and forms built in front of the Aldwell block, as well as along Front street. Preliminary work is already a long ways ahead of the concrete gang.

The pumping machine is in place and pipe fittings under way, the pipe line being run to the top of Front street hill. Piling has at last been received and there will be no further delay in that line.

Raising of business buildings will be a popular industry from this time on, now that C. A. Spinney has demonstrated, in the case of the creamery building, how easily it is done. The Phelps Dry Goods Co. is the next firm to go skyward, work having been commenced there two or three days ago. Mr. Spinney will also raise the opera house block and several of the other buildings in the Aldwell lists.

Messrs. Day & Abbott secured permission from the council Tuesday to move the Merchants hotel main building flush with the south and east lines of the block, or some ten feet east and four feet south of the present location, that they may erect a concrete addition 47x80, two stories, with south and west walls of concrete and north of corrugated iron.

FOR NAPOLEON OF FRANCE

Another Noted Klein Production to Be Shown at the Dream Tonight

One of the surest ways of impressing historical facts on the minds of readers, students and amusement seekers is through the avenue of romance. That Mr. George Kleine has recognized this fact is evidenced particularly in his latest big photo drama production "For Napoleon and France," which will be the attraction at the Dream Theatre for one day, this Friday.

Although replete with spectacular battle scenes that cannot fail to enthrall the auditors, they but form the background for the romance that predominates. The story of this great photodrama relates that Capt. Larive, decorated for valor, a hero in the eyes of his country, and the favorite of Napoleon, become the lion of the French Court—then steeped in immorality where intrigue and falsity were apparently the prime virtues.

Madame De Longueville, a court beauty of wondrous charm and a toast not only for France but the entire world, turns his head temporarily by her facinating wiles. She e'en goes so far as to attempt to induce him to disobey military orders, but the infatuated youth is saved from this disgrace through the services of his sister. Vengeance is

U. S. MARINES OCCUPY VERA CRUZ

Extracts From Brief Address Asking Support of Congress in Delicate Situation.

Though the United States has not actually declared war against Mexico, Vera Cruz was occupied Wednesday and the custom house taken over, four Americans being killed and twenty-one wounded in the fight. American battleships are at anchor off Tampico and other Mexican ports.

Pursuing his announced intention of Saturday, when he gave Huerta until Sunday evening to comply with the demand for a twenty-one gun salute, President Wilson went before congress Monday and asked approval for the use of armed forces to enforce the country's demands. Congress immediately passed a volunteer bill, which calls into service the militia of the country, and appropriated $50,000,000 to be used in prosecuting the campaign. Orders were sent out setting the army and navy in motion to enforce the president's orders. Congress has passed a resolution declaring the President "is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demand for the unequivocal amends for the affronts and indignities against the United States" in Mexico. In response to a brief message sent to Congress Wednesday, recommending that in view of the exigency created by the existing situation, means be provided to bring to their homes American citizens $500,000 was appropriated.

Previous to the occupation of Vera Cruz, Admiral Fletcher made a demand thru the consul for its surrender. General Maas declined to accede to the demand and marines were sent off from the transport Prairie, the Florida and Utah. General Maas, who concentrated his men along the approaches to the central plaza, challenged the advance with the first shots and firing soon became general, the guns of the Prairie also being brought into action. The guns and ammunition being brought to Vera Cruz in the German ship Ypiranga, which occasioned the seizure of the custom house in order to prevent their being landed, will be returned to the manufacturers.

The President's address to Congress Monday afternoon was brief and reviewed the entire situation that had given rise to his decision that drastic steps were necessary. He said:

"Gentlemen of the Congress: It is my duty to call your attention to a situation which has arisen in our dealings with General Victoriano Huerta at Mexico City, which calls for action,, and to ask your advice and cooperation in acting on it.

"On the 9th of April, a paymaster of the U. S. S. Dolphin landed at the Iturbide Bridge landing at Tampico, with a whaleboat and a boat's crew to take off certain supplies needed by his ship and while engaged in loading the boat, was arrested by an officer and squad of men of the army of General Huerta.

"Neither the paymaster nor any of the boat's crew was armed. Two of the men were in the boat when the arrest took place and were obliged to leave it and submit to be taken into custody, notwithstanding the fact that the boat carried, both at her bow and at her stern, the flag of the United States.

"The officer who made the arrest was proceeding up one of the streets of the town with his prisoners when met by an officer of higher authority, who ordered him to return to the landing and await orders, and within an hour and a half from the time of arrest, orders were received from the commander of the Huerta forces at Tampico for the release of the paymaster and his men.

"The release was followed by apologies from the commander and an expression of regret by Gen. Huerta himself. General Huerta urged that martial law obtained at the time at Tampico, that orders had been issued that no one should be allowed to land at Iturbide bridge, and that our sailors had no right to land there.

"Our naval commanders at the port had not been notified of any such prohibition, and even if they had been, the only justifiable course open to the local authorities would have been to request the paymaster and his crew to withdraw and to lodge a protest with the commanding officer of the fleet.

"Admiral Mayo regarded the arrest as so serious an affront that he was not satisfied with the apologies offered but demanded that the flag of the United States be saluted with special ceremony by the military commander of the port.

"The incident cannot be regarded as a trival one, especially as two of the men arrested were taken from the boat itself—that is to say, from the territory of the United States, but had it stood by itself, it might have been attributed to the ignorance of arrogance of a single officer. Unfortunately, it was not an isolated case.

"A series of incidents have recently occurred which can not but create the impression that the representives of General Huerta were willing to go out of their way to show disregard for the dignity and rights of this government and felt perfectly safe in doing what they pleased, making free to show in many ways their irritation and contempt.

"The manifest danger of such a situation was that such offences might grow from bad to worse until something happened of so gross and intolerable a sort as to lead directly and inevitably to armed conflict.

"It was necessary that the apologies of General Huerta and his representatives should go much further, that they should be such as to attract the attention of he whole population to their significance and such as to impress on General Huerta himself the necessity of seeing to it that no further occasion for explanations and professed regrets should aise.

"I therefore, felt it my duty to sustain Admiral Mayo in the whole of his demand and to insist that the flag of the United States should be saluted in such a way as to indicate a new spirit and attitude on the part of the Huertists."

State Forester and Fire Warden E. W. Ferris is seeking the co-operation of school children, campers and the public generally, to assist his department in keeping down the fire loss during the coming season. Teachers in all public schools have been asked to take up, once each week, with the pupils, the necessity of guarding against forest fires, and thus protecting the state timber that is one of the main assets of the public school system. Mrs. Josephine Preston, state superintendent of public instruction, is supporting this movement.

An important conference in volving express rates on commodities in this state is slated for Olympia, April 23, by the public service commission. E. W. Bennett, superintendent of the Northern Express company at St. Paul, asked for the conference, indicating that it is the intention of the companies to simplify express tariffs into one comprehensive tariff that will cover, not only the articles now handled under the distance tariffs, but will also eliminate all the special commodity rates.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Messrs. A. L. Johnson & Co. asked sanction of city to subletting of contract for Third street improvement to Ferch & Gass. Permission of onding company to award was granted but the council ordered the request simply filed, presumably on the ground that the original contractors could sub-let as they pleased, but they would be held on original contract and bond for performance.

The Aspey-Shearer incident, in which Aspey alleged in an affidavit that Shearer as manager of the employment bureau had represented to him that he was to get a position at Sol Duc Hot Springs as carpenter's helper to work nine hours and six days, finding on his arrival that he would have to work ten hours and 7 days a week. was brought up. Letters from the superintendent at the Springs were read, stating,summed up, that such as Aspey would not be satisfactory if worked 16 hours a day. Councilman Wilcox, however, endorsed Aspey as a good workman, and it was decided that the case would go over until the first meeting in May, when corroborative evidence would be forthcoming.

City engineer was authorized to purchase a level and rod at a cost of $102.

Fisher called attention to the fact that Olympic Power Co. was about to string wires across city and moved that insulated wire be used. This brought on a discussion between Dustman & Fisher in which some feeling was manifest. On roll call the motion was lost, Dustman, Bigelow Wilcox and Fowler voting no.

Ordinance committee reported back to council without recommendation ordinance appropriating money from the current expense fund to pay assessments on government property in block 32. The ordinance was amended and upon motion of Dustman and Shields to read that same was simply an advancement, to be returned from the local improvement district funds with other moneys advanced. The ordinance was then adopted 6 to 1, Shields not voting.

Undertaker Cox was introduced by the Cemetery committee and stated that the record of graves sold was not in accord with the record at the cemetery, and after reciting methods used, said he thought it would be a good idea to have the records checked so that the care taker's record would agree with the clerk's. It was ordered.

Mayor White called attention to the need of a sewer to drain city property, also to fact that a sewer is to be put in alley between Front and First streets and suggested possible connection therewith. Referred to street committee and engineer.

Fire, light and water committee reported recommending that the city jail be simply repaired at a cost o $30 at this time. Accepted.

Shields called attention to a judgment being taken against the city for $2,400 and wanted to know wha was being done by city attorney. Attorney stated that he was working with lumber company in endeavor to have execution issued against some property of defendent Young, of Young & Denio, contractors.

Dustman stated that as the East End improvement had fallen down it would be necessary to have Front street east put in repair. It is the worst piece of road between this city and Sequim, he stated. He had taken the matter with the county, and thought there would be some money available for city work. He moved that a committee of two be named to take up the matter with the board at next meeting in May. Carried. Dustman and Shields named.

Shields thought the dedication of Lincoln street through the Court house block should be attended to and he and Fisher were named a committee to get a deed or dedication from the county. Council then adjourned.

TO FORBID AUTOMOBILES.

"Former Tax Commissioner Tom Rockwell thinks that the high taxes are largely due to the good roads, which have been forced on the people by the automobilists. It is understood that Mr. Rockwell is preparing a bill which he will submit to the next legislature which will forbid people to buy automobiles and impose a penalty on farmers for using the roads. We favor the bill but we think it would be better if t were amended to require that candidates for office shall walk." —North Yakima Republic.

CAN SELL DOLLY VARDENS

State Game Warden Rules They Are Marketable Fish.

As a result of a shipment of Dolly Varden trout arriving at Seattle from Alaska, the question was raised as to whether they could be legally sold. Game Warden Reif, of King county, issued an order prohibiting their sale. An appeal was taken to State Game Warden L. H. Darwin, who ruled that the law prohibiting the sale of game fish did not include this particular species of trout. The Dolly Varden trout, according to Mr. Darwin, is the greatest enemy of the young salmon that there is, and for that reason is especially excepted from the statute.

A toast for Hi Gill: Sequim, the wettest, dryest, and most prosperous town in Clallam county!

As a general thing, we get just about what we pay for in this world, whether in quality of goods or ability of service. The cow councilman are no exception to the rule.

Port Angeles is going to be as dead as a dry town next Friday, when everyone who can get away will be in attendance at the May Day celebration at Sequim.

"How do you like your new home?" a friend asked a man who had recently moved onto Pine Hill. "Pretty well," "Have you called on your neighbors yet?" "No," the newcomer admitted, "I haven't. But I'm going to if the councilmen's cows stand around on my sidewalk much longer."

A. A. Anderson, one of the most prominent timber men in the state, died at New York Monday. He was returning from an European trip. Mr. Anderson was an owner of the Discovery mill property and also owned in this county a farm of 800 acres, lying between Dungeness and Port Williams, where he built a fine country residence.

There is real merit in the suggestion of No. 1156, an inmate of the State Reformatory, published in another column. While Clallam county has been free from prosecutors who were out to make a record for themselves, there is little doubt but that innocent men are often railroaded thru and their lives blighted by overzealous officials.

The open air concert given by the band boys last evening was received with real pleasure by all those so fortunate to be on the street at the time. This is one organization that should be encouraged in every way, for there is no question but that the city is fortunate in having musicians of talent and a band of which they may well be proud.

Another proof of the old adage that a sucker is born every minute came to light Wednesday, when an Oregon gentleman, claiming he had traded $1500 worth of property for four fine business or residence lots in Angeles, called at the auditor's office for further information concerning them. They are tax title lots, said to have been owned by C. C. Henry at one time, and are located in Leibs' addition, out in the brush a few miles, more or less, east of town. According to what will be recognized as a liberal estimate, made by Deputy Auditor Smith, the total value of the four will approach $16. If people will indulge in their boyhood games of trading with their hands behind their backs, they cannot kick if they play losers.

Sequim proposes to show Angeles this year how to pull off a really first class celebration and that without the aid of street fakirs and gamblers.

THE LAUREL STREET POSTER.

After heaping condemnation on the bill boards as a public nuisance for disfiguring our streets, we are forced to bow in admiration to the well-executed lithograph at the foot of the Laurel street zigzag. It represents at one end our Divine Lord blessing children and at the other a church toward the open door of which are trooping happy boys and girls. "Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven," and "Take your children to church. Give them the right start" are the inscriptions on the poster. This is the third of a series of lithographs printed and posted by the Poster Advertising Co. The first one appeared about two weeks before Christmas representing the nativity; the second poster pictured General Grant's career. The Association says, "No other organization or movement is back of this; we merely want to do our share in this way to stop as best we can by illustrated lessons the disintegration that threatens the childhood of the big modern city," and "it is a campaign for the uplift of children throughout the country." 7,500 of these pictures were distributed at a cost of more than $10,000 to the 3000 members of the association in this country and Canada.

As many of the posters that meet the eye nowadays are far from edifying, these "illustrated lessons" are particularly refreshing. Look at the picture, it is an eloquent sermon.

Parents and all those interested in our schools are urged to attend the Parent-Teachers meeting at the H. S. auditorium tonight. The subject for discussion will be what steps had better be taken to provide for the overcrowded condition of our schools and to talk over plans for changing the course of study next year. S. E. Stakemiller has prepared a paper as requested, giving an account of the school finances for the past two years. Miss Wiggins will entertain with a reading.

Mrs. Menary is advertising her place for sale, thinking of going down into the "promised land" in Oregon. Being 130 miles from a railroad, it will probably be some years before the advance of civilization demands the exclusion of cows that shade trees may be planted and streets and lawns improved. Here's hoping that two or three of our cow councilmen may catch the Oregon back woods fever.

Were it not for a suspicion that the Bill Poster Ass'n. is thereby endeavoring to divert well-merited criticism from its cigarette, liquor and city department store posters, we could better appreciate that beautiful poster on the boards that disfigure the Laurel street zig-zag.

The man who attempts to save the regular dealer's small percentage in a real estate buy, often realizes when too late that he has been pound foolish.

REBEKAHS HOLD SEMI-ANNUAL DISTRICT MEETING

Silver Cup Went to Oak Harbor Representative, as Courtesy to Visiting Member

Rebekah meeting of District No. 21, composed of the following lodges, Port Townsend, Coupeville, Oak Harbor, Sequim, Forks and Port Angeles convened at I. O. O. F. hall in Port Angeles Wednesday, April 22. Port Townsend was represented by five members, Oak Harbor one, and Sequim, our youngest lodge, by twenty-five, the other two lodges having no representatives. The visitors were entertained at a six o'clock dinner at the Olympic Hotel and from there repaired to the hall where Mountain View lodge of Port Angeles held the regular meeting at which six candidates were initiated into the Rebekah Degree in a most commendable manner by the Degree Staff of that lodge, thus bringing our membership up to one hundred and twenty-three; lodge closed and the regular semi-annual district meeting opened. The address of welcome was given by Dolly McRoberts and the response by Sister Mice of Port Townsend. The unwritten work was delivered by Sister Balch of Sequim. Exemplification of P. W. by our Assembly President Iola Campbell and Sadie Brownrigg of Port Angeles. In the contest of V. G. charge for the silver cup which Mt. View has held for the past six months, the following participated: Sister Mice, of Sequim; Martha Lundquist, of Oak Harbor, and Ruth Burgman, of Angeles. The decision rendered by the judges was that Lundquist and Burgman were both perfect and awarded the cup to Lundquist of the visiting lodge. After the usual amount of "speechifying" the meeting closed and all who had time for an early breakfast repaired to the dining room, where a capable committee had prepared an appetizing luncheon.

Our President had just returned from a visit to Forks lodge and feels that since surviving that perilous trip she can face most any emergency and might volunteer to go to Mexico. The next District meeting will be held at Port Townsend October 13, 1914.

then the sole desire of the adventuress. Her plans for reprisal are fairly successful and death faces the heroic young soldier. Napoleon's aid is secured through the good offices of the devoted sister of the young captain. His restoration to the favor of the emperor and the arms of his sister and his long lost father, who, though he knew it not, had sentenced his son to death, are dramatically portrayed events that bring down the curtain on this charming romance.

THE CALICO BALL

The Calico Ball given last Friday evening at the Olympic Hotel by the Women's Auxiliary to the Commercial Club was not as much of a financial success as the ladies had hoped for. Raising money for a public library seems motive enough to have brought out all our citizens, but several other dances during the week and some misunderstanding as to lunch boxes and dresses kept away many. However, those who did attend enjoyed a most delightful evening's pleasure and from a social standpoint the calico ball was a splendid success and about forty-five dollars was cleared to be added to the library fund. The ladies will have to work hard to pay the heavy assessments against the lot donated by C. J. Farmer for the library site, and they hope whatever entertainments they give in the future will be generously patronized by our citizens. A good public library is one of the most valuable assets of a city, and we hope another year will put us in a position to ask for a gift from Carnegie. Through the press the ladies wish to extend a hearty vote of thanks to John Cain for the use of the Olympic Hotel, to Mr. Hancock, manager of the dining room who threw it open for the occasion and assisted the ladies in various ways, and to the National Grocery Co. of Seattle who donated the excellent Reliance brand of coffee, through the courtesy of their traveling salesman, R. G. Trumbull, which was pronounced the best ever, as prepared by Mr. Hancock, also the Dream and Star theatre companies and the local newspapers, for their free advertisments.

Mrs. Leonard Smith, formerly one of the proprietors of The Little Shop, which set up the finest meals of any restaurant in town, announces in the columns of this paper that she would like to work up a business as caterer and solicits the patronage of the ladies who entertain.

Mrs. Smith is known as an expert in making many of the fancy dishes and salads which seem so difficult to ordinary housewives, so her assistance will be found valuable and her prices reasonable.

Mrs. Elmer Fisher delightfully entertained a party of little girls Monday afternoon in honor of the twelfth birthday of little Miss Fairservice who makes her home with them while attending school. Games of various kinds and a lovely birthday supper made the time pass all too quickly.

If you want the official city news you can get it in the Olympic-Leader, the official city paper.

FOR JUSTICE TO THE UNFORTUNATE

A Meritorious Suggestion by An Inmate of the Monroe State Reformatory.

There are forty nine prosecuting attorneys in the State of Washington. They are more or less efficient. Their sworn duty is to see that society is protected from any further acts of wrongdoers' whenever the latter are apprehended regularly and brought to justice. They are aided in this work by scores of deputy prosecutors, whose duty is similar to that of their respective chiefs.

Thus, society is at once ably and well protected. The court-mills of the Commonwealth everlastingly grind, sure and slow, and yet, in this great state, there is not one attorney whose sworn duty it should be to see that in the legal-grist there is no injustice meted out to some poor unfortunate committed to the institutions at Monroe or Walla Walla and fi there is, take the necessary steps to remedy the miscarriage of justice, without expense to the unfortunate in question, by the exercise of executive clemency in the grant of a pardon, either absolute or conditional, a parole or leave of absence.

Without question, there are men in this institution and at Walla Walla, who are entitled to prompt liberation in any one of the three ways just mentioned, if the true facts surrounding their cases were known. Lack of money, relatives and friends, handicap many. Many illuminating details regarding unfortunates cannot be ascertained quickly by the authorities of the institution who are busy preparing inmates for release on parole every quarter year. Their time is more than filled with attention to the men who have served their time and are ready to go. In deserving and unsual cases where some reason for an investigation is only too self-evident or is made apparent from outside sources, it should be the duty of a special assistant in the attorney general's office to conduct an inquiry and make a prompt and complete report to the end that men might be liberated in such cases as proper cause is shown.

There are men in this institution and probably at Walla Walla, who if all the facts were known, have no right to be inside the walls. They may have been the victims of circumstantial evidence or of deliberately "framed" evidence . They may have been the victims of the zeal of some of the more or less efficient forty nine prosecuting attorneys or their corps of assistant prosecutors, in striving to make a record of convictions, despite the fact that their sworn duty is to seek acquitals as readily as convictions.

Washington should have a special assistant attorney general.

It should have him at once.

His duties should be confined solely to his investigations and reports on cases in this institution and the one at Walla Walla.

He will have plenty to keep him occupied.

It is not asking too much of the taxpayers of the state that they pay one man to see that no intentional wrong is done to anyone within the borders of their big, progressive state by any overzealous prosecutor.

No matter what the cost, no innocent person should be forced to bear the burden of unjust confinement, no matter how legal his committment, may have been.

While Mr. Charles Vasaly, chairman of the Minnesota State Board of Control, and a member of the board of parole, is agitating for such an official in his state, let Washington take the initiative and set an example in this regard, which shall be in keeping with the advanced and progressive treatment of inmates of state institutions, advocated and being put into practice with such good results by the present administration.

It will be a step in the right direction. It will be a step towards the election of real public defenders, chosen to oppose prosecuting attorneys, in the defense of those charged with wrongdoing, thus abolishing the time honored system of appointing lawyers to defend persons without means, in most instances, lawyers who realize that if they do not "play ball" with the prosecutor and permit him to score a conviction, they will not again be selected to receive a fee for such services from the county in a hurry. The day of such railroading lawyers for the defense, in reality nothing more than first class assistant prosecutors, is fast drawing to a close.

What travesties are enacted in the guise of that blind goddess, Justice!

Wake up, Washington! Give us such an assistant attorney general soon, is our earnest prayer!

No. 1156.

FIFTEEN YEAR LEASE OF PT. T. S. RAILWAY.

According to a statement made by C. J. Erickson, who is building the new line of railroad on the Peninsula, to a business man of this city in Seattle Wednesday, the work on that road will proceed diligently. The force of men will in a short time be more than doubled. Mr. Erickson is quoted as saying that it is the intention of the company to lose no time and that trains will in all probablity be running into Port Townsend at the end of the present year. It is understood that arrangements have been about completed for a fifteen year lease of the Port Townsend Southern road. This will do away with any possibility of the eastern terminus of the road being at any other point than Port Townsend. Indeed, no effort has ever been made to secure a foot of right of way in this county east of the tracks of the Port Townsend Southern railroad, despite the fact that surveys were made for a line to Oak Bay. Those who have been watching progress of events for more than a year past have been convinced that no other plan would be adopted than the one now contemplated, and this summary of the situation is being borne out by the latest developments. — Port Townsend Leader.

In a land locked lake, thirty-two miles from North Yakima, the game warden of that country has planted 54,000 "silver trout" rrom the Spokane hatchery. It is claimed that silver trout are in reality sockeye salmon, but after obtaining good results last year in the planting of a small number of these fish in the Bumping Lake reservoir, it is believed they can be successfully propogated in this lake, which is fed by a cold spring, is deep and clear, with rocky sides, and the fish can be kept in Yakima county.

Ordinance No. 443.

An ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting Seattle, Port Angeles and Lake Crescent Railway, its successors or assigns, the right, privilege and authority to locate, construct, maintain and operate railway tracks and all telegraph and telephone lines necessary or convenient to the location of its railway in, along, upon and over certain streets, avenues, alleys and public places in the city of Port Angeles."

The city council of the city of Port Angeles do ordain as follows:

Section 1. The city of Port Angeles, Clallam County, Washington, does hereby grant to Seattle, Port Angeles and Lake Crescent Railway, its successors or assigns, in perpetuity, the right, privilege and authority to lay down, construct, maintain and operate one or more standard gauge railway tracks for the transportation of freight and passengers, together with all needful crossovers and connections between any of said tracks, and all necessary side or spur tracks, turnouts, yard tracks or connecting tracks, and all such telegraph and telephone lines necessary or convenient to the operation of its railway in, over, upon and along the following described streets, avenues, alleys and public ways:

Section 2. Beginning at a point on Third Street, where it intersects the east marginal line of Tract "A" of James Sampson's Donation Land Claim; thence westerly over Tracts A, B, C and D of said Land Claim along that portion of Third Street as the same is now or may hereafter be extended; thence northwesterly along Third Street north, being hat portion of Tracts D, E and F of James Sampson's Donation Land Claim as were dedicated to the public; thence continuing northwesterly crossing K and L Street, also crossing First Street and the alley in Block one hundred thirty-seven (137,) and Front Street and the alley in Block one hundred thirty-six (136) and Georgiana Street; thence northerly to the city limits.

Section3. The construction and operation of a single track under this ordinance shall not be construed as a waiver or abandonment of the right to construct and operate additional tracks thereafter. All of said rights, privileges and authorities are hereby granted subject to all conditions, restrictions, specifications and requirements in this ordinance expressed.

Section 4. The grant in this ordinance contained is made expressly subject to the rights of the city of Port Angeles to retain the same control of the streets, avenues and alleys in, along, across and upon which railway track or tracks shall be laid down as over other streets, avenues and alleys in said city, and said city shall have the right at all times by general ordinance to regulate the speed of locomotives and trains within the limits of the right of way herein granted and a maximum period of time for which such locomotives, cars and trains shall be allowed to blockade travel along and across the streets embraced in this grant or intersecting streets, and shall have such further control and police power over such right of way as the city ordinances now or hereafter permit; and the city reserves to itself and its grantees the right to carry all water mains, sewer mains, gas pipes, wires, conduits, and other public utilities underneath, or wires above, any or all of the tracks herein authorized, which rights shall be exercised, however, so as not to interfere with the practical use of said tracks and so as to leave the right of way occupied thereby restored to as good condition as it was prior to any exercise of such rights by said city.

Section 5. The said grantee, Seattle, Port Angeles and Lake Crescent Railway, its successors or assigns, in and by accepting grants, privileges and benefits conferred by this ordinance convenants for itself, its successors or assigns with the city of Port Angeles that it will at all times keep and save harmless the said city of Port Angeles from and against all liability, loss, cost, damage or expense which may at any time arise, or occur, by reason of said grantee's appropriation of any real estate, or other property, for the right of way or other purposes by reason of the construction, maintenance, operation or running of the cars of said Seattle, Port Angeles and Lake Crescent Railway, its successors or assigns, along any of said streets, avenues, alleys and public places, or by reason of anything that may be done by said grantee, its successors or assigns, and shall defend any and all actions arising in relation thereto; provided, that the grantor, its successors or assigns, in all instances where the city of Port Angeles seeks to hold said grantee, its successors or assigns, liable hereunder, shall notify the said grantee, its successors or assigns in writing and give it or them an opportunity to defend any and all such litigation.

Section 6. That whenever said city of Port Angeles shall cause the co-terminus portion of any street upon which the said Seattle, Port Angeles and Lake Crescent Railway, its successors or assigns, shall have constructed a railway under the provisions hereof, to be graded, the said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall change or alter the grade of its tracks co-terminus with such street grade and shall, at its own cost and expense grade all the space then in use and covered by such railway and for one foot on each side thereof, so as to conform to the grade of such street as established and graded by the city of Port Angeles; provided however, that such alterations shall not interfere with the practical operation of said railway; and whenever the city of Port Angeles shall cause to be paved or planked the co-terminus portion of any street upon which the grantee, its successors or assigns, shall have constructed a railway under the provisions hereof, the grantee, its successors or assigns, shall pave, or plank, as the case may be, at its own cost or expense, the space between its tracks and for one foot on either side thereof; the paving or planking to be done by the grantee, its successors or assigns, to conform to the paving or planking done by the city of Port Angeles.

Section 7. Nothing herein shall be construed to prevent the city of Port Angeles from extending any street unto, over or across the right of way hereinbefore described.

Section 8. That in the use of the tracks authorized by this ordinance said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall have the right to use electric, steam or other motive power as it or they shall deem suitable, subject to the lawful and reasonable control and regulations of the City of Port Angeles.

Section 9. That the right of way and all the rights, privileges and authorities granted by this ordinance, and all benefits hereof, shall be assignable by said grantee, its successors or assigns, as it or they may at any time see fit, either as an entirety, or as respects any one or more of the tracks or parts of tracks embraced within the scope of this grant; provided, that written notice of any or all of such assignments shall be filed with the city clerk of the city of Port Angeles within thirty (30) days thereafter.

Section 10. Said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall within sixty (60) days after the passage of this ordinance file with the clerk of the city of Port Angeles, its written acceptance thereof, duly executed by said grantee, its successors or assigns, and until the filing of such acceptance said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall not be entitled to any of the rights, benefits or privileges herein mentioned.

Section 11. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on and after its passage and publication as required by law.

CHAPTER XIX.

"What About Me?"

KIRK replied dryly, looking the Spaniard over with cold blue eyes. "No! I think you've gone about far enough."

"You riffuse!" exclaimed Ramon triumphantly.

"Look here!" said Kirk. "I've had enough of this." He advanced threateningly, and the Spaniard nervously gave way. "I don't fight duels. It's against the law. In my country it's a crime to kill a man in cold blood, and we don't tie a fellow up and beat him when he's helpless and then offer him the honorable satisfaction of either committing murder or being killed. They're not wearing duels this season." His hands clinched involuntarily. "I don't want to hurt you, Alfarez, but I may not be able to help it if you don't keep out of my way."

He left the fiery little Panamanian still scowling and muttering threats and went his way, wondering vaguely how his attentions to Chiquita had become so quickly known. He was informed later in the afternoon.

As he left the office for the day he was handed a note from Mrs. Cortlandt requesting him to call at once, and, summoning a coach, he was driven directly to her house. Unlike the Garavel home, the house which the Cortlandts had leased was set upon the water front, its rear balcony overlooking the sea where it lapped the foundation of the city wall.

Edith kept him waiting a moment before she descended, dressed for her afternoon ride.

"You got my note?"

"Yes, and I came straight from the office."

"I suppose you know what it is about and are wondering how I heard the news."

"What news?"

"Your 'engagement.'" She laughed with an amusement that did not ring quite true.

"You're the second one to speak about that. I'm not engaged."

"Of course not. Don't think for a moment I believed it. I was calling on some Spanish people this afternoon and heard the report. I admit it was a shock. When I learned the details I knew at once you ought to be told before it developed into something embarrassing. Come into the other room; there is a breeze from the water." She led him into the parlor, from which the open windows, shielded now by drawn shutters, gave egress to the rear porch with its chairs and hammock.

"Dear, dear! You foolish boy, you're always in trouble, aren't you? You really don't deserve to be helped. Why, you have avoided me for weeks."

"The new arrangement has swamped us with work. I have had no time to go out."

"Indeed! You had time to run after the first pretty Spanish face you saw."

"You mean Miss Garavel?"

"Yes. Didn't you realize what you were doing?"

"I realized what I was trying to do. But I could understand better what you are talking about if I knew just what this difficulty is."

"Why, this silly 'engagement' of yours. Don't pretend to be so stupid."

"Ramon Alfarez heard that same report and very courteously invited me to wait a few minutes while he killed me. It's tremendously flattering to be linked up with Miss Garavel, of course, but I haven't asked her to marry me."

"But you've seen her. You have called at her house."

"Sure! Twice, at the invitation of the old gentleman. All the little Garavels were lined up like mourners."

"And you dined there last night. Is that all you have seen of her?"

"N-no. I've seen her at Las Savannas. That's why I went hunting so often."

At this confession, which Kirk delivered with sheepish reluctance, Mrs. Cortlandt drew herself up with an expression of anger.

"Then this has been going on for some time!" she cried. "Why, Kirk, you never told me."

"Why should I?"

She flushed at this unconscious brutality, but after a moment ran on bravely: "But why did you let it go so far? Why did you let them commit you?"

"Am I committed?"

Her look was half offended, half incredulous. "Are you trying to be disagreeable, or is it possible you don't know the meaning of those invitations to call and to dine with the family, and all that? Why, they expect you to marry her. It is all settled now, according to the Spanish custom. The whole town is talking about it."

"I hope you're not joking," said Kirk. "Jove! I'm knocked clear off my pins." A tremendous wave of excitement surged over him. "So that's what Alfarez meant. That's what she meant last night when she told me to look up"— He broke off suddenly, for Edith's face had gone chalk white.

"But, Kirk, what about me?" she asked in a strained voice.

There was deathlike silence in the room.

"You can't love her," said the woman. "Why, she's only a child, and she's—Spanish."

They stood motionless, facing each other. At last Kirk said gravely and deliberately:

"Yes, I love her better than anything in the world, and I want to marry her. I could give up my country, my dad—anything for her."

Pressing her gloved fingers to her temples, she turned her head blindly from side to side, whispering as if to herself.

"What will become of me?"

"Don't!" he cried in a panic and cast a hurried look over his shoulders. "You'll be overheard. Where's Cortlandt?"

"At his club, I suppose. I don't know—I—don't care. You've been dishonest with me, Kirk."

"Don't act this way," he ordered roughly. "I'm terribly fond of you, but I never knew"—

"You must have known."

"I knew nothing. I chose not to think. What I saw I forgot. I supposed you merely liked me as I liked you."

"You say you didn't know. Then what about that afternoon in the jungle? Oh, you're not blind. You must have seen a thousand times. Every hour we've been alone together I've told you, and you let me go on believing you cared. I have no pride. I am not ashamed. It's too late for shame now. Why, even my husband knows."

With an exclamation he seized her by the arm. "You don't mean that!" he cried fiercely. But she wrenched herself away.

"Why do you think I made a man of you? Why did I force you up and up and over the heads of others? Why are you in line for the best position on the railroad? Did you think you had made good by your own efforts?" She laughed harshly. "I took Runnels and Wade and Kimble and the others that you liked and forced them up with you, so you'd have an organization that couldn't be pulled down."

"Did—did you do all that?"

"I did more. I broke with Alfarez because of what his son did to you. I juggled the politics of this country, I threw him over and took Garavel—Garavel! My God, what a mockery! But I won't let you—I won't let that girl spoil my work. I fostered this quarrel between Jolson and the superintendent, and I've used Runnels to break trail for you. Why? Ask yourself why! Oh, Kirk," she cried, "you mustn't marry that girl! I'll make you a great man!"

"You seem to forget Cortlandt," he said dully.

She gave a scornful laugh. "You needn't bring Stephen in. He doesn't count. I doubt if he'd even care."

"I'm not going to listen to you," he cried. "I suppose I've been a fool, but this must end right here."

"You can't marry that girl," she reiterated, hysterically. She was half sobbing again, but not with the weakness of a woman: her grief was more like that of a despairing man.

"For heaven's sake, pull yourself together," said Kirk. "You have servants. I—I don't know what to say. I want to get out. I want to think it over. I'm—dreadfully sorry. That's all I can seem to think about now." He turned and went blindly to the door, leaving her without a look behind.

When he had gone she drew off her riding gloves, removed her hat and dropped them both upon the nearest chair, then crept wearily up the stairs to her room.

A moment later the latticed wooden blinds at the end of the parlor swung open, and through the front window stepped Stephen Cortlandt. Behind him was a hammock swung in the coolest part of the balcony. The pupils of his eyes, ordinarily so dead and expressionless, were distended like those of a man under the influence of a drug or suffering from a violent headache. He listened attentively for an instant, his head on one side, then, hearing footsteps approaching from the rear of the house, he strolled into the hall.

A maid appeared with a tray, a glass and a bottle. "I could not find the medicine," she said, "but I brought you some absinthe. It will deaden the pain, sir."

He thanked her and with shaking fingers poured the glass full, then drank it off like so much water.

"You're not going out again in the heat, sir?"

"Yes. Tell Mrs. Cortlandt that I am dining at the University club."

Kirk never passed a more unpleasant night than the one which followed. In the morning he went straight to Runnels with the statement that he could take no part in the little testimonial they had intended to give Cortlandt.

"But it's too late now to back out. I saw him at the University club last evening and fixed the date for Saturday night."

"Did you tell him I was in the affair?"

"Certainly. I said it was your idea. It affected him deeply too. I never saw a chap so moved over a little thing."

Kirk thought quickly. Perhaps Edith had spoken rashly in her excitement and her husband did not know her feelings after all. Perhaps he only suspected. In that case it would never do to withdraw. It would seem like a confession of guilt.

"If he has accepted that ends it, I suppose," he said finally.

"What has happened?" Runnels was watching him sharply.

"Nothing. I merely wish I hadn't entered into the arrangement, that's all. I've ordered a watch for him, too, and it's being engraved. I wanted to give him something to show my own personal gratitude for what he and his wife have done for me. Lord! It took a month's salary. I know it's a jay present, but there's nothing decent in these shops."

"Look here! I've wanted to say something to you for some time, though it's deuced hard to speak of such things. Steve Cortlandt has put us where we are. You understand, when I speak of him I include his wife too. Well, I like him, Kirk, and I'd hate to see him made unhappy. If a chap loves a married woman he ought to be man enough to forget it. Rotten way to express myself, of course"—

Kirk looked the speaker squarely in the eyes as he answered: "I haven't the least interest in any married man's affairs, never have had, in fact. I'm in love with Gertrudis Garavel, and I'm engaged to marry her."

"The devil!"

"It's a fact. I didn't know until last night that I'd been accepted."

"Then just forget what I said. I was going north on a south bound track—I ran ahead of orders. I really do congratulate you, old man. Miss Garavel is—well, I won't try to do her justice—I had no idea. Please pardon me."

"Certainly. Now that it's settled I'm not going to let any grass grow under my feet."

"Why, say! Garavel is to be the next president! Jove, you're lucky! Cortlandt told me last night that the old fellow's candidacy was to be announced Saturday night at the big ball. That's how he came to accept our invitation. He said his work would be over by then, and he'd be glad to join us after the dance. Well, well! Your future wife and father-in-law are to be his guests that night, I suppose you know."

"Then they have patched up a truce with Alfarez? I'm glad to hear that."

"It's all settled, I believe. This dance is a big special event. The American minister and the various diplomatic gangs will be there, besides the prominent Spanish people. It's precisely the moment to launch the Garavel boom, and Cortlandt intends to do it. After it's over our little crowd will have supper and thank him for what he has done for us. Your promotion came just in time, didn't it? Talk about luck! We ought to hear from Washington before Saturday and know that our jobs are cinched. This uncertainty is fierce for me. You know, I have a wife and kid, and it means a lot. When you give Cortlandt that watch you'll have to present him with a loving cup from the rest of us. I think it's coming to him, don't you?"

"I—I'd rather you presented it."

"Not much! I can run trains, but I can't engineer social functions. You'll have to be spokesman."

SUPERIOR COURT IN SESSION

Ghost of the Port Angeles Eastern Stalks Thru Corridors of Rambling Old Structure.

A suit involving the title to water front of value of which has been clouded for some years past was heard Thursday, in the case of W. B. Ritchie, trustee vs. V. L. Trumbull. The Court brushed all technicalities in this case, as in most he tries, on the ground that the Supreme court will have all the facts before it when the case goes up if it does. Judgment was for plaintiff. It seems that the Port Angeles Eastern bought the property from the state, making the first one tenth payment in September, 1899. In August 1900, the railroad sold all interest to D. W. Craig, trustee, for most of the board of directors of road at time, for funds to continue operations, with the stipulation, the plaintiff alleges, that if not paid within three years property to be irredeemable. Craig and associates paid other9-10s to the State, and all taxes including 1912. Craig has since died, widow disclaims interest, name beneficiaries of trust, and Ritchie is named trustee for purpose of suit. Court held that while there may be question as to procedure in his opinion upon the death of Craig, beneficiaries individually took his place, the property becoming community property of each Defendants claim title by reason of foreclosure proceedings brought against the Port Angeles Eastern Railway Co. brought in 1909 on notes held by John Trumbull. It is very probable that appeal will be taken to Supreme Court.

The case of Johanna Waldby vs. Hans L. Walby for division of property was heard before Judge Ralston Wednesday. This case has been hanging fire since 1909, and several attorneys have appeared at various times for the plaintiff, but the issue has been put off from time to time owing o the absence of the defendant in Alaska. In 1908 defendant was granted a decree of divorce from plaintiff at Nome, Alaska, largely it seems through a misunderstanding. The property was not at that time mentioned, plaintiff enjoying the possession of the homestead in this city meanwhile. Defendant alleges that he has always been anxious to have plaintiff live with him, and that he sent her money several times to come to him at Nome, but something intervened each time, until he was convinced that she had no intention of coming. He had offered her the home place at Fifth and F streets, if he received the other three vacant lots in a settlement,but this settlement has been denied, until finally a mortgage was foreclosed against all. Plaintiff sought to show that she had been left penniless and sick, and asked that she be awarded all the property. The court held that the defendants offer of settlement seemed to be entirely fair, and ordered this division, adding $75 to be paid by defendant for part payment of burial expenses of a son brought from Medical Lake. Each party to pay own suit costs.

Jas. Stewart was appointed administrator with Will annexed of estate of Margaret Clark, an heir of the now famous Chas. Towne estate, which has been hanging fire in the local court for the past seven years.

In Shaw vs. Isaac Tomlinson, plaintiff, was granted lief to file an amended and supplemental complaint, setting forth new facts.

James Fitzgerald was appointed executer under the will of Jos. Skeffington without bonds.

Demurrer of bonding company against sufficiency of complaint of city directed against them in the case of the Klipsun Lumber Co., vs. Young & Denio, and city was sustained. This releases the bond, and forces the lumber company to get their money either from the contractors or the city.

The case of Olive Whitcomb vs. Roy Whitcomb was dismissed upon motion of plaintiff, as was also the case of Holt & Jeffry vs. E. F. Geirin, et ux, pending for some time.

Petition for sale of real estate in estate of J. Nicholson, deceased was set to be heard May 26.

Dismissal of case of Nor. Shoe Co. vs. W. W. Washburn, garnishee defendants, was upon motion of plaintiffs, same having been settled out of court.

Decree of final settlement was signed in the matter of the estate of Edward Bradley, deceased, Attorney York, of Seattle, administrator making the final showing.

Thursday J. W. Little was granted a decree of divorce from Ettie M. Little on grounds of desertion. Both agreed that they could not live together any longer. Plaintiff alleges he has paid to defendant $3000 in past year; that he was once worth $40,000, now he nearly broke; defendant appeared by attorney only.

New cases filed: Chas. Haines vs. Christine Haines for divorce; Anders Nylund vs. Wm. Loveless for $1000 damages for assault. Loveless has been tried and fined for this offense by criminal action. Asa B. Steele vs. A. McDougall and J. W. Hooker, for reconveyance of property.

ALL TALK PT. ANGELES

From Blaine to Olympia, Everyone Interested in Coming City.

"All you hear on the other side of the Sound now is Port Angeles; everybody says it must be a hustling town now," said Carl Schoffel of the Olympic Hot Springs Hotel, who came over from Mt. Vernon Tuesday, to reopen that resort. Mr. Schoffel had been on a little advertising trip from Blaine to Olympia and found everybody anxious to come over and see our town.

"A town must be up-to-date nowadays to be any good," he continued, "Mt. Vernon has only 5,000 population, but it has three and a half miles of paved streets and the reputation of being the cleanest little town in the state. The worst kickers when the work was going on are the most satisfied now."

Messrs. Schoffel and Everett are making a number of improvements this year, among which are a fine large bathing pool, an additional hotel building and a much better trail. Four companies, Mr. Schoffel says, have made application to use the water from the springs. He thinks there would be sufficient flow for at least three hotels and would like to see them built, providing the promoters would get capital enough interested to build a road, for in that case the business would have an immense development.

inconveniences suffered by him in doing his duty as far as he could and then to be slurred for it. He would personally favor keeping cows out of the business district back of Fourth street if it was possible. Fleming said a little later possibly when things are as we expect them may eliminate. Bigelow stated if in 30 days after ordinance is in effect, ordinance is not lived up to he will change his vote. Wilcox went him one better and fixed 10 days as to the limit of his patience. Shields wanted to know how the one cow was going to be checked. All agreed it would be hard. The ordinance as amended was adopted 6 to 1. Fisher alone voting no.

WOOLEY WILL MOVE TO PEABODY STREET

Old Established Laundry to Have New Concrete Building and Electrical Equipment.

The Port Angeles Steam Laundry will be the name of the firm, or corporation, which will occupy the two story concrete building, Dann Bros. are completing on Peabody street. It is understood that under the new arrangement Dann Bros. will acquire an interest in the laundry business which Mr. Wooley, by his industry and business ability, has made so profitable the last few years, exchanging therefore an interest in the new building, which was especially designed for laundry purposes.

The change to the new location will not be made for two or three weeks, or until the building is ready for occupancy. The concrete walls are up, roof on, leaving the floors, windows, and inside finish to be completed. It will be a neat looking building, centrally and desirably located.

A new equipment of modern machinery, electrically driven, is to be installed, also a dry room tumbler, a new invention that shakes and fluffs up blankets and woolen goods, making them like new. Fifteen employes will be required by the new concern.

CALIFORNIA JUBILEE QUARTET

Coming Friday, April 24th, under the auspices of the Port Angeles Marine Band. The Band will also play a few selections. The Band organization is under a great expense in securing this quartet, and every body should come and enjoy the program. Popular prices.

PUTTING IN THE GATES.

President Glines and Engineer Seastone are expected in a few days to make a final examination of the works at the power plant before affairs are wound up with the contractors. The concrete work is nearly completed and the seven steel tainter gates are being assembled and put in place; it is expected that everything except a little cleaning up will be completed within a month.

And lovers rush in where husbands fear to tread.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF PORT ANGELES

Twenty-Seven Charter Members Enrolled and Officers and Trustees Chosen.

On Sunday morning, April 19th, 1914, the above organization was formed on Lincoln Heights. The service was most beautiful and impressive. The regular worship was conducted by Dr. Frank Arthur Heath who, under the direction of the Seattle Presbytery, has been in charge of this new work since January first.

At the conclusion of the sermon Dr. W. O. Forbes, chairman of the organization committee, proceeded to the formal organization. The number of charter members enrolled at the close of the day of organization was twenty-seven. The list will remain open until June when the charter membership roll will be closed.

The position and plan of the Presbyterian work were clearly presented and the value of the Community Church as recommended by the Home Mission Council, representing all prominent evangelical denominations, was emphasized.

After members had been received and baptism administered, Mr. Edwin L. Campbell was ordained an Elder and Mr. Frank Bartholomew a Deacon. Mr. Alfred Filion, Mrs. Wm. Wright and Mr. W. L. Smith were chosen Trustees.

The attendance was large and the Church looks forward hopefully to increased usefulness and power.

NEW MANAGEMENT AT THE POTLATCH

Tomorrow will be gala day at the Potlatch Billiard Hall when that popular resort will be re-opened after a complete overhauling. Corby & Maurmann, the new proprietors, are from Tacoma, the former well known to the traveling public as the owner of large billiard halls in the cities, while Mr. Maurmann, who will have charge here, is a very agreeable gentleman and will undoubtedly build up a fine local business. They will carry a full line of cigars, candies and soft drinks.

Messrs. Schaible & Hutchinson report a fine business in their Regrade Sale, the attractive bargains offered in cut glass, silverware, mantel clocks and silver deposit ware, by cutting down prices from a third to a half, having had the desired effect. There are however, many handsome pieces yet remaining, and the same low prices continue in force. There will never be a better time to add to the table service than right now.

The Angeles Construction Company has received a complete concrete building outfit, including the latest in power mixers and hoisting engine and derrick. The gentlemen, P. J. Harley, Corliss Gordon and Wm. Fowler, believe there is a promising field here now for this class of work and are preparing to go at it right. They have the contract for the cement work on the new postoffice block, work on which will be begun as soon as Mr. Morse has the forms completed.

The DeSwarte arcade building, on Francis street just south of the Olympic Hotel, now nearing completion, presents a handsome appearance, particularly the artificial stone work which is something new in that line for Angeles. Mr. DeSwarte, who will have three excellent store rooms for rent, has certainly demonstrated his belief in the future of that section of the city.
