Town Council Handles Short Agenda

The Forks Town Council met Monday with J. J. Blomgren presiding in the absence of Mayor Earl Kennedy.

General Obligation Bonds in the amount of $30,000.00 will be issued. The law firm of Preston, Thurgerson and Horowitz will handle the drawing and printing at the cost to the city of $550.00.

The Council heard and granted a request by the Port Angeles Evening News to put a vending machine in front of the Forks Variety Store.

The Council heard from Richard Sandmire, acting marshal, concerning police problems. The using of the alley behind the Vagabond for parking is creating a fire hazard. The Council ordered "no parking" signs posted.

There has been numerous complaints concerning stray dogs in the last few days. According to Sandmire, one child was injured when knocked down by a pack of dogs and several complaints of damage to gardens have been received. The Humane Society will be contacted to help deal with this problem.

A request was made to the Council by Ken Seeger of Port Angeles to build a truck wash. The matter is under study and Seeger was asked to appear at the next meeting to discuss the matter further.

County Fair August 22-23-24

The 50th annual Clallam County Fair will be held August 22-23-24 at the Fairgrounds in Port Angeles.

"Fun for the entire family" is the theme for the golden anniversary of the fair.

Highlights of the fair will be a professional rodeo, horse racing, logging show, antique car parade and demolition derby in addition to the grandstand show which appears twice daily.

People from the West End are encouraged to enter both the demolition derby and logging show. Have a power saw and want to travel then the place to go is the Clallam County Fair for real competition, see Mel Harper. Five-hundred dollars in trophies and prize money has been added for the logging show.

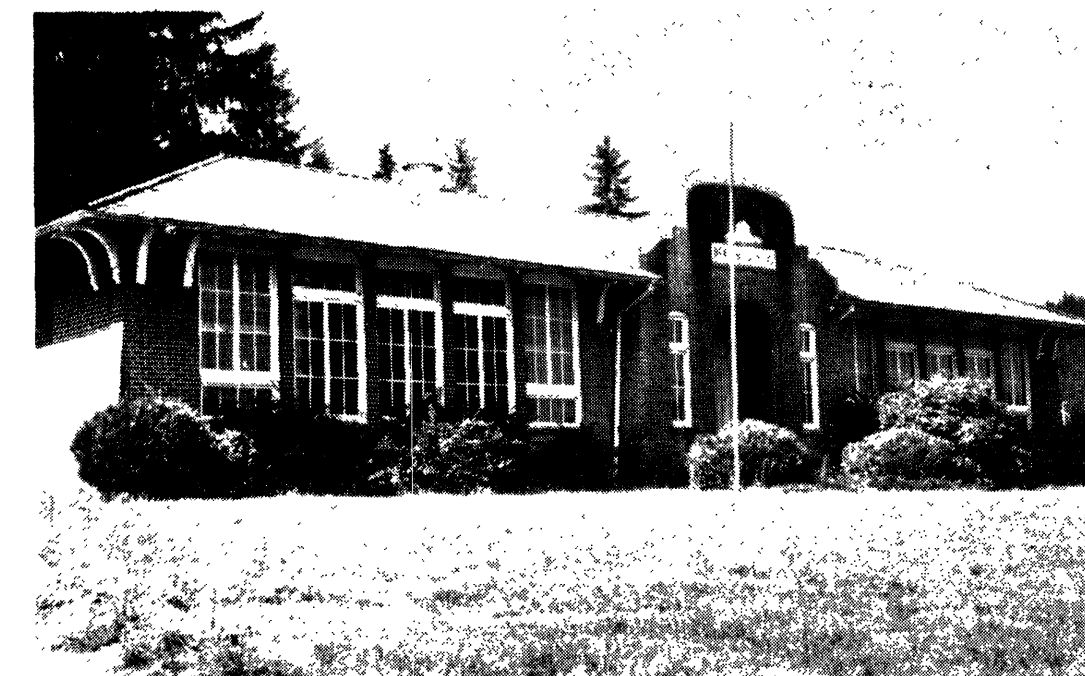

The Johnson Radio units for the Water Department will be installed whenever the trucks can be made available. Richard Sandmire will install the units.

The final testing of the new water tank will be done this week.

A request by Howard and Louan Stock and family of Ellensburg to place a tree in the park in memory of Alton Jones was granted. The check will be forwarded to the Park Board.

Building permits granted were: Chester Wasenkari, to move house, Fred Gooding, to remodel house.

Clallam County Fair will provide three exciting days of education and entertainment for the entire family.

Kindergarten To Use Beaver School

Two years ago amidst controversy the Beaver School was closed. This year the controversy rages again, for it was decided at the last School Board meeting that in order to carry on the Kindergarten program some arrangements must be made as there is no space available in the present buildings. It was decided after extensive study to re-open parts of the Beaver School. The brick structure will be used for the kindergarten classes.

The only other alternative according to Mr. John Hitchcock, superintendent of Quillayute Valley School, was to double shift through the sixth grade. It was learned this was not possible because of the required number of hours a sixth grade student must spend in class.

"This is a very serious problem, the using of the Beaver School was our only alternative. The structure is sound and no problems are expected aside from the confusion of the first few days with the complicated bus schedule.

As you know the school was closed two years ago as an economy measure. There weren't enough students in the primary grades to provide a full load, the kitchen facility was no longer adequate so the decision was made to transport the students to Forks, where the proper facility existed and since we were double shifting anyway it simplified matters.

This year there will be some time difference, however in the pick up and delivery of the students although this should be nominal. We predict approximately one hour. The rural children will be picked up at the usual time, the town children will leave school earlier than last year because of travel time. It is eleven miles to Beaver from Forks.

We will continue to have our milk program but if parents wish they may send a light lunch with their children to be eaten at the time allotted for the milk snack.

Although kindergarten is not compulsory and a few parents will probably decide not to send their children because of the transportation problem, I feel that a child who enters first grade without pre-school is at a disadvantage. Kindergarten teaches a child many things, to get along with others, learn a routine of work and play and brings the child an awareness of self accomplishment at an earlier age.

We are trying very hard to alleviate the problems that are facing our school, but what we need is more public participation. An advisory board of interested citizens to become acquainted with our school problems and help us to work with the public to reach a solution would be a major help. This plan has been tried in other localities with very rewarding results.

The new school building should be under construction soon but our problems will not end there. Our population is growing much faster than our facilities. To handle the additional students we must work harder to improve what we have and be looking to the future.

In the 1968-69 school year we had an enrollment of 1200. In the 1969-70 school year we expect an enrollment of 1270. In Kindergarten along last year we had 112 students, and we can safely predict an even greater enrollment this year."

Rev. Morlin Heads UGN

Rev. Art Morlin of the Assembly of God Church is chairman for the 1969 United Good Neighbors Drive.

Rev. Morlin, who was born in Seattle, attended Seattle Pacific and Northwest College in Kirkland. He was director of the UGN drive at Boeing in 1960, where he worked while attending school.

Rev. Morlin, his wife Joan are the parents of 3 children, Kim, Joni-lu and Jo-Jo.

What About Campers?

The Automobile Club of Washington and Governor Dan Evans have re-affirmed their long-standing policy against bigger, wider vehicles on the highways.

Perhaps they should stand back and take another look at the problems being created on the highways with the increasing numbers of campers, trailers etc., moving on the State highways.

Campers and trailers of various sizes and conditions can be seen on the highways. In many cases the pickup is not capable of handling the camper load.

This is an ever increasing traffic hazard and definitely needs some investigation by the ACW and the Governor. Ten giant truck-trailer combinations currently are rolling from Canada to Oregon on Interstate Highway 5 in a 90-day test to determine the safety, economy and feasibility of using overlength vehicles on Washington highways.

The state Highways Department is conducting the tests in cooperation with the Washington State Patrol and the Washington Trucking Association. The ten trucks are rigidly regulated and watched by the three organizations on a 30-day permit basis. If any truck violates the regulations, its permit may be revoked.

The trucking industry operates under highway standards established in 1946. Since 1956, the legal limit in Washington for truck-trailer length has been 70 feet. But other neighboring states are allowing longer legal lengths so the Washington State Highway Commission has agreed to the current tests.

The freeze on truck length has placed the industry at a competitive disadvantage with rail and air freight carriers, according to Trucking Association spokesmen. Railroads have designed boxcars that will carry 100,000 to 120,000 pounds as compared to 50,000 pounds a few years ago. As another example, the Boeing 707 cargo plane has a 90,000-pound capacity and the new 747 carries a 221,000-pound payload.

Trucks used in the current tests are allowed no additional weight over the present 76,000 pound limit. But the extra length permitted enables the truckers to carry a greater volume of light materials.

Safety to motorists is a major concern during the testing period. The rigid controls on the test trucks include use of powerful engines to enable them to climb steep grades without losing speed. Also, on wet pavement, the trucks are required to reduce their speed. Strict specifications have been set on brake requirements to insure safe stops. Many of these regulations exceed the controls now placed on normal length trucks.

Results of the tests during the first month have been encouraging, according to G. F. Sloan, assistant permit and weight administrator for the highways department. The trucks, operating under these strict controls, have outperformed legal length trucks on grades because of their powerful engines. The second or third trailers have held to their lanes without weaving.

There has been very little public reaction at this point, Sloan said. In fact, about the only ones who have noticed the long trucks have been other truck drivers. The tests, which began June 30 and are scheduled to end Sept. 31, will be evaluated and recommendations will be submitted to the Highway Commission as to whether or not the overlength trucks should become legal in Washington.

Refreshing Reminder

Those who go to Washington hoping to get something for nothing with no strings attached should remember that government subsidies, grants and gifts are, of necessity, accompanied by government controls -- and a mountain of red tape. There are even grimmer implications when federal funds are poured into nonprivately-owned, commercial business enterprises that are in direct competition. In many instances, with self-supporting, taxpaying private enterprise.

In the latter case, tax funds become enmeshed in political-empire building that can lead to nationalization or socialization of an industry. Such has been the history of federal spending for tax-favored, public electric power projects of the kind of another. Rural electrification is an illustration.

The congressionally designated purpose of the federal rural electrification program has been largely attained. Yet, the surmounting of federal funds in the name of rural electrification has continued under the stimulus of those driven by the ambition to take over an ever larger segment of the electric power generating and transmission business, regardless of congressional intent. There is only one way that abusive federal spending in this area can be avoided—that is by control.

It is rare to find a government agency attempting to define and limit the activities of projects it has spawned. But that is what seems to be in-

Sunday: Hung out the "Gone Fishing" sign today, jumped into the Pontiac with Mother, and headed for the upper Stillam. Haven't been up there in years, and in fact, haven't been fishing since the bowling alley opened eight years ago. Almost forgot how to tie a hook.

Left via on the hillside picking berries while I slid on down to see if the fish were biting. What fish? Got a nibble altho I did get lots of bites from various vicious insects. Think all the fish were up the creek. Had much better luck picking berries as we got enough for a few pies.

Now's a good time to start practicing to get ready for the coming bowling season as the weather has cooled off some and it's not quite so warm in the alley. It doesn't seem possible, but there's less than three weeks 'til the official start of the 1969-70 season. Better come down to the lanes and even if you don't throw a line or two, get your ball off and check your shoes for broken laces or what have you. Darrell has changed the looks of the inside of the place and it might take a few minutes to find your locker and gear. Also, you might check with your team captain or league secretary to find out when your league starts.

Last year this time we were awaiting out the BPAA Summer Singles Zone Finals, fourteen men from Forks at Bainbridge and three women at Port Townsend. This year there will be three more districts yet, Port Townsend, Laurel Lanes, and P. A. Bowl. The finals for the men will be at Laurel and at P. A. Bowl for the girls. Due to lack of interest two more district finals were added this summer to make up a deficit in the prize money.

Duke and Jean left for Idaho on their vacation last week and naturally packed their bowling bags with them. Have fun, you all. See your when you get back.

Only seven of us at Monte Carlo Sat. Mite. No Jackpot, as it has been sadly depleted of late. Chuck Hamby had his name drawn and won seven free games. I took for the action to pick up in this event soon.

Darrell did a real fine job on remodeling at the lanes. Should hang your shingle out.

SPORTS WANDERINGS . . .

1969 marks the Centennial Year of college football. The Centennial is being celebrated throughout the land this year under the banner "College Football—An American Tradition for 100 Years."

The first collegiate football game was played November 6, 1869 when Rutgers topped Princeton, 6-4, on a 120 yard long field at New Brunswick, N.J. The soccer-type game was played with 25 players on each side before an estimated 200 bewildered spectators.

Today, a century after that first game, college football keeps pace with modern wonders. National attendance climbs towards the 30 million mark and another 25 million watch the weekly college games on television.

The game has come a long way in its 100 years.

The Forks Lions will be an official member of the Olympic Youth Baseball League next season.

Action was taken by the league members at the Elks Club in Port Angeles last Thursday evening.

This past season, the Lions played members of the league on a bye schedule.

Port Angeles football fans witnessed the most exciting campaign in the league's history. Three teams, Green Thumb, First National Bank and the Comets, ended both halves in three-way ties, forcing a single elimination play off. Green Thumb won both play offs to win the championship and a berth in the State Football Tournament. Good luck to Green Thumb Nursery.

According to local fishing enthusiasts, stream and salt water fishing is on the up swing. The Hob and Lower Sol Duc are producing limits of cuts and a few jacks.

Salmon have been moving into the lower stretches of the rivers providing an occasional catch for the lucky angler. Fishing for kings off LaPush has been excellent. The fish are running in the 20 to 30 pound class.

Most of the kings have been picked up in the area around the Skunk. Silvers are scattered for the most part, but have been found in larger quantities in the rpt during the early morning hours.

Meditation

By Rev. J. William Hawk

It is probably true that there is no such thing as a "perfect" rose; however, while I have pruned roses, I would "swear" there are a thousand perfect thorns on every bush. Part of living, a big part of it, is accepting who we are, thorns and flowers together. Each of us has skills, assets and abilities. We should know what they are and accept them as gifts which make us special persons, persons who can do some things better than anyone else, even though we cannot do all things well. Each also has weaknesses and needs. These, too, need to be accepted for what they are.

Within us there may be some desire to be perfect, but it will not happen. This is one of the great human struggles. One of the big criticisms of the church is that it is full of hypocrites--people who say they believe in something but do not measure up to what they say. Whoever makes this criticism is right, for no one gets his behavior to completely conform to his ideals. Even St. Paul said, "I do not understand my own actions, For I do not do what I want, but I do the very thing I hate." So what right have we to expect perfection from one another or from ourselves?

As a minister I have had times when I would get disgusted with people for not being better Christians than they are, to criticize people for coming to church for the wrong reasons, to tell people they should become "better" and then I will become more interested in them. It is always a temptation to give the most attention to those least in need of it. It is always a temptation to think the church should be filled with perfect saints. The fact is that the only saints available are sinners. The fact is that God's ministry through Jesus of Nazareth was to sinners. He did not fail to offer His grace, because He knows our need and seeks to help us. So do not excuse yourself from worship on the basis of your imperfection. Simply recognize your own need and seek help from those who are trying to meet human needs. Christians are also imperfect, but they have the hope and faith that God will sustain them in spite of their weaknesses.

A "Perfect" Rose

Look closely at a so-called perfect rose! Scan the petals; you will find they are far from perfect. But uneven shapes, blemishes or misshapen stems will not spoil the delicate color, rich fragrance and sheer beauty of the total flower.

How clearly a rose illustrates that nothing in life is truly perfect! But, rather than discourage us, this should give us fresh confidence and strength.

God did not make the rose perfect--nor did He make us perfect. Yet He thinks none the less of us for our faults and blemishes. In His eyes we always have another chance. But it is up to us to take it.

Born on July 8, 1893 at what is now the John Hulesdonk place. Lena Fletcher learned the hardships which at that time were many. The Hoh River Valley was to be her lifetime home and a fight for survival in a wilderness as this was a task for even the family of an Iron Man. Lena later moved to what is now the Charlie Barlow farm and then to her recent home with the Robert Hulesdonks. (above) Lena looks out over the ranch and recalls the days when elk and deer were numerous in the fields below.

Up at 6:00 a.m. Lena uses a stilt to climb the fence, then continues through fields to her garden where she will work until the sun is high and the heat penetrates the valley.

Lena walks across the fields of this stump ranch checking the lambs. Goats and cattle also graze here. Covote, cougar, and bobcat are numerous along the Hoh.

As the waters of the river pass by, so does time. The river has seen many changes in the valley. Lena has also seen these

We care where our product is served.

Beer served in pleasant and wholesome surroundings is the aim of the United States Brewers Association. And we are always striving to do something about it.

The USBA is represented by field men around the country. They meet with proprietors of establishments where beer is sold. They work in every way possible to promote a set of high standards wherever beer is served.

This USBA effort means even more enjoyable places for America's great beverage of moderation.
