FINE SHOWING MADE AT CLALLAM COUNTY FAIR

County Farm Awarded the C., M. & St. P. Silver Cup for the Largest and Best Display of Farm Produce.

"I have never seen better Gravenstein or King apples," said F. N. Rhodes, state horticultural inspector, Saturday afternoon, just before he started in with the work of judging the exhibits, of which there were over 150 plates of apples alone. Picking up a big Gravenstein, fully five inches in diameter, he said there was the finest fruit grown, and the beauty of it is that the Western Washington growers can have almost a monopoly of it because that particular tree will not do well in the dry country east of the mountains. He spoke also of the Kings and Greenings, of which there were several plates each, and of Mr. Land's display of boxed apples and pears.

To say that everyone who visited the exhibit was surprised and pleased to see that so splendid a showing could be made in so short a time, is putting it mildly, for all one heard was the expressions of pleasure on every hand. The four foot wide tables were literally crowded with fruit and vegetables; ripe raspberries, a whole bushfull, together with blackberries and two or three hills of big ripe strawberries, led off the exhibit on the Sequim-Dungeness table, and some specimens of mammoth potatoes, grown at the far end of the county, and for that matter at the most northwestern point in the United States, Cape Flattery, by Capt. McAfee of the U. S. Life Saving Station, put a fitting finis on the display at the other end.

The Vegetable Exhibit

There were potatoes, many of them over a foot long; mangels eight inches thick and thirty inches high, grown in the rich Dungeness delta by Donald McInnes; beets as large as a man's derby hat; turnips that would have lasted Col. Sellers a lifetime; smooth ripe tomatoes contrasting with green cucumbers, and sweet corn, green corn, pop corn and Kaffir corn, all of which, a few years ago, they told us could not be raised here. There were corn stalks ten feet high, sunflowers two feet across, pea vines in bearing twelve feet long, celery a yard high, stalks of rhubarb like fence posts that were "grown from seed," pie pumpkins two feet in diameter, cabbage that weighed 48 pounds or was numbered 48, we have forgotten which, and —but what's the use, none but those familiar with Clallam county products would believe us anyway. Such vegetables are only grown under irrigation, or on sub-irrigated land, where the season is ten months long.

The best farm products, as a whole, were those shown from the Dungeness valley; the most varied exhibit came from Sequim; the largest and best collection was raised on the county farm by the superintendent, Mr. Getchell, and to this last was awarded the silver cup donated by Mr. Weeks, division freight agent of the Milwaukee. The best potatoes were raised by Thomas Lauridsen of Elwha, by Fred Sutter, S. Land and J. W. Norris. Fred Sutter also raised the largest potato; S. St. John the largest Pumpkin, Al Eacrett the largest squash, and Mrs. Lucy Burdick the largest sunflower. The largest cabbage was shown by Mr. Getchell of the County Farm.

One exhibit in particular that attracted attention was a basket of potatoes, smooth, perfect, of uniform size, which were raised by I. W. Hall on his home place at Fourteenth and Cherry, and which were awarded second prize as the largest and best display. When one considers that this land was one of the "worthless" town lots, of which there are hundreds on the outskirts of Angeles, that it was located within the gravel belt that runs across town, that it had never been cultivated and that there was taken off it a pile of boulders as big as a house before it could be plowed, one gets some idea of the possibilities of Clallam County agriculturally.

The Flower Exhibit

The flower exhibit, thousands of blooms massed upon the stage, was largely made up of dahlias, asters and roses. There were many varieties of flowers, but the glorious coloring and abundance of the dahlias and asters outclassed all else. These flowers, so easily raised, are growing in favor every year. Mrs. C. L. Haggard had on display a beautiful collection of dahlias, twenty-seven varieties in all, a number of which were prize winners at the National Dahlia Show in Seattle, a few weeks ago. These, together with the flowers exhibited by the Port Angeles ladies, made a truly beautiful showing and their artistic arrangement on the stage in the form of a semi-circle in a double tier elicited a great deal of admiration.

McINNES PRAISES FAIR EXHIBITS

Potatoes and Apples Best He Had Ever Seen; Fair Only Excelled by Puyallup.

In the evening the Marine Band gave a concert consisting selections including the national air, all of which were greatly appreciated. State Inspector Rhodes still being occupied with the judging, and J. M. Grant of Sequim not being in attendance, Mr. McInnes consented to take up Mr. Grant's topic, "Irrigation in Clallam County." Several musical numbers were given, including two solos by Miss Taylor, a solo and encore by Mr. Selleck, piano solo by Mrs. C. P. Brown and a solo by Miss Welch.

Mr. McInnes' Address

Opening his talk with the statement that there was a time, two or three years ago, when he could rise to address an Angeles audience and feel perfectly at home, knowing nearly everyone in the room, but that at the present time, such had been the growth of the town, he knew comparatively few, Mr. McInnes stated there were two or three things he wished to say before taking up the subject of irrigation.

As president of the State Dairymen's Ass'n., Mr. McInnes had traveled extensively over the states of Washington and Oregon, attending the different fairs, but never, with the exception of Puyallup, had he seen a better agricultural exhibit than this. Never, in either of these states, had he seen a collection of potatoes the equal of those shown at the present Clallam county Fair. And never, in Western Washington, had he seen a better collection of apples. "Your Gravensteins and your Kings," said Mr. McInnes, could not be excelled. There are no better apples grown than these. While you cannot raise all varieties successfully, you can raise some of the best and if you would take the same care of your fruit trees that the people of Eastern Washington do you would be able to build up a profitable business.

Early Days in Sequim

In his talk on irrigation Mr. McInnes gave a brief review of the progress of Sequim from the first settlement of the prairie down to the present time, and pictured the future Clallam county when the logged-off lands are cleared and the waters of its many streams are used in equally feasible irrigation projects. In the days of long ago, it was his opinion, Sequim prairie was an arm of the Sound, the entrance having been filled up by glacial action; this theory is borne out by beds of clam shells found at its outer edges. When the first white men came, there were about 2,000 Indians living on Sequim bay and the prairie was a favorite hunting ground for elk and deer. The early settlers kept herds of cattle, and when the lessening forage made that industry unprofitable they introduced sheep, and then turkeys, until such time as they too became unprofitable.

For many, many years, land on Sequim prairie was offered at $2 an acre, and no purchasers. Then came a Colorado miner who had seen the transformation wrought by irrigation. He talked water, water, water, until they actually had him up before the lunacy board, as the county records show. People said water could not be brought from the Dungeness river and even if it could, even if you could turn the whole river onto the edge of the prairie it would sink from sight before reaching the other edge. Finally there chanced to come another Colorado miner, also a man of visions, and in the course of a couple of years two or three adventurous spirits began to take stock in their stories, and the first ditch and flume were built—the result is ten acre tracts of land at $250 an acre, in the midst of which is located an incorporated town having all the evidences of prosperity.

The County in Pictures

Following Mr. McInnes' talk, a series of beautifully colored views of harvest fields, alfalfa, and fine stock, all pictures taken on Sequim prairie, were shown, together with several views of the McInnes farm on Dungeness, perhaps the leading dairy farm in Clallam county. McInnes himself, tall and spare, and garbed in blue overalls, at home amongst his pure bred Jerseys, was easily recognized in several of the views. Then came pictures, all colored, of Port Angeles and the principal objects of interest hereabouts, such as the Earles mill, the Elwha Power plant, etc., and others of the Milwaukee, the Olympic Way and of logging scenes and specimens of the big timber. It was a superb set, the only criticism being the including of views of Mt. Constance and the Snoqualmie Falls, when, as anyone knows who has been away from Front and Laurel, we have scenery with which the above cannot be compared.

The Prize Winners

During the course of the evening Maurice Fisher of the Fair committee, announced the prize winners, and that Clallam county had won the Milwaukee's silver cup for the largest and best display of agricultural products, the same being those raised at the Westphal County Home by A. A. Getchell. The cup, it is understood, is a trophy to be contested for year by year, and undoubtedly Mr. Getchell will have to specialize on exhibit stuff instead of taking the ordinary run of farm products, if he is to continue to hold the honors for the county.

JOHN HALLAHAN FOR COUNTY TREASURER

One of the Most Efficient and Conscientious Officials This County Has Ever Had.

The best and only way to judge a man's ability, fitness, honesty and qualifications to serve the people in public office, is by his past record.

John Hallahan, candidate for County Treasurer on the Democratic ticket, has made good as County Assessor. He entered that office at a time when there was not a record of any kind in the office save a city and a county map.

By diligent application, honest endeavor, perseverence and hard work, Mr. Hallahan has built up the records until now the office has the reputation and is spoken of by state officials and others, as one of the most complete in the state.

When campaigning for the office of assessor Mr. Hallahan made but one promise to the people, and that was, the cruising of timber. He

COURT HOUSE DEDICATION

Laying of Corner Stone a Symbolic Ceremony, Dedicating Building to Principles of Justice.

Simple, beautiful and impressive were the services which attended the laying of the corner-stone of Clallam County's new court house Friday afternoon. The ceremonies were in charge of the local Masonic order, and were conducted by the Grand Lodge of Washington, headed by the Most Worshipful Grand Master, Wm. J. Sutton, of Cheney. Though the day was filled to excess with April showers, the attendance was good, there being 75 Masons present, together with the members of the Eastern Star, the county officials, most of whom belong to the Angeles Lodge, and patriotic citizens, all of whom stood out in the light rain until the conclusion of the services.

The members of the order, with D. D. Salie as Grand Marshal and D. B. Merrill as flag bearer, after opening of the Blue Lodge, took up the line of march, headed by the Port Angeles Marine Band, up Front street and back down First to the school house, the long detour being made necessary by the sluicing operations which practically cut the town in half. At the school house 600 pupils were drawn up, singing America as the procession passed along on the walk and crossed to the court house site.

In a few brief words of introduction, Grand Master Sutton stated that from time immemorial it had been the custom of the Masonic order, when so requested, to lay the cornerstones of buildings devoted to the worship of God, of buildings for benevolent purposes, and of buildings used in aid of free government. As the ritualistic service of the order was repeated the stone was sealed and placed in position. Within the stone was concealed a box containing, among other things, a record of the proceedings leading up to the

FELL OFF STREET; SKULL FRACTURED

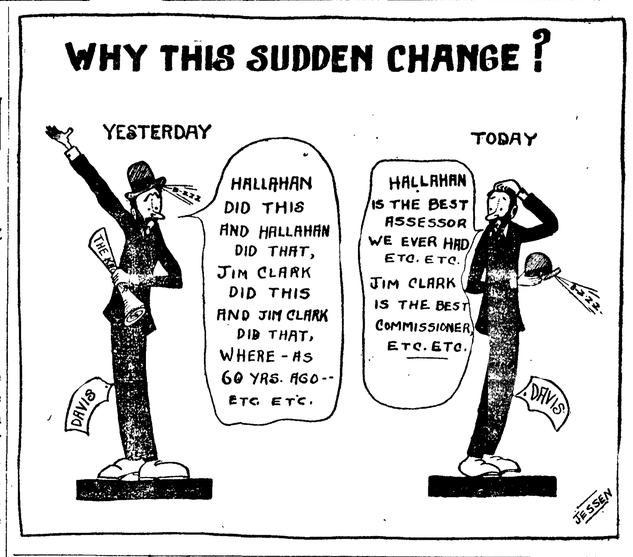
Skid Road Mike, a local character about town who has been living in one of the shanties on the beach east of Lincoln street, fell off the trestle near Sam Johnson's incline Saturday, evening his skull. He was found soon after, where he was lying beside some plank, and taken to the hospital. The fracture was some six inches long, extending over the head from the eye; he died Monday morning morning without having regained consciousness.

The street at this point is about twelve feet high and very poorly lighted and is not protected by a fence. Still there is no reason why a man, sober and using ordinary caution, could not navigate it in comparative safety,

It is believed that "Steamboat," whose right name was Webb Lingenfelder, has a son somewhere, but as he cannot be found the body will have to be buried by the county, to be forgotten tomorrow among the long list of the "missing."

1,350 CARS OF LOGS CUT EACH MONTH AT BIG MILL

How much business would you guess the new railroad is doing," was asked at one of the tables at the Brotherhood dinner Monday night. "From here to Port Crescent? Oh, about a thousand dollars a month," was the first reply. Another said, "Here, hold on a minute, I want a guess on that; they are hauling logs for the big mill; probably doing a business of eight thousand dollars a month." "Last September the Big Mill took five trains of ten cars each per day," was the answer, "and the receipts were twenty thousand dollars!"



MILWAUKEE OFFICIALS HERE

President Earling and Associates Take Trip Over Railroad in Private Car.

Port Angeles was honored Monday by the presence of a party of ten Milwaukee officials, who came as guests of Michael Earles to take a trip over the Port Angeles & Lake Crescent, the newest branch of the C., M. & St. P. President A. J. Earling, Vice-Pres. H. B. Earling, H. R. Williams, Vice-President of the New York Central, A. Uhrlamb, an ex-vice-president of the Milwaukee and a Chicago capitalist, Avery Ingersoll, vice-president, C. A. Goodnow, assistant to the president, R. M. Calkins, general traffic agent, H. F. Hunter, general agent, Chicago, A. L. Flewelling, Spokane, manager Milwaukee Land Co., H. H. Hunter and T. F. Kennedy, Seattle, comprised the party. A private car had been brought down on the regular trip of the car ferry and the officials after an early breakfast, left for an inspection of the line and country. Upon their return they had dinner at the Big Mill, visited the County Fair exhibit which had been kept at the opera house for their inspection, and then left on the Sol Duc for Port Townsend. Messrs. H. F. & H. H. Hunter and T. F. Kennedy extended their trip to the Sol Duc springs. All the gentlemen spoke in the highest terms of the display of fruit and agricultural products, Mr. Flewelling in particular saying he had never before seen such a display of mammoth potatoes.

SLASHED HIS THROAT WITH A RAZOR

A second suicide occurred at the Lyre river camp this week when Christ Ehn, a laborer who came here Saturday and went out to work at once, slashed his throat from ear to ear with a razor. Ern is a native of Finland, 42 years old; his brother came here with him and went to work at the same place. No reason is assigned for the act further than the belief that he was drinking and was temporarily insane. The crew had just gone out to their Sunday dinner, Ehn remaining behind, when they heard him cry out; having severed both arteries, jugulars, and windpipe, his death was a matter of only a moment or two.

BRICK WORK UNDER WAY

The corner-stone having been laid, brick laying is in progress at the court house, the walls giving every evidence of a beautiful building.

LINCOLN STREET CONTRACT NOW UNDER WAY

Grading was commenced Monday on the new Lincoln street contract, the first work being done near the Fifth street bridge where there is to be a cut of about five feet. Contractor Woods has also been getting his engine and outfit on the ground ready to put in the piling between Third and Fifth, the street being an elevated trestle at this point. Lower Lincoln street is completed, so far as sluicing is concerned, a canyon having been opened up that will compare favorably with the Ware canyon on the Elwha. Exactly 247 steps, by actual count, must be negotiated before one can reach the court house, but a high diver could reach terra firma in one jump and two seconds. The place has become so unpopular that nearly all business has been done by phone or by buttonholing the officials at such times as they are forced to come down off their perch. First street hill is a total wreck and from all appearances will remain so for some time. No filling has been done on lower First street and everyone is wondering where all the dirt is to come from for that contract; meanwhile teams have thorofare from Front to Second via trestle.

A BLACKMAILING SHEET

If anything further were needed to convince the people of Port Angeles that the Knocker is a blackmailing sheet, pure and simple, it was to be had in its coming out in support of Commissioner Clark last week, after having the week before accused him of prostituting his office to his own ends, as well as being a tool of the timber interests. What little standing that paper may have had in this community was thereby sacrificed; for in its endorsement it acknowledges that its attacks on Clark have been without reason, entirely unjustified and actuated by mercenary purposes only.

A SILO FULL OF CABBAGE

It has leaked out that Getchell's mammoth cabbage has been growing for the past three years, having been hid behind the barn so that it was not noticeable from the road. Just before the fair it loomed up over the barn and the neighbors beginning to inquire where and how he raised all that alfalfa, he thought it was time to harvest the crop.

FIRST PASSENGER TRAIN

Port Angeles now boasts a real passenger train, the Milwaukee having sent down a combination coach for the accommodation of the Joe town ranchers, all of whom are finding the railroad a great convenience, saving both time and expense on every trip to town.

THE OLYMPIC-LEADER'S TICKET

The Olympic-Leader was asked, on Friday last, why it had picked out Frank Dustman as its choice of the candidates for sheriff. The gentleman making the inquiry is our friend; he is a progressive republican, a "dry" man. Being under the impression that both of the old party candidates for sheriff were "dry," he wondered that we should have indicated a preference.

As a matter of fact the Olympic-Leader has not had a word to say editorially for or against any local candidate in either primary or in the present general election campaign. Politically, the publishers are republicans; progressive republicans if you will, but not progressives. Were we to publish "our" ticket, it would be headed by Ole Hanson, the Man of the Hour in Washington state politics, for the U. S. Senate—not because Hanson is a progressive, but because the republican candidate, Jones—is Jones. The republican candidate, L. H. Hadley, would be our choice for Congressman, and A. A. Smith for State Senator.

Now-a-days,in county or local politics, very few vote their party ticket straight. Each voter picks out those candidates whom he, or she, believes most competent. In exceptional cases, perhaps, there may be candidates notoriously unfit; but aside from such rare instances each voter is apt to believe his own personal friend the most capable and deserving. Many of us have personal friends on both tickets and in such instances we are going to find it a difficult matter to decide. Such being the case, the Olympic-Leader's ticket would merely be a list of its own personal friends, or perhaps, a partial list of its personal friends among the candidates.

The columns of the Olympic-Leader have been open to candidates of all parties; those who wished to make a simple announcement as well as those who wished to set forth, or have others set forth for them, their experience and capability, have been accommodated, at the regular space rate. Mr. Dustman's record has been published, continuously, in the Olympic-Leader as well as other papers.

However, now that the matter has been mentioned, the Olympic-Leader has no hesitancy in going on record in favor of Mr. Dustman for sheriff. Not because he would make a better official, generally speaking, than either of the other candidates, both of whom are good men, but because he has always been our friend and because he is straightforward in announcing just where he stands. No equivocation, no evasion, no doubt in his mind. Everyone who knows Frank, knows him well. They know that above all things he is honest, that he strictly adheres to that which he believes is right. If you are in doubt as to where he stands on matters in which you are interested, ask him, and your doubt will be dissipated at once.

FOR STATE SENATOR

24th DISTRICT

Clallam, Jefferson and San Juan Counties

A. A. SMITH

Port Angeles

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE

24 years a resident and booster for the Olympic Peninsula. Editor and Publisher the Port Angeles Tribune-Times.

J. E. COCHREN, ABLE, ECONOMICAL AND EFFICIENT

J. E. Cochran, republican candidate for County Attorney, deserves reelection. His official work receives and merits the commendation of courts, juries, sheriffs, police officers, clerks, lawyers, in fact all who know the real work done in that office.

His record in the courts is good.

The work of his office has increased beyond the knowledge of others than court officers and attorneys, not only in the volume of criminal work, but as well by the increased volume of work in the civil suits, numerous suits having been brought against the county in the Superior court as well as in the Federal court, besides some pending in the Supreme court.

Increased demands came for advice and opinions in matters of importance to the county until it became advisable and necessary that he have some assistance, which was given and so far has been paid for in monies not expended by, but estimated for the office. He has been so closely in the office that the expense of the office has been small.

All know where he stands on political and public issues; also that he or his firm represents no private interests adverse to those of the county; that he ever has been faithful to its interests; that he is one of the taxpayers; that he has given of his time and means in support of all measures, the object of which was the upbuilding of the city as well as measures for the betterment of educational, civic and social conditions.

He is recognized and known to be capable. He had remained hard at work on business of great importance to the county, to this date instead of forsaking or neglecting the legal work of the county in efforts to advance his political campaign for reelection, although having opposition that has devoted much if not all his time for weeks in efforts to succeed him in office.

He says that he has confidence enough in the people's ideas of justice and fair dealing to believe that they will more highly appreciate faithful service of the work they have intrusted to him, than they would his visit, handshake or personal solicitation for votes at the expense of neglected duty.

A. A. SMITH FOR STATE SENATOR

Whether or not Clallam county shall get its fair share of the million and a quarter of state road money to be raised next year, is easily the most important question before the voter at this election. We may elect a republican, a democrat, or a progressive, to the United States Senate, or to Congress, and really find it will make very little difference either way, but when it comes to matters affecting the development of this county, and particularly its development thru the extension and completion of the system of good roads, we are all vitally interested.

The Olympic-Leader would not for a moment question the ability, or integrity of purpose, of any of the candidates for state senatorship. They are all good men. However, the state senate will be republican and it stands to reason that a republican senator can do better work with republicans than a member of another party who naturally would not be admitted to their councils. However much we may deplore the fact, it still remains a fact that, under our system of government, pork barrel methods are the methods which will prevail. It will be conceded that as a politician, able to hold his own among men who are striving to attain the same end, A. A. Smith is easily the peer of any man in the county, or in the district for that matter. His wide acquaintanceship among men of the state, and particularly of Western Washington, will make his efforts effective from the first day of the session—matters might easily be framed up before the average man could have become sufficiently acquainted to know where he was at, and how it was done. The Olympic-Leader believes every man and woman in Clallam county will be serving his or her own best interest by voting for Smith for state senator.

A. J. COSSER FOR COUNTY CLERK

To the Voters of Clallam County:

In view of the demand for economical administration in county affairs it will doubtless be of interest to know that for the first time in the history of the county clerk's office the fees collected for work done more than pay all running expences of the office.

All work done in this office is on a fee basis, said fees payable to the county. The fees during the past 21 months, show that the cases handled are more than double that of previous years. An average of fees collected in this office prior to 1913 were $95.80 per month. For the past 21 months the average per month has been $231.50. Average salaries paid for clerk and deputy $123.00 monthly.

Cordially,
A. J. COSSER,
County Clerk.

MAKE IT A STREET FAIR

Occasionally we hear someone remark that next year the Fair should be held in tents at the ball park. Usually the advocate of extending the scope of the exhibition has an idea solely to horse racing and other sports. There is room in the Opera House, using the stage and balcony, for three times the exhibition had this year, and the benefit will be a hundred fold greater than that which could possibly be had from any exhibition given in the outskirts of town. Let us add real street fair features, under cover of canvas instead, and make the week one grand holiday for the whole county. Sidewalk booths with special bargain days by various firms, and something in the way of Chatauqua features in charge of men who have the ability to handle that end of the game, would be the proper solution of the fair extension problem. We have an excellent example of how not to go at it in the results attained in a neighboring county.

WHY THE TIN HORN GAMBLER?

Will someone kindly tell us wherein lies the difference between a wooden arrow that spins around at one dime a throw, the winner raking off five dimes, in cash, and the roulette wheel which is prohibited by state law? And while we were about it, we might also ask whether it would not be possible to pay the expenses of Fourth of July and County Fair celebrations without recourse to the tin horn gambler? We ask to know, but let the explanation be complete and convincing, as otherwise the resultant discussion might not be agreeable.

HAS JOINED "THE GANG"

They say that since the Knocker flopped he has plucked up courage and came down town Saturday evening for the first time in six weeks; small wonder he has been ashamed to look honest men in the face!

COUNCILMAN WILCOX WILL A FARMER BE

B. G. Wilcox traded his fine residence on 7th street for the well known Wesley Cays' farm near Sequim and will start farmer life about November 15th.

Arrival of delegates, drill teams and general reception at the Yoeman Castle at Des Moines, Iowa, are among the features to be shown at the Dream Theater Saturday night. The parade, governor's reception, capitol building, correspondents in attendance, and deputies' school will be of interest to every Iowan.

A .A. Richardson was judged insane yesterday and ordered committeed to the asylum where he will be taken today. His property interests will be looked after by the prosecuting attorney and sheriff until a guardian or administrator is appointed.

The Commercial Club will have an excursion to Forks next Tuesday, returning Wednesday. For further information phone Muck, the tailor, chairman of transportation committee.

PIONEER ELECTRIC CO. PUTS IN FINE PLANT

The lighting fixtures of the Morse building on the corner of Front and Laurel street have just been installed, making it one of the best illuminated stores on the Pacific Coast, especially the windows. The unusually even distribution of light throughout the interior of the store is obtained from two central, semi-direct fixtures, which throw the light against the ceiling from where it is evenly distributed over the entire floor space. Patrons of the store are relieved of the ordinary eye strain so common in general merchandise stores and true color values are brought out by the absence of shadows. The illumination of the windows is perfect. They are equipped throughout with the famous Frink reflectors, manufactured by the H. W. John Manville Co., and are lined throughout with imported German silver ripple glass. There is an entire absenee of shadows; the light being evenly distributed over the merchandise on display.

The passerby is not greeted with a sharp glare of light, as is usually the case. The designing and installing of the fixtures was done by the Pioneer Electric Co., of this city, and surely does them credit.

G. W. Smith, charged with assault in the third degree and also with disorderly conduct by fighting in the saloons and on the streets, was tried before Justice Doyle Friday and fined $1 and costs in each instance, after having pleaded guilty.

District Manager E. W. Winn, of the Woodmen of the World will visit Angeles camp tomorrow. Lunch will be served and a social time had after the lodge meeting.

See the pictures of the Castle Dedication and Homecoming of the Brotherhood of American Yoeman at the Dream Theater, Saturday evening.

I BUY AT HOME

Because my interests are here.

Because the community that is good enough for me to live in is good enough for me to buy in.

Because I believe in transacting business with my friends.

Because I want to see the goods.

Because I want to get what I buy when I pay for it.

Because every dollar I spend at home stays at home and works for the welfare of this town.

Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods.

Because I sell what I produce here at home.

Because the man I buy from helps support my school, my church, my home.

Because when ill luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man I buy from is here with his kindly greeting, his word of cheer and his pocketbook if need be.

Because I get my living in this state. Don't you? Here I live and here I buy. I buy at home. Don't you?

STEPHEN J. CHADWICK

MOST PROGRESSIVE SUPREME COURT IN UNITED STATES

Theodore Roosevelt, in an article published in the Outlook more than a year ago, declared that the supreme court of the state of Washington is the most progressive supreme court in the United States. Particularly is this true of Judges Chadwick and Crow, who are now candidates for reelection. It is said the attorneys of the state, without regard to party are in favor of retaining these gentlemen; that they are able lawyers and absolutely fair to all alike.

On the other hand the light which has been thrown on Mills and Pemberton show that they are no more desirable than the notorious Humphrey, neither of them being the kind of material desired by the people to represent them on the supreme bench. Senator LaFollette's exposo of Mills, when the latter was a member of the Wisconsin legislature, has done much to destroy whatever chances that gentleman may have had, and the fact that newspapers have called attention to Judge Pemberton having acquired quite a snug fortune by dealing in delinquent tax certificates has done much to injure him with voters thruout the state. Senator LaFollette has publically declared that Mills, while in the Wisconsin legislature as a Progressive, threw down the party and lined up with the Spooner machine, later receiving a government position at Washington in return for his perfidy.

There is hardly a tax payer in the state who has not gone up against the vicious provisions of the delinquent fifteen per cent tax law, and it is probably the most unpopular law on the statute books today .Until a Bellingham newspaper called attention to Judge Pemberton's fortune and the fact that he acquired it by taking advantage of the financial misfortunes of tax payers, the voters of the state did not know much concerning the Whatcom county candidate. Now they seem to know all they need to know to vote against him.

October 20, 1914.

To the People of Port Angeles and the 24th Senatorial District of the State of Washington:

The undersigned is a candidate on the Democratic Ticket for State Senator for the Twenty-Fourth District, comprising Jefferson, Clallam and San Juan counties.

He has lived in Port Angeles twenty-seven years. If elected he will support Governor Lister to secure more economical and efficient public service.

Dr. Lewis has served on the city council and has had three terms as Mayor of this city. It is to his initiative that the city owes its electric light system. During the three terms of his mayorship, the following things were accomplished:

First. The restoration to the government domain of a useless fortification reserve at the west end of the Townsite, of about 400 acres.

Second. The securing to the city of Port Angeles a magnificent tract of 160 acres for a city park.

Third. A movement was commenced by him as Mayor, to secure the reappraisment of the Ten-Acre Blocks west of "M" street, whereby these lots have been sold and have become a part of the taxable property of the city.

If elected to the office to which he aspires, he will endeavor to secure legislation providing for state aid to actual settlers on wild lands ,to be returned to the state, principal and interest in 15 years; also such a system of taxation as shall rest equably on the people in all parts of the state.

Owing to an injury to my right eye, received about the beginning of the campaign, and to the fact that I am still under treatment of a specialist, I shall not be able to make personal canvas of this district. However, to the people of these three counties, I am not wholly unknown, and I know that they will bear with me in the effort I am making to save my eyesight, and I have promised in case of election to represent all the people of this district in an honest and faithful manner.

Respectfully,
DR. F. S. LEWIS.

You must keep in contact with the dynamo if you would be a real live wire; join the Angeles Commercial Club and get some of the juice.

felt that all the timber in the county was not on the tax rolls. He also felt that the amount carried on the rolls was not charged in the same proportion to farm property, and city and town lots.

That Mr. Hallahan made good his promise and kept faith with the people of the county is shown by the result.

What is the result? After making a thorough cruise of the county, 2,500,000,000 feet of timber was gained over and above the amount formerly charged, and is now added to the tax rolls.

Nearly 2,000,000,000 feet of this was added to the tax rolls two years ago and the balance this year.

This amount of timber assessed (for instance) at 50 cents per thousand would increase the assessment $1,250,000.00 and figured at 30 mills on the dollar would increase the tax $37,500.00 in one year.

The entire cost of this cruise, when the clerical work is completed, will not be to exceed $60,000.00. Therefore the 2,000,000,000 feet added to the rolls two years ago has nearly paid for the entire cost of the cruise, leaving this added amount of timber a clear gain for all time in the future; in other words the amount of timber gained as a result of the cruise has paid for the entire cost of cruising and will remain a county asset for taxation for a long term of years in the future, while if the cruise had not been made this amount of timber would escape taxation for all time in the future as it has done in the past.

A further gain will be the section plats prepared to show the amount of timber by ten acre tracts on each section, also showing all hills, gulches, creeks, slopes, roads, kind of soil, etc. This record will be perpetual.

A card index of the city has also been prepared, minimizing the possibilities of errors in assessment and bringing about equality.

A plat book has likewise been added showing all metes and bounds descriptions.

A complete abstract of all lands and city lots has been added, giving the names of the owners and descriptions of their property.

All of the foregoing and many other minor additions have been made to the office records in excess of the regular duties of making the assessment, writing up the tax rolls and extending the tax levied by the board.

In the year 1911 when Mr. Hallahan first assumed charge of the office, the timber lands of the county were assessed at $5,699,885.00. This year the assessment on timber lands is $10,062,205.00 which goes to show that the assessment on timber lands has been nearly doubled, or raised fram five to ten million dollars.

At the last session of the Equalization Board, no one protested against the assessment except the large holders of timber and a few of the smaller ones.

The tenor of the protest follows:

We submit that none of the first class timber should be assessed at to exceed 50 cent per thousand and none of the second class timber to exceed 25 cents per thousand.

"We submit that you should raise the general valuation of agricultural lands and city and town lots and each class of personal property."

After reading this protest it is evident that the timber men want their timber assessment cut down and all other classes of property raised up.

In order to do this, they must control at least three members of the Equalization Board, which consists of three commissioners, the assessor, and the treasurer.

There are many evidences to show that they do not want Mr. Hallahan as treasurer and a member of the Equalization Board. He has doubled their assessment during his term as assessor. He is tecnically familiar with the assessment rolls. He is too familiar with the timber records which he has built up. His influence on the Equalization Board would be too great and above all he cannot be handled.

Every influence, every subterfuge, every strategy known to the skilled politician is, and will be used to prevent him being elected treasurer and a member of the Equalization Board.

Too often snares and pitfalls are prepared and set to catch unsuspecting and well meaning people; very often they are persuaded, even against their better judgment, to do things, to vote for candidates which they are afterwards sorry for, after having discovered the deceit.

Don't be deceived by designing individuals who either have an ax to grind themselves, or are themselves the hirelings of some timber corporation.

Vote for John Hallahan for treasurer. His name will be found on the Democratic ticket.

VOTE FOR

FRANK DUSTMAN

FOR SHERIFF

Frank Dustman, democratic nominee for sheriff, is one of the old timers of Clallam county, having come to Port Angeles from Ohio (where he was born in 1872) in 1891, twenty-four years ago.

While, like all newcomers, he worked at various things these first years, for the past eleven years he has been with the Angeles Telephone Company, resigning his position as superintendent a few months ago to accept that of lineman with the Olympic Power Company.

He was city marshal for three years, and for the four years ending December 31st next, has been city councilman.

Mr. Dustman has made good in all positions, private as well as public. As a member of the council, he has always worked for public improvements . Commencing his first term at a time when street assessment districts were unknown in Port Angeles, he has worked faithfully with the more progressive element of council and city to the end that we have now a quarter of a million of street improvements under way.

He has the respect and esteem of every citizen of the county with whom he is acquainted, any of whom will freely say there is no question of his ability and that he would fulfill the duties of the office satisfactorily, giving everyone a square deal.

To the Voters
Clallam County

On account of business matters, it has been impossible for me to make an extensive canvass of the county in the interests of my candidacy for county assessor. Therefore, I take this method of calling yonr attention to my candidacy and soliciting your support in the coming election.

Having had 12 years experience in office work in Indianapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis, prior to coming to Clallam county, I consider myself qualified to discharge the duties of that office to your satisfaction, and, if elected, shall conduct the affairs of that office honestly, courteously, and as economically as possible consistent with good service.

I am not the candidate of any particular class of tax papers, but, if elected, shall endeavor to be fair and impartial, treating all alike and with special privileges to none,

Respectfully,

E. A. PRICKETT,

Republican Candidate County Assessor

The first meeting of the Brotherhood for the coming year was held at the Congregational church Monday evening, when officers were elected and a real dinner enjoyed. Benj. Phillips is the new president, P. J. White, vice-president, A. J. Cosser secretary and Conrad Luppen, treasurer. A discussion as to the advisibility of taking steps to acquire the gulch portions of about ten lots in Civic Park occupied most of the evening, G. V. Smith, J. W. Lindsay and Benj. Phillips being appointed a committee to see the council in regard to the ordering of a rough survey by the city engineer. R. D. Willson also reported that inasmuch as the Ladies' Auxiliary desired to pay off that grading assessment the next spring, he had seen those who had pledged contributions toward the moving of the present building, and they being willing that the subscriptions should be used in cancellation of the indebtedness, it would only be necessary to raise some eighty dollars additional. The indebtedness cleared up, the ladies will be able to take steps toward the securing of a Carnegie library building.

TO THE VOTERS OF CLALLAM COUNTY

The following is what I believe. If it meets with your approval, I ask your support at the coming election.

1. A thorough investigation and a conscientious vote on all measures introduced in the coming session.

2. The advocation of economy in state and county, also in state appropriations and the expenditure of same. (Look at your tax receipts and see how much you pay toward the state's expenses; then notice the substantial salaries the members of the numerous commissions are drawing.)

3. The introduction of an efficient and satisfactory school law regarding industrial and agricultural education.

4. To stand for a working legislature as against political machines, and the insidious threats and tactics of the lobbyist.

5. State road appropriation for Clallam county, and all necessary improvements that will benefit the people at large.

6. While I am a firm believer in the basic principles involved in the Referendum, the Recall, and the Primary law, I believe that these laws as they now stand, can and should be improved.

7. I am in favor of a public administrator appointed by the Court, whose fees and compensation are regulated by law.

8. I am in favor of a law that will protect the people of the State of Washington from the numerous fake stock selling concerns and schemes.

9. I agree to stand for and give my support to such laws as will benefit the people as a whole and not to special interests.

Yours respectfully,
ROBERT A. GILMORE.

COURT HOUSE DEDICATION

building of the court house, list of all county and city officials, names of the Grand Lodge officers, and copies of the Olympic-Leader and Tribune-Times. During the exercises the music was furnished by the Marine Band. The principal address was given by the Grand Orator of the State Lodge, Ralph McAllaster of Seattle, who said:

Ralph G. McAllaster's Address

Most Worshipful Grand Master,
Ladies and Gentlemen:—

The weather conditions are inopportune for an extended address, but such an occasion should not pass without some reference to the meaning of this ceremony, and the reason for its performance by the Institution under whose auspices it is conducted.

This ceremony as performed here today is strictly a symbolic one. The laying of this corner-stone as we have done it is in no way necessary to the physical perfection of the building. Placed as we have placed it it adds nothing to the strength or stability of the structure, yet it has a place of value, and adds to the intrinsic value of the edifice because of the symbolism with which it has been placed.

Symbolism plays a large part in our lives. No matter how everyday we may feel ourselves to be, and no matter how little thought we give to the idea itself, we all of us, more or less, are followers of symbols. Among the things which we see, and know and understand, we catch some glimpse of the higher things toward which we strive. Some bird, or beast, or flower, or person, or idea holds for us a hint of a greater and wider truth toward which we feel that we are striving, and these become to us a guide and inspiration which help us toward our better lives.

So it is appropriate that a corner-stone be laid by an institution which, while it is now a speculative society only, goes back in its history and tradition to the day when it was strictly an operative society. When its initiates, entered Apprentice Masons, served their masters with care and fidelity through a certain length of time, and gained a reasonable degree of operative skill before they were advanced from the state of burden bearing and attendance on others into the constructive degree of Fellow Craft Mason. Here they served their time of active operation and construction, studying the management of the workers in the grade below them and the planning and superintendence given by those above them in rank, until they were qualified for promotion to the degree of a Master Mason. So today we, a speculative society, are engaged in raising among our members and in the community with which we come in contact a structure of character, which shall add to our standing as men, as fathers, as husbands, as citizens.

It is particularly appropriate that this Fraternity should be called upon to lay the corner-stone of a building for the administration of law. We are a law abiding and a law inculcating society. If you have ever had the privilege of attending the public installation of officers of a Masonic Lodge you must have been struck with the fact that the representative member, the man who has been chosen to preside over the Lodge for the coming year, is called upon to give allegiance to certain charges and regulations which he is told are ancient, and have been required of Masters of Masonic Lodges from time immemorial, and the fact that the first demands made upon him have no particular reference to the fraternity, but establish his relation to the world at large and insist upon his obedience to the established law.

The first requirement laid upon him is obedience to the moral law, that great fundamental, basic principle on which society is built and without which it cannot continue to exist. He is then obligated to be a peaceable citizen and conform to the laws of the country in which he resides, not to be concerned in plots and conspiracies against government but to submit to the law and the constituted authorities, and to pay a proper respect to the civil magistrates. So you see, this Fraternity inculcates the principles for which this building is to become a symbol in this community, the regular, orderly administration of law.

In the great book of the Law which lies upon the altar of every Masonic Lodge is a story of the great Teacher, the greatest teacher who has ever left His impress on the world. Those who opposed Him were trying to find some fault for which He might be punished and they endeavored to convict Him of treason. To do so they asked whether or not it was lawful for them, Jews, to pay tribute to Caesar, the Roman Emperor who held sway over Palestine. "Bring me a penny" said He. "Whose image and superscription is this?" He asked, as it lay in His hand, and they answered him "Caesar's," then said He, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

So, I trust, will this building stand in the eyes of this community, a place where the right shall be established, where that which is a man's own shall be established unto him. Where all may come, rich and poor, old and young, black men and white, Jew and Gentile, man and woman, and each feel that his interests will be fairly considered, and the right shall be established. A place where judge and jury shall be governed by the principle which this Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons endeavors to establish among men. Where if your officials do not deem it wise to write these words over the head of him who presides over this court, they may at least be written in the hearts of every officer who shall have to do with the administration of law, and become the guiding spirit of this community in the relation of its various members one with another.

The Banquet and Ball

About 250 attended the banquet and ball in the evening at the Olympic hotel. Long tables were spread in the spacious lobby and beautifully decorated with roses and autumn flowers.

At one end of the speakers' table sat Mr. H. M. Fisher, who acted as toastmaster, and at the other sat J. C. Hansen. Each of the visiting gentlemen was provided with a partner from the bevy of handsome young ladies and women present.

The visiting Masons were surely a jolly bunch, and each one had a funnier story to tell than his predecessor.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Sutton of Cheney, Most Worshipful Grand Master. He expressed his pleasure at being able to participate in the important ceremony of the afternoon as well as at the evening festivities, and was glad of the opportunity of coming to the "liviest and most talked of town in the state of Washington." He told one or two good stories at the expense of the state chaplain, Mr. Painter of Tacoma, who later had an opportunity of getting even. It was rather unusual for a minister to have such a wonderful fund of funny stories to draw upon, but Grand Chaplain Painter succeeded in keeping his listeners convulsed with laughter for about 20 minutes. While he was not at present wearing the stripes, he told of the many years he had served at Walla Walla and but recently had been transferred from Steilacoom, probably that would explain where he got all the funny stories. Other speakers were: Dr. Horsfall, E. A. Klenze, U. S. Fay and Ralph McAllaster, all of Seattle.

Judge Chadwick, candidate for reelection on the supreme bench, made the principal address of the evening. He spoke at some length of Masonry and the beneficial results of such organizations. His father had been a prominent Mason and Judge Chadwick himself, has filled all the offices of trust and honor to be conferred by the Grand Lodge, and his wife has been just as prominent in the Eastern Star. His address was listened to with a great deal of interest, as he is an earnest and forceful speaker, and one who never fails to leave a good thought with his listeners.

During the serving of the banquet, the orchestra played a number of beautiful selections which brought forth hearty applause.

They also furnished the music for the ball which followed the banquet and which was a happy climax to the day's pleasure.

DECLINES THE NOMINATION

To My Friends, the Voters of Clallam County.

It is evident, to me from the results of the primaries that the majority vote of our county is largely non-partisan, Progressive Republiccan.

I was honored with the nomination for county treasurer by the Progressive Party. Herbert H. Wood, the successful Republican candidate, also received a number of Progressive votes. I believe Mr. Wood to be eminently qualified to fill the office of county treasurer, and is deserving of the vote of all Progressives, regardless of party.

I therefore decline the nomination and ask for Mr. Wood the support of all my friends.

PRIZES AWARDED AT YOEMEN'S FESTIVAL

The Yoemen Children's Festival Wednesday evening was well attended, there being over 50 Yoemen children present, of which several took part in the annual prize contest. Archer Mayor White gave a strong and impressive talk on Yoemanry, followed by the reading of the Grand Foreman's Proclamation by E. L. Snyder, District Manager of Clallam, Jefferson and Mason counties. Mrs. Oro Hickok had charge of the program. The judges of the contest were Mayor White, Miss Wiggins and Mrs. E. O. Brown. The prizes were awarded to the following contestants: Frank Hickok, Ola Brown, Edna Hopf and Donald Snyder. At the close of the program the children were ushered into the dining room which was tastefully decorated in Yoeman colors, red and green. They did ample justice to the usual refreshments. Ice cream and cake was also served to all present and all departed feeling well repaid for making the children happy on this, another occasion.

Marilla Hopf, Dist. 7, Port Angeles, sofa pillows, 50c.

Exhibits will be sent from Port Angeles to Tacoma but teachers and pupils will please remember that exhibits may also be sent directly from your own district. Tags will be sent to you upon request. If you have no tags on hand, the exhibit may be marked on ordinary paper as follows: Name; Age; Grade; P. O.; County.

The City of Angeles will leave on special trip for Seattle Wednesday, October 28th, at 2:30 p. m. The excursion rate for the trip good for one week will be $2.00.

District clerks are notified that warrants will be held up unless the teacher's contract is sent in to the office for approval and for registration.

PRIZE FRUIT SENT TO FRISCO EXPOSITION

Nineteen boxes of the choicest exhibits, including all the prize winning fruit, was packed by Secretary Teck and shipped Wednesday afternoon to San Francisco, where it will be kept in cold storage until the exposition opens. Space has also been promised in the Milwaukee offices in Seattle for the display of farming produce, so that poeple coming from the East in search of a location may learn that Clallam is the big timber county of the state she has other resources. The remainder of the exhibits are displayed at the Commercial Club rooms, open to inspection at an time. Residents will be expected to take their visiting friends up and show them the nubbins that were left.

Among the Sequim and Dungeness visitors to the fair and the laying of the corner-stone last week were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Babcock, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Mr and Mrs. Jens Buggy, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. and Frank Lotzgesell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Adams Mr. and Mrs. James Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. James Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. AN EVENING WITH THE STARS

The first number of School Lecture Course, "An Evening with the Stars," one of the Baumgart lectures, will be given at the High School Auditorium next Monday, October 16.

No pains have been spared to make this lecture an intellectual treat. The stereopticon views are from celestial negatives obtained principally at the Yerkes and Lick Observatories by the world-renowned astronomers, Hale, Barnard, Ritchie Keeler, Burnham, Roberts and others. In a most realistic manner these views convey to the eye and mind the surprising progress that has been made during recent years in celestial photography and research. They present as in a bewildering phantasmagorical and absolutely truthful pictures of the mysterious universe in which we find ourselves awakened to consciousness.

The lecture commences with our nearest neighbor in space, the moon. By the aid of the marvelous lantern views we are privileged to travel as it were on our satellite scenery that is always new, among mountain peaks casting fantastic shadows, and to behold large oceanbeds from which all water has long ago disappeared. They will even permit us to behold the morning sun illuminating the precipitous crags and peaks on one side of the moon while sunset is taking place on the other, the land gradually sinking into its long night of two weeks. Indeed, the thoughtful mind cannot resist the contemplation that in the sterile condition of the moon today we have a signal prophesy of the inevitable fate that will eventually overtake our own earth.

The planets are taken up in their respective orders and distances from the sun. Jupiter and Saturn with their wonderful satellite systems are dealt with in detail. Our ruddy neighbor Mars is always interesting on account of its comparative proximity to the earth. Is this planet inhabited? The popular notion is that it is the abode of intelligent life. but among astronomers who are best in position to know quite conservative views are held on this subject. All the evidence on this interesting subject, both positive and negative, is presented.

Comets, those mysterious visitors to our solar system from the infinitudes of space, which in all ages have exerted such a potent influence on the superstitious element in man, have finally been forced to yield to the photographic plate.

At one time no less than one hundred and fifty thousand stars are shown on the screen, all suns, which, in all probability, are surrounded with retinues of planets and satellites like our own.

To the contemplative mind this lecture with its accompanying views will prove a revelation of the very highest order. Its mission is to assist the audience to attain more correct notions of the imposing grandeur, majesty and beauty of the sidereal universe and to give a faint idea of the infinite scale on which its evolution is transpiring.

FINE SHOWING AT THE FAIR

Work of the Children

The various school exhibits were very interesting and attracted a great deal of attention. The exhibit made by the domestic science class of the Angeles schools was a very creditable showing and all the things looked real tempting and appetizing. It was too early in the school year for much of an exhibit from the manual training department, but what there was, was good, and bore the ear marks of something better later on. The drawings and paintings were especially worthy of mention, some of the children showing real talent.

A number of handsome pieces of fine needle work and crocheting were exhibited and greatly admired; among them were several lovely collars and a bed room set consisting of crocheted spread, pillow cases and valance which were truly beautiful; with their hemstitching and exquisite fine lace trimming. These were made by Mrs. Martha Smith, an old lady past 77.

Attractive Private Booths

The available space being almost entirely taken up with exhibits, there were few private booths. Mr. Van Brocklin of the Toggery had combined large pillars of fir in the beautifully varigated bark, and connected with chains, with crepe paper and autumn leaves, making a suitable background for his display of fine furnishings. The Phelps Dry Goods and Millinery Store exhibited a line of Gossard garments—leggins or something like that—ranging in price from $2 to $25 and presumably the latest in their line. The Rexall Drug Store had a fine display of chocolates and a few other things, the quality of Rexall goods being emphasized in a practical way which attracted considerable attention. Mrs. Troy exhibited a few of the prettiest things in hand-painted china from her studio, her vases being particularly admired. The Angeles Studio had an interesting photographic display—portraits, scenery, street improvements, and so on, while the Acme Printing Co., in a miniature printing shop, attractively decorated with calendars, turned out visiting cards "while the customer waited." There was a four foot wide board from the Big Mill, an exhibit of Star A Star shingles, the kind that have made Angeles famous, from the Wait mill, and the Mettler Co. showed their building blocks and drain tile.

Calf 100 Per Cent Perfect

Three Holsteins, a bull, cow and the dearest little mostly white bull calf were shown as the exhibit from the County Farm, specimen animals from the herd that in a few years will make the Holstein a common breed in the central part of the county, where now all high grade animals are Jerseys. These are said to be of an exceptionally fine strain, far superior to the ordinary animal of that breed. Breeders who have sized up the calf unite in pronouncing him perfect in all points, a 100 per cent animal.

The Afternoons Program

Owing to the absence of Horticultural Inspector Huff, who was to deliver an address on the organization of rural interests, as well as to assist in the work of judging, the published program was not carried out. Donald McInnes, president of the State Dairyman's Ass'n., gave an informal talk on methods in agriculture and dairying, which proved very interesting.

Mrs. C. L. Haggard of Sequim, who was scheduled for an address on floriculture, which many of the ladies were anxious to hear, had not prepared anything and delivered instead of one or two recitations and a talk on prohibition.

Miss Ethel Welsh and William Welsh, each, kindly consented to sing during the afternoon.

An Attendance of 1500

The admission fee of ten cents, the charge being made to assist in the expense of preparation of the exhibits for the San Francisco exposition, showed an attendance of 1243, but as many half price children's tickets were sold and as no charge was made exhibitors, it is believed the attendance was fully 1500, and this in spite of the fact that it rained almost continually. The fair was attended by people from Ozette Lake, Forks, Clallam, and other points in the West End, as well as by quite a number from the Dungeness and Sequim country, and many more would have been here had the fine weather of the early week continued until Sunday.

THE WEEK'S PROGRAM AT THE DREAM

Saturday evening the Dream will show a special two-reel feature, the American Yoeman, by request of that lodge.

Monday, "The Yellow Traffic," a four-reel feature, said to be very fine indeed.

Wednesday, "The Only Son," featuring Thomas W. Ross, a noted actor.

Thursday, "The Trey O' Hearts," when you will do well to get your seats early.

Every Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday a five piece orchestra will add to the pleasure of the evening. Prices 5 and 10 cents, except for the Famous Players play on Wednesday.

ROYAL ARCH CHAPTER

During the presence in the city last week of the Grand officers of the Masonic order a Royal Arch Chapter was instituted, No. 38, which will meet the first and third Wednesdays of each month in the Masonic hall. The following officers were installed: High Priest, Chester C. Dobbs; King, R. E. Simmonds, Scribe, K. O. Erickson,; Treasurer, Will Johnson; Secretary, E. J. Walton; C. of H., O. A. Peititt; P. of S., F. C. Twadell; R. of C., Paul Paulson; 3d V.—D. E. McGillivray; 2d V—Robert Gilmore; 1st V—Ed Short; Chaplain—W. H. Peter.

HARRY BEETLE MARRIED

Harry Beetle, of the Rexall Drug Store, was married in Snohomish, Tuesday, Oct. 20th, to Miss Emelie Hansen of that city. They are expected to return to Angeles in a few days and will go right to housekeeping. Mr. Beetle has made many friends during his short residence in Port Angeles, all of whom will be glad to welcome his wife. The Olympic-Leader extends congratulations and wishes.

NOTHING MUCH DOING, AT THAT!

"The Bee fails to see how it is going to fail when the editor can replace any man on the job, get out the paper alone, and look after his medical practice." Has it got that bad?

YOEMAN MOVING PICTURES

The brotherhood of American Yoeman in moving pictures. Castle Dedication and Homecoming at Des Moines, Iowa, will be exhibited in two reels at the Dream Theater, Saturday evening, the 24th.

MT. PLEASANT.

Mr. Joe Krajewski and Ed Buchman left Wednesday for the Olympic Hot Springs on a pleasure trip.

Mrs. Hall and daughter, Eleanor, who were visiting in town a few days, returned home Sunday.

Mr. Harrington was quite seriously hurt last week, on Wednesday. His team became frightened and started to run, knocking him down and the wagon ran over him, breaking one rib and bruising him quite badly. At last report he was improving nicely, but will not be able to work for some time.

Frank Dustman was a business visitor to Mt. Pleasant Tuesday.

Harvey Lozier arrived Sunday at the home of Milford Eacrett, expecting to stay for some weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy McLaughlin made a short visit at the McLaughlin ranch, returning home Sunday evening. Mrs. McLaughlin entertained a number of the neighbors with a fine chicken dinner in honor of the bride and groom.

Mr. Wm. Boyd visited several days at Dry Creek, returning home Monday.

Miss Bessie Fowler arrived Monday to visit at the home of her brother, Wm. Watts.

DE FUCA

Mr. J. A. Reeve has gone to Angeles to bale hay for C. L. Babcock.

James Wooding is off baling hay with Mr. Reeve.

Mr. N. Heuhslein, Jr., was in Seattle last week and bought a stump pulling outfit.

Mr. Joe Pellerin has been doing some plowing for Mr. Heuhslein this week.

Mrs. F. P. Laurens has her second crop of strawberries just ripening.

Miss Helen Laurens and her sister Francis, went to Angeles Friday evening to take in the fair. They returned Saturday, bringing their sister Minna, out with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Richards also went to town Friday to attend the fair.

Take a trip to the Yoeman Castle at the Dream Theater Saturday night; two 800-ft. reels showing all details of building and grounds, together with their dedication.

FAIRVIEW.

Five first prizes and two others were captured by the Fairview folks. Hurrah for Fairview, we will try and do a little better than that next year.

Mr. Albert Pierce of Sequim called on the editor of the Fairview items one day last week.

The Cary family spent last Sunday at Blue Mountain.

If you havn't seen the comet yet get out some evening about 7:30 and look to the northeast.

Three new telephones have been added to our line, making a total of ten in all. Some busy line this.

S. Emery of Blue Mountain was a business visitor in this city a few days ago.

Mothers and girls hunt up the Seattle Star of October 15th and read the article on dress and false makeupsups. It surely is plain talk, but alas, 'tis true.

Mrs. Berlinguette's boiled apple dumplings: Pare and slice a dozen medium sized apples, put in a rather flat kettle with four cups water and place on the stove, sift two medium teaspoons of baking powder and a pinch of salt with two cups flour, stir up real stiff with sweet milk and drop in kettle as for chicken dumplings. Cook altogether until apples and dumplings are done. Do not remove cover too often. Serve with a dip made of sweetened milk to which has been added cinnamon or alspice. These are very easily made and are well worth trying.

Mrs. John Gutenburg left for Seattle the early part of this week after a delightful visit of several weeks with relatives and old friends in Port Angeles, where she resided for many years herself. A number of pleasant social gatherings and dinner parties were given in her favor while here. She expects to leave Seattle soon to spend the winter in Florida.
