Mrs. Werner presented a beautiful orchid corsage to the "mother-to-be".

BUY YOUR BUDDY POPPY

"In Flanders Field the poppies blow... "so went the immortal words of Col. John McCrae's poem. Little did he realize when he penned those lines that some day they would be the true symbol of all those who gave their lives in our nation's wars. But that is the case today. Annually, the Veterans of Foreign Wars sponsors the Buddy Poppy Sale in the West End area to raise money for needy and disabled veterans. This is their way of "honoring the dead by helping the living". You, too, can pay your respects on May 22 and 23 when the Buddy Poppies will be on sale in this community. Do your part--buy a Buddy Poppy and wear it proudly.

Auction proceeds total over $2,200

AUCTION--Kate Campbell takes a bid over the telephone for a quilt which is being auctioned off over the radio by Otos Friday night during the Scholarship auction. By Lonnie Archibald

It was auction time again, April 30 and May 1st over KVAC. This was the third year for the auction and the proceeds totaled over $2200. The first year, the proceeds were $2500 and last year the proceeds were only about $1500. All the items auctioned off were donated by people of the community. Everything from a calf to a "just out of the oven" blackberry pie were donated. The high bidder on the pie even got out of bed to come to the station to pick it up.

Council Discusses Various Topics

The Forks Town Council met Monday, May 11, at the Town Hall.

A building permit was issued to Myron Simmons to build a garage. The estimated cost is $2500.

Councilman Chuck Anderson, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Kennedy, read a letter from the Clallam County Health district concerning their investigation of the proposed Thomas Addition to Forks. Don Morrison, of the health district stated that in his opinion the ground should prove well enough drained, but Morrison suggested the disapproval of two lots, because in his opinion they did not provide adequate drainage. The matter was tabled until further discussion can be held.

Mrs. Charlie Barlow donated one of her paintings, a clam digger scene, it went for $145.

Other items donated included a dozen eggs, and two quarts of root beer, a boat, a car, with a stuck valve, for the Demolition Derby, a dozen Danish pastries, a dozen quarts of dill pickles, a day's free baby-sitting and many more items too numerous to mention.

Thanks to Mr. Traver, several of the high school girls were able to come over to the station to help with the cataloging and issuing certificates for merchandise purchased.

Thanks also to the women of the community who so unselfishly donated their time to answer the phone and help with the auction.

But the real thanks goes to the people of the community, who through their united efforts have made it possible this year and the past several years to award scholarships to deserving students, without the donations the auction would not have been held.

Accident near Clallam Bay claims life

Francis Hayles of Ephrata was fatally injured Friday, May 8, when the car in which he was a passenger was involved in a head-on collision about one-tenth of a mile south of Clallam Bay. The accident occurred when a 1970 Pontiac driven by Gary Bear, 23, Clallam Bay, and a 1966 Chrysler driven by Harvey Barnhill, 64, of Bremerton collided when the vehicle driven by Bear crossed the center line, striking the Barnhill vehicle head-on. Both vehicles were totally demolished.

Bear was treated for a fractured right arm and facial lacerations. Stella Hayles, a passenger in the Barnhill vehicle was treated for a fractured ankle and wrist. Barnhill was treated for bruises and abrasions. The injured were taken to Olympic Memorial Hospital in Port Angeles.

Rounding out the five-man board are Vincent Kretz, Seattle, and Fred Greiner, Edmonds.

This is the first such permit ever granted to a U.S. firm to ship copper ore from the West Coast of this country, is either a health or safety hazard. There will be a combined council meeting in Port Angeles, May 18 to discuss the proposed local sales tax. The next meeting will be May 25.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor, If you hear snorts from south of the county line, namely in Jefferson county's West End, it will be in protest against those house-holders of the area who are now proposing a closed range for that area.

not be allowed on another's property without consent of the owner of such property; sheep, goats and pigs and a later law has ruled horses off the highway, if unattended and especially at night, to cause the most spectacular accidents, as disruptive in fact, as elk sometimes do.

So how about a closed range for the Hoh Valley? As I mentioned before we had experience with the closed range. Assuming you are a cattle rancher and the range is closed to your livestock, the first thing you must do is enclose all your pastures and make leasing agreements with absentee owners so that your fencing project may be most flexible.

on it became the state shoreland of that stream. The upland which was retained by the United States was often granted to the private holder as timber claim or homestead. Our present homesite and pasture consist of some 200 acres along the river and the elusive Hoh has not only jumped our meander line that separates our premises from the state shoreland, but has cut deeply into our land.

The U.S. engineers informed us that this does not change our ownership of land, but the river in its new bed remains a public right-of-way across us. The banks and river bottom are our legal property, the waters of the Hoh flowing over us are public water of a navigable stream.

The river incidentally qualifies as a legal fence, for it stops cattle, any object, hill, bluff, gully or other natural open range for more than 2 1/2 years, yet in that time fishermen crossing our pasture have left gates open and let our cattle out repeatedly and they have been involved in accidents three or four times as a result.

O.K., so if we were to get any closed range, of course I would at once have to get real cranky; gates locked, no trespass signs and it would automatically close more than half a mile of one shore of the river to use.

Do we want compulsory fencing and the closing of long stretches of our rivers to open recreation use?

I certainly don't. LENA FLETCHER

Craig Rhyne chairman of UW group

A group of University of Washington students formally announced recently the formation of a new student committee on the University campus. Craig Rhyne, chairman of the newly formed Students for Responsible Expression, said the group was organized for the dual purpose of: 1. Acting as a liaison between University students and the taxpaying community at large.

2. Assisting the local authorities and administration to properly exercise their duties in contending with revolutionary inspired disruptions. Rhyne, a sophomore in electrical engineering, said the group had been formed in response to a very real demand by his fellow students for such an organization. He indicated their first project would be to circulate a petition among the student-body of the University, demanding the prompt and permanent expulsion by the administration of the university, of any professor, student or group, demonstrating in such a manner as to infringe upon the rights and privileges of their fellow students or faculty.

Commenting on the cancellation of classes Friday announced by Dr. Charles Odegaard, Rhyne accused the administration of violating the trust with which they had been charged--that trust being to provide to those legitimately seeking, an education in a peaceful academic environment. The group demanded that Dr. Odegaard live up to this trust, and to his responsibilities as chief administrator of the university, or to relinquish his position to someone more willing and better prepared to do so. In the event that he should refuse to do either, the organization went on record as urging the proper authorities, whether board of regents, governor, or state

THANK YOU

The board members of the Quillayute Valley Scholarship Fund, Inc. take this opportunity to publicly acknowledge the outstanding community service of Gordon Otos and radio station Kvac in raising $2200.00 for scholarships for Forks High School graduates. We, of course, realize that without the co-operation of hundreds of people in this area who donated goods and services to be auctioned, this could not have happened.

So to radio station Kvac and all the good people who participated in this year's telephone auction, we say thanks, and well done! Robert D. Rosmond, President, Q.V.S.F., Inc. legislature, to take all necessary action to return the University of Washington to administration by competent personnel with well defined senses of responsibility and conviction.

Meditation By Pastor William Cross

In this life almost all parents are vitally concerned about preparing their children for the future. With the knowledge of an ever-changing society, pregnant with the unknown, that preparation becomes increasingly vital and important. May I suggest that the best place to find the help which is needed is, first of all, the Word of God, the Bible; and, secondly, in the Church which believes and teaches that the Bible is the totally inspired Word of God.

Regardless of what field of endeavor or life's occupation young people may eventually find themselves in there will come a day when they will be called upon to go "over the top". This may not necessarily call for the same wartime application with its prevalent possibility of injury, mutilation or death. However, they may be called upon to take a stand or champion a truth or proclaim a message that could cause them, in a real sense, to experience all three: injury to pride; mutilation of friendships; and, perhaps most important of all, death to self and selfish ambitions.

Patriotism or zeal for a cause has enabled men to sacrifice their own well-being and even their very lives with a great display of courage. It has been well stated, however, that it often takes more courage to live than to die. I wonder if this is why many adults and young people stay away from the Bible-teaching Church!!!

The message of the Bible declares that Jesus Christ went "over the top"; that is, He gave His life a ransom for all!! He died that man might live!! John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." The message He gives to those who would believe in Him as their Saviour; crown Him as their Lord and obey His commands as His servants is as follows: "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for My sake shall find it"...

What Jesus is saying here is that the one who will dare to go "over the top" for Him: the one who will be willing to lose his identity, his recognition, his standing, his popularity before men, yes, even his own life in the cause of Christ and His Church will not be losing his life at all, but, in reality, he will find that life in Christ which is eternal and real. The cry of the true Church is for those who will "go over the top" for Christ!!

OVER THE TOP

Eddie and Jake have been buddies since they could toddle. Together they hiked, fished, argued and leap-frogged the years away. If they weren't at our house, they were at Eddie's. Sundays, Eddie came along to church with us.

They did everything together, dated, played football, went to college. When they joined the Army, they went together.

Jake is coming home next week, but not Eddie. His mother brought his last letter over today. We cried together.

"Dear Mom," Eddie wrote, "Things are pretty bad. I'm glad Jake is here. We talk about home, about God, too. I know you and Dad never cared about church and all, but I think you'll be glad to know I've learned a lot about God from Jake. Whatever happens, I feel close to Him. I'm not scared."

NEW BREATH-TEST CONCEPT

Since the "implied consent" law was overwhelmingly approved by voters in 1968, many Washingtonians seem to be under the impression that law enforcement officers now have the ultimate in legal tools to detect and arrest the drunken driver. A growing number of traffic officials in the U.S. believe otherwise, however, according to the Washington Traffic Safety Commission.

While agreeing that "implied consent" was an important forward step in the effort to curb drinking drivers, such officials say that the new law does not go far enough. In their view, the law has a major weakness: it requires that an arrest be made before an officer can require a breath test.

In effect, this means that a traffic officer must decide whether or not a driver is legally intoxicated before he administers the scientific test to find out. This procedure is something like that of a doctor who commits patients to the hospital in order to perform simple tests which could have been done painlessly in his office.

Out on the street, it works this way: An enforcement officer observes a car being driven in a manner that appears to indicate possible intoxication. He stops the vehicle, and asks the driver to perform simple muscular coordination exercises. There may be some question as to whether or not the driver is legally intoxicated. The officer cannot be certain until he sees the results of a breath test--but he cannot administer the breath test until he has first arrested the driver and taken him to police headquarters. As a result, the enforcement officer is hesitant to arrest any but the most obviously intoxicated drivers--those far beyond the legal level of presumed intoxication.

In Baton Rouge, Louisiana, a new city ordinance has removed this obstacle. There, police have the authority to ask for a breath test before making an arrest. A mobile breath-testing unit responds to the call of officers throughout the city. Thus, it is possible for the officer to use the test itself as a diagnostic tool in determining whether or not an arrest is warranted. Under the Baton Rouge ordinance, refusal to take this initial test can mean a possible penalty of $200 or 60 days in jail or both.

Should the driver agree to take the test, and the test prove negative, then no arrest is made on a charge of driving while intoxicated. However, if the test reveals intoxication, the driver is placed under arrest and a second test is made--this test under the terms of the state's "implied consent" law.

The pre-arrest concept has gained its admirers. Rep. James Heinze, Michigan, has patterned a bill after the Baton Rouge ordinance and submitted it to the Michigan Legislature. This proposed bill, as well as the Baton Rouge ordinance, were sparked by the British system of dealing with drunken drivers which has so effectively curtailed the drinking driver in that nation.

In the United States, of course, questions of constitutionality are immediately raised. Does such an approach violate the guaranteed rights against search and seizure and self-incrimination? Does pre-arrest testing deprive the driver of due process of law? Since the Baton Rouge ordinance is the first to be put into practice in the nation, the

The Andromeda Strain... by Michael Crichton.

The launch was an everyday affair, it was just a small satellite, shot into the biosphere to collect minute organisms for study by scientist back on earth.

Then something went wrong, the satellite went off course, and the instruments recorded some sort of malfunction. The tracking maneuvers were immediately put into effect.

A small Arizona town, sleepy and quiet, deadly quiet, the entire population was dead except for an infant and an old derelict, clothed in white robes, proclaiming the end of the world.

Why?? This book deals with the search for a reason, before time runs out.

The Andromeda Strain is available on request from Forks Memorial Library.

Ni Wauna's plan fair booth

Ni Wauna Homemakers Club met at the home of Lee Brown with Shirley Fox co-hostess.

The morning session was taken up with the arts and craft program. Alberta Strom showed the group how to make ribbon roses. After lunch the regular business of the club was discussed, at which time three lessons were given: one on making the most of the sea foods in your locale; one on advertising and consumers choice and one on the family dollar management.

The theme for the fair booth was discussed and all were asked to make articles for the booth.

Twelve members were present. Thirty years ago, fewer than one-in-five was being saved from cancer; today the American Cancer Society reports, it is one-in-three. It could be one-in-two with early detection and prompt treatment.

CAP seeks teen employment

Because of the facts shown below, youth employment is neglected. LaPush Community Action is setting up an employment referral service to battle this.

The marked improvement in the overall has not radically affected the income or employment opportunities of the out-of-school teenager. Ninety percent of the under 19 earned less than $3,000, 86 percent less than $2,000. In the next older group, who are likely to be married and starting a family, 58 percent earned less than $3,000.

In 1961, teen unemployment was 2.6 times the adult rate. By 1964, teen employment was 3.9 times the adult rate. Specifically for the 16 through 19-year-olds, the unemployment rate was 3.1 times the adult rate in 1961. By 1964, it had risen to 4.3 times the adult rate.

For youth, the labor force participation rates do not rise automatically with a fall in unemployment rates, nor in fact, do they fall with a recession, the long term trend is an increasing exit from the labor force by 16-19-year-olds; this has persisted since World War II in the face of cyclical reactions in the general economy.

Any persons or business that have jobs available, please contact Ronald Black at the Community Action office, Phone 374-5744.

By Fred Jarvis

Mother's Day, May 10, 1970, Elzada had her mother and aunt up from the Harbor and we spent a quiet day at home outside of a trip to the beach by the women and a trip to the bowling alley by me.

Then for a scrumptious turkey dinner with all the trimmings. Mother bought a half turkey for the occasion and it got me to wondering how did that poor bird get around with only one leg and one wing? Maybe that's where that wartime saying "coming in on a wing and a prayer" came from.

Dorothy Barker, with a 122 average, hit her first 200, a 202 in the Tuesday Afternoon League. Kay Whitehead rolled a 504 and Patsi Hodges picked off the 5-10 split.

These kids of the Junior Mixed are sure bowling up a storm. Patty Laswell hit 197-438, Tim Gockereil 187, Jeff Blair 190-509. Mark Henry 198-510, and Ken Olson a big 212-537.

For the Summer Mixed, Billie Crist had 189-471, Duke Streeter 197, and Darrell Thomas a 541. Jean Streeter picked off the 3-7-10 and Mother the 5-10. According to my dope sheet, Reta O'Keefe picked up the 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10. What a leave, must have thrown a gutter ball on the first try.

Barbara McFall hit a 194 in Wednesday Powder Puffs, Barbara Allen had 483, and Wilma Engeseth a 501.

In the Tuesday Afternoon Bowl-off, S & H Busheling took first place, Windle Bros. second, and D & J Logging third, Barb Windle had 194-503.

Boys Bantams had Rocky Cofelt at 147 Hi 10 and Randy Henry at 257 Hi 20. Barney Allen rolled a 77, 33 pins over his average, and Randy Cosgrove hit a 130, 32 pins over.

All the boys of this league should attend the banquet at 5:00 o'clock May 24th at Clark's Vagabond as some of them not expecting anything, will receive trophies.

Pay and Save Foods won first place in a bowl-off with Lake Pleasant in the Powder Puff League. Wilma Engeseth hit a big 210, Alder Creek then beat out Lake Pleasant for second place. Billie Crist hit a big 223-553, Delta Joutsen had 213-508.

Betty Holz and Vern Rondeau had the TV and money shots at Saturday Nite Monte Carlo, but no luck. Wanda Long had a $15 shot, good hit, no luck.

Duke Streeter with a 244-567 in the Junior-Senior Mixed, Lou Suchodolski 186, David Bryan 177-453, and Chuck Rondeau a nice 202-526, Little six-year-old Theresa Suchodolski had the oddest leave I've ever heard of, then mashed her big toe with her ball. She left the 2-3-4-6-7-8-10! Figure that out!

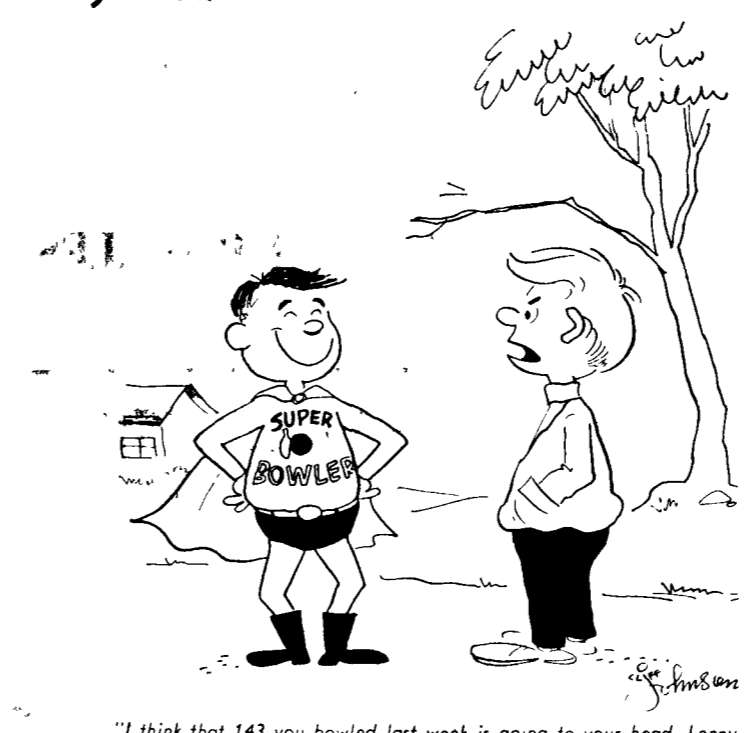

Forks winners in the summer singles district will be in next week's column.

I hear that Sally Nagel and Vay Archibald did pretty good in the doubles of the women's stale tournament at Seattle last weekend.

Bowlers of the week: Billie Crist 223-553, Duke Streeter 244-567.

Duke and I got took again last week in Beat the Pros. Everybody's cashing in, come on down.

Sequim breezes to victory

The Sequim Wolves using 11 first place finished ran away from Port Townsend and the Forks Spartans in the annual Irrigation Festival track meet at Sequim last Friday.

Smokey Says:

Well here it is Ma's Day and by rights I guess I should clean the clams while Ma takes it easy. Made the trip to Kalaloch this morning for a couple limits. No, they didn't come easy, but with a little clam digger's knowledge, a few secrets which I stole from the guy digging next to me, and a whole lot of patience I managed a few razors. Next tides will run May 19 to 26 with the best tides falling on the weekend.

Stopped by Fairholm Resort over the weekend and talk about nice fish, Beardsley and Kamloops trout the size of silver salmon are being taken regularly at the west end of the lake. Picture a 15 pound Kamloops on 4-pound line. That's sport!

Although the hunting season is nearly four months away I would like to pass on some remarks obtained from the National Bible Association of America written May 4, 1970.

"Hunting may eventually be outlawed entirely unless professional wildlife managers and their conservationist allies set up a public education program to counteract those who are crying that the sky is falling down, all because of hunting. The anti-hunting movement will have to be stopped. The anti-gun groups, along with the extreme preservationists, have managed to brain wash a great many people with the false notion that harvest of wildlife is a crime against conservation and environment. The truth is, hunters and hunting have literally saved many wildlife species from extinction. Hunters and fishermen have been, and still are, paying most of the financing for fish and wildlife conservation programs. However, it should be made clear that all taxpayers contribute a little to the funds that support our public outdoor lands. The hunter-haters rattle on about the threat hunting poses to wildlife populations. Their solution is as grandly simple as it is naive: Prohibit all hunting. Stop it completely and wildlife will be saved forevermore. This solution is not only silly but dangerous.

The wildlife scientist knows that the hunter and the harvest are not the danger. The real danger is environmental destruction. Any time overhunting becomes a danger, it is the hunter who demands a restriction in season or bag limit. The cold fact is that regulated harvest, coupled with other sound management practices, is not detrimental to a wildlife population. The harvest merely replaces the loss to disease, parasites and other natural causes. It results in a healthier, more vigorous population. The single most important protection needed to perpetuate our wildlife is the preservation of its habitat. And it is the hunter who deserves our thanks for acquiring 80 percent of the habitat we have managed to save. He was the one insisting that the land be acquired for habitat needs. His license fees and special taxes on sporting equipment paid the bill. And there is no doubt at all that he will lead the fight to save more acres of habitat and to develop it--and in all likelihood save several wildlife species, hunted and non-hunted from extinction. Hunters and fishermen have been the leaders in every conservation crusade in this country. This is the American the anti-harvest crowd is portraying as the spoiler.

"The front ranks of the environmental movement are filled with hunters who are concerned with more important features of the environmental campaign than bagging game. They are battling for clean rivers and clean air, supporting the creation of wilderness areas, counter-attacking the forest destroyers, testifying at congressional hearings to save wetlands and estuaries, for new national park systems, for refuges for rare species and struggling against the pesticide overkill. Let's make maximum use of efforts of these experienced pioneers in our battle to save the environment." The preceding was taken from remarks by Dr. Leslie L. Glasgow, Assistant Secretary for the U. S. Department of the Interior for Fish and Wildlife, Parks and Marine Resources. The occasion was a meeting of outdoor writers and editors in Chicago in February. Dr. Glasgow is an NRA member.

There has not been too much happening in the world of salmon fishing, thanks to the weather man. The report at Sekiu over the weekend was 75 boats and 5 fish. A few fish are being taken off LaPush, but nothing to get excited over, as it is still early. Robert Pelikan made the trip over to Hoods Canal for the weekend where he matched skill and wits with that of the ever popular Goeducks. Bob scored well, bringing home three nice sized specimens but failed as a chef. Setting himself down at the supper table he found that his large shellfish had boiled down to the size of very small pig sausages. Help wanted: Experienced chef.

A day in the life of Jay Waggoner

The following letter we received from Mrs. Frank Tomoski. Mrs. Tomoski sent us a copy of a letter written to her by her brother, Jay Waggoner of Cosa Mesa, California. Mr. Waggoner is retired and the letter describes a day in his life.

Up at 7 o'clock and have a drag at the old coffee pot.
8 o'clock: Watch neighbors across way air their bedding.
9 o'clock: Start daily trip to mail box. If I don't get stuck on a wad of gum back by 9:30. Sit in easy chair and watch ankles swell until 10, then get paper and read daily news.

Always same old thing, which consists of the following: Nine rapes, four murders, 26 holdups, two banks and a police station bombed and three colleges burned down by our Hippies and militants. Twelve policemen accused of muzzing up said Hippies' hair. After policemen spit out their teeth, get their burns bandaged and broken bones set, some high powered judge give the policemen six months probation with half pay. Justice is sure hard on our policemen.

This brings me up to 12 o'clock and the noon news which consists of four or five little foreign countries telling us to mind our own business and that we are imperialistic. However, they don't forget to tell us to keep those foreign aid checks and surplus food coming, we sure need them.

Anti-Gun Commission Cost $1,600,000

The National Commission on the Cause and Prevention of Violence, the third crime inquiry appointed by President Lyndon B. Johnson in three years, went out of office Dec. 12, 1969, amid reports that it had exceeded its original budget by $390,000.

The so-called violence commission, originally authorized to spend $1,210,000, expended a total of $1,600,000, a Government spokesman confirmed.

The commission in its final report Dec. 12 announced that "violence in the United States has risen to alarmingly high levels," but said consolingly that "we are convinced that most of this violence can be prevented." Its chairman, Milton S. Eisenhower, of Baltimore, Md., put the cost of prevention at $20 billion. A half billion figure was set by the commission earlier to buy up--at an average of $20 apiece--nearly all privately-owned handguns under a proposed Federal confiscation program.

In press interviews during market and watch prices go up. They go high, higher, highest.

4:00 p.m.: Listen to talk on bonds for more schools and colleges to be built for the Hippies and militants to burn down. Nothing like a liberal education (I guess).

7:00 p.m.: Turn on porch light and watch the moths fly. They mind their own business, don't mix with other insects. Never ask for civil rights nor relief checks. They seem exceedingly happy and contented. This gives me enough courage to go to bed and wait for another day which I hope will be better.

December, as quoted in the Congressional Record ($16830, December 16, 1969), Eisenhower expressed the personal view that an estimated 25,000,000 "concealable handguns" are "the real offenders" in crime and asserted: "These are not sporting weapons. Their only purpose is to kill."
That position of the retired university president (Kansas State, Pennsylvania State, Johns Hopkins) and holder of 31 honorary degrees directly reflected the preconceived views expressed by the commission's firearms research director, Franklin E. Zimring, a Chicago University law professor.

Zimring was strongly against traditional American firearms ownership quite some time before his selection to direct research by a group which Chairman Milton Eisenhower described in print as "independent scholars and lawyers" producing "works of scholarship."

While a very junior law professor at the University of Chicago he actively engaged in campaigning for the strictest possible gun control laws in Illinois. He was appointed to the commission staff within a month of the time that he published a lengthy anti-gun essay, "Games with Guns and Statistics," in a law journal. (Wisconsin Law Review, July, 1968, pp. 1113-1126.)

Whoever appointed Zimring to direct research for a supposedly impartial inquiry into firearms ownership conveniently overlooked his avowed strong bias and also the style of his comments. One of these, near the conclusion of his essay in the law journal, is: "Of course New Jersey is more robbery prone than South Dakota. So what?"

Auto Thefts on the Increase

Would you place a thousand dollars at the curb of a busy thoroughfare and walk away, leaving it unprotected? Not likely. Yet, in effect, that is what scores of automobile owners do every day. Thoughtlessly and in a hurry, they pull into a parking space, jump from their cars, and leave them unlocked and often with the keys in the ignitions. In many instances when they return, their cars are gone. The average value of stolen automobiles at the time of theft is approximately one thousand dollars.

Complete figures for 1969 are not available, but projected auto theft totals for the year reflect a sizable increase over 1968. In 1968, some 777,800 motor vehicles were reported stolen. This was approximately a 19-percent jump over 1967. There is a definite possibility, of course, that car thefts will climb to the one million mark in 1970.

Aside from the tangible value of the stolen car, there are other serious cost factors. The owner's carelessness may also cause him a loss of earnings or business. Some motorists rationalize their carelessness by explaining, "That's why I have insurance." Such reasoning amounts to a delayed boomerang. When insurance companies pay more claims, their customers necessarily pay higher premium rates. In addition, law enforcement agencies absorb untold expense in handling complaints, investigating charges and processing recovered vehicles. Thus, car thefts--in spite of the theorists and apologists who try to minimize them--are not petty cash losses. When we consider the actual value of the stolen vehicle plus other miscellaneous expenses and the number of cars taken, we are talking about a crime problem which costs well over a billion dollars annually.

A violation related to auto theft also plaguing car owners is the theft of accessories. Modern automobiles can be bought or equipped with numerous expensive accessories. Most of these items are highly coveted by auto thieves, and, of course, a ready market can be found for stereo equipment, radios, wheel discs, rearview mirrors, etc. When given the opportunity thieves are also quick to take more essential equipment such as wheels, batteries, and even transmissions. It is almost impossible to place a cost figure on the theft of auto accessories; however, it is enormous and is still growing.

Auto theft is called the crime of opportunity, particularly where young people are concerned. In 1968, 79 percent of all auto thefts were committed by persons under 21 years of age. For a teenager, his first automobile theft is often considered a status symbol amounting to his associates. In many instances, this is his first major criminal act. Under such circumstances, he is apt to be irrational, unpredictable, and easily excited. Thus, a stolen vehicle becomes a dangerous, if not lethal, weapon in his hands. Further, with an easy car theft behind him, a young person becomes more brazen and moves on to more serious crimes.

In recent years, automobile manufacturers have equipped cars with additional security devices to hold down theft. Law enforcement authorities have initiated campaigns against auto theft, encouraged car owners to take preventive action, publicized steps to deter car thieves, and worked hard to keep the spiraling violation under control. While some progress has been made, auto thefts keep climbing.

The professional car thief or hardened criminal will find ways to steal an automobile when he needs one. However, even he can be made to work at it, if theft opportunities are reduced. Easy car-theft opportunities will exist until car owners make a determined effort to protect their valuable property.

While American motorists do not drive about in solid gold limousines, aside from their purchases of homes, investments in automobiles represent the greatest single property expense of a family. Let the driver remember, therefore, when he parks and walks away from his motor vehicle, that in effect, and depending on the age and condition of his car, he is entrusting passers-by with a Federal Reserve note bearing the likeness of Grover Cleveland--$1,000.

Best Tip Yet

Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death among American men. "Best tip yet," says the American Cancer Society, "Don't Smoke Cigarettes."

Carlsborg hosts Homemakers club

"April Showers" was the theme for Wednesday's meeting of approximately ninety ladies representing thirteen Clallam county Extension Homemakers' Clubs. The new "Makah Do It Yourself" club attended for the first time. As the ladies registered, they received name tags made in the shape of umbrellas.

The Carlsborg Club and East, West Club were hostesses to the all-day meeting held at Macleay Hall.

President Mrs. James Helmick presided over the meeting. Ron Hanson of the Fairview Club led in the flag salute and national anthem. Mrs. Gay Ludke of the Blue Mt. Club gave the invocation. Mrs. Fred Cook of Carlsborg gave the welcome and Mrs. James Helmick of Niwauana, the response.

After group singing accompanied by Mrs. Marie Burnes on the piano, the business meeting was held.

The following reports were given. Mrs. Ted White, clothing chairman, reported on the recent Simplicity Style Show held in Sequim in April. Mrs. Ed Blalock, civil defense, environmental control, and citizen chairman gave a report on goals for 1970. She announced that Loyalty Day and baseball season are both May 1.

Mrs. Archie Hooper, food and nutrition chairman, announced a lesson on "Making the Most of Sea Food" to be held for Clallam and Jefferson food leaders, April 22 from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. at the Sequim VFW Hall. She brought samples of wild plants used for foods and passed out information on handy household and food hints.

Mrs. Jim Swift, Home

Management chairman, reported on the interior design lessons held at Peninsula College. Mrs. LeRoy Kitzelman, human relation chairman, spoke on "Being A Good Neighbor."

Mrs. Walter Packwood gave out last year's judged standard of achievements and reminded members that this year's are due June 1st. She took orders for the book "30 Year History of Homemaker's Clubs."

Mrs. Tony Masi, Fair Board chairman, gave a report on the home economics building. The club voted to take complete charge of the home economics building.

Mrs. John Singhose, 4-H chairman, made an appeal for volunteers for judges in May, June and August and for craft teachers and chaperones for 4-H camp at Flagler in July.

East, West Club announced they are sponsoring a tailored workshop at the Agnew Community Hall April 21, 22, and 23 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

A potluck was served at noon. The tables were decorated with spring flowers, brightly colored napkins, decorated sugar cubes and place favors of individual jelly.

The East, West Club entertained with a "hat style show" narrated by Mrs. Robert Clark pointing out home hazards.

Mrs. John Singhose accepted the vice-president position for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Fred Harnishfeger of Chehalis, State Health Chairman, spoke on the National Extension Homemaker's Safety Council she attended in Michigan. She stressed a 16 point program to cut the traffic accidents in our country. Each year accidents take the lives of 55,000 people. Male drivers in the 18 to 21 age bracket and drunken drivers cause the most wrecks. Half the wrecks are caused by the 4% drinking drivers.

Luther League visits Seattle

A bottle drive will be held on May 17 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., collectors will be the Prince of Peace Luther League. All types of returnable bottles will be collected.

The two representatives from the Luther League will be attending the convention to be held in New York in August. This bottle drive is to raise money for this trip. The total cost for the trip is $250 per person. The representatives spend two weeks traveling to and from the convention by bus and will travel through more than 20 states. The convention will last one week. There are many side tours planned along the way.

Last weekend the League journeyed to Seattle for the weekend. There was a heavy schedule, including visiting the Seattle Center, Saturday morning, going shopping in the afternoon and to the Creedence Clearwater Revival concert later Saturday. The Leaguers spent Saturday night in sleeping bags at the First Lutheran Church of Richmond Beach. They attended church services and youth Bible classes there on Sunday. The group visited the Seattle zoo, Sunday and then returned home late Sunday. A very tired group.

According to a group member, the educational part of the trip came Saturday afternoon when the group visited the "Night Watch Service Center". This center is located on 1st Avenue. This center is there to help the people of the area. It is open during the day and until 10 p.m., and serves coffee and provides someone always in attendance to help those with problems. There is a place provided for those who want to play cards and other games or just to get warm. The center also has a work co-op, with all Seattle residents able to apply if they wish. The group was taken on a tour of the 1st Avenue area by Roy Brown, manager of the center.

The League plans a clothing drive for this center, especially work clothing, during the month of May. A box will be placed in the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church for this purpose or you may phone 374-5801 for pick-up. A scavenger hunt will be held in June to collect coffee for the center and food for the people of this area.

Children's Orthopedic serves area

Admission statistics show that 48 children from Clallam County, including ten from Forks, were hospitalized for a total of 292 days during 1969. The Forks children were here a total of 39 days. And 43 Clallam County youngsters made 123 visits to the out-patient clinics.

Many of the young patients suffer from serious medical conditions such as leukemia, heart defects, hemophilia and cystic fibrosis or from severe orthopedic handicaps. Their community hospitals and local physicians often are not able to provide the highly-specialized care which they need. So the parents and family doctors turn to Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical Center.

Similarly, hospitals and doctors throughout the Northwest are served by Children's Orthopedic Hospital's clinical-virology laboratory, one of only four in the northern hemisphere. The laboratory identifies viruses in such cases as hepatitis and meningitis and works closely with the Virology Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

Two medical specialties—cystic fibrosis and cancer—have received financial recognition as regional centers.

The Cystic Fibrosis Care, Research and Training Center is supported by the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and receives research funds from the Washington/Alaska Regional Medical Program. Children from Washington, Alaska, Montana and Idaho receive care through the center. It also incorporates all teaching concerning cystic fibrosis including seminars, public health nursing programs, and residents' training.

The Pacific Northwest Children's Cancer Center serves the children of Washington and Alaska as well as patients from Oregon, Idaho and Montana. Grants from the National Institutes of Health, Washington/Alaska Regional Medical Program, the American Cancer Society, and private sources support the clinic, the statistical center and clinical research. Through their clinical research, center staff physicians are working to improve

Salvation Army membership drive

No one will knock at your door tonight, seeking a meal, a pair of shoes, or a place to sleep, because The Salvation Army will be meeting those needs through the local Service Extension Committee.

A. E. Fletcher, chairman of the local Salvation Army Service Extension Unit announced today, the official mailing date of the 1970 Annual Membership Letter Appeal Drive, which is May 8th, 1970. He has requested, and is encouraging, everyone to respond to this Mail Appeal, eliminating any necessary follow-up.

The local Extension Committee is always ready to serve those less fortunate with food, shelter, clothing, and or, other emergency needs, regardless of race or creed, and without red tape or delay. The local Salvation Army Welfare Bank Account is maintained and controlled by the local Service Unit, and all expenditures are made in keeping with sound welfare practices.

Cases where the need is greater than the local committee unit can handle are referred to The Salvation Army's regional office. Such cases might be, aid to unwed mothers, assistance to parolees, missing persons inquiries, and many other humanitarian services for men, women, and children.

Gifts can be sent to the local Salvation Army treasurer, Jon Erickson, Peninsula Telephone Co., P. O. Box 90, Forks, Washington 98331.

The statistics are equally revealing for the out-patient department which conducts 45 specialty clinics. Again, children from beyond King County accounted for one fourth of both the total 11,467 out-patients and the total of 53,036 clinic service visits.

More info on graduation

By Steve Lingvall

Last week, a small group of student representatives met with some parents to discuss the events to follow the "Graduation Day" ceremony. Many subjects were brought up by both parties. It was decided that an all-night party would be held at the Congregational Church following the ceremony.

Snacks would be served to the graduates by the parents. The ex-students could come and go as they pleased. Various activities would be held open during the late hours. Breakfast would be served at the Bechtold's house the following morning.

The success of this party depends on how well the parents and their graduating students co-operate. It is their hope that it will be a night to remember.
