

Student group circulates petition

A petition circulating on the University of Washington campus urges that the rights of others be respected and that those who infringe on others rights be expelled. It has drawn 5,500 signatures.

The petition is being circulated by the U of W Students for Responsible Expression a non-political organization formed three weeks ago and headed by Craig Rhyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Rhyne of Forks.

Rhyne said, "the petition acknowledges the right of peaceable assembly. But it points out the right carries with it the responsibility to respect the rights of others."

It condemns the intentional blocking of access to buildings, disruption of classes and the inflicting of personal injury.

The petition urges the prompt expulsion, with due process, of any professor, student or group infringing upon the rights and privileges of other students and faculty members.

Rhyne has been conducting meetings with the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, Renton High School students and staff, Mercer Island High School students and staff and he is supported by the Dean of Men and Women and the Commander of the ROTC Chapter of the University of Washington.

Teachers sign contracts

Contracts for 57 teachers were signed when the Quil-layute Valley School Board met for their regular monthly meeting, May 21. There were three resignations, Lewis B. Adkins, Helen H. Adkins and Diane M. Holloway.

Mr. Ron Wimberly presented the Board brochures and information on the advance cleaning equipment. No further action was taken at that time.

Jack C. Blaine has been chosen as the new Intermediate Principal for next year, replacing Tom Winsor, who is retiring at the end of this school year.

The board decided to have the secretary attend all board work study sessions in the future. There was some discussion as to whether it was feasible to have the preliminary budget printed in the paper. No decision was made at that time.

Superintendent John Hitchcock will contact area schools, especially Port Angeles, for information on their citizen's advisory committee, with the idea in mind of possibly forming one for this district.

There will be a special meeting of the Board of Directors June 4, 7:30 p.m., Room 302, Science building.

CHIPS AHOY!

The driver of this Allen Logging and Veneer chip truck escaped serious injury, Monday, when his truck flipped on a curve about ten miles south of Forks on Highway 101. The driver, Leslie Evans, received a cut on his arm. According to the Washington Highway Patrol, Evans was unable to control the vehicle after the right wheels locked as he was rounding the right hand curve. The truck came to rest on its side on the left embankment of the road.

VFW supports Nixon

Support for President Nixon's Cambodian policy as a means of saving the lives of American fighting men was urged today by Commander Charles Fox of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 9106.

Speaking on behalf of Post 9106, Commander Charles Fox said that "anything we do in Cambodia that results in saving American lives should have the full backing of the American people."

Commander Charles Fox said amendments in Congress such as the Cooper-Church Amendment which would block funds to support American troops in Southeast Asia "amount to the abandonment of our forces--our sons and daughters--who are fighting a cruel and inhuman enemy who might otherwise be at our very doorsteps. Congress put our men there in full support of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution."

"In the past Congress has debated declarations of war," Commander Charles Fox said, "but this is the first time the Senate has debated a 'declaration of surrender.'"

He said the "destruction of tons and tons of equipment and other supplies stored by the Communists in Cambodia for use against our men in Vietnam proves that President Nixon made the right decision in ordering the Cambodian incursion."

Council approves UCN studies local tax

The Forks Town Council met Monday, May 25, at the Town Hall, Mayor Kennedy, Clerk Beebe and Councilmen Hall, Swern, Anderson and Smiley were present.

The council at that time passed the optional .05 percent local sales tax. According to Mayor Kennedy, "there has been a lot of discussion both 'pro' and 'con' concerning the sales tax. My personal feeling is that we are forced by circumstances to adopt the tax."

The state aid to cities has terminated, the town received about $3,000,00 a year from this program. There was some discussion as to what effect the levying of the tax would have on the school levy. Councilman Chuck Anderson said he felt very strongly about the school levy and the effect that the levying of the sales tax would have on it.

The council approved Ordinance No. 118 adopting the local sales tax. Mayor Kennedy was authorized by the council to enter into agreement with the tax commission this is a formal agreement to be made prior to the collecting of the tax.

The council also passed a ordinance for the sale of General Obligation Bonds, No. 119 for the new addition, because of a mix-up in dates, the town received no bids on the prior notice of bond sale.

Building permits for Gordon Richards, Frank Lyda, and D.J. Eckhoff were approved.

Open house tonight!

There will be an open house tonight at the Forks school. People are to meet at the old junior high building for a guided tour of the facilities.

If you want to get a first hand look at the condition of the buildings and to see why we need the levy, be at the school at 7:30 p.m.

Search & Rescue incorporates

The Forks Community Search and Rescue unit signed its Articles of Incorporation at the May 20 evening meeting. Art Anderson, a new member of the unit, notarized the signing. It is expected that the unit will have full corporate status after the remaining necessary legal procedures have been carried out.

Latest donations, as of the Wednesday meeting, have been six hundred feet of 5/8 inch nylon rope and a restaurant size propane range.

It is hoped that the residents of Forks will never need the services of the search and rescue unit, but like the ambulances and our hospital, it is good to know that the unit is standing by, ready, willing and able to help in an emergency.

To contact the local group by mail--address, Box 1159 in Forks. The next meeting of the unit is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., on June 3 at the V.F.W. Hall.

EDITORIAL . . .

By Gordon Otos

Equality in education... this means more than making sure all children in this school district receive the best schooling that is possible, but that the children in this district receive as good an opportunity to develop their talents as the children in other areas of the state and country. Whether a high school graduate goes on into higher education or not, he or she has to compete with persons who have the advantage of a more rounded high school education. Can you imagine yourself trying to keep the attention of a group of children when class is being held in a furnace room? Or trying to teach a health course to a group of junior high kids and then have them take a shower in a locker room where it's so dark and damp that it's practically impossible to keep the floors and walls free from a slick, disgusting moldy slime? These are just two examples of things to be taken care of when the special levy passes. Don't look back at what should have been done and wasn't. Look forward to the future and keep abreast of what's happening in our schools. That's the only way to make sure our schools do not get into this shape again. Vote "yes" June 3rd.

Special assembly is presented

By Steve Lingvall

Series are unusual animals when you get right down to the nitty-gritty. They are capable of doing weird things. This was evident when the Senior Assembly took place at IHS on May 21.

A pictorial review of their past in elementary school was presented before the rest of the schools. Some rather unusual events spotlighted the program. There was the time when everyone remembers the utter chaos involved with recess, two examples of life as a youngster in grade school were the efforts of a little boy (Clen MacDonald) trying to kiss a little girl (Eileen Henifin). All of these events were funny and exciting when you looked on them.

David Soderlund, dressed in the strange attire, of a gypsy fortune-teller, offered predictions of each senior after Koalas Live Here, by Irma-garde Eberle.

The scene is Southeast Australia, two Koalas, comfortably wedged in the fork of a eucalyptus tree, awoke from their sleep. "Daddy" was still drowsy, but "mama" began to climb about, looking for leaves to eat. These two Koalas were mates and they were quite large, about 3 feet tall. They were round and plump looking because their thick, gray fur was so fluffy. They had round heads and round yellow eyes. Their ears were square looking and stood out at the sides of their heads.

There was someone else in that tree, a baby. He had been born during the night, high up in the tree. He was very small, about the size of a mouse. He had no fur and his eyes were closed, but he was quite comfortable, snug and warm in his mother's pouch.

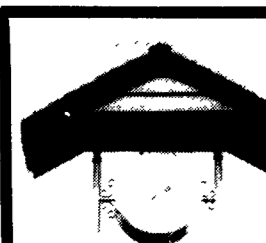

Daddy soon woke up and he and mama began to search for breakfast, silvery gray leaves of the eucalyptus tree. Koalas are well equipped for climbing, with paws like hands and sharp claws.

This is a story superbly illustrated with black and white photographs, fascinating to all ages. It is a story of that baby Koala, how he is cared for by his mother. He must learn to eat leaves from the gum tree, to climb through the branches and hold on for dear life during a violent storm.

Then man enters the forest, not to take lives, but to save them. The Koala family must be moved to another part of the forest, one part where the trees have not been stripped of their leaves.

This is truly a story of nature lovers of all ages. Check it out and read it to your children. I guarantee you will enjoy it as much as we did.

This book is available at Forks Memorial Library, in the children's section.

Money is the root of all evil. Do you believe in this statement? There are many times that this would seem to be a very valid conclusion. Banks being robbed, gas stations being robbed, heirs fighting over an inheritance, people starving to death and those who have money will not give them anything and riots on going on because some people are not of the money class. At times money does appear to be at the base of all problems.

There is another aspect that is important. Money is necessary for us to be able to carry on trade with other people and nations. If we didn't have money to buy things we would have to carry things along in order to trade for other goods. This would be too bulky and unhandy. Money is necessary for our society to run relatively smoothly. Money itself is not the root of all evil but our misuse of it is.

The Church has to use money to carry on its work for God. It, like any other institution or person, is dependent on money to function properly in society. This creation in which we live was given to us by God. Everything that we have or use has its origin from God; therefore, it is up to each of us as we consider how to spend our money to remember him. Money is just one of many other ways in which we show our respect, appreciation and love for Him and what he has done for us.

One problem is that we have tended to place such great importance on money and our need for it that we will use it only for our own selfish purposes. This is a misuse of money which makes it the root of evil. This is making a God out of money and forgetting about our God in Heaven. It is up to each of you to look at your own lives to see if money is your God. If it isn't your God then you will be willing to return a portion back to Him.

Money, money, money. Sometimes it seems that all people talk about is money. Some hoard it, others let it slip through their fingers. But, whether spender or saver, no one is unmindful of it.

Sometimes it seems as though even in church we hear too much about money. Isn't that the one place where money shouldn't be mentioned at all?

No.

It isn't money that is at fault, but our attitude toward it. In earlier times, we gave of our services, trading one thing for another. Today we use money as a medium of exchange. It is the spirit in our use of that exchange, in both our spending and saving, that counts.

So, give to the church of your choice. Give generously, if you can. But even if you can't give -- go.

The Betrayal Of A Trust

The month of April is almost over and with its passing comes a gradual changing of the season in the western foothills of the Olympic Region bordering the wide Pacific Ocean. The cold wintry weather gives way to the promised warmth of summer and this has always brought gladness to the heart of man.

But in Clallam and Jefferson Counties as well as in the heavily populated Puget Sound area there are thousands of people who have come through the winter months with an increasing feeling of frustration, anger, bitterness, and a sense of having been betrayed.

These people are the ones who still believe in winter-time fishing for steelhead along the banks of our Olympic rivers. Many are residents of Western Clallam and Jefferson counties and through the years they have found much to be gained from the time they spent fishing from the banks of the Sol Duc, Bogachiel or Hoh rivers. Not only from the fine food fish they were able to provide their family, but also from the physical and spiritual benefits that go along with this pastime. And now this type of steelhead bank fishing is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. This year has by far been the worst steelhead fishing in the memory of man. People who have followed the trend of our vanishing fish and game resources are well aware of the obvious downhill trend from the former self-sustaining level of abundance, to the pitiful remnant of what is left of our steelhead fishing.

The steelhead fishermen of only a few short years ago with their boundless enthusiasm are now quitting the sport, one after another. The reason, of course, is that the fish runs have been depleted to the extent that day after day of bank fishing produces few or no fish. There have always been poor years and good years but this is a different thing. We, who have lived here a few years know that steelhead fishing in Olympic streams has dropped off from the phenomenal abundance of 15 years ago to the present all-time low. Why should this be? Why should our fine fish be almost gone in this age of scientific enlightenment? Don't we have a Department of Game which is supposed to wisely manage our wild life resources so that those who come after us will still enjoy the same bounty of nature? Again the answer is obvious to the people who are informed and know what has been happening along our Western Olympic steelhead streams. Instead of receiving protection from the Game Department when needed, the steelhead have been relentlessly exhibited as a source of revenue by the Game Department. These people have betrayed a sacred trust.

The decline of steelhead in the Sol Duc, Bogachiel, and Hoh rivers is not particularly hard to understand. These fish have been self-sustaining since the earliest record of man and their propagation would have continued if man would only allow a reasonable number of fish to reach the upper parts of the river to follow their natural instinct.

The question then resolves itself into who is taking all the fish. It is not the bald eagles that take the fish off the spawning riffles. There are only a few of them left and they won't be here too long. It is not the black bear. They, too, are almost gone from the river valleys. They eat too many trees and must be exterminated. The otter and mink don't get many. The mergansers take their share but they are protected by migratory waterfowl regulations so we cannot eliminate this menace.

The depletion is the result of excessive fishing by man himself right here in our rivers. This past winter particularly, there have been subtle rumors and propaganda suggesting otherwise. One hears allusions to mysterious disappearance of steelhead during their sojourn at sea. Some fish undoubtedly fall prey to offshore fishing operations but they are not being exterminated by this. The steelhead travel singly or in small groups, and are not vulnerable to netting at sea in large numbers as are the salmon which congregate in large schools. Commercial salmon trollers who cover thousands of miles each year over vast, wide-spread reaches of the Pacific ocean catch only an occasional steelhead. Don't blame the Korean or Russian fishing operations for this one. It just doesn't add up. The salmon are more vulnerable in the sea than the steelhead and they are not gone yet, so we can blame only the prevailing system which permits drastic overfishing in our Olympic rivers.

Some of the people want to blame Indian gill net fishing for the decline of the fish. This is more commonly the case where people come from elsewhere and are not familiar with the great havoc that is taking place on the Olympic rivers by the white man and his boat fishing. Most local people, although disturbed by Indian gill net fishing of steelhead, cannot be so inherently dishonest as to blame the Indian and naively overlook what the white man and his diabolical river boats are doing with the full sanction of the State of Washington Department of Game.

The damage done by Indian gill nets is probably over-rated. I have lived here at Tyee for 20 years and fished these rivers 25 years ago when the waters were literally teeming with bright vigorous native fish. The Indians netted the rivers in those days too, and there was no shortage of fish for the guy who went fishing along the bank.

The gill net is not as deadly as commonly believed. The main heavy fish runs come into the river on, or just after a high water and in a matter of a few hours the steelhead have a good start up the rivers above the nets. Gill nets cannot be set and held in rain-swollen rivers because of excessive current and too much floating debris which tears out the nets or fouls them up completely so they don't fish and cannot be picked clean. These main fish runs escape the supposedly deadly gill nets, but not the fleet of boats which hammer them day after day in the clearing waters right up to the very headwaters of the river.

Indian gill nets take fish when the current drops off the drift diminishes, generally before the water gets too clear. As the river gets clear there is a good escapement of fish below the nets and around the ends. One commonly hears remarks about the rivers being blocked off by nets. This is not so. Most of the river cannot be fished with set nets unless the river is low and clear and then the nets don't take many fish. Few fish enter the river under this condition and most of them get around the nets except on the high tides occurring at night. I have never seen some of these principles of gill net fishing published before. It is disgusting to me how many of the people of the Puget Sound area want to blame the Indians entirely for depletion of the steelhead while not being fully informed of all the pertinent facts.

The main reason the steelhead are gone from the western Olympic Rivers is that the Game Department has for years sanctioned unrestricted boat fishing over the entire length of the river from November to the end of February, and the lower parts of the rivers are open until the last of April. The boats operate with precision and deadly efficiency. There were approximately 35 guide boats operating on the Sol Duc, Bogachiel, and Hoh rivers this winter. They fish almost every day of the season and know every productive hole and riffle because they are fishing the rivers daily. Any fish run that comes in on the high water is pursued relentlessly as the water clears and these schools of spawners are followed and preyed upon each day farther up the river. Most are caught by boat fishermen before they ever reach the spawning ground unless providence in the form of heavy rains brings high, muddy water again and allows some escapee.

The bank fisherman also catches steelhead from the rivers but only in limited numbers. He can fish only one or two holes a day because he must walk long distances and is successful only during a few days of muddy water when the fish are traveling. Bank fishing is confined to only a few places along the rivers which are accessible and known to produce fish. On the other hand, the boats drift down a river and can take fish from every place along the entire length of the stream.

Drifting for steelhead a few years ago was the elite of steelhead fishing. This now is pretty much a thing of the past for the bank fisherman in Olympic rivers. The bank fisherman is beat before he begins because the fish are taken out of the holes by a continuous fleet of boats which can fish 20 likely places to the bank fisherman's single rather limited choice. The relentless heavy pressure of boat fishing is carried on from the headwaters to the mouth of the rivers from November, when the steelhead first appear, to the end of February. The greater number of boats simple results in too little escapement for spawning. After the end of February there is really no let-up. The boats are then concentrated on the lower reaches of the river at a time when the water is less subject to the blessing of a flood and the late runs of fish are decimated. The deplorable fact is that the rivers are left open until the end of April and these late-run fish are thin-bellied and swollen with spawn. They are inferior fish for eating purposes as compared to the prime early-season fish, yet these valuable spawners are taken out of our rivers year after year with the Game Department's blessing.

Why should this take place when it is of such great importance to a considerable segment of our population who are concerned with a good way of life rather than continuous grubbing for material wealth? The Game Department in its greed for ever-increasing revenue has allowed the steelhead to our rivers to reach a point of no return. The excessive number of spawners reaped from the upper reaches of the rivers two and three years ago are the real reason we had so few steelhead this winter. Not some mysterious unknown factor in the sea. This idea of the mysterious disappearance of the steelhead at sea has no known truthful basis and serves only to divert the public from an awareness of the fact that the Game Department has not given the fish adequate protection down through the years. Surprisingly, however, many of the people of the Puget Sound area are unaware of the deception that has taken place, and do not realize or care that the Olympic steelhead have been exploited by the Game Department to an all-time low.

Consider these factors:
(1). There is probably 10 times greater sport fishing pressure now than 20 years ago when fish were abundant.
(2). Indian fishing pressure was far less then that at present.

(3). The advent of nylon line and ultra-modern fishing gear makes every one an expert steelhead fisherman today.

(4). There were almost no boats used on our rivers 20 years ago whereas there is a great fleet of guide boats and private boats fishing our rivers now with deadly efficiency never dreamed of before.

Yet with all this vastly increased fishing pressure the Game Department has not come up with one single good conservation practice. On the contrary, they have removed the restrictions of past years which were a guarantee of at least some good escapement and proper protection of the fish.

Years ago the Sol Duc river was closed to all steelhead fishing in the upper part of the river. The upper limit was usually Bear Creek. Now it is open as far up as a boat can go or a man can walk.

The Calawah river, a main tributary of the Bogachiel, was for many years closed above the junction of the north Fork and South Fork. Now with utter disregard to spawning fish it is open as far as a man can go until the first of March.

In those bygone days of plenty of fish some conservation was practiced. Now, when each year sees fewer fish there is no conservation practiced and the rivers are boated to their very headwaters. Bank fishermen

Bogachiel Garden Club

On May 21st, the home of Mrs. Herb Smiley was the scene of the Bogachiel Garden Club's annual "hat dessert-luncheon". Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Robert Tuttle and Mrs. Richard Wahlgren. Mrs. Richard Kallman provided a colorful and artistic flower arrangement.

Membership roll call was plants that are "pest-proof".

During the business meeting, a lengthy discussion was held in regards to providing water for the plants in the many beautification projects the club maintains in Forks. Mrs. Carl Lamb and Mrs. Herb Smiley are the committee attending the planter boxes at the city entrance signs and providing water for the plants is quite a task. Any suggestions, readers?

Artistic ability and imagination held sway as members displayed the chapeaus they designed and made from fresh flowers and vines, with no manufactured hat bases, veils and the like being used. One member used a kitchen colander as a base. An attractive hat was fashioned from apple blossoms, with fine moss used for veiling. "Mother Nature" was the name given to one creation, which was a mass of

Prince of Peace church news

The day for the dedication service at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church is getting closer and closer, as the finishing touches are being taken care of. Above the altar hangs the new cross, made by Howard Sarnowski and a beautiful wall-to-wall carpet is covering the floor in the sanctuary. The rug is a donation by the Gene Foster family. The outside cross and the stairway, which leads to the balcony, were built by Al Kettel. Darlene Peterson and Sandra Petrovich are making welcome signs to be put up at both ends of town.

The two circles have been busy working on their project, collecting baby clothes, Betty Crocker coupons and soap. A special thanks to the motels in Forks for donating soap.

The Couple's Club held its riff-raff from the beach, with a glass float as decoration. "Cascading flowers" was a prize winner for Mrs. Carl Lamb. Mrs. Floyd Thornton won a prize for her hat, ivy vines, atop which sat a bird nest with birds.

Mrs. Warren Paul will be hostess for the June 18th meeting and after that no meetings will be held until fall.

Spring concert held

By Steve Lingvall

On May 19, at 7 p.m., the Spring Concert was held in the new gym at FHS. The entire affair was conducted by Mr. Robert Jones.

The elementary band opened the concert with three selections. Following their performance, the FHS Band played seven selections, giving the audience another round of fun and music. A flute trio, featuring Kim Borde, Owen Dunlap, and Kim Welches, gave a magnificent performance of their musical talents.

Three popular songs - Windy, Beautiful Savior and Scarborough Fair - were presented to the audience by the FHS Chorus.

In concluding the concert, the FHS Band played seven selections. A brass ensemble, featuring Don Hutt, Steve Foster, Mitch Hutt, Tim Anderson, Ernie Colburn, Jenny Elomgren, Jim Hull, Jerry Eebee, Terry Burr and Bill Brager, also gave a fine performance. The last number played was a newly-written rock number entitled Soul Explosion. It spotlighted the dynamic talent of drummer, Hugh Wentworth.

The Art Department made the program covers, while the material within was typed by the office staff.

The annual bazaar and bake sale which is usually held in December, was discussed.

Because most of the Gleaners will be busy with gardening, canning and other summer-time activities, also, many plan to be visiting away from home. It was decided to adjourn for the summer--unless a special meeting is called by the president.

Slaves sold

The sight of FHS students bound in chains may seem unusual to most people, but not to this school. Class and ASB officers were forced into the bonds of slavery, only to be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

Denise Rhyne auctioned off each slave. She brought forth each slave, described his good characteristics, and then sold them. Various students shouted out their bids to the auctioneer, who took note of each bidder and tried to raise the price. At times, the bidding became quite hectic and tense, but everything ran smoothly in the long run.

Each slave was forced to work for his master throughout the entire day. The highest bid of the "slave day" assembly was the sophomore class' purchase of Coach Roy Mohondro for seventy-five dollars.

Forks Prairie Gleaners

Forks Prairie Gleaners met Monday, May 18, at the home of Ethel Whitehead. Plans were made for the Pomona home Ec. meeting which will be held in Forks the last week in June; also for the Pomona meeting, to be held Thursday evening, June 25, the Forks Prairie Grange to be the host.

The annual bazaar and bake sale which is usually held in December, was discussed.

Because most of the Gleaners will be busy with gardening, canning and other summer-time activities, also, many plan to be visiting away from home. It was decided to adjourn for the summer--unless a special meeting is called by the president.

This is Mr. Sullivan's 6th grade class, in this picture, upper center, you will see the type of lighting used in this building. I understand I took the picture from the wrong side, the other side of the light is broken. The ceiling is cracked in several places and the windows do not provide either light or ventilation.

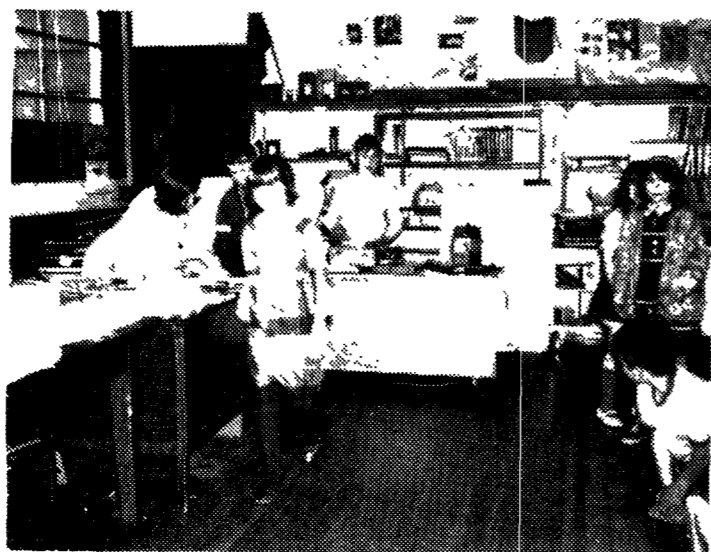

Mrs. Halverson had had to move the Elementary library into the storeroom. These students are choosing books in an area of about five feet by four feet. There are library books stored in boxes and as you see by the next picture, Mrs. Halverson has her card file and books on display in the hall.

This is a picture of the 5th grade class, which meets in the old Annex building. The room is crowded, the radiators leak and malfunction. The lighting is very poor.

Mrs. Hyatt's Special Education class is now meeting in what used to be the library. She was conducting her class in the furnace room. The room she has now still doesn't provide enough space for a well regulated class.

This is a view of the kitchen in the Elementary school building. This facility feeds about 500 youngsters a day. There is one stove, with 6 burners, 2 ovens, smaller than the ones we have at home, and a dishwasher that "is on its way out". The food to be served must be carried from the stove to an area accessible to the serving window, then set on a chair and served. Can you imagine how warm the food is if you happen to be the last in line to receive it?

Expensive equipment, including projectors are stored in the end of the Multi-purpose room. There is no place else to store it.

Medicine school increases classes

The University of Washington School of Medicine will increase the size of its entering class by 20 students next fall to meet urgent demands for more physicians. It was announced today by Dean Robert L. Van Citters.

Earlier plans had called for an increase from the present average of about 85 students per class to 125 by 1972, when new teaching facilities will be complete.

The school has decided to accelerate this schedule by moving halfway to its 1972 goal now, Dean Van Citters said. In subsequent years the total may move even higher.

The principal reasons why class size can be increased now:

--A new medical curriculum emphasizes small-group teaching and does not require the entire class to take laboratory sessions at the same time.

--Lecture halls, classrooms and laboratories are now scheduled by computer. This enables full utilization of present space.

In addition, students may attend school during summer quarter and may progress through the curriculum at their own rate.

"Help on funding necessary additional faculty is expected on a temporary basis from a short-term grant under the physician augmentation program of the National Institutes of Health, but permanent funds will eventually have to come from state appropriations," the dean said.

Dean Van Citters said the increase in medical classes is only part of a projected overall increase in Health Sciences training, with the number of students in dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and allied professions scheduled to grow an estimated 40 per cent.

Dean Van Citters pointed out the increase in class size was in direct response to the physician shortage in Washington. This is attributed to demands under Medicare and Medicaid, the needs of small communities for more doctors, and the requirements of low-income groups in the cities.

In April University Regents signed contracts for the first two phases of the construction program totalling $33.6 million. These will be completed in 1972. Later phases of construction will be complete by 1974.

Sue Shearer to Girls' State

By Steve Lingvall
Sue Shearer, a junior at FHS, was chosen as the Girls' State representative of Forks. Her chosen alternate is Patty Corham.

From June 7 to 14, Girls' State will be held at Central Washington State College in Ellensburg.

The American Legion Auxiliary sponsors the Girls' State representative of Forks. They have done this every year for each representative.

About 412 girls, who have completed their junior year of high school, will attend Girls' State. Qualifications for representation are based on leadership, capabilities, citizenship, character and health. These female representatives learn the various functions of the city, state, and county governments. They form political parties and hold county and state conventions. To follow up this new experience in politics, the girls will then set up city, state and county governments, under the "watchful eye" of an elected official of the State of Washington.

LUNCH MENU

June 1-4
MONDAY: Chicken and noodle casserole, buttered peas, buttered bread, fruit, milk.
TUESDAY: Rice-tomato soup, tuna fish sandwich or peanut butter sandwich, cottage pudding, milk.

College veterans must return attendance cards

The Veterans Administration today reminded college veterans they must return their certification of attendance cards during the last full month of every enrollment period.

The current semester will end in May or June for most college students.

VA computers are programmed to prepare the final check this spring for the 1969-70 school year only after the certification of attendance card has been received.

What's more, if the card is not returned at the end of the current semester, the student cannot be automatically enrolled under the G.I. Bill next semester.

College registrars also have a role to play. They must promptly return the veterans re-enrollment certification to the VA so the veteran may start receiving his checks on schedule the next semester he is in school.

Veteran trainees attending school below college level must return their attendance certification cards every month to insure uninterrupted payment of their educational allowance checks.

The VA pointed out that failure to complete and return the certification cards will automatically stop all future payments to the veteran, serviceman or dependent.

Everyone attending school under a VA program has the responsibility of keeping the VA informed as to whether there has been a change in the number of dependents, or in his enrollment program.

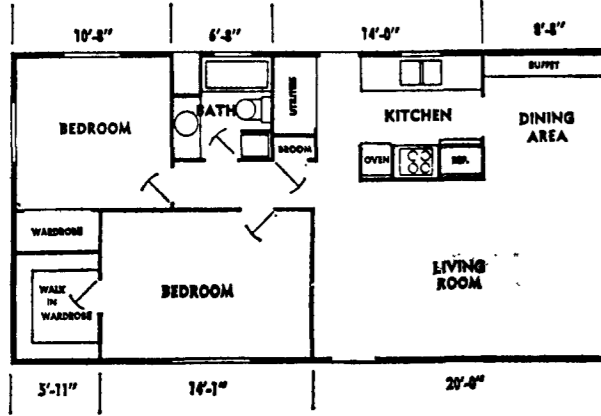

The VA urged those interested in entering training, or desiring further information, to contact their nearest Va office.

Coast Guard to enforce boating laws

Seattle--The Coast Guard is putting a stronger emphasis on its boating safety program, at least for the next two months. According to Coast Guard boating officials here, Coast Guard boating officers will board and inspect as many boats as possible between May 1 and June 30. Boating areas in Washington and Oregon will be prime targets.

"The program," said Lieutenant Commander James Hadley, Chief of the 13th Coast Guard District's Boating Safety Office, "should help us prevent recurrence of some of the needless accidents which have contributed to 20 deaths in Northwest waters during the first four months of this year." That number compares with only 14 during the same period last year.

Boating officers will stop and inspect pleasure boats to assure that they have, on board, safety equipment required by federal law, and proper numbers and certificates of numbers. LCDR Hadley warned that owners and operators of boats with safety equipment missing, unserviceable or inaccessible may be penalized as much as $100. Violations issued for improper boat numbers or missing or expired certificates may carry a penalty of $50, each. "Some people just don't realize that their life may depend on having the proper safety equipment on board," explained the boating safety chief.

Boatmen may check with any Coast Guard unit for additional information or the nearest Coast Guard Auxiliary flotilla for a free courtesy examination of safety equipment. Accord-

New Tire Fibers Developed by Du Pont Research

Two new fibers and two improved versions of existing fibers for tire reinforcement were disclosed by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company at a meeting of the Akron (Ohio) Rubber Group.

John W. Hannell, a research manager for the company's textile fibers department, reported that du Pont is now making available two experimental products for tire companies. Fiber "A" has many of the performance characteristics of existing 66 nylon but does not flat spot and generates less heat than either nylon or polyester yarns, while Fiber "B" has far greater strength and modulus and better dimensional stability than any other known organic fiber, he said.

A class of State Parks Region I, covering the western area of the state is scheduled for May 28 at Millersylvania State Park in Thurston County.

Whitcomb County Sheriff Bernie Reynolds conducted the class in Burlington, May 21, for rangers in State Parks Region II which covers the Puget Sound area.

The Legislature assigned police power to park rangers in 1921, and rangers have routinely been trained in the exercise of this duty at the beginning of their employment with State Parks and Recreation Commission. Recently the Commission has deemed it necessary to provide rangers with citation books for use in preserving the peace.

State Parks Director Charles H. Odegaard pointed out in an "enforcement manual" recently issued to all rangers that the Commission is responsible for conservation of the state's heritage and natural environment and for "operation of the areas and facilities in a manner that will protect the resources while providing for users' safety and enjoyment." He expressed the hope that the vast majority of law enforcement situations in State Parks can continue to be handled by the rangers on an informal basis, but advised the use of the citation books when it becomes "necessary for the conservation of the resources and safety and welfare of the public."

F. D. Weatherly, Chief of Special Studies for the Commission, said that training classes demonstrated for rangers the approach to use in writing a citation and how to handle the difficult offender. Weatherly pointed out "the vast majority of park visitors respect the law. They are entitled to full protection from the occasional offender while they enjoy the scenic beauty and recreation facilities of their state parks."

Rangers to carry citation books

Outdoor recreation enthusiasts will be reassured to learn that all State Parks Rangers will carry citation books effective June 1.

For the protection of law-abiding park visitors, Rangers will, when necessary, issue citations for violations of state laws occurring within state parks. Through cooperation with the Washington State County Sheriff Association, special classes for law enforcement training for 143 state parks rangers have been scheduled throughout the state.

Chelan County Sheriff Richard Nichols, President of the Association, conducted the class in Wenatchee, May 19, for rangers in State Parks Region III which covers the eastern part of the state.

Whitcomb County Sheriff Bernie Reynolds conducted the class in Burlington, May 21, for rangers in State Parks Region II which covers the Puget Sound area.

A class for State Parks Region I, covering the western area of the state is scheduled for May 28 at Millersylvania State Park in Thurston County.

C. The Statue of Liberty.
D. Mac West.

If you picked anything other than C, well, you're in a whole lot of trouble. Sure, you probably picked the Statue of Liberty. Everybody knows who she is and what she stands for. Or do they? It's amazing how many of us take this proud lady of the New York Harbor for granted. We should know that her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World." That she symbolizes the triumph of freedom over tyranny. That she is a declaration of our independence. Of course, we need more than statues to remind us of our freedom. We need action, by each and every one of us. And that's where U. S. Savings Bonds come in. They help preserve that thing called freedom.

They help make this country of ours economically stronger to tackle some of the problems that face us. And, buying Savings Bonds can be easy and automatic. All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. And then you can sit back and forget 'em while the money piles up. So think about the freedoms we enjoy. And think about U. S. Savings Bonds as a way to keep us free. As for Miss Liberty, well, when you're in New York go up and see her sometime.

don't take many fish in the brushy upper reaches of the river, but boats do. In my opinion, this is not game management but mismanagement. The State of Washington Game Department has accomplished in a few short years what the Indian has been unable to do down through the centuries. These so-called "Game Protectors" have finally exploited the steelhead till all too few remain in our rivers. Is it any wonder that there is bitterness and rancor in the hearts of the fishermen in Clallam and Jefferson counties. I have young boys who caught fine steelhead a few years ago. Now they don't want to go steelhead fishing any more. The fish are gone. They turn elsewhere for something to do. They must pay higher license fees and are now required to buy a punch card to satisfy the greedy demand for revenue. For what? There are only a few days of steelhead fishing any more for the bank fisherman during high water. The bank fisherman who relied on getting a fresh fish for his family has been squeezed out of the picture in the interest of providing a show for the paying sportsman and his hired guide. Money is what counts. Hurrah for Forks, Washington, the steelhead fishing capital of the United States.

Maybe we are supposed to be appeased by the Game Department's noble gesture, the $100,000 fish rearing facility that has been built on the Bogachiel river. This, at the time of construction, was supposed to be the rectifying factor, that was to furnish as abundance of steelhead to take care of the demand brought about by increased fishing pressure at that time. Well, the fishermen were betrayed on this deal also. We got some extra steelhead all right. As far as I am concerned, I don't want these stunted, hatchery-bred fish, and the less the Game Department interferes with natural conditions on our river, the better off we will be. There is nothing wrong yet with spawning conditions in the Sol Duc, Bogachiel and Hoh rivers. All we need here in western Clallam and Jefferson counties is a chance for reasonable number of fish to reach the spawning areas and be left along to follow their natural inclination. We don't need hatcheries or rearing ponds that produce stunted inferior fish. We need closure of boat fishing on all three rivers above Highway 101 and an end to all the late season fishing of thin-bellied, poor quality steelheads. Now is the time to put stringent conservation measures into effect before it is too late. Our rivers should be closed to steelhead fishing after March. We must practice conservation if we are to bring the steelhead back.

In the winter of 1965 a number of petitions were circulated in this area requesting some kind of control on boat fishing. I sponsored one of these petitions myself along with those of Mr. Guy Decker of Forks, Washington, and obtained 44 local signatures. This was submitted with an explanatory letter and recommendations to Denator Gordon Sandison who informed me that it was brought to the attention of the Game Department. These petitions were not intended to prohibit boat fishing, but to restrict boat fishing to the lower parts of the larger rivers, or to limit boat fishing to certain rivers only, in accordance with what we believed to be good conservation practice. This represented the wishes of a great number of people in our area. These well-intended efforts submitted at a time when there was still a fair run of fish were completely ignored by the Game Department. They never even acknowledged receipt of the petitions from all over Clallam and Jefferson counties of which mine was only one.

If the State of Washington Game Department does not practice better conservation than it has in the past the people of the State should make an effort to change this department to some other more effective form of control over our fish and game resources. They have betrayed a sacred trust.

STEELHEAD VANISHING

Are our natural steelhead being depleted? Are they in danger of becoming extinct? Is there anything we can do to keep this from happening?

Yes, there is according to Henry Henslering and many of the members of our community. They are forming a "Save Our Natural Steelhead" committee. This committee initially being formed to publish the article written by Hans Norbistrath of Beaver, Mr. Norbistrath is a longtime resident of the area and an ardent fisherman. He became concerned about the diminishing steelhead, even before this year and decided to do something about it. He says, in part the decline of steelhead in the Sol Duc, Bogachiel and Hoh rivers is not hard to understand. These fish have been self-sustaining since the earliest record of man and their propagation would have continued if man would only allow a reasonable number of fish to reach the upper parts of the rivers to follow their natural instincts.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the only way to save these steelhead is to close the upper rivers to boating.

Even several of the steelhead guides have stated that this is the only way.

But how many people in Western Washington know this?

This is the reason the committee feels that it is imperative to publish this article so more people will become aware of the facts as presented in the article. The group wants to publish the article in the Seattle Post Intelligencer, the most widely circulated newspaper in the northwest. The cost of publication is $451.00. This is all the money the group wants to raise. They do not feel that they should go on to other things as yet.

Several meetings of interested parties have been held and in the next few days there will be donation boxes in area stores. Will you help? Or will our natural steelhead become extinct and be replaced with inferior hatchery stock?

Interstate Road Code
Topics and Trends reports that there is a logical pattern for the new interstate highway numbering system. East - West routes are assigned an even one or two digit number. North - South routes receive an odd one or two digit number. Three-digit signs indicate proximity to cities if the first digit is even, expect to go through or around a city. First digit odd will take you into a city. What all this amounts to is that should you be lost on an unfamiliar interstate road some night, without a map, you would know that you're traveling either East or West, or North or South, or by a city, or into a city.

Universal gym explained

By Steve Lingvall

Many questions have been raised by various people concerning the Universal Gym. What is it? It is an exercising machine that can hold twelve men at once. Each station or section of the mechanism can hold one person, with the exception of Station I. Here are the stations:

- Station I-- Quad Pulley (two-man station).
- Station II--Overhead Pull-down.
- Station III--Supine Press and dead Lift.
- Station IV--Standing Press, Toe Raise and Squat.

chine.

Station VI--Isometric Chinning Bar.

Station VII--Leg Flexion-Extension.

Station VIII--Abdominal, Station IX--Dipping Bars, Station X--Back Hyperextension.

Station XI--Wrist and Forearm Developer.

Approximately $1700.00 was donated by the ASB for the Universal Gym. Other contributions will come by way of a scrap-iron drive, a bake sale, a dance, and slave day. The latter brought in a total of $250.00. Total cost of the Gym is $2495.00.

Not all of the money is being put up by the ASB. Mr. Traver, the high school principal, feels that the students will be able to raise the rest of the money, if they really want it.

To further your limited knowledge on the Universal Gym, here are some factors concerning each station's resistance range:

- Station I--210 pounds.
 - Station II--5-225 pounds.
 - Station III--30-255 pounds.
 - Station IV--20-245 pounds.
 - Station V--5-225 pounds.
 - Station VII--5-155 pounds.
 - Station XI--5-50 pounds.
- If this information is not clear, you can learn more about the Universal Gym by contacting the office of FHS.

New fee for national forests 150,000 cutthroat planted

A new recreation fee system involving $7 annual permits and $1 daily user permits will go into effect May 25 for designated public recreation sites on National Forests throughout the Nation.

Replacing the expired Golden Eagle annual recreational passport program, the system will apply to 225 designated recreation sites, mostly campgrounds, on Pacific Northwest Region National Forests in Oregon and Washington. Regional Forester Charles A. Connaughton announced.

Revival of the Golden Eagle program, to cover designated sites on all federal lands, is still being considered by Congress, but the outcome is uncertain, and the Forest Service decided to put its own recreation fee system into operation, Connaughton said.

As with the old Golden Eagle program, annual permits will be sold for $7, and $1 daily user permits will also be available. The annual passports go on sale May 25 at Regional Offices, Forest Supervisor and Ranger District headquarters, and at some concessionaires. Daily user permits will only be available at the designated site.

Unlike the Golden Eagle program, the new National Forest Recreation Permits will only be accepted at National Forest recreation sites. The permits will be good until the end of 1970.

Connaughton noted that weather or snow conditions may prevent the charge system from going into operation on the May 25 starting date at a number of Pacific Northwest sites.

In a major effort to determine if a meaningful sea-run cutthroat program can be established in Washington waters, the State Game Department announced that 150,000 legal-sized sea-run cutthroat trout have been released in selected Hood Canal streams.

These trout were reared at the Shelton Hatchery's new 2-acre sea-run cutthroat rearing pond. The concept of raising cutthroat trout in a rearing pond follows the extremely successful pattern of bringing steelhead trout to migrant size under similar conditions.

Cutthroat reared at the Shelton pond have achieved an extremely high degree of "smoltification". This physiological change in anadromous fish experiences in the process of adapting from a freshwater environment as a fingerling to a saltwater habitat as a smolt.

This extensive sea-run cutthroat program was made possible through a relatively new program of federal support through the Anadromous Fish Act.

The Skokomish, Tahuya, DeSatto, Union, Lilliwaup Rivers and the Powerhouse outlet from Lake Cushman were those streams selected for planting of the 7-10" yearling cutthroat. Game Department biologists feel that the adjacent Hood Canal saltwater environment is ideal for the maturing growth of sea-run cutthroat trout.

Sea-run cutthroat spend their period of saltwater life in the estuary habitat of their parent stream and adjacent Hood Canal and Puget Sound waters. Persons fishing in Hood Canal have already reported taking some of the newly-planted sea-runs.

Sunset Highlites

By Fred Jarvis

Faye Fuhs really blew a fuse (pardon the pun), at the Women's State Tournament weekend before last. Packing a 135 average and at her first big tournament, she hit 453 in the team event, which isn't too bad. Then had 504 in her singles which is even better, but then in the doubles with Judy Winney, she went wild, hitting a 1-5-259-198 for a 0-12 scratch, putting them in fourth place with 1249. She'll receive a century award for the big game, a 600 patch for her series, and also a patch for her 1599 scratch all-events, high for the D-division. Must have finished awfully high in the handicap all-events too, with 1306. Congratulations, Faye.

Last week's Summer Mixed had Phyllis Whitehead at 186-502 and Reta O'Keefe at 182-520, Mike Holz and Charlie Long, both sporting a 118 average hit 186. Dad Jarvis had 214-579.

Not too much else doing during the week except a last minute rush to qualify for Sequim Summer Singles. Eight of us guys and one gal, Leta, made it. Managed to squeeze out a third place finish for myself, the only one from Forks to place.

John Nagel had the TV shot, and Gordon McCoy the Jackpot try at Saturday Nite Monte Carlo, but neither was very lucky. Only eleven of us bowling that nite, not too big a crowd.

Duke and Jean got back from Reno Sunday with their pocket-books bulging. What's that, Jean? You said depleted instead of replenished? Sorry about that. Well, nice to see you back anyway.

Little Theresa Suchodolski likes to see her name in print, she got her first strike in the Junior-Senior Mixed the other nite, also hitting a 63 game and a 159 series, while carrying only a 30 average.

Jeff Parris with a 116 average hit a 457 series, and Mark Henry had a 172 game, Leta Rondeau rolled a 190-524, Ed Hulung had a 224-608, but Darrell topped everyone with his big 257-654. Yikes!!

Bowling for Duke in Beat the Pros last week, Darrell hit a 643, but I drug him down enough so that he had to pay off again. You just can't realize how easy it is to beat us and get paid for it. Talk about easy pickings!

Bowlers of the week: Leta 190-524, and Darrell 257-654.

Mets win two

The Forks Little League Mets picked up two victories in Little League play last week by defeating the Tigers 10 to 7 and the Beaver Giants, 12 to 0.

In the Met-Tiger game it was Randy Crossgrove picking up the win as he struck out 7 men and pitched the complete game. Big hitters for the Mets were Steve Burge with three hits in three attempts and 13 RBI's, and Sanford Windle as he slammed a three-run homer.

Lane Richards handcuffed the Giants with a four-hitter, striking out 10, to win his first game of the year. The Mets used an assume hitting attack in helping Richards as they pounded out 14 hits including three-for-three for Richards, three-for-three for Lee Olson, including a home run. Randy Crossgrove got the only other homer of the game for the Mets.

North Mason wins track crown

The North Mason Bulldogs pulled out a big upset Saturday as they out-classed the Olympic League powers to win the West Central district track and field meet in Sumner.

Mason picked up a total of 87 points to Lake-side's 85. The Forks Spartans picked up a total of 20 points, but failed to qualify anyone for the annual state meet in Bellingham.

Dave Beebe picked up a pair of third place ribbons with a 5' 8" leap in the high jump and a 11' 6" vault in the pole vault. Beebe's 11' 6" vault gave him not only a third place finish, but a Forks High School record. The old record was 11' 0" held by Beebe.

Dennis Perry led a field of fine runners until the last 40 yards of the 440, but had to settle for fourth with a fine clocking of 52.8 seconds.

Ed Jackson and Byron Windle picked up a pair of fifth place ribbons as Jackson covered the half-mile in 2 minutes and 10.4 seconds. Windle, meanwhile, picked up a fifth in the 180 low hurdles with a clocking of 22.5 seconds.

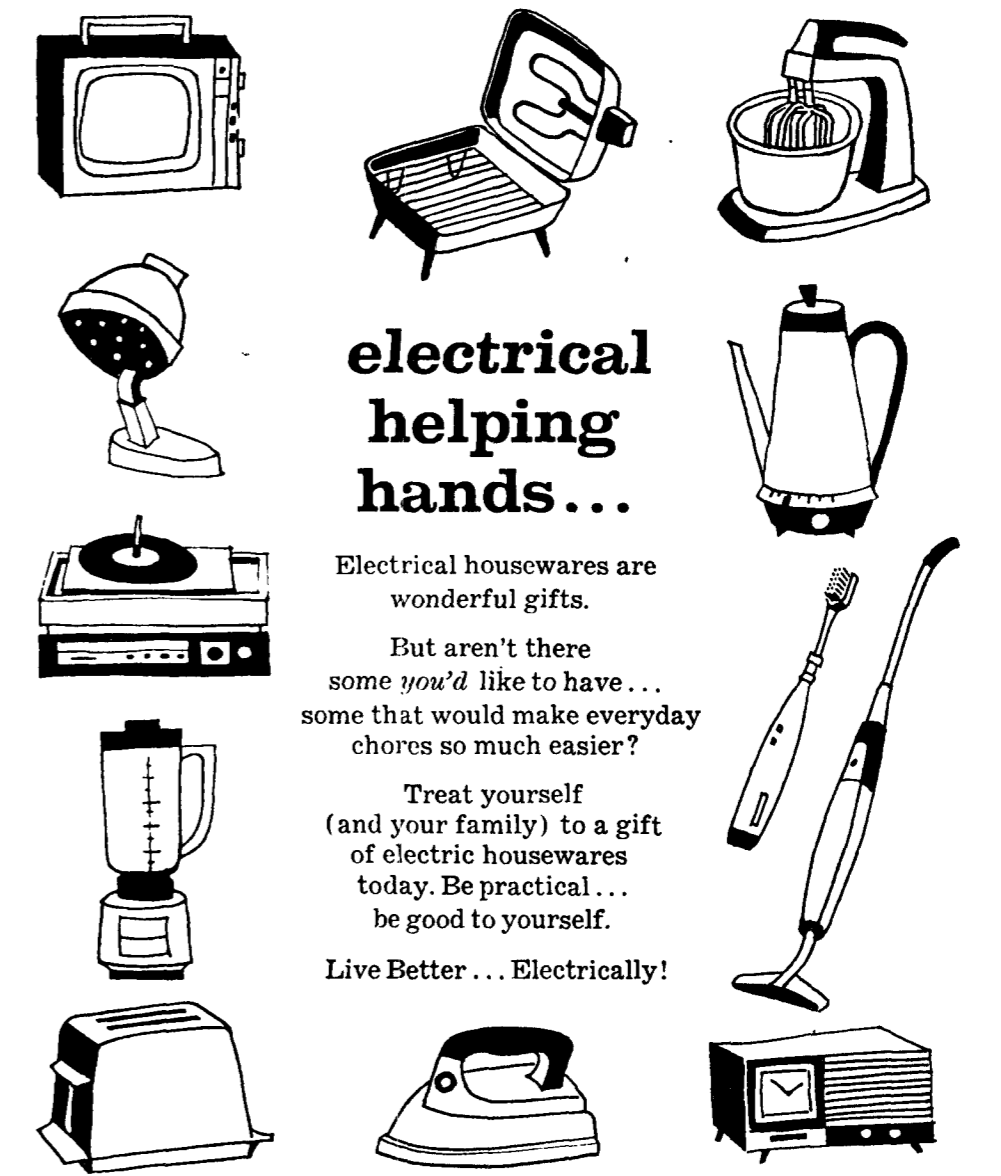

The Spartans have now finished their track season but look ahead to a big turn-out in 1971 with the possibility of once again building the Spartans into a track power.

Although not quite as big, this 5 1/2-pound Kamloops caught by Caril Leavitt of Bear Creek is a "keeper".
