VOL. 31. NO. 27. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON. FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1915. $1.50 THE YEAR

STAGE IS SET FOR ELKS' THREE DAY CIRCUS

ENTIRE CITY A BLAZE OF COLOR

The stage is set! And the Elks are the actors!

Every foot of available space along the business blocks of Front, First, Oak and Laurel streets has been covered with bunting and hung with the purple and white flags of the Elks intermingled with the stars and stripes until the city is a riot of color. Private residences along all the principal streets appear to have caught the holiday fever, and even half the populace is wearing the purple and white.

The Marine Band, the boys appearing for the first time in their natty white uniforms, is easily the center of attraction, the concerts given in the new band stand and on the corner of Front and Laurel never failing to draw an appreciative crowd of listeners.

Front and Laurel streets are filled with a miniature tent city where the jitney is high coin and fifty spellers are using their most persuasive wiles to make them as nimble as possible that the Elks may be able to make a substantial and satisfactory addition to their building fund.

Free entertainment of high order has been provided in abundance, everything except the BigTop, the Wild Man of the Hoh, the Albino Snake Charmer, the Oriental Dancer, and a few minor atractions, being given out in the open. Next to the aeroplane flights and the spectacular street parades, for which extensive preparations had been made, the water sports will probably attract the most attention and give the greatest degree of pleasure. The three days' circus closes Saturday night with a grand Venetian Masque Street Carnival, which, if only a tenth part of the costumes and paraphernalia on sale are pressed into service, will be a howling success and there will surely be a Hot Time in the Old Town.

Rest rooms, in charge of a committee from the Women's Auxiliary, have been provided for the ladies in the new Warren Morse Block, on Laurel street, while the general headquarters of the Elks' committee in charge are located further down the street in the Merchants Hotel Block.

The Gutenburg Hardware Store has been sold to W. J. Mattinger & Bros. The Mattinger Brothers took charge of the store this morning. The deal was made through the Thos. T. Aldwell & Company.

ALBANY HERE TODAY WITH NAVAL MILITIA

TO PRACTICE WITH 5-INCH GUNS

Two hundred and sixty members, officers and men, of the naval branch of the Washington State Guard, otherwise known as the naval militia, all equipped with new uniforms, arrived yesterday afternoon on the cruiser Albany to spend the week-end in boat and gun drills, receiving a general shaking down preparatory to their cruise to San Francisco, where they will be guests of the Exposition management.

Captain F. W. Andrews of Tacoma is in charge of the militia, while Lieut. Geo. A. Alexander of the navy is commander of the cruiser. A skeleton of regulars accompanies the militia forces.

After completion of the cruise, the Albany returns to Port Angeles harbor where the militia will receive three days' practice with the five inch guns.

The Albany was at one time in commission in the Brazilian navy; having built in the Unted States, she was purchased by this government at the time of the Spanish war.

The officers of the naval militia on the cruise are: Capt. W. Frank Andrews, commander; Lieut.-Com. Wm. B. Allison, executive; Lieut. George A. Browne, engineer officer; Lieut. Albert Modie, pay officer; Lieut. (junior grade) William E. McNelly, navigating officer; Past Assistant Surgeon C. Benson Wood, senior medical officer; Past Assistant Surgeon C. J. Brobeck, medical officer; Lieut. Ensign C. J. Wrucke and Ensign Keneth C. Ingraham, First division, Seattle; Lieut. Wedell Foss, Lieut. (junior grade) John B. Armstrong and Ensign George M. Price, Second division. Tacoma; Lieut, (junior grade) Eber R. Sizer, Ensign Frederick W. Griffiths and Carpenter Willson A. Henning, Third division, Aberdeen.

NEW TRAIL SAVES 25 PER CENT OF CLIMB

Swinging on the limb of a stunted fir on the summit of Mt. Angeles, just where it was hung when last used six years ago, is a tent, whole and firm as the day it was made, yet bleached whiter than the snow beneath. It has been waiting there all this time, together with an aluminum cooking outfit, for the convenience of those members of the Klahanne Club who will camp there next Monday, the first night out in a "tour of the mountain." Other tents and blankets have been taken up to the park over the new trail, completed the first of the week by Messrs. Fisher and Hartleb.

This new trail cuts down by fully 25 per cent the work required to reach the summit, starting in just above the upper line of the light green timber that clothes the lower slopes of the mountain and, swinging around to the east of the peak, at its base, replaces the 1500-foot vertical climb with a long gradual ascent, rising some 500 feet in all to the foot of the 200-foot waterfall at the park line. In fact, so easy has the trail been made that Mr. Fisher had to build a brush fence across it, halfway up the mountainside, to keep his cow from eating the flowers in the alpine park.

It is now expected that about fifteen members of the Klahanne Club, as well as two or three guests from Seattle, will join in the annual outing, which will probably take in a goodly portion of the country immediately tributary to Mt. Angeles.

ENGINEER SCALDED TO DEATH

A very sad and distressing accident happened at Camp 16 near Port Crescent last Friday morning when the donkey engine tipped over, scalding Lewis Brant. A special train hurried him in to the General Hospital but he died of his injuries Saturday evening. Nothing is known of his family or if for sure if he has one, but he had just learned that through the death of a brother in Indianapolis he had fallen heir to $30,000 and was to have given up his job Saturday. He was buried Tuesday afternoon from the Fulmer Undertaking Parlors.

The June number of the Pacific Motor Boat Magazine contains a splendid write up of the Clallam county ferries, illustrated with some excellent pictures of both the Marjory and the Storm King. Clallam county and Port Angeles have received some very good advertising through the medium of its ferries, which, on account of their unique structure and practicability have attracted a great deal of attention.

LAUREL STREET ZIG-ZAG READY FOR SHRUBBERY

Laurel street zig-zag presents a much more attractive appearance from the business district and especially to persons coming up from the Peoples' Wharf, since the late improvements and building of the band stand. This stand will prove a valuable asset to the city and is to be initiated by the Elks, during their three days celebration. The stars and stripes float from a fine flag pole which has been raised from the center of the roof, and can be seen by ships far out in the harbor. It has been very attractively decorated by the Elks, who will use it as a reviewing stand. Here, the Mayor, and other city officials and dignitaries will view the street parades and various performances.

The staining and painting was done this week by Mr. Bork, of the Johnson & Bork Painting Co., and was a most generous donation to the city, as he made no charge for his work. Mr. Wolverton, who had the charge of the improvement work has been ably assisted by Mr. Webber, the superintendent of construction at the new court house. There is considerable terracing and other work to be done which the committees hope will be accomplished next week. Ferns, Oregon grape and native shrubbery will be set out, also cultivated vines and flower plants. A hydrant will be installed close by for use in keeping them watered.

MARKED CARDS ARE TABOO

One W. J. Carter, formerly of Seattle and vicinity, drifted into town on the morning of June 26th, and immediately began hunting out the soft spots, as it were, but his hunt did not last very long, nor was his quest successful, for it chanced that Sheriff Harry Bishop happened along and discovered that our friend from upSound used a deck of marked cards and a set of crooked dice. When the smoke cleare away, W. J. Carter found that he had spent two nights in the county jail and had been fined $50 by Judge Severyns and had been deposited on a boat which made no stops nearer than Seattle.

LAST NOTICE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES

The County Treasurer according to a law passed by the last Legislature must collect all delinquent personal property taxes.

There are still a few who have failed to pay their personal tax and to save further expense I wish to ask that they do so as soon as possible.

HERBERT H. WOOD,
County Treasurer.

TACOMA TO PORT ANGELES TWO HOURS BY HYDROPLANE

MAKES SEVERAL FLIGHTS DAILY

Making the flight from Tacoma to Angeles in two hours and five minutes, or traveling at the rate of sixty miles an hour for the entire trip, is the remarkable record set by Prof. G. W. Stromer, who has made more than seven hundred successful flights since the first of the year. A telegram dispatched at Tacoma at seven o'clock Tuesday morning, arrived here nearly thirty minutes after the aviator had landed in the harbor. Prof. Stromer made a beautiful flight over the city and harbor as the sun was beginning to shine in its glory on the silvery waters of the strait; he circled several times over the harbor and then dropped into the water with his hydroplane near the City Dock. From there he flew on down to the brewery dock where he landed on terra firma to replenish his gasoline tank and fix minor details.

Prof. G. W. Stromer is a young man of foreign birth, coming from Germany. His appearance is that of one who knows no fear. His manly features, actions, and countenance show that he is a master of his daredevil profession. He has every convenience on the machine, even to maps and a book for the log of the journey. He says that it is not necessary to have your hands on the different levers all the time while flying. He even takes the time to write down the happenings of the trip. The guiding of the machine is done with the feet.

Mr. Stromer has been actively interested in the construction of flying machines of all kinds for the past fourteen years, though he has only been operating them personally the past three years. His record for extreme altitude, thus far, is 5.500 feet. His present machine, a hydro-aeroplane, has parallel wings, the top wing being 43 feet in breadth and the lower one 31 feet. The boat, which is built of spruce, with double bottom and three water-tight compartments, is 16 feet long, 30 inches wide and 12 deep. The machine is driven by an 80 h. p. Curtiss engine, giving a regular maximum speed of 68 miles an hour. Since the first of January he has carried 630 passengers.

The successful flights made by Mr. Stromer on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday morning, show that he has perfect control of the plane. As we go to press many of the leading citizens of Port Angeles will have made the flight with the Tacoma air man.

$93,820 FERCH & GASS' BID ON EAST END GRADING

SEVERAL BIDS ON LINCOLN SEWER

Every big event brings a host interested in that particular movement to the council meetings. This week it was the contractors and property owners interested in the awarding of the contracts for the surface grading of the east end and for the Lincoln street trunk sewer. For the former, there was but one bid submitted, that of Ferch & Gass, and a reasonable bid it seemed. For the sewer there was nearly a dozen, and eight bidders. All were laid over until next meeting to give the council a chance to figure up the totals and digest their meaning.

The Ferch & Gass bid totals $93,820, and subdivided includes in part sidewalking $6,250, concrete walks $8000, grade Third street $5,000, Albert $715, Eunice $845, Race $10,350, Washington, $2600, Chambers $5850, Jones $3770, Liberty $4350, Ennis $4290, Columbia $4550, First $4550, Second $4160, Third $3345, Fourth $1430, Fifth $6500, Sixth $2990, Seventh $3900. The condition is that payment is made by bonds and not warrants, and that the engineer's monthly estimates will be allowed promptly less the usual reserve.

Mettler & Coit, brick $29,991.20, clay $30,268.40; Zindorf & Lindel, brick $30,467.25, clay $30,863.25; Grant Shearer, clay $32,314.85; Ferch & Gass, clay $34,213.25; Dickens & Anderson, clay $32,335; H. A. Cotton, clay $33,663.40; E. M. Moore, clay $35,090.95; Chris. Kuppler, clay $33,996.15.

A petition was read from the property owners asking for a plank sidewalk on Cedar street, both sides, from 6th to 12th streets. Ordinance creating an assessment district was presented and read to second reading.

Ordinances confirming the assessment rolls for the Lincoln street grade and the First street sewer were adopted by unanimous vote.

Mrs. M. H. Nailor submitted her report on the census showing Port Angeles to have a population of 4782. Filed. It is agreed that Mrs. Nailor has done conscientious work, and has lost very few if any in the enumeration, a fact for which she is to be strongly commended, for it is no light task.

C. E. Shields in behalf of the property owners in blocks 69 and 168, or rather those on the east end of said blocks, addressed council asking that some way be devised to connect Fourth street with Lincoln, and representing that every other street except Fourth has been connected with and has the benefit of the Lincoln street improvement, while these owners helped pay for the other connections and has no benefits whatever; that they paid $1006.92 toward the Lincoln street grade, their portion of the cuts connecting the other streets, and in the bulkheading of a portion of Lincoln street and the lowering of Fifth street bridge, all a dead loss to them unless they can become connected with Lincoln street. The petition was referred.

Mr. Bigelow of the Franchise Committee, reported a substitute ordinance for the railroad franchise ordinance which has been before the council for some time. The new ordinance needs an engineer and a diagram for the lay mind to grasp what it really means, but we draw from the reading of it that it conveys certain right of way to the railroad company on the spit, together with the right to lay spur track to accommodate any factories which may locate thereon. Other roads coming in later and securing a franchise from the city, may use the tracks of this company by paying a rental found by all parties to be reasonable therefor. The usual control of the area traversed is to be submitted to the government for its approval under the city lease before it is officially published.

Council adjourned.

POPULATION OF PORT ANGELES NEARLY 5,000

Port Angeles now has 4,782 people according to the census just completed by Mrs. Madge H. Nailor for the city, in connection with her work of taking the school census as clerk of the school board. In making her report to the council Mrs. Nailor stated that the canvass had been complete and conscientious and that she felt safe in saying that it is as complete a list as could be made by anyone. The school census, as heretofore reported, shows 1109 children of school age and that 4½ is the proper multiple to use in arriving at census estimates in this city.

DOINGS OF THE WEEK AT OLYMPIA

Olympia, June 30.—June reports of superintendents of state institutions to the board of control show a total of 6,021 inmates, as compared with 5,352 eight months ago, showing an increase of 12½ per cent in that period.

Nearly half of the inmates, 2,947, are in the three hospitals for insane, an increase of 8½ per cent in numbers during eight months. There are now 808 convicts in Walla Walla penitentiary, as compared with 657 eight months ago. In the two soldier's homes and one colony 927 are accommodated. There are 423 inmates of the state institution for feeble minded, 442 in the Monroe Reformatory, 186 in the training school, 74 in the school for girls, 139 in the school for deaf and 48 in the school for the blind.

The state's first school for adult blind, now in progress at Vancouver, is giving a class of 15 now helpless adults instruction in chair caning, typewriting, basket weaving, broom making and like occupations. Students who desire the instruction also will be typewriting, piano tuning and repairing, while women will be given instruction in sewing and crocheting.

The school sessions will continue until September 1, when the school buildings again will be turned over to the children who are regular attendants. This is the first year that use has been made of the buildings and organization of the school, for the benefit of adult blind, during the summer vacation period.

Washington State Fair has as usual gone east this year for the poultry judge, D. E. Hale, a noted Illinois breeder, will place the awards. Mr. Hale will also pick out and compare the best birds for the big San Francisco show. The state fair increases its premiums in the poultry department and will give the best prizes yet offered in the Northwest. Secretary Meredith has the premium list ready to mail and will be glad to send it to all who expect to exhibit. In writing for the premium list intending exhibitors should be sure to state in which department they wish to exhibit so that entry blanks may be sent to this department. Harry H. Collier, Tacoma, who has been superintendent of the poultry for the last 18 years, will again have charge this fall.

Approximately 400 holders of state liquor licenses already have gone out of business, without waiting for the prohibition law to become effective, is the estimate of the state tax commission, which is busily engaged in collection of licenses for the new period beginning July 1.

There were 2,250 licenses last year. The tax commission collected in advance this year from some 400 license holders, a larger number of advance collections than ever has been made previously.

Prosecutions will face vendors of liquor who fail to take out their new licenses promptly after July 1.

Harry H. Collier, commissioner of poultry for the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco, has issued an entry blank for Washington exhibits. The state of Washington through the exposition commission, will duplicate all premiums won by Washington poultrymen. Other premiums given by Washington are $100 for the largest and best exhibit made by any county in the state. Fifty dollars will be given to the Washington breeder who wins the most premiums at the big San Francisco fair. Twenty-five dollars will be given to the breeder who will win the most premiums on one variety.

The premiums at the big fair are as follows:

Pens, $10 for first, $6 for second, $4 for third. On cock, cockerel, hen and pullet, the premiums are first, $5; second $4, third $3. The entry fees in the poultry department are $4 for pens and $1.50 on single birds. Washington hopes to win at least 20 per cent if not more of the premiums offered.

That many members of the legislature which passed the acts to limit the use of the initiative, referendum and recall, by requiring signing of all petitions at registration offices, afterward signed referendum petitions against these measures, is shown by the canvas of the signatures, which is still in progress, under the jurisdiction of Secretary of State I. M. Howell, with a crew of 104 checkers. The count is expected to be finished by July 9. It undoubtedly will show that there are sufficient signatures to refer all seven measures against which petitions have been filed. The petitions against the acts crippling the initiative, referendum and recall and the political conventions measures, which were vetoed by Governor Ernest Lister, drew some 15,000 more signatures of protest than any of the other measures.

The state department of agriculture this week paid its first claim under the new state law which authorizes owners of live stock to secure state compensation for cattle, found to be infected with tuberculosis and condemned for slaughter. The first heard of 66 cows that was tested showed no diseased animals. Tests now are being made by inspectors in Whatcom, Thurston and Okanogan counties.

Approximately $60,000 worth of immediate work in Okanogan county on State Roads Nos. 10 and 12, that will enable farmers to haul their wheat to railroad points, was arranged by Highway Commissioner William R. Roy last week, as the result of a trip over both of these roads, at present among the steepest and roughest in the state. The work will be done by local labor under state force account.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

By Mrs. M. E. Troy, Delegate from the Musical Club and P. A. Reading Club.

To attend a State Federation Convention is surely an event in one's life. To be in touch for even a short space of time with so many brilliant women, full of high aims and lofty ambitions, must be an inspiration no matter what our line of work.

I will begin with my arrival in Seattle and take you as well as I can with me on my journey and to the meetings from day to day.

Arriving in Seattle in the early morning, I breakfasted and then boarded the 10:15 train for Spokane. Mr. Chapman of the Milwaukee Railroad, escorted us to our destination and took especial pains to see that we were all introduced and soon we felt quite at home. The State President, Mrs. McKee, and the Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Watson, both from Hoquiam, were among our party and were very gracious and pleasant to everyone. There was an absence of hilarity, the faces of all were earnest and filled with the purpose of the convention. There were three University students also with us, bright, eager girls, destined to make their mark in some way, no doubt.

We arrived in Spokane at 9:30 in the evening rather tired than otherwise, for the sage brush country through which we had traveled so many hours had anything but an exhilirating effect. After a night at the hotel and breakfast, we repaired to the beautiful Presbyterian church, where the convention was to be held, handed in our credentials, received receipts and cards which were to be punched each day and returned for a final receipt which entitled us to the reduction of fare. The delegates were now assigned to different homes for entertainment and it fell to my lot to be placed with Mrs. Rhodehamel, the wife of a Spokane physician. Their beautiful home was within three blocks of the church and consequently was very convenient for me, a stranger. My hostess had charge of the decorations for the church throughout the convention, and they were extremely beautiful and artistic. The first day the flowers were white mixed with the green of ferns and smilax, roses, carnations, peonies and syringa, green and white, the Federation colors. The second day was a red day and I thought of the song, "The Garden of Sleep," for great poppies flamed everywhere, though I had not noticed that they had a sombulent effect upon the audience.

Thursday the decorations were yellow and the black eyed Susans, which blossom all about Spokane, the Scotch Broom and even the mustard plant were used to make this, many thought, the most beautiful day of all. Friday it did not seem possible that any pink roses could be left in the gardens for the profusion of flowers of that color, which we found as we entered for our last session, "Isn't that beautiful"—this was on every tongue. You can readily imagine the amount of work and planning it necessitated to remove the flowers each day and replace with fresh ones each morning. Mrs. Rhodehamel was up and away by six a. m. to see that everything was in readiness for the morning session.

At two o'clock Tuesday afternoon the church was packed with delegates and spectators, all eagerness and anticipation, and to the strains of the pipe organ, Mrs. Pennybacker, the National President and Mrs. McKee our State President, led a procession of State Officers, the Mayor of Spokane, the Spirit of Spokane, represented by a beautiful young girl, to the platform.

Mrs. McKee in well-chosen words, greeted our National President, Mrs. Pennybacker, who is a little Southern woman with hair tinged with gray. She looks very quiet and sweet and you almost wonder at her holding so important a place among women, but when she speaks you can understand. The Mayor made us welcome in a speech which was a compliment to our intelligence. The response by Mrs. Ulmens of Seattle, expressed this, she saying he had spoken to us as though we were human beings endowed with brains and good common sense.

We now listened to two beautiful songs by Mrs. Weaver of Ellensburg and the introduction of General Federation board members, after which Mrs. McKee delivered her address. This was in substance a review of her work during the past year, showing how much the work has increased. She had been called to different parts of the state to speak before University students, commercial clubs and all sorts of women's clubs and has devoted almost all of her time to the work and she stated that only a woman of almost unlimited means and unusual physical strength should attempt to hold this office. She, you feel, has been the right woman in the right place, for as we watched her thru the different sessions she was always at ease, always dignified and when she was called upon to speak her remarks were to the point. Her address, while very interesting, was long and it was late in the afternoon before we finally adjourned.

Tuesday evening was the occasion of a delightful concert, to be followed by a reception in honor of Mrs. Pennybacker. So we all donned our prettiest gowns and hastened to the Hotel Davenport, which is considered the finest hotel in the West, I am told, and I can easily believe it. The entertainment was given in the Marie Antionette room. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental selections and of course the reception was the usual affair of that kind. We were introduced to hundreds of people, wandered through the beautiful galleries and regaled ourselves with punch and wafers.

Wednesday morning after the reading of minutes, roll call, etc., the recording secretary, Mrs. Watson, read a report of her work, showing the growth and development of the Washington Federation during the past year. She stated she had sent out 7916 letters and cards, had seen to the printing and distribution of 549 year books, had used 8000 sheets of paper and 8100 envelopes and had issued 1000 calls, reports and credential blanks. Twenty-eight new clubs had joined this year and six clubs had withdrawn, leaving a total of 178 clubs and a total of 14,217 members all told.

This is how the funds have been used—for philanthropy, $4,558, civic work, $5,946, schools, $680, libraries, $1,617, miscellaneous, $3,228, total $16,031. The report was interesting and received much applause.

The Credential Committee reported that in the 197 delegates present there were nine officers, four past presidents and six chairmen of state committees.

An amendment to the by-laws proposed by the executive board, was then introduced by Mrs. McKee. The amendment read that any club which was disloyal to the State Federation, should be expelled by a two-thirds vote of the board. This was discussed at length and finally an amendment to the amendment was proposed, this being, that any club which was disloyal, should be expelled by a unanimous vote of the board, the club to be given all chance to state its position and the action of the board would have to be satisfied at the following meeting of the Federation. Many thought it was unnecessary for any thing of this kind to be in our by-laws but Mrs. McKee explained her position on the question saying, "that while they had no idea that this would ever have to be used, still it was a good thing to have it there in case a condition might arise." Some argued that it interfered with the liberty of the individual club, but at last the amendment to the amendment carried.

An amendment requiring clubs to hold annual meetings and elect officers before May 1st of each year was adopted. After a piano solo, "On Wing of Song," Mendelssohn, by Miss Adams of South Bend, we listened to a splendid address by Mrs. T. J. Winter of Minneapolis, a member of the National Board. Her subject was "Middle Age." She spoke of the ideal woman of different periods and claimed that the ideal woman of today must be a composite of all these and much more. Her address showed a great knowledge of literature, both ancient and modern. She reminded us that with our books about us we could associate with the greatest people of the earth, that no matter what our mood or condition of life there was a message for us somewhere in poetry or prose. She said we needed more humor, that most women take themselves and others too seriously, and in conclusion she told a little story of a friend who had been making jelly all day and finally when she lay down at night, weary of her day's work, she fell into a heavy sleep and dreamed that beautiful angels were floating all about her and she wished that she could be like them, when one of the etherial creatures came floating over to her and said, "You can never be an angel because you won't jell." So Mrs. Winters calls "Middle Age" the jelly age, the time when we have settled into something permanent in character, to have broadened our horizon and enlarged our point of view and the time for our greater achievement. I don't think I listened to any of the addresses given with more enjoyment than I did to this, tho in this meager outline I have been unable to give you any idea of the beautiful language in which she clothed her thoughts.

A conference of the Musical Clubs of the State was called during the noon hour, though the Chairman of this division of the Federation, Mrs. Keator of Tacoma, was unable to be present. We talked over many plans for mutual help, one of them being the establishment of a musical library which could be used by all the musical clubs over the state, each club contributing towards this the music they now have on hand—in this way clubs could aid one another and save much unnecessary expense.

The afternoon session opened with an overture for two pianos, "Midsummer Night's Dream," then followed an address on the "Fundamental Ideals of Home Economics," the election report was now given out as we had all been given ballots on which to place our vote for President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Trustee, and as we left the hall at noon we passed them in. The vote resulted in the nomination of Mrs. Shedd of Pullman and Mrs. Phelps of Spokane, for president. A great deal of feeling had been aroused among the clubs of Spokane over this office. A majority of the clubs had endorsed Mrs. Phelps of the Cultus Club, but Mrs. Hall who was endorsed by the Women's Club, would not give up, claiming that she had the endorsement of enough clubs thruout the state to insure her election. This decision among the Spokane clubs undoubtedly lost them the President. When Mrs. Hall's friends saw she was out of the race for the presidency, they got pledges from Mrs. Shedd's friends for Mrs. Hall for trustee, in turn giving their support to Mrs. Shedd. This was a clever move on their part, though hardly an admirable thing to do.

At four o'clock we adjourned to take the cars to the lawn party given by Mrs. May Arkwright Hutton. There must have been over a thousand guests at this function and we were in line fully an hour before we reached our hostess. It was indeed an attractive scene, the prettily gowned women, the lovely flowers everywhere and the music from a stringed orchestra adding pleasure to it all. A large banner inscribed "American Women for Peace," hung in a conspicuous place and we were all presented with a memorial commending President Wilson for his attitude during these strenuous times and I think it was signed by everyone. Refreshments were served to all, consisting of salad, sandwiches, cakes, ice cream and coffee. I mention this to show you how bountiful was the hospitality. Mrs. Hutton occupies a unique position in Spokane. Earlier in life she kept boarders in the mines and through lucky investments she has come into great wealth. She writes for the papers on political questions which interest her, and I was told that she calls a spade a spade and that the men dread her opposition on this account. She takes her stand on all questions, local or national and is noted for her charity and general kindness.

Wednesday evening we were called to order at eight o'clock. Mrs. Farquaher of Spokane delighting everyone with a splendid pipe-organ solo. Then came the creme-de-la-creme of the whole convention, the address by Mrs. Pennybacker, and as she stepped to the front of the platform the audience arose and gave her the Chautaqua salute. She is truly a great little woman. I quote from her address the following:

"The marvelous profession of being a clubwoman is no longer a haphazard proposition," she said. "It is but the logical development of the economic growth of time. Women fall into three classes; the wage-earner, the class who adorn themselves and their homes and do lavish entertaining, and those who accept all prosperity and leisure and fail to realize that with every blessing there is an added responsibility. Personal adornment, fine homes and lavish entertainment are all legitimate in due proportion, and are only marked when indulged in to excess.

"Woman needs the touch of womankind and this the club makes possible. Our early work was superficial but we are learning to undertake less and accomplish more. We can never give up the cultural side of life. Into the hands of women has been placed the keeping of the ideals of the race and it is for us to keep brightly burning the fires of true learning. If the mother can preach, it is well, but if she also practices, her influence over her children is far greater.

"Efficiency is more important than numbers and the question we must ask ourselves is: 'Are we doing thoro fundamental work as a foundation on which to build still farther?' Our greatest mistakes have been made by acting before we studied. Great reforms have failed because they were started in the wrong way. Our motto must be: Investigate, eliminate, concentrate.

"Cooperation is essential between women of all groups, and between men and women. Women are not the saviors of the race and men are just as good as women. It is not a question of sex, but of heart and mind. We can no longer speak of men's work and women's work. Men and women must live together, play together and work together.

"Our greatest need is a fixed goal toward which to strike. New presidents coming in are apt to want to do something distinctive and neglect movements that were just acquiring momentum. The plan and inspiration must be above all leaders if genuine efficiency is to be attained.

"Loyalty is an essential. We must look for good in our clubwomen and we will certainly find it. Open your heart and let the words of commendation come forth. The club member must be loyal to herself and train herself to make up her mind. Her lips should be closed in the line of criticism outside the club meetings. Women should be loyal to sanity and one of the surest ways is to develop a sense of humor.

"We women would never have ac-

STOVAL RECEPTION A BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

One of the most brilliant social functions of the season was the coming out party for Miss Vivian Stoval last Friday evening at Parish Hall, by her mother, Mrs. W. A. Stoval. The hall presented a very attractive appearance with its beautiful decorations of pink and white, combined with quantities of greenery. Festoons of pink crepe paper and evergreens were artistically draped from the ceiling and around the walls; and in the temporarily arranged reception room a profusion of beautiful roses were most effectively used.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Stoval and Miss Stoval were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Fisher, Dr. and Mrs.MacGillivray and Dr. and Mrs. Hyde. Mrs. Stoval wore a gown of black charmeuse with lace trimmings and large corsage bouquet of lavender sweet peas. Miss Stoval was very sweet and girlish in a white dress of embroidered chiffon cloth.

The dance opened with the Grand March, Mr. and Mrs. Geisness leading the married couples and Miss Stoval and W. C. Nelson the young people. The music by the orchestra was particularly fine and embued everyone with the dance spirit.

The young people certainly made a pretty picture, so varied in color and texture were the many lovely dresses worn by the young ladies.

CITY OFFICIALS PAID VERY HIGH COMPLIMENT

City Clerk Lyle Beam and Engineer Charles Filion were the recipients of a very high compliment this week from Mr. Patrick of the firm of Sharples & Patrick of Seattle, who was here looking over the records in connection with the purchase of the bonds which will be issued in payment of the Francis street sewer. Mr. Patrick, who also took a portion of the bonds issued to Lewis, Wiley & Morse, said the Port Angeles city records were kept in better shape than those of any other city in state.

County Auditor Warren attended the state meeting of auditors, held at Olympia from Monday until Wednesday. A fine program was carried out in which the six women auditors of the state had a leading part. A launch ride and an open air session were features of the session.

Comrades Wait, Mitchell, Harding and Doty and Mesdames Warren, Woods and McKee, represented the local G.A.R. and W.R.C. at the state encampment at Centralia last week. Mr Mitchell, who, as Junior Deputy Commander, had the honor of presiding during a portion of the session, says that 300 old soldiers were registered and all visitors were royally treated by the people of Centralia. He had never seen more elaborate decorations in any small city.

Mrs. Peter Chambers was called to Bellingham Sunday by the death of her sister, Mrs. F. L. Mock, who passed away Sunday morning as a result of diabetes from which she had suffered a number of years. Miss Jolliette Glen accompanied her mother to Bellingham. Mrs. Mock will be remembered by all old timers of Port Angeles as she lived here for many years and was a prominent worker in the W.R.C. and Eastern Star. As a national officer of the W. R. C. she has visited the local organization a number of times on tours of inspection since she moved to Bellingham Her husband died in Florida about three years ago where they were residing at that time. Mrs. Mock leaves two daughters, Mrs. Mary Sykes and Mrs. Carrie Weimer and three sons, Harry, George and Charles. Funeral services were held in Bellingham Wednesday.

Miss Margery Draper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Draper, was initiated into the order of the Eastern Star last Saturday evening, the usual pleasant social session with refreshments, following. Earlier in the evening Mrs. Callarman gave her report of the Grand Chapter which she attended recently at Yakima. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to her for the excellent report which she had taken so much pains to prepare and which showed she had given close attention to everything that was done. Mrs. Littlefield gave an interesting report of a visit certain members of Esther Chapter made to the Port Townsend Chapter early in June, and Mr. DeWitt Burns gave a fine description of the Masonic Temple at Yakima, said to be the most beautiful one in America.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H Bush of Oakes, N D., have been in the city the past week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Walton, who also were residents of Oakes at one time. Mr. Oakes has been postmaster there for eight years and has taken advantage of this first opportunity for a rest to visit the Pacific coast. They spent Sunday and Monday at Mora and La Push, enjoying an Indian Shaker meeting at LaPush Sunday evening; over 40 Indians took part, a number of them shaking big dinner bells. When riding along between lakes Crescent and Sutherland they had the good fortune to see two full grown deer. Mr. and Mrs. Bush left yesterday for a visit with relatives at Kent before returning home.

Mrs. Sarah A. Bael, mother of Mrs. C. D. Foster, passed away last Friday at the home of her daughter with whom she had lived for a number of years. She was 84 years of age and had been bed-ridden for a long time, so death came as a great relief. Funeral services were conducted at Fulmer's Chapel by Rev. Waite of the Baptist church, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock and burial was in Ocean View cemetery. Besides Mrs. Foster, deceased left two sons, Charles Jones of Angeles and H. H. Bael of Clallam Bay, who was in attendance at the funeral.

Bob Paulhamus was most heartily greeted by his many friends as he made his first visit to town Wednesday morning, after being in the hospital just a month. He is on the rapid road to recovery now and he hopes to be back to work in the postoffice soon. He expressed his pleasure at being well enough to attend the Elks celebration and view for himself the celebrated wild man of the Hoh, and the petrified Indian of Clallam county.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Woods and daughter returned Sunday from a trip to Tacoma, over the new Olympic Highway. They report a delightful trip and as they carried a Port Angeles pennant on their car they said they had many inquiries about the highway as well as Port Angeles and the Elks Circus.

We wonder how many people hereabouts realize that $5 deposited monthly in the Port Angeles Trust & Savings Bank will amount in ten years—with 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually — to $737.43. It is certainly "the little things that count."

ANNUAL SESSION STATE FEDERATION WOMEN'S CLUBS

complished very much without the aid of our husbands, fathers, brothers and sweethearts."

In urging that the club members keep a vision before them, Mrs. Pennybacker mentioned a few material things, such as the new system of representation on the general federation committees and the establishment of national headquarters. She made a strong plea for the introduction of youth into the club ranks and urged mothers to have their daughters become members. She congratulated the state on the work being done in the erection of school manses for country school teachers. She pointed out the crying need of sympathy and aid from the best elements of the community for the strangers arriving from across the sea. She declared the human touch was more essential to them than any financial assistance.

Her address was interspersed with many anecdotes, one I remember being a little joke on herself. It was at the time of her election in San Francisco, to her office of Nationa Federation president. Her only opponent at this time was a very dear friend, a tiny, frail, little woman, and one day a stranger who was there as a delegate, was trying to find out how to vote, not knowing who the candidates were and was questioning two women she met in the lobby. One of the ladies said "Well I think we should have as our National President, a tall, stately woman of commanding presence." Just then Mrs. Pennybacker and the other candidate entered arm in arm and the other woman said, "There comes the two candidates now." The stranger gave one glance their way exclaiming, "Great goodness! the two of them put together wouldn't make one decent president."

Mrs. Pennybacker had much to say regarding our duty towards the immigrants who come into our midst, explaining how responsible we are in the way of helping them to become good citizens. She said we should go out of our way to explain to the foreign women our customs and laws so that they would be better able to protect themselves and make fewer mistakes and suffer less in consequence. She said so many things worth remembering that I cannot begin to speak of them all. At the conclusion of her address the applause lasted several moments and then Governor Lister was introduced. He said that after our listening to Mrs. Pennybacker's splendid address he would be unable to say anything which would interest us, but that he would do the best he could. He spoke of the lobbying done by the club women at the last session of the legislature. He referred to the bill providing for tubercular hospitals, for which the women worked and which is now a beneficial law. A bill providing for a girl's training school was another wise law they had helped to bring about. He regretted that the bill for enlarging the usefulness of the state library had not passed and thought it would undoubtedly pass at some future session. The creation of the industrial welfare commission fixing the minimum wage for women he said was also the result of their beneficial lobbying. The women have never tried to run the state, he said, they have worked with the men and they ought to take a lively interest in all matters of public welfare, not merely state, but municipal, as affecting their own communities. Just now women are the balance wheel of the United States. Governor Lister spoke earnestly regarding the present situation in our country, saying, "Our Flag stands for the childhood, manhood and womanhood of the country and means nothing in itself. As a Nation we should build up and not tear down and we should remain for peace." The evening now closed by the entire audience singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Thursday morning was given up to reports of committees, a talk on Civil Service Reform by Mrs. Brokaw of Tacoma, a short talk on food sanitation by Mrs. Ellis of Olympia, followed by a lengthy address on "Our Own Endowment," by Mrs. Larson of North Yakima. Then came the call to increase this endowment fund. Clubs from all over the state pledged themselves to sums all the way from $5 to $100 and then they commenced pledging boxes of apples, prunes, grapes, apricots, canned salmon, eggs, one woman said she had two of the most beautiful curly tailed pigs she would give, shingles, railroad ties, sanitary broom protectors, a quarter of beef, poultry, turkeys; and so it went, the excitement and fun growing. It was decided that the products should be sold when they would bring the highest price. Besides the cash to come in this way, over $1,500 in money was pledged.

An open hour was now declared in which an exchange of ideas along the lines of club work was asked for. It was interesting to hear the reports of work done in the way of civic improvement, charitable and educational work and work done to uplift the moral tone of communities. One woman told of the great pleasure and also benefit derived from having once a week in their town a "municipal sing" which meant that a general invitation was given the public to come to a certain place on some afternoon, Sunday was the one chosen, and there sing all the old songs and favorite hymns—she stated that it was touching to see the great pleasure derived from this for everyone, nearly, loves to sing, be they old or young and I can readily see how much good might come from something of this kind here in our own city.

Ballots were now passed out and we voted on our state officers, handing in our ballots as we passed out to lunch.

Our afternoon session came to order at two o'clock. Mrs. Pike of North Yakima, read an interesting address on "Our Feathered Friends," she being deeply interested in the wild birds and their preservation. She spoke against our wearing birds on our hats and urged us to become more familiar with bird life.

A year ago the Federation offered a $25 prize for the best short story to be sent in and we now listened to it, as read by its author. The plot was centered about the asylum at Steilacoom. There was no heroine and yet the story was so well written that it held us interested to the end.

The President now announced it was raining and so the Tree Service at Manitou Park would have to be changed and we would have it as well as we could in the church. This was the planting of a pine tree which should always be known as the Federation Tree. It was unfortunate that we couldn't have had the service as planned for it would have been much more effective. We listened to the poem, "The Evergreen Vine," written by Ella Higgenson for this occasion. A presentation address by Mrs. Morgan of the Conservation Committee followed and the acceptance by Mrs. Hall of Spokane. Then some graceful dances by the school children in pretty costumes and we were adjourned.

Thursday evening was the only session I did not attend but as it was given over mostly to addresses on Civil Service Reform, I accepted an invitation to attend the theater.

Friday morning we listened to reports of standing committees, the treasurer's report, the auditor's report and reports from the new clubs. Together we sat on the front seats and as our names were called we read our report. These were all interesting to me, except my own of course.

Mrs. McKee now announced that as yet we had not received an invitation from any city for our next Convention. Mrs. Miller of Everett came to the rescue and extended an invitation from the Women's Club of Everett, the Commercial Club of that city and the order of Elks, saying that what they lacked in numbers they would make up in quality. Then Yakima extended her invitation from the whole valley. Mrs. Splaion, the spokesman, said, "You were at the west border of our state a year ago, and you are at the east today—come next year to the center of the state." The Yakima delegates now jumped to their feet and sang a song of invitation with the refrain "When Its Apple Blossom Time in Yakima, How Can You Stay Away?" Then they gave a college yell, "Come to Yakima, Come to Yakima, Come to Yakima. Rah! Rah! Rah!"

The invitations were referred to the executive board for decision. We now adjourned for lunch, the new clubs were to have a table to themselves, for the purpose of getting better acquainted, Mrs. Elwood of Ellensburg presiding.

The afternoon session was given up to a report of the Portland Council by Mrs. Ellis of Olympia and the adoption of the following resolutions:

We ask the passage of a law forbidding the traffic in women as the Mann act forbids interstate traffic.

In view of the nature of some of the public songs now current, we pledge the use of our influence with all publishers, vaudeville managers, and theater managements to the end that all songs be censored in the interest of public decency and purity and that words and suggestions of a double meaning be eliminated.

Be it resolved that we approve any influence to eliminate cheap and vulgar vaudeville from the picture show that its plane may be raised to a higher standard through a local censorship.

Be it resolved, that we approve and support the movement for National Prohibition by a constitutional amendment prohibiting the existance of a traffic in intoxicating liquors.

Resolved that we commend the efforts of the president to keep the country out of the terrible world war. We believe that the voice of women who raise sons, who help care for the home and till the fields in the absence of the breadwinners, should be heard before a country is plunged into war.

We protest against the entire system of militarism, and we look forward to the day when there will exist a world federation of nations and war will be no more.

Upon the subject of conservation the federation resolutions asked the cooperation of state authorities in the planting of a memorial mile of evergreen pine trees along the road to be built in the state connecting with the proposed Lincoln highway. Preservation of the road into Rainier Park and a request to the state college to distribute bulletins telling about the habits of birds and the best means of attracting and protecting them were included.

We recommend the study of immigration, reads the resolution upon education. The use of our efforts to interest the foreign-born woman in the study of American ideals and government.

We indorse the Father's Day movement and ask that the third Sunday in June be observed as Father's Day.

A resolution upon civil service asked the enactment of "an effective civil service law for the state," and pledged the cooperation of the federation to the National Civil Service Reform league.

The newly elected officers were now introduced. Mrs. Shedd, our president, is the wife of Professor Solon Shedd, head of the geology department for the Washington State College of Pullman for the last nineteen years. She is past-president of the Fortnightly Club of Pullman and has been one of the first trustees of the federation. She is a woman of fine appearance and capable in ever way of filling with credit the position she has won. Mrs. Miller of Everett, president of the Musical Club of that city is the new vice-president, Mrs. Lund of Tacoma, treasurer and Mrs. Hall of Spokane, first trustee.

The Convention now rose and sang "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

This ended the last session and brought to a close a most interesting and helpful gathering.

I think that in our Club work we try to cover too much ground in one year's work. We can't do thoroughly what we lay out to accomplish. Many of the clubs over the state have realized this and are simplifying their programs for the year.

I only wish that each and everyone of you could have been with me to have heard the inspiring words spoken, to have listened to the beautiful music and to have enjoyed the bountiful hospitality of the people of Spokane. Too much can not be said of the generous manner in which they entertained their guests. It has been an inspiration to me and I hope that in this condensed report each one of you may have gained some little lift upward in your club work and in your daily life.

HARVEY LESURE HAS PLEASANT SURPRISE

Standing on a little knoll in the center of a modern small city, beautifully located on the shore of a Wisconsin lake, is a tiny log building, well preserved after forty-odd years, even to the shakes of the roof, a relic of those early pioneer days when lumbering was the chief industry of that now great dairying state. Surrounded by an ornamental iron fence and bearing a tablet recording the fact that this "oldest building in our city" was once the office of the logging company, one, if not the largest in the state, which cleared off the original forest, it is pointed out to all visitors as one of the principal objects of interest in that section.

In accordance with this ancient custom, Harvey Lesure, pioneer rancher and leading citizen of Clallam county, who with his good wife spent the past year in the Middle West, and stopped off at Birchwood to visit a boyhood friend, was shown the old log cabin and had the pleasurable surprise of there reading that he had, over a period of several years, put from 43 to 57,000,000 feet of logs into the water annually, a record of which many modern logging camps might well be proud.

Mr. Lesure says he visited in northern Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illionis and Michigan, meeting many relatives and friends whom he had not seen for forty years, and enjoyed it all, but he would rather, if he had to, settle down on a little ranch here, with one cow and a potato patch, than live there with all their modern conveniences. Not only because one can secure as large a degree of the comforts of life here with an expenditure of five hours' work per day as he can there with nine hours' work, but because the people there, while friendly enough, seem to lack that degree of neighborly helpfulness that is so noticeable in the West.

GOOD ROAD NEEDED TO MOUNT ANGELES

Editor Olympic-Leader.
Dear Sir:

Your article on our "friendly mountain" in the last issue of your paper was a departure from small newspaperdom. It was good, it was in fact a cornerstone on which to build a structure that we in this community have a right to, one that by right of our natural surroundings should rear its head as high as any playground community in the world. Now my dear sir, hammer on this idea, get it into the magazines and follow it up. Organize the whole community to demand a proper approach to "our mountain." That would do to start with, with more to come. I read your article twice, that does not happen very often with me, still I wanted more. To my mind, we are entitled to the principal playground of the world, and I know whereof I talk, I have seen many of them.

Yours very truly,
—B. G.

BREWERY RECEIVER AGAIN IN COURT

The participants in the suit for the condemnation of a strip through the pass up the Clallam river through the land of B. Melhime for the benefit of the Goodyear Logging Company who are now building a logging railway into Clallam Bay, was settled out of court by the railroad paying $500 for a little less than 4 acres, and the court decreed accordingly.

Objections to the sale of the property in the Howard estate by one of the heirs, and desiring time in which to possibly arrange for the payment of the debts without a sale, the case went over until September 6.

On motion for temporary alimony and suit money Mrs. Sarah Cameron was granted $150, and case was set for hearing July 7. To provide funds for this and himself Mr. Cameron was released from the restraining order to the extent of disposing of $300 or per. property. It is reported that a settlement of the difficulties is in view.

Judgment was entered against M. and B. Goldwater in favor of the Goodyear T. & R. Co., for $127, by default.

The court was occupied about all morning Friday in the attempted settlement of the Receivership of the Angeles Brewing & Malting Co, in which J. F. Janecke defaulted to the tune of about $12,000, and G. M. Lauridsen succeeded to the receivership. It is a long story, told in detail at various times during the past five years of the Receivership, to give any adequate account of the multiplicity of tangles in this case. Suffice it to say that the purpose seems to be to wear out anybody connected with it, and success in a way crowned the efforts, only after, however, a fair basis of settlement is in view. With three appeals still undecided in the Supreme Court, a judgment against the Inland Navigation Company for the Albion collision in the air, the company having transferred all its property, and with all the claims outstanding against the former brewing company bought up and assigned to the bonding company, making it the chief creditor, or only creditor, outside the stockholders, the matter is presented for settlement upon a Final Account made by the Receiver upon the agreement with the bonding company to accpet the scattered assets, and pay all liabilities. These liabilities include the assigned claims aggregating $15,000 or $20,000, an additional payment to the attorney for the former receiver, allowed by the court in the sum of $960, a payment made by the National Surety Company on a neglected judgment in Snohomish county, $400, attorney fees for new receiver $1,500, receiver $500, and incidental expenses. There were a large number of attorneys present and many phases of the matter were presented. Mr. Judd, representing Willett & Olson, former attorneys for Janecke, claiming a balance of over $9,000, gave notice in open court of appeal from court order allowing but $960. This however, is considered somewhat a bluff but if the appeal is taken the matter will be open to another long delay. If however, no appeal is taken by Willett & Olson, and the bonding company agrees to go ahead under its agreement to assume all liabilities, the matter may be closed up within the next few weeks, to the relief of all who have had to wrestle with the vast intricacies of the case especially during the past two and one half years.

LYMAN JOHNSON AND MISS EDA LIZEE OF YAKIMA MARRIED

Another wedding of particular interest to Port Angeles people was that of Miss Eda Lizee of Yakima, and Mr. Lyman Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson of this city. It was a quiet church wedding, the ceremony being performed by Father Armstrong of the Catholic church at eleven o'clock Sunday morning, June 25..

Mr. Ross Heine of Sunnyside, acted as best man and Miss Laura Lizee, the bride's sister, as maid of honor. Mr. Ross Heine of Sunnyside, acting as best man and Miss Laura Liza, the brides sister, as maid of honor.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. The dining room decorations were all in yellow and white and were very unique and attractive.

The bridal couple left for a short wedding trip, arriving in Angeles on Thursday morning, where they started housekeeping at once in the cozy bungalow the groom had all in readiness for his bride on Sixth and Oak streets.

Mr. Lyman Johnson is a native son of Port Angeles and is a young man of fine, sterling qualities, well worthy of the fair bride he has won.

Mrs. Johnson will be welcomed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances formed during her two years of residence here as a teacher in our city schools. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson returned Tuesday from attending the wedding.

MISS GERTURDE WILLSON AND HARRY STILES HAPPILY MARRIED

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized last Saturday morning June 24, at eleven o'clock, when Miss Gertrude Willson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Willson, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Stiles at the home of her parents. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties were present and the young people took the noon boat for Seattle where they remained until Wednesday. For the present they will occupy the A. D. Willson residence on Fourth and Albert. Both the bride and groom are well and favorably known in Port Angeles, where they attended school together and graduated from the same class. their courtship dating back to that time. Miss Willson was a teacher in our city schools last year and is a graduate of the Bellingham Normal. Mr. Harry Stiles is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stiles, and is proprietor of the City Fish Market. The Olympic-Leader extends congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness and success.
