LINCOLN SEWER CONTRACT LET

Mettler & Coit Make Low Bid of $28,064.30. Considered a Very Low Bid.

All members present. C. E. Shields acted as clerk in absence of J. Lyle Beam, clerk.

Early in the evening the council took up the bids for the Lincoln street trunk sewer and upon motion of Mr. Fisher awarded the contract to Messrs. Mettler & Coit on their bid of $28,064.30. This is considered a very low bid, at least $10,000 less than could have been had a year ago. Mr. Filion wanted to reject all bids and call for new bids specifying local labor.

The bid of Ferch & Gass for the big East End improvement in sum of $93,820, was rejected and clerk directed to readvertise for new bids to be in July 27. Mr. Hooker expressed the reason for the action, that on eight streets, or approximately one half, the bids submitted exceeded the engineer's estimate, tho the bid as a whole was some $5,000 under the engineer's figures. Here Mr. Filion again sought to have the new call give preference to home labor and men of family, but the original motion carried, Filion and Bigelow voting no.

C. R. Leake stated he had a permit from the owner to continue his holiday stand on the Morse property adjoining the Owl Drug Store, if he could get council's consent. Council refused to allow the construction of any more temporary buildings in business section, and request was denied. Like action was taken on resuest of shooting gallery on same property, it being explained that Mr. Cummings, the proprietor, was the same man who secured the temporary permit on the Clark property where another frame building was finally wedged in, adding to the fire risk and the insurance rate.

Water company was given permit to blast on Fifth street.

Bids were opened for the lateral sewers in alleys between Fourth and

ANGELES ENTERTAINS DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Port Angeles has had a distinguished visitor the past ten days in the person of Mrs. Ray Rockman Braham of London, England, who has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Christenson. Many of the old timers of Port Angeles recall with pleasure their acquaintanceship with Miss Rockman, when as a gay young girl she came here with her parents Dr. and Mrs. Rockman, to take up land with other "squatters." She was then very well educated and talented and after a few months sojourn, which she enjoyed to the fullest, she returned to the east to fit herself for the stage. In New York City she made the acquaintance of Sarah Bernhardt, who was playing in this country and with whom she was later privileged to travel.

Her experiences as an actress in Bernhardt's company, and her visit to the famous actresses home in France, have been graphically portrayed by Miss Rockman in magazine articles. In London Miss Rockman played with Sir Henry Irving and other stage celebreties and a few years ago the Ladies Home Journal published her descriptions of a trip across the desert which she took as the guest of Maude Adams.

Miss Rockman gave up the stage at the time of her marriage, but still continues her literary work and has recently been engaged in writing several plays. This is her first visit to Angeles in thirteen years, it being necessary for her to come at the present time to look after her mother's estate. Her mother is in San Francisco, but in very feeble health, both physically and mentally. Mrs. Braham has greatly enjoyed renewing the acquaintance of her many old Angeles friends and in noting the wonderful improvements since her last visit. She says conditions in London are very depressing and that all the women have been actively engaged in relieving suffering and want. She spoke feelingly of the pitiable condition of the Belgians.

She leaves Angeles Saturday to be a guest of Judge Gay of Seattle for a few days before leaving for New York. She returns to London in August to join her husband who will be returning at that time from a trip to Africa.

Cyrus Boardman Johnson, forest ranger, had the misfortune to severely cut his hand the first of the week, severing an artery. Dr. MacGillivray took 17 stitches in it.

M. E. Howard of Forks, who spent several days in Seattle and witnessed the Tacoma automobile races July 4 and 5, returned to Forks via Port Angeles on Tuesday afternoon. While in Seattle he purchased machinery for a small fruit and vegetable cannery which he hopes to have ready for operation by August 1, with a capacity of about 1,000 cans a day. He has thirty acres under cultivation of which four acres is already devoted to growing garden peas and beans, one acre to raspberries and one acre to cabbage. He says that the Washington oil drilling enterprise is now working double shift and is drilling in the hard sandstone supposed to be the capping over oil, having reached a depth of 2,100 feet and no longer required casing. The penetration of this stone stratum will determine the presence or absence of oil in commercial quantities at a reasonable depth, he thinks.

CLALLAM COUNTY PIONEER'S ORGANIZE

One of the most memorable results of the Elks Circus was the permanent organization of the Clallam County Pioneers Association at the Commercial Club rooms on Pioneer Day, July 2, shortly after the pioneers' parade. Twenty-five pioneers attended the meeting, Hon. Donald McInnes acting as temporary chairman and Secretary Frank C. Teck of the Commercial Club as secretary.

After a spirited discussion it was decided that eligibilty of membership shall be based upon arrival in Clallam county at least twenty-five years prior to the date of becoming a member. Officers for the first year were elected as follows:

Donald McInnes, Dungeness, president; David W. Morse, Port Angeles, secretary; Amore Myers, Sequim, treasurer.

President McInnes, Secretary Morse and W. B. Ritchie were directed to prepare by-laws to be presented and acted upon at a general permanent organization meeting to be held in the rooms of the Port Angeles Commercial Club on the second day of the Clallam County Fair, September 24, 1915.

William T. Crosby of Dungeness was the premier pioneer of this first meeting, he having arrived at Dungeness in September, 1856, and has been a resident of the county for 59 years. Mr. Crosby was born at Cape Cod, Massachusetts, March 21, 1830, and is therefore in his 85th year.

Mathew Fleming was the oldest person present, being nearly 89 years old. He was born in County Donegal, Ireland, October 9, 1826, and arrived in Clallam county 55 years ago.

Both the secretary and treasurer are native sons of Clallam county. Secretary David W. Morse was the first white child of Port Angeles, born here April 19, 1863, while Treasurer Amore Myers was born at Dungeness, March 31, 1860.

The other pathfinders present and dates of their arrival here: Mrs. Anna L. Allen, 1858; Frederick Roberts, 1859; Geo. S. Myers, 1859, Geo. S. Myers, 1859; John Knappman, 1868; Charles Agnew and William Wooding, 1869; W. Henry Kline, 1874; Homer J. Hart, 1876; Donald McInnes, 1874; Elias Cays, 1877; David Govan, 1878; F. J. Hart, 1879; James Dick and Andrew Forbes, 1880; Geo. H. Gale, 1887; W. B .Ritchie and H. C. Miller, 1888.

OLYMPIC WAY WONDERFUL

Townsend Leader Declares Almost Indescribable. European Alps Have No Comparison.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 7.—Seven automobile parties from this city spent the national holiday in making the trip through Clallam county to the Pacific ocean. The machines left here Saturday, returning Monday evening. Those who made the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Lake, with Mr. and Mrs. Summers, visitors in the city, as their guests; Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Semple; Judge and Mrs. Ralston and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McCurdy, with Miss FitzPatrick and Horace McCurdy; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pitts, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Strong, with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Klocker as guests, and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Anderson, of Chimacum. The cars were left a short distance from the ocean, the trip to the beach being made on foot or in cances.

All report the trip as being one of the finest available to the people of this section, the scenery being unsurpassed and the roads in fine condition, with the exception of a few stretches, which will be improved by travel. One stretch of road west of Crescent run for twenty-eight miles without a semblance of a hill, with eight miles as straight as an arrow. The road was covered with machines from all parts of the state. At Lake Crescent nearly a dozen cars were waiting to be ferried across, with almost as many on the other side returning. Along the route automobile parties were met every few hundred yards. Mrs. Summers, who accompanied Mr. Lake, has traveled all over the world and says that even in Switzerland the scenery does not compare with that of the Olympic Peninsula.

A large number of people took advantage of the double holiday to visit up-Sound cities, making the trip over the Olympic Highway. It is declared that almost every owner of a car who could possibly get away was out of town during the two days.

CITY OF SEATTLE WANTS ELWHA POWER PLANT

That Port Angeles is coming into its own and that the eyes of the world are daily watching the development of the Olympic Peninsula is evidenced by the fact that the City of Seattle lighting department has recommended an immediate investigation of the Elwha power plant, owned and operated by the Olympic Power Company, with a view to purchase. It is the belief of Superintendent Ross of the light department of Seattle that it will be five or six years before additional current is delivered from the Cedar river plant, Seattle's power supply, even with the successful sealing of the reservoir which is in bad shape. He has sent a letter with comprehensive outline of the needs of the municipal plant to Mayor Gill.

Superintendent Ross explains that the demand for light and power from the municipal plant during the winter will be 13,500 kilowatts. The Cedar river plant is limited in its pipe capacity to about 11,000 kilowatts at the plant, leaving 3,500 kilowatts to be furnished by the Lake Union auxiliary. To meet the increased business a new steam plant will have to be built or power obtained from other sources. Superintendent Ross discusses the Cushman, Hebb, Sauk, Skagit river and Elwha river power sites and favors the latter because of its excellent advantages offered. The principal one is that it is a going concern, selling 1,500 kilowatts out of 6,000 rated capacity, with a probable maximum of 8,000 kilowatts now developed with up to date machinery. The present Elwha plant can easily be finished for a capacity of 15,000 kilowatts.

Negotiations have already been opened by Mr. Ross in ascertaining what may be possible in a purchase of the Elwha power plant. If the plant could be purchased for 5 per cent utility bonds, and the bondholders, who reside in Chicago, would finance the machinery and lines to Seattle to bring the plant up to 15,000 kilowatts, the proposition is worthy of considerable thought. The utility bonds paid for the present plant and for the completion of 15,000 kilowatts would be a lien against the lighting department and not against the city. It would in no way affect taxation. The Elwha plant supplies Port Angeles and Bremerton. The plant could be developed to 15,000 kilowatts at a cost of about $500,000 and this would also construct the line to Seattle.

The property is held by the owners at about $2,000,000, not including the additional installation that Superintendent Ross contemplates. Negotiations made by Ross so far have been with Howard D. Hughes, representing Peabody, Houghtelling & Company, holders of the Elwha bonds and themselves large holders in the property.

The county commissioners have been in session this week but few matters of importance came up for consideration. Bids were called for improvement work on a road from Joyce station to Piedmont and for the last mile of unfinished road at Blyn. T. O. Morrison, state horticultural inspector, went before the board stating the necessity of having an inspector for this district. The board replied that on account of shortage of funds they could not consider the matter before next year.

MANY WAITING FOR CALL OF JURY

The Superior Court has been in session all week in an endeavor to clean up the docket preparatory to the summer vacation, brief though it will be in this county.

It has been practically settled that there will be a jury session in September, five cases now awaiting jury trial and a number more promised just as soon as it is definitely decided upon a jury session. The Court has not heretofore felt justified in calling a jury for the one or two cases pressing. An ordinary jury session generally adds $800 to $1000 to the Court expenses, hence the desire to put off calling a jury as long as possible.

Judgment was given Plaintiff in Dungeness Trading Co. vs. J. L. Weekly, for $183.75 and costs, on account.

The case of A. Goldwater vs. Asa B. Steele, et al, went by default, judgment being given for plaintiff in foreclosure on one-half interest in lots 10, 11, 12, Block 37, N. R. S. sub. for $1473.15 and costs.

Demurrers were overruled and defendants given ten days to further plead in C. F. Henry vs. Chas. A. Morse and Henry vs. C. E. Fulmer, both on promissory notes.

Wm. Kepler was granted a decree of divorce from Mabelle Kepler on grounds of desertion, she having gone to Minnesota. Mrs. Kepler's only interest in the case, her counsel stated, was to keep control of the minor child. $75 was recently allowed her to make a defense but this she declined to do, being assured the child was safe in her care. The plaintiff promised the court that he would send monthly remittances for the support of the child.

In the case of Margaret Mitchell vs. H. J. Mitchell, the court ordered defendant to pay into court $50 for suit money and $20 monthly temporary support of child.

Motion to strike affirmative derense in Fred Phillips vs. Angeles Realty Company was granted. Other methods will be used by defense to accomplish the same end, namely, to secure the payment of a $250 note before perfecting the title of the lot sued for.

Counsel for both parties in Cameron vs. Cameron stated that the case has been settled out of court and that they will ask for an order of dismissal.

CELEBRATION SUCCESSFUL

The much talked of Elks' Circus is now a thing of the past, and the local lodge and its executives have much to their credit in being able to pull off a three days' celebration of that character in such a creditable and successful manner.

A spirit of patriotism, mixed with fun and hilarity, seemed to have permeated the whole populace and the three days and nights found a surging crowd of people on the street—good natured and happy, and ready for anything that came along.

Thursday morning dawned clear and bright and the splendid weather prevailed during the entire three days.

The jitney street pavilion dances proved a very popular inovation and the floors were crowded every night. The music was excellent and the crowds were well behaved and orderly. Carnival night brought out the largest number of people and one walked through a veritable sea of confetti. It was day break before the last of the revelers retired to rest.

BEST PARADE EVER SEEN IN ANGELES

Committee: Chairman, Ray L. Haynes, Julius I. Kirschberg, F. C. Poole. Marshal Frank C. Teck, Aides Dick Lazinka, W. B. Gould.

Parades were formed each day heading down Front street from Peabody.

July 1, Indian Day, was not very well represented by the natives, the Neah Bay and Quillayute Indians failing to take part in this parade.

Pioneer Day, July 2, was featured by several novel turnouts and many old pioneers riding in automobiles, buggies and other conveyances. The most conspicuous features were A. L. Johnson & Co's old gurney cab, driven by C. M. Buchanan, who drove this rig first in 1890 when it was the swell turnout of Port Angeles. Seated in the cab were Mayor Horace White, wearing a silk tile and Pioneer Alex Henderson, 53 years a resident of Clallam county. Doubtless the most novel feature of the parade, however, was the rig brought in from the Blue Mountain road by F. J. Emory. This was a gentle and well-trained black bull harnessed and hitched to a two-wheeled cart and driven by Harry Emroy, with lines and regulation driving-horse trimmings, the whole turnout most attractively decorated and accompanied by a black Percheron stallion similarly rigged.

Saturday's parade, All Nation's Day, July 3, was the climax of the feature parades, and it was a credit to the city, the Elks and everybody who contributed to the impressive display, which was fully half a mile in length.

The parade was made up in two divisions. The first division was headed by the Port Angeles Marine Band and Marshal Frank C. Teck, led by the dual chief's of police, City Marshal Frank Dustman and Elks Chief of Police E. E. Nichols. Following the band was Old Glory and the marching men of Naval Lodge No. 353, in white and purple and carrying purple and white parasols. Then came the honor floats, led by the Liberty car with the Goddess of Liberty, Uncle Sam and 48 little girls representing the states of the Union; a magnificent elk on a float, together with two lively black bear cubs; a tiny cart carrying a baby elk; two of the Crescent Transportation Co's big red cars carrying 22 veterans of the G.A.R., with Comrade Sally representing Uncle Sam.

The second division was headed by the U. S. Albany Indian band of fifteen pieces, followed by the marching members of the Moose Lodge in costume and drawing the prize-winning Moose float; next came the symbolical float of the Pythian Sisters on an auto beautifully decorated with roses and ribbons and driven by Miss Leah Babcock; followed by the Yoemen in costume on a decorated float.

The most striking and effective industrial and commercial representations were: A. L. Johnson & Co's complete representation of all the branches of their business, including the gurney cab of 1890, the automobile of 1915, wagonloads of brick, coal, wood and sand, and a five-foot-thick log 30 feet long; Star Theater with a complete moving picture theater on wheels; Walton Lumber Co., with a complete modern cottage occupied by a family; Port Angeles Steam Laundry with a decorated au-

OFFICERS HERE FOR COAST DEFENSE

Four prominent officers of the United States Army spent the Fourth of July investigating the possibilities of coast defense along the shores of the strait of Fuca. They came here Sunday morning in the U. S. A. steamer, Major Evan Thomas and remained here from 9:30 a. m. till 1 p. m., when the steamer pulled out for the return trip to Fort Worden via Port Williams, while the officers went overland in Fred Poole's auto to Port Williams. While here the officers spent more than two hours in conference with officers and members of the Commercial Club, both at the Club rooms and on board the army steamer.

They seemed much impressed by some of the information furnished and Brigadier General Seibert, before leaving expressed his intention if practicable, to come here later in the present week to investigate the situation from here westward more closely. He plans to spend this week at Fort Worden, where the other visiting officers will probably remain two weeks longer.

The four officers are Brigadier General William L. Sibert, who superintended the eastern defenses of the Panama canal; Col. Eben Swift, chief of staff of the Western Division, U. S. A., San Francisco; Major L. R. Burgess, Coast Artillery Corps, on the staff of General Sibert, and umpire of coast defense target practice on Puget Sound, and Col. Geo. T. Bartlett, commandant of the coast defenses of Puget Sound.

Miss Helen Cooper of Bremerton is a guest of Norah and Doreen Aldwell. She was a schoolmate of the girls at Holy Names Academy.

DOINGS OF THE WEEK AT OLYMPIA

Olympia, July 8.—With awards not yet made at the San Francisco exposition for apples, other fresh fruits and vegetables, Washington exhibits in the horticultural division already have gained one medal of honor, three gold medals and three silver medals, while agricultural exhibits have been awarded four medals of honor, eight gold medals, 36 silver and 51 bronze medals.

One gold medal was won by Columbia River grape juice from Kennewick, in competition with the rest of the United States. Medals of honor were awarded the feature display of methods of sizing Washington apples and the Washington fisheries exhibit. Washington wheat won two gold medals, twelve silver medals, and seventeen bronze medals. Displays of other grains and grasses won most of the other gold and silver medals, in keen competition with the other grain states of the West.

Several small fires have been reported to State Forester E. W. Ferris by county fire wardens, but no damage has yet been done. A larger protective force than ever before is watching the woods this year, in the belief that this will lessen necessary expenditures later for actual fire fighting.

Count of the referendum petitions which will be completed this week, will without question show that all of the seven measures against which petitions have been filed will be referred to the general election of November, 1916. The three election measures, vetoed by Governor Lister, apparently drew about 15,000 more signatures of protest than any of the other four measures.

Progressive Republicans and Progressives have been active in signing petitions against these measures the names of Senator Miles Poindexter, Ex-Congressmen J. A. Falconer and J. W. Bryan, Sheriff Bob Hodge and Auditor Byron Phelps of King county, and State Senators Landon and Hutchinson, and Representatives Murphine and Hastings, appearing on petitions. On the other hand members of Governor Lister's administration appear to have taken no part in the referendum movement, the name of only one member of the state administration thus far having been found on referendum petitions.

Two years will be taken in cruising of 600,000 acres of school sections in the national forests, and the selection of government lands of equal area and value to be taken by the state in lieu of these sections, was the opinion of state and federal representatives who met last week to arrange the exchange. Land Commissioner Clark V. Savidge was named to conduct negotiations on behalf of the state and S. G. Smith, supervisor of the Snoqualmie forest, will act in similar capacity for the government. Office headquarters for the exchange will be maintained at Portland. Twenty crews of three men each will do the cruising, and each side will also maintain two traveling inspectors.

The June report of the industrial insurance commission shows 1,289 accidents reported during that month and making the total for the first six months of the year 6,217, of which 100 were fatal accidents.

Every month this year less accidents have been reported than the corresponding month of last year, and every month last year there were less accidents than for the corresponding month in 1913, indicating that the industrial insurance law, under its present administration, really is working toward accident prevention.

The total number of accidents reported in the state for the first six months of 1913 were 8,252; for the first six months of 1914, 7,486, and for the first six months of the current year, 6,217.

The total number of accidents reported during the three years and nine months during which the act has been effective is 52,082, an average of 1,157 a month.

That it sometimes makes a difference whose ox is being gored is indicated by an interesting exchange of telegrams this week between E. E. Sims, leader of the majority in the recent legislature, and the state department of agriculture.

At the recent session a general sanitary law recommended by an agricultural department, after being reported favorably by its committee, was put to death by the pigeon-hole route, in the House rules committee, where Mr. Sims was the chief power. This week Mr. Sims telegraphed the department of agriculture, asking that a fertilizer plant be prohibited from operating adjoining his fish cannery at Port Townsend, Mr. Sims fearing that the odor would taint the salmon. Assisstant Commissioner J. J. Higgins, in charge of the pure food division of the agricultural department, was compelled to reply that because of the defeat of the general sanitary law in the House rules committee, the department was powerless to act in the case.

That the financial condition of the state is continuing to improve is indcated by the monthly report of State Treasurer Edward Meath, whch shows a total of $5,407,628 on hand July 1, as compared with $5,070,600 a month ago. The general fund has to its credit $1,494,719, the permanent highway fund $1,366,239, the public highway fund $585,333, the permanent school fund $494,919, and the accident fund $434,499.

Indicating an intention to make all state contractors live up to the letter of their agreements, the state board of control has authorized the prosecution of a Tacoma paper firm which sold supplies to four institutions. When the supplies were delivered, it is alleged, they were found to be 30 per cent short of specified quantities. The contract of a Seattle firm was cancelled recently because catsup that it delivered failed to come up to the quality of samples.

At the summit of Snoqualmie Pass last week Governor Lister delivered an address at exercises held under the auspices of the Seattle Automobile Club to celebrate the final opening of the Sunset highway through the Cascades, fulfilling an ambition entertained by the earliest good roads enthusiasts in territorial days.

Washington counties to date have completed 528 miles of surfaced roadbed under the permanent highway act, the state highway department shows in statistics prepared for the federal bureau of good roads. Approximately 125 miles more now are under construction. Types of construction vary from gravel to concrete and brick. Sixty-seven miles of concrete and 23 miles of brick pavement have been constructed under the act. Spokane county has constructed the greatest mileage, but King and Pierce counties have the greatest mileage of hard surfaced types of construction.

Thos. S. McEachran of Spokane, employed by the Northern Pacific for more than 20 years in various operating capacities, representing employes in presenting grievances to the company and member of the railroad's examining board, has been appointed deputy inspector of tracks and safety appliances by the public service commission, succeeding Maurice Vetter, who died in Tacoma recently.

Arthur Wilson, formerly in charge of evening classes in Seattle schools and superintendent of Aberdeen city schools, has been appointed assistant superintendent of public instruction by Mrs. Josephine Preston, succeeding C. A. Sprague, resigned.

SAFE LANDING AT "PIER 80"

Many Americans Learn Too Late How to Live. Let the Family Physician Advise.

No man can arrive at old age over another man's road, says the illustrious Dr. Mark Twain. Maybe not, but all the same, Americans are very much interested nowadays in hearing about the route taken by any prominent and successful man who has arrived at the age of 80, or thereabouts in a state of good physical and mental preservation—"in possession of all his faculties," as the phrase goes. There is a general disposition to regard such a man as a sort of wonder and to ask him in an astonished tone, "How did you do it?"—the popular idea being that if a man reaches "Pier 80" at all he should have to be taken off the liner on a stretcher, clapped into an ambulance and hurried to the nearest sanitarium. In other words, the idea is that if a man arrives at the age of 80 years he should be "all in" physically and mentally.

Whence comes this preposterous notion for which, it must be confessed—except in the Puget Sound country—there is considerable justification?

Dr. Hamilton F. Biggar, John D. Rockefeller's family physician, now throws a bright light on the mystery. "The exigencies of modern civilization," he says, "impose a penalty on business men never before known. The ordinary man engrossed in business does not eat slowly. He drinks too much ice water. He tries to overcome the strain of commercial life by stimulants. But the greatest deterrent to American longevity among men of business, is the rush. In New York, in Chicago, everywhere in America men used to walk to business at least a part of the way. Nowadays they rush down in an automobile. They are rushed until luncheon. Then they rush to luncheon. It is rush, rush, rush, until the break comes."

Asked how the average American may achieve long life, Dr. Biggar replied, "the trinity of health is food, sleep and fresh air. Many Americans learn too late how to live. Stimulants are for the aged and infirm—let your physician prescribe the stimulants. Be not envious of the wealth of your neighbor. Relax if you cannot sleep. After 50 avoid red meats."

"Red meats, that is, beef or mutton," Dr. Biggar continues, "clog digestion and greatly injure the kidneys. Eat chicken, fish, oysters and coarse cereals, oatmeal, cracked wheat and corn meal, not pre-digested foods, for these will make a man of health a dyspeptic. Milk, eggs and buttermilk Dr. Biggar especially recommends as force restorers."

There seems to be a lot of reason in Dr. Biggar's talk, and if you are ambitious to reach the age of 80, or even 70 odd—in possession of all of your faculties—you will doubtless do well to ponder his suggestions. Dr. Biggar might have added—"and if possible go to Puget Sound to live"—in fact there is little or no excuse for the Puget Sounder who does not live to a happy and ripe old age, say 100 or more. He has no great extremes of heat and cold to combat, and his conditions of life are in many other ways exceptionally advantageous. Nevertheless a man may become a perpendicular drinker on Puget Sound as well as elsewhere; he may eat too much red meat and thresh around in an automobile when he should be using his legs, here as well as in the East, and he may do other intemperate and unwholesome things.

The gist of the whole business would seem to be that the Doctor's suggestions plus the Puget Sound climate and conditions offer an ideal route for landing safe and sound at "Pier 80."—By George H. Gale, a resident of Chicago, 1855 to 1889, now 82 years of age; a member of the Chicago Board of Trade for 25 years and now residing at Port Angeles, Washington.

ANOTHER COMPLIMENT!

Times Printing Company
Seattle, June 28, 1915.

Editor Olympic-Leader,
Port Angeles, Wash.

The issue of the Port Angeles Olympic-Leader of Friday, June 26, containing a description of the Olympic Highway tour made by the Times Pathfinder car, has come to my attention.

While it is natural that your paper is vitally interested in the exploitation and development of the wonderful peninsula country, it is particularly kind of you to give such liberal credit to the Seattle Times for the article and the data compiled, and I want to express the appreciation of the publishers for your courtesy. The story was played up in a very attractive manner in the Olympic-Leader, and I am sure that it will be very effective in advertising the automobile tour to Port Angeles and the mountain country.

It might interest you to know that we have received many inquiries for the Times containing the Olympic Tour, and a similar condition prevails at the Automobile Club of Seattle, which maintains a touring bureau. Travel over the highway from Seattle should be very heavy this season, because of the attractive scenery, good roads and the fact that it is a new field.

Very truly yours,
TIMES PRINTING COMPANY.

98,000,000 FEET OF RICH TIMBER PLACED ON SALE

The U. S. Forest Service is advertising for sale 98,000,000 feet of timber, consisting of Douglas fir, western red cedar, western hemlock, amabilis fir, and Sitka spruce, all on the Snow Creek watershed in the Olympic National Forest, western Washington.

The tract, which is more particularly described as in T 28 and 29 N, R 2 W, W. M., and is near Discovery Bay and the town of Port Townsend, was cruised last fall by local foresters and the value of its timber appraised. The lowest prices that the government will consider are $1.70 per M feet for the cedar, $1.15 per M feet for the Douglas fir and Sitka spruce, and 50 cents per M feet for the other species. The bids will not be opened for sixty days, so that those interested in purchasing this stumpage may have an opportunity to look over the tract and get full particulars from forest officials.

STATE SAYS THE ATMOSPHERE MUST BE CLEAR

Features of forest protection in the Pacific Northwest this year are an appeal to the public for assistance in preventing the smoke nuisance which will otherwise prejudice the stream of visitors going to and from the San Francisco exposition and a perfected system of dry wind forecasts by the U. S. Weather Bureau which will be used by all protective agencies. State officials and chambers of commerce are sending out thousands of letters emphasizing the importance of reducing the smoke evil.

Reports for June received by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, the clearing house for all private patrol systems from Montana to California, record practically no losses by forest fires up to date but no cessation of preparation for the danger months of July and August. Most of the patrol force is already on and within a few days over 2000 will be on duty in the four northwestern states. Favorable weather in June has been used in pushing the building of trails and telephone lines.

July hazard to be guarded against, other than from the usual carelessness with matches, cigarettes and campfires, is reported to lie chiefly in slash burning to clear land and the rights-of-ways and in leaving fires thus started to smoulder in logs and stumps to break out later in hot and windy weather. Forest officers announce that state laws prohibiting burning without permit and precaution will be enforced rigidly and also warn summer camping parties to be extremely careful with campfires.

KELP BEDS ARE ENTICEMENT FOR MANUFACTURER

The extent and value of the North-Pacific kelp beds formed the basis of a lecture on "Potash from Kelp," by Professor G. B. Rigg, of the college of science, before 50 summer session students in Science hall last week. Mr. Rigg supplemented his lecture with an interview in which he said that it is estimated there are two million tons of potash worth $45 a ton in the seaweed of the North Pacific. He named the Pacific Products Co., Western Algin Co., Felkenberg & Laukes, chemists, as the largest Seattle concerns working kelp for potash,

In his lecture Mr. Riggs credited Bosch of California with the discovery four years ago of the fact that kelp contained 25 per cent potash. Since then the federal bureau of soils has investigated the possibilities of adhesives and other by-products. potash production from this source and surveyed the beds. Germany has furnished most of the potash used in the United States, but that supply, of course, has been cut off since last August. Potash, according to the lecturer, is used in the manufacture of explosives and of fertilizer.

The slides shown by Professor Rigg illustrated various kelp beds of the coast and different kelps found off California, the San Juan Islands, and Alaska, the manner of reproduction and growth, and the average length. Mr. Rigg said the largest kelp he had ever seen was seven feet wide and 40 feet long.—University News Letter.

CLALLAM BAY HELD CELEBRATION ON 4TH

The people of the West End, never behind in patriotism, celebrated the glorious Fourth in grand style at Clallam Bay on Monday. All kinds of sports were indulged in and a good time generally was had. A ball game on the ground cleared by the Goodyear Logging Company, which company is preparing for logging operations in that section of the county, was an attraction for the afternoon. A grand ball in the evening closed the days' sports. The West End is all right—patriotic to the core.

LOCAL MAN WENT BACK WITH AVIATOR

Mr. Norman, of the firm of Norman & Seevers, grocers, enjoyed the novelty of a trip to Tacoma in the hydroplane with Prof. Stromer, the birdman. They left Angeles at six o'clock Sunday morning, stopped at Diamond Point and one-half hour at Port Townsend and also made a landing at Bainbridge Island and other points, reaching Tacoma at 9:25 a.m. After they left Port Townsend they had to brave a heavy fog and strong wind, so all things considered they made splendid time.

EXPLOSION MAKES A SALTY BATH FOR MEN IN LAUNCH

A launch, owned by H. Barber of this city was completely burned on Tuesday morning at 5:30 o'clock. The fire was caused by an explosion of gasoline which had become generated into gas. Mr. Barber and his son slept in the launch during the night, near the Ediz spit. Tuesday morning Barber arose at 5:30 to extinguish the ships lights and took them down and carried them into the cabin. As he set them on the floor the heat and light from the lamps caused the gasoline to explode. The force of the explosion threw his son out of the window and into the salt water.

Mr. Barber, for a moment dazed by the force of the blow he received as he hit the side of the cabin, madly fought the flames, but finding them uncontrollable, went to the rescue of his son. He climbed around to the fore part of the ship and launched a row boat. He brought the boy safely to the side of the gas boat and then he himself took a bath when he lost his balance. He was in the water fully a half hour before he was rescued.

He was rushed to Taylor's Hospital in Guy Eckley's automobile, where it was found that he had been badly burned about the face, head and hands. His hair was completely singed off, as was his mustache. The boat was a complete loss.

FAIRVIEW

Last week we said that the recipes were ended but this week we have one more. No doubt it will be appreciated by the Scotch people who see it. Also many others who have often wondered what real Scotch short bread was like. It was given by request to the writer by Mrs. Mary Clevenger, who got it from Mrs. McDonald, who was raised in Scotland.

REAL SCOTCH SHORT BREAD

Mix together ¼ pound of flour and one ounce of castor sugar, rub finely into it two ounces of butter as you would for short crust pastry. Then begin to knead it hard with your hands until it begins to bind together. You must use no moisture, work it until it is quite soft and is easily shaped without cracking—make it oval or round as you like and crimp the edges. Prick the top over right through with a fork and decorate with slices of candied peel. Put a piece of buttered paper in a baking tin, place on it the short bread and bake in a slow oven until it is pale brown. When baked, move carefully off the paper and let it cool.

FORKS AND WEST END

Independence Day was appropriately observed in this end of the county. Clallam Bay celebrated with a three day's program and all who attended reported a glorious time. The Forks Odd Fellows had a picnic on the third for those who did not go to Clallam or Port Angeles. They also had some field sports in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Sult were Port Angeles visitors on the Fourth.

The Forks baseball team made a trip to Neah Bay and Clallam Bay on the third and fourth, but they lost out all around. The score at Neah Bay was against them—11 to 5, and at Clallam, 8 to 2. They generally come through with a pretty good "alibi" however.

Although we do not have the full vital statistics, we believe that Forks could show a very high average birth rate in the last two weeks. A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Palmer on June 16. A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Smith on June 28, and a baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Severa Johnson on the day after the Fourth.

Dan Shearer has been constructing a garage and machine shop for R. H. Kidd during the past week.

James F. Richmond, H. E. Anderson and A. W. Emmonds of Chimacum, were registered at the Cottage Hotel, Forks, last Sunday

Mrs. Eli Collings of Forks returned Sunday from a visit in Indiana.

The oil well at Forks has been with us so long that we might almost call it one of our permanent institutions. We sometimes almost lose interest but we won't lose faith in it until we find the bottom. Just now interest is aroused by striking a harder formation than has been found before. We expect something from below this stratum. The drill now goes down something more than two thousand feet.

The appeal in the matter of the Receivership of the Angeles Brewing & Malting Company was partially perfected this week by the filing of an appeal bond. Messrs. Willet & Oleson, attorneys for Janecke, appeal from the order of Final settlement wherein the Court allowed them a balance of $960, upon their claim for $9000 additional. The appeal is taken presumably upon the theory that they have nothing to lose but time and a little interest in the effort to secure the balance of the $15,-000 attorney fee claimed.

The case of E. D. Eliott vs. Mrs. Helen Burkhardt for recovery of $407, balance on account of $1700 for repairs to the Singer home at Lake Crescent, has occupied the court's attention for three days, Mrs. Burkhardt finally being awarded $443 over balance claimed by the plaintiff. A large number of witnesses have been examined in regard to the character of work done. Mrs. Burkhardt asks damages in her cross complaint for spoiling her home and depriving her of its use in the sum of $2500. At the outset plaintiff offered as a compromise to dismiss the case, and his lien, allowing the $400 to be used in putting the building in the shape it was intended, this being a confession of poor work of his workmen. This was refused by defendant, hence the lengthy trial.

The Court will be here again next week.

New cases filed besides those above noted:

Cassie Turton vs. Jos. Turton, divorce.

State vs. C. H. White, robbery, defendant is said to have robbed a number of workmen at the camps west of town.

Hugh Phelps and son Redick, were guests of Mrs. Susan Phelps last week.

Judge W. R. Gay and wife of Seattle and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Tim and Mrs. Ray Rockman Braham motored to the Sol Duc Hot Springs Sunday, returning Monday.

NOSE FOR NEWS

And it came to pass that the big boss went to the mountains and the next in command sez to me, "Either you get me a page ad or stand on that corner and nose for news." "I get you," sez I, "I will nose."

And along came Mr. Lauridsen, smiling, and I sez, "how do, Mr. Lauridsen, had a fire in one of your houses?" "Yes," sez he, and smiles some more—and then I knew that the house had been insured.

And along came Mr. Levy and I sez, "How is oil," and he smiles and sez, "all right."—so then I knew that they are no more than 99 feet from the big gusher.

And along comes Mr. Muck. Sez I to him, "What did you do with the wild man?" "He got away from his keeper in front of the Commercial," sez Mr. Muck, and smiles—and then I knew that Mr. Muck had something under his sleeve that he did not want to tell.

Then along comes Mr. Cotton with a bunch of brick wagons, smiling broadly, so by that token I knew that work was started on Francis street and Mr. Cotton had put the dagoes on.

And along came Mr. Walton with his usual smile—and then I knew that fishing was not bad.

And along comes Mr. Dustman and sez, "What are you standing here for?" And then I knew it was time to quit.

And as I left the place I heard, rather than saw ,something pass, thinking for a moment that Mr. Stromer was back again in his flyer. But then I looked again and lo and behold—it was only Mr. Falk in his new Ford. B.G.

ANGELES BRAVES TAKE 3 OUT OF 4

Along with the Elks Circus there were five games of baseball played on the local diamond on Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The game on Thursday was with the local Elks' team. The other games were with the Wilson Business College of Seattle. A large crowd attended the games on each day, many coming from Seattle and Victoria. On Sunday afternoon the Snohomish team crossed bats with the Albany boys, who were here on a practice trip on their way to the fair at San Francisco. They were beaten by the Coast Guard boys by the score of 27 to 3. The boy marvel, Roscoe McKee, did the pitching and Herzinger the catching for the locals. Holding down a bunch of men with sea legs is no easy stunt, but Roscoe did it with much ease, as evidenced by the three earned runs.

The Elks game on Thursday with Moir and Steele as the batteries for Angeles and McLaughlin and Grubb for the Elks was well worth the price of admission. Moir proved a marvel in the box and let the herd down with two runs—in the meantime Angeles was making 12. Anderson, the Angeles umpire, who played with the Elks, scored one of the lone runs when he hit safely, stole second and third bases and came home on a clean hit by Oskelitz. It seemed a futile thing for Angeles to give a run to the poor Elks but Moir did such good work in the box with his cross-fire ball that he had the celebrators dizzy from continuously straining their necks in hopes of letting the ball hit the bat.

Then Friday came along with a great amount of sunshine pouring from the heavens and Angeles beat the fast Wilson Business College by the score of 3 to 2. Stolting and Kuntz worked for the visitors and McInnes and Grubb worked for the locals. McInnes struck out 15 men in this game and thereby set a record for strikeouts this year. This was the best game seen on the local diamond.

Saturday Angeles again cleaned up the Business College by the tune of 11 to 8. Baxter, Reardon and Kuntz worked for Wilson's and Hastings and Grubb for the home guards. Roscoe McKee played in this game with the locals and hit three times at bat and got one walk. He pounded the pill for two bases twice with Pete Reardon in the box.

Sunday the score was again in Angeles' favor, being 3 to 2. This was another excellent game. A very large crowd attended it. The batteries were Baxter and Kuntz and McInnes and Grubb.

The last game played, on Monday, was lost by Angeles with a score of 13 to 7 staring them in the face. Hooker, Hastings and Grubb did the boxwork for the locals; Baxter and Kuntz for Wilson Business College.

Grubb deserves especial mention for the excellent work he did behind the bat.

Next Sunday the locals will play the champion Lion Liquor team of Seattle. They are the REAL champions of Seattle. An excellent game is promised with McInnes in the box—the old reliable real tobacco chew. The game will be called promptly at 2:30 p. m. Everybody be there on time so that the visitors will not be able to make their scores in the first inning. They are hard hitters and fence repairs are likely.

ELK'S CELEBRATION SUCCESSFUL VENTURE

to carrying the girls employed by the company and the genial Guy Dann, followed by three laundry delivery wagons; E. N. Eagle with eight wise-looking mules drawing two big loads of mill wood; the city street department, with grader, scraper and gravel wagon; the Olympic Leader with three boys riding decorated bikes and last and prettiest of all, Manager A. L. Phillips of the telephone company with a nifty Metz carrying a cluster of beauty from central, equipped with telephonic paraphernalia.

The float section was followed by the long line of decorated autos, many of which were decidedly attractive.

The parade was twice passed in review before the judges, J. P. Wilson of Seattle, Mrs. Mitchell of London, England, Mrs. H. A. Babcock of Bremerton, Walter Mack Clark and J. J. Herlihy, and Mayor Horace White, Exalted Ruler G. W. Muck, Surveyor General FitzHenry and other prominent visitors to the city, who occupied positions in the new band stand on First and Laurel.

The judges awarded prizes as follows:

Best Fraternal Float, loving cup—Moose Lodge.

Industrial Representation—E. N. Eagle.

One of the most noteworthy features of the parades was the bevy of masked characters, particularly the Charles Chaplin eccentricities of W. B. Welsh and the carnival clown stunts of Sam Mettler, the Elk drum major act of Louis H. Gherke, the two bears, the frog, etc.

Charles A. Sult of Forks was a sensational feature in the street shows and carnival as the Albino snake charmer, attired in a wonderful creation of mosquito bar and purple cheese-cloth, four bolts of the former and two of the latter, with a flossy white wig and much paint and powder. His make-up was a thriller and his photos sold by the dozen, the proceeds going to the Elk's till.

Fritz Mettler rivaled Sult in his rather startling impersonation of the sinuous and sensuous Oriental dancer. Captain Jesse Hunter, the devil fish man, provided doubtless the most interesting and unusual attraction on the grounds—live devil fish, which he handled barehanded and talked about instructively. The big circus tent show provided an entertaining vaudeville performance under the direction of Mrs. Chenaur, assisted by Miss Ethel Welch. The Elks' jitney street pavilion was in charge of the Brothers Sarf and Goodwin and was a real treat. P. O. Pulsifer, as Old Uncle Josh, was a unique figure in the parades of Friday and Saturday. His makeup was eccentric to the last degree and the way he played the part and mingled with the folks was one of the refreshing incidents of the celebration.

The executive committee estimates the receipts about $2400 and the expenditures $1850, leaving the net proceeds $550.

Among those who enjoyed the sensation of a ride with the birdman, Prof. Stromer were: Dr. F. T. Hyde, Dr. H. H. Butler, Mrs. F. Mason, Mrs. Phoebe E. Compbell, Win Miller, Ed. Schier, J. P. Harris, Oscar Kuppler, T. B. Monds and G. C. Norman.

E. J. Walton has bought the lot on the bluff between E. E. Fisher's and W. J. Ware's residences and expects to build a home for himself very soon

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO?

What is to be done about the weeds and thistles growing so thickly in the vacant lots and along our principal streets? The tourist travel to Port Angeles and surrounding country has never been so great as this year, and we certainly are not impressing our visitors very favorably when we allow this unkempt condition to exist. Then there are the ugly old tumble-down fences and buildings, some on Laurel street are a constant eyesore. Where is our Civic Pride? During the latter part of July the Newspaper Association will convene in our city and it behooves us to clean up, cut down the thistles and weeds and make our city presentable. A couple of hundred newspaper people are going to spread considerable news about Port Angeles and let us see that is favorable not detrimental.
