VOL. 31. NO. 29. PORT ANGELES, CLALLAM COUNTY, WASHINGTON. FRIDAY, JULY 16, 1915. $1.50 THE YEAR

CITY'S GUESTS WILL HAVE AN ENJOYABLE WEEK

PROMINENT MEN TO BE HERE

Two receptions and an annual ball with feature addresses, an excursion to the big mill and the Elwha, and an automobile trip to the lake with picnic lunch on board the Storm King are the leading features of the entertainment to be provided for Port Angeles' guests next week, when those big financiers of the state, the editors and the county treasurers, hold their annual conventions and tell the novice how it is done.

There will be distinguished visitors in attendance, Governor Lister, who has promised to be present on Friday, heading the list. It is expected that United States Senator W. L. Jones, Congressman Albert Johnson and Lindley H. Hadley, and Secretary of State I. M. Howell will be among the guests.

One of the most interesting personalities of the West, Dr. Henry Suzzallo, the new president of the University of Washington, will address the editors, explaining his ideals and ambitions and outlining his policy as head of the big state school. This will be one of the most impressive and widely interesting features of the entire program.

The two associations, State Press and Washington County Treasurers, each hold a three days' convention, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 22nd to 24th. The State Press Association will meet in the county court room while the Treasurers hold their sessions in the county commissioners' room.

The County Treasurers' meetings, which are in reality a school conducted by All. Hellender, head of county affairs in the state bureau of inspection, will be opened with an address of welcome by His Honor, Mayor White, Calvin S. Carr of Pierce, President of the Association, responding. State Treasurer and Mrs. Edw. Meath, who always attend the meetings, will be present, as also will John Bennett, treasurer of King county; both gentlemen always have something interesting to say. The bulk of the program will deal with the best and most economical methods of collecting taxes and new members are afforded an opportunity to learn how others handle troublesome matters.

It is believed that at least 150 newspaper people will be present this year and an elaborate program is being prepared covering every phase of the business. Many of the topics and following discussions will be of interest to the business men of Angeles, all of whom are invited to attend. Frank G. Kane, head of the Department of Journalism at the State University, and Fred W. Kennedy, of the same department, having charge of the University Daily, will talk on "Education for Journalism" and "The Printshop for the Country Newspaper." Grant C. Angle of Shelton will tell of the "Linotype in the Country Office." "The Benefits of the State Press Association" will be set forth by H. W. Patten of Hoquiam, while C. E. Rusk will come over from North Yakima to tell us about that theoretical place known as "The Newspaper Field." "Developing Advertising or How Association Members Can Make More Money," is the topic assigned to J. C. Harrigan of the Colville Examiner who asked for something easy and got it. "Better Bookkeeping and Cost Accounting" by Frederick Ornes of the Mt. Vernon Argus will probably be the most valuable paper prepared. Other subjects are "Subscriptions and Subscribers" by N. Russell Hill of the Davenport Times; "The Editorial Page" by E. H. O'Neil, Walla Walla Spectator; "Help in the Printshop" by J. C. Kaynor of the Ellensburg Record; while F. A. Hazeltine of the South Bend Journal, the Association's historian, will tell of the ups and downs of the fraternity in the s during the past year.

tatlines of the Social Program.

All of the time not taken up with the regular programs of the two organizations will be filled in with social and scenic entertainment, the schedule being as follows:

Thursday afternoon—Informal entertainment for the visiting ladies by the ladies of Port Angeles.

Evening—Informal general reception in the courtroom and lobby of the court house, public invited; music.

Friday afternoon—Ladies' home reception and lawn party, residence of Mrs. John Cain, Eunice and Caroline streets; entertainment by local talent. Probable visit to big mill and trip to Elwha river by special train of Seattle, Port Angeles & Western Railway.

Evening—Olympic Hotel, annual ball, with feature addresses and entertainment numbers interspersed, also buffet supper in dining rooms; card tables. Local public invited, tickets $1 per couple.

Saturday — Automobile excursion leaving court house for Lake Crescent 11 a.m. Leave East Beach on Storm King 1 p.m. for tour of Lake, buffet or picnic luncheon aboard ready to serve when people go aboard. Return to city about 8 p.m.

It is hoped to have the Port Angeles Marine Band give one or more concerts as a tribute to the guests of the city.

Those Who Have Charge of the Entertainment.

On Monday afternoon the Board of Directors of the Commercial Club appointed an executive committee of three members to have executive charge of the arrangements, with power to appoint sub-committees. This committee consists of Frank C. Teck, H. M. Fisher and G. M. Lauridsen. The chairman of this committee requested the co-operation of the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the Commercial Club at their regular meeting Tuesday, and on Wednesday the committee held a joint meeting with representatives of all the elements directly interested and discussed plans, chiefly for the entertainment of the visiting ladies, and a committee of nine ladies was appointed to take charge of these projected arrangements, as follows: Mrs. R. D. Willson, Mrs. E. E. Hopkins, Mrs. A. A Smith, Mrs E. B. Webster, Mrs. Alice Boomer, Mrs. J. E. Campbell, Mrs. John C. Hansen, Mrs. C. L. Babcock and Mrs. Herbert Wood.

A special finance committee consisting of Lewis Levy, C. L. Babcock and A. A. Smith is in charge of raising funds required for the entertainment.

The Commercial Club's standing committee on Excursions, D. E. Zent, chairman, is in charge of providing automobile and other local transportation.

Fred C. Farmer, H. M. Fisher and C. L. Babcock went to Lake Crescent on Wednesday and effected the united co-operation of the people of the lake, who will be hosts for the tour

NELSON STEAMSHIP CO. BUYS INTEREST IN EARLES' BIG MILL

The Charles Nelson Company, big lumber dealers of San Francisco, whose several steamers have long been a familiar feature of every harbor in the Puget Sound country, have purchased, according to up-Sound papers, half the common stock of the Puget Sound Mills & Timber Co., including the interest of James S. Goldsmith who has been acting as the latter company's financial agent.

The Charles Nelson Company, which now joins hands with Mr. Earles in the management of the big saw mill, shingle mill and logging camp, whch is turning out 300,000 feet of lumber and 1,000,000 shingles daily, will handle the selling end, with the undoubted result that the Port Angeles mill will become the most important lumber manufacturing concern on the Pacific Coast.

GRAY FLAGS OF THE HILLS

Edmond S. Meany.

Olympics, Olympics, moist home of the mists,
How sure do thy signals, thy flags on the hills,
Call troops of cloud soldiers through tortuous twists
To plunge where a trumpet each cataract thrills.
Each cataract thrills,
Thy thousand new rills,
Wild trumpets of rivers,—
Gray flags of the hills!

Olympics, Olympics, thy fortress of fir,
Thy cavernous hemlocks where world clamor stills,
Where never an elk hears the arrow's wierd whirr,
A wilderness peace till the fierce cougar kills.
The fierce cougar kills,
His blood lust fulfills,
Thy shroud for the timid,—
Gray flags of the hills.

Olympics, Olympics, thy swift waters run
To grind the huge boulders in rough granite mills,
A smile at the labor, a kiss from the sun,
They dance as they whirl their rude hammers and drills.
Rude hammers or drills,
As glad worker wills;
Thy rivers are laughing,—
Gray flags of the hills.

BIG INCREASE SHOWN IN CITY'S BUSINESS

Only routine work occupied the City Council this week at its regular session, although it is said there was more than routine at the after session held immediately after adjournment to consider a matter of city policy. All members were present.

Mr. Hooker, representing the First Ward, asked that a Resolution of Intention be brought in for consideration at next session, for lateral sewers to be constructed on Georgiana and Carolina streets between Albert and Eunice and Francis. Owners along the bluff were connected with the beach, but had no right to such a connection, and in other localities a serious condition exists. Mr. Bigelow stated that the owners had spoken of putting this in without the expense of an assessment district, and this was agreed to if they can get together, otherwise the resolution will be on hand for city action.

Minna Lange asked the privilege of tearing out all the old building in rear of property now occupied by the Olympic Cash Grocery, and replacing same 23x31, with new corrugated steel walls. Granted.

J. V. Coolidge and C. A. Bruce were given privilege of dumping logs off Railroad Avenue east of Lincoln, subject of course to property owners consent.

A permit was given Jos. Proll to construct a frame building 12x22 at his home at 9th and Lincoln streets.

Ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds for the First and Valley street work done by Lewis, Wiley & Morse, was adopted.

City Treasurer P. F. Harley addressed a communication to the council protesting against the order of council allowing but $25 monthly for clerk hire in his office as being wholly inadequate. When he took the office, it states, there were three improvement districts and but 345 light consumers, whereas now there are 17 improvement districts and 717 light consumers, and more of each in sight. The office is now a very important one, and should pay more also to the principal than it does. The matter was first filed and later referred to the committee of the whole at the close of the council session.

Engineer Filion reported the entire cost of the Cotton sewer contract east of Lincoln between Third and Fourth streets, at $1,895.64, and that to the north between Second and Fourth streets at $1,213.70.

Exalted Ruler G.W. Muck and Secretary Conrad Luppen of the Elks, communicated to the council the appreciation of the order for the confidence expressed by the city fathers in granting the high privileges for the celebration week.

Engineer Filion called up again the matter of discrepancies south of Sixth street, at Laurel, of the monuments placed by the city with the old government hubs found toward the boulevard. With permanent work being put in this discrepancy should be harmonized at this time. There is a shortage of 4 or 5 feet. This could be taken up in an alley, and thus avoid any particular interference with present fence lines which seem to conform to the old hubs. He had prepared plats showing the discrepancy, and asked that council meet with him at an early date and go over same with a view to correcting the difference at once, as permanent monument should be placed before the new sewer work is put in. It was agreed to meet on Thursday at 4 p. m.

Ray Haynes asked privilege of fencing in 20 feet of Lincoln street to protest people during the wrecking of the old court house. Granted.

Mr. Filion called attention to the new band stand and asked what is the use of a band stand unless we can have players. He stated we were all proud of our band boys, they were a credit to the city, but were up against it, and he thought it only right that the city should encourage them. They had agreed to give ten concerts in the bandstand or at such points as the council might direct and asked that an appropriation of $10 each be made for same. Mr. Filion moved the acceptance of the offer. Council decided it could not afford the luxury at this time, Filion and Hooker voting aye, Fisher and Brennand not voting, rest no.

Street Superintendent French called attention to finish of work on hand and suggested that the city team be used during spare time in getting ready for winter, by graveling Peabody and Lincoln streets, and such other spots as are found in need. This brought on a discussion, Mr. Bigelow seeking to have Pine, 6th to 8th, and 7th, Pine to Cedar put in shape with grader at a cost of approximately $25. Mr. Filion objected. No action was taken on either matter.

The figures furnished by the clerk fixed Laurel street zig-zag work at $265.

NAVAL MILITIA HERE ON CRUISER ALBANY FOR TARGET PRACTICE

The U.S.S. Cruiser Albany arrived this morning from San Francisco and will at once go into target practice between Dungeness spit and the Ediz Hook. All vessels are warned of the shells, which will be fired at a distance of eight miles. The targets are on rafts and made of white canvas. The tug Yomoto placed the targets Thursday afternoon. In August the Albany will proceed to Portland, Oregon from Bremerton Navy yard, where it will bring the Oregon Naval Militia to the Puget Sound waters. Gun practice will be had in the same location as the Washington militia. Next year the Albany will have some new eight inch guns, now only having the old style six inch. The populace will evidently rush to the waterfront when they hear the bombardment.

LOGANBERRY EXPERIMENT HAS PROVEN SUCCESSFUL

DRIER TO BE BUILT THIS WINTER

From 75c to $1 00 per crate of 24 pint boxes, the price depending largely upon the condition of the fruit, has been the net return so far this year from loganberries shipped to Seattle and Victoria by E. D. Guthrie. Berries sold in Victoria would have brought an average of 50c more per crate had it not been for the duty of two cents per box.

The six weeks' season is but half over, berries ripening slowly on account of cloudy weather, yet Mr. Guthrie says he is already satisfied with the experiment he has made. This is the first year of real bearing and the plants will send out longer and stronger shoots each successive year. Besides, it has been proven at Salem, headquarters of the loganberry industry in Oregon, that the evaporated fruit yields greater net returns than the fresh and all Salem fruit has been thus handled.

Twelve pickers are employed on Mr. Guthrie's ranch, but in addition to this a good many go out in their autos and buggies and pick three or four waterbuckets full themselves. The vines, which are supported by a three strand wire fence, the new sold a quantity of fruit to Wm. Smith of the bottling works for experimentation. Mr. Guthrie says he noticed in the Portland Oregonian that Salem parties, where considerable juice is bottled, had sent sample bottles to W.J. Bryan with the result that Mr. Bryan had ordered a supply to take the place of his heretofore favorite beverage.

There seems to be absolutely no doubt that loganberry growing will pay, whether shipped with the product of the Salem people to North and South Dakota, or sold in this state, British Columbia and Alaska. As to the comparative yield, State Horticultural Commissioner Morrison, when here a short time ago, said he had never seen a finer stand of loganberries, not even in the Puyallup valgrowth being staked down underneath, cover five acres, there being thirty-nine rows.

Mr. Guthrie has in operation a simple hot air dryer built out of an old piano box and a few lengths of ordinary stove pipe, four or five wire mesh trays being fitted in the top of the box. In this he has dried ber-

MOUNTAINEERS ENJOY A WEEK ABOVE THE CLOUDS

ANNUAL OUTING GREAT SUCCESS

Well might the first annual outing of the Klahanne Club, announced as "A Week in the Alpine Parks of Mt. Angeles," have been termed "A Week Above the Clouds," for never was mountaineering club more favored by the Gods of the High Places.

From Monday morning, when the little company, numbering fourteen, left their lodge on the lower slope of the mountain, until Saturday, when they came out down the Elwha river, the lower country was never free of clouds and for the most part was filled with the shining silvery billows, beautiful beyond compare. Clouds which, when viewed from below, are dark and forbidding, become, immediately one breaks forth into the bright sunshine above, like a storm-tossed ocean magnified a thousand times. There are great cottony billows miles in length; deep whirlpools appear here and there; surf hundreds of feet high breaks upon the hillsides throwing still further upward great clouds of the lightest spray. As the sun sets, a thousand tints of gold, rose and lavender play over the billowy surface while the Great White Watcher, Mt. Baker, floats above, so high and so near, entirely unsupported by either land or water, a coral island in the sky. Truly it is a scene never to be forgotten. Then there are those times, and the members of the club had the pleasure of enjoying such a view on at least one occasion, when the billowy sea, possibly in response to the waving of some wonderful magic wand, evaporates and fades away before one's eyes, even in the space of a few moments. It is not blown up the straits, nor wafted into the mountain valleys, nor precipitated as rain —it simply disappears. Clouds too have a habit of forming along the cool mountain cliffs in the evening, increasing until the surplus drifts out of the canyon where none came in. But perhaps the most interesting of all are those times when surface winds blow great cloud fields up the mountain valley from one side, only to be caught at the summit in the vortex of opposing winds from converging valleys and literally "torn to fragments before one's eyes."

Every phase of cloud phenomenon save that of rain was enjoyed by the members of the party, who traveled at times up waterfalls in narrow steep gorges, around rocks on deer trails where the utmost caution was necessary, and down precipices where a life-line had to be brought into play. Three half days were spent in an effort to find a passage between the cliffs of the Third Peak that would render unnecessary a long descent into the glacial valley below, but at every effort the boys were turned back by impossible precipices or deep canyons, and finally the whole party was compelled to cross by descending into the basin of the middle fork of Little river, climbing up over the mountain into Ennis creek's headwaters, out of this again and down into the northwest fork of Morse creek, and finally camping on

LOGGER GIVEN SIX YEARS IN PENITENTIARY FOR ROBBERY

C. H. White, a logger, recently arrested by the city authorities for pulling a gun on merchants patrol, and arrested upon his release by the county officers last week upon the charge of robbery at one of the logging camps, entered a plea of guilty before Judge Ralston and was sentenced to from five to six years in the state penitentiary. The law fixes the minimum penalty for this offense at five years. This is another of those peculiar cases which no one can understand. White looks like a good-natured rough and ready young fellow, who would do anything as a joke. He says he was broke, and seeing the money on a table in a poker game, pulled his big gun and ordered all to hold up their hands while he appropriated the money. He came to town and got full, and later was picked up by the police. He had no intention he said, of hurting anybody, in case of resistance. When arrested he had a wicked-looking 44 Colts with soft-nosed bullets, and a big red handkerchief with holes cut to see through. He is awaiting a guard from Walla Walla.

Tuesday Martin Walters, another logger, was brought before an insanity commission and ordered committed to Steilacoom. He is 43 years of age. His ailment is found to be due to alcohol. He talks incessantly, ordering people about as in superintending certain work. He believes he is very wealthy, owning big farms, autos, etc. He has relatives in Cleveland, Ohio.

The county commissioners are being urged, by the business men of Port Angeles, to take over the completion of the Jefferson-Clallam cut-off. They see in the continual string of automobilists coming this way not only an immediate revenue of no small proportions, but also rapid future development due to the extensive favorable advertising this county is receiving upSound.

It will be remembered that Clallam county completed, last winter, its portion of the Olympic Highway to the Jegerson county line, while Jefferson county, still struggling along in the dark ages of ruts and mud, proposed to wait until in the iourse of time the people of the state, becoming thoroughly disgusted, should arise and do her work for her.

The new Clallam road runs thru to the county line on a lower grade than the old, cutting out a long and exceedingly rough hill, or rather it will cut it out when Jefferson builds her portion of the Highway. The eastern end of Clallam's highway could now be used and most of the hill thus eliminated were a cut-off of a few hundred feet completed along the county line. Most of this cutffoff lies in this county, only about 800 feet being in Jefferson; as the county line here runs thru a gulch it is impossible to build the entire road on the line or on this side thereof. At a meeting of the commissioners of the two counties held last spring it was agreed to build the cut-off before the touring season commenced. Clallam's commissioners had a road crew in within a few days after the agreement was made and her share was finished within six weeks, while Jefferson relapsed again into her accustomed state of coma, rousing sufficiently to make a bluff at the work a day or two before the recent visit of the Olympia Chamber of Commerce.

At the last meeting of the Board of Directors of the Angeles Commercial Club, held Monday, Fred Farmer stated that about 600 touring automobiles had reached and passed thru this city in the last six weeks and that the average number arriving daily at the present time is 15, ranging from 10 to 30 daily. Their chief complaint is over the hilly and rutty condition of the road east of Sequim, which lies mostly in this county and for which they believe the people of this county are responsible. It is believed the cost of completion would not exceed two hundred dollars and as the Jefferson people are either dead in their shells or too poor to do the work it appears to be up to Clallam to get in and do it for them and trust to their honor to repay the bill.

That old-time direction, "Follow the main traveled road," will no longer answer on that portion of the Olympic Highway between this city and Lake Crescent. Since the building, by use of state aid, general road and bridge, and district funds to such good advantage, within one year's time of a main thoroughfare through from Port Angeles to Joyce and beyond, where formerly was the worst piece of worn out corduroy and hill road in the state, the ranchers are coming to this city to trade and find a measure of recreation from the cares of everyday life. Most of the road has a fine surface and the work of gravelling the remainder, by local people under direction of the supervisor and with the assistance of the county's power truck and loader, is well under way.

The few brief glimpses of the Olympic peaks, glaciers, and streams that Chief Forester Graves was able to obtain during the cloudy weather prevailing on the occasion of his recent visit, served only to whet his appetite for a season of real enjoyment, and he will again visit this district upon his return from a trip to Alaska to inspect the northern forests. He arrived at Portland Monday and expects to sail from Seattle July 18th, returning in time to see the Olympic country at its best.

DOINGS OF THE WEEK AT OLYMPIA

Olympia, July 14.—"If we were satisfied that all farmers would use them, we would put up a factory and make a split log drag for every farmer in the state," Governor Lister declared to state highway engineers, called in to Olympia for a general discussion of highway problems.

Adoption of a comprehensive plan for expenditure of maintenance money was one of the subjects discussed, the engineers generally agreeing with the governor's prediction that in six years 20 per cent of the highway appropriations would be set aside for maintenance, and permanent section crews, like those employed by railroads, would be placed on the state highways.

The governor urged the engineers to see that all dangerous points on newly constructed state highways were protected with stout guard-rails, sufficiently strong to hold a heavy automobile, and fitted, whenever possible, with heavy "bumping logs" at the bottom.

Engineers were called in from all parts of the state for the conference, exchange of views and round table discussion of each other's problems.

Official count of the referendum petitions, completed this week showed sufficient signatures on each to refer each of the seven acts of the recent legislature under attack.

There were more than 50,000 valid signatures to each of the referendum measures against the three election bills, vetoed by Governor Lister and repassed over his veto while there were about 35,000 valid signatures against each of the other four measures.

The large railroads are planning to renew their fight of 1913 before the state board of equalization for lower assessments. With the three state tax commissioners comprising a majority of the board in 1913, the request of the railroads for sweeping horizontal reductions were denied. The courts later upheld the valuations placed by the tax commission and the board of equalization. The tax commissioners continued as a majority of the board in 1914 and no concerted attempt was made by the railroads to obtain reductions.

The recent legislature removed the members of the tax commission from the board of equalization, and with the personnel thus changed, the railroads have made plans for renewal of their attempt to secure lower taxes. Agents of the railroads have been at work in the various counties for months.

Discovery has been made that the McArdle bill, changing the composition of the state board of equalization, incidentally has brought about a muddled condition in regard to the work of county officials in taxation matters, which the courts probably will be called upon to settle.

By law passed in 1909, the county assessor was made ex-officio member of the county board of equalization and given the duty of extending the tax rolls. Whoever drafted the McArdle bill, however, apparently was ignorant of this change, the McArdle bill reenacting part of the old law, by which the county auditor is given the duty of extending the tax rolls and may prove to be the legal member of the county board of equalization instead of the assessor.

Arthur A. Lewis of the public service commission has been designated by Governor Lister as his representative on the state board of equalization this year. This appointment gives Eastern Washington a representative, the other two members, Auditor C. W. Clausen and Land Commissioner Clark V. Savidge, being from Western Washington. Mr. Lewis is well acquainted with taxation matters, working eight years in the Spokane county treasurer's office and filling the office of Spokane city treasurer two and one-half years.

The industrial insurance commission will endeavor to have a field worker of the American Red Cross detailed for permanent "first aid" work in the logging camps of Washington, Commissioner Clarence Parker has announced. The work thus far done by Drs. W. T. Davis and W. N. Lipscomb, with their Red Cross car, is regarded as successful beyond all anticipations of the commission in arranging the tour.

Major Robert U. Patterson, U. S. A., in charge of the bureau of medical service of the American Red Cross, will be here in September and at this time attempts will be made to arrange for the permanent services of a first aid worker in this state.

Dr. Davis will take the Red Cross Car east next week, but Dr. Lipscomb will remain on field work in the logging camps until November at least.

The first issue of the "Workman's Safety Guide," a publication which hereafter will appear quarterly, is being prepared by Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson, for distribution among workers in all factories and workshops of Washington and among others who may be interested.

Besides general instructions for accident prevention and first aid treatment, each number will contain detailed descriptions of typical recent accidents in various workshops, so that through a study of conditions leading to these mishaps, similar ones may be avoided in future. A "correspondents' column," expected by Commissioner Olson to develop into a veritable correspondence school on accident prevention topics, and discussion of new forms fo mechanical safeguards, etc., also will be an important feature.

August 1 has been fixed as the date for the appearance of the first issue.

SEE! THE PROMISED LAND!

The greatest piece of news that has been printed in the daily press for a year or so and of which it is our pleasure to add something of a stress not laid upon it there, was the fact that both the Northern Pacific shops at South Tacoma and the Milwaukee, long doing only a half turn, have suddenly started going full time with a full force. More cars are needed for more business.

It is coming to town.

A little while ago What's Doing pointed out what it deemed to be a Golden Truth—that the employment of full time and a full force in the steel industry indicated a farewell to these pesky hard times. Indications increase. Never was there such a rush of business in the ship yards, for instance, of all things. Industry everywhere is lighting up. The greatest of wheat crops is reported over the whole belt—Columbia river basin to Arkansas and back again to Minnesota. The corn, cotton, fruit—all crops—are big, with the hungriest world market ever known.

Good Times is coming to town. The Puyallup valley has for some time been taking up the big slack in the labor market and the grain fields of the Inland Empire will soon be screaming for help.

The crop of men in this country is not being harvested as in some others we might mention if we were not ashamed to print the names. OUR men folks will soon be all at work providing comforts for the women folks and children. And we have neither war widows nor brides nor babies, and for this—It being so particularly pleasing—let us stop here and, standing, as by right of our plain, common-sense manhood we should, our arms outstretched, our chin and eyes uplifted, thank God, before we go further.

The crest of the barren Mountain of Difficulty is behind us. Doubt and hesitation are being resolved. The prospect that lies before us is a wide, sunlit valley, traced with silver streams, carpeted with flowers, rich in fruit and grazing cattle, dotted with umbrageous trees. It is Uncle Sam's Land of Promise. Let us descend into it without delay—we may—it is ours.—Tacoma What's Doing.

the divide between Morse creek and the south fork of Little river.

The Ortler, highest of the Alps, can be climbed by the novice in two-thirds of a day, this including the descent. The Klahanne party left camp at their lodge Monday morning and reached the Elwha river on the other side of the mountain Friday afternoon, only on one occasion spending two nights in the same camp, being on the go all the time—from which it may be inferred Mt. Angeles is "some mountain." They saw less than one-third of the real top of the ridges at that, members frequently remarking that they would like to go over to other points at another time, especially if trails could be provided to the base of the rocks.

The outing as a whole, with all its work of packing blankets, extra clothing, provisions and cooking utensils, of getting meals where melted snow was the only water to be had, of making beds amongst the rocks, was thoroughly enjoyed by every one, perhaps most of all by those memberswhom one would have tho't, from their slight build, would have proven entirely unequal to the task before them. In fact, the only complaints heard on the trip were voiced when some member would choke while convulsed with laughter over one of the several hundred droll remarks and funny stories told at meal times.

Only one accident marred the pleasure of the trip, when Mr. Johnson, the ranger at Ennis creek station, who was accompanying the party, nicked a finger with a hand axe, severing a tendon. It was with deep regret the members of the party realized he would have to return to town for surgical aid.

AN OLD-TIME SALE

A copy of an old-time sale bill, the auction having been scheduled for the 29th of September, 1846, was handed us last week by Mr. Lesure, it having been published in a paper at his old home town in Michigan to show the contrast with modern sale notices. As is the custom today, the most important property, nine yoke of oxen, was listed first, while buck and nigger wenches, steel traps, pickled cabbage, and mink skins follow in order of their respective values.

State of Missouri, County of Pike.—

To whom it may concern:

The undersigned will on Tuesday, September 29, A.D. 1846, sell at public outcry for cash on premises, where Coon creek crosses on the Missouri road, the following chattles, to-wit: Nine yoke of oxen with yoke and chain, two wagon beds, three nigger wenches, four buck niggers, three nigger boys, two prairie plows, twenty-five steel traps, one barrel pickled cabbage, one hogshead of tobacco, one lot of nigger hoes, one spinning wheel, loom, three fox hounds, a lot of coon, mink and skunk skins and a lot of other articles. Äm gwine to California.

NEW CABLE FOR CUTTER SNOHOMISH

With a Yo Heave! and a mighty lift a big coil of 3½ inch cable, 1,200 feet in length and weighing 4,500 lbs., was unloaded from a Milwaukee car by the boys of the Coast Guard Cutter Snohomish Monday morning, the new towing line having come all the way from Plymouth, Mass., to replace the old one which had become badly frayed thru service in pulling vessels off the beach and otherwise aiding those in trouble. The cable cost about seven hundred dollars. It was uncoiled on the wharf and thus transferred to the cutter.

GOING ! GOING ! GOING ! GONE !

Going! Going! Gone! Sold at auction to the highest bidder with cash in hand. This is the last story that the old county court house will have to tell. Built in the year 1890 for use as a Catholic church, it was not acquired by the county until 1892. Since then many changes and "improvements" have been made in the old hulk without in the least increasing the value thereof.

During the twenty-three years it has been the home of the county officials, many notables have walked its wooden floors. Politicians of high and low degree have sat upon the high stools or in the easy arm chairs behind its crude counters. Not a few famous battles have been waged within the sloping walls of its attic court room. Many have been the tragedies and even deaths witnessed by its grimy walls. New faces have made their appearance year after year and helped to collect the taxes, keep the records, dispense justice, and a few there have been who have done a mighty work in making this one of the most progressive of the counties in the state today. And now, after all these years, the old building is to be torn down, the ground graded, and a beautiful park to take its place. With the story of its sale, and that of its ancient furniture and fixures, we must write "Finis" and close the record.

Ray Haynes, former deputy assessor, was the most successful bidder for the wooden building itself. It cost him just $83, more than the average person would have considered it worth, but then Ray is a master carpenter and he will remove the lumber to his ranch and build thereof a house and barn.

Of the furniture, one roll top desk sold for $12.50. Three stools went to the highest bidder for eighty cents. The commissioners' old hard-wood desk went at $11.00. One cabinet in the engineer's office sold for twenty-five cents. N. N. Lucasen bought all the material in the jury room for fifty cents. J. J. Bacher bought a chair in the jury room for fifteen cents. A large counter in the auditor's office was auctioned at fifty cents. And so on down the line. Counting the building, just fifty articles of value were auctioned off. The total receipts were $237.35.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Thenan, long-time residents of Angeles, leave tomorrow for their new home at Arlington, Oregon, where they have taken up a homestead upon which they must live three years. Their many friends will wish them godspeed and hope that they may be able to sell to advantage and return as soon as they secure their patent.

On Tuesday after the Fourth of July the Angeles Castle of the Knights of King Arthur gathered at the Parish Hall to start off on a great adventure. There were present in ragged array Delmere Peterson, DeVere Butler, Keith Thompson, Ivor and Donald Smith, Claude and Charlie Woods, Fred Owens, Gordon Gilbert, Elmer Linn, Wm. Alton and Clarence Hooker of Sequim, Rev. W. H. Zeigler, Dr. Wm. H. Taylor and R. A. Muskett. They started away.

Far out in the road a page unexpectedly appeared and of course went along, Marcellus Morrissey. Camp was made at Klahanne Lodge. Dinner was cooked and served under direction of Merlin. An evening hymn was sung, a thousand stories were told and no one would sleep. At two o'clock a. m. two pages, Gordon and William, went down to Jack Fisher's and asked if Mr. Muskett's horses were fed. The pages retreated under much abuse.

Breakfast revived the Brothers, so successfully that all started and reached the top of Mount Angeles—all but three who were too fat. The day was clear so the experience was wonderful. It is to be noted that Mr. Muskett had never before climbed a mountain. He will probably ascend Mt. McKinley before he is a hundred years old.

Many sore feet arrived again at camp. At camp session Mr. R. A. Muskett was elected a Knight and is to be initiated on Saturday evening. Everyone slept all night.

Thursday the horses ran away to lower levels. Brother-elect Muskett and several of the boys dashed down the mountain and into town after them. Keith Thompson returned to camp to brig us the news of the others. The rest brought up the horses the next day.

Loaded with the whole camp outfit, and off and on, loaded with hundreds of pounds of boys, Mr. Muskett's horses came down Mount Angeles to Port Angeles in one hour.

Mention must be made of the bravery exhibited by Brother Gordon Gilbert, who grievously wounded, bore a surgical operation without flinching and was given three cheers by the other brothers. The whole adventure was a great success.

Mrs. Gunderson states that this big boat was hailed several times by German submarines; they did not stop however, as the Christiana is a very fast boat and the Germans could not keep up with her. Mrs. Gunderson also saw several naval battles. She says that she is glad to be on a soil where peace reigns.

Oh you June bride! It's awfully hard to think of something for hubby's dinner isn't it? Just call up 49 and let us help you solve the problem. We have all kinds of fresh fruit and vegetables. City Fish Market. We deliver three times each day.

Sweet's Auto Stage leaves Dale's store at 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. for Eden and Joyce's. Leave Joyce's at 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. for Angeles. Fare—Joyce's, 50c; Eden, 35c.

Most charming in every detail was the reception given last Friday afternoon by Mrs. Donovan and Mrs. Johnson at the C. C. Donovan home, in honor of the two June brides, Mrs. E. G. Myers and Mrs. Lyman Johnson. The decorations were very attractive and artistic. In the reception room the fire place was banked with ferns and the dainty Dorothy Perkins' roses; while the dining room was all in pink sweet peas. A large bouquet centered the dining table and pink tulle ribbon was attached to each corner of the table cover from the chandelier overhead.

Presiding at the table were two other June brides, Mrs. Luke Faires and Mrs. Harry Stiles; while assisting in serving were Mrs. Fred Farmer and Mrs. Tom Fitzgerald, brides of last year. In the receiving line with the brides were the mothers of the bridegrooms, Mrs. A. L. Johnson and Mrs. Myers, also Mrs. Donovan. Mrs. D. H Frye assisted in receiving and the little Misses Amy Short, Dorothy Webster and Willie White opened the door and received the cards. Miss Verna Wolverton and Miss MacMillan added very materially to the pleasure of the afternoon with several musical numbers. About one hundred and fifty ladies called during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Leed, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ellis and daughter, and Miss Florence E. Smith, all prominent people of Lake Washington, Messrs. Anderson and Leed being connected with the Anderson Steamboat Co., made up a touring party who spent three days at Mora and La Push last week, returning to Angeles Sunday morning. Mr. Leed is an old friend of Secretary Frank Teck and in calling on him at his office in the Commercial Club rooms Sunday morning said, as he held out his hand in an enthusiastic greeting, "I want to tell you something. You've got the best roads in the state of Washington and we've traveled some!"

A little girls first birthday party is quite an event, so it was not surprising that Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Woods' little daughter, Velma, felt very important and happy last Friday afternoon when she entertained 22 of her little friends with a birthday party at their beautiful new home. They were seated at two dining tables, one cover had a border of red, white and blue and the other, the little sun-bonnet girls. The refreshments were very dainty, the large birthday cake being especially attractive. Miss Velma was remembered with many beautiful gifts from her guests.

How much fudge will eight pounds of walnuts make? is the momentous problem which the Klahanne Club proposes to solve at their week-end campfire at their Mt. Angeles lodge Saturday night. The nuts, intended as a part of the daily rations on the recent outing, were inadvertently left behind after having been cracked. There will be other good things at the Saturday night "banquet" and as practically the only expense will be the doctor's bills to follow, every member is urged to come out and get his'n.

The ladies of the W.C.T.U. and of the Ladies Aid of the Congregational church, happily surprised their beloved member, Mrs. Brewster, last Friday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. A very pleasant time was enjoyed at the Congregational church when refreshments were served and a short program given. Mrs. Brewster was the recipient of a number of gifts and many hearty good wishes for her continued good health and happiness.

The ladies of the Maccabees gave a reception in honor of Mrs. L. Faires Tuesday evening. Mrs. L. Faires was formerly Miss Maude Hoare. The ladies invited their husbands and sweethearts and a delightful time was had. Cards and dancing furnished the entertainment for the evening. A bounteous luncheon was served in the wee hours of the morning.

A fire which did little damage to the home of R. Muskett a week ago caused the owner a fit of nervousness. The doctor advised him to take a trip to the top of Mt. Angeles. Mr. Muskett took the trip and now he wants to go again.

A goodly number of local Oddfellows motored to Sequim Tuesday night to assist in the dedication of the splendid new I. O. O. F. Hall at that place. A big time was had.

LOGANBERRY EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS

ries very effectively, having a number of pounds ready for the market or for his future needs. He has also ley, which he had just visited. While there are many people here who have for years been raising all the loganberries they required from a half dozen vines, Mr. Guthrie is the first local man to harvest a commercial crop. Mr. MacDonald will have five acres bearing next year and Mr. Thompson half that many the next year. Several smaller tracts have been planted as an experiment, people going slow until a drier has been built and put into successful operation; this will doubtless be undertaken this winter.

In this connection the following story published in the last issue of the Technical World under the title, "The Berry that Came Back," will be found interesting. The Salem growers pack their evaporated fruit in half pound cartons, similar to packages of currants and raisins.

THE BERRY THAT CAME BACK

"This is the story of a berry that died and came to life again. It had been rooted out by hundreds of acres in the Pacific Northwest a few years ago because it couldn't be shipped; and now the acreage devoted to it is increasing by hundreds of acres every year in the same territory, because it is such a versatile traveler. So consistent are the humans with which this fruit has had to deal.

This berry comes to the consumer as a beverage, as an evaporated fruit, canned, as a jam, as a jell, as a vinegar, or as a wine, to all parts of the United States and even to foreign countries. As a beverage it is a recent "find" offering remarkable opportunities; when evaporated, it proves most delicious. It is as versatile as any known fruit.

The trouble that almost killed the loganberry was that it wouldn't stand shipping. It was too soft to endure much travel; and early attempts at canning hadn't been successful commercially because plain tin, instead of enameled cans, had been used. These conditions apparently left the sale of fresh fruit on the local markets as the only outlet; and the markets, of course, soon became glutted.

As a result, an epidemic of loganberry melancholia hysteria, or something of the sort, struck the Pacific Northwest, and came near blighting the ambitions of this admirable little fruit. Most of the loganberry growers in the Northwest pulled up their vines and plowed under their fields, ignored the lucious red berries and let them rot on the vines.

Then, in 1908, two growers living near Salem, Oregon—W. H. Claypool and E. W. Powers—evaporated some loganberries in prune driers. The product went to Aberdeen, South Dakota, and brought twenty-two and one half cents a pound. That price meant that a loganberry yielding five tons to the acre—an average crop—would give a gross return of nearly four hundred dollars an acre, one pound of evaporated product being equivalent to five and one-half pounds fresh. That made a good profit.

There were calls for more of the dried berries. Every sale brought a repeat order. Growers became interested, and farmers who had been madly pulling out their vines, in the prime of their bearing, paused to give the new method a trial. The first car of evaporated loganberries, and a few other shipments that followed it, had proved that there was something good in the loganberry after all.

From then on, the industry boomed. Carloads of evaporated loganberries soon were being shipped, and instead of declining under the onslaught, prices increased. During the 1913 season, the demands from Chicago and other eastern centers for evaporated loganberries could not be supplied. Buyers came to the co-operative associations and even to the growers individually, offering unprecedented prices. The season's product was sold at an average price of twenty-three and one half cents a pound.

Then the leaders began thinking about other ways of marketing their product. They were not going to rely on the market for evaporated berries taking care of this increase, because they knew that it might not do so when the acreage increased.

The loganberry offered particularly attractive qualities for juice manufacture. Farmers had tried it, and enthusiasm had run high whenever a few berry growers gathered around a pitcher of the new drink. So the wise leaders began to develop the idea.

Tests showed that the juice content of the fresh berries ran as high as eighty per cent, exceeding the pound for pound yield of juice in the grape by fifteen to seventeen per cent. It is easy to make the juice and it does not deteriorate when prepared and bottled properly. So the manufacture of the juice was begun on a small scale by a few individual growers with the co-operative associations giving over small portions of the fruit for trials. Last year marked the opening of a campaign to market the product. The Salem Fruit Union, a farmers' co-operative association, made 2500 gallons. The juice was bottled in four, eight and twelve ounce bottles which sold at retail for fifteen, twenty-five and thirty-five cents, respectively. The juice was quite concentrated and would permit of dilution to one-half its strength. They sold the entire amount with ease and double that amount could have been sold, had the association possessed it, because the first lot advertised the product in many parts of the country and the Salem Association received a flood of business inquiries, that has not yet stopped.

Coming just at a time when the war had caused a temporary drag in the sale of the evaporated produce, the sale of those 2500 gallons of juice had a most stimulating effect on the loganberry situation.

So encouraging were the results last year with this product that a company now is being organized to finance the establishment of a juice plant of large capacity in Salem. It is planned to have this plant in operation this season.

Complaints of visitors to Moclips last Sunday that in returning they were herded by the Northern Pacific into a box car recently used for carrying cement and were hauled in this manner back to Hoquiam, are being investigated by the public service commission.

ES SALAMU ALEIKUM

In the coming of the Forty-first Imperial Council session of the Ancient and Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, to Seattle, the Pacific Northwest is signally honored.

Because of the mysteries surrounding the order since its introduction into America, few persons outside the pale understand the purposes or precepts of the Shrine.

For one thing it is not generally realized that the Shrine is not Masonry. No man can become a Shriner unless he is already a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason or a Knight-Templar. High Degree membership in one of the two rites of Masonry is a prerequisite, but the Shrine is sufficient unto itself. Its relation to Masonry is that it receives its members from that great order.

The Snrine is founded on the legend and lore of the Orient, symbolizing the splendors of ancient civilization. William J. Florence, a comedian famous from 1860 to 1891, started the shrine on this continent. Tradition says that he was introduced to its mysteries while in the Orient.

Temples have been established in the metropolitan cities of all states, each with a distinctive and separate Arabic or Oriental name and form, and have become the centers of attraction, not for prominent Freemasons who reside in these cities, but also veritable meccas of hospitality and good-fellow-ship for all visiting nobles.

As the jewel of the order, the crescent was adopted, usually made of the claws of the Bengal Tiger, united at the bases with a gold setting. The Sphinx is engraved on one side and a pyramid, urn and star on the other. The crescent is usually suspended from a scimitar and holds a star pendant dropping between its horns. The crescent has been a religious emblem of long ages in the East. The ancient Greeks used it as "an emblem of the Universal Mother of all things." The Shrine employs the crescent with its horns pointing downward, as symbolical of "the setting moon of the old faith at the moment of the rising sun of the new faith in the brotherhood of mankind."

The Shrine has 105 temples in as many cities of the United States and Canada. Its Christmas donations to the poor overlap annually $50,000. One of the most important and characteristic features of the order is its generous aid to Free Masons in need of assistance.

Commissioner of Agriculture H. T. Graves has named Mrs. R. M. Coffin of Sumner as state bakery inspector. Bakery inspection comes under the pure food department of Commissioner Graves' office. Miss A. B. Wimple, who formerly held the position of state bakery inspector, resigned to be married.

F.E. Warner, optometrist, may be found in his new offices, rooms 122 and 123, Warren Morse Block.

SEVEN MEASURES WILL GO ON THE BALLOT NEXT YEAR

For nearly a month the work of checking the signatures on the seven referendum petitions has been going on in the office of Secretary of State, I. M. Howell. Charles B. Wood, who has charge of the work of checking, being head of the election division of the office of secretary of state, has during part of the time had as high as 115 checkers employed and the payroll, not including the salary of Wood, at $150 a month, with incidental expenses totalled nearly $400 a day, according to estimates, although no exact figures have been prepared. It is believed that the cost of checking the seven petitions will reach the sum of $10,000. For referendum and initiative work the last legislature made an appropriation of $50,000, but as there are several laws to be initiated and the referendum pamphlets alone are larger than the pamphlets for the last election, the appropriation may not be sufficient to cover the expense of the work. Among the measures mentioned for initiation are a law providing for a commission form of government in all branches of the state government, a first aid law, a blue sky law and a measure providing for state employment agencies. Of the 115 checkers none were from Clallam county. King county was represented by 40, there were 37 from Thurston county, 20 from Pierce and 4 from Grays Harbor county. All the checkers were paid at the rate of $3.46 per day, or $90.00 a month, and put in the full eight hours a day. The women received the same salaries as the men for equal work. The foreman received a salary of $125 a month or 14.81 a day and the timekeeper was paid $100 a month, or $3.85 per day.

Port Angeles' population has doubled within a year. Its impossible to keep a good town down.—Seattle Times.

CUT OF ONE-HALF IN STATE LEVY FOR GENERAL FUND

That there is a cut of more than one-half in the state tax levy for the general fund this year as compared with the levy for 1914, is shown by figures prepared by the state bureau of inspection. The figures show that the total state tax levy for 1915 is 6.07 mills, while in 1914 the levy was 8.07 mills, showing a decrease of 1.20 mills in the total levy. In the general fund the reduction is from 2.45 mills the levy last year, to 1.20 mills this year. This great reduction is attributed by the state bureau of inspection to the fact that the 1915 legislaure cut down the appropriations in the general fund by about $9.0,000, and made a cut in the total budget of practically $1,500,000. The assessed valuation of 1914 is used as the basis for both the 1914 and 1915 levies. In the state school fund levy there is an increase of .04 mills, caused by an increase in population, while in the military fund levy there is an increase of .01 mill.

ERICKSON SAW MILL TAKEN TO SEQUIM

The saw mill built some time ago on Oak Bay by the Erickson Construction company will be moved to Sequim, where it will be operated. It is understood a force of men will be sent from here today to begin the work of taking down the machinery and placing it on scows for transportation. It is said the removal of the mill has no connection with railroad construction, as it will be operated by private parties who have timber near Sequim which they desire to convert into lumber, says the Townsend Leader.

The mill was built for the purpose of cutting timbers for the railroad line under construction by Mr. Erickson for the Milwaukee system.

Statistics from Washington indicate a falling off of $20,000,000 in federal revenues from liquor during the present fiscal year.

TEN FOREST DON'TS

With the dry season at hand, and danger of forest fires always present, it is worth while to call attention to ten "Don'ts" which have been prepared by the federal forestry bureau. They are:

1. Don't throw your match away until you are sure it is out.
2. Don't drop cigarette or cigar butts until the glow is extinguished.
3. Don't knock out pipe ashes while hot or where they will fall into dry leaves or other inflammable material.
4. Don't build a campfire any larger than is necessary.
5. Don't build a fire against a tree, a log, or a stump, or anywhere but on bare soil.
6. Don't leave a fire until you are sure it is out; if necessary smother it with earth or water.
7. Don't burn brush or refuse in or near the woods if there is any chance that the fire may spread beyond your control, or that the wind would carry the sparks where they would start a new fire.
8. Don't be any more careless with fire in the woods than you are with fire in your own home.
9. Don't be idle when you discover a fire in the woods; if you can't put it out yourself, get help. Where a forest guard, ranger, or state fire warden can be reached, call him up on the nearest telephone you can find.
10. Don't forget that human thoughtlessness and negligence are the causes of more than half of the forest fires in this country, and that the smallest spark may start a conflagration that will result in loss of life and destruction of timber and young growth valuable not only for lumber but for their influence in helping to prevent flood, erosion and drought.

SIOUX MADE TRIAL RUN THRU PORTAGE CANAL

Yesterday afternoon the Sioux, on her way to Seattle from this city made the trip by way of the Portage canal for the first time. The steamer was about ten minutes late in leaving here, and the run was made in an endeavor to see if the time could be bettered by that route, as the canal cuts off about a half-mile between this city and Seattle. It is claimed that the lost time was made up, although it is difficult to see how, under the tidal conditions, any advantage could be gained. It is declared that the Sioux will continue to use the regular route around Marrowstone Point.—Townsend Leader.

The U. S. S. Albatros, the famous fishing cruiser which has been used to such good advantage in unraveling knotty problems regarding the habits of the salmon and other food fish of the Pacific, arrived in port Saturday evening from San Francisco, having taken five days to the trip, making soundings on the way up. She left again Sunday morning to take coal at Nanaimo before proceeding to Bremerton. It it expected that the Albatros will be in port often during the summer while endeavoring to locate new fishing grounds along the coast.

A letter addressed to the Times Clothing Mart, a former business house, owned by R. A. Muskett, asking that a package of needles be sent to Mrs. A. A. Wright, 3213 Independence Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri, has been received by Mr. Muskett. The correspondent stated that she could not find a needle like the one's she bought in Angeles several years ago. Now isn't it funny how a woman will remember such a little thing as a special brand of needles for three years, when most women forget how to vote. The seven cents enclosed in the envelope will be returned to her. No such needles can be found in Angeles now.

Representative Babcock suggests that it would be well to remind automobile drivers that there is a state law requiring one to observe the rules of the road, keeping to the right at all times save when passing another vehicle. A number of drivers in town are getting very careless, particularly when turning down First and Front streets from Lincoln, and it will only be a matter of time before there is a bad collision.

The new postoffice, Reeveton, east of Port Angeles, is open and ready for business. Mail will leave and arrive on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

of the lake on Saturday afternoon, which will be the crowning outdoor entertainment. A picnic lunch will be served aboard the ferry Storm King, with Mrs. H. L. Mitchell, Mrs. A. J. Singer, Mrs. Emily Ovington and Mrs. Rose Littleton as hostesses. It is planned to have the Storm King leave East Beach by 1 o'clock, proceeding directly to Fairholm, then on the return trip calling at all the principal resorts and hotels on the lake.

Announcement is made by Forest Supervisor R. L. Fromme, with headquarters at Olympia, of the receipt of an allotment of $400 from the National Forest 10% Fund, which is to be used for the construction of a standard truss trail bridge across the north fork Skokomish river at a point about one and three-fourths miles above the Devil's Staircase or six and three-fourths miles above Lake Cushman. This is the first allotment which the Olympic Peninsula has realized from the special 10% Fund, which fund is created by the return to the state, through a special act of Congress of 10 per cent of all National Forest receipts from timber sales, grazing, special use permits, etc., for use in the construction of roads, trails, and bridges required particularly for the use of settlers or prospectors in the outlying districts within National Forest boundaries.

The need for a bridge at the point mentioned has been apparent for a number of years, but has been especially acute of late, due particularly to the mining interests in manganese, copper and gold ore which has become recently so prominent.

The work of reforesting the Big Burn along the Sol Duc west of Lake Crescent is to be prosecuted on a more elaborate scale than ever this year by a crew of men in charge of Supervisor Morganroth. The area, which is about six miles in length, includes a narrow strip along the valley and all the north side, the fire having been so severe that the very soil is burned to brick and none of the old trees were left to fulfill nature's destiny of reforestation. Seed will be sown and young fir trees planted from the forest service nursery.

The largest fleet of purse seiners in the history of the salmon industry will operate out of Neah Bay this year, catching the fish upon their entrance to the straits and to a considerable extent crippling the trap business. Power fishing boats en route to the cape are already daily visitors, stopping in for the night and to take on supplies.

That unless a child is in some institution an allowance of public money cannot be made for its support, is the ruling made by the attorney general's office. The opinion was given to the prosecuting attorney of Whatcom county by Howard Waterman, assistant attorney general. The mother of a child who had been deserted by the husband and father sought to obtain an allowance for her child, but under the filing of the attorney general's office the county could give aid only by enforcing the lazy husband law.
