WORK BEGUN ON $95,000 EAST END STREET CONTRACT

ANOTHER BUSINESS BUILDING

There was another large and interested audience at the council session Tuesday night, despite the fact that there were no special big projects under consideration. Routine characterized the session practically throughout, the exception being the ordering of the improvement of I street from the mill to 16th street. This matter came before the council in the shape of an ordinance, which was read twice and referred. The work contemplated is to open a street from the flat to the hill above, following the depression in the bluff at I street to cut the cost to a minimum. The opening of I street will doubtless populate a new district south of the mill and west of the city.

The bond of Del Guzzo and Coit, the contractors for the east end improvement work, in the sum of $47,000 was read and approved. A resolution was also approved for the acceptance of the assignment of this contract to Messrs. Lindasy & Redden, it being stated that they had gone good on the bond and had therefore had the contract transferred to themselves for protection. They will now have to give a bond for like amount in lieu of this one.

Assessment roll for Front street sewer was presented and made a special order for consideration Wednesday, at 4 p. m.

Lewis Levy was given privilege of dumping 400 cubic yards of dirt over the end of Peabody street bluff. The dirt will be taken from an excavation for a new building at First and Peabody streets for a new business block.

Final estimate of work done by Harry Cotton on Districts 31 and 32, sewers in alleys between Second and Fourth streets, and east of Lincoln were approved as follows: District 31, total cost $869.20; assessment $1213.70. District 32, cost $1,435.64; assessment $1895.64.

A permit was granted Lewis Levy for a new business block at First and Peabody streets, 32x48, two stories to cost $2000.

W. T. Morgan will build as per permit at 12th and Oak, a building 16x34, to cost $300.

C. C. Henry asked for and was granted a permit to build at Second and Peabody, 23x32, one story, to cost $950.

A permit was granted W. A. Rogers to build at 10th, between A and B, at a cost of $400.

A sewer and drain license was granted H. A. Cotton, upon request and filing of $5 fee.

A petition for a sidewalk on Fifth street between Oak and Laurel, south side, was granted, and city attorney directed to bring in resolution of intention.

A transcript of a judgment rendered against the city in the case of Fay L. McKinney vs. Lewis, Wiley & Morse and City of Port Angeles was read to council and payment recommended by Attorney Smith, who held that settlement of the case was

OPENING OF GEORGIAN CIRCUIT LARGELY ATTENDED

AS SEEN BY OUR NEIGHBORS

(Victoria Daily Colonist)

Five hundred and seventy-eight Victorians attended the formal inaugural ceremonies of the "Georgian Circuit" at Port Angeles Saturday afternoon. The trip was made on the C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide. Several hundred Port Angeles citizens, headed by Mayor White and a committee from the Commercial Club gave their guests a hearty welcome at the landing. The throng then proceeded to the scene of the dedication ceremonies, a short distance out of the city on the Olympic highway section of the Circuit. The occasion was notable on account of the importance of the highway system, and on account of the gathering of good roads workers from the various sections of the Pacific Northwest. A local interest lay in the further development of the already warm fraternal feeling between this city and Port Angeles.

The "Georgian Circuit" is a 500-mile scenic and utilitarian highway. It is an important step in an international good roads movement which has been conceived and fostered by a few farsighted, public-spirited citizens of the Victoria-Vancouver-Seattle triangle. To these men, several of whom were at the ceremonies, the present circuit is but the first triumph towards a larger and more comprehensive plan.

Dr. Craig, president of the Port Angeles Commercial Club, introduced Mayor White, who formally welcomed the city's guests with a few words appreciative of the importance of the occasion, and emphasizing the fact of his city being thoroughly alive to its responsibility in the enterprse.

The Hon. Dr. Young, for the Provincal Government; Mayor Stewart, for Victoria; Mr. Herbert Cuthbert, secretary of the Victoria and Island Development Association; Mr. Joseph Blethen, president of the Seattle Automobile Association; Mrs. A. E. Todd, president of the Island Automobile Association; Mr. T. S. Lane, president of the Inland Automobile Association of Spokane, Wash., and Mr. Roy, the Commissioner of Highways of the State of Washington, addressed the meeting.

Mr. Blethen recalled the inception of the better roads movement in the state of Washington, and the untiring effort that had been necessary to get results of a practical nature. The various speakers emphasized the importance of good roads in giving publicity to the exceptional advantages offered by the Pacific Coast country. It was pointed out that the publicity and advertising campaigns that have already been inaugurated in connection with the Circuit are productive of results, and that every motorist that has been induced to tour the highway has gone away a convert who will recommend the tour to others.

Dr. Young, in congratulating the people of Port Angeles upon the opening of what he was sure would prove to be one of the greatest factors in the future prosperity of the port, declared he had always been an apostle of the good roads movement.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF COMMERCIAL CLUB DIRECTORS

At the reguiar meeting of the Board of Directors to be held next Monday afternoon, August 23, arrangements will be made for the annual election of fifteen directors of the Port Angeles Commercial Club, this election, according to the by-laws, to be held on Monday, September 6. This date being Labor Day, it is not likely that the Board may decide to hold the election on Tuesday, September 7. The Club has been unusually active during the summer and has much work mapped out for the immediate future, so there is apt to be keen interest in the election for places on the Board. Within a week after election the Directors elect officers, of whom the president and vice-president must be members of the Board. All members who have paid their dues up to within a month of the date of election are entitled to vote.

THE FOOL AND OUR FOREST DOLLARS

By E. T. Allen

Goodbye to the fool with the empty gun;
Forgotten his bid for fame.
Though he kills his friend, it only counts one,
And that, nowadays, is tame.

The fool who playfully rocks the boat
He may rank high with the fools afloat,
But his glory is gone ashore.

There's the fool with women, the fool with wine,
And the fool who games with strangers,
And the joy-ride fool (he does well in his line
By combining these ancient dangers.)

But they're all still down in the primer class,
Mere novices taking a flyer,
Compared with the prize-taking criminal ass,
The fool in the woods with fire.

A few hearts break for the deeds they've done
In their pitiful amateur way,
But fire slays dozens where they slay one,
And scourges a state in a day.

For the ruined home and the smokeless stack,
And the worker unemployed—
Know a hundred years shall never bring back
The things that his match destroyed.

"HIGH RATE CONFISCATING PROPERTY"

"Thousands cannot pay taxes! High rate confiscating property! Exorbitant county expenses result of extravagance!"

Such are the scare headlines, extending clear across the first page, with which the Herald, true to the purpose for which it was started and in continuance of its established policy, has again launched a campaign of misrepresentation and abuse.

At a time when the citizens of both city and county are spending all the money they can spare and are putting forth every effort to create a favorable impression abroad—at a time when all are endeavoring to build up the county and advance its interests — such misrepresentation comes as a distinct slap in the face.

Not realizing that the editor of the Herald lacks even a cursory knowledge of local conditions, nor knowing that the paper's subscription list is limited to three or four hundred and that its standing in the community is nil, the chance reader, interested in Port Angeles as a prospective home or in the county as a likely field for investment, would have no choice but to believe, and believing would certainly look elsewhere.

Was ever community more cursed?

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

The Herald states that "Treasurer Wood is authority for the statement that there are several thousand whose taxes are delinquent, the total amount being $190,277.74."

Not taking the trouble to go to the court house, the editor of the Herald got the above by phone. Those were the only inquiries he made, and naturally that was the only information he received. As a "casual investigator," to quote his own language, he certainly is a scream.

A very "casual investigation," indeed, would have resulted in bringing to light the fact that the Lacy timber interests are "delinquent" about $55,000 on this year's taxes; that the P. S. M. & T. Co. owes the county about $20,000 more, and, in fact, that over half the $190,277.74 due is on property held by the larger interests. For this is the fact and the Herald's statement that "But a small part is on property held by larger interests" is a lie.

The Herald, placing the county's population at 10,000, infers there are about 3,000 families. As "several thousand people" owe taxes he believes the "per capita of the county is directly and seriously affected; that the delinquents constitute a considerable portion of 'per capita."

The facts are, to quote Treasurer Wood: "The little fellows are practically all paid up. There are practically no home owners delinquent. Practically all are either large holders of speculative property or foreign owners, most of whom will pay before the close of the year.' That the per capita of the county is not "seriously affected" is the fact; the Herald's statement is the lie.

The $190,000 not thus far paid includes $57,506.98 in second half payments which are not due until the 1st of December. It is not to be inferred that those people who took advantage of the law to pay the first half of their tax have not the money with which to pay the second half. It is to be inferred that they preferred to put that six months' interest in their own pockets, rather than present it to the county.

The total tax to be raised this year is $423,071.45. That $190,000 should be still unpaid is not half bad. With a portion of it in litigation, about $75,000 due from only two of the larger holders, and over $57,000 not due before December, there remains only $58,000 due the county from "several thousand holders" and over a third of the year to go on. Where is the community that can make a better showing in these times of money scarcity?

THOSE EXORBITANT EXPENDITURES

What are these "confiscatory rates of taxation" which we are paying for the building and maintenance of one of the finest road systems in the state?

Within the city, where almost fifty per cent of the inhabitants of the county live, we pay two mills road tax—less than two cents of each dollar paid goes onto the county roads. Would it be out of place to ask the editor of the Herald how much HE is paying toward the building and maintenance of the

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION SEPTEMBER 4TH AND 5TH

The Clallam County Sunday School Association will hold its annual convention Saturday and Sunday, September 4th and 5th. Some of the best Sunday School experts of the state will be here, including Mr. Walter C. Moore, general secretary of the Western Washington Sunday School Association; Mrs. Frieda Davidson, Elementary Superintendent of the King County Association; and Mr. J. H. Matthews, Superintendent of the Pastor's Department for Western Washington. Several local committees are at work preparing for the occasion and the success of the convention is assured. Delegates from out of town will be entertained at the homes of local people. A large chorus and orchestra are now working on music for the occasion; and every effort will be used to make this one of the best conventions ever held in this part of the country.

A mass meeting for the Port Angeles Taxpaying Labor will be held at the Band Hall on First street, at 7:30 Saturday evening. Merchants cordially invited.

ABANDONMENT OF ROAD PROGRAM NOT CONSIDERED

WOULD RETARD DEVELOPMENT

An article published in last week's issue of the Herald, asserting that the valuation of property will be materially cut down by the Board this year, and that the tax levy will be reduced with the result that less road work will be undertaken, has caused considerable comment, both because of its obvious misstatements and because of the fact that the abandonment of the county's road program would work a decided hardship not only on the ranchers of the dairying districts but would materially retard the settlement and development of the county. Chairman Hansen of the Board, in reply to the Herald, points out the general unfairness of the article:

Port Angeles, Aug. 17, 1915.

Editor the Herald.

Dear Sir:—I have been called upon several times the last few days to explain a few items which appeared in the Herald of August 11th, in an article headlined

COMMISSIONERS REDUCE TAX LEVY COMING YEAR

I do not know wherefrom you received your information, but being one of the parties upon whom falls the duty of making the road tax levy I can frankly say that up to this time the question of reducing the same has not been considered. Whoever informed you was mistaken.

To make myself perfectly clear to you and anyone else who may be interested either for less or higher road tax I wish to say that I am not in favor of reducing any of the road levies.

I do not know of any progressive farmer who objects to the road tax he is at present paying. There are a few individual farmers who complain for the reason that they pay road taxes and still get no road, but those farmers are so located that no ordinary sum of money will be sufficient to build roads to their localities. I may mention the Hoko, Ozette and Dicky River country as an example.

Poor roads are the highest taxes a farmer pays. It he can market his product any time during the year he becomes the merchant of his own produce and naturally receives the highest prices the market affords. To illustrate, I will mention one experience during the time I was engaged in the grocery business. There was a scarcity of hay during the month of December. I offered Alex Clark, a farmer living west of the Elwha river, $30.00 a ton for forty tons of hay that he had for sale. Mr. Clark was satisfied with the price but he could not make delivery on account of bad roads. Later in the season I paid him $20 a ton for his hay. That year he was actually taxed to the extent of $400.00 by poor roads. He has a good road now but does not object to a continuation of his regular road tax.

FIVE SPECIALISTS TO BE PRESENT AT THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Arrangements for the Clallam County Farmers' Institute have been completed by the Port Angeles Commercial Club. The Institute will be held in the Port Angeles Opera House on Tuesday, August 31, beginning at 10 a. m. and closing with motion-picture demonstrations of the work at the state agricultural college in the evening. Director James A. Torney of the Extension Department of the State College of Washington, Pullman, will personally conduct the institute, assisted by four of the professors of the College.

The program offers promise of immense value, as it includes practically all the larger phases of farm management and development most important to this county, as well as two periods devoted to home economics, which will appeal as strongly to the women of the city as to those of the farm homes. The program follows:

FARMERS' INSTITUTE PROGRAM
Tuesday, August 31, 1915.

10:00 a.m. "Care of Farm Animals" by James N. Price, dairy and livestolk specialist. This will be in the nature of an open discussion of local livestock problems.

SHOULD THE ROAD TAX LEVY BE REDUCED ?

"Shall the people of Clallam county, for the benefit and at the demand of the owners of timber, logged-off land and wild-cat town property, return to the old-time policy of non-development?" Such is the question again raised, in disguised form, by the Herald, owned by and representative of speculative interests of city and county.

For many years, until the direct primary put the control of government in the hands of the people themselves, the county government with its assessing and taxing machinery was in the hands of the timbermen and their allies. Practically no permanent road work was undertaken. Repairs consisted mainly in filling mudholes with corduroy or gravel, the latter usually resulting in the making of two mudholes for every one which existed before.

Increased valuations on timber lands and an increase in the levy made possible the building of permanent roads with minimum grades and high bridges. It also made possible systematic road maintenance. The increased expense has been very considerable to the owners of large areas of timber and logged-off lands; it has been very slight to the small home owner—the average citizen.

Without roads this county would have continued indefinitely in the backwoods class, the while other counties on the Sound were becoming more thickly settled by the small rancher and correspondingly more prosperous.

Were timber to be continuously assessed on the old basis of claimed inaccessibility, it would have remained inaccessible for many years to come. That timber would remain uncut the longest which cost its owner the least in taxes. The increased valuation of Clallam county timber coupled with the determination to build roads for the farmers while the timber was still standing and could be made to pay its fair share, was the greatest factor in influencing the construction of our present railroad. It will be the greatest factor in securing the extension of that railroad and the building of lumber and shingle mills.

With low assessments and low taxes on logged-off lands we may expect the speculators to continue to hold large areas at prices ridiculous in view of improvement and accessibility and prohibitive to the small settler. With a reasonable assessment in proportion to claimed value and valuations placed upon other property, logged-off lands will not prove more attractive than other forms of investment and we may expect the transfer of large areas to hundreds of small holders who will establish dairy farms. The truth of this is already being demonstrated in one instance in this county and it will be followed by others as soon as this class of property is made to pay its full share of county improvement and maintenance.

For the county to discontinue its road improvement policy, now that the main trunk lines have been built, would be to break faith with every small rancher. These people have contributed their share toward the building of the main roads, the while their side roads have gone to pot for lack of maintenance. It has been reasoned that it was a waste of money to longer keep up their poorly laid out roads, with their steep grades, lack of drainage, and alternating corduroy, rocky ruts, mudholes, roots, and all the other ills that pioneer roads which have long outlived their day of usefulness are heir to. New roads on new surveys could be built for less than would be required to put the old ones in fair repair, and the rancher would then have something to show for his money. Examples of this are to be seen in the new work on the Mt. Pleasant road and in the new Pine Hill road, both serving dairying districts.

It was reasoned that the rancher on the side road could afford to put up with his string of mudholes for a year, or two or three, if when he got onto the main road he could have the advantage of a hard surface both winter and summer. Not all these roads could be built in any one year, and in District No. 2, the principal one, that to the big Eden-Port Crescent dairying district, naturally came first. The others will follow, to the immediate and lasting benefit of the people of Port Angeles as well as the ranchers, if the county road program be continued for two or three years longer.

In the east end district, largely thru the demands of the big ranchers who are living on main traveled roads, macadamized highways, if you please, highways built largely at the expense of the small rancher, the road tax was greatly reduced last year with the result that little could be done beyond maintaining present roads. The small rancher has been betrayed, sold out as it were, and the development of his portion of the county materially retarded.

In the west end districts, where a similar cut was made, a big howl has gone up because of a shortage of money, and every reason has been assigned but the right one, viz: Road work cannot be done without money, and the possible revenue for road building was cut in two upon the demand of the timber men. People are now making road repairs upon an agreement to wait until next year for their pay.

For a quarter of a century road work has been neglected to the advantage of a wealthy non-resident land owner, and the disadvantage of the struggling pioneer. Three years ago we entered upon a new policy, that of running the county with some little regard for the people who live in the county, and that policy must be maintained until the neglect of the past has been remedied.

As an example of "letting George do it," England, with its 35 miles on the allied battle front of 875 miles, is a shining mark. When the armies of the continent are exterminated England will come pretty near ruling Europe as well as the waves.

Mrs. W .S. Clark of the Sunset Studio, 327 First street, has presented to the Commercial Club a framed set of artistic photos of Clallam county scenes, beautifully done, which bear out Mrs. Clark's Idaho reputation as an artist of unusual skill both with the camera and brush. both with the camera and brush. The gift, which includes a fine, deep frame of slash-grain fir, done by W. S. Clark of the Port Angeles Furniture factory, occupies the place of honor over the secretary's desk and is easily the most attractive ornament in the club room, saving Old Glory.

Before advocating abandonment of the county's road building program—a hard surfaced, low grade road to every dairying district in the county—would it not be well for the Herald to figure out the annual cost to the individual taxpayer, say to the man who has twenty or forty acres under cultivation, or to him who owns an average home in town? The people are tired of the big land holders' generalities. Get down to cases—what is the annual cost of good roads to the poor man?

The state board of control will open bids August 31 for the construction of the proposed new administration building for the State School for Girls at Grand Mound, Thurston county. The estimated cost of the structure is $45,000. The board has an appropriation of $60,000 available for the building and equipment.

The board will open bids September 15 for supplying state institutions with all supplies needed for a half year.

Mr. Morganroth returned the first of the week from a trip of inspection of the upper Hoh country where he secured some fine views of the immense fir trees growing near the Mt. Olympus ranger station, some forty miles above the mouth of the river. One of them measured over eleven feet across. It is estimated that portions of the stand will go from 300,000 to 350,000 feet.

Trade at home! Why not commence with the produce grown by the ranchers? California cabbage and lettuce and onions and Yakima potatoes are really no better than the Clallam county product; why pay more for a foreign name? We cannot hope to develop our agricultural interests unless we buy our agricultural products.

The tide has turned and outside money is now coming into the state for dairying products. With the development of our county through good roads and consequent settlement of logged-off lands, Clallam should become the leading dairy county in the state. The business is profitable and the market unlimited.

It is said an Iowa man shot himself the other day because he could not collect money that was due him. If the average editor followed that example he would look like a colander.

With only eleven days of really warm weather it would appear that summer has sidestepped from the processions of the seasons.

An enforcement of the state weed law would result in a sufficient income to pay off the entire county and city indebtedness.

GOVERNOR WOULD WIPE OUT BONDED DEBT OF STATE

Olympia, Aug. 18—Before leaving for California and his trip east to the National Governors' convention, Governor Lister proposed a plan for the complete wiping out of the state's debt, which may materialize in a recommendation to the next legislature. The state now has an exceedingly small bonded indebtedness, but it would be good business and place the state in a unique and enviable position, thinks the governor, to get rid of what little there is by utilizing moneys of the state now idle.

The state's indebtedness consists of a balance outstanding of $75,000 on the Wenatchee bridge bonds, bearing 4 per cent interest, and a balance of $206,024 outstanding on the normal school bonds, bearing 3 per cent interest. To take these up by general fund money now idle and bringing only 2 per cent interest in the banks would save large amounts annually in interest and let the state set an example for thrift to all other taxing districts of the state—city, county and school—and allow it to go before the world as a state absolutely free of bonded indebtedness.

Governor Lister has issued his annual proclamation fixing Labor Day as the first Monday in September, September 6, and calling on the people of the state for its general observance.

"It is eminently fitting," says the proclamation, "that on this day special recognition should be accorded to Labor and all it represents, by serious consideration of its problems and accomplishments, and also thru social diversion.

"I cordially recommend that all citizens of the state join in general observance of the day, in keeping with the spirit and importance of the Labor Movement."

The state department of agriculture, Dr. H. T. Graves, acting commissioner, will cooperate with the United States department of agriculture, bureau of animal husbandry, in establishing accredited herds of pure bred cattle throughout Washington. A. D. Melvin, chief of the U. S. Bureau, has arranged to examine for tuberculosis the herd of any owner of pure bred stock who so desires. A clean bill of health will be given by state and government wherever no disease is found or where disease found is eliminated, and such herds will be known as accredited herds.

A complete list of accredited herds in Washington and other states will be kept on file for the information of the breeders or the public, new lists being published at regular intervals after the periodical tests. The idea is to facilitate purchase of healthy cattle.

"A breeder in future will not have to take the word of a person in another state or this state that when he is purchasing cattle he is doing so from a healthy herd, and he will not have to guess at it. He simply will consult the accredited list," says Dr. Graves.

Despite the fact that the last legislature refused to amend the concentrated stock food act so that it would stand the test of the court, which had pronounced it discriminatory, J. J. Higgins, assistant commissioner of agriculture, will be able to enforce an adequate set of rules for the protection of persons buying and using stock foods.

The assistant commissioner has taken, under a favorable ruling of the attorney general, two sections of the general pure food act of the state, reinforced by a section of the code supplementary to the act knocked out by the courts but not included in that decision, and with these as a basis has formulated rules which will prevent the misbranding or adulteration of stock foods. This set of regulations, based on valid laws, undoubtedly will stand the test of the courts if attacked.

State Highway Commissioner William R. Roy and the highway board have let another batch of road contracts, as follows:

Inland Empire highway—Five miles of grading and draining in Stevens county from Colville south; to E. D. Miner of Sandpoint, Idaho, for $11,560.31.

Olympic highway—Bridge over the Skokomish river in Mason county, structure to be of riveted steel, 95 feet long; to Yelverton & Wolf of Olympia, for $11,253.31.

McClellan Pass highway—Fourteen miles of grading and draining in Yakima county from Naches to Summit; to Rajotte, Fobert & Winters of Olympia, for $27,536.

State Highway Commissioner Roy reports the following road contracts completed and accepted by the state:

Surfacing on Pacific highway—Woodland to LaCenter, about two and one-quarter miles in Clarke county; Porter & Conley contractors; cost to state $8,536.28.

Grading and draining on Pacific highway—Kalama north in Cowlitz county, about one and one-half miles; Hendricks & Ward contractors; cost to state, $8,075.14.

Grain inspector R. D. Jarboe of the public service commission, with headquarters at Tacoma, estimates the grain crop of Washington this year at 45,000,000 bushels, a trifle more conservative than the government estimate of 50,000,000 bushels.

"Even at this conservative estimate," says Inspector Jarboe, "the Washington crop this year will be the biggest in the history of the state and 10,000,000 bushels in excess of the 1914 crop. I don't think there is more production per acre this year, although it will probably be as great as any in the state's history, but the big crop is due to more acreage being in wheat.

"Smut this year is not near as bad in localities accustomed to it, but it seems to be distributed over a greater area than is usual, according to reports we are getting."

THREE MORE CASES BERI-BERI ON PLAGUE SHIP

Three more cases of beri-beri developed yesterday among the people landed at Diamond Point Saturday from the Peruvian bark Alliance. On visiting the station yesterday, Dr. Seavey found that the cook had contracte the disease. The man was immediately brought here and placed in the marine hospital, with the seven members of the crew who arrived at the hospital Saturday, says the Port ownsend Leader.

Mrs. Paragon, wife of the master of the plague ship, and her 10-year-old daughter, after being examined, bore every indication of having developed the disease, while the other children showed no signs of being afflicted. As women are not admitted as patients to the government hospital, Dr. Seavey allowed them to remain at the station until arrangements could be made for their care at St. John's hospital.

The disease is not considered dangerous when proper medical attention can be given in the early stages, so it is probable that all of the latest victims will recover rapidly. The second mate, who arrived here Saturday night, in the advanced stage of the disease, is improving and will probably recover. His condition was considered critical Saturday. The other members of the crew are also considered out of any danger.

When the vessel sailed from Callao her officers and crew numbered seventeen. The first man died of the disease at Payta, when the craft called at that port shortly after leaving Callao. The man had been on the vessel for several months and but little attention was paid to his death. After leaving Payta others were taken ill and then the seriousness of the situation was first realized. Four burials occurred at sea, and before the Alliance reached Cape Flattery the entire forecastle crew was stricken, leaving the captain, mate, cook and cabin boy to handle the vessel.

One of the members of the crew who was able to talk stated that the vessel was poorly provisioned, and that during the entire voyage the men were fed on an inferior quality of rice and hard tack which was alive with weevils, supplying the only fresh meat had by the crew during the voyage. They were allowed coffee twice a day. The water is also declared to have been impure and not fit to drink. As soon as sickness made its appearance the drinking water was boiled.

All day Sunday the employes at the quarantine station were kept busy cleaning the vessel, and yesterday the work of fumigation was carried on. It will be finishtd eoday when the ship will be towed to Vancouver eo discharge the 15,000 sacks of sugar.

PORT ANGELES MARINE BAND

This admirable musical organization was formed in 1909, since which time more than $5,000 has been spent on its equipment and development. It is regarded at home as the most public-spirited institution in Clallam county, and it enjoys a statewide reputation an an amateur band of the highest order.

The band last month received a complete outfit of new uniforms and has just been supplied with new band instruments aggregating some $400 in value, including one Helicohn bass horn, two French alto horns, a piccalo, a clarionet and a U. S. Army snare drum (12-inch face and 17 inches deep. This property has all been paid for out of funds accruing from the band's own work and enterprise, a number of the most talented musicians of the organization having declined to accept a cent for any service rendered with the band, year after year turning their shares of the band's earnings back into the band treasury.

FULMERS' A MODERN UNDERTAKING ESTABLISHMENT

We were interested visitors at the Fulmer Undertaking parlors a few days ago—interested in the building and its equipment, and in the many phases of a business about which there have been so many rumors concerning the high prices of the modern funeral. We were curious to know about these things, and also about what a modern funeral cost, and the kind of caskets most used. Contrary to the popular opinion we found that funeral expenses are less (for the same grade of goods) now than they were ten years ago. Increased factory facilities have brought about a reduction in the prices of caskets, and the use of automobiles and the auto hearse have brought about a saving in money and time.

Changed styles and custom are strikingly shown by a visit to Mr. Fulmer's stock room. A few years ago black caskets were used almost exclusively. Now we found, besides a good assortment of black caskets, white, brown, various shades of gray, ashes of roses, and purple besides those in polished oak. The old "Coffin" is seldom used, while couches and half-couches predominate. Of course prices vary. We saw caskets that are sold, complete, for fifteen dollars. Good cloth covered caskets were as low as twenty-five dollars. Then there were higher priced caskets for those who want them, but Mr. Fulmer said that there were more funerals where the total expense was less than $100 than there are where the expense is above that sum.

Embalming is almost universal, and we learned that the price for that very difficult and dangerous work is based entirely upon the amount of work done and the materials used. The minimum charge for such work is five dollars, and the average price about fifteen dollars.

We had heard that traveling men visiting the undertaking establishment had pronounced it the best in the state for the size of the town. And after a thorough inspection of the building one is not surprised at such a statement. Everything is up-to-date, modern and sanitary, from the morgues to the chapel. A hundred people can be comfortably cared for during a funeral service and no charge is made for the use of the chapel or for Mr. Fulmer's service, who is an ordained minister, if he conducts the funeral.

Thoughtful care has been taken in providing a comfortable rest room for the convenience and privacy of those who sorrow. From a complete and carefully selected stock of funeral suits and dresses one may select what he desires at very reasonable prices.

Mr. Fulmer is fortunate in having associated with him for the past two years, Harry D. Cox, who is a first class embalmer and funeral director. He and his family occupy rooms in the building at 115 W. Fourth street, so there is always some one in attendance, day or night.

A branch establishment with an adequate stock of caskets and funeral goods is also conducted by Mr. Fulmer at Sequim.

T. F. Trumbull left Thursday for Portland to attend the meeting of the Bar Association in that city.

Olympic Highway, or towards the dairy farmers' branch roads?

The average dairy farm, at the average assessment, paying an average tx, including the verage road tax of all districts outside the city, contributes 21 cents on each dollar of tax paid or about $7 per year toward the cost of new roads and upkeep. Can it be that $7 per year is confiscatory when applied to a dairy farm?

Willis Chambers, with 160 acres paying a tax of $72 and Frank Long with 80 acres paying $36, may be taken as well known and fair examples. One lives about ten miles east of town, the other the same distance west, in the heart of the famously fertile Eden Valley country. Only a short time ago both of these ranchers had to travel over roads which were all but impassable in the winter and across gulches from two to three hundred feet deep. Now they have modern bridges with approaches up which autos glide on the high gear, and their roads are even better in the winter than in the summer. Applying the average rate of 21 cents one pays about $15 and the other $7.50 per year toward the building and upkeep of the bridges and roads of the county. Is it worth it to them?

C. A. Spinney of Seattle, the man who, in company with the Kupplers, raised about eighty per cent of Port Angeles' business buildings twelve feet in the air, dropped in this week for a short visit with his friends and was immediately impressed on the "lateral sewers" job with they have had considerable trouble. Spinney says he can only put in a part of his time here but he thinks there will be no difficulty from this time on. He says he never knew a dago yet who was more than two thirds as good as a white man at the same rate of pay and with all white labor the sewers can be quickly completed.

THE COMRADE IN WHITE

In the stories of wars in days gone by there are many tales of mystic happenings. We read of strange sights seen in the heavens, of fleeting visions on battlefields, of mystic voices speaking words of despair or encouragement. They provoke a smile, and we explain them by saying that they are myths, which succeeding generations have woven around the true story of events. Whatever the tale of the "Comrade in White" may be, it is not a legend evolved long after the incidents with which it is associated. We read of it in Life and Work, the magazine of the Church of Scotland.

The writer, who does not give his name, says he talked in a hospital with George Casey, who asked if he had seen the Friend of the Wounded.

And then he told me all he knew. After many a hot engagement a man in white had been seen bending over the wounded. Snipers sniped at him. Shells fell all around. Nothing had power to touch him. He was either heroic beyond all heroes, or he was something greater still. This mysterious one, whom the French called the Comrade in White, seemed to be everywhere at once. At Nancy, in the Argonne, at Soissons and Ypres, everywhere men are talking of him with hushed voices.

The story goes on to tell how Casey was wounded and fell into a hole of some sort, where he lay until after nightfall. To his surprise he heard footsteps approaching, firm, vigorous steps, and in a moment he caught the gleam of a white robed figure. He was amazed at first, but suddenly he guessed it was the "Comrade in White." At that moment the Germans began to shoot. The figure drew itself up and extended its arms in the form of a cross. Then, to use Casey's words, "he stooped and gathered me into his arms—me, the biggest man in the regiment—and carried me as if I had been a child." We will let Casey tell the rest:

I must have fainted again, for I woke to consciousness in a little cave by a stream, and the Comrade in White was washing my wounds and binding them up. It seems foolish to say it, for I was in terrible pain, but I was happier at that moment than ever I remember to have been in all my life before. I can't explain it, but it seemed as if all my days had been waiting for this without knowing it. As long as that hand touched me and those eyes pitied me, I did not seem to care any more about sickness or health, about life or death. And while he swiftly removed every trace of blood and mire I felt as if my whole nature were being washed, as if all the grime and soil of sin were going, and as if I were once more a little child.

I suppose I slept, for when I awoke this feeling was gone. I was a man and I wanted to know what I could do for my friend to help him or to serve him. He was looking toward the stream and his hands were clasped in prayer; and then I saw that he too had been wounded. I could see as it were a shot wound in his hand, and as he prayed a drop of blood gathered and fell to the ground. I cried out. I could not help it, for that wound of his seemed to be a more awful thing than any that bitter war had shown me.

"You are wounded, too" I said, faintly. Perhaps he heard me, perhaps it was the look on my face, but he answered gently, "This is an old wound, but it has troubled me of late." And then I noticed sorrowfully that the same cruel mark was on his feet. You will wonder that I did not know sooner. I wonder myself. But it was only when I saw His feet that I knew Him.

"The Living Christ"—I had heard the chaplain say it a few weeks before, but I knew that He had come to me—to me who had put him out of my life in the hot fever of my youth. I was longing to speak and to thank him, but no words came. And then He rose swiftly, and said, "Lie here today by the water. I will come for you tomorrow. I have work for you to do, and you will do it for me."

In a mment He was gone. And while I wait for him I write this down that I may not lose the memory of it. I feel weak and lonely, and my pain increases, but I have his promise. I know that he will come for me tomorrow.

This story has gone all round the world. As to its truth we can say nothing, except that Life and Work would hardly print it without some reason to believe it was founded in fact. But is it not a strange story to be told in these days of materialism? It reads like something related by an ancient Hebrew seer, like the account of the wind sweeping over the "Valley of Dry Bones," or of the "Still Small Voice" heard by Elijah after the earthquake and the fire. Humanity is in travail, and at such times we learn that "there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in our philosophy."—Victoria Daily Colonist.

PAULSON-FISHER WEDDING

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fisher, when their only daughter, Athlene was united in marriage to Mr. Paul Paulson of Roundhill, Virginia. The ceremony was performed at ten o'clock by Rev. Stephen Smith of the Congregational church, the bride being given away by her father. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the family being present. The bride was lovely in a gown of white satin and lace, carrying a large shower bouquet. After the wedding breakfast the young couple left for a week's outing at the Fisher cottage on Lake Sutherland. When they return they will go to nousekeeping in the Jackson apartments. Miss Athlene was born and raised in Port Angeles where she has always been a great favorite with old and young. She is a graduate of the high school and spent a year away at school but had to give up her studies on account of her eyes. The past two years she assisted her father in his duties as postmaster. She has a host of friends who are all wishing for her much joy and happiness in her wedded life. The groom is a splendid young business man who has made Angeles his home for the past four years as an employee of the Chicago, Milwaukee R. R. Co. He is at present the company's cashier. He has made many friends during his residence here, all of whom are extending to him their hearty congratulations and best wishes.

Mr. M. J. Laird's neices, Miss Carrie Laird and Miss Belle Rush, sister of Claude Underhill, are visiting relatives in this city. They came up from San Francisco by boat, having a disagreeable experience with maldemer on the way. After a tour of the West and the exposition both ladies unite in declaring Port Angeles the best place they have seen.

A party of Sequim folks went to Angeles Sunday last in Herb Priest's auto truck and gave Mr. L. C. Dey, one of our former residents, a birthday surprise in honor of his 77th anniversary. In the party were Mr. and Mrs Willie Dey, David Dey, Price Simcoe, George Shelburne and their wives and children and Preston Dey. They had a family reunion dinner and enjoyed a very pleasant meeting.—Press.

Mr. Chris Steik had the misfortune to cut his leg with an axe at the Freshwater logging camp Wednesday. Dr. Will Taylor took a couple of stiches in it and he is resting nicely at present.

Mrs. Fritz Steik is enjoying a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Middleton, and her daughter-in-law Mrs. Harvey Steik of Victoria.

I am pleased that my associates, the other two members of the board, are not led astray by the spasm of hysteria regarding economy now so prevalent in the minds of the non-resident taxpayers, taxpayers who are so pessimistic in place of optimistic regarding the future of this county. Our county is growing and will continue to grow. But it will have a more rapid increase in both population and wealth if the Board of County Commissioners pays no attention to the insistent demands made by non-resident taxpayers, for a reduction in road tax levies.

"ROAD TAX $70 PER CAPITA" IS UNTRUE AND UNFAIR

When you say that the Clallam County Road Tax has amounted to $70 per capita for the past three years, you make a statement that is as unfair as it is untrue. The reader who is not acquainted with our antiquated tax system believes it to be true. Per Capita owns very little, consequently taxes cannot be measured by per capita. Per capita does not pay the taxes; if it did the large land owner would pay no more than the one who owns no land at all. If per capita were paying the taxes, then the 10,000 acre man would pay no more than the man who only owned one acre, or even none at all. He would pay no more and he would be glad to do it if we would let him.

Why not get to work and figure out how much tax there is per acre, per barn, per house, per cow, per automobile, per every thousand feet of timber—those are the things that pay the taxes and not per capita. There has been enough stuff written to deceive the small tax payer. Let's have the things that give him a better understanding of government in all its functons and there will be no need of new parties all the time, with a lot of isms attached to them.

ARE WE TAXED BEYOND REASON?

I can show you on the tax rolls many a Port Angeles home that pays $25.00, more or less, per year taxes. We will say that the family consists of parents and four children; what do they receive for the $25.00 taxes they pay? First of all they receive free schools, including music, drawing, manual training, scientific cookery, athletic instruction, and four years' preparation for university, normal or agricultural college, if they desire. They receive city, county and state government, free elections, free streets and roads, free street lighting, free fire protection, free police protection, free homes for the unfortunate, and many other things that I might mention, all within the limits of $25 annually, or $4 each for the family of six.

I will mention one more item: This little home which pays $25 a year taxes furnishes relief for a stricken family when the father is taken away. The family may have owned nothing at all and have paid no tax of any kind, yet through the mothers' pension law the little ones can be kept together and under a mother's care..

WHOSE PROPERTY — TIMBER LANDS? FARMS? HOMES?

In your article you say property is being sold for taxes and it is next to confiscation. I deny that. If there is any property sold for taxes, it is because the property is no good. There are those who bought town lots by the score and acres by the township at a time when financial conditions were very flourishing with them. They bought solely for speculation, but the speculation did not turn out as they saw it at the time they bought the property. Now that they find their earning power is not great enough to pay the taxes assessed against their big bunches of property, they would sell. As they cannot get the price paid they say, "reduce the taxes or we will go broke."

CUT IN THE ROAD TAX

A cut in the road tax would not reduce either our state, city, school or county tax. It would make little or no difference to the small tax payer. It would undo what has been done, and the travel that we have been inviting for many years and which is only just commencing to be realized, would all be turned back. After the damage has been inflicted we would have to come back with a road tax stronger than ever.

Our people at the present time are only demanding gravelled roads. In another year or so they will be demanding that all main roads be oiled, and it will be economy to do so. Then we will hardly get our side roads to the individual ranchers completed before the demand will come for brick paved roads to accommodate the greatly increased population and travel. Who will pay the bill? Property will pay the bill; per capita will get the use of it.

AN ERRONEOUS OPINION

The average taxpayer holds the County Commissioners responsible for all taxes whether they be high or low. This is a mistake. The quicker the taxpayer realizes where to begin to get taxes lowered, the quicker he will get results.

It is a fact that the County Commissioners levy all taxes, but at whose command? Taxes are levied the first Monday in October of each year. The State says, levy so much against your property for the state. The City says levy for us so much money. The school districts say the same. Every elective office in the court house says the same. The law says it is our duty to levy whatever they call for. We can shave the county officers to some slight extent, and that is all.

We can cut the road levy as we see fit, but if we want progression and advance as the county grows we cannot be behind in our roads. We can expect no development of the county if we do not have the best of roads.

Yours truly,
J. C. HANSEN,
Commissioner.

OPENING OF GEORGIAN CIRCUIT WELL ATTENDED

In British Columbia the Government, of which he was a member, had placed the good roads movement in the forefront of its programme, and in the past twelve years millions of dollars had been spent toward that end. Adequate transportation facilities were an imperative necessity in a new country, and he was glad to see that everywhere along the Pacific Coast this axiom was universally recognized.

Commissioner Cuthbert spoke from the standpoint of the benefits of publicity to a community. The "Georgian Circuit," he declared, would prove one of the greatest attractions to the outside tourists, and as a link in the great chain of highways which stretched from the Mexican border to Vancouver and would soon be extended further north, it would undoubtedly prove a factor in the development of Port Angeles and district. He enlarged upon the value of municipal publicity efforts, and declared that in the section bordering upon Puget Sound and the Gulf of Georgia there existed attractions unrivalled in any other portion of the globe. Once these attractions were properly brought to the attention of the outside world the great tide of tourist travel would inevitably set in, to be yearly increased with consequent growing prosperity for the cities on the North Pacific Coast.

Mayor Stewart spoke briefly, expressing the good feeling which had always existed between Victoria and Port Angeles, and emphasizing the benefits which such projects as the "Georgian Circuit" bring to a city.

Alderman Todd, whose reception was an extremely cordial one, consequent upon the prominent part he has taken in the inauguration of the Circuit, spoke on the benefits of the good roads movement. He cited the great work which has been and is now being done by the Pacific Highway Association, of which he has had the honor to be one of the vice-presidents, and he quoted figures to show to what a degree the State of Southern California has prospered by reason of the attention paid to the improvements of the roadways. He was certain the "Georgian Circuit" would produce like results for Port Angeles and the other cities along its route.

Mr. Todd officially declared the Georgian Circuit open by driving his car beneath the specially erected wooden arch, breaking the red, white and blue ribbons which were stretched across the opening. Following the ceremony the guests dispersed and visited points of interest in the neighborhood, spending a happy time. The return trip on the Princess Adelaide was thoroughly enjoyed, the Victorians reaching port shortly before 10 p. m.

Lieut. Governor Louis F. Hart, who was expected to deliver the address for the state of Washington at the dedication, did not receive the invitation until the day of the opening of the circuit. The invitation was mailed to Olympia and from there forwarded to his office in Tacoma. From there it was again forwarded to his farm at Graham, Wash. Mr. Hart sends his regrets at not being able to attend such an important affair.

The U. S. Customs Inspectors deserve credit for the checking and handling of the Victoria crowd. Especial credit is due Mr. Mason of this city for landing the entire load at the Peoples' Wharf from the S. S. Princess Adelaide in 35 minutes. This is considered a good piece of work by other custom inspectors.

The time made by the different entries in the obstacle race was as follows:

W. S. Brewster, 4 min. 49 4-5 sec.
Paul Farmer 4 min. 24 sec.
W. C. Hopkins 2 min. 48 sec.

The Joseph Blethen party, composed of Mrs. Leslie H. Darwin, Mrs. LaBallister and Mr. Blethen's mother Mrs. Swadley, arrived in a Packard six over the highway. After remaining here for the dedication of the Georgian Circuit they made the trip on Sunday to the Sol Duc and to the town of Beaver. They returned Sunday night. Monday they took the S. S. Sol Duc for Victoria and from there are making the complete trip over the newly dedicated highway. They will arrive in Seattle today.

Among the distinguished visitors at the Georgian Circuit dedication were: Hon. Dr. Young, provincial secretary and minister of education, Victoria; Mayor Alexander Stewart, Victoria; Aldermen A. E. Todd and Bell, Victoria; Frank Higgins, president of Rotary Club of Victoria; Thaddeus S. Lane, president of Inland Empire Automobile Club, Spokane; Hon. W. R. Roy, state land commissioner, Olympia; Geoffrey Winslow of Tacoma Automobile Club, Edward M. Smithers, president of Yakima Valley Automobile Club.

Mayor Israel Katz of Port Townsend; British Vice Consul O. Klocker, Port Townsend; Commissioner Herbert Cuthbert, Victoria and Island Development Association; Secretary Harris of the Island Automobile Association, Victoria; W. E. Stoltz, president of Seattle National Bank; Fred and C. D. Stimson, Seattle; Richard and John Kinnear, the builders of Kinnear civic park in Seattle; Donald McInnes, Dungeness; J. L. Keeler, Sequim; Herman Hansen, Port Townsend.

The loganberry punch, provided by E. D. Guthrie of Elwha, again proved the most popular feature in the way of refreshment at the grand ball, given in honor of the dedication of the Georgian Circuit at the Olympic Hotel last Saturday evening.

The dance and buffet supper given in honor of the dedication was a social success in every respect. Angeline Ritchie fixed up some road signs and automobile phrases which were placed around the ball room. These were attractive and created a great deal of interest.

THE CITY COUNCIL

cheaper than fighting and winning Council decided they would await mandamus proceedings to compel payment of the judgment, even though it will cost a little more.

Ordinance fixing the final assessment for the sewer through Block 35 and 36, between Georgiana and Caroline streets emptying into Francis street main was read twice and referred.

Upon motion of Mr. Fowler, marshal was directed to have signs placed on Fifth street bridge warning against the fast driving.

Mr. Fowler reported that the street committee was endeavoring to get some of the main streets in shape for winter travel, and finds that new gravel placed on streets packs readily when wet. After some discussion street superintendent was directed to purchase an additional fifty feet of garden hose for the purpose.

Mr. Johnson agreeing to furnish the teams for the work if city would furnish the men, the street superintendent was instructed to gravel 5th street Oak to Laurel.

Railroad agent at depot stated that many autoists crossed Tumwater and came to depot inquiring way out of town west, and suggested placing of sign at Tumwater. Referred to the automobile club.

Engineer Filion stated that he had refused to stake the east end grade work without authority of council, and asked instructions. Directed to go ahead now bond is filed.

Messrs. T. T. Aldwell & Co. asked that occupants of their agency building at First and Lincoln street be allowed to put in partial wiring for lights. Electrician Church had condemned the wiring in this building as being very dangerous, and reported the cost of complying with the ordinance, as others have had to do, as little more than cost of ordinary wiring. This was an attempt to go over the head of the city electrician and council refused to sanction the matter.

Council adjourned.

In State vs. Frank May, pending since last November, defendant was arrainged and entered plea of Not Guilty, and released pending trial under bonds of $500.

A. W. Balch was named Administrator of estate of Geo. Brackett.

The now prominent case of the State vs. H. M. Fisher, et al., councilmen and others charged with conspiracy to defraud the city and local improvement district came on for arraignment Wednesday. Prosecutor Rose asked privilege of inserting in information of word "corruptly" which was granted over the objection of Mr. Trumbull, appearing with Messrs. Lindsay and Redden, and Wm. Ritchie for all the defendants. Mr. Rose then asked to endorse additional witnesses on information which was also granted over objection of defendants. Arraignment on defendants was then interrupted by the filing of a demurrer by defendants to the information, who asked time to argue same, on the ground that the arraignment was not had until previous day. Mr. Rose was willing that hearing go over for one or two days if Court will be here, but objected strongly to longer time, holding that defendants had had three weeks to prepare. Court wished to be fully advised in the matter and set hearing on demurrer for Monday, August 30, at 9 a. m., with understanding that no further delay will be allowed defendants to end that case may be tried at the coming jury term.

Edgar Snyder was arraigned Wednesday afternoon charged with assault in second degree upon the person of Timekeeper McLaughlin at Camp 6. He entered a plea of not guilty, though at first admitting his guilt. It seems Snyder with his brother, got into a mixup at Camp 6, and McLaughlin got between to part them, carrying the brother out of the building. Edgar upon call came to the assistance of his brother with a knife and stabbed McLaughlin thru the back of the neck.

NEW MAP OF NATIONAL FOREST

A map of the Olympic National Forest, especially gotten up for the benefit of hunters and campers, has been issued recently and is being distributed locally by District Ranger Morganroth. About three feet square, it shows the mountain peaks, rivers, creeks, railroads, docks and lighterage landings, horse and foot trails, telephone lines, telephone instruments, ranger stations, fire tool boxes, mines, etc.

On the reverse side is given a brief description of the Forest, a portion of the state's game and fire laws, and several pages of distances to popular points within and near the Forest.

Visitors, and those contemplating visits to the Olympic Forest, are invited to call on or write any of the Forest officers for specific information along any of the lines of Forest Service activities in which they may be interested, or concerning routes of travel, recreation features, camp sites, hotels, etc. The National Forests belong to the people and are the great recreation grounds of the nation. Rangers and guards are always ready to assist and advise in any way and campers are urged to keep in personl touch with them so that in case of sickness, accident, or other urgent personal matter, local advice may be secured and the nearest government telephone may be readily located. Those going into the woods should leave their names and destinations with Mr. Morganroth so that in cases of emergency relatives and friends can reach them through the Service.

Dispatches from Western Missouri tell of a couple who drop into town, put up at the best hotel, hire a livery rig each, and drive over the country asking for the contribution of a chicken from each rancher to be sold for the benefit of an orphans' home in St. Louis. Two days' begging brought in $30 worth of chickens as well as several cash donations. Here in Port Angeles we have people who are making a business of accumulating poultry by a less expensive and at the same time more direct method, as Stephen Land, L. T. Haynes, and sveral other recent owners of poultry can testify. Moral: One fried chicken on the table is worth more than two old hens in your neighbor's soup kettle.
