THE "WEST END" EMPIRE

"Picturesque People and Wonderful Scenery" Greatest Attraction at Forks Prairie.

It's a long, long way from the battle fields of France and Russia to the Indian village of LaPush at the mouth of the Quillayute river, yet even so, the old adage that it's an ill wind that blows no one good holds true, as the Hansens and Websters discovered to their delight Sunday upon arriving at the mouth of the Dickey river after a half mile walk over the newly cleared road from Mora to Morse's cannery. The tide being out, the launch could not be utilized, and not taking kindly to the long walk from Mora to LaPush, they compromised upon an "inspection" of the new road work. However, at the Dickey Mr. Morse placed at their disposal one of the big oak life boats which was jettisoned by the Canadian cruiser Rainbow when she was being pursued by the Germans last December, and the "tour of the West End" was completed in proper style.

Just where the new ferry, to be built by Capt. Treiber next February, is to cross the Quillayute, and where the new road on the other side of the river is to be located, is considerable of a problem at present, and also a matter of very considerable interest to both Mr. Erickson who owns the old store building at Mora (said store being all there is of that present terminus of the Olympic highway) and Mr. Taylor, who has been leasing the building, but who is now putting up a store of his own at the mouth of the Dickey. The unprejudiced observer would undoubtedly favor the Dickey-LaPush route, partly because a half mile of the road will be completed this fall, and partly because it would be necessary to make a considerable cut through the high bank at Mora to reach the river. The Dickey route would be the cheaper; it would also be more likely to be rough on the lower river at times. It is said County Engineer Remp is inclined to believe this should be a strictly tourist road instead of a commercial road; that inasmuch as the stores already have an outlet, the road should cross the river two or three miles above the mouth, running down on the other side on the Union Pacific survey. But those are matters which Mr. Remp will look into later.

They have a fine road down to Quillayute now, made by "grading up" with an abundance of gravel. It is not wide, nor well drained, nor as straight as a ruler, but then, on the other hand, the giant trees crowd close up alongside until one can scarcely believe it will be possible for an auto to squeeze through. Few large trees having been felled to make the original road, there is a pleasing absence of all that great mass of logs and rubbish which flanks the usual new road. From a tourist standpoint the Quillayute portion is easily the best in the county.

Everyone at Forks is jubilant over the oil well. That they have some oil is beyond doubt; everyone in that region went down and got a bottle filled that they might have it to exhibit to their friends; originally a clear, thin liquid, it has jellied until it resembles vaseline in consistency, only having a slightly reddish tinge. But whether they have sufficient oil to make a flowing well, or even a pumping well, time and the expenditure of considerable money alone can tell. Those who have oil stock are not parting with it, and there should be no difficulty in securing sufficient capital with which to put down a real hole.

At West Clallam, visited on Saturday, 150 men were at work cutting some of the finest timber in the county, of which they, the Goodyear Logging Company, owns some twenty thousand acres. A new wharf and buildings, two locomotives, half a dozen donkeys, and some five miles of standard guage, substantially constructed road bed, have been built. The first raft of logs is now being made ready for towing, logging operations having commenced on the 13th. The new industry should be a great help to Rudisile's hotel and the Fairservice store, the latter being the cleanest and most attractive store in the county, carrying a greatly diversified stock of goods.

The Lacy Farm, headquarters of Theodore Rixon, local manager for the big timber company, is still attractive in its wealth of roses, geraniums and other flowers, and bids fair to remain so until the first of the year. Here Ed Jacobs was putting in an extensive sewerage system, with additional bath tubs, laundry, etc.

A little further down the road, at the Captain Kidd ranch, they were having the blues, all the jays in that end of the county having gathered to assist in harvesting the crop of fil-

SCHOOL SECURES LYCEUM COURSE

Five Attractions, Said to Be Most Expensive and Best Ever Given in Port Angeles.

The local high school has again arranged to handle a course of entertainments during the winter months. For several years past these courses have brought in the very best entertainment that has come to town. During the past two years in which the course has been handled by the high school, it has not only given the students and public generally the opportunity of hearing the very best talent of the country, but has also cleared almost three hundred dollars, which has been used in adding to the equipment of the high school.

The following attractions will appear on this season's course:

Ralph Parlette, humorist and lecturer, October 25; Apollo Concert Co., vocal and instrumental Quintette, December 2; Judge Geo. D. Alden, lecturer, January 20; Metropolitan Grand Quartette (Male), February 16; The Totten Company, magicians, April 3.

This course costs the most money and should be the best ever secured for Port Angeles. And it is hoped that it will receive the liberal patronage from the public that it has in the past. The support of every one is the only thing that makes such a course possible.

PERUVIAN BARK ALLIANCE SAILS FOR PERU TODAY

The Peruvian bark Alliance, which came into port with beri beri on board a few weeks ago, left Angeles today for Callao, Peru, with a cargo of 800,000 feet of lumber. The trip will require 45 days and Captain Paragon has fortified himself this time by taking aboard five pigs and 70 chickens, the former being penned up in an open space in the lumber, while the chickens, as privileged guests, had the run of the ship and rigging.

While here a new hoisting engine with four drum hoist was installed and the gasoline launch overhauled, the work being handled by Roy Hall, electrician. The captain expects to make two more trips to Angeles and will then have his ship wired and electric lights installed in March.

W. C. T. U. HELD COUNTY CONVENTION HERE THE 24TH

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. held a county convention at the Congregational church in Port Angeles on September 24th. A short program was carried out. Two interesting papers on "Alcohol" and "Narcotics" were read. The Port Angeles union served dinner in the church parlors for the visiting delegates. Mrs. Thos. Knoph, Mrs. Geo. Lotzgesell, Mrs. N. I. Peterson and Mrs. B. G. Wilcox were present from the Dungeness union.

Out-of-town people read the paper which gives the news of their respective neighborhoods. Seventy-five per cent of the people in the dairying districts tributary to Port Angeles read the Olympic-Leader.

FAIR WILL BE BIGGEST ENTERPRISE EVER PULLED OFF HERE

NUMEROUS SPECIAL OFFERINGS

Unless all signs fail, the Clallam County Fair to be held in the big Davis & Woods pavilion next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will be the biggest and livest enterprise of that kind ever pulled off in this part of the state.

Aside from the premium list, which is considerably larger than last year's and which is published this week, there will be numerous special offerings for several displays and stunts not listed in the regular premium list.

One of the most startling of these is the list of cash prizes offered to boys and girls under eighteen years of age for comic masquerading and character impersonation on Friday evening, October 8. Here are the prizes offered: For the best Charles Chaplin impersonation, first $2, second $1; best comic make-up, boys, first $2, second $1; best comic make-up, girls, first $2, second $1.

The Port Angeles Marine Band will be the chief musical attraction thruout the three days' fair and carnival, and there will be a jitney dance on the large new dance floor every evening, and probably every afternoon.

The biggest attraction of the fair will be the lectures to be delivered on Friday afternoon, October 8, at 1 o'clock, when Donald McInnes of Dungeness will introduce President W. H. Paulhamus of the Puyallup Fruit Growers Association, recognized nation-wide as the leading rural organizer of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Paulhamus will deliver an address on the subject of organization that no Clallam county farmer or fruit grower can afford to miss.

On Friday the judges will begin judging and may complete the awarding of the prizes, the awards to be announced on Saturday afternoon.

There will be many street attractions, among which it is expected there will be a ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, and many other diversions.

COTTON AWARDED SEWER CONTRACT

Three Members of Council Favored Kuppler on Ground that He Hires Home Labor Only.

H. A. Cotton was awarded the contract for the lateral sewers in the Caroline street district, his bid of $1,453.20 being the lowest. Two other bids were submitted, that of Kuppler being $1,467.60 and Del Guzzo $1,689. Certain of the councilmen believing that Cotton had not lived up to the letter of his contract in regard to the employment of alien labor on Francis street, favored awarding this contract to Kuppler, whose bid was only $14.40 higher than that of Cotton, and who it was said, employed only home labor. Councilman Fisher believed it would set a bad precedent to award the contract to the second lowest bidder and the vote, when taken, stood Bigelow, Filion and Fowler for Kuppler, and Wolverton, Hooker, Brennand and Fisher for Cotton.

Permits were granted H. Machenheimer to build a house to cost $1,000 on lot 17, block 87; to Alden Goodwin to reconstruct his house on lots 9 and 10, block 323; to Jacob Rosenberg for an addition to his house on lots 17 and 18, block 173.

Councilman Wolverton introduced the ordinance to license junk dealers, which was read twice and referred; the word junk in this connection to include old metals and discarded material, and not furniture or tools.

Ordinances confirming assessments and rolls on L. I. D. 31 and 32 were passed; the city treasurer will at once serve notice for the collection of the first annual installment. Ordinance designed to make effective certain amendments to local improvement laws was again placed on final vote and passed. Official publication of these in another column.

Hearing on the Spit Road again postponed for 30 days.

Moved that the caretaker be discharged at the cemetery at the end of the month, for want of funds. Believed that instead of paying $75 per month it would be possible to secure the services of caretaker who would accept fees in lieu of salary.

Electrician reported between six and seven hundred pounds of copper on hand which should be sold at present high prices; city clerk ordered to request bids.

Street superintendent reported suitable places for the dumping of refuse at 7th and Chase, and 6th and Albert. Engineer instructed to get prices on culled Lincoln street cement sewer to be placed in bottom of gulch for drain.

Lincoln street contractor granted privilege of using portion of fire hose, paying rental therefor, the hose to be in care of the firemen.

FATAL ACCIDENTS AT LOGGING CAMP

Men Unknown Save by Name; Both Died While on Way to to Hospital.

Two fatal accidents occurred at the camps Wednesday of this week, both victims being unknown only as to name. E. Stevens, while loading rails on a bridge fell off the bridge a distance of 25 feet. He was brought in on the train but died before reaching Angeles. Frank Roy of Camp 6, near Joyce, was caught between a log and stump. Mr. Fulmer went out with the ambulance to bring him into the hospital but he died on the way. An effort is being made to locate relatives before funeral services will be held.

FILINGS ARE BEING MADE FOR THE COMING ELECTION

Filings thus far made on the Citizens' ticket are: For Mayor, Horace White; councilman-at-large, A. D. Wolverton, Robert H. Callarman; councilman 2nd ward, H. M. Fisher; clerk, J. L. Beam; treasurer, P. F. Harley. Prospective candidates have until Saturday, October 9th, to file.

George Wilhelm has also filed for councilman of 5th ward.

RIPE STRAWBERRIES IN THIS CLIME IN SEPTEMBER

Fine ripe strawberries, fresh picked in their own garden, were a feature of the "wedding dinner" served on their fiftieth anniversary by Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Mitchell. Several others have been exhibiting fresh strawberries and doubtless they will be quite a feature of the Fair this year.

GOOD YEAR FOR SALMON TROLLERS AT CAPE

One of the fishermen, called home to Anacortes from the Cape last week, stated here that he had cleared up $800 since the beginning of the season, with the big run just started on the 22nd of September. He believed those who stayed thru the season should make fully a thousand each. A fair catch during the best days of the runs would be between two and three hundred.

GROWTH OF CITY IS SHOWN IN CITY SCHOOLS

Since May, 1913, 99 pupils belonging to the city schools have graduated from the eighth grade, 85 of them have entered the high school and 72 of them are now in attendance. We now have 144, the largest enrollment in the history of the high school.

JUDGE LENIENT WITH LASAGE

Taken to Penitentiary Monday to Serve Five Year Sentence. 18 New Cases Filed.

All Criminal actions were cleaned up and reported last week.

Friday the Court took up the case of P. S. Govan vs. W. H. and J. B. Knapman. The action involves certain notes given by the Bugge Mercantile Co. while the Knapmans were the owners, obligations which Francis A. Bugge refused to assume when he took the store back under his management some time later. The plaintiff showed pretty conclusively that the Knapmans were liable for the obligations, and when the plaintiff rested it was arranged to have a conference. The result was that a satisfactory agreement was reached between the litigants both in this case and the case of the State Bank of Sequim vs. the Knapmans, and it was ordered that both be stricken from the calendar, to be dismissed when the details of the agreement are arranged.

The above arrangement served to give the jury a vacation while witnesses and attorneys were assembled for another action.

Saturday morning the case of Barton vs. J. G. Garrison was heard. This action was begun to collect $500 from Garrison as part payment of a $13,000 claim, which plaintiff alleged defendant had illegally held out in settling his account with them. Garrison claimed to have a contract at a certain price during this period. It was shown, however, that during this period he received some meat below the agreed price, this to refute the contract idea. The jury held that the alleged contract was not in force and held against the defendant for full amount of $500.

Monday the case of E. F. Kaughman vs. J. R. Gallagher was taken up, a jury empanelled and the first witness was on stand under cross examination, when an error crept into the case by reason of witness stating prohibited testimony before the jury. Defendants refused to waive the point of error, and the case was stricken from the docket to be heard at a later date, if at all. The case involves the sale of Launch Energy at Sheriff's sale, defendant alleging that the boat was never turned over to him, that the U. S. Marshal levied on it within an hour after his alleged purchase. The ex-sheriff alleges that Mr. Kaughman bought the boat as per published notice subject to any liens, he selling only the right and interest of defendant in the foreclosure action.

The court will be here again October 5.

The estate of Edward Kline was finally settled, and administrator discharged.

The Court on Saturday sentenced Lew LaSage, found guilty of carnal knowledge of a female child, to not less than five years in the state penitentiary at Walla Walla. A guard came for him Monday morning. Jos. Houston, convicted of forgery and sentenced to one to twenty years, is out on bail of $2000. It is reported that he will appeal.

New cases filed:

W. S. Tussing vs. Clallam County, for damages sustained on Pysht road, by auto dropping into Pysht river. Tussing lives at Port Townsend.

Railway vs. Lew Westbrook, condemnation.

Antonio Del Guzzo and C. W. Coit vs. J. W. Lindsay and J. W. Redden for alleged fraudulently securing assignment of contract from plaintiffs to defendants.

C. T. Christensen vs. L. T. Sands, on promissory note.

State ex rel, D E. Thompson vs. Louis Dechman, failure to carry out agreement.

S. W. Robb (Seattle Awning Co.) vs. Little River Ry. & Log. Co., on promissory note for $108

C. W. Thompson vs. Jas. R. Gallagher, on promissory note.

Marie Von Bernuth of New York vs. M. J. Carrigan and Chas. Smith, to quiet title to property in Marianne Dean Estate.

Petition to probate will of Harriett Smith.

F. P. Fisher asks for and granted special letters on estate of L. N. Brodin, and order to sell personal property.

Petition for letters on estate of Nellie M. Clark.

A. H. Howell was appointed guardian of Ada and Maurice Howell.

Samuel Woodcock asks for letters on estate of Emma T. Woodcock.

IOWANS MEET NEXT FRIDAY

Clallam County Has More People from Iowa than from Any Other State.

The call issued in last week's Olympic-Leader for a meeting of Iowa people to be held in the Commercial club rooms the second evening of the Fair, Friday, October 8, has aroused considerable interest and Iowans seem to be springing up from all over the county. There is no state in the Union which has sent so many of its citizens to the Pacific Coast as has Iowa. Down in Los Angeles there are about 20,000 Iowans, who attend the annual picnic each year. It will be of interest to see how large a club we can organize in Clallam county.

FLOWERS DESIRED FOR DECORATING AT FAIR

Donations of flowers, vines, ferns and other greenery will be very much appreciated by the decorating committee for the county fair next week. Anyone who has flowers will kindly send them to the Davis & Woods pavilion, where the fair is to be held, on Thursday morning, or phone Mrs. Wm. J. Ware and they will be sent for. Besides for the decorative purposes the committee would like to make as attractive a display as possible and would urge all who have flowers to take an interest in making it a success. For the best display of flowers from anyone's yard the Webster Publishing Company will give as a premium a year's subscription to the Olympic-Leader.

NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY IS A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT

The new telephone directory for Port Angeles, Sequim and Fairholm, just out, is a decided improvement on former issues in that it gives the street address of town subscribers, making it a partial city directory, something we have never had in Angeles. The classified business directory will also be found a convenience, though it would be much more valuable if the merchants had made it somewhere near complete.

STEAMER SOL DUC MAKES RUN HOUR EARLIER

ACTIVITIES OF THE STATE'S DEPARTMENTS

Olympia, October 1.—A seven mill state tax levy, to raise $7,218,954 state taxes, has been announced by the state board of equalization.

This is a reduction of 1,108,505 from the 8.07 mill levy of 1914, which in turn was a reduction of $610.078 from the 8.87 mill levy of 1913, making total reductions of more than $1,700.000 in the last two years, due to economical administration of state affairs and sane methods of finance.

Although the total tax levy this year has been lowered by more than $1,000,000, the levy for military purposes has been increased from .11 to .20, in line with recommendations of Adjutant General Maurice Thompson, to enable Washington to bear its share in plans for national preparedness for defense.

The great reduction has been made in the general fund levy, which has been lowered to 1.25 mills, but in spite of this reduction, the fact that the general fund now has a surplus of $1,600,000 will enable Governor Lister's plan of retiring the remaining state indebtedness to be carried out as soon as legislative authority is received.

A slight increase also has been made in the school levy, which will enable the state for the first time to discharge in full its obligation of providing $10 state aid for each child of school age, as guaranteed in the "barefoot boy" school law. The school funds this year came within $59,000 of providing sufficient money. In past years the shortage has been more than $200,000.

The various items of the state levy are as follows:

General fund, 1.25 mills, $1,289,097, a reduction of approximately $1,240,000.

School fund, 2 mills, $2,062,555, an increase of approximately $40,000.

Military fund, .2 mill, $206,526, an increase of approximately $93,000.

The remaining levies, which are approximately the same as last year:

Permanent highways, 1.5 mills, $1,546,916.

Public highways, 1 mill, $1,031,277.

Institutions higher education, 1.05 mills $1,082,841.

The public service commission has ruled against the diversion or reconsignment charge of $2 per car established recently by railroads as the rate for diverting, en route, hay and grain shipments, billed to Seattle, to Tacoma, or vice versa. The commission finds that since this expense was borne by the railroads without extra charge in 1911, and was considered at that time in fixing distributive rates, a special charge for the purpose now would amount to allowing the railroads to charge twice for the same service.

On the ground that the spirit of the permanent highway law is being violated by the existence of a secret agreement between the Washington Paving Company, and the owner of a patented pavement, Highway Commissioner William R. Roy has refused to approve estimates of this company for Pierce county permanent highway work of $25,260. The secret agreement gave the Washington company the right to purchase pavement materials at a lower cost and to underbid competitors.

General violations of the eight hour public works law in Clarke county have been followed up by Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson, with the result that complaints have been filed against contractors on state and county road work and city street work.

Completion of all 1915 Pacific highway work by November 1 is the object being sought by Governor Ernest Lister and the state highway department. The most important sections to be completed by this date are the Lavey-Nisqually section, eliminating the dangerous Nisqually hill, and the Waterfront road, only section of the highway along Puget Sound.

Why the Pacific northwest has not been securing more tourist travel to and from the California expositions, is revealed by a petition filed by the public service commission with the interstate commerce commission. This petition charges the railroads with gross discrimination against the Northwest, it being alleged that the round trip fare from Chicago to San Francisco, by way of Seattle and Portland, is $17.50 greater than the fare by way of New Orleans and Los Angeles, although the southern route is 257 miles longer than the northern.

The public service commission discovered the discrepancy merely by accident, as no interstate tarriffs are filed here. The state commission takes the ground that the interstate commerce commission allowed gross discrimination to be practiced against this state by approving the railroad tariffs without notice to Washington.

Prices paid for nearly all commodities purchased by the board of control this month for state institutions, were made at lower prices than one year ago, when the first effects of the war were to send all food stuff prices skyward.

Flour was purchased 69 cents per barrel cheaper than in 1914, meats ranged from one cent to three cents a pound lower, butter is about three cents lower and cheese was found to be reduced two and one-half cents. Dried apples and peas were the only prices found to have increased. Salmon, corn meal, beans and coffee were bought at slightly reduced prices while sugar was at a reduction of nearly one cent a pound.

In spite of there being less rain this summer than usual, fire losses, according to data now being collected by Forester E. W. Ferris, probably will prove well below the average. A larger protective force was employed by the state than ever before. Extra men were all relieved as soon as the first rains fell, but county wardens and some federal patrolmen were retained until September 30 to assist loggers and millmen in burning refuse that might constitute a fire menace next year.

The state fair at North Yakima this year was made notable by the presence of larger and better agricultural and live stock exhibits than ever before. Casting up of accounts has not yet been completed but it is believed the fair will have proved a financial success.

Contracts for the new six-building group for the institution for feeble minded at Medical Lake were awarded by the board of control last week. The total cost of the work will come to $270,248.

The buildings all will be of a brick construction, Class A, fireproof, with reinforced concrete floors. They will be constructed on the new site, a mile and one-half from the lake, and upon their completion the structures on the lake shore, now occupied by the girls, will be turned over to the Eastern hospital for insane.

The buildings include two ward buildings to accommodate 80 inmates each, administration and custodial buildings, laundry and power house.

Contracts for a new fireproof school building for the state school for blind at Vancouver, Wash., to replace the present wooden firetrap, was awarded last week, calling for a total expenditure of $67,199. Plans for this building, prepared by Julius Zittel of Spokane and D. Nichols of Vancouver, shown to superintendents of blind schools at their recent national convention at San Francisco, were declared to provide probably the best building for this purpose in the country.

Contracts for all buildings awarded by the board of control provide for the exclusive use of Washington labor.

AN ABRUPT PROPOSAL.

Abernethy Was Too Busy For Romance and Courtship.

The reported fashion of the famous Dr. Abernethy's courtship and marriage is very characteristic. It is told that while attending a lady for several weeks he observed those admirable qualifications in her daughter which he truly esteemed to render the married state happy. Accordingly on a Saturday, taking leave of his patient, he addressed her to the following purport:

"You are so well that I need not see you after Monday next, when I shall come and pay you a farewell visit. But in the meantime I wish you and your daughter to seriously consider the proposal I am about to make. It is abrupt and unceremonious, I am aware, but the excessive occupation of my time by my professional duties affords me no leisure to accomplish what I desire by the more ordinary course of attention and solicitation. My annual receipts amount to £——, and I can settle £—— on my wife. My character is generally known to the public, so that you may readily ascertain what it is. I have seen in your daughter a tender and affectionate child, an assiduous and careful nurse and a gentle and ladylike member of a family. Such a person must be all that a husband could covet, and I offer my hand and fortune for her acceptance. On Monday when I call I shall expect your determination, for I really have not time for the routine of courtship."

In this manner the lady was wooed and won, and it may be added the union was felicitous in every respect.—Westminster Gazette.

The Wife — I recall our courtship days, those blissful days. The Brute—When I was in a blissful daze!—Philadelphia Ledger.

No One Shall Know

The success of this bank is built on the confidence of our depositors. Just as sacred as the confidence they place in our guardianship of their money we hold the confidences of their private affairs and guard them just as carefully.

No man need fear the betrayal of personal money matters when he banks through us. To betray his confidence would mean to lose it, His secrets are locked in the memory vaults of our trusted officials, more impregnable than our vaults of hardened steel.

berts, of which there are several trees. The filbert grows in a husk greatly resembling, in fact an exact duplicate, of that enclosing the old-fashioned, dear-to-my-childhood, hazelnut, but the nut itself is two or three times as large. Mrs. Kidd said they had two sacks full of these nuts last year.

Two of the cutest little black bears are the chief attraction at Fairholm, where one must wait for the return ferry. They are owned by the Gallagher children, who are kept busy packing boiled rice, the cubs crying like a four year old with a stubbed toe when they are hungry. Not far behind the pets, as a subject of interest in that one wonders how he can do it, is Charley Diffenbach, who stated he has lived at Fairholm ten years, making one trip to Seattle and two to Angeles in all that time. But then Charley keeps the Fairholm store and the telephone exchange and is thus fairly busy. He is anticipating an extension of the Farmer line to Forks this winter, which will double his work.

Speaking of going outside, Mrs. Sult of the Cottage Hotel says Eastern people frequently express their surprise at finding that the natives dress and talk much like the easterner, sometimes attributing it to the completion of the highway and consequent mixing with people from the outside. Charley, she says, always maintains he has lived there for twenty-five years, getting as far away as Sappho once, on a hunting expedition. One lady, standing on the front porch, where there is nothing to be seen but a half dozen country stores, the level prairie and timber, said she did so regret leaving her camera for she would have liked so much to have taken pictures of the picturesque people and the wonderful scenery.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The football team will go to Townsend on the Sioux Saturday morning, returning on the Sol Duc the next morning at the regular time. Arrangements have been made for them while in Townsend but all others in the high school who wish to go will have to plan before hand where they intend to stay. A price of one dollar for the round trip has been obtained.

The physics class have been experimenting on the loss of weight of different objects when placed in water. Some very astonishing facts have been proved to them and they find the labratory work quite entertaining.

The sewing classes have handed in their crocheting this week. Each girl made one piece of insertion in filet crochet and one piece of edging. They begin to feel quite accomplished already.

All the Freshmen are "shaking in their boots" for fear of what may be awaiting them to-night at the reception, given in their honor. They will surely be royally initiated and we hope to remove some of the very apparent greenness.

"The Hoodoo" is the play chosen for the high school to present this year. No parts have as yet been definitely assigned but we hope soon to begin practising in earnest. The funds will go towards paying for the "Tum-Tum" which this year's Senior Class is to edit.

The Senior class held a meeting Thursday after school and electetd editors, from their class, for the publishing of the annual "Tum-Tum." The class editors will be reported later, those from the Senior class are: Editor-in-Chief, Elizabeth Webster; Assistant, Marcella Schweitzer; Business, Frank Fisher; Literary, Billie Belford; Society, Bernice Campbell; Departments, Eva Main; Alumni, Vera Burgman; Athletics, Harold Dodge; Joshes, Oral Freeman; Art, Florence Pettitt. The Seniors hope to put out the very best edition of the Tum-Tum and intend it shall be a credit to the school and town.

It cost Mrs. Herbert Baker just 75 cents to secure a renter for their ranch near the Filion mill, and she probably also saved a number of dollars by securing a tenant several weeks earlier than would have been possible by any other means. The ranch had been advertised three or four weeks when Mrs. Baker, who says they always swear by the Olympic-Leader when they have anything to sell, concluded something must be the matter with the wording of the advertisement and changed it, very evidently to good effect. One not conversant with the facts would be surprised to know of the number of people, strangers, who call at the office asking about houses, furnished and unfurnished, or who are in search of private boarding places.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

At the Congregational church the program will probably be as follows, but as the choir rehearsal does not occur until Friday evening, it is often necessary to change certain vocal selections at that time.

MORNING

Prelude, "Entermuzzo," Mascagni.
Anthem, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains"—Woodworth, Choir.
Vocal Solo, Mr. Somers.
Subject of sermon.
Communion Service.

EVENING

From 7:30 to 8 p. m. a musical program will be given, including the following selections:

Organ selection, "At Evening"—Kinder.
Organ, "Sextette from Lucia"—Donizetti.
Organ and Violin, "March"—Atherton.
Organ and Violin, "Jean"—Burligh, both by Mrs. Dicky and Mrs. Smith.
Vocal selection, "Still With Thee"—Petrie, Mr. McNutt and quartette.
Solo, Mrs. Luppen.
Subject of sermon.
"Lessons from the Life and Works of Gideon."

Mr. A. W. Mooney of Clallam Bay and Miss Nellie Boyd of Mt. Pleasant, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Justice of the Peace Andrew Severyns. They will make their home at Clallam Bay.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the Clallam County Fair to be held next week and a number of our progressive merchants will have attractive booths.

NEW PASTORATE AT THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Dr. Theodore Sharpe, who began the pastorate of the local Methodist Episcopal last Sunday is a native of Toronto, Canada, but entered the Illinois Conference in 1901

His Bachelor of Arts work was done in the University of Toronto, his Bachelor of Divinity at Victoria University of the same city. His Master's work and Doctorate of Philosophy was done in the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Sharpe is delighted with the city and its people and will do all that is possible to advance its interests. He will endeavor to make the church a servant of all the people. A cordial welcome to all the services.

There is a discussion among anglers as to when the season on trout closes. The impression has gone forth that it will end October 1, with the opening of the season on water fowl shooting, but this is incorrect. The state game laws set forth that the fishing season opens April 1 and closes November 30.

The season on water fowl opens today, October 1st.

The first regular meeting of the Port Angeles Reading Club will be held next Friday, October 8, instead of October 1st, and Mrs. H. M. Brock will be the hostess. The program will consist of reminiscences of the summer vacation.

The Elwha hatchery has taken in 130,000 spring salmon eggs. This is very exceptional when in view of the fact that only 100,000 was expected.

Miss Alice Nailor left today for a visit with her brother Ed Nailor, at Chimicum and with other relatives at Seattle and Tacoma.

O. A. Pettitt expects to start building on his lots on Sixth street between Laurel and Lincoln very soon.

L. J. Leonard has spent the past week in Seattle, going up Sunday.

T. T. Aldwell has been a business visitor to Seattle all week.

MISSES ERKINS AND HIRSCH DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED

Perhaps the leading social event of last week was the party given by Miss Constance Hoare in honor of Miss Maude Hirsch and Miss Elizabeth Erkins at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Faires, on Saturday evening, September 25th.

Miss Hirsch, who has been spending the greater part of the summer in Angeles, is from Chicago and Miss Erkins, the sister of Rev. Erkins, from San Diego, California. Four tables of five hundred furnished some of the entertainment for the evening, the prizes being awarded as follows: Mrs. Meredith, first ladies' prize, Miss Erkins, consolation; Herman Swanson, first gentleman's prize and Clarence Gherke, consolation.

Besides the time spent at cards, a variety of music furnished much of the pleasure of the occasion. A delicious luncheon was also served and enjoyed to the fullest extent by all. The evening proved short, however, and the wee hours had already crept forth when the entertaining hostess, Miss Hoare, bid all a good night and the Misses Hirsch and Erkins a "bon voyage."

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

Washington received several keen, good-natured jibes from the pen of George Fitch, the humorist, in his series of vest pocket essays on universities, which appeared last week in syndicate form in papers in all parts of the United States, says the U. of W. Daily. Mr. Fitch visited the university campus during the summer, a short time before his death.

The essay on the University of Washington follows:

"The University of Washington is so new that most of the chairs in the faculty still smell of varnish.

"It was established over fifty years ago when the state of Washington was populated almost exclusively by pine trees, and up to fifteen years ago it was one of the 794 also-rans in American college life.

"It ranked with Millsaps, Occidental, Muskingdom, and other quiet retreats of learning, and an eastern college man couldn't have found it in an atlas eight feet wide.

"About that time, Seattle began to leap lightly to the front in the census returns and Washington university leaped with it. Seattle held an exposition and gave it to the university when it closed. This provided a larger number of buildings and twenty trainloads a day of incoming settlers provided the necessary football material.

"The University of Washington now has over 3,000 students and a faculty of 200. It is growing so fast that by the time a new marble hall is finished to take the place of some tumble-down wooden structure the attendance has overflowed again and the old shack has to be pinned together and pasted up for another year.

"The cafeteria is an old exposition building and the students eat under umbrellas in rainy weather while the reporters in the school of journalism work in an extinct gardener's cottage and hold up the roof with one hand while writing. But every year a fine new building goes up and if the attendance will kindly hold back a little the state will catch up with the university.

"Washington's campus is a beautiful landscaped hilltop with the Olympics on one side and Mt. Rainier on the other. Its museum is a Greek temple, whose columns are fir trunks, four feet in diameter, and its pine flagpole is as high as the Bunker Hill monument.

"The University of Washington is the second largest college on the Pacific coast and the third largest west of the Missouri river. It has more students than Yale, but has never had a chance to row its crew against Harvard, and consequently suffers from a lack of high grade advertising."

NEAH BAY INDIANS PLAY POLITICS

Dr. C. L. Woods, Indian agent at the Neah Bay and La Push reservations, believes that he has found one community where politics is absolutely clean. Since taking his post at Neah Bay nine years ago, Dr. Woods has instructed the men of the tribe in the principles of civic government, and so well have they learned their lessons that Neah Bay is now governed by a mayor and council, with heads of the various departments. Two parties have developed among the Indians, and meetings and rallies and the same old political speeches are the order of the campaign. Occasionally there is a split in one of the two parties and then the body which remains as a unit goes through with flying colors.

"These Indians take to politics at once," said Dr. Woods yesterday at the Stevens. "They display the same characteristics as the politicians of the ordinary American city, and although the positions pay no salaries there is always a keen fight for them because of the honor. The system has developed some real old-fashioned orators, and when a campaign gets under way the eagle screams in patriotic fashion."

Dr. Woods says the Indians at Neah Bay are prosperous this year, as the salmon run brought in a good deal of money. Although the fishermen are making good money, the industry has lost much of the picturesque since the coming of the gasoline engine.

"The Indians now all fish from motor boats," said Dr. Woods. "You seldom see a man trolling from a canoe. Even canoe building is going out of fashion, the Indians building their own boats white man fashion."

ELK KILLED FOR THEIR TEETH

Elk killers are busy in the upper Quiniault regions of the Olympic National forest, according to R. L. Fromme, forest supervisor in charge of the reserve, who arrived in Seattle yesterday, says the P.-I. Rangers have reported finding several carcasses within the last few days. Nothing but the teeth was taken. Despite the few losses from tooth hunters the elk herds of the Olympics are in good shape, and according to the estimate made by rangers this summer, number 7,000 head. Of these elk about 5,000 range within the borders of the national forest.

Mr. Fromme is well pleased with the work of the rangers during the summer and also with the good campaign of education against fires has apparently done with the general public. Thefigures of expenses incurred fighting fires outside of the regular salary paid the rangers, show an expenditure of but $130 as compared with $2,000 last year. This in spite of the fact that a great many more campers and tourists visited the forest this year than in any other history.

Mr. Fromme is on his way to the Dosewallops, where he will inspect a new trail into the great divide. He will also make a preliminary survey of the country towards the westward with the idea of locating the most feasible route for a continuation of the road through to the ocean.

THEIR TRUE STORY HAS REAL INTEREST

The Siwash editor of the P.-I. had an interesting story the other day on the visit to Seattle, for the first time in 50 years, of Sam and Mary, old-timers among the Quillayute Indians, giving a free interpretation of their comments on the big buildings of the city and other features of interest made while on a tour of Second Avenue. He pictured Sam and Mary as living in a rush mat wickiup on the tide flats and having a hard struggle to make both ends meet, when as a matter of fact they have a comfortable cottage, painted, with picket fence, on a good street in the Indian town of LaPush. Just across the street is a neat little store carrying a varied stock of goods, and you may be sure that Sam's credit is as good as the average Seattleite's for he has a larger income in proportion to his expenses. When Sam would visit his neighbors up river or shop in one of the white man's towns he drives in a comfortable buggy or road wagon behind a good team which he keeps for that express purpose. One of Sam's sons has a power boat, in which they made their trip to Seattle, returning loaded down with those things which please the Siwash eye. The rest of the story, with the exception of the rush mat wickiup, which was supplanted for camping purposes by the ten by twelve tent some twenty-five years ago, may be fairly "true to life," but on the whole the Siwash editor is more ignorant of the Indian and his ways than Sam and Mary were of the metropolis

221,000 TROUT FRY PLANTED IN COUNTY THIS SUMMER

221,000 trout fry have been planted in the lakes and various streams of Clallam county during the past summer, says Game Warden Pike, thus furnishing, in addition to the natural increase, over 100 trout for each licensed angler, of whom there were 1,900 in 1915. It is barely possible, however, that some of the trout may not live to reach the legal length. 70,000 silver trout were liberated in Lake Crescent on the 15th of April, and an additional 50,000 in Beaver Lake at the same time. On the 28th day of May 60,000 cutthroats were planted in Sutherland; followed by another 11,000 on the 28th of June. The remaining 30,000 were black spotted trout, planted in Morse Creek the 8th of last month.

WILL OPEN 25 MILES OF OLYMPIC HIGHWAY

Instead of constructing four miles of the Olympic highway from Lake Quiniault northeasterly, complete in every detail, the state highway commission has decided to expend the 1915 appropriation of $48,175 for clearing, slashing and grubbing the entire length of the highway to Clearwater, or twenty-five miles. This action was taken on the theory that the whole length of the highway cleared and grubbed will offer more advantages to the residents of the district pending such time when another appropriation becomes available for finishing the highway than would but four miles of the road fully completed.

STEAM MOTIVE POWER.

It Had Been Used Long Before the Time of Watts and Fulton.

The Marquis of Worcester while imprisoned in the Tower of London in 1656 invented and constructed a perfect steam engine and had it publicly exhibited the same year at Vauxhall in successful operation.

Thirty-four years later, in 1690, Dennis Papin added the piston to the marquis' discovery. In 1698 Captain Savary devised and built a steam engine different in many details from those made by Worcester and Papin, and in 1705 Newcomb, Cawley and Savary constructed their celebrated atmospheric engine, which was complete in every detail.

The above array of historical facts notwithstanding, James Watt, who was not born until sixty years after these great men had given the steam engine to the world, enjoys the distinction of being the veritable inventor, originator and author of the most useful contrivance of the present day.

Fulton, who lived and worked in the early part of the nineteenth century, is given the credit of being the man who demonstrated that steam could be applied to navigation—this, too, in face of the well known historical fact that De Gary propelled a vessel by steam in the harbor of Barcelona in 1543.—St. James' Gazette.

Arms and the Woman.

"Did anybody ever see a one armed woman?" asked a gray headed man as he surveyed the afternoon parade. "I never did. Almost every day I meet one armed men, but I have yet to encounter a woman with that pitifully empty sleeve. Are there no women who have suffered that mutilation? If not, why not? And, if so, where are they? Yesterday I heard it argued that there was no cause for a woman to lose an arm; that women do not go to the wars and are not engaged in occupations that are likely to carry away a part of their body. But that reasoning is not sound. Many women work in mills and factories, and they are as liable to accidents in the streets and public conveyances as men. Frequently they figure in these accidents; but, although men in the same situation would lose an arm, women never do. What is the cause of their immunity?"

BLOODTHIRSTY FERRETS.

They Kill Not For Food, but For the Mere Sake of Slaughter.

The ferret is one of the most peculiar members of the animal kingdom It belongs also to an extraordinary family, that of the weasels. A branch of this family is called the polecats the European representative of our skunks, and the ferret is a species of polecat, generally an albino, yellowish white in color, with pink eyes.

To hunt and kill mice, rats, rabbits and other small animals is the ferret's delight. It is coldly methodical in its murderous pursuits, and, while it serves its master well, never tiring in the chase and never shrinking from an attack, it exhibits no trace of affection or attachment toward its trainers, as nobler animals do. The ferret is a typical killer and blood shedder. It has no friends and apparently wants none. It cannot be trusted and will sometimes attack small children.

It likes to kill not for the sake of food, but for the sake of killing. The mere act of taking the life of another creature is a pleasure to it. How it got this bloodthirsty strain in its nature no one can tell. Its appetite for slaughter serves well in ridding our houses of rats and mice, but of what use is it to the ferret to kill those creatures? Its nature is that of a demon, and wherever it sees the life blood beating at a throat its brutal instinct urges it to slit the throat with its keen teeth and let the life throb out!—New York Journal.

VANQUISHED THE VIRAGO.

With Euclid as His Ally, O'Connell Won a Brilliant Victory.

In an article on "Old Dublin Streets" Mr. J. H. Halloran draws an amusing picture of a notorious virago named Moriarty, keeper of a small shop opposite the Fourt Courts. Her spirit, originally high and frequently re-enforced by the other variety termed ardent, and her extraordinary range of picturesquely vituperative language made her the terror of whomsoever she denounced and the delight of the audience that always rapidly assembled. She never met her match but once. There have been many versions of that meeting, for the victor was no less a person than Daniel O'Connell, whose friends laid a wager that he could reduce her to silence, but they all appear to be based on the same narrative, published about the middle of the last century by Daniel Owen Madden.

The encounter opened briskly, with a taste of the virago's tongue, promptly administered upon O'Connell venturing to object to the price she asked for a walking stick.

"You old diagonal!" rejoined O'Connell amiably. "Keep a civil tongue in your head!"

Such an epithet, incomprehensible, but doubtless derogatory, did not tend to increase the termagant's civility, and, although further advised—first as a "radius" and then as a "parallelogram"—not to fly into a passion, her anger steadily increased, rising to a climax of infuriated billingsgate, when O'Connell, refusing to retract what he had said already, accused her instead of "keeping a hypotenuse in the house."

"You can't deny the charge," he affirmed with apparent indignation. "You can't—you miserable submultiple of a duplicate ratio! While I have a tongue I'll abuse you, you most inimitable periphery! Look at her, boys; there she stands, a convicted perpendicular in petticoats! There she trembles with guilt down to the extremities of her corollaries. Ah, you're found out, you rectilineal antecedent and equiangular old hag—you porter swiping similitude of the bisection of a vortex!"

It was too much. Abandoning words, the enraged virago snatched up a saucepan to hurl at the head of the perpetrator of such an overwhelming onslaught of geometrical verbosity. A bystander deflected its course, and O'Connell prudently retreated, but he had won the wager. With Euclid for his ally, he had vanquished the virago.

Difficulties.

What is difficulty? Only a word indicating the degree of strength requisite for accomplishing particular objects; a mere notice of the necessity for exertion; a bugbear to children and fools; only a mere stimulus to men.—Samuel Warren.

Very Amusing.

The late Dr. A. K. H. Boyd of Scotland once visited a woman who had lost her husband. By way of comforting her he proceeded to set forth with great earnestness and beauty of language the joys of the state to which the departed one had attained. The bereaved woman, with a vivid recollection of her husband's defects, found it hard to share in the minister's hopes, although she wished to show her sense of his kindness. She unburdened herself thus: "Weel, Dr. Boyd, you're maybe no vera instructive, but you're aye amusing."

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corncob. The remarks of the policeman cannot possibly be recorded. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Yet It Cured Him.

An amusing story is told of a man who was suddenly attacked in the night by a violent fit of earache. His wife told him that there was on the window sill by the bed a bottle of chloroform liniment and recommended him to rub some on his face. Without striking a light he reached out for the bottle, pulled out the stopper, and pouring some of the contents into his hand, anointed his face from mouth to ear. Very soon he announced that the pain was better, lay down again and went to sleep. He was awakened in the morning by a cry of horror from his wife.

"What is the matter?" he inquired.

"Look at your face!" was the reply.

A glance in the glass showed him that his face on one side was as black as a negro's. The bottle which he had grasped in the dark had contained not chloroform, but ink.

To Reward Deserving Employees.

The Canadian Pacific railroad has added to its staff a "scout," whose duty it will be to travel over the system and discover those employees who are especially worthy of advancement. Incidentally he will report those found wanting, but his function primarily is not to make complaints, but to make doubly sure that the deserving are recognized.

LINCOLN HEIGHTS

If there is anything scarcer than news in this locality it was water, Tuesday afternoon. Those on the higher lots here, who had planned to do their washing that day, wished they had done it Monday. The same thing happened several times recently, and it is hard on the tempers of the housewives. Why does this nearly always happen in the morning hours when water is most needed? Who can answer? The lights also played a trick on us recently but that was of shorter duration. And the lad who carries our "Items," forgot last week until it was too late for insertion.

Dakota, September 26, 1886, and to them four children were born, all of whom are still living to mourn the loss of a devoted mother. Their names are J. C. Oswald of Seattle, Mrs. W. C. Smiley of Port Angeles, Mrs. N. R. Wilcox and Mrs. Elsie Newell of Lake View, Oregon. Besides her husband and children, the deceased leaves a mother, Mrs. Mary Morest, and a sister, Mrs. Lottie Parsons of Meadow Valley, California, and another sister, Mrs. Minnie Perkins of North Platte, Nebraska.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Fulmer chapel and were conducted by Rev. Otto G. Gerbich of the Lutheran church; burial was in Ocean View cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Oswald came to Port Angeles the middle of July from their home in California to visit their daughter, Mrs. W. C. Smiley. Just before leaving her home Mrs. Oswald had a fall and soon after arriving in Angeles was taken seriously ill as a result of injuries she sustained at that time. She suffered greatly until death came to her relief. Her daughter, Mrs. Wilcox of Oregon, spent several days with her last week and Mrs. Hurd of St. Paul, a sister of Mr. Oswald, was with them for the past month, leaving Tuesday to return to St. Paul.
