FRUIT AND VEGETABLE EXHIBITS EXCEL THOSE OF LAST YEAR

HALL CONSTANTLY CROWDED

If variety, size and quality of fruits, vegetables and grain make a successful agricultural display, then it will have to be conceded that Clallam county's 1915 fair has not only surpassed all others so far held here, but would undoubtedly compare favorably with any of the county fairs of the state. Over 300 plates of fruit are shown, including apples, some of which, particularly the Gravensteins and Winter Banana, are perfectly beautiful in their rich colorings pears, peaches, plums, prunes, lemons (and mammoth big ones at that), grapes, blackberries, raspberries, several plates of the finest strawberries ever grown, and so on down the list. Even F. N. Rhodes, state horticultural inspector, who,just before starting in to judge the fruit last year, said he had never seen a better display of apples nor more perfect Gravenstein or King apples, would find himself at a loss for superlatives with which to describe the beauty of Nature's handiwork, and would doubtless ask, "Why paint the rose?"

The balconies down either side of Davis & Woods' hall, together with the rest rooms, make an ideal place for an exhibit, one which could hardly have been improved upon had it been built for the purpose, and the superintendents and their assistants have worked hard and most effectually in arranging the exhibits to bring out the best features. Particularly is this noticeable in the vegetable department where Mr. Getchell, assisted by Mr. Stakemiller, have had to cope with hundreds of exhibits, including most everything under the sun. As Mr. Getchell says, the exhibit is far ahead of that of last year and, in fact, of anything he has ever seen.

The county display, thirty varieties of vegetables, perhaps attracts the most attention, because it is uniformly good. Anyone can raise two or three "prize-winning" vegetables, but to raise 25 or 30 varieties is another matter. Every exhibit in the vegetable line is noticeable because of its great size; the tomatoes, for instance, are simply immense, as is the sweet corn, and the mangles and the beets and all the rest. Mr. Getchell says he has aimed to raise as great a variety as possible that they may

EXTENSION DEPT. STATE COLLEGE

All housewives and amateur cooks will be delighted to know that 125 of the favorite recipes of Mary E. Sutherland, extension worker in Home Economics at the Extension Department of the State College at Pullman, will appear in the Olympic-Leader from week to week and we feel sure will be found of great value. Those who attended the session of the Farmers' Institute ,held during the last week of August, will recall with pleasure the splendid address and demonstration work given by Miss Sutherland, who is one of the leading educators of the state and is an acknowledged authority on all questions pertaining to home economics. A number of typewritten copies of her recipes have been received to be distributed among the club women of Port Angeles. The following recipes for using up left-overs will be very acceptable to the economical housewife.

300 FEET OF OIL IN WELL AT FORKS

25 per cent Naptha, 36.3 Burning Oil, 38.3 Lubricating; Most Valuable in United States.

By J. V. Koenig.

Forks, Washington, October 7.—There has not been much activity around the oil well during the past two weeks but interest has decreased not at all. The bailer was operated twice, on Tuesday and was brought up full both times. There appears to be about two or three hundred feet of oil in the well although no accurate measurments have been taken.

An analysis of the oil, made by Dr. W. M. Dehn, of the University of Washington, proves it to be of the very highest quality.

It is 25 per cent naptha, 36.3 per cent burning oil, 38.3 per cent lubricating oil and .2 per cent water. The high per cent of lubricant makes it a very valuable oil, in fact, more valuable than any other found in the United States. There certainly seems to be the probability of a great oil development here but the Forks people are holding in their enthusiasm, also their oil stock, and watching the course of events.

The funeral of Alex Schultz was held at Forks on Wednesday afternoon. An invalid for most of the nineteen years of his life he had gone to Arizona in the hope of getting his health and died there on September 30th. He is survived by his father

IOWA MEETING AT CLUB ROOMS TONIGHT

Remember the meeting of Iowa people to be held in the Commercial Club rooms this Friday evening for the purpose of effecting a "state organization" of Iowa residents in Clallam county. Every person who, before coming to Washington to live, claimed Iowa as his home state will be eligible to join as a charter member. This includes not only those who were born in Iowa, but all those who moved to Iowa early in life, who became Iowans through having been "brought up" in that state. Also, owing to the fact that the chief activity of such a state club, in accordance with the general western custom, will be the holding of an annual picnic, it naturally follows that the family of every Iowan who registers as a member will "belong" to the club.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S DAY AND BABY SHOW TOMORROW

Saturday afternoon, from 1 until 3 o'clock, the babies of Clallam county will be on parade and display on the pavilion floor, which has been specially reserved for them for that purpose. Dr. D. E. SUPERIOR COURT AGAIN IN SESSION

Several Condemnation and Probate Matters Considered. Lamere Sent to Penitentiary.

Seattle, Port Angeles & Western Railway vs. Lewis Westbrook, preliminary hearing on condemnation of strip of land at entrance to spit. Final hearing set for November 2.

Estate of K. C. O'Neill, administrator J. W. Redden submitted and had approved his final report in said matter and was discharged.

Mr. Redden also submitted his biennial report on estate of Luther Foster, minor, showing funds invested at 10 per cent. The report was approved and guardian allowed $150 for services to date.

In the matter of the condemnation suit brought by Carlsborg Mill and Timber Co., for right-of-way across lands of the Macleay Estate Co., the right was contested by the Dungeness Logging Company, who claim the line will parallel their's and that there is no necessity for its construction, that they are willing to enter into an agreement to supply petitioner's mill, and allege at a less expense than the new road can be built and maintained. The decree of final necessity was signed over their objection and the case set for final hearing November 22, by which time it is expected the parties will know if they can get together.

Peter N. George, Frank Mair and Karl Lehman were admitted to full citizenship. Case of Robert Newton Might was laid over until January session, and petition of R. Ungerer was denied for lack of full proof of residence.

Cases of Henry vs. Morse and Henry vs. Fulmer were set for trial for November 2. These cases are for collection of $500 notes secured from defendants, they allege fraudulently.

WINTER SCHEDULE FOR COUNTY FERRY MARJORY

The winter schedule for the Lake Crescent ferry Marjory, which is to go into effect next Monday, the 11th, is as follows: Leave Fairholm at 8 a. m. and 2 p. m. Leaves East Beach at 10 a. m. and 4:30 p. m Subject to change without notice.

FOOT BALL GAME AT 3:30 TODAY, FRIDAY

The first game of football for the season on the home grounds will be called at the base ball park, East Front street, this afternoon at 2:30. High School Alumni against the High School team. General admission ten cents, which will be refunded if you put up a holler that you didn't get your money's worth. The home team did some mighty swift work in the last half of the game at Port Townsend last Saturday, after they recovered from their attack of buck fever and Prof. Regnier, Doctor of Athletics, says they can be depended to put up a stiff fight right from the drop of the hat at 3:30 today.

PURCHASER OF MERRILL & CO. IS A REAL LIVE BOOSTER

Mr. W. M. Wolten, the new proprietor of the Merrill & Co. Grocery, arrived the first of the week and is fast making the acquaintance of the Port Angeles people. A well known traveling man in the city this week said: "You will find Mr. Wolten a splendid addition to your town, he is an excellent business man and a live wire in every respect." Mr. and Mrs. Wolten are living in one of the new bungalows on Second and Peabody. Mrs. Wolten's parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Gundlack, are also going to be residents of Port Angeles and have rented a house on Fourth ad Albert streets.

MOUNTAINEERING CLUB TO GIVE SERIES OF DANCES

The Klahhane Club is planning a series of four invitational dances for the winter season, the first of which is to be held on the 20th of this month. A committee of handsome young lady members of the club, will have charge of arrangements. It is said they propose to make up a program calling for about 100 per cent waltzes, with a few fox trots thrown in for good measure.

It is now finally settled that the Milwaukee depot is to be located on Front street extension between Cherry and Valley streets, with a small station at Francis street. At the public sale of state lands held last Tuesday Attorney Shank purchased the last of the desired property adjoining the main track between the streets named and it is presumed the depot will be built at once as the present building down on the flat is too far from the business center.

COUNTY PROVIDES $131,000 FOR ROAD WORK NEXT YEAR

SHARP INCREASE OVER 1915

Less than a dozen citizens, including the committee from the Commercial Club, Messrs, Lauridsen, Walton, Aldwell, Morse and Brumfield, and Messrs. Earle and Hunt, representing the timber interests, appeared at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners Monday to consider the matter of tax levies for the year 1915. Every item in the estimate was carefully gone into and reductions made where possible. For the most part, however, it was conceded that the estimates were none too high.

The principal discussion centered around the county roads and their upkeep, Commissioners Hansen and Dick maintaining that their estimates were well within reason while Commissioner Clark, though insisting the people of the West End would censure him therefor, conceded that some little reduction might be made this year, spreading the work necessary in the development of the country over a greater period of time.

Commissioner Dick's estimate of $12,000 for the East End, though a considerable increase over the $7,700 of last year, was allowed to stand without discussion. As Attorney Hunt, representing the Milwaukee timber interests, said, "I don't believe you people realize yet that the cost of upkeep of these roads is simply going to be enormous. You will have to raise sufficient money to keep them up, but I believe you should consider well before making extensions. That the East End did not have sufficient funds with which to maintain its roads the past year was admittedly a fact.

Commissioner Hansen made a stubborn fight to retain the $28,000 estimated for R. & B. District No. 2. He said the new roads had entirely changed the character of traffic about Port Angeles; heavy hauling with trucks was now the rule; over two thousand automobiles had helped to tear down our roads the past year and that line of traffic was hardly started; the tourist travel would soon prove the beauty of our country to be our greatest asset, and now that we had this travel started our way we must take care of it and encourage it; in addition to the main roads to Joyce and Piedmont, and to Lake Crescent and on down the Sol Duc, now all in this district, there are a

COUNCIL PLACES TAX LEVIES AT 18.65 AND 16.15 MILLS

INDEBTEDNESS FUND CAUSES RAISE

The tax levies for the year 1916 in Districts No.s 1 and 2, City of Port Angeles, will be 18.65 and 16.15 mills, a raise of 8.65 and 8.15 over the previous year, as provided by the ordinance introduced at the meeting of the City Council Tuesday. In District 1 the current expense fund requires a levy of 9.65 mills, municipal interest 2.50, electric light bond interest 1 mill. In District 2 a levy of 5.50 mills is made for current expense, 1 mill for electric light ond interest and 5.50 for indebtedness.

The ordinance providing for the submission to the voters at the next city election of a measure validating and funding $28,000 lighting fund warrants issued for cost of extensions, and authorizing a $30,000 issue of lighting fund bonds, payable in 20 years at 7 per cent, was submitted to the council, read and referred. It is said that the legality of the warrants issued is questionable and their proper legalization a matter of common honesty. As for the extensions, the rapid growth of the city has brought many urgent demands which cannot be supplied. The borrowing of $30,000 for extensions will enable the city to greatly increase its revenue from the plant, making a handsome profit above the interest charges and other costs, and at the same time giving all the people of the city a square deal in the matter of city lighting. A two-thirds vote is required to carry either or both propositions.

Ordinance licensing junk dealers was passed; official publication in another column of this issue.

City engineer was instructed to bring in final assessment roll in District 34, that bonds may be issued before work is completed.

Street superintendent and street commissioner instructed to ascertain the best way to procure a good grade of gravel for use on the Third and Tumwater road; it is believed the railroad company could furnish the grade of gravel required to make a good roadbed at a moderate expense

Application from Davis & Woods for electric service on the Front street extension was granted, they agreeing to put up the poles and brackets.

Contractor Cotton's bond and contract for construction of sewer in District 38 was approved.

The Toggery was granted permission to erect a billboard at Second and Valley.

Kuppler & Caven were granted an extension of ten days time on sewer contract in District No. 37.

Ralph Van Orman and A. Davidson granted permission to dump logs in the bay, at Francis street.

H. R. Johnson reported a total of $45 collections at the cemetery during September.

O. A. Pettitt's application for a building permit for a $1200 house on 6th between Lincoln and Laurel was granted.

NEW OLYMPUS TRAIL DECLARED FEASIBLE

Would Open Up Grazing and Breeding Grounds of Elk; Magnificent Outing Region.

"This is just the time of the year to get fine pictures of Elk; the Hoh river county is lousy with them," said Mr. Morganroth Monday, on his return from a ten days' trip over near Mt. Olympus. "We would run onto them every once in a while; they'd stop and whistle and we would have to go ahead of the pack horses and shoo them out of the trail. One can go up within ten feet of the biggest kind of bull elk and get their pictures."

Mr. Morganroth had been endeavoring to find a way to get over to the big glaciers at the head of the Hoh, from the Mt. Olympus ranger station. He believes he has mapped out a horseback route that will take one to the shoulder of the Hoh placier and it may be possible to build a trail up to the top of that four mile river of ice, which ends in a cascading wall 1500 to 2000 feet in height. Just what this means will be understood when it is remembered that the Mountaineers, in their two trips to Mt. Olympus, have had to ascend the Elwha to the Basin, practically a four days' trip, and then climb to an elevation of about 6000 feet over a rough mountainside trail and the Elwha glacier to the Dodwell-Rixon pass, going down again on the other side to the foot of the Humes glacier, some six miles, in the valley of the Queets. After packing blankets and provisions over on their backs, they had to climb, the next

INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM AND DIRECT PRIMARY

In these days "betwixt and between" state and national elections, when some states have been holding constitutional conventions, when certain direct legislation in others (notably the "dry" laws) has brought the subject up in another way, and when those who are paying any attention to politics at all are discussing the abstract theories more than concrete, particular candidacies, those reforms of recent years generally called the initiative and referendum and the direct primary have been coming in for more or less consideration and not a little measure of attack.

The decision of a circuit judge in South Dakota, for example, that the legislature has the power to repeal a law enacted by direct vote of the people, raises a question of great importance to the states which have adopted direct legislation, and effects the whole case of the initiative and referendum. Obviously there must somewhere be a power to repeal. No condition could be less democratic, or less tolerable, than that a law once made must stand for all time, beyond reach of amendment or revocation, but if the legislature may freely set aside the laws made by the people, there opens a possibility of conflict that would involve the value of direct lawmaking.

The case against the direct primary is somewhat different. That is solely in the realm of political discussion—it is undergoing a test. Opponents of direct nominations do not yet concede that experience has justified the institution. Its friends have yet to defend it and to seek modifications in its plan that will remove the continuing objections. One thing that has hampered it is that, like many another device, it has been mistakenly held out as an end rather than as a means. At best it is only part in the process of securing the fittest public servants, with the largest degree of freedom from other obligations than to the real master, the public.

The chief article of impeachment of the direct primary has been the failure of a general resort to it by the voters. As a matter of fact they have failed to exercise the power placed in their hands as fully as the theory contemplates though perhaps more fully in Washington than in other states where the old habit of indifference to the caucus, with its indirect effect upon the nomination, has persisted in the conduct of voters as to the primary. Ideally correct, the primary misses its design if it is not attended. The justification of it must finally come in the way in which it is used. Otherwise it will be open to constant attack, leading to modifications that will hinder its freedom and perhaps its ultimate defeat.

Proof of this is to be found in the Whitney party convention bills put through the last legislature by the Republican majority but held up by the referendum until they can be voted on at the general election next year. Then the real test will come, for these bills nullify the direct primary to all practical purposes. If they are approved, then Washington, one of the first to adopt the direct primary, will also be the first to drop it. Are we to say that it is a failure?—Olympia Standard.

OREGON LOANS MILLIONS ON FARMS

Loans at 6% Interest—No Losses—Let Minnesota and Other States Do Likewise.

Every dollar of the more than $6,000,000 of state school funds belonging to the state of Oregon is loaned on first farm mortgages within the state. Not a dollar has been lost on these loans during the past four four years. Loans are made only to the amount of one-third of the value of the property, exclusive of improvements. Oregon's experience compares favorably with North Dakota's described in Northwest Farmstead September 11. It will be noted that the state's loans to Oregon farmers make a total nearly twice as large as North Dakota, but the number of loans in the latter state is rapidly increasing under the added privileges of the law of 1915. South Dakota invests in the same way.

In the light of these experiences, it is all the more amazing that the state of Minnesota should have upward of $6,000,000 of its surplus invested in the bonds of other states at 3 or 4 per cent interest, and not a dollar of it invested in first mortgages upon Minnesota farms! That is an injustice which The Farmstead seeks to remedy.

Oregon's experience is further described in the following letter to Northwest Farmstead from Thomas Kay, state treasurer at Salem, Ore:

"Below is the list of state moneys loaned in this state, principally school funds. The state has no surplus to loan in other funds. All state moneys are loaned on real estate secured by first mortgage notes drawing 6 per cent. The state land board appoints an attorney in each county who looks after the matter of making these loans, and has the right to charge 1 per cent for his services, which is a very small fee. There is no other expense to the borrower, except that the note has to be renewed every ten years.

"The demand for state money is so great that the board does not loan more than $2500 to any one person, and this for the reason that it is considered a favor to get these funds at this rate, and by loaning to more people, it helps to develop the state. We could loan millions more in this state if we had it. I surely think it foolish to buy bonds and other similar investments at lower rates of interest for state funds, for the reason that we feel, in giving the people this money at more favorable terms than they can get it elsewhere, we are using state money in developing our farms and clearing unimproved land."

Amount of State School Fund

Loaned by Oregon upon first farm mortgages in Oregon as of July 31, 1915:

Baker $182,091, Benton $110,220, Clackamas $140,745, Clatsop $30,030, Columbia $61,170, Coos $166,174, Crook $75,675, Curry $37,705, Douglass $127,997, Gilliam $351,504, Grant $201,023, Harney $215,653, Hood River $185,271, Jackson $173,950, Jefferson $8,500, Josephine $173,191, Klamath $172,673, Lake $62,125, Lane $215,307, Lincoln $125,188, Linn $168,524, Malheur $265,188, Marion $365,825, Morrow $250,800, Multnomah $134,087, Polk $152,983, Sherman $203,403, Tillamook $249,515, Umatilla $304,175, Union $256,097, Wallowa $213,233, Wasco $241,741, Washington $97,020, Wheeler $238,421, Yamhill $171,100.

The result of this policy in Oregon has been to decrease the size and increase the number of farms, so that in 1910 they had an average value of $10,000 for land and buildings, $1300 for live stock, $300 for implements, average value per acre about $40. The proportion of farms operated by their owners increased. In the last census year, out of 45,500 farms, 38,000 were worked by their owners, and of these only 13,000 were mortgaged, at an average of $2,000 per farm. Northwest Farmstead estimates that at present the mortgages on owned farms in Oregon aggregate about $25,000,000, nearly one-fourth of which is state money at 6 per cent.

Criticism has no real terrors for the man who has done the best he could. It is the conviction that criticism is justified that imparts to it the real sting.

The Olympic-Leader is always glad to receive its subscribers' ideas concerning the improvement of local conditions. When in the mood, why not write out your suggestions?

NEW TRAIL TO MT. OLYMPUS

day, another ridge, 7000 feet or more in elevation, before they could descend onto the Hoh glacier, from which the climb of Mt. Olympus was made. Permanent camp had to be made in the Elwha Basin, one of the least desirable places in the mountains.

Mr. Morganroth says it will cost $1,500 to $2,000 to build the trail from the Mt. Olympus ranger station to the Hoh glacier, when one can travel by auto to the Sol Duc hot springs and ride horseback from there direct to Olympus. The trail will also open up a magnificent country of parks and small lakes, the summer feeding and breeding grounds of the elk, but being purely a scenic and tourist trail he believes there is small chance of its being built until several other trails more necessary for forest protection have been completed.

At the same time, if the people of Port Angeles wished to get in and work for it, it might be possible to get the money for this scenic trail within a year or so. "The officials," said Mr. Morganroth, "are in favor of building tourist trails when it appears there is a real demand therefor." With the Cox trail, which circles around Mt. Angeles, out of the way by the first of next July, it might be possible to get the Olympus trail built next fall if we went after it.

Asked about the hunting west of Lake Crescent, Chris said there was lots of hunting, but he didn't know about the deer; he believed they were mostly high up yet, any number of them over on the Big Divide.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

et ux., court sustained defendant's demurrer to sufficiency of complaint, and plaintiff was given ten days to further plead.

In State ex rel. D. E. Thompson vs. Louis Dechman, court ordered technical testimony to be given by witnesses agreeable to both sides as to amount of water possible to be taken from Sanborn creek by the defendant by means of intake as now established by Dr. Dechman for the supply of his sanitorium at Lake Crescent. Some time last year in another action Dr. Dechman was restricted to two miners' inches of water from said creek, to be measured by what could be forced through a two-inch gal. pipe, with a 12-inch head. Dechman claims he sought to comply with that order, while plaintiff alleges that he has resorted to subterfuges, and has made no substantial compliance, and therefore is hailed into court under contempt proceedings. In the event counsel cannot agree upon party to make examination and report, court will name an engineer, preferably an hydraulic engineer.

Estate of George Brackett was ordered distributed to present owner, A. W. Balch.

Commissioners were sworn and examined as to claims and allowed by court as follows: August, Dick $28; Hansen $20; Clark $46; September, Dick $92.50; Hansen $89.25; Clark $91. The big claims for September are for services at Seattle on the hearing of the tax suits of timber companies against the county.

Court refused to consolidate actions of foreclosure of Ullstrom vs. Rouse, as asked for by defendant, for reason that the two actions covered separate property.

Case of Carrie Turton vs. Jos. Turton, divorce was set for trial October 20.

The court will be here again on October 19.

GEORGE WILHELM, FOR 5TH WARD COUNCILMAN

George Wilhelm, for the past five years superintendent of the local brewery, is out as a candidate for the position of councilman of the Fifth ward, on the Citizen's ticket. According to his announcement he stands for progress and official integrity, a business man on a business platform.

Mr. Wilhelm is a Western man, having been born in Portland in 1885. Married, and a property owner, he intends to continue to make Port Angeles his home and is working on plans to utilize the brewery in a manufacturing way after the first of the year, thus insuring a continuous payroll. NEW IRRIGATION DISTRICT SOUTH OF SEQUIM

A petition addressed to the county commissioners applying for the organization of an irrigation district, to be known as the "Highland District," is now in circulation here, says the Sequim Press.

The territory proposed to be included within the district is approximately a five thousand acre tract running from the Dungeness river around the hills south of Sequim and eastward to Sequim bay. The proposed ditch will be about six miles in length and large enough to carry fifty thousand gallons of water per minute. There will be from 1500 to 1600 feet of plank flume needed along the course of the ditch. The flume will be ten feet wide and two feet deep. A right-of-way 32 feet wide will be secured.

COMPLIMENTS AND "BOKAYS" RECEIVED WITH PLEASURE

The new principal of the high school, C. E. York, formerly of the Arlington, Washington, high school, is being handed many compliments and is being thrown several "bokays" by the citizens of this city and the pupils of the school themselves. Mr. York has fallen fondly in love with the sociable conditions existing here and is elated with the perfect climate for which the "Port of Angels" is world-famed. It has been repeated again and again that the new principal is the best ever and "appears to be very well educated." Such being the case, the Olympic-Leader cannot help but throw in its "bokay" and wish Mr. York a long stay in our midst.

FALLS FROM TREE; GETS MANY BAD INJURIES

D. H. Faires, 65 years old, living on the corner of Eighth and Lincoln streets, suffered a dislocated shoulder and a broken collar bone and otherwise badly bruised last Sunday morning when he fell off of a ladder while picking fruit in his yard. As he fell he grabbed a large branch which also gave way with his weight. He fell on the side of his neck. Dr. Wm. Taylor, who attended Mr. Faires' injuries, was passing at the time of the accident. The old gentleman is resting easily.

AT THAT, PUYALLUP HAS NOTHING ON PORT ANGELES

The Puyallup Valley fair has more than one feature much superior to other fairs in this state, not the least important being that it can be seen without getting wet. The fair is now almost covered by one roof. The passages from one building to another are so well cared for that mud is eliminated. There are no long walks in the wet, and one can see the fair in the rain as well as in the sunshine.

Talk about the "Vanity of Women!" Do you for an instant suppose there could be found in Port Angeles a dozen women gullible enough to pay good hard money for the privilege of seeing in print an o.k'd account of their experience and ability, their value to the community, and their spotless character, not to mention their (manly) beauty, as evidenced by ancient photos taken when hair was more plentiful than it appears to be today?

ANOTHER STEAMER IN WEST COAST GRAVE YARD

The daily papers of Sunday tell of the wreck off Umatilla Reef of the steam schooner Graywood, formerly the Harold Dollar, a San Francisco boat with which Port Angeles people are familiar. She was bound for Vancouver, B. C., with a $500,000 cargo.

It is believed the ship's seams opened up in the terriffic pounding she had received in the gale then raging, for she had settled until the fires were extinguished by the rising water.

Her officers and crew were rescued by the Hilonian, which was enroute to San Francisco from Seattle, and fortunately within hearing distance of the S. O. S. signals sounded on the schooner's whistle. The Hilonian being equipped with wireless, word was at once sent to Seattle and to the Graywood's owners in San Francisco.

THE WATER FRONT

The steam schooner Nome City, leaving Sunday on her first regular trip to San Francisco, carried a full cargo of lumber from the big mill with a top dressing in the shape of a deckload of 1,000,000 shingles from Earnie Wait's mill, loaded at the City Dock.

A scow load of coal was brought in from Ladysmith, B. C., Sunday by the gas schooner Albert.

The purse seiners Annie H. Undine, Volunteer and Cisco were in the first of the week, unloading a few fish. They all say that while the trollers did well at the cape it has been a poor year for the purse seiner.

The Union Oil boat President was in Saturday and the Standard Oil Co.'s Petroleum on Monday.

The pastor and church extend a most cordial invitation to the public to be present at these services. You will receive the glad hand, and will find the services very helpful.

The pastor now considers himself a citizen of Port Angeles and as such freely offers his services to all folks who may need him and especially is anxious to help in all efforts to make this city the best city in every sense of the word. It has been his delightful pleasure to have met some of the leading citizens of the city, among them being the modern, down-to-date, hustling, Johnny-on-the-spot, secretary of the Commercial Club. After I left him I said to myself, I am going to help that chap, all I can to reach his ideals in Port Angeles. Let everyone say amen.

THE COUNTY SCHOOLS

The secretary of the Commercial Club informs this office that arrangements have been made whereby school children may be admitted free to the Clallam county fair. The time set for the children to attend is Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 12, at which time no charges will be made for children of the public schools. Some of the boys and girls have exhibits at the fair and no doubt there will be much to see both entertaining and instructive. The fair is to be held in the Pavilion on Front street.

According to previous arrangements teachers who attend the Washington Educational Association which convenes in Seattle October 27 to 29, will be given two days' institute credits in Clallam county. The teachers of the city schools of Port Angeles and Sequim have already signified their intention of attending the W. E. A. on those terms and a large delegation is expected from this county. Teachers may attend Thursday and Friday and Saturday. Those who cannot get away in time to attend the Thursday session may count the following days Friday and Saturday on institute attendance. The following rates have been procured from the Puget Sound Navigation Co: From Port Angeles, Dungeness or Sequim to Seattle and return, $1.50 tickets, good until Sunday, October 30, for return trip.

The Sol Duc leaves Port Angeles at 2 p.m. and the Sioux at 7 a. m.

Teachers are urged to join the Association and contribute to its support by sending the annual dues of 50 cents to the county superintendent who will give receipt for same. Programs of the Association are now being mailed to all teachers in the county.

The monthly report is a new feature of the county superintendent's office this year. The report is in post card form and made to fit the card index files. They contain such data as are often found convenient in the office and teachers are urged to report promptly at the end of each month.

The outline course of study has been rather late in making its appearance this year due to the fact that we expected the state course in sufficient time to have it as a guide in preparing the new county course. However the outline for the county will be out in a few days and copies sent to all the teachers in the county

Teachers will please note the eighth and seventh grade reading circle books and that four questions in geography will be based on the two following books: How the World is Housed and How the World is Fed. By calling the pupils attention to this fact and procuring copies of the books the chances for passing the eighth grade examination will be materially increased. Without this knowledge pupils will be handicapped in attempting to take the examination.

The next Teachers' Examination will be held in the new Central School House, Port Angeles, November 4, 5 and 6, 1915.

DEPREDATIONS CONTINUE ON LINCOLN HEIGHTS

Joe Marletti is complaining grievously because of the lack of proper police protection on Lincoln Heights, windows in his house, and his neighbors' houses as well, having been broken, his fence torn down, goods stolen, all apparently by hoodlums. He believes the city should make a stronger effort to apprehend the guilty parties, so that a person may go away from home without having to station a guard at the front gate.

ACTIVITIES OF THE STATE'S DEPARTMENTS

Olympia, October 6.—A committee consisting of Judges Kenneth Mackintosh of King county, and John R. Mitchell of Thurston county, Assistant Attorney General Scott Z. Henderson and Prosecutor Frank Christenson of San Juan county, decided at their meeting here this week that the best method to remedy a glaring lack of uniformity in penal sentences will be able to transfer all discretion from the sentencing judges to the prison and reformatory boards.

This committee was appointed by the prosecuting attorney's association, at their recent meeting in connection with the Washington state bar association. In accordance with this conclusion a bill will be prepared for presentation to the next legislature, classifying all crimes and prescribing a minimum and maximum sentence for each crime. In passing sentence judges will be required to name the statutory minimum and maximum.

The committee's action adopts in detail the recommendation of the state board of control, which comprises a majority of both the prison and reformatory boards. It has been the experience of the board to find in many cases a prisoner with one year minimum serving along side a second prisoner, convicted of the same offense from another county, with a five year minimum.

Uniformity in the treatment of prisoners has thus been impossible without calling upon the governor in many instances to exercise the pardoning power. It is believed that the change proposed in the law will eliminate four-fifths of all pardons now granted.

Another reason that impelled the committee of judges and attorneys to recommend the change was the fact that the board of control, thru its close connection with the national identification bureau, has a much better opportunity to learn of the past records of convicts than have the committing judges.

October 1 marked the end of four years of operation of the Washington industrial insurance act, the first workmen's compensation law to become effective in this country.

During the four years there have been 56,483 accidents reported to the commission, and $5,521,381 has been collected to meet the claims, or approximately $100 an accident.

The expense of administration has been kept to a little more than 6 per cent of the collections, a much lower percentage than has been reached by any other commission, state or national.

Although the second year under the law showed an increase in accidents as compared with the first year, accidents have been decreasing steadily during the last two years. For the first nine months of 1915 there have been 10,002 accidents reported, as compared with 11,196 during the first nine months of 1914, and 12,683 during the same nine months of 1913.

Fully 60 per cent of the $2,000,000 road building program outlined by the recent legislature for the biennium, will have been completed by the state highway department by the end of the present calendar year, is indicated by estimates of the progress of contract and force account work. The largest expenditure on any highway was $318,000 on the Pacific highway. The most important pieces of work on this road, the Waterfront and Nisqually sections, will be completed by November 1. Other of the most notable activities of the present year have been the opening of the Snoqualmie pass section of Sunset highway, the opening of the Olympic highway, giving the peninsula its first direct connection with the mainland, and completion and opening of a new route to Mt. Rainier.

With statistics complete, it is evident that timber loss by forest fires this summer will amount to approximately 20,000,000 feet, a much smaller record than that of the average year.

August burning permits provided for the clearing of 46,517 acres of land, is shown by statistics prepared by Forester E. W. Ferris, as compared with 37,560 acres burned under permits in August 1914.

Resources of the 276 banks aggregate $119,018,991.39 according to a compilation prepared by State Bank Examiner W. E. Hanson of reports in response to the call of September 2. Individual deposits amount to $92,154,560.32, while deposits due to other banks are $4,419,415.07, these items representing an aggregate increase of $2,000,000 over the figures of the preceding call.

The state tax commission this week sent to county prosecutors throughout the state simultaneously requests for the arrest of 400 holders of federal liquor licenses who have not taken out state licenses for the current year beginning July 1. The commission is determined that no liquor dealers shall close out their business, in anticipation of prohibition, without paying their state licenses, but each man whose arrest now is asked, has been given ample warning and has been served with two notices of delinquency.

Peculations to the extent of $19,000 on the part of a Walla Walla bank teller, which were unknown to the officials of the bank, were discovered by the state bank examiner's office and reported to the institution last week. The teller confessed, transferred the real estate he had purchased with his thefts to the bank, and was sentenced to the reformatory for two to fifteen years.

State Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson has directed the institution of test suit in the King county superior court to determine whether "station men" given 100 feet of road work to do, are sub-contractors or employes. Horrocks Construction Co., defendants in the test suit, a prosecution for violation of the eight hour law on public works, claims it is not responsible or station men working ten hours. Recognition of such a contention, Commissioner Olson claims, not only would destroy the effect of the eight hour law, but might afford employers of women on piece work opportunity to adopt the same argument to defeat the effect of the minimum wage law.

The Standard Oil Co. has instituted suit in King county superior court to prevent the state department of agriculture from collecting fees for oil inspection, from which source an annual revenue of $75,000 now is derived.

Labor Commissioner E. W. Olson has served notice upon hotels that the reported practice of charging chambermaids for rooms which they do not occupy, with the effect of lowering their legal minimum wage, will not be tolerated by the labor department.

One of the most important terms of the supreme court, opens October 11. The M. & K. Gottstein suit, involving the validity of the prohibition law, has been set for hearing en banc October 22. Other cases to be heard include suits attacking the new fish code, the jitney bonding bill, and the exemption from taxation of Y. M. C. A. property.

"COUNTY PRINTING" AN APT ILLUSTRATION

The protest of Washington coal mine operatives against the employment of California oil for the heating of state institutions is well timed. No community can afford to discredit its own resources, to depreciate the value of investment in its industries or curtail the pay rolls of citizens who find employment in its productive activities, by sending outside, even to a neighboring city, for anything that can be manufactured or produced at home.—West Coast Trade.

$131,000 FOR ROAD WORK NEXT YEAR

number of farmers' roads to be taken care of and he had always found the farmers were perfectly willing to pay their road tax for they needed the money on their roads. In reply to Mr. Hunt's query as to new road work to be done in this district, Mr. McLaughlin said, "We have simply got to put a new road down to Gettysburg this year," and Thos. Aldwell spoke of the Little River road which had now gotten so bad that the ranchers were compelled to walk out. Someone called Commissioner Hansen's attention to the General Road and Bridge Fund, already placed at $43,900, saying that he could make up his district's requirements out of that. He was of the opinion that all of that not absolutely necessary elsewhere for emergency work would go into the East End, but they thought Hansen could be trusted to get his share and he finally consented to an 8 mill levy, which will raise about $25,500, a trifle less than was levied in 1914, yet some eight or ten thousand dollars more than district two actually had to spend, by reason of unpaid taxes.

Commissioner Clark said there was a great deal of complaint down his way because all the money so far had gone on the main roads, that the people now wanted to be connected up with the main roads. He had put in an estimate of $35,000 for No. 3 and $25,000 for No. 4, but finally accepted $28,800 for the former and $21,000 for the latter, which required levies of 7 ad 6 mills as against 5 mills in each district this past year. To Mr. Earle's inquiry as to where the funds to be raised in District 3 were to be spent, Commissioner Clark said he would put $12,000 into the Ozette-Clallam Bay road, $4,000 into a road to Pysht and $5,000 into a road running south of Neah Bay.

The General Road and Bridge Fund levy was placed at three mills, which will raise $43,922, as against $29,000 last year when a two mill levy was made. It was said that the district money was not sufficient to maintain the main roads; they had been too thinly graveled and had been worn out by the heavy travel; the money raised last year had proven altogether insufficient for the purpose. Mr. Hansen said they were now considering a scheme of employing a special supervisor to keep up the main roads of the county, traveling with a crew of men from place to place as required. For this purpose they would use the General Road and Bridge Fund. The idea was heartily endorsed by former Commissioner Lauridsen, saying we have got now to a point where we have got to have a different system to take care of the roads.

The river improvement fund of $3,000, which had been cut out altogether last year, was allowed to stand. Commissioner Dick maintained that sum was but a drop in the bucket compared with the expenses of the county, besides which the Dungeness farmers always met any considerable expenditure fifty-fifty. If the river be not kept free of logs the county will lose a good part of its most valuable land. Experience had shown that where the farmers were left to protect themselves they would shear the water off onto their neighbors, involving them in endless lawsuits. "Let it go!" said some one, and they let it go.

The indebtedness funds, including the deficit at the end of the year 1915, proved quite a problem. After again going over the probable running expenses to the end of the year, Deputy Auditor McLaughlin concluded that the deficit would not run up to $49,000, the estimate, which had been placed high enough to cover any items that might possibly have been overlooked, and $35,000 was set down to cover that portion of the Current Expense fund. Referring to this deficit, Mr. Hunt said the two items which had occasioned the most of it, the new court house and the ferries, were the "best things that had ever been done in the county." He quoted a "man from Bremerton" to the effect that the county commissioners down here "had built a ferry at a cost of eight or nine thousand dollars that proved most excellent in operation; if it had been anywhere else the commissioners would have spent $25,000."

The indebtedness fund for the retiring of outstanding warrants, issued by our forefathers, was placed at $11,000, a cut from the estimate of $10,000. $50,000 had been estimated for the purpose of retiring bonds and paying interest on the same. This was cut to about $29,000, requiring a levy of 2 mills, with the understanding that a three mill levy should be made for this purpose next year.

The estimate of $10,000 for the purpose of paying expenses in connection with the suit brought against the county by two or three of the timber companies was though a little high and $7,500 will be raised for that purpose. In either case the amount necessary is a clear guess. Commissioner Hansen boiled over and said it was a disgrace the county should have to pay that. "You wouldn't swear, would you, John," Aldwell wanted to know. "No, but they didn't have a case when they got there and they couldn't manufacture one after they did get down there."

An item of $3,000 for repairs and improvements to the court house was allowed to stand, it being explained that Fourth street would have to be improved in order to get in with coal, as they could not haul across the school house grounds. The remainder would go for cutting down of the hill where the old building stood. A thousand dollars for land clearing at the county home was also questioned, but Mr. Dick explained they had a forty acre patch slashed, burned and picked up which ought to be improved as it was good land. The $1,500 estimate for insurance was cut out as it developed that it had already been paid.

The expenditure of some $4,000 for the relief of the poor, in addition to mothers' pensions, seemed high, but as Mr. Hunt said, "times are pretty hard for poor people. The coast towns have been over advertised. One can't go down town in Seattle and stand ten minutes on the corner waiting for a street car without some poor devil asking for a nickle to buy a loaf of bread." As we are paying $200 a month right now for mothers' pensions, the estimate of $2,500 is probably low," said Mr. McLaughlin.

The expenditure of $1,000 for a county agriculturist, it was thought, it not entirely necessary and the innovation could be postponed until next year. Commissioner Dick said the law provided that the State College should provide a man if the county decided they wanted to incur the expense. He had practically agreed with Commissioner Mutty of Port Townsend to employ one man and divide his time and salary between the two counties; he was farming now about the same as he did 27 years ago and believed he could learn something from an expert in new methods. Mr. Walton said a great many counties in the West have such help and assistance, "It comes back." Word then being received from Mr. Mutty, over the phone, that they had adopted Mr. Dick's suggestion, the expenditure was approved.

All other items stand as given in the estimate with the exception of the expenses of the county engineer's office, which were cut to $3,000 as it was believed the amount of field work would be greatly reduced this next year.

This is Fair Week

And, by the way, we want all visitors to inspect our new stock of fall suitings for men.

Don't Overlook Quality

It is better to say, "My clothes must look right and wear well," than to make up your mind to spend as little as you can for clothing.

False and True Economy

The first point of view is "True Economy," the other is "False Economy." We advise a happy medium for a new fall suit—one that will be satisfactory in every particular. Special attention given to the fitting of every garment.

Our Added Attraction This Week

Is the up-to-date CLEANING AND PRESSING DEPARTMENT. It is in the running 365 days a year. Every person knows the necessity of a plant like this. "We do not use poor soap,"—modern methods always.

Take a hint from the Leading Cleaners and Pressers and let them make your suit look like new again.

RAILROAD EXTENSION ON SPIT

P. J. Woods announces the securing of a contract from the Milwaukee for the building of an additional mile of trackage along the inner spit, the work being rendered necessary in order to increase the dumping grounds of the Earles mill, which has been hampered by lack of room in this respect. While building the extension the railway company is putting in enough to provide facilities for an additional mill, or for factories Creosoted piling will be used and it is expected that work will be begun within a couple of weeks.

Mr. Woods also completes this next week his contract for a drying shed at the Earles mill, which, being 100 by 300 feet, or covering four city lots, will take care of quite some lumber.

Mrs. Frank Madison expects to have on display at the fair a pair of linen pillow cases 130 years old, which were made by her great, great grandmother.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERTS VISITING ANGELES TODAY

I. D. Cardiff, instructor in the State College, and director of rural farming development, arrived yesterday to consult with the county commissioners concerning the appointment of a county agriculturist, provision for which was made by the Board at its sess.on the first of the week. Mr. Cardiff has recommended O. T. McWhorter, who is at present in charge of the experiment station at Snohomish, for the position. It is expected that he will arrive today, in response to a telegram, and that both gentlemen will address those present at the Fair this afternoon. According to the arrangement with Jefferson county, each is to pay one-fourth the expense, or $450, the state standing the other half of the $1800 salary, and the instructor is to divide his time between the two counties.

Overshirts in all styles, wool and cotton. It will pay you to see our line before buying. Prices range from 50 cents to $5.00. Try C. S. Stakemiller.

EXHIBITS EXCEL THOSE OF 1914

set a good table at the county home without being dependent upon the town markets.

P. S. Govan's exhibit of Golden Yellow Dent ensilage corn would attract attention anywhere in the West as the ears are exceptionally well shaped.

A potato exhibit by the State Department of Agriculture, 20 varieties all large and even sized, is especially interesting in that it shows what can be done in this state, which is behind all other western states in potato culture. There is accompanying information concerning choice of varieties, selection and preparation of seed, etc.

Other exhibits by James Sanford of Sequim, C. A. Laurens, Lum Sue, and E. Durmel attract a great deal of attention. Mr. Sanford sent in a Hubbard squash that weighed 41 pounds, a potato sack chuck full of one squash. "I have attended many fairs in the east," said Mr. Getchell as he dumped it out of the sack, "and I never saw anything like that." Sanford also shows timothy 6 feet high, clover 4 feet, rye 9 feet. Lum Sue appears to be some squash raiser too, though his 95½ pounder is not a Hubbard; he also exhibits cucumbers 2 feet long and 4 inches in diameter.

C. A. Laurens has on display several varieties of potatoes, grown from the seed, which he calls "Strictly Clallam County Products." He may well be proud of them. Dermul shows the customary celery, lettuce, etc., too well known to mention as he has taken first prizes at all state fairs for years back. A. E. Ramage shows hemp, millet and hops, all of wonderful growth. There are cantaloupes, citron, popcorn, salad potatoes, snow ball tomatoes, ground cherries, wonderberries, mulberries, and a lot of other varieties not often grown here. A branch of English walnuts, shown in the husks, together with ripe nuts, from the Craig place, is quite a curiosity.

A. W. Smith of Mora and Harvey B. Smith of Quillayute sent in fine exhibits, the former including a sample of sugar cane, possibly the first ever grown in this section.

One of the best exhibits in the agricultural department is that of Fred Sutter's, who brought it in just to show his interest and not with any expectation of winning a prize. Fine bundles of wheat, oats and vetch, three mammoth Hubbards, two or three kinds of roots, and last but not least, a box of Roosevelt spuds of uniform large size, the largest measuring 10 inches in length by 5 wide.

The Women's Department of the Fair presents a very attractive appearance, quantities of vines and flowers have been effectively used in the decorating and there is a wonderfully fine display of flowers for this time of year.

The fancy work includes some very fine work, especially in embroidery and tatting and there are a number of handsome crocheted bed spreads ad a great deal of crocheted lace. A truly splendid display could have been made of all kinds of fine needlework had the ladies known in time that they were to have had charge of this department.

Some very nice work is exhibited by the children; girls of 8 and 10 years of age have needlework of which they may well be proud. In the school exhibit the library table made by Joe Hoare, a boy of 15, received some very favorable comments and the girls taking the sewing this year had a very pretty assortment of guest towels.

The Toggery and Nattinger Bros. deserve special mention as being the only merchants represented. A great deal of artistic skill is shown in the arrangement of the Toggery display, which attracts much attention. Prominently in the foreground is their trade mark "Quality First."

One of the exhibits that is attracting a great deal of attention is that of Mrs. H. Malchou. It is two large lemons, each about twice the size of an ordinary one and a branch of the tree in blossom. These were grown at her home here on East 11th street.

A handsome dining room set is attractively displayed by Nattinger Bros., with a fine assortment of rugs.

The Port Angeles Furniture Co. has a nice line of their home manufactured articles on display and it is a surprise to many to see how very nice an article Mr. Clark is able to put out.

The photographic work and artistic protraiture of Mrs. Clark, proprietor of the Sunset Studio, elicited a great deal of admiration and praise. Her local views tinted with water colors, or the new oil process make very beautiful pictures.

An exhibit that attracts no little attention, due almost entirely to the excellence of he work, is that of Robert Kennett, the Laurel street photographer. Mr. Kennett is showing a complete line of work including a number of enlargements, for the production of which he has special apparatus. His enlargement of a basket of trout, caught in the Lyre river by E. B. Webster, has already brought in several orders from anglers who wish a copy to hang in their dining rooms.

A number of special prizes have been donated by the merchants around town, to be used at the discretion of the judges. Among them are a handsome parlor lamp by Christopherson, three 2 pound cans of Folger's Golden Gate coffee by Fred P. Hensen, and two 5 pound pails of lard by the Columbia market.

Kodak films any size, developed, 10c roll by Kennett.

YOUNG LAD, OF WEST END, IS CALLED BY GRIM REAPER

The funeral services of Alex Schultz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schutz of the West End, were held at Forks Wednesday of this week, and were largely attended by the many friends of the family, who are among the early pioneers of the county, having located on their present homestead on the Sol Duc near Bear Creek, 27 years ago.

Alex Schutz was born October 15, 1896, at the old homestead; he has been in failing health for some time and was taken to Arizona this summer by his brother John. Hopes of his recovery from that dread disease tuberculosis, were strongly held by his people, and word of his death last week came as a great shock to them. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Otto Gerbich of the Lutheran church of Port Angeles, and musical numbers were redered by a male quartette and a solo by Mrs. T. Rixon. Besides the parents of deceased, there remain to mourn his untimely death, three sisters, Mrs. James Clark, Miss Louise Schutz, Miss Sofia Schutz and two brothers, John and Peter.

WALTON AND BEST FOR MAYOR AND COUNCILMAN

The many friends of E. J. Walton will be pleased to know that he has not turned a deaf ear to their earnest solicitations and has finally filed for mayor. Since becoming a resident of Port Angeles Mr. Walton has proven in many ways his ability to fill acceptably any public office of trust which might be tendered him. Coupled with exceptional business and executive ability, he has a most pleasing personality and a genuine interest and love for Port Angeles. No better man could be chosen for this important office.

Mr. C. D. Best, who has filed for councilman of the Fourth ward, has been a resident of Port Angeles for a number of years and owns considerable property, consequently he feels deeply interested in the growth and improvement of the city and would doubtless make a good councilman.

ANOTHER RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR TRANSPORTATION CO.

Fred L. Seixas, who has been appointed receiver for the Port Angeles Transportation Co. by Judge Talman, upon the application of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, was in the city yesterday. Those who would have liked to have had Mr. Lauridsen, appointed by our superior court, continue as receiver, and they included about 90 per cent of the creditors, will be sorry to learn of the supreme court decision. Mr. Seixas, however, says he is determined to do the honorable thing by all parties ad that he appreciates the courtesy with which he has been received and hopes he will be able to wind up the company's affairs to the satisfaction of all.

DAVIS & WOODS HAVE MOVED TO NEW OFFICE

Davis & Woods have moved their insurance and real estate office from the opera house block to their own building on the Front street extension, where they have one of the brightest and most pleasant office rooms in the city.

The jitney luncheon given by the ladies of the Congregational church was a tremendous success. The ladies desire to express their appreciation and thanks to the Pioneer Electric Co. for the conveniences placed at their disposal. Patrons all appreciated the cup of coffee of delicious flavor made on the electric percolator, the biscuits hot from the electric oven, meat fairly cooked by reversing heat, and cream pies browned to order in the electric oven. All the ladies were enthusiastic in asserting that the Christmas present should be something in the electric line from the Pioneer Electric Co.

The Freshman reception left nothing to be desired in the way of initiating the children as well as the new high school teachers. Since there was such a large class of Freshies it took a good part of the evening to initiate them, after which they all took part in a drawing contest. Refreshments were served in cafeteria style, and after all, we do think that the Freshmen conducted themselves very well at their first high school party.

The Port Angeles Rebekah lodge was represented at the district meeting at Coupeville, Tuesday of this week by Mesdames Harley, Ramsey, Falk, Bergman, Mason, Rose, Spooner, Goldwater, Brownrigg, Allen and Miss MacClure. They report a very successful meeting and a delightful time, the Coupeville ladies extending to them the warmest hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gutenberg returned this week from a month's sojourn at the Olympic Hot Springs, where they enjoyed a fine outing and rest and wonderfully improved their health. A little later they expect to visit the California fairs and will spend the winter in the sunny south.

Mrs. H. G. Horstman, daughter of J. E. Beam, arrived last Monday with her two little daughters from Cincinnati, Ohio, and expects to spend the winter in Angeles. Her husband will join her here in the spring when they expect to build them a home.

Mrs. W. H. Molchoir, wife of the railroad superintendent, left Thursday for Missoula, Montana, her former home, to spend a month with her friends. Mr. Molchoir accompanied her to Seattle.

They expect to have a famous cook and all kinds of good eats. Those who attended a similar affair three years ago will recall the occasion with pleasure and plan to be there again.

Manager Phillips of the Telephone company demonstrated his public spirit this week by putting in a phone at the fair building, a great convenience to those who are working so hard to make the fair a success. F293 is the number.

Mr. E. Keller of this city and Miss Agnethe Keller of New York Mills, Minnesota, were quietly married in Seattle, September 27th. Mr. Keller being employed as a Milwaukee engineer, they will reside in Port Angeles.
