

THE PRIMARY CORNER

Three important additions to the staff of the Forks Primary School are the Indian aides. They are Eileen Penn, Donna Jaime, and Iola Williams. They are employed under the Johnson-O'Malley Act, a Congressional law to aid in the scholastic and cultural development of children. Besides working directly with the Indian children, they consult with parents and teachers, supervise playground activities, take children for medical and dental treatment, and make house calls on parents. Each day attendance is checked and it has been noted how much it has improved this year.

An important phase of their job is the attendance at meetings with other Indian aides in various parts of the state. Some of these are training sessions on how they can improve their tutoring, others are to report on what they are accomplishing here. At both of these they hope to get ideas for our children.

A TOUCH OF WINTER--The waters of the Bogachiel rearing pond reflects the white of winter. The waters are cool now as is the air. Fresh and crisp as is the river which runs nearby. In the foreground we find ghostly branches looming from the snow depths, adding contrast to our touch of winter. By Lonnie Archibald

ONP Awards Road Contract

The largest Preliminary Road Survey Contract ever awarded on the Olympic National Forest was awarded to J. D. Swift and Associates, of Olympia, Washington.

According to Frank LaGambina Preconstruction Engineering Assistant on the Sleduck Ranger District, approximately 23.7 miles of "P" line survey in three separate areas was negotiated this Fall. Twelve miles of road are in the Rugged Ridge area eight miles in the Beaver Ridge area and 3.7 miles in the Haystack Mountain area.

"The survey will be accomplished with a transit and tape with a required accuracy of not less than 1:1000", said LaGambina. This means for every 1000 feet of line surveyed, the total error accumulated from turning angles and chaining distances, cannot exceed one foot. This is the standard used by the Forest Service in mountainous terrain.

"We plan to run two or three full time crews with more help on weekends". "This will insure us of completing the project within the 180 day time limit.", stated Swift.

Access into the Beaver Ridge and Haystack Mountain areas is no problem as these projects are near existing roads. "But this is not the case on Rugged Ridge", said Swift. To expedite access into the area one or two helispots will be constructed and spike camps will be flown into the area.

"This will save two to three hours a day walking time, and on a job this long, every hour is critical", Swift said. During the surveying of the different projects, the Forest Service will have field crews checking to insure contract compliance.

Stan Fouts, Civil Engineering Technician on the Sleduck Ranger District, will be the inspector on these projects. According to Fouts, some of the items to be checked are: Distances and angles measured and recorded accurately, levels that close within the required accuracy, and all breaks in the ground recorded in the cross-section notes. "We spend about three man days a mile checking these surveys", Fouts said.

St Annes Church nears completion

Work will soon be completed on the St. Anne's Mission Church of Forks, located on Mansfield Road and E Street. Some staining and painting of the interior and some floor covering remains to be done by the congregation of the church and this may be completed in time for the holiday services.

Larry Soderlind has headed the building committee and worked with Father Maar of Port Angeles since the project planning began nearly 2 years ago. This church is the reduced size solution of some 2400 square feet of floor area and will seat nearly 200 people. The old chapel will remain adjacent and be used for C.C.P. receptions and other purposes.

The new church makes provisions for three expandable modular pods which can be added at a later date. Each pod addition would add approximately 50 seats. Total possible future seating could be projected to 325 as the congregation grows.

Floors are concrete with some carpet and resilient finish and generally cedar vertical tongue and groove siding on the exterior and will be stained. Roofs of upper sanctuary areas are exposed 2 x 6 cardecking with natural stain. Rest rooms and sacristy and other smaller room ceilings are furred and plastered. The altar backdrop or "reredo" is of natural stained vertical cedar and is lighted by an upper roof light of glass.

The heating is a mixture of electric forced air with perimeter ducting in floor at the seating sanctuary areas. This is supplemented by recessed wall heaters with low speed fans to move the air. Smaller rooms have wall fan heaters or baseboard type.

Enger Construction of Port Angeles was the general contractor. Plumbing was by Caven Plumbing and Schmitt Sheet Metal. Electrical and electric heating was by Fletcher Electric of Forks.

Architectural work and supervision was by architect Les Roline and Associates of Port Angeles.

Here are 16 things you get from Washington's private forests.

How many can you name?

Everywhere you turn you'll find trees helping Washington people. In jobs alone, 63,000 men and women depend upon the forest products industry for employment. Total gross sales for Washington forest-based industries will be $2 billion this year. It takes a lot of money to keep these forests green and growing. Millions of dollars go into intensive forest management, more millions are paid out in taxes—for local and state government and schools.

The forest tax story is complicated, but in simple terms, tree farmers pay a land tax and a tree tax. The tree tax is cumulative. In other words, the tree is taxed year after year, again and again, until harvest. This means that early growth is taxed as much as 30 to 90 times. To maintain intensive forest management as we know it today, there needs to be stabilization of the soaring tax rates on timber, and the development of an equitable and predictable tax system.

Everyone benefits in some way from the forest products industry. We urge you to find out how private commercial forests are helping to make this the greenest state in the country. Write: Washington Forest Protection Association, Box B, 1411 Fourth Avenue Building, Seattle, Washington 98101.

Meditation

By Howard Stockman

Life can really be a puzzle. Philosophers have pondered the many mysteries of life and have set up philosophies to try to explain how life works only to have another philosopher prove he was wrong and set up another philosophy. As man we have not been able to explain completely what life is.

The Church tells about God as God revealed himself to man in history. This is something that is much more than a philosophy of life; it deals with life itself. For God is the creator and sustainer of life. It is in God that we find the real meaning in life.

There is so much change going on in this day and age and every person needs a solid base with which he can meet life. This base is Jesus Christ in whom all life exists. He is the one who gives us the guiding love we need as we live each day. He gives those who believe and trust in Him the positive strength to meet every situation which confronts us in life. In Jesus we find more than a philosophy of life for in Him we find life itself.

This baby in the picture represents a new year ahead. In His grace God has granted us another year of living under Him in joy and happiness. If you have not found this joy in Christ take advantage of the opportunity this year. Come to Church and find the joy which God wants you to have. Let go of the many philosophies that are made by men and come to worship the architect of life. Don't let the year become old and have lost the opportunity that God has given us for one more year. The hand of friendship goes out to all to worship Christ our newborn King.

Every Man a Philosopher

Everybody holds some view about life and its meaning. What ever confronts us in our daily round is the substance out of which we weave our "philosophy of life."

But merely to have an isolated thought or an opinion does not help us find a foundation on which to base our entire lives. We need encouragement and guidance.

The message of the Church has been, through the ages, concerned primarily with the deeper meaning of life. It lends wisdom to those who are striving to relate themselves to the total pattern and purpose of human existence. It helps us maintain a reasonable stability amid the flux of human endeavor and events. It helps us relate the totality of all that has been, is now and ever shall be.

Let the Church help you weave these golden threads into the finished fabric of life.

Social Scene

Spending Christmas vacation with Mrs. Ruth Ann Leppell is Miss Toni Swan, home from college and Bert Greist. Bert is attending Eastern Washington State College in Cheney. He is a sophomore, majoring in pre-med. A native of Selawik, Alaska, Bert told me that the town he comes from has around 900 people. They are all natives (Eskimos) except for the teachers and the minister. Selawik is located 3 1/2 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The temperature goes down to 60 degrees below zero. The houses are very modern. The main occupation during the winter months is carpentry, hunting and fishing. During the summer time they mostly work for the forestry. In his spare time Bert enjoys hunting (moose, caribou, black and brown bear), along with mink, beaver and wolverine trapping. When asked about his plans for the future Bert said that he plans to (after completing his major) go back to his hometown and open a medical clinic. The closest hospital is in Kotzebue, so the surrounding villages have to depend on planes to get their patients to the hospital. Good luck, Bert.

Spending the wreck with Mr. and Mrs. John Spoelstra was Miss Dorothy Zylstra of DuVall, Washington, Miss Zylstra is the Spoelstra's niece. Also spending the weekend at the Spoelstra home was Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Kelstrup of Centralia.

Rev. Kelstrup is the former pastor of the Forks Bible Church.

OSCAR WAHLGREN IS HOME AGAIN FROM THE HOSPITAL, HE WILL NOT BE ABLE TO TAKE HIS MORNING WALK TO THE PHARMACY FOR HIS PAPER FOR A WHILE, BUT WAIT AND SEE, HE WILL BE OUT BEFORE YOU KNOW IT. WELCOME HOME OSCAR, WE MISSED YOU.

HUSKIES MEET BRUNS

Washington's basketball team begins Pacific-8 Conference competition this weekend, and the opener is against none other than the UCLA Bruins.

UCLA not only is the perennial conference champion--the Bruins have won the Pac-8 the past seven years--but it is the scourge of the nation in college basketball. The Bruins have won the NCAA championship the past four seasons, and six of the past seven. No other team has ever won more than two in a row.

And from last year's national championship team, Coach John Wooden has four starters back. It is no wonder that UCLA was the wire services' No. 1 ranked team in pre-season ratings.

They swept past the first six opponents of this season and still are clearly ranked at the top.

Washington will play the Bruins Friday night in Pauley Pavilion in Westwood. Starting time will be 8 p.m.

The Bruins have a career record of 74 wins and two losses in Pauley. Washington has never won a game there, and has not beaten the Bruins anywhere since 1963.

If opening against UCLA isn't enough, the Huskies will stay in town Saturday so they can face Southern California that afternoon. The game will be televised regionally, so it will start at 2:40 p.m.

The Trojans have a highly-respected team. Like the Bruins, they did not lose any of their early-season nonconference games, and they're ranked among the top 10 teams nationally.

USC lost only 8 of 26 games last year--two of those losses were to Washington. They finished second to UCLA in the Pac-8 standings.

Washington's next home game will not be until Saturday, Jan. 23, when the Huskies host Oregon State in a televised afternoon game.

OUTDOOR LORE

By Lonnie Archibald

THIS THE NEW YEAR
Happy New Year from the steelhead capital of the world. Just sitting here watching the green waters of the Soulduck run on toward the blue of the sea. Steelhead are migrating and what a way to start a new year. An inch of white snow contrasts with the blue of the sky on this beautiful morning here in God's country. All local streams are in top shape on this, the first day of the New Year. 1971 promises to provide the steelheader with one of the best seasons in these past years. Steelheaders will remember 1970 as a year of both disappointment and surprises. January through early spring brought disappointment as the ironheads were far and few between. November and December of 1970, however, produced fish for all. Large natives were once again found deep in the waters of the Soulduck, Bogachiel, Calawah, and Hoh. Also, along with these natives, local sportsmen found plants returning in great numbers with several running in the 10 to 15-pound bracket. A continuation of this success is sure to be found during this New Year.

HOW ABOUT A LICENSE?
Its time once again to visit your favorite sporting goods store and cash in on a hunting and/or fishing license for the new season. A warning to sportsmen before you walk up to the counter with a ten dollar bill, equivalent to that which paid your way to a 1970 season of hunting and fishing, you better have a few extra bucks stashed away in the hidden pocket of the old cowhide, as this season sportsmen will pay a sharp increase for their outdoor entertainment. Let's take a quick look at the menu. The 1971 state hunting and fishing license will cost $12, rather than $9. State fishing licenses have increased from $5.50 to $7.50 and state hunting license has stepped to $6.50 from $5.50. Also, for those wing-shooters we find an upland game bird permit at a cost of $2.

HERE AND THERE
During this year, D. D. T. will be permitted only where no other pesticides will do the job. In addition, Governor Dan Evans has announced legislation to be introduced next month that would nearly put persistent pesticides on a prescription basis. Hold onto the 1970 elk tag as it will remain valid till March of 1971 in legally open areas. Planted steelhead are returning in great numbers to Washington streams. It is time once again to return both steelhead and salmon punch cards to Olympia.

The John Spoelstra clan has been limiting out on steelies with nice catches from Goodman Creek and the Bogi. Well, all except John Jr., that is. But then a young fellow who can help a basketball team to a league championship and a sixth place finish at state, can't also be expected to score high amongst the all-time great steelheaders.

The Calawah was exceptional hot over the weekend as there were fish for all. Even Al Ramsaur took home a fish. Don't forget that that hunting and fishing license you proudly displayed for the last twelve months is now void. Remember that the Soulduck and the Bogachiel Rivers are closed to fishing at this time within the Olympic National Park. Also, remember that OUTDOOR LORE is by no means your official hunting and fishing regulation pamphlet. Stop by your local sporting goods supply dealer and pick up one of them there booklets they write up over there in Olympia, 'ya all'.

Hoh to close to boats

The Hoh River will be closed to boat fishing above the Highway 101 bridge starting March 1 through March 31. This is a move on the part of the Game Department to try to preserve as much of the late winter run as possible. The Olympic National Park has also closed the Bogachiel River to fishing above the park line and the Soulduck River above Snider Creek, effective January 1st.

Father takes Son fishing?

New Year's Eve Larry Bumgarner decided to take his son John, 9 years-old, steelhead fishing for the first time. We have been told that it is hard to find a steelhead. So much to Larry's surprise John landed a 17-pound steelhead. Maybe we should mention that Larry also caught a steelhead, one weighing 1-pound.

PINK SALMON RUN

The 1971 pink salmon run to Puget Sound may barely meet escapement requirements, the Washington Department of Fisheries told the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission today.

The Department forecast a run of 1,000,000 pinks or less. The minimum escapement (fish reaching spawning grounds) necessary to maintain the run is about 850,000 Fisheries Director Thor C. Tollefson said.
Pink salmon, also called "Humpies", are the smallest of the Pacific salmon and run to Puget Sound in odd-numbered years. The IPSC manages the fish in "convention waters", which are the international approach waters to the Sound.

In 1969, for the first time in history, a general closure of sport and commercial fishing was ordered to protect the critically small pink salmon run.
Based on the current forecast, similar measures to accord protection of the 1971 run may be necessary, Director Tollefson said.

Sunset Highlites

By Fred Jarvis

Just about got filled up to here with football over the holidays. Only watched six games on the boob tube! For some reason or other, Mother doesn't care for it. Guess most women are the same.

Cliff Thayer and Arden Prissel both hit 225 in the Sunset League with Cliff tossing a 550 series. George Richardson had 214-560.

The Powder Puffs had some goodies last Wednesday, Pat Mansfield threw a 200, Jessie Brager a 216-501, and Kathy Decker banged out the high game of the week, a big 242. She ended up with a nice 548 series. Wish I could hit like that. The Brager Bros. team set a new high team game of 875.

Jean Streeter won a ticket on the TV set at Saturday Nite Monte Carlo. John Nagel took most of our money in the sidepot by hitting a 605.

Duke and I paired up to take a good share of the money in the Best-Ball Doubles Saturday Afternoon. Its lots of fun and good practice.

Darrell busted loose in the Forks Prairie League, hitting 652 on games of 237-225 and 190. Not bad with a bum wrist. Carter Warren had a 217 and Star Fouts a 582.
Now's the time to be thinking of entering the State Tournaments. The women's is held in Spokane this year and the men's at Tacoma. No reason why the men can't have six or seven teams representing Forks, so let's get with it, guys.
