COUNTY WINS SUIT BROUGHT BY BIG TIMBER COMPANIES

ASSESSMENT ZONES ENDORSED

Judge Cushman of the federal court filed his opinion Saturday afternoon ordering the Lacey suits against the county dismissed and the costs taxed against the plaintiffs. The victory appears to have been abolutely clean cut, the contentions of the county's attorneys being upheld at every point.

The suit, brought by the Clallam Lumber Company, Charles H. Ruddock and T. H. McCarthy, involved something like one hundred thousand dollars in taxes, being a portion of the 1913 and all of the 1914 levy as assessed on their 50,000 acres of timber, which includes some of the heaviest in the county.

The plaintiffs charged collusion on the part of the county commissioners, the county assessor and the board of equalization to raise the assessments in the western part of the county.

They further charged that this latter section was sparsely settled, haa few voters and that the voters in the eastern part of the county had conspired to force the owners of these timber lands, nearly all residents of the Middle West, to establish and operate lumber mills at Port Angeles.

Further, that while the county claimed to have assessed all the lands at 50 per cent of their value, the plaintiff's lands were assessed for approximately 84 per cent of their value, while the lands in the eastern part of the county were assessed from 10 to 20 per cent of their value, and that this assessment of their 50,000 acres of timber land was not accidental, but wilful, and in pursuance of a corrupt conspiracy between the various authorities of the county.

Judge Cushman holds the allegations of the complaints not proved, and says that the establishment of the zones for assessing purposes was neither unreasonable nor arbitrary.

As it has been directly because of the companies refusal to pay their taxes that money has not been available to carry on the county's road program, in regard to branch roads to the various dairying districts, the sweeping victory is particularly gratifying. The company will have to pay fifteen per cent interest on the entire amount of overdue taxes.

The complainants were represented by Peters & Powell and Earle & Stewart. J. E. Frost, former tax commissioner, under whose directions the assessments were made, and Jones & Riddell and E. C. Ewing appeared as counsel for Clallam county.

HUMANE SOCIETY WILL PROSECUTE IN ALL CASES OF CRUELTY

A most interesting and well attended meeting of the Port Angeles Humane Society was held in the Commercial club rooms Saturday afternoon. In addition to routine business, some lively discussions were indulged in, relative to the abuse of horses by residents of Angeles and nearby country districts and judging from proof brought forth it is very evident the Humane Society is gaining facts in a quiet way and proposes to see that all offenders are dealt with according to law.

One case reported to the society was that of a cow which had been housed in a dark barn for months without fresh air or exercise. Upon investigation it was learned that the owner of the animal, having a sick wife whom he could not leave alone, and whose purse would not permit the cow as a secondary consideration. The case will be investigated further.

Wm. B. Gould was appointed county humane officer and will take up his duties as such, early in February. On motion of A. A. Smith, the secretary was instructed to write to interested parties throughout the county, asking them to co-operate with the local organization and to distribute the state humane laws, some 400 copies having recently been received.

It was suggested by Mrs. McGillivray and heartily endorsed by all members present, that prizes be awarded to schools throughout the county for the best essay on "Kindness." A committee was appointed to confer with Superintendent White of the city schools with a view to securing his support in the matter, when further announcement will be made.

The question of the supervision of the city pound by the local humane society was discussed at some length, it being generally conceded that where such societies have had charge of these institutions greater care has been exercised in securing homes for stray dogs and also more humane methods are employed in putting to death those which of necessity must be killed. This matter also will be taken up at a later date.

Mrs. McGillivray read a very interesting article on the shipment of government horses to the war zone and the consequent cruelty due to the methods of transportation and long ocean voyages. It is estimated that ten per cent of the horses shipped in this way are killed while many are cruelly maimed or crippled.

Copies of the state humane laws may be secured from Mrs. McGillivray, president of the local organization or from members. All interested in this work are urged to aid in the distribution of this literature where it will be most helpful.

COUNCIL DECREES POOL ROOMS MUST CLOSE AT 12

The city council, at its Tuesday night meeting, put on its final passage and adoption the pool room ordinance. Councilman Fisher moved an amendment to the ordinance by striking out section two, which sets the time of closing at 12 midnight. Hooker, Fisher and Brennan voted aye on the motion which was defeated by Best, Filion, Bigelow voting no and Councilman-at-Large Jensen refusing to vote. In the vote for the passage of the ordinance, Best, Bigelow, Fisher and Filion voted aye and Hooker, Jensen and Brennand no.

An ordinance creating a general Local Improvement Fund was placed on its first reading and referred to the ordinance committee and city attorney. This ordinance would keep local improvement funds seperate from other funds of the city.

An ordinance confirming the assessment roll for Local Improvement District No. 36, Trunk Sewer on Lincoln street, was placed on its first reading and referred to ordinance committee and city attorney.

The city clerk announced the thirty days were up on the filing of claims against Mettler & Coit, on sewer contract, and that there were more claims than money held back. Referred to city attorney.

A resolution ordering the disposal of reserve areas of West end of Port Angeles, was adopted.

The Herald Publishing Company was awarded contract for printing 10,000 treasurer's receipts, in book form, for $42.50. Acme Printing Company bid $47.50 and Smith & Webster, $49.50.

One of the novel features accompanying the lease of the government telegraph wires from Port Crescent to Neah Bay and Tatoosh Island by the Angeles Telephone and Telegraph Company is the fact that while you may be talking to your party on this line, the operation of the telegraph key from both ends can also be accomplished at the same interval.

LITTLE RIVER CO. TO RESUME OPERATIONS

The Little River Logging Company, which employs over one hundred men and operates some eight miles of railroad, running directly back from the water front of Port Angeles, is to resume operations early in March.

When the company closed down, a year ago last fall, it was with no thought but that the work would be resumed in the spring as usual, but with the coming of the period of depression in the lumber business, they decided they were not warranted in starting up again, and the city lost one of its principal sources of revenue for the year.

The company not only owns a considerable body of timber along Little River, but recently acquired as the successful bidders the timber offered for sale along Little River and Ennis Creek in the National Forest.

ELKS WILL DEDICATE NEW HOME MARCH 9, 10 AND 11

FORMAL CEREMONY ON FRIDAY

The dedication ceremonies and entertainments marking the completion of the new Elks Home, of Naval Lodge No. 353, B.P.O.E., will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 9, 10 and 11. This was decided yesterday by the special committee in charge of the dedication celebration, R. H. Callarman, H. H. Van Brocklin, E. E. Day, Roy Sarf and Frank C. Teck.

Thursday, March 9, will be Naval Lodge day, featured by local festivities and the dedication ball in the evening. Friday, March 10, will be the formal dedication day, in which the lodges of the state will be invited to participate. It is planned to have an elaborate athletic smoker on Friday evening, and there will also be concerts by the Port Angeles Marine Band. One of the fatures of the band concerts will be the playing of the splendid Elks' march, "Whatever's Right," written for and dedicated to Naval Lodge No. 353 by Prof. Michael McGrane, former bandmaster of the U. S. Battleship Wisconsin.

On Saturday, March 11, the fine club house and all its departments will be thrown open to the general public.

Naval Lodge No. 353, which shares with Norfolk, Virginia, the distinction of being specially designated by the Grand Lodge to receive membership of U. S. Navy officers and men without requiring residence, now has a paid up membership of more than 500. The new home is an impressive three-story structure, 50x100 feet, built of brick, with a front of vitrified paving brick. The building, which is now ready for the installation of the furniture, cost $16,000, and occupies a lot close to the business center of the city, valued at about $10,000. The furnishings will represent an initial cost of about $5,000.

CAPT. A. W. HORNE, PROMINENT PIONEER, DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Capt. A. W. Horne one of the oldest and best known residents of the Olympic Peninsula, died at his home in Dungeness Saturday morning.

The funeral was held from the family residence at Dungeness Monday, and was conducted by the Elks lodge of Port Angeles of which Captain Horne was a member, about twenty Elks of Naval Lodge attending. The funeral oration was delivered by Hon. Wm. B. Ritchie, who paid a high tribute to the life and character of deceased, whom he had known personally for many years. The funeral was largely attended by the many old time friends of the family and a long line of automobiles accompanied the remains to Port Williams to meet the Sol Duc, the body being shipped to Seattle for cremation. A committee of Elks from the Seattle lodge met the boat there and acted as pall bearers.

Concerning Captain Horne's activities since coming to Washington to live the Townsend Leader says: "Captain Horne was about 65 years of age, and was a native of Old Town, Me. He learned the trade of a cooper, and after coming to Puget Sound in 1886 he followed his vocation for a year or more, first making barrels at Roche Harbor for the big lime company and later at Yes Bay, Alaska, where the late C. C. Bartlett of this city for a time conducted a fish saltery. Captain Horne returned to the Sound in 1887 and began steamboating, his first job being as fireman on the old steamer Dispatch, one of the pioneer boats of this section. He later became an engineer and finally shifted to the navigating end of the business, receiving his first command on the Virginia, then the property of Captain L. B. Hastings of this city. He was later pilot on the Union Pacific boats then operating on Puget Sound. In 1889-90, in company with Captain Hastings, he built the steamer Garland, which was first placed on the San Juan island run, later being shifted to the Straits route, when the owners assumed a mail contract to Neah Bay. He remained on that run continuously thereafter, as master of different boats operated by his company, until the line was purchased by the Peabody-Green interests about six years ago. Receiving a comfortable sum for his holdings, Captain Horne decided to retire from the sea, and purchased a fine farm near Dungeness, removing there from this city, where he had made his home during his entire steamboat career. When his physical ailment developed he turned the management of the farm over to his son, Mel, and had since spent most of his time with his several children, making short visits with each of them. Having been a hard worker all his life, however, he found it difficult to settle down to a life of ease, and, despite repeated warnings, he kept almost continuously on the move.

He is survived by a widow, who was formerly Miss Georgia Littlefield, of this city and four children, Mel Horne, of Dungeness, Charles Horne, of Uncas, Mrs. Lillian Hodges, of Kent, and Mrs. Mable Miller, of Seattle, together with one daughter by a former marriage.

FORKS OIL WELL TO BE SHOT THIS WEEK

The long delayed shooting of the oil bearing sand in the Forks well is now scheduled for the present week, Wm. Brown of Seattle, an expert man with explosives, having arrived Sunday to take charge of the work, which will be witnessed by several of the stockholders from Seattle and Port Angeles, who went out this morning. It is fully believed that within a short time after the loosening up of the oil stratum the well will begin to fill up with oil, which can then be pumped out in paying quantities.

Tuesday, there appeared in one of the Seattle daily papers a little story about a certain Louis Levy, and we wonder if it is the one who resides in Port Angeles. A suit of clothes was sent to a cleaner by him and the cleaner found $250 inside of one of the pockets, which he returned to said Louis, and for his honesty received a piece of paper, worth $50, and good at any bank where money is available.

R.H. CALLARMAN NEW PRESIDENT OF COMMERCIAL CLUB

PAY-UP-WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial club, yesterday afternoon, E. J. Walton submitted his resignation as president and R. H. Callarman was elected as his successor. In announcing his resignation President Walton stated that owing to his election as mayor of the city, he felt impelled to resign as a matter of duty to the club and to the city, at the same time declaring that he considered the Commercial club decidedly the most important organization in the city affecting the best interests, upbuilding the progress and welfare of community and county. After informal discussion, in which all the speakers expressed deep regret over this apparent necessity, the resignation was accepted and a rising vote of thanks extended for his admirable service.

Director Robert H. Callarman was then elected president, Mr. Muck supporting his nomination with compliments for Mr. Callarman's unfailing public spirit and energetic business ability. Mr. Callarman strongly opposed his nomination and thought it would be unwise for him to hold such a position, owing to his connection with the transportation company. Leonard and other members did not consider this a sufficient reason for declining, particularly as the growth and progress of the city and county corresponded with the best interests of said corporation. Mr. Callarman was then unanimously elected.

Mr. Van Brocklin addressed the Board in favor of the observance here of National Pay Up Week, February 21 to 2 inclusive, being followed by Mr. Muck, who explained the character, purpose and usual effect of such concerted effort to stimulate the channels of active trade. It was desired to obtain the formal support of the club and then to have the business men of the city work out the project, the club co-operating as well as the press. The project was endorsed and Messrs. Van Brocklin, Muck and Kirschberg appointed a committee to initiate the movement.

It was reported that plans were developing whereby tourists destined from Seattle to Sol Duc Hot Springs would be caried by the S., P. A. & W. to Joyce, where they would be carried by autos to Sol Duc via Piedmont. Secretary authorized to investigate.

Directors Lauridsen, Morse and Leonard appointed a committee to investigate practicability of club's acquiring or building a permanent home.

Johnson's Olympic National Monument bill was formally endorsed.

Secretary Teck reported having been advised of the shipment of 1,800 copies of the new 24-page folder and map issued by the S., P. A. & W. railway.

Letters received from the Merrill & Ring lumber company expressed satisfaction with the club's interest in the Pysht highway and announced that they would again finally appear before the board of commissioners on the 7th of February.

Representative Humphrey's pending bill providing for the preservation of growing timber along the public highways of the state was endorsed by unanimous vote.

MANY OCEAN-GOING VESSELS LOAD AT THE EARLES' MILL

Shipping at Earles mill is showing a steady upward trend and before the end of the month much activity is anticipated in this line. The storms of the past few weeks have menaced navigation considerably, especially to sailing vessels. Many have put inside the Ediz Hook spit until calmer weather permitted easier going. Mariners, from the many ships which stop here for clearance or quarantine, state bad weather outside the Strait, and say that the month of January is the worst month in the "graveyard country."

Although lumber prices continue to soar sky high, there seems to be a shortage in ships on the Pacific Coast. Earles mill is running its regular force now and lumber is piling up at a rapid rate on its large and spacious docks, which is enough to indicate the shortage in vessels.

The steamer Paraiso, which arrived at Earles mill Thursday morning, loaded and left for the West Coast at midnight the same day.

Steam schooner Charles Nelson arrived at Earles mill Monday from San Francisco for cargo of lumber.

Steam schooner Hornet arrived in the harbor Monday night from Mukilteo, and is now loading lumber at Earles mill for San Pedro.

The steamer Melvin Dollar is due to arrive at the mill this week to load 1,250,000 feet of lumber for the West Coast.

The steamer Bee is due at Earles mill to load lumber for San Francisco within the present month.

The steam schooner Wasp, San Francisco to Port Angeles, arrived in Port Tuesday evening to load 700,000 feet of lumber for California ports. This is the Wasp's second call at this port within the past three months. When she left Port Angeles the last time she carried 700,000 feet of lumber for South America, but when she was out two days from Cape Flattery she lost all of her deckload.

The U S C G C Snohomish, which was reported as going direct to Neah Bay for coast patrol, stopped in Angeles at 5 p. m. Tuesday evening to replenish bunker supply and other necessities. She will leave on Wednesday for Neah Bay. The cutter Unalga returned to Seattle.

The Peruvian bark Callao, which suffered much from the storms in early January and who gave the U. S. R. C. Snohomish a lot of trouble, drifting back to Frisco, after almost making the Cape, passed in at Cape Flattery Friday and is now in Seattle, her destination.

The Peruvian bark Mario, Callao for Puget Sound, entered here Sunday and passed quarantine, and proceeded to Port Ludlow Monday morning for a cargo of lumber for the West Coast.

The barge Simla, in tow of the tug Hercules, arrived here from Vancouver Saturday and sailed for San Francisco Sunday night, taking out her clearance papers, and waiting for the strong gale to abate, from which she once turned back into the harbor.

Standard oil tanker Col. E. L. Drake, Vancouver for San Francisco, cleared here Monday.

METTLER ARRESTED; CHARGED WITH GRAND LARCENY

S. Mettler of the Angeles Hotel is in trouble again, this time over the issuance of checks upon the Clallam County bank without having funds on hand with which to meet them. The complaint, sworn to by W. T. Morgan, charged Mettler with grand larceny and he was required to give bonds in the sum of $1,000.

A fire Monday evening completely destroyed the new home recently built by John Cadwaller on Lincoln Heights. A piano and a little bedding was all that was saved. The fire started from the stove-pipe which went up through the unprotected ceiling and it was too far gone before the fire company arrived to lend any assistance. A small insurance was carried on the house and contents. Mr. Cadwaller is a mill-wright and is in the employ of the Puget Sound Mills & Timber Co.

The slogan of the outside world seems to be: "If you see an American, kill him on the spot."

Whether Washington's prohibition law really incorporates as it is admitted it was intended to incorporate, permission for druggists to ship intoxicating lquor into the state, is the question that has arisen among a dozen auditors attending the Gillies trial. R. M. Spooner, of Klickitat county, points out that section 1, gives only the right to ship "within" the state. Miss Annie Gaston and other Auditors have received from their prosecuting attorneys rulings permitting the shipment "into" the state, because the people thought they were voting for that.

United efforts by the churches and laymen, Jew and Gentile, are expected to make a great success of the special day set aside for raising funds for the relief of the Jews. Jewish war sufferers in Europe, Thursday, January 27. President Wilson has made a national appeal and Governor Lister a state proclamation concerning this effort, which is expected to meet with a large response. In many cities and towns relief committees have been organized, and hundreds of Christian churches are exemplifying the brotherhood of man by their work in this cause. No race has suffered from the war in comparison with the Jews, who have in many nations never achieved more than a precarious standing, and are the first people to suffer when hardships begin to be felt. Contributions to the cause of relief, whether gathered on January 27 or later, may be forwarded to E. Shorrock, treasurer, Northwest Trust Company, Seattle.

Plans for a state-wide Chamber of Commerce which will unite the activities of business organizations of Washington on matters of importance to the entire state, will be discussed at a meeting of representatives from the commercial organizations to be held at Auburn, King county, on February 9 and 10. Secretary of State I. M. Howell has been active in proposing a state-wide chamber of commerce. He says that much effort toward advertising this state and developing tourist and settlement possibilities has been lost through the rivalry between various sections. Oregon, with half our population and one first-class city, works together better than Washington with three first-class cities and many vigorous smaller cities, all pulling for themselves. Secretary Howell will attend the conference at Auburn in person. Delegates are expected from all of the more active chambers and commercial clubs of the state.

HEAVY INCREASE IN LUMBER IMPORTATIONS

Both shingle mill and lumber men have been claiming for months past that importations of their products have heavily increased under the democratic tariff, or lack of tariff. The figures for the business of the Puget Sound customs district for the year 1915 are now available, and tell a story that cannot be denied. The figures show that a total value of $2,342,897 of timber and its products were imported into the district during the year. Of this amount, shingles represented a value of $901,-654, the importations being 511,-301,000.

The story of the shingle industry is perhaps best told by the activity in importations covering a period of seven years, as follows:

In 1909, with a duty of 30 cents per thousand, importations were 116,908,000, for a value of $249,-557.

1910, with a duy of 50 cents per thousand, importations dropped to 52,409,000, value, $122,085.

1911, importations 43,189,000, value, $118,975.

1912, importations, 40,478,000 value, $125,000.

1913, importations up to October 2, when 50-cent tariff was removed, 30,706,000, value $114,860; from October 2nd to January 1, 34,058,-000, value, $95,863.

1914, importations, 323,466,000, value, $690,455.

1915, importations, 511,301,000, value, $901,654.

During the year 1915, with the Underwood tariff working nicely, the lowest importations for any month totalled 33,379,000, in February and 33,111,000 in September, with the year finishing strong. December's importations being 56,702,000, the heaviest of the twelve months. November and October were but little behind. Thus in the lowest month's business, the importations were almost as great as in the year prior to the removal of the duty.

The figures in the possession of this office do not give comparative importations of lumber and timber products running back over a term of years, but it is stated that importations in these lines were practically nil prior to the taking off of the tariff. The importations during the year 1915 show the following:

Logs, feet, 106,145,000; value, $843,158.
Lumber, 41,033,000 feet, value, $499,614.
Lath, value, $9,712.
Shingles, value, $901,654.
Railroad ties, value, $15,448.
Shingle bolts, value, $29,792.
Barrel staves, value, $13,484.
Fire wood, value, $3,201.
Fence posts, value, $9,033.
Barrel heads, value, $3,774.
Pulp, value, $13,952.
Sawdust, value, $75.

It must be remembered that the totals printed above represent merely the importations into the Puget Sound customs district, and do not take into consideration any timber products entering the United States market at other points along the international boundary line It cannot be claimed by any stretch of the imagination, that the evidences of competition displayed by the figures in any way contribute to the prosperity of the industry from which a large portion of the population of the section draws its bread and butter.

Elmer E. Heg, of Chimacum, has been elected president of the state board of health.

SOME THINGS UNITED STATES HISTORIES DO NOT TELL

Did you know that in the Revolutionary war we had under arms at all times an army two or three times greater than our enemy?

Did you know that in the war of 1812, in which our national capitol fell and our army was generally successful, we had 235,839 troops, while there were only 16,500 British opposed to them?

Did you know that in the Mexican war we had in service at all times an average of 53,000 men, while the very most the Mexicans had in service at any time was only 36,000?

Well, these things are true, although the average school boy never would learn them from the kind of United States histories set before him.

All of this data, however, was set forth in a semi-official publication several years ago, a paper by Maj. Evan M. Johnson, jr. In the preface to his report Major Johnson said it was "compiled from historical and official documents for the purpose of showing the American people truths omitted from the ordinary histories." As to the Revolutionary war, this report says:

"During this war 395,000 men were called to the colors. The greatest number who responded in any one year was 89,600. * * * The number of men the British had in this country at any one time varied from 20,000 to 40,000."

But the record for the war of 1812 is worse, as set forth by Major Johnson, as follows:

"The war lasted about three years, during which time we employed 527,-654 men. Of this force the total number of regulars was 50,000, of volunteers and militia about 477,000.

"The largest number of troops employed by the United States in any one year was 235,839. The largest number of British regulars opposed to this force in the same year (1814) was 16,500.

"The cost of this war in which we failed to maintain our contention, in which our capitol was burned * * * is said to have been $240,-000,000 aside from pensions.'"

As to the Mexican war the official figures quoted by Major Johnson show that the American army was far the larger, although faulty system, reversed the relative standing, numerically, in the principal battles. Major Johnson says:

"We had in service at all times an average number of 53,000 men as opposed to 36,000, the largest number of Mexicans in service at any one time."—Tacoma News.

MAKING AN ARMY

On two points advocates of extensive preparedness are generally vague. First is the cost. Our little military establishment costs about one hundred and seventy-five million dollars a year. What such a one as they dream of would cost, on any possible plan, is something a Ways and Means Committee—coming up for re-election next year or the year following—would shudder to think of. The other point is officers. Nobody insists more on the necessity of training for common soldiers is even more essential. Without an adequate staff of well-trained officers any body of fighting men is little better than the raw militia which your big army man so scorns.

Proper training of officers is not to be had on any free-and-easy democratic sixty-days-a-year-for-two-years plan. Especially nowadays, when fighting is so much a matter of mechanics, efficient army officers must, in the main, be trained like professors of any other science.

We now have forty-seven hundred officers to eighty-seven thousand men—roughly one officer to eighteen men—the officers' proper training, of course, requiring decidedly longer than that of the men. If we are to have a big force, fit to fight on call, we should begin by specially educating thirty or forty thousand young men for the profession of arms.—Saturday Post.

ENTERTAINED STOCKHOLDERS WITH DINNER AT OLYMPIC HOTEL

A banquet, which was more in the nature of a friendly gathering of neighbors and business associates, at the Olympic hotel last Wednesday evening, was the way in which the stockholders of the Trust & Savings bank entertained their wives and a few friends. Covers were laid for forty but a number of the guests were not present. The long tables were attractively decorated in bouquets of red and white carnatins and the menu was pronounced the best ever served at a public function in Angeles. Eight courses, each one just a little bit better than the preceeding one, were served. The apple pie, a-la-mode, made a great hit with two of the distinguished guests, whose hearty encore received a generous response. Dr. D. H. McGillivray acted as toast-master and filled this important position most creditably. He seemed to have a limitless fund of amusing stories, with which he entertained the cheerful company at the board.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Donald McInnes of Seattle, who spoke of the relations of the farmer and the banker. Thos. T. Aldwell talked on the subject of corporation finance and Attorney F. L. Plummer told of the importance of the trust features of the bank to both bankers and community.

Walter Mack Clark gladdened the hearts of the ladies with his beautifully worded toast to them and Vice-President C. L. Babcock and Cashier Benj. N. Phillips reported on the growth and steady progress of the institution they represent. Mr. Phillips also spoke of the encouraging results of their Christmas Savings club. Brief responses to calls from the toastmaster were made by Dr. F. T. Hyde, Senator A. A. Smith and Mrs. E. B. Webster.

The Port Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, ending the second year of its business in this city, held its annual election of officers and directors Wednesday. The old officers were re-elected as follows: R. D. Willson, president; C. L. Babcock, first vice-president; D. E. McGillivray, second vice-president; Benj. N. Phillips, cashier. These, with Al. Fairservice, Donald McInnes, Willis Chambers, E. F. Gierin and Chris. Kuppler, constitute the board of directors for the ensuing year.

The bank reports steady and satisfactory growth during the past year, notwithstanding the dull times, and its management sees much promise in the future for the young and virile institution.

"THE TOUCHDOWN," HIGH SCHOOL PLAY TO BE GIVEN AT EARLY DATE

You remember The Pennant?

Then you will want to see The Touchdown!

Under the auspices of the Senior class, the high school will put on a play entitled The Touchdown. It is the story of a young man, who, in spite of misunderstanding and blame from friends and brother alike, wins though to success for himself and his school; first opposed and then aided by a most bewitching Indian maiden.

The story itself is intensely interesting and will hold the audience till the final curtain. But even better than the story is the cast of characters. Oral Freeman, as the hero, makes everyone want to get in and fight his enemies for him. Marcella Schweitzer makes you wonder why you never suspected that she was really an Indian girl in disguise. Florence Gehrke is charming enough for any hero to fall in love with, and the twins!—you never suspected that Ellen Finch and Eva McMullen looked alike did you? Just come and see! Lucy Marquardt and her lisp quite bewitch our fat boy, Frank Dann, who even skips breakfast for her—once. While Geraldine Gilbert as the school ma'am, is an honor to the profession, or dishonor, as it depends on how you feel about school teachers. What could Harold Dodge be but a football coach? He was born for the part. Last year we thought him born for the part of a henpecked husband but we were mistaken. James Clark makes a lovely villian. You even forgive Prescott Ulmer for turning against that hero brother, he's so nice about it.

Reuben Dickenson is a professor to be proud of, and no wonder, Geraldine (in the play of course) writes verses to him. Oliver Mitchell and Norman Nelson swell the crowd of college boys. On the whole, take them all in all, it's a cast such as you may never see again. Don't miss it.

ST. MARGARET'S TO GIVE LEAP YEAR DANCE

St. Margaret's Guild, a club which has come into prominence in the last three months, owing to much publicity given it by the newspapers, placing it as one in the front rank of socialdom in Port Angeles society, will give a Leap Year party and dance, January 29th, at the elegantly furnished and newly renovated Parish Hall on Peabody street, between Second and Third. It being a leap year, through which all but optimists are now suffering, the girls will put together their ideas, which are so much more different than that of their opposite sex, and as best as they know how, will show the males a new stunt in the way of entertaining.

First, you, Mr. Young Man, or maybe Mr. Married Man, may expect a telephone call or an invitation by mail, which, under any circumstance do not turn down. Second, a jitney bus or hack, carrying the entertainer, will arrive at your door and escort you to the hall. On arriving there, your admission will be paid. Then dance to your heart's content. Next on the program, a feed will most likely confront you. Take that in. Be very careful and remember Leap Year. And last of all, you may return home, but be sure you were royally entertained, and if these charming young ladies find they are successful, you, Mr. Man, will not have to worry for the next eleven months, about getting turned down.

F.E. Warner, optometrist, may be found in his new offices, rooms 122 and 123, Warren Morse Block.

THE SUPERIOR COURT

The Supreme Court decisions of last week cut the assets of the Receivership of the Angeles Brewing & Malting Co., now absorbed by the insurance company on account of the receiver's (Janecke) bond. Janecke's attorneys always figured on a good judgment in this case against the Inland Navigation Co. for the collision with the steamer Chippewa whereby the steamer Albion suffered a loss of approximately $5000.

Judge Ralston found that usury had been exacted in the loan made to D. J. McCarthy in the case of Best vs. McCarthy, and damages in twice the amount of the interest paid were awarded the defendant. So instead of paying the note of $7[illegible] with interest for two years back plaintiff recovers judgment for $473.15. Attorney for Best claims that this usurious note was wished upon his client and later destroyed by him, and in justice to Mr. Best it must again be stated that at the hearing it was proved that he had several times agreed to take the face of the note without interest whatever.

The Metropolitan Laundry Co. has been placed in the hands of a receiver in the person of S. J. Lutz, cashier of the Bank of Clallam county, (who has qualified under bonds of $1000) upon petition of Henry Reis, mortgagee, who alleges that his security has been lessened by reason of premises not kept in allowing liens to accumulate upon his security and in allowing the business to be closed. The court finds that the company is insolvent, unable to pay its debts, and that various creditors take away certain of the equipment or compel the mortgagee to put up large sums to keep same intact. It is understood that the purpose of the receivership is to conserve at small cost the property intact, to permit a sale or reorganization to the end that this valuable property shall not be sacrificed.

B. E. Tilden of Montreal recovered judgment gainst Nellie A. Glassford in the sum of $1971, in foreclosure against 80 acres in 22:30-5.

Order of sale issued in Starbuck vs. American Construction Co., and the following property of the defendant has been ordered sold: All buildings, structures, machinery, and equipment, together with all camp equipage, tools, engine and pump, sluice boxes, belts, pulleys and accessories, situate on lots 3 and 4, sec. 18, tp. 29, range 15, and on certain lands of the state of Washington, in front of said lands known as the Sunset Placer Mining Association locations.

Judge Ralston will be here again next Tuesday for the usual early month's work, at which time several important cases are set for hearing.

The services will be held in the opera house and commence on February 13th.

The Union Evening Preparatory Services will be held on January 23, in the Methodist church; January 30, in the Congregational church; February 6, in the Baptist church; and February 10, in the Presbyterian church. A party of relatives and friends of Mrs. Luke Faires, who lives on 12th between Peabody and Race streets, surprised her on her birthday, Friday evening last. The party approached and stole around the house in Indian file and then let go with a husky "surprise." Cakes and pimento sandwiches made up a delightful luncheon and the party broke up in the wee small hours, leaving the fair hostess many pretty and useful souvenirs of the happy occasion.

The body of John C. Churchill, who died at Taylor's hospital last Friday morning of dropsy, was shipped to North Yakima Saturday for burial. His brother, William Churchill and his daughter, Bernice, arrived Saturday and took charge of the remains. Another brother, C. A. Churchill of Toppenish, was here several days before the sick man passed away.

Mrs. Isabelle Brown, one of the oldest residents of Sequim Prairie, died Friday at the old family home. Mrs. Brown was the daughter of Capt. James Sinclare, one of the original settlers of this section. She had been paralyzed for several years, which was indirectly the cause of her death. She is survived by four sons and three daughters, two of the latter having made their homes in Seattle for several years

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Richardson of Clarinda, Iowa, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Phillips, arriving Tuesday morning. Mrs. Richardson is a sister to Mr. Benj. Phillips' mother and she will accompany them Thursday to Port Orchard to visit another sister, Mrs. W. H. Howell.

The P. A. Marine band boys certainly did themselves proud at the last number of their series of concerts given in the opera house Friday evening. In spite of the disagreeable weather a good sized crowd turned out to the concert and every number on the program was listened to with great pleasure and appreciation. Besides the band numbers, vocal solos were given by Miss Nina Taylor and Miss Sadie Robertson, Mrs. C. P. Brown acting as accompanist to Miss Robertson. A very large crowd enjoyed the dance that followed the concert and were enthusiasts in their call for more. The band boys are now considering giving another series of concerts during February and March.

The Catholic Social Club will give the next card party on Wednesday, February 2, at its now popular social hall. Miss Constance Hoare will act in the capacity of hostess. Last week over 125 people were present at the whist tournament and at the coming one a larger crowd is expected. Come early and be sure of a table.

The Humane Society had a case before Justice of the Peace Severyns Tuesday. It was for cruelty to a team of horses, the offender being fined $15.00 and costs. Officers of the society have a number of other cases they are watching with intentions of bringing them into court, if conditions are not improved.

Judge Zent of the police court is ready to jump his job. Not a case in his court since the dry law went into effect, and still we were told there would be more drunks than when the saloons were open.

Miss Margaret Delabarre is coming home Friday morning to remain until Tuesday. Her mother will accompany her back to Seattle and from there goes to Olympia to visit the FitzHenry family.

Miss Clark's solo, given in the Presbyterian church at the evening service last Sunday evening, was exceedingly fine. It is something long to be remembered by all present. Miss Clark will sing at the entertainment of the church on Friday evening.

Wireless Operator Weed, of the Cutter Snohomish, has been on leave of absence while the Snohomish was in dry dock at Bremerton for inspection and repairs. He left Port Angeles Monday on the Sol Duc for Seattle.

Why this man bought a

Remington Junior Typewriter

"I have been investigating several of the recent makes of machines, seeking for one of simple construction for ordinary manuscript and letter writing. I was nearly ready to buy a machine of another make when I just happened to see for the first time the Remington Junior, and found it to be the very thing I wanted.

The man who wrote this is the postmaster of a small Southern town. He is only one of thousands who have recently bought a Remington Junior. But his reasons apply to everybody—they apply to YOU.

The Remington Junior is our latest product and the latest idea in typewriting.

It is strictly a high-grade machine.

It has the Remington Name, the Remington Guarantee, the Remington Quality—everything Remington except weight and bulk.

A "Simplified Remington" describes it exactly.

And its price is $50.00

Remington Junior Typewriters will be sent "on examination," without obligation to purchase.

Easy payment terms can be arranged if desired.

WASHINGTON WEATHER AVERAGES UP VERY WELL THESE DAYS

With the senior editor of the Olympic-Leader writing from Los Angeles of the terriffic rains and flooded streets, tying up street car lines, even washing away the pavement in places, these followed by killing frosts which had to be combatted by smudge pots with their consequent crude oil soot blackening everything, indoors as well as out; with an uncle, Capt. C. V. Noble, writing of the coming of the second flood at Lordsburg, a few miles from Pomona, and with another letter from Iowa telling of their thirty-five below zero weather during the previous week, with all this, we say, we are quite well satisfied with Washington, even though we have had the coldest weather and the first snow storm in the past three years. Mr. Noble's letter is particularly interesting, as giving a sidelight on life in the Sunny Southland. He is superintendent of an orange orchard a mile out of Lordsburg:

"Dear Folks: Talk about Washington! It rains there, you say? It don't; it rains here! And don't you think I will ever forget it, if I do not get drowned. Do you know that as I sit here writing at 7:30 a. m. (on the 17th) that I cannot get out of the house for water? Yes, and running like a roaring river and were it not for a concrete foundation the house would probably be washed away. Logs, trees, brush, fences, oil cans, smudge pots, barrels, etc., come tumbling down the flood. I am not skeered as I have been in the midst of many a waterspout and flood—they are friends of mine.

"It was raining hard when I went to bed at nine oclock. I awoke along towards morning with a roar of many waters in my ears, and "bump," something struck the house and made it tremble. I got up and went to the back door to see who it was; it proved to be a large timber and the water was just coming into the house. Then to the front door—nothing but a sea of rushing water filled with all manner of debris. Someone above us has lost a lot of orange trees, as they keep coming down on the flood. Not only the windows of heaven are open, but I think the whole side of the house must have fallen out. Gee whiz, but it does rain! I want some coal but there is four feet of water between the kitchen door and the coal house.

18th, 9:00 a. m. Worse and more of it. All night long it has rained. poured, and the waters still roar around the house. If it keeps up much longer it is sure to drive me out or drown me like a rat. The pity of it, to see the orange trees with half of their fruit buried in the mud; the orchard is being filled up instead of washed out. The ranchers up next to the foothills are the ones that are losing their orchards, ground and all. No houses have come down his far yet, but I look for some before noon.

19th, 7:40 a. m. This is the "worst I ever saw." "Lumber, lath, shingles, sash, doors, blinds, fence posts, tin cans, all going by, as well as orange trees loaded with fruit, worth $100 per tree. 11¼ inches of rain has fallen since Sunday morning; your old state of Washington has got to go some to beat that!"

TEXT OF JOHNSON'S OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK BILL

Representative Albert Johnson, of the third Washington district, introduced in the house of representatives January 4th, a bill carrying the agreed upon provisions for the change of the Mount Olympus Monument into the Olympic National Park. The matter had been the subject of various conferences among those interested in having the drastic provisions of the Monument order revoked, and it is the hope of those who have interested themselves in the matter that Mr. Johnson's bill will become a law.

The bill in full is as follows:

A BILL.

To establish the Olympic National Park in the Olympic Mountains, in the State of Washington, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Mount Olympus National Monument, in the State of Washington, according to the boundaries thereof as modified and established by proclamation of the President of the United States of the eleventh day of May, nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby reserved and withdrawn from settlement, occupancy, or disposal under the laws of the United States and dedicated and set apart as a public park or pleasure ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of the United States under the name of "Olympic National Park," and all persons who shall locate or settle upon or occupy the same, or any part thereof, except as hereinafter provided, shall be considered trespassers and removed therefrom: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall affect any valid existing claim, location, or entry under the land laws of the United States or the rights of any such claimant, locator, or entryman to the full use and enjoyment of his land.

Section 2. That said park shall be under the exclusive control of the Secretary of the Interior, whose duty is shall be, as soon as practicable, to make and publish such rules and regulations not consistent with the laws of the United States as he may deem necessary or proper for the care, protection, management, and improvement of the same, which regulations shall provide for the preservation of the park in a state of nature so far as is consistent with the purposes of this Act and for the care and protection of the fish and game within the boundaries thereof. Said Secretary may, in his discretion, execute leases to parcels of ground not exceeding ten acres in extent at any one place to any one person or company for not to exceed twenty years, when such ground is necessary for the erection of buildings for the accommodation of visitors. He may also sell and permit the removal of such matured or dead or down timber as he may deem necessary or advisable for the protection or improvement of the park. All the revenues derived from any source connected with said park shall be expended under his direction in the management of the same and in the construction of roads and bridle paths therein and through the lands of the Olympic Forest Reserve adjoining the same.

TEXT OF JOHNSON'S BILL TO ADVANCE MONEY FOR ROAD CONSTRUCTION

In view of the active opposition that has developed in certain quarters in the state to the bill introduced in Congress by Representative Albert Johnson providing from the Olympic national forest funds for the completion of the west side link of the Olympic highway, the following special from Washington to the Seattle P.-I. of Sunday last is of interest:

"Representative Albert Johnson's bill to spend $100,000 of national forest receipts on the construction of a road along the coast in the Olympic national forest from Forks to Lake Quinault appears to be the subject of some misunderstanding at home. Protests have been received here based on the assumption that state school and bridge funds are to de depleted by the expenditure.

"The bill provides that out of the year's receipts from the forest in the state—some big timber sales being impending there—the secretary of agriculture may spend $100,000 on building this road. This is to constitute a loan, for the bill provides that, out of the receipts from the Olympic national forest, beginning not until after June 30, 1922, the secretary is to hold out of the customary 2 5per cent paid to the state as much as to reduce the payment to the state to 10 per cent instead of the 25 per cent, and to continue this holding out process until the full $100,000 is paid.

"In taking out the original $100,000 to build the road, the usual 25 per cent paid to the state is not affected until, as stated, after June 30, 1922."

Mr. Johnson's bill, which was introduced in the house January 4, reads as follows:

A BILL

To advance to the State of Washington the sum of $100,000 for the construction of a road within and adjacent to the Olympic National Forest.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of Agriculture be, and he is hereby, authorized to expend from moneys received during the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, from the national forests in the State of Washington, exclusive of the twenty-five per centum of receipts now paid to the State for the benefit of public school and public roads under the Act of May twenty-third, nineteen hundred and eight (Thirty-fourth Statutes, page two hundred and fifty-one), and the ten per centum of receipts expended under the Act of May tenth, nineteen hundred and twelve (Thirty-seventh Statutes, page two hundred and sixty-nine), in the construction of roads and trails, not exceeding $100,000 for the construction of a road approximately sixty miles in length between Quinault, Grays Harbor county, and Forks, Clallam county, within and adjacent to the Olympic National Forest, in the State of Washington, said road to be a continuation of the State road known as the Olympic highway.

Section 2. That, beginning with the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred twenty-two, in lieu of the twenty-five per centum to be granted the State of Washington under the Act of May twenty-third, nineteen hundred and eight, out of receipts from the Olympic National Forest, there shall be granted the State of Washington ten per centum of the gross receipts until such time as is provided for in section three of this Act, for the benefit of the public schools and public roads in the counties in which the aforesaid national forest is situated.

Section 3. That when the Secretary of Agriculture shall notify the Secretary of the Treasury that the fifteen per centum of the gross receipts from the Olympic National Forest which is withheld under section two of this Act amounts to $100,000 the reduction hereby made in the percentage to be paid to the State of Washington under the Act of May twenty-third, nineteen hundred and eight, shall no longer apply.

THE BANK A PROTECTOR OF MONEY.

We are all obliged to carry with us a certain amount of money—the daily necessities of life require cash. How much you should carry is for you to say. As a rule, not more than you will need from day to day, for the man who carries great wads of money with him is not only taking the risk of theft and loss, but is doing himself, the bank and the community an injustice; himself in the risk he assumes and the loss of interest the bank would gladly pay; the bank in the use of money to its profit, and the community in the loss of the money as the foundation of credit.

In a bankless community the individual must protect his own money. And to protect he hides it, often to his sorrow. If there were no banks we would gravitate to a state of barbarism where strength was the only safeguard. But to the individual who has more money in hand than the daily needs require, the bank says: "It is our business to protect. For this we have strong vaults, burglar alarms and watchmen. We spend money to protect money. We know how—that is our function as a bank."

You will frequently read of losses running into large figures because someone has mistrusted the bank, and assumed to be his own money protector. Merchants in bankless towns are frequently robbed—so frequently that some who have learned their lesson will no longer trust the frail iron safe that looks so formidable, but is a mere toy under the cracksman's skill, and prefer to sleep on their money.

If "every man to his trade" is a good motto, then the banker to his trade, which is, first of all, to safeguard money. True, he does not keep all he receives on deposit in cash—that would be a useless and profitless task—he keeps only enough to do business with and loans the rest, which constitutes the second function of the banker, and that is to lend, which will be treated in number 3 of the Centennial Series; but remember this: that the place for the money you can't use today is in the bank, for this is what banks are for, and you had better find it out. You will sleep better and your money will grow while you sleep.

LIFE ONE CONTINUOUS ROUND OF PLEASURE

The Women of the Woodcraft have certainly started the New Year with a round of merry making, which has made the month of January, 1916, quite a memorable one in their Circle life. They started out by being the guests of Mrs. James E. Hill of West Second street, on the evening of January 8th, when she invited the twenty-eight members present at the Circle meeting, to go home with her as a surprise to her husband on his birthday anniversary. The evening proved a most enjoyable one and all did justice to the delicious three course luncheon served.

On January 16, a sleighing party consisting of twenty-eight of the members of the Women of Woodcraft Circle, called about noon at the home of Mrs. Paul Hopf, one of their faithful neighbors, living on Lincoln Heights, and were cordially invited in. Here was where Neighbor Hopf made a mistake, for when the fragrant odors from the good dinner cooking in the kitchen reached the members of the hungry sleighing party, they began to throw out gentle hints of such a character that what could the poor hostess do but invite the whole bunch to stay. They needed no urging but the mysterious part was where all the good things to eat came from. It was like unto the miracle of the loaves and fishes, everybody had all they could eat and still there was some left over. Mrs. Hopf's cordial hospitality was greatly appreciated and her guests will long remember the happy day they spent with her.

Saturday, January 22nd, was installation of officers at the lodge rooms and a very large crowd was in attendance. Neighbor Hannah Williams, a member of the Thanksgiving Circle of Seattle, who is residing in Angeles at present, by special request installed the officers, doing the work most creditably. After the installation ceremonies a literary and musical program was enjoyed. An oyster supper with other goodies was served to about eighty-five members and guests and then dancing was indulged in until the early hours of morning.

The officers elected for 1916 are: Guardian Neighbor, Annie M. Hill; Adviser, Mary Hopf; Magician, Clara Vail; Clerk, Paul Hopf; Banker, Mason Burgess; Attendant, Pearl Wold; Captain and Guard, Mary Clevenger; Inner Sentinel, Burrell Vail; Outer Sentinel, Louis Stroble; Musician, Hattie Thompson; Managers, Angie Buchanan, Jennie O'Neil and Earthie Meals.

LEADER EDITOR LEARNS HE IS AGING RAPIDLY

To "see oursels as ithers see us," an honest description free from either commendation or condemnation, is a pleasure not often afforded us in this world—and possibly not in the next. Doubtless it was a realization of this fact that caused Prof. Frank G. Kane, of the university school of journalism to have each one of the students write a brief description of some one of the publishers in attendance at the recent midwinter institute.

In sending us the following, by Miss Dorothy Baker, Mr. Kane writes that he hopes it will not be found so faithful to the truth as to create any hard feelings!

"Edward B. Webster, of the Olympic-Leader, Port Angeles, is a big genial looking man of about 53. Because of his height and erect carriage, he does not show his weight of about 200 pounds. That Mr. Webster is of a humorous turn of mind is shown by the deep crow's feet at the corners of the eyes.

His dark hair is very thickly sprinkled with gray, but this is hardly noticeable from a distance. He is growing quite bald on his temples, and has a bald spot the size of a small saucer on the crown of his head. His lower lip protrudes ever so slightly beyond his upper one. There is a peculiar long thin scar on his forehead, a relic of a hazing during his freshman year at a preparatory school.

He has a most disconcerting habit of looking one over, from head to heels, when he first meets one."

Six miles up Little River, near the Coleman and Bird ranch, it is reported that there is between five and six feet of snow on the ground.

A HANDSOME COLLECTION OF UNUSUAL PHOTOGRAPHS

The handsomest collection of photographs we have had the pleasure of seeing for many a day were those taken on the Olympic highway near lakes Sutherland and Crescent, one day last week, by Robt. Kennett. Going out as a guest of Mr. McMahan, proprietor of the Sol Duc stage line, Mr. Kennett had exceptional facilities, in that several of the views included the steamer, which was plowing through snow up to the hubs; in fact, in one of them Mr. McMahan is shown sitting astride the hood, holding a shovel between the wheels, that the snow might not clog up the works and put out the fire. In all the pictures the trees are shown heavily snow-laden, while in one or two, taken in more sheltered places, the trees were almost entirely hidden from view. Lake Sutherland was shown in one picture almost entirely covered with ice, the view being of the upper and wider end. Mr. Kennett should place the pictures on display in one of the drug store windows that all might have the pleasure of seeing them.
