In the Scout games on Saturday afternoon which included stretcher making relays, knot tying relays, and fire making contest, both patrols did very well, with the Bigfoot patrol placing first and the Woodpecker patrol placing third. We had a lot of fun and are looking forward to the council camporee on May 21 at Camp Warner near Port Townsend.

DURING THIS, THE EBB TIDE--The scene is quiet here at LaPush during this, the ebb tide. Remains of the old jetty stand somewhat unstable while the waters of the Quillayute flow quietly by. The sounds of the surf are very faint as are the light breezes from the sea. In a few hours the tide will turn bringing winds and high surf. The swirling waters of the river will once again surround the jetty. White foam from the Pacific will cover drift logs as the tide rises. But as for now we will observe it as it is. The way it is during this, the ebb tide. ---Lonnie Archibald

WSP REPORTS 4 WEST END ACCIDENTS

The Soleduck River bridge, 1 1/2 miles north of Forks, received approximately $5,000 in damages April 20 when a '68 Kenworth logging truck northbound on Highway 101 struck the bridge with its load. The truck, belonging to Spoelstra Bros., received damage to binders. The driver, Gary L. Pitt, 27, Forks, was not injured.

A one-car accident occurred one mile east of Clallam Bay at 6:00 a.m., April 21, when a 1968 Ford hardtop, driven by Walter F. Jackson, 24, LaPush, traveling eastbound on Highway 112, failed to negotiate a curve to the right, skidded for some distance in the oncoming lane, then skidded off the roadway to the right. There were minor car damages and no injuries.

FORKS' NEED FOR DR. DISCUSSED AT CHAMBER MTG.

"If a small town in Montana can do it, why can't we?" asked Dr. E. L. Leibold, guest speaker at the April 21st meeting of the Forks Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Leibold was referring to a full page advertisement in TIME magazine, April 19, edition, placed by the townspeople in Roundup, Montana. They, like Forks, have one general practitioner for several thousand people and he is almost ready to retire. Dr. Leibold said Forks has a need for two general practitioners and a full time surgeon, and could well support them. With the planned completion of the new hospital, this dream could become reality. He said the area from Port Angeles to Aberdeen, the nearest hospital south of Forks, has a population of approximately 8,000 people; people who need and should have proper medical care. Dr. Leibold is trying to curtail his office hours; he is sending all the patients he cannot care for to Port Angeles but this is not enough. The people of the Forks area must use all means at their disposal to find a doctor. Dr. Leibold said, "I'm too damn tired!"

Verl Poole, chamber president, thanked Dr. Leibold for addressing the group present. He also commended Dr. Leibold for so unselfishly giving his many years of service to the community. Poole said a letter would be prepared for the signatures of several of the area residents. The letter would be sent to the American Medical Association and several medical schools to inform them of our problem and to seek their help in finding a doctor for the area. Mrs. Harley Witherow, American Cancer Society local chairman, presented the program for the meeting. A film was shown and Dr. Leibold answered questions from those present. Dr. Leibold and Mrs. Witherow both stressed the need for the annual check-up. "Since April is cancer drive month nationwide, please fight cancer with a check-up and a check," said Mrs. Witherow.

Art Anderson of West End Motors was the next to address the group. Anderson said that a company from Seattle is presently hauling all the old

Editor,

A few weeks ago two youths, one of them a LaPush Indian, drove down to the beach at Cedar Creek (Ruby Beach) to retrieve some lumber that had been lost off a boat at sea and washed ashore and, hence, became salvage for anyone ready to gather it. Finding the road blocked, they simply removed the obstruction and next thing found themselves with a citation from the Park Service. They were not only required to appear before the U.S. Commissioner but also put to the expense of employing an attorney.

How it will need to be decided whether the Park Service had any authority over this access road at all. I am inclined to consider it very doubtful, so to explain, I will go back to the original Olympic Park Bill as devised by the "conservation gangs" of Eastern cities. This bill, as introduced by the late Walgren, had corridors extending beyond the forest reserve down the valleys and would have given the Park Service control over all West-side roads and indirectly over more than 500,000 acres of commercial timber land, none of which could have been logged except by Park Service dispensation. In the end, even the most brainwashed local conservationists caught on and protested, and Congress passed the bill eliminating all the projections, but to satisfy the vociferous planners in the East, a clause was left in the bill allowing extensions to a certain limit by presidential proclamation from lands within the boundaries of the Olympic National Forests and other land the Government may acquire by gift or purchase.

The Queets Beach corridors fall under the last provision in that they are outside the forest reserve and presumably acquired by the United States. There were many irregularities in the acquisition and some downright evasions of the law, none of which have had either a review in court or by Congress. The proclamation creating the Queets Beach as signed by President Truman, after being drawn up by Park Service attorneys and as later recorded by the Supt. of Documents as a true and valid federal paper, is absolutely absurd. It not only includes the properly acquired land, if one can call lands condemned as a pur-por-ted P. W. A. properly acquired and eligible, in view of a court ruling that a P. W. A. may not be used as a method of land acquisition for some other project; but also includes many items never legally acquired at all, and even parcels deliberately excluded from acquisition by order of the court. Sensible of this, and how dumb would an attorney need to be not to know, a so-called saving clause was added which in effect states that if President Truman could not legally add certain lands that if such addition ever became legal in the future such would be automatic. This absurd gimmick, of course, has never been recognized as possible since laws began.

Now how, under such circumstances, is any official of the Park Service to know what of the area of the Queets Beach is legally under his jurisdiction, a matter further complicated by the fact that personnel is being constantly shifted. If a voter calls the attention of his Senator or Congressman to the absurdity of the proclamation, he promptly passes your letter on to the Park Service which manfully attempts to exculpate, excuse, smoothen over, brain-wash and put everything away. One can only feel sorry for the person delegated to devise an answer. One can also feel sorry for the individual delegated to devising an excuse as to why some legal department of the United States is not put at work to review the Truman Proclamation and bring it into compliance with the law.

In the late 1920's, the State of Washington let contracts for the construction of U.S. 101 and Strong and McDonald went to work on the section Brown's Point to Hoh. To facilitate the work, they graded a road to the beach where the State Maintenance Camp now stands, and one from the beach to the right-of-way at Cedar Creek. By act of legislature, all the beaches from Queets (Quin-ault Indian Reservation) to the Straits had already long been designated legal State highways.

In 1931, the State accepted U.S. 101 to the Hoh and from then on the access road at Cedar Creek served the public as an inter-highway (Beach to U.S. 101) without any of the processes, such as the owner it crossed, regularly, asserting proprietorship, that would have kept it from becoming a legal public road thru unprotested use. At that time, any roadway in public use for seven years went out of the land owner's control and if later he wished to have it vacated and be returned to his ownership it would be necessary to go thru the proper legal processes. So in 1941, the Park Service acquired the land from which the inter-road was taken, but by that time it was already a public road and under Jefferson County control only.

There is no record that the Park Service ever acquired the Cedar Creek inter-road or that the original land owner ever made any attempt to have it vacated, but there is a record that it served the Hoh Indian Reservation as its connection to U.S. 101 at least until 1951 or '52 and that it also served other purposes until blocked by the Park Service. The Park Service obviously had no right to block this public road unless it had first somehow acquired ownership. No record could be found that it ever had bought it from Jefferson County or the State either.

The court also had, during the processes of land condemnation in the Queets Beach area, exempted public highways then in existence from the acquisition and definitely the Cedar Creek inter-road had long been a public highway even that early.

LENA FLETCHER
LETTER TO THE EDITOR:
QUILEUTE TRIBAL COUNCIL
PROTESTS PROPOSED FORKS SEWAGE PROJECT.

The City of Forks, Washington is planning a sewage system which will discharge 300,000 gallons of treated sewage into the Bogachiel River. As Population increases, so will the sewage. The Clallam County Health Department has convinced the people of Forks that the treated sewage is 99-9/10% pure, and will not pollute the rivers. The Quileute Tribal Council believes toxic material can enter and contaminate the rivers. The Bogachiel River is joined by the Calawah, further down the Sole-duck joins to create the Quileute, and near the mouth of the Quileute, the Dickey joins. If pollution is involved, the fish in 5 rivers will be affected.

Our rivers are among the very few rivers in the United States that are free of pollution. Pollution-free rivers are essential to the Quileute Tribe, for fishing is a vital part of the tribal economy. The Tribal Council believes this sewage would be disastrous to fingerling salmon and other species of young fish, and could possibly create and spread diseases to our salmon and steelhead.

The Quileute Tribal Council is seeking the help of environmental experts and sportsmen to stop this project or to have the plans changed to utilize the 99-9/10% pure water for recreational use, such as a lake to serve the City of Forks for years to come. Perhaps trout could be raised in it, if it is possible.

Kenneth Payne
Chairman, Q. T. C.
Editor,

To the people of the State of Washington:
What would happen to you financially if you were injured on your job today? Would the Washington State Industrial Insurance provide you with sufficient funds to support your family?

I thought I had a good insurance until I woke up in the hospital in Seattle with a serious head injury. I found that I receive only $352.00 per month to support my wife and five children.

I have a petition with over 1,000 signatures that is going to our State Senate in Olympia to make a better Washington State Industrial Insurance for the working man and woman.

If it wasn't for the Welfare helping me out, I don't know what I would do. I pay $44.00 a month to the Welfare Department and receive $126.00 worth of food stamps. I thought this was really helping at the time, until I saw able-bodied young men receive $28.00 worth of food stamps for fifty cents. I talked to the Clallam County Welfare Department head and told him that I'd paid thousands of dollars in taxes over the past twelve years and why did I have to pay about 33% for my food stamps when the able-bodied man, who pays little or nothing in taxes, gets many times more than I do. He said "they don't have anything and you do." ---That is just what he told me!

Then I thought since the State Industrial Insurance can't help me and the Welfare Department is doing everything they say they can, I could turn to Social Security. I had heard you could draw Social Security benefits if temporarily disabled. Well, after six months you can get your first check, in my case a little over a hundred dollars a month. You don't get any money for the first six months when you really need the help.

So, ladies and gentlemen, would you find yourselves in the financial problem I find myself in if you were injured? The answer is YES in almost all cases.

This is why I have started this petition; to try and help not only myself, but every working man and woman covered by State Industrial Insurance; to give this petition to our Senate and Representatives because they're supposed to be making this a better state for us to live in. I think this petition will benefit the men and women who are injured while on Washington State Industrial Insurance.

MRS. J. E. MERRITT
Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Forlines and family had a very pleasant surprise when his sister, Mrs. Mary Vann came up from Inglewood, California, for a visit. She arrived on Saturday, April 17, and stayed until Thursday, April 22. Her host took her fishing in the Strait, but she was unable to catch anything. Mr. Forlines, however, was more fortunate (?), he caught a 35-pound octopus. The Forlines then took Mrs. Vann to Port Angeles, and going around the lake she took movies. She thought this was a lovely country, but said, "I can't breathe, there's no smog!" Must have been joking, when she said she couldn't breathe. At any event, she hopes to come back next year.

PTA TALENT SHOW WELL ATTENDED
The all-purpose room was filled to overflowing at the talent show held April 24. It was a delightful program with local talents in various categories. All the participants received a gift from merchants. One of the highlights of the show was little Julie Mansfield who captivated the audience with her singing. Also a big hit was Cynthia Wentworth with her smooth style of singing. Among the dancers who delighted the audience were Mary Swanson and Howard Stockman doing their version of the Charleston. These are but a few of the many talented performers who took part in the talent show.

The door prizes went to Roger Addleman, a family ticket to the Olympic Theatre; George Howard, an extension telephone, from Peninsula Tel. Co.; Fred Cline, a $25 bond from Forks State Bank.

Mary Addleman, John Jaeger, John Leppell, Stan Sells, Linda Shirley and Don Klahn deserve a big hand for getting the talent show rolling and they hope to make it an annual event. The money taken in will go towards scholarships and other community functions.

Dr. Robert Baker was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Banner visited over the weekend with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pries of Onalaska, and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Banner of Mossyrock, both towns in Lewis County.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McGrew returned Sunday to their home in Puyallup, after spending

Saturday night at the Laurence Eaton home, following the retirement reception for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham that evening in Forks. Before the McGrews left for home the Eatons took them for a tour of the SolDuck salmon hatchery.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Isaacson arrived Friday for a weekend visit with her sister, Mrs. Elsie Browning and left Tuesday morning for their home at Camano.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Atkinson of Bellingham and Mrs. W. K. Merritt of Shine spent Saturday night at the Bill Pirnke home after attending the retirement reception of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham that evening in Forks.

A REAL BLANK

By Al Clarke

Strange as it may seem, I don't have a thing to write about this week. Come to think about it, I didn't have much to say the four previous weeks. Since last Thursday I have traveled far and wide, and searched high and low but to no avail. My mind has more blocks than a kindergarten nursery at play time.

I asked Baby to throw a few ideas in my direction, something that my typewriter could whip into humorous shape. "Tell them about the time you went geoduck hunting with a 30:06 rifle," she chirped.

"That is not funny so be serious and besides, it was a .22. A lot of guys have made the same mistake," I said. "Twice?", she chirped again. "I think I'll go for a walk," I said, trying to keep my cool. "Good idea," she said, "empty the garbage on your way out. A story on garbage I mused, Lord knows we have our share."

"What's wrong with the self ejector bag?" I yelled, bumping my head on the bottom of the sink. "Don't ask me" she yelled back, "you're the garbage expert, maybe Verl Poole can fix it." "I doubt it" I said, he's got short arms and deep pockets". As quietly slammed the door I heard her mumbling something about I should get more rest.

Outside the clouds were racing as aimlessly as my thoughts, and it was cold. I cursed myself for not fixing the string on my mittens. I could do a story on Verl Poole, but it would probably cost me. How can one man be so cheap? Poor Old Sven S. Sven, I suddenly felt strong comradship toward the man. Thought of talking to him, then I remembered he was lurching in Nevada. Think I'll write to one or our senators and see if I can't get old Sven on the list for CARE packages.

I got a glimpse of my socks and realized I had on a black one and a brown one. I was sure no one would notice because I was wearing shoes to match. Joe Morrison was standing in front of his automobile emporium as I strolled by. "Hi Al", he beamed. I waved a greeting. Still beaming, he shouted, "I've got a pair of socks just like those at home." Joe Morrison is one man I'll never be able to figure.

After about an hour of simply walking around town I decided that home should be my destination and headed in that direction. I had traveled about 50 feet when it started to rain straight down. I was without my wife's yellow gold umbrella and was soon soaked to the skin. I broke into a gallop and was soon beside one of the old timers. "These April showers are great", he yelled. "Yeah, great", I answered.

"Where did you get the funny looking socks?" he queried. "From Joe Morrison," I said. He turned down a side alley and barely missed a Girl Scout who was helping a nice old man across the street.

When I arrived home Baby was whipping up a sugar free Pan Dowdy. "You're all wet", she said. "No kidding", I gasped. "Hand me a towel." "Sorry Big Daddy, they're all in the laundry," she said, licking the Pan-Dowdy spoon. I had the strange feeling that I'd seen this picture before and made my way to the back room. "Guess what", Mamma crooned. "What?", I asked shaking myself. "I found two odd socks in the laundry." "Good", I said, sneezing. "Just leave them on the dresser and I'll stop by and see Joe Morrison in the morning." I could see the quizzical look forming so I ducked into the bathroom. I wonder what I can do to forget this day?

SEWER PROPOSAL EXPLAINED

The Olympic Health District would like to help clear up possible misunderstandings that some persons residing in Forks might have regarding the proposed sewage collection and treatment system.

The general area for the treatment plant site was selected because it could be reached by gravity flow and thus would eliminate the necessity of expensive sewage lift stations, states Tony Barrett, District Sanitarian of the Olympic Health District. The specific location has not been established but will be determined following further study. Drainage of the soil is not of particular importance other than it should be suitable to support the weight of buildings.

Land surrounding most cities' sewage treatment plants are nicely landscaped and are not unsightly in appearance and when such facilities are properly operated and maintained there are no odor problems in the vicinity. I invite interested persons to visit the Port Angeles treatment plant for first hand observation of any odor problems, states Barrett.

The proposed treatment plant will be designed for projected growth of the Forks area for the next 20 years and includes adjacent areas outside the existing limits of the Town of Forks. Some of the more populated adjacent areas would undoubtedly form a Utility Local Improvement District and be served with sewers as the system was constructed, others, according to Barrett may form Districts at a future date when population of those districts increases.

BOGACHIEL GARDEN CLUB NEWS

The Bogachiel Garden Club held its annual plant sale April 24 at the home of Mrs. Orville Ninke, who arranged the sale with the help of all the club members. The sun managed to break through the clouds, which made the day so enjoyable.

The plants were donated by members and non-members and were sold more reasonably than through ordinary outlets. Mrs. Ninke said that the purpose of the sale is to get people interested in gardening and in beautifying their homes. The money taken in will go for landscaping and beautification projects in town, such as around public buildings.

A variety of rocky plants, trees and tropical plants were on sale with free advice from the garden club members on how to care for the plants. The garden club has 37 books at the library to help people who are interested in gardening.

Thanks to all the people who donated to the plant sale and to all who attended.

OUTDOOR LORE

By Lonnie Archibald

SUNDAY, APRIL 25, 1971

And what a day it was. The morning sun rose offering a comforting warmth to those dedicated sportsmen who were already searching the beaches for the ever popular razor clams. A morning of inspiration greeted the outdoorsmen who had ventured to rivers, lakes, and beaches in search of that which relaxes, mends and strengthens both body and soul.

The heat of the day introduced new life as blossoms emerged from nature.

A limit of clams at Ruby Beach and home by 8:30. Come late afternoon, it was a limit of trout from Beaver Lake. This was one story but then there were more. Hikers, campers and steel-headers also took advantage of the weekend that weathermen had set aside for sportsmen.

HUNTING SEASON OPENERS SET

In an attempt to reduce opening day hunting pressure on elk herds, this fall will hand the sportsmen something a little different. The difference will be a Monday opener rather than the traditional weekend beginner. The elk season this year will open November 1, (six days earlier than last).

October 16 will mark the opening of the state-wide general buck season. This one will fall on a Saturday as usual. On this date bird hunters may also take to the field as the upland game bird season gets underway. Upland game birds are listed as turkeys, quail, pheasant, sage grouse, sharp-tail, and partridge.

The early buck deer season will open September 11, as will mountain goat, black bear and forest grouse in much of the state.

Looking back on the 1971-71 season the game department has given us the following figures: 240,000 hunters harvested 45,000 deer while some 97,000 hunters took 13,000 elk. Looking at this from a management standpoint of view, the crop harvest was good. Illegal kills of last season, however, gave a bad impression for hunters as well as the sport of hunting.

SPORTSMEN AND THEIR RESOLUTIONS

At the latest meeting of the Washington State Sportsmen's Council, two resolutions were brought about which are quite meaningful to local sportsmen. One resolution which was handed to the department of game was to abolish the overlap of deer and elk hunting seasons. It is believed by sportsmen that the overlap over-crops breeding stock at the beginning of the rut. The other resolutions asked for stiffer penalties for those killing illegal cow elk. The 1970 opening day brought a higher than average number of cow elk kills. Congratulations SPORTSMEN AND THEIR RESOLUTIONS

Commercial fishermen tied up their boats on the opening day of the commercial season (April 15) and a trip to the LaPush boat basin will guarantee they mean business as the trollers are still resting in the peaceful waters of the Quillayute. The West Coast Trollers Association is negotiating with fish packing firms over prices to be paid for their fresh catches.

As the fawn season fastly approaches, the Washington State Game Department once again warns the public DO NOT PICK UP OR MAKE PETS OF YOUNG DEER. Young fawns often seen along roadways or wherever, have not been abandoned by the mother. Fly fishing expert and longtime Forks resident Sid Glasso spent a few days on his favorite fishing streams recently while here in the Forks areas.

The parking lot at Third Beach Trail was over-crowded over the weekend as many hiked the south wilderness beach. This is becoming a year-around recreation with or without the help of the weatherman. Of course, last weekend was perfect.

Clam diggers found some easy digging over the weekend as the razors were plentiful and showed well.

SPECIAL LEVY REPORT

This is a report given by the Citizen's Advisory Committee on the Special Levy which was passed last year. The money from this levy is due the end of April and the end of October. The school will receive the money as it is paid into the county. Thus far, the school has been spending money from the levy only for those things they feel are absolutely necessary because until the tax is paid, they have to pay interest on it. As the tax money comes in, they will be using it for whatever is left to be done.

The following is a list of the levy amount, the amount spent through March 18, 1971, and the balance left to spend in the various areas:

	Levy Amount	Spent to Date	Balance
Instructional supplies and equipment	57,500	44,328.94	13,171.06

Sunset Highlites

By Fred Jarvis

Had to chew Mother out the other night, came home from work and found she'd been out in the yard planting a flower or two. Was a bit provoked at her, but she promised not to do it again. Papa knows best, Hon.

These durned women are going crazy the last few weeks. Another 600 series, this one a 603 by Kathy Decker in Tuesday Afternoon League. She hit it on games of 197-192-214. Aw, come on Kathy, tell me how you did it. Margaret Windle had a fine 205 game and Darlene Neel converted the 5-6.

In a roll-off for the sixth and loot spot in the B.P.A.A. team finals, Forks State Bank ousted Vagabond Traveling team. Duke Streeter hit 243-598, D.J. Caulkins 217-601, and Claude Clark 203, (and lost?) Dick Suchodolski threw a 204-567 for the Bank.

Here we go again: Leta Rondeau banged out a 246-573 in Wednesday Hoot Owls. Guess I'll have to take up some easier game. Reta O'Keefe hit 196, Harriet Tryon 192-498, Phyllis Whitehead had 156-156-151, (only five more pins for a tripliate). Pick up your spares Phyllis. Lou Suchodolski picked off the 3-7-10, and Doris Markam knocked the 7-9 off the 5-7-9.

Thursday Beginners: Pat Brooks 162-426, Colleen Gagnon 158, Donna Springer 395. Pat Lindquist didn't hit real big, but she couldn't have been much more consistent, rolling a 114-115-113.

NOTICE TO WOMEN'S THURSDAY NIGHT MEMBERS: Your dinner-meeting will be held tonight, April 29 at 7:00 o'clock at Clark's Vagabond. Be sure and be there. This o.k. Gladys? My apologies for not posting your 544 last week.

Lefler's took top spot of the West End League from Bob's Texaco last week, with Duke tossing a 214-567. Darrell hit 224-599, and John Medsker top game of 229.

In a roll-off for second place in Women's Thursday Night, Kennedy Shell beat Clark's Vagabond 2375-2244. For Shell, Reta O'Keefe had 207-519; and Leta Rondeau a 536. Irene Goos had .99-511, and Sally Nagel 512 for Clark's.

Judy Klahn missed the TV shot at Saturday Night Monte Carlo, Reta O'Keefe had a try at the big Jackpot but couldn't convert the 6-7-10. My number was then called for half the money. Would you believe I missed? Easy come, easy go.

By the way, who lost their hair while bowling the other night? Never knew bowling came under the category of hair raising experience.

Whitehead-Suchodolski won first place in Sunday Mixed. Vern Rondeau had 542 and Al Whitehead a 204-542. Reta O'Keefe hit 196-499.

Bowlers of the week: Leta Rondeau 246, Kathy Decker 603, Duke Streeter 243, and D.J. Caulkins 601.

Total remodeling and building improvements	133,135	20,665.75	112,469.25
Total transportation equipment	50,000	51,923.33	(1,923.33)
Establish cash basis of operation	70,000	50,000.00	20,000.00
GRAND TOTAL	$310,635	166,918.02	143,716.98

The amount spent for transportation has run $1,923.33 over the budgeted amount in the levy. The reason for this is that due to past experience of the school district with the cost of operation of different buses, the school board, with the recommendation of the advisory committee, decided to purchase the more expensive bus. The feeling is that in three of four years the cost of operation will more than make up the difference in first cost.

The areas under remodeling and building improvements are as follows: annex, furnace, Forks Elementary building, playshed, grandstand lavatories, painting, remodel foyer, remodel showers in old gym, stage remodeling and maintenance materials. The grandstand lavatories are in the process of being completed. The only thing left to do on the playshed is to install lights. Much of the rest of the work will be done this summer and fall as the tax money becomes available. If you have any questions on any of this, please contact a member of the Advisory Committee or better yet, come to the meeting which is held at 6:30 p.m. on each third Thursday of the month when the school is in operation.

ACCIDENT FATALITY

A car-logging truck accident which occurred 3.7 miles north of Forks on Highway 101 on April 26 at 1:10 p.m.

claimed the life of Richard A. Marks Jr., 34, 5943 S. Troy St., Chicago, Illinois. The late model Pontiac station wagon driven by Marks was traveling southbound on 101 when for unknown reasons swerved across the center line into the path of a northbound loaded logging truck. The impact occurred in the northbound lane. The Marks' vehicle disintegrated on impact and was knocked backward 130 feet. The log truck proceeded off to the right of the road, rolled over dumping the load, then burst into flames. Marks was killed instantly on impact.

The log truck, a 1968 Mack owned by James Harper Inc., Port Angeles, was driven by Harold F. Laird, 56, Box 665, Port Angeles. Laird sustained numerous lacerations and possible rib, leg and arm injuries as well as minor burns. Laird crawled out of the truck thru flames to escape. He was treated at Forks and released to his residence.

Trooper Jaske was the investigating officer.

TRAIL RIDERS NEWS

By Barbara King

Wasn't the weekend lovely? We left the horses alone, in favor of the garden. Well, not entirely alone. We did sneak off Sunday afternoon late and went over the hill to the Elk Creek Road with Pam and Ron. When we got back to the pasture we had to fool around with a little barrel racing practice. That is a lot of fun. Fortunately my J. D. mare knows more about them than I do.

Last Wednesday, a few of us got together for a ride out in the hills up the A Road. We were gone about six hours, giving us and the horse a good work out. Those enjoying a little stiffness the next day were: Betty Munson, Marilyn Snodgrass, Ron and Doreen Planes, Cheryl Moody, Pam Ford, and myself. That ride should have got us in shape for trail riding this summer.

Will anyone wanting the vet to give their horses shots or have them wormed or anything else they might need or want done, please let know as soon as possible, so that we can set up a day about the third week in May for him to come out? Also, the horse shoer will be out the first week in May. Now is the time to get your horses shod, so that they will be ready for the 4-H Refn Riders trail ride the 23rd of May and for the Wrangler ride. I can be reached at 374-5605.

By the way, that stork is still circling over the place. I wish he would knock off this foolishness and land!

a well-planned kitchen gives daily convenience

As a homemaker you probably spend more time working in your kitchen than any other room in the home, so good kitchen planning is vitally important to you. The basic idea of planning a modern kitchen is to save steps. Everything in your kitchen should be carefully placed to provide convenience with the fewest steps possible.

Your kitchen should also be pleasant and well lighted. It should contain room for storage of food and utensils.

Make sure that the wiring is adequate to service all major appliances, such as an electric range, refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher, food disposal and the many small appliances that modern home-making requires. Adequate wiring should include plenty of electrical outlets, properly placed where small appliances will be used.

Before you build or remodel, plan your kitchen for daily convenience.
